Genesis

² The earth was formless and empty, and darkness covered the surface of the deep. The Spirit of God moved over the surface of the waters.

⁵ God called the light “day,” and he called the darkness “night.” So there was evening, and then the morning, making day one.*

⁸ God called the expanse, “sky.” So there was evening, and then the morning, making day two.

¹¹ God said, “Let the earth produce vegetation—plants that produce seeds and trees that produce seeded fruit—each one according to its own kind.” And that’s what happened.

¹² The earth produced vegetation—plants that produce seeds and trees that produce seeded fruit—each one according to its own kind. God saw that it was good.

¹³ So there was evening, and then the morning, making day three.

¹⁴ God said, “Let there be lights in the sky to separate day from night, and to provide a way to mark seasons, days, and years.

¹⁵ They shall be lights in the sky to shine on the earth.” And that’s what happened.

¹⁶ God created two great lights:[‡] the larger one in charge of the day, and the smaller one in charge of the night. He created the stars too.

²⁰ God said, “Let the waters be full of living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth in the sky.”

* 1:5 It is significant that the “day” is measured from darkness to light, which is still the Jewish method of calculating days. [†] 1:6 “Expanse.” Older translations have often rendered this word as “firmament,” borrowing from the Latin “firmamentum.” That this referred to some ancient belief that the sky was like a dome of hammered metal, and therefore a tangible physical object, has now been shown to be mistaken. In fact, Latin translations from the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries usually use the word “expansionem.” [‡] 1:16 Hebrew has words for sun and moon, but they are not used here, perhaps to avoid any temptation to worship the sun and the moon.

²¹ So God created huge sea creatures and all the living things that swim and fill the waters, each one according to its own kind; and every bird that flies, each one according to its own kind. God saw that it was good.

²³ So there was evening, and then the morning, making day five.

²⁴ God said, "Let the land produce living creatures, each one according to its own kind—the livestock, the creatures that run along the ground, and the wild animals, each one according to its own kind." And that's what happened.

²⁵ God made the wild animals, the livestock, and the creatures that run along the ground, all according to their own kind. God saw that it was good.

²⁶ God said, "Let us make human beings in our image who are like us.† They will have authority over the fish of the sea and the birds of the air, over the livestock, and over the whole of the earth and every creature that moves on it."

²⁸ God blessed them and told them, "Reproduce, increase, and spread throughout the earth and control it; exercise authority over the fish of the sea and the birds of the air and every creature that moves on the earth."

³⁰ I'm giving all the green plants to all the land animals, to the birds, and to every creature that moves on the earth—to every living thing." And that's what happened.

² By the time the seventh day came, God had finished the work he'd done, and he rested on the seventh day from all the work he'd been doing.

⁵ Up to this point there were no wild plants† or crops growing on the earth, because the Lord God hadn't sent rain, and there was no one to cultivate the ground.

§ 1:26 This aspect of being "like" God conveys the idea of being "patterned" after God. The word is also translated "similitude," "figure" or "form." The most essential aspect of this resemblance is surely that of character. * 1:27 The repetition of "created" in this verse is surely significant, which is why this is placed first in each sentence. * 2:1 "Everything in them": literally, "all the array of them." The word used for "array" is usually a military term designating the formation of an army of soldiers. † 2:5 "Plants": the word can also mean "bushes" or "shrubs."

¹² (The gold from that land is pure. Bdelium[§] and onyx stone are also found there.)

¹⁴ The third branch was called the Tigris[†] and it flowed east of the city of Asshur. The fourth branch was called the Euphrates.[‡]

¹⁵ The Lord God put the man in the Garden of Eden to cultivate it and care for it.

¹⁶ The Lord God ordered Adam, "You are free to eat fruit from every tree in the garden,

¹⁸ Then the Lord God said, "It's not good for Adam to be alone. I will make someone to help him, someone that's like him."

¹⁹ The Lord God used the ground to make all the wild animals, and all the birds. He took them all to Adam to see what he would call them, and Adam named every living creature.

²⁰ Adam gave names to all the livestock, all the birds, and all the wild animals. But Adam didn't find anyone like him who could help him.

[‡] 2:7 The word for man is Adam, so it serves the purpose of identifying both the first man and his personal name. Since it is not always clear whether the term refers to man generically or the person of Adam, this version has chosen in most cases to translate "the man" as Adam, and then by extension, "the woman," as Eve, even though she is not specifically named until 3:20. In this way the account is brought to a more personal level. In addition note that the word for ground is "adamah," showing the close connection of the man to the earth. [§] 2:12 "Bdelium": later references state that this is an aromatic resin. Whether this is the same substance as mentioned here is not known. * 2:13 "Cush": in much of the Old Testament this is another name for Ethiopia; whether this is so here is uncertain. [†] 2:14 "Tigris": literally "Hiddekel," thought to be the old Hebrew name for the Tigris. See also Daniel 10:4. [‡] 2:14 "Euphrates": literally "Parat," usually thought to be synonymous with the Euphrates.

23 “Finally!” said Adam. “Here is bone from my bone and flesh from my flesh. She shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man.”[§]

24 This is the reason a man leaves his father and mother and is joined* to his wife, and the two become one being.

1 The serpent was more cunning than any of the other wild animals that the Lord God had made. He asked Eve, “Did God really say that you can't eat fruit from every* tree in the garden?”

2 Eve replied to the serpent, “We can eat from the trees in the garden, but not the fruit from the tree in the middle of the garden.

3 God told us, ‘You mustn't eat from that tree, or even touch it, otherwise you'll die.’”[†]

4 “You certainly won't die,” the serpent told Eve.

5 “It's because God knows that as soon as you eat it, you'll see things differently, and you'll be like God, knowing both what is good and what is evil.”

6 Eve saw that the fruit of the tree appeared good to eat. It looked very attractive. She really wanted it so she could become wise. So she took some of its fruit and ate it, and she gave some to her husband, who was with her, and he ate it too.

7 Immediately they saw everything differently and realized they were naked. So they sewed fig leaves together to cover themselves up.

8 Later they heard the Lord walking in the garden in the evening when the breeze was blowing. Adam and Eve went and hid out of sight of the Lord God among the trees of the garden.

9 The Lord God called out to Adam, “Where are you?”

10 “I heard you walking in the garden and I was afraid because I was naked, so I hid,” he replied.

11 “Who told you that you were naked?” asked the Lord God. “Did you eat fruit from the tree I ordered you not to?”

12 “It was the woman you gave me who gave me the fruit from the tree, and I ate it,” Adam replied.

13 The Lord God asked Eve, “Why have you done this?”

“The serpent tricked me, and so I ate it,” she replied.

14 Then the Lord God told the serpent, “Because of what you've done, you are cursed more than any of the other animals. You will slide along on your belly and eat dust as long as you live.

§ 2:23 “Man”: a different Hebrew word is used here and in the following verse. * 2:24 “Joined”: literally, “clings to,” or “sticks together with.” † 2:25 See note under 2:7. * 3:1 “Every”: the word could also be translated “any,” however this would then mean that the serpent was suggesting that God had told Adam and Eve not to eat fruit from any tree in the garden, which seems less likely. † 3:3 “Otherwise you'll die.” The word used for “otherwise,” can indicate a possibility of something happening, rather than absolute certainty. So the phrase could be translated, “otherwise you might die,” a difference from God's clear prohibition, also claiming that God had said the fruit was not to be touched.

¹⁶ He told Eve, "I will make pregnancy much more difficult, and giving birth will be very painful. However, you will still desire your husband, but he will have control over you."[‡]

¹⁷ He told Adam, "Because you did[§] what your wife told you, and ate fruit from the tree after I ordered you, 'Don't eat fruit from this tree,' the ground is now cursed because of you. You will have to work painfully hard to grow food from it throughout your whole life.

¹⁹ You will have to sweat to grow enough food to eat until you die and return to the ground. For you were made from dust and you will return to dust."

²² Then the Lord God observed, "Look, the human beings[†] have become like one of us, knowing both what is good and what is evil. Now if they take the fruit from the tree of life and eat it, then they'll live forever!"

⁷ If you were doing what's right, then you'd be looking happy.* But if

[‡] 3:16 "But he will have control over you" or "and he will also desire you." [§] 3:17 "Did": the word is "listened to," but not in the sense of only hearing something. It means acting on what has been heard, obeying. * 3:18 Plants were originally allocated to the animals. See 1:30. [†] 3:22 "The human beings": literally, "the man," but this must be understood inclusively since Eve had also fallen.

* 4:7 "Looking happy": literally, "lifted up." In the previous verse, the literal meaning is that Cain's "face fell." So the opposite would be for his face to be "lifted up," in other words, he would look happy.

you don't do what's right, then sin will be like animal crouching outside your home, ready to pounce on you. It wants to have you, but you must be the one in control."

⁹ "Where is your brother Abel?" the Lord asked Cain.

"How should I know?" he replied. "Am I supposed to be my brother's care-giver?"

¹⁵ But the Lord replied, "No, Cain. Anyone who kills you will be punished seven times over." The Lord placed a mark on Cain so that no one who came across him would kill him.

¹⁶ So Cain left the Lord's presence and went to live in a land called Nod, east of Eden.[‡]

¹⁸ Enoch had a son named Irad. Irad was the father of Mehujael, Mehujael was the father of Methushael, and Methushael was the father of Lamech.

²⁰ Adah had a son named Jabal. He was the father[§] of those who live in tents and have livestock.

²¹ He had a brother named Jubal; he was the father of all those who play stringed and wind instruments.

²² Zillah also had a son. He was named Tubal-cain and he was a blacksmith, making different kinds of tools out of bronze and iron. Tubal-cain's sister was named Naamah.

²⁴ If the sentence for killing Cain was to be punished seven times over, then if someone kills me, Lamech, the punishment should be seventy-seven times."

²⁵ Adam slept with his wife again, and she had a son and named him Seth,^{*} explaining that, "God has given me another child to replace Abel, the one Cain killed."

[†] 4:8 The Septuagint and some other ancient versions add here, "Let's go out into the fields." The way the sentence is structured in the Hebrew does suggest some words are missing. [‡] 4:16 "Nod" means "wandering." [§] 4:20 "Father" can also mean "ancestor." ^{*} 4:25 "Seth," meaning "substitute," or "given."

¹ This is the record of Adam's descendants. When God created human beings, he made them to be like him.

² He created them male and female, and blessed them. On the day he created them he called them "human."^{*}

³ When Adam was 130, he had a son who was like him, made in his image; and he named him Seth.

⁴ Adam lived another 800 years after Seth was born, and had other sons and daughters.

⁶ When Seth was 105, he had Enosh.

⁷ Seth lived another 807 years after Enosh was born, and had other sons and daughters.

⁸ Seth lived a total of 912 years, and then he died.

⁹ When Enosh was 90, he had Kenan.

¹² When Kenan was 70, he had Mehalalel.

¹⁵ When Mahalalel was 65, he had Jared.

¹⁸ When Jared was 162, he had Enoch.

²⁰ Jared lived a total of 962 years, and then he died.

²² He had a close relationship with God. After Methuselah was born, Enoch lived another 300 years and had other sons and daughters.

²⁵ When Methuselah was 187, he had Lamech.

²⁹ He named him Noah,[‡] with the explanation, "He will provide relief for us from all the hard manual labor we need to do in cultivating the ground the Lord has cursed."

[†] 4:26 "Enosh," meaning "mankind" or "people." * 5:2 "Human": literally, "Adam," or "man."

[†] 5:24 "He didn't die": supplied for clarity. See Hebrews 11:5. [‡] 5:29 "Noah": associated in meaning with "relief," "rest," and "comfort."

³¹ Lamech lived a total of 777 years, and then he died.

³² Noah was 500 before he had Shem, Ham, and Japheth. §

¹ People started to increase in number and spread out across the earth. Daughters were born to them,

² and the sons of God* saw that these women were beautiful, and they took whichever ones they wanted.

⁴ There were giants‡ on earth in those days, and also later on. They were born after the sons of God slept with the daughters of these people. Their sons became the great warriors and famous men of ancient times.

⁷ So the Lord said, “I'm going to wipe out these people I created from the earth, and not only them but also the animals, the creatures that run along the ground, and the birds, because I'm sorry I made them.”

¹⁰ Noah had three sons: Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

¹³ So God told Noah, “I have decided to put an end to all people on earth because they are all violent and lawless. I myself am going to destroy all of them, along with the earth.”

§ 5:32 From the internal evidence in Genesis it appears Japheth was the oldest and Ham the youngest. Usually siblings are listed in birth order in the Old Testament, though for example Moses, despite being younger than Aaron, is listed first. Here it appears that Shem is considered to be more important, and so is listed first. * 6:2 “Sons of God”: some have seen this as a reference to angels, but Jesus clearly stated that angels do not marry (Matthew 22:30), and in the very next verse punishment falls on all as human beings. The sons of God can be identified as those in the lineage of Seth, distinguished from these women who are descended from Cain. The genealogies of both groups have just been presented (chapters 4 and 5). † 6:3 That this refers to a new maximum lifespan seems unlikely since many after this time lived much longer than 120 years. The Hebrew says literally, “His days shall be 120 years.” Here “days” can be taken simply as time, or even time remaining, until the Flood would come. ‡ 6:4 “Giants”: literally, “Nephelim.” This word is translated “giants” in the Septuagint. However, some take the word to be based on the Hebrew word “fallen.” These “giants” are also referenced later (see Numbers 13:33). In Symmachus' Greek translation he renders “Nephelim” as “the violent ones.”

¹⁵ This is how to build it: the ark is to measure 300 cubits long, 50 cubits wide, and 30 cubits high.

²⁰ The same applies to every kind of bird, livestock, and the creatures that run along the ground—a pair of every kind will come to you so they can be kept alive.

² Take with you seven pairs, male and female, of every kind of clean animal, and one pair, male and female, of every kind of unclean animal.

⁸ Clean and unclean animals, birds, and creatures that run along the ground,

¹⁰ After seven days the floodwaters swept over the earth.

¹³ That was the actual day* when Noah, his wife, and their sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth together with their three wives went into the ark.

^S 6:14 The word used here for “ark” is different to that used later to describe the Ark of the Lord's Agreement. * 6:16 The Hebrew of this last phrase is unclear. * 7:13 “Actual day”: referring back to the day mentioned in verse 11.

¹⁵ They all came into the ark with Noah in pairs—every living thing that breathes.

²⁰ The water rose so much that it was higher than the mountains by fifteen cubits.

²² Everything on land that breathed, died.

¹ But God hadn't forgotten about Noah and all the wild animals and livestock with him in the ark. God sent a wind to blow over the earth, and the floodwaters started to drop.

² The subterranean waters were closed off, and the heavy rainfall was stopped.

³ The floodwaters steadily receded from the earth. They had gone down so much that by 150 days after the flood began

⁵ The waters continued to drop so that by the first day of the tenth month the tops of mountains could be seen.

¹¹ When it came back to him in the evening it had a freshly-picked olive leaf in its beak, so Noah knew the floodwaters were mainly gone from the earth.

¹³ By now Noah was 601, and by the first day of the first month, the floodwaters on the earth were gone. Noah pulled back the ark's covering and saw that the ground was drying out.

¹⁵ Then God told Noah,

¹⁶ "Leave the ark, you and your wife, your sons and their wives.

¹⁷ Let all the animals go—the birds, the wild animals, the creatures that run along the ground—so that they can breed and increase their numbers on the earth."

² All animals will be very afraid of you—this includes all the birds, all the creatures that run along the ground, and all the fish in the sea. You are in charge of them.

⁵ If your blood is shed by any animal, I will call it to account; and if your blood is shed by any person, I will call that person to account.

⁷ Reproduce, increase, and spread throughout the earth—have many descendants!"

* 8:21 "Accepted": literally, "smelled a pleasing aroma." This is a "figurative extension" of this sensory process which meant that in the same way when we like something, and by extension, accept it, so does God. * 9:3 According to 1:30, the green plants were originally meant for the animals. Now both the plants and the animals themselves are permitted as human food. After the flood there would have been little food immediately available to eat.

¹² Then God said, "I'm going to give you a sign to confirm the agreement I'm making between me and you and all living creatures, an agreement that will last for all generations.

¹³ I've placed my rainbow in the clouds, and this will be the sign of my agreement with you and with all life on earth.

¹⁵ it will remind me of my agreement between me and you and every kind of living creature that floodwaters won't ever again destroy all life.

¹⁶ I will see the rainbow in the clouds and it will remind me of the eternal agreement between God and every kind of living creature that lives on the earth."

²⁴ When Noah woke up from his drunken sleep, he discovered what his youngest son had done,

²⁵ and said, "May Canaan[†] be cursed! He will be the lowest kind of slave and will serve his brothers!"

²⁶ Then Noah continued, "May the Lord be blessed, the God of Shem, and may Canaan be his slave.

²⁹ Noah lived a total of 950 years, and then he died.

[†] 9:25 Why Canaan is the one cursed and not Ham has long been a matter of debate. One suggestion is that it was the later Canaanites who were the particular enemies of Israel and who were subjugated by them, and so Canaan was prophetically more symbolically significant. ^{*} 10:1 These genealogies are repeated in 1 Chronicles 1:5-27. [†] 10:2 Note that "sons" throughout this chapter can also mean "descendants."

The sons of Raamah: Sheba and Dedan.

⁸ Cush was also the father of Nimrod, who set himself up as the first tyrant on earth.

⁹ He was a powerful fighter who defied[§] the Lord; which is why there's the expression, "Like Nimrod, a powerful fighter who defied the Lord."

¹⁰ His kingdom began in the cities of Babel,^{*} Erech, Akkad, and Calneh, all located in the land of Shinar.[†]

¹⁴ the Pathrusites, the Casluhites, and the Caphtorites (ancestors of the Philistines).[§]

¹⁵ Canaan was the father of Sidon, his firstborn, and of the Hittites,^{*}

¹⁶ the Jebusites, the Amorites, the Girgashites,

¹⁷ the Hivites, the Arkites, the Sinites,

Later the Canaanite tribes spread out

¹⁹ and the territory of the Canaanites stretched from Sidon towards Gerar and all the way to Gaza, then towards Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zebaiim, all the way to Lasha.

²⁰ These were the sons of Ham according to their tribes, languages, lands, and nation.

²³ The sons of Aram: Uz, Hul, Gether, and Mash.[‡]

²⁴ Arphaxad was the father of Shelah. Shelah was the father of Eber.

²⁷ Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah,

²⁸ Obal, Abimael, Sheba,

²⁹ Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. These were all sons of Joktan.

[‡] 10:4 "Dodanim": the Septuagint takes the spelling to be Rodanim, as does the parallel passage in 1 Chronicles 1:7. Note that the last two names at least are probably those of a group of people rather than a personal name. [§] 10:9 "Defied": The Septuagint reads "against" or "versus."

^{*} 10:10 "Babel" or "Babylon." Nimrod is the first person in Scripture described as having a kingdom, normally associated with an imposed rule using force. [†] 10:10 "Shinar": or "Babylonia." [‡] 10:11 "Assyria": in Micah 5:6 Assyria is called "the land of Nimrod." [§] 10:14

See Jeremiah 47:4 and Amos 9:7. ^{*} 10:15 "The Hittites": literally "Heth." [†] 10:21 See note on 5:32. [‡] 10:23 "Mash": The Septuagint and 1 Chronicles 1:17 read "Meshech." [§] 10:25 The word means "divided."

³⁰ They lived in the land lying between Mesha to Sephar, in the hill country to the east.

³¹ These were the sons of Shem, according to their tribes, languages, lands, and nations.

¹ At that time the whole world spoke just one language and used words with the same meaning.

² As they moved east they discovered a plain in the land of Shinar so they settled there.

⁴ Then they said, "Now let's build a city for ourselves with a tower whose top reaches the heavens. That way we'll gain a great reputation and we won't end up being scattered all over the world."

⁶ The Lord said, "Look! These people are united and they all speak one language. If this is what they can do now when they're just getting started, nothing will be impossible for them when they all put their minds to it!"

⁷ We need to go down and mix up their language and make it confused so they won't be able to understand what they're saying to one other."

⁸ The Lord sent them away from there and scattered them all over the world, and they gave up building the city.

¹¹ Shem lived another 500 years after Arphaxad was born and had other sons and daughters.

¹³ Arphaxad lived another 403 years after Shelah was born and had other sons and daughters.

¹⁴ When Shelah was 30, he had Eber.

¹⁵ Shelah lived another 403 years after Eber was born and had other sons and daughters.

¹⁶ When Eber was 34, he had Peleg.

¹⁷ Eber lived another 430 years after Peleg was born and had other sons and daughters.

²⁰ When Reu was 32, he had Serug.

* 11:3 This was because in the Babylonian plain there was no stone to use for buildings. [†] 11:9 Babel sounds like the Hebrew word for "confuse."

²¹ Reu lived another 207 years after Serug was born and had other sons and daughters.

²³ Serug lived another 200 years after Nahor was born and had other sons and daughters.

²⁵ Nahor lived another 119 years after Terah was born and had other sons and daughters.

²⁶ When Terah was 70, he had Abram, Nahor, and Haran.[‡]

²⁸ However, Haran died while his father, Terah, was still alive, in Ur of the Chaldeans, the land of his birth.

²⁹ Abram and Nahor both got married. Abram's wife was named Sarai, and Nahor's wife was named Milcah. (She was the daughter of Haran, who was the father of both Milcah and Iscah).

³⁰ Sarai wasn't able to become pregnant and so had no children.

¹ The Lord told Abram, "Leave your country, your relatives, your family home,* and travel to the country I'm going to show you.

² I will make you the ancestor of a great nation and I will bless you. I will make sure you have a great reputation and that you are a blessing to others.

³ I will bless those who bless you; I will curse those who curse you. Everyone on earth will be blessed through you."

⁵ With him went his wife Sarai, his nephew Lot, together with all the possessions they had collected and the people that had joined them[†] in Haran. They left for the land of Canaan.

When they arrived there,

⁶ Abram traveled on through the country as far as a place called Shechem, stopping at the oak tree of Moreh. At that time the country was occupied by Canaanites.

⁷ The Lord appeared to Abram and said, "I'm going to give this land to your descendants." So Abram built an altar to the Lord there because that was where the Lord appeared to him.

⁸ Then he moved on to the hill country east of Bethel and set up camp there. Bethel was to the west and Ai to the east. He built an altar to the Lord there and worshiped him.

[‡] 11:26 Once again (see note on 5:32) these sons are not listed in birth order. Abram is listed first because of his importance. * 12:1 "Your family home": literally, "your father's house." † 12:5 "The people that had joined them": this would include servants, but the term used is not specific and applies to anyone who had joined Abram's group for whatever reason.

¹⁰ But the land had been hit by famine. So Abram continued on to Egypt, planning to live there because the famine was so bad.

¹¹ As he approached Egypt and was about to cross the border, he said to his wife Sarai, “Look, I know what a beautiful woman you are.

¹³ Tell them you’re my sister so I’ll be treated well because of you, and my life will be spared for your sake.”

¹⁴ When Abram arrived in Egypt, the people there saw how beautiful Sarai was.

¹⁵ Pharaoh’s officials also noticed and spoke positively about her to Pharaoh. So Sarai was taken to his palace to become one of his wives.[§]

¹⁶ Pharaoh treated Abram well because of her, giving him sheep and cattle, male donkeys, male servants, female servants, female donkeys, and camels.

¹⁸ So Pharaoh ordered Abram brought to him and said, “What have you done to me? Why didn’t you tell me that she was your wife?

¹⁹ Why did you say, ‘She’s my sister,’ and let me take her to become one of my wives? So here’s your wife! Take her and leave!”

²⁰ Pharaoh ordered his guards to expel him and his wife from the country, along with everyone with them and all their possessions.

² Abram was very rich, having many herds of livestock and a great deal of silver and gold.

⁵ Lot, who was traveling with Abram, also had many flocks, herds, and tents,

⁶ so much so that the available land couldn’t support both of them—they had so much livestock they couldn’t stay together anymore.

⁸ So Abram said to Lot, “Please don’t let’s have arguments between us, or between our herdsmen, because we’re family.

[‡] 12:9 “The Negev”: the desert area to the south. [§] 12:15 “To become one of his wives”: supplied for clarity.

¹¹ So Lot chose the whole Jordan valley and went east, and the two separated from each other.

¹² Abram went to live in the land of Canaan, while Lot settled down among the towns in the valley, setting up his tents near Sodom.

¹³ (The people of Sodom were very wicked, committing terrible sins that offended the Lord.)

¹⁴ After separating from Lot, the Lord told Abram, “Look around you from where you’re standing, to the north, south, east, and west.

¹⁵ I’m giving all this land you see to you and your descendants forever.

¹⁶ You will have so many descendants that they’ll be like the dust of the earth. If anyone could count dust then they could count the number of your descendants!

¹⁷ Go and walk through the whole land in all directions because I’m giving it to you.”

⁵ In the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer invaded, along with the kings in his alliance. They defeated the Rephaites in Ashteroth-karnaim, the Zuzites in Ham, the Ēmites in Shaveh-kiriathaim,

⁶ and the Horites in their hill country of Seir, all the way to El-paran, near the desert.

⁹ They fought Chedorlaomer, king of Elam, Tidal, king of Goiim, Amraphel, king of Shinar, and Arioch, king of Ellasar—four kings on one side against five on the other.

* 14:1 “Shinar”: an old name for Babylonia. † 14:3 “In the second group” supplied for clarity.

‡ 14:10 “Some of their men”: while the text seems to suggest that the kings fell into the tar pits, verse 17 makes it clear that at least the king of Sodom had not died.

¹³ But one of those captured escaped and went and told Abram the Hebrew^S what had happened. Abram was living by the oaks of Mamre the Amorite, whose brothers were Eshcol and Aner. All of them were Abram's allies.

¹⁷ When Abram returned after defeating Chedorlaomer and his allies, the king of Sodom came out to meet him at the Valley of Shaveh (or Valley of the King).

¹⁸ Melchizedek, king of Salem, brought out bread and wine. He was a priest of the Most High God.

²² But Abram replied to the king of Sodom, "I raise my hand, making a solemn promise to the Lord, the Most High God, Creator of heaven and earth,

²³ that I refuse to take anything belonging to you, not a single thread or a sandal strap. Otherwise you might claim, 'It was me who made Abram rich!'

²⁴ I won't take anything except what my men have eaten, and the share for those who accompanied me—Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre. Let them have their share."

¹ After all this had happened, God spoke to Abram in a vision, telling him, "Don't be afraid, Abram! I am your protector, and your truly great reward!"

² But Abram replied, "Lord God, what good is whatever you give me? I don't have any children, and the heir to all that I have is Eliezer of Damascus."*

³ Abram went on to complain, "Look! You haven't given me any children, so a servant from my household has to be my heir!"

⁴ But then the Lord told him, "This man won't be your heir. Your heir will be your very own son."

^S 14:13 "Abram the Hebrew": this is the first time Abram is called a Hebrew, and may be the way he was identified by the people of the time. * 15:2 It was the practice of the time for childless couples to appoint their most trusted servant as their heir.

⁵ The Lord took Abram outside and said to him, "Look up at the sky. See if you can count the stars! That's how many descendants you will have!"

⁷ The Lord also told him, "I am the Lord, who led you from Ur of the Chaldeans to give you this land for you to own."

⁹ The Lord told him, "Bring me a cow, a goat, and a ram, all of them three years old, together with a dove and a young pigeon."

¹⁰ So Abram took and killed the three animals. Then he cut them in half, and placed each half opposite the other. However, he didn't cut the birds in half.

¹³ The Lord explained to Abram, "You can be absolutely sure that your descendants will be strangers in a foreign land, where they will be slaves and mistreated for 400 years.

¹⁶ Four generations later your descendants will come back here to live, because right now the sins of the Amorites have not reached their full extent."

²⁰ Hittites, Perizzites, Rephaites,

² so Sarai said to Abram, "Please listen to me. The Lord hasn't let me have any children. So please go and sleep with my slave. Maybe I can have a family through her." Abram agreed to what Sarai had suggested.

³ So Sarai, Abram's wife took her Egyptian slave Hagar and gave her to her husband as his wife. Abram had been living in the land of Canaan for ten years when this happened.

[†] 15:18 "Wadi of Egypt": Not the Nile, but what is known as the Wadi Arish today. See Numbers 34:5; Joshua 15:4, Joshua 15:47.

4 Abram slept with Hagar and she became pregnant. When she realized she was pregnant, she treated her mistress with contempt.*

5 Then Sarai complained to Abram, "What I'm suffering is all your doing! I gave you my servant to sleep with, and now that she knows she's pregnant, she treats me with contempt. May the Lord decide who's at fault—you or me!"

6 "Listen, she's your slave!" Abram replied. "You can do whatever you want to her." Sarai treated Hagar so badly that she ran away.†

8 He asked her, "Hagar, Sarai's slave—where have you come from, and where are you going?"

"I'm running away from my mistress Sarai," she replied.

9 "Go back to your mistress and do what she tells you," the angel of the Lord told her.

10 Then he continued, "I will give you many, many descendants—in fact they'll be so many they can't be counted."

11 The angel of the Lord went on to tell her: "Listen! You're pregnant, and you will have a son. You are to name him Ishmael,‡ for the Lord has heard how you've suffered.

12 He'll be a wild donkey kind of man—he will fight with everyone, and everyone will fight with him. He will forever be fighting with his relatives."

13 From then on Hagar called the Lord who spoke to her, "You are the God who sees me," because she said, "Here I saw the one who sees me."

14 That's why the well§ is called "the Well of the Living One who Sees Me." It's still there, between Kadesh and Bered.

1 When Abram was 99, the Lord appeared to him and told him, "I am God Almighty. Live in my presence and don't do wrong.*

2 I will make my agreement between me and you, and I will give you many, many descendants."

3 Abram bowed down with his face to the ground, and God told him,

4 "Listen! This is the agreement I'm making with you. You will be the father of many nations,

5 so your name won't be Abram any longer. Instead, your name will be Abraham† because I'm going to make you the father of many nations.

6 I will make sure you have a large number of descendants. They will become many nations, and some of their kings will also come from your line.

* 16:4 "She looked at her mistress with contempt," literally, "her mistress looked small in her eyes." Another translation would be "she looked down on her mistress." † 16:6 "Ran away": the Hebrew says, "ran away from her," but Hagar ran away from the camp rather than just avoid Sarai. ‡ 16:11 Ishmael means "God hears." § 16:14 This well is the same water source that is called a spring in verse 7. * 17:1 "Live in my presence and don't do wrong," literally, "walk before me and be innocent." † 17:5 The name change is usually interpreted to be from Abram ("exalted father") to Abraham ("father of many").

⁷ I promise to continue my agreement with you, and with your descendants who come after you, for generations to come. This is an eternal agreement. I will always be your God, and the God of your descendants.

⁸ I will give you and your descendants the whole country of Canaan—where you've been living as a foreigner—as land to own forever, and I will be their God."

¹⁰ This is my agreement with you and your descendants who come after you, the agreement you are to keep: every male among you shall be circumcised.

¹¹ You are to circumcise your foreskin, and this will be the sign of the agreement between me and you.

¹² From now and for all generations to come every male among you who is eight days old must be circumcised. This includes not only your sons but also those born in your household or bought from foreigners.

¹⁶ I will bless her and I promise to give you a son by her. I will bless her so that she will become the mother of nations, and kings will be among her descendants."

¹⁷ Abraham bowed down with his face to the ground. But inside he was laughing, asking himself, "How on earth could I have a son at the age of one hundred? How could Sarah have a child when she is ninety?"

¹⁸ Abraham said to God, "May Ishmael always live under your blessing!"

¹⁹ "No, it's your wife Sarah who is going to have a son for you!" God replied. "You are to call him Isaac.[‡] I will keep my agreement with him and his descendants as an eternal agreement.

²⁰ Now about Ishmael. I heard what you said, and I will also bless him. I will make sure he has a great many descendants. He will be the father of twelve princes, and I will make him into a great nation.

²¹ But it's with Isaac that I will keep my agreement, the son Sarah will give birth to about this time next year."

²³ That day Abraham circumcised his son Ishmael as well as all those born in his household or purchased, in fact every male among the members of Abraham's household, just as God had told him.

²⁵ and his son Ishmael was thirteen.

²⁶ Both Abraham and his son Ishmael were circumcised on the same day.

²⁷ All the males in Abraham's household, including those born in his household or purchased from foreigners, were circumcised with him.

[‡] 17:19 Isaac means "he laughs."

² He looked up and all of a sudden he saw three men standing there. As soon as he saw them, he ran over to meet them and bowed low to the ground.

⁴ Let me have some water brought so you can wash your feet and rest under the tree.

⁵ Also let me bring some food so you can get your strength back before you go on your way, now that you've come to visit me here."

"That would be fine," they answered. "Please do as you've suggested."

⁶ Abraham hurried back to the tent and told Sarah, "Quick! Make some bread using three large measures† of the best flour. Knead the dough and bake the bread."

⁸ Then he took some yogurt, milk, and the cooked meat, and placed the food in front of them. He stood nearby under a tree while they ate.

⁹ "Where is your wife Sarah?" they asked him.

"Over there, inside the tent," he replied.

¹⁰ Then one said, "I promise you that I will come back to visit you about this time next year, and your wife Sarah will have a son." Sarah was listening, hiding just inside the entrance to the tent behind him.

¹¹ Abraham and Sarah were old, getting on in years. Sarah was well past the age of having children.

¹² Sarah was laughing inside, saying to herself, "Now that I'm old and worn out, how would I experience pleasure? My husband is old too!"

¹³ The Lord asked Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh and ask, 'How could it possibly be true that I'll have a child now I'm so old?'"

¹⁴ Is anything too difficult for the Lord to do? I will come back next year when I said I would, in the spring, and Sarah will have a son."

"Yes, you did laugh," the Lord replied.

¹⁶ Then the men left. They looked down on Sodom‡ and headed in that direction. Abraham accompanied them part of the way.

¹⁷ Then the Lord said, "Should I keep from Abraham what I'm going to do?"

¹⁸ Abraham will definitely become a great and powerful nation, and all the nations on earth will be blessed through him.

¹⁹ I've chosen him so that he will teach his sons and their families to follow the way of the Lord by doing what is right and good, so that I, the Lord, can do for Abraham what I promised."

²⁰ Then the Lord said, "There are many complaints made against Sodom and Gomorrah because they sin so blatantly.

* 18:3 It seems Abraham was addressing just one of them, perhaps seeing him as their leader.

† 18:6 "Large measures": literally "seahs," variously estimated as 20 quarts or 44 pounds. ‡ 18:16 Clearly they could see Sodom in the valley below from their viewpoint higher up.

²¹ I 'm going to see if these complaints that have reached me are completely true. I'll know if they're not."

²³ Abraham came to him and asked: "Are you really going to wipe out the good people along with the wicked?"

²⁶ "If I find fifty good people in Sodom, I'll spare the whole town because of them," the Lord replied.

²⁷ "Since I've started, let me go on speaking to my Lord, even though I'm nothing but dust and ashes," Abraham continued.

²⁸ "What if there are forty-five good people, just five less? Are you still going to wipe out the whole town just because there are five fewer people?"

"I won't destroy it if I find forty-five," the Lord replied.

²⁹ Abraham spoke up again and he asked the Lord, "What if only forty can be found?"

"I won't do it for the sake of the forty," the Lord replied.

³⁰ "My Lord, please don't get angry with me," Abraham went on. "Let me ask this—what if only thirty were found?"

"I won't do it if I find thirty," the Lord replied.

³¹ "I admit I've been very bold to speak to my Lord like this," Abraham said. "What if only twenty are found there?"

"I won't do it for the sake of the twenty," the Lord replied.

³² "Please don't get angry with me, my Lord," Abraham said. "Just let me ask one more thing. What if only ten are found there?"

"I won't destroy it for the sake of the ten," the Lord replied.

¹ The two angels* arrived at Sodom in the evening. Lot happened to be sitting at the entrance to Sodom, and when he saw them he stood up to meet them, and bowed low with his face to the ground.

² "Sirs, please come and stay with me for the night," he said. "You can wash your feet and then be on your way early in the morning."

³ But Lot insisted, and they went with him to his house. He made them a meal and baked bread for them to eat.

⁴ But they hadn't even gone to bed before the men of Sodom, young and old, from every part of town, came and surrounded the house.

⁵ They shouted out to Lot, "Where are the men who came to stay with you tonight? Bring them out here to us so we can have sex with them."

* 19:1 "Angels": the account alternates between calling the two visitors "angels" and "men."

⁷ “My friends, please don’t do such an evil thing!

⁸ Listen, I’ve got two virgin daughters. Let me bring them out to you, and you can do to them whatever you want, but please don’t do anything to these men. It’s my responsibility to look after them.”[†]

⁹ “Out of our way!” they shouted. “Who do you think you are, coming to live here and now trying to judge us? We’ll do even worse things to you than we were going to do to these men!” They rushed forward at Lot and tried to break down the door.

¹⁰ But the men inside reached out and grabbed Lot, dragged him inside, and slammed the door shut.

¹¹ Then they made all the men in the doorway, young and old, suddenly go blind so they couldn’t find the door.

¹² The two men asked Lot, “Is there anyone else here who’s part of your family—sons-in-law, or sons or daughters, or anyone else in the town? If there are, make sure they leave,

¹³ because we are about to destroy this place. The complaints that have reached the Lord about its people have become so bad that he has sent us to destroy it.”

¹⁴ Lot went immediately to speak to the men who were engaged to marry his daughters. “Get up quickly and leave,” he said, “because the Lord is about to destroy the town!” But they thought it was just a joke.

¹⁵ At dawn, the angels begged Lot to be quick, telling him, “Hurry up! Leave right now with your wife and your two daughters here, otherwise you’ll be wiped out when the city is punished.”

¹⁶ But Lot hesitated. The men grabbed his hand, and those of his wife and two daughters, and dragged them along, leaving them outside the town. The Lord was kind to them to do this.

¹⁷ As soon as they were outside, one of the men said, “Run for your lives! Don’t look back, and don’t stop anywhere in the valley! Run to the mountains otherwise you’ll be destroyed!”

¹⁸ “Please sir, not that!” Lot replied.

¹⁹ “If you don’t mind, since you have already been so kind to me by saving my life, don’t make me run to the mountains—I just can’t make it. The destruction will overtake me and I’ll die!

²⁰ Look, there’s a town nearby that’s close enough to run to, and it’s so small. Please let me run there—it’s really very small. It would save my life.”

²² But hurry up and run there quickly, because I can’t do anything until you get there.” (This is why the town was called Zoar.)[‡]

²³ The sun had already risen by the time Lot reached Zoar.

[†] 19:8 “It’s my responsibility to look after them”: literally, “They have come under the protection of my roof.” [‡] 19:22 Zoar means “little place.” Originally it was called Bela (see 14:2).

²⁸ He looked down at Sodom and Gomorrah and the whole valley floor, and saw the land burning, sending up smoke like from a furnace.

³⁰ Lot was afraid to stay in Zoar, so he left town and went to live in a cave in the mountains with his two daughters.

³² Come on, let's get our father drunk with wine and sleep with him so we can keep his family line going."

³³ So they got their father drunk with wine that night. The older daughter went and slept with him, and he didn't notice when she lay down or when she got up.

³⁴ The next day the older daughter said to the younger one, "Last night I slept with our father. Let's get him drunk with wine again tonight and you can go and sleep with him so we can keep his family line going."

³⁵ So once again that night they got their father drunk with wine and the younger daughter went and slept with him, and he didn't notice when she lay down or when she got up.

² During his time there, when Abraham told people about his wife Sarah, he said, "She's my sister." So Abimelech,^{*} king of Gerar, sent for Sarah and took her to become one of his wives.[†]

³ But God appeared to Abimelech in a dream and told him, "Listen! You're going to die because the woman you've taken is already married—she has a husband."

⁵ Didn't Abraham tell me himself, 'She's my sister,' and didn't Sarah also say, 'He's my brother'? I did this in all innocence—my conscience is clear!"

§ 19:37 "Moab": understood to mean "son of my father." * 19:38 "Ben-ammi": "son of my people." * 20:2 "Abimelech" means "my father is the king," or "my father is Molech," a Canaanite god. This may well have been a formal title rather than a personal name (see also 26:8). † 20:2 "To become one of his wives": supplied for clarity.

⁶ God told him in the dream, "Yes, I know you did this in all innocence, so I prevented you from sinning against me. That's why I didn't let you touch her.

⁷ Send the man's wife back to him. He's a prophet. He will pray for you, and you will live. But if you don't send her back to him, you should know for sure that you and all your family will die."

⁸ Abimelech got up early in the morning and called all his servants together. He explained everything that had happened, and they were all terrified.

⁹ Then Abimelech summoned Abraham and asked him "What have you done to us? How have I wronged you that you should treat me like this, bringing this terrible sin on me and my kingdom? You've done things to me that no one should ever do!"

¹¹ "Well, I thought to myself, 'Nobody respects God in this place. They'll kill me just to get my wife,' " Abraham replied.

¹³ Since my God made me move far away from my family home, I told her, 'If you really love me, then wherever you go with me you must tell people: He's my brother.' "

¹⁴ Then Abimelech gave Abraham gifts of sheep, cattle, and male and female slaves, and returned his wife Sarah to him.

¹⁵ Abimelech told him, "Look over my land. You can choose to live anywhere you like."

¹⁶ Abimelech also told Sarah, "Notice that I'm giving your brother a thousand pieces of silver. This is to compensate you for the wrong done to you in the eyes of everyone with you, and to make sure that your name is publicly cleared."

¹⁸ For the Lord had made all the women unable to have children because Abraham's wife, Sarah, had been taken.‡

² She became pregnant and had a son for Abraham when he was old, at the exact time God said she would.

³ Abraham named their son Isaac.

⁵ Abraham was 100 when Isaac was born.

⁷ She also said, "Would anyone have announced to Abraham that Sarah was going to have children to nurse? But now I have had a son for Abraham even when he was old!"

⁹ But Sarah noticed that Ishmael, Hagar the Egyptian's son she'd had for Abraham, was making fun of Isaac.

¹⁰ So she went to Abraham and told him, "You have to get rid of this slave woman and this son of hers! A slave woman's son is not going to be one of your heirs and inherit together with my son Isaac!"

¹¹ Abraham felt very bad about it because Ishmael was his son.

¹² But God told Abraham, "Don't feel bad about the boy and the slave woman. Do whatever Sarah tells you, because it's through Isaac that your descendants will be counted.

¹⁶ She went and sat down some way off, a few hundred yards away,[†] saying, "I can't bear to watch my son die!" As she sat down she burst into tears.

¹⁷ God heard the boy's cries, and the angel of God called to Hagar from heaven and asked her, "What's the matter, Hagar? Don't be afraid! God has heard the boy crying from where he is.

¹⁸ Get up, go over and help the boy up, and encourage him, for I will make him into a great nation."

¹⁹ God opened her eyes and she saw a well nearby. She went and filled the skin with water and gave the boy a drink.

²⁰ God blessed Ishmael and he grew up, living in the desert. He became a skilled archer.

²¹ He lived in the Desert of Paran. His mother chose a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

²³ "So swear to me right here and now that you won't betray me, my children, or my descendants. In the same way I've proved I'm trustworthy to you, do the same to me and my country where you're currently living."

²⁹ "What are these seven female lambs for that you've separated from the flock?" Abimelech asked.

³⁰ "I'm giving you these seven female lambs in return for your admission that I dug this well," Abraham replied.

² God told him, "Go with your son, the one you love, your only son, to the land of Moriah and sacrifice him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains that I'll show you."

³ Abraham got up early in the morning and saddled up his donkey. He took two servants and Isaac with him and went to cut firewood for the burnt offering. Then he left with them to go to the place God had told him about.

⁴ After traveling for three days Abraham could see the place in the distance.

⁵ He told his servants, "Wait here with the donkey while I go with the boy and worship God. Then we'll return."

⁶ Abraham had Isaac carry the wood for the burnt offering, while he carried the fire and the knife, and they walked up together.

⁷ Isaac said to Abraham, "Father?"

"Yes, my son?" Abraham replied.

"Well, we have the fire and the wood, but where's the lamb for the burnt offering?" Isaac asked.

⁸ "God will provide the lamb for the burnt offering, my son," Abraham replied, and they went on walking up together.

⁹ When they arrived at the place where God had told him to go, Abraham built an altar and placed the wood on it. Then he bound his son Isaac and placed him on the altar on top of the wood.

¹¹ But the angel of the Lord shouted to him from heaven, "Abraham! Abraham!"

"Yes, I'm here," he replied.

¹² The angel said, "Don't touch the boy! Don't do anything to him, because now I know that you truly do what God tells you. You didn't refuse to give me your son, your only son."

¹³ Abraham looked up and saw a ram caught by its horns in some bushes. He brought the ram over and sacrificed it as a burnt offering in place of his son.

¹⁴ Abraham called the place "The Lord will Provide." That's still a saying people use today: "the Lord will provide on his mountain."

¹⁵ The angel of the Lord shouted again to Abraham from heaven,

[‡] 21:31 Beersheba means both "well of swearing" and "well of seven."

¹⁶ “I swear by myself, says the Lord, that because you have done this and didn't refuse to give me your son, your only son,

¹⁷ you can be sure that I will bless you and give you many descendants. They will be as numerous as the stars of heaven and the sand of the seashore, and they will conquer their enemies.*

¹⁸ All the nations of the earth will be blessed by your descendants because you did what I told you.”

²¹ Uz was the firstborn, then his brother Buz, Kemuel (who became the ancestor of Arameans),

²³ (Bethuel was Rebekah's father.) Milcah had these eight sons for Abraham's brother Nahor.

² and then she died at Kiriath-arba (or Hebron) in the land of Canaan. Abraham went in* to mourn her death and to weep over her.

³ Then Abraham got up from beside his wife's body and went to talk with the leaders of the Hittites.

⁴ “I am a foreigner, a stranger living among you,” he said. “Please let me buy a burial site so I can bury my dead wife.”

⁵ The Hittites answered Abraham, telling him,

⁶ “Listen, my lord, you are a highly-respected prince among us. Choose the very best of our burial sites to bury your dead. None of us will say no to you.”

⁸ and said to them, “If you agree to help me bury my dead, listen to my proposal. Could you please ask Ephron, son of Zohar,

¹⁰ Ephron the Hittite was sitting there among his people. He replied to Abraham in the presence of the Hittites who were there at the town gate.

¹¹ “No, my lord,” he said. “Please listen to me. I give you the field and the cave that is there. I give it to you and my people are my witnesses. Please go and bury your dead.”

¹² Abraham bowed low before the local people,

¹³ and said to Ephron so everyone could hear, “Please listen to me. I will pay the price for the field. Take the money and let me go and bury my dead there.”

¹⁴ Ephron replied to Abraham, telling him,

* 22:17 “Conquer their enemies”: literally, “take possession of the gates of their enemies.” * 23:2 “Went in”: possibly into the tent where the body lay.

15 "My lord, please listen to me. The land is worth four hundred pieces of silver.[†] But what's that between us? Go and bury your dead."

16 Abraham accepted Ephron's offer. Abraham weighed out and gave to Ephron the four hundred pieces of silver he'd mentioned, using the standard weights used by merchants, and with the Hittites acting as witnesses.

17 So the property was legally transferred. It comprised Ephron's field in Machpelah near Mamre, both the field and the cave there, as well as all the trees in the field, and all the area up to the existing boundaries.

18 This all became Abraham's property, and the transaction was witnessed by the Hittites who were there at the town gate.

19 Then Abraham went and buried Sarah his wife in the cave in the field at Machpelah near Mamre (or Hebron) in the land of Canaan.

20 Ownership of the field and the cave there was transferred from the Hittites to Abraham to serve as his burial place.

1 Abraham by now was old, really old, and the Lord had blessed him in every possible way.

2 At that time Abraham told his oldest servant who was in charge of his whole household, "Put your hand under my thigh,"^{*}

3 and swear an oath by the Lord, the God of heaven and the God of earth, that you won't arrange for my son to marry any daughter of the these Canaanite people that I'm living among.

4 Instead, go to my homeland where my relatives live, and find a wife there for my son Isaac."

5 "What if the woman refuses to come back with me to this country?" the servant asked. "Should I take your son back to the country you came from?"

6 "No, you mustn't take my son back there," Abraham replied.

7 "The Lord, the God of heaven, took me from my family home and my own country. He spoke to me and swore an oath to me in which he promised, 'I will give this land to your descendants.' He is the one who will send his angel ahead of you so that you can find a wife there for my son.

8 However, if the woman refuses to return here with you, then you are released from this oath. But make sure you don't take my son back there."

9 The servant put his hand under the thigh of his master Abraham and swore an oath to do as he had been told.

10 Then the servant arranged for ten of his master's camels to carry all kinds of valuable gifts from Abraham and left for the town of Nahor in Aram-naharaim.[†]

11 Arriving in the evening, he had the camels kneel down by the spring that was outside the town. This was the time when women went out to fetch water.

12 He prayed, "Lord, the God of my master Abraham, please let me be successful today, and please show your faithfulness[‡] to my master

[†] 23:15 "Four hundred pieces of silver": it is generally agreed that this was an exorbitant amount.

^{*} 24:2 A customary action of the time when swearing an oath. [†] 24:10 "Aram-naharaim": or "Mesopotamia." [‡] 24:12 "Faithfulness": this word, often translated "trustworthy love," in this setting is really to do with "loyalty," "commitment," even "kindness."

Abraham.

¹⁴ May it happen like this. The young woman that I ask, 'Please hold your water jar so I can have a drink,' and she replies, 'Please drink, and I'll give your camels water too' —may she be the one you've chosen as a wife for your servant Isaac. This way I'll know that you've shown your faithfulness to my master."

¹⁶ She was very beautiful, a virgin—no one had slept with her. She went down to the spring, filled her jar, and came back up.

¹⁸ "Please drink, my lord," she replied. She quickly lifted the jar down from her shoulder and held it for him to drink.

¹⁹ After she finished giving him a drink, she said, "Let me get water for your camels too until they've had enough."

²⁰ She quickly emptied her jar into the trough and ran back to the spring to get more water. She brought enough for all his camels.

²² Once the camels had finished drinking, he gave her a gold nose-ring and two heavy gold bracelets for her wrists.[§]

²³ Then he asked her, "Whose daughter are you? Also could you tell me, is there room in your father's house for us to spend the night?"

²⁴ She replied, "I'm the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Milcah and Nahor." Then she added, "We have plenty of straw and food for the camels, ²⁵ and yes, we have room for you to spend the night."

²⁶ The man knelt down and bowed in worship to the Lord.

²⁷ "Thank you Lord, the God of my master Abraham," he prayed. "You have not forgotten your commitment and faithfulness to my master. And Lord, you have led me directly to the home of my master's relatives!"

³² So the man went home with him. Laban unloaded the camels and gave them straw and food to eat. He also provided water for the man to wash his feet, as well as for the men who were with him.

[§] 24:22 The weights are given as a half-shekel for the nose-ring, and ten shekels for the bracelets. Since the price of gold at the time is not known, it is impossible to estimate their value. However, they were significant gifts.

³³ Then Laban had food brought in.

But the man told him, "I'm not going to eat until I've explained why I'm here."

"Please explain," Laban replied.

³⁴ "I'm Abraham's servant," the man began.

³⁵ "The Lord has blessed my master so much, and now he is a wealthy and powerful man. The Lord has given him sheep and cattle, silver and gold, male and female servants, and camels and donkeys.

³⁷ My master made me swear an oath, saying, 'You must not arrange for my son to marry any daughter of the Canaanite people in whose land I'm living.

³⁸ Instead, go to my family home where my relatives live, and find a wife there for my son Isaac.'

³⁹ I said to my master, 'What if the woman refuses to come back with me?'

⁴⁰ He told me, 'The Lord, in whose presence I have lived my life, will send his angel with you, and he will make your journey successful—you will find a wife for my son from my relatives, from my father's family.

⁴¹ You will be released from the oath you swear to me if, when you go to my family, they refuse to let her return with you.'

⁴² Today when I arrived at the spring, I prayed, Lord, God of my master Abraham, please let the journey I have taken be successful.

⁴³ Look, I'm standing here beside this spring. May it happen like this. If a young woman comes to get water, and I say, 'Please give me a few sips of water to drink,'

⁴⁴ and she says to me, 'Please drink, and I'll get water for your camels too'—may she be the one you've chosen as a wife for your servant Isaac."

⁴⁵ "I hadn't even finished praying silently when I saw Rebekah coming to get water, carrying her water jar on her shoulder. She went down to the spring to get water, and I said to her, 'Please give me a drink.'

⁴⁶ She quickly lifted the jar down from her shoulder and she said, 'Please drink, and I'll get water for your camels too.' So I drank, and she got water for the camels.

⁴⁷ I asked her, 'Whose daughter are you?' She replied, 'I'm the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Milcah and Nahor.' So I put the ring in her nose, and the bracelets on her wrists.

⁴⁸ Then I kneeled down and bowed in worship to the Lord. I thanked the Lord, the God of my master Abraham, for he led me directly to find my master's niece for his son.

⁴⁹ So please tell me now, will you show commitment and faithfulness to my master? Please tell me yes or no so I can decide what to do next."

⁵¹ Rebekah's here, you can take her and leave. She can become the wife of your master's son, as the Lord has decided."

⁵³ Then he unpacked silver and gold jewelry and expensive clothes and gave them to Rebekah. He also gave valuable presents to her brother and her mother.

⁵⁴ He and the men with him ate and drank, and spent the night there. When they got up in the morning, he said, "Let me leave now and go home to my master."

⁵⁵ But her brother and her mother said, "Let her stay with us for another ten days or so. She can leave after that."

⁵⁶ "Please don't delay me," he told them. "The Lord has made my journey successful, so let me leave and go back to my master."

⁵⁷ "Let's call Rebekah and find out what she wants to do," they suggested.

⁵⁸ They called Rebekah in and asked her, "Do you want to go with this man now?"

"Yes, I'll go," she replied.

⁵⁹ So they let Laban's sister Rebekah leave with Abraham's servant and his men, together with the woman who had nursed her as a child.

⁶⁰ They asked a blessing on her, saying, "Our dear sister, may you become the mother to thousands and thousands of descendants, and may they conquer their enemies."

⁶² Meanwhile Isaac, who was living in the Negev, had just come back from Beer-lahai-roi.

⁶⁴ Rebekah was also keeping a look out. When she saw Isaac, she got down from her camel.

⁶⁵ She asked the servant, "Who is this walking through the fields to meet us?"

"He's my master, Isaac,"† he replied. So she put on her veil to cover herself.

⁶⁶ The servant told Isaac everything he'd done.

⁴ The sons of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida, and Eldaah. These were all descendants of Keturah.

⁶ But while he was still alive, he gave gifts to the sons of his concubines and sent them to live in the east, well away from Isaac.

* 24:63 "Think things over": often translated "meditate," the word's meaning is uncertain. However, Isaac must have known that possibly his bride-to-be would soon be arriving, an event of considerable importance in his life. † 24:65 Isaac is not specifically identified in the text here, however the servant simply says, "He's my master," which would normally mean Abraham.

⁷ Abraham lived to be 175

⁸ when he breathed his last and died at a good old age. He had lived a full life, and now he joined his forefathers in death.

⁹ His sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah near Mamre, in the field that had belonged to Ephron, son of Zohar, the Hittite.

¹³ These were the names of the sons of Ishmael according to their family genealogy: Nebaioth (firstborn), Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam,

¹⁵ Hadad, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah.

¹⁶ These were the sons of Ishmael, and these became the names of the places where they lived and camped—the twelve family rulers of their tribes.

¹⁷ Ishmael lived to be 137. Then he breathed his last and died, and joined his forefathers in death.

¹⁸ Ishmael's descendants inhabited the region from Havilah to Shur, near the border of Egypt in the direction of Asshur. They were forever fighting with one other.*

¹⁹ The following is the genealogy of Abraham's son Isaac. Abraham was the father of Isaac.

²⁰ When Isaac was 40 he married Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuel the Aramean from Paddan-aram and the sister of Laban the Aramean.

²¹ Isaac prayed to the Lord for help on behalf of his wife because she couldn't have children. The Lord answered his prayer and she became pregnant.

²² The twin babies inside her struggled with each other. So she asked the Lord, "Why is this happening to me?"

²³ "You have two nations inside you," the Lord replied. "You're going to give birth to two peoples who will compete against each other. One will be stronger than the other; the older one will be the servant of the younger one."

²⁴ When the time came she gave birth to twins.

²⁵ The first baby to be born was red, and covered with hair like a coat. So they named him Esau.†

²⁶ Then his twin brother was born, holding on to Esau's heel. So he was named Jacob.‡ Isaac was 60 when they were born.

²⁷ The boys grew up and Esau became a skilled hunter, at home in the countryside. Jacob was quiet and liked to stay at home in the tents.

²⁹ One day Jacob was cooking some stew when Esau got back from the countryside, tired out and starving hungry.

³⁰ "Give me some of that red stew," Esau told Jacob. "I'm absolutely starving!" (That's how Esau got his other name, "Edom," meaning "red.")

* 25:18 The Hebrew of this verse is unclear. However, see 16:12. † 25:25 Esau sounds like the word for "hair." ‡ 25:26 Jacob sounds like the words "heel" or "deceiver."

³¹ “First sell me your rights as the firstborn son,” Jacob replied.

² The Lord appeared to Isaac and told him, “Don’t go to Egypt—live in the country that I tell you to.

³ Stay here in this country. I will be with you and I will bless you, because I’m going to give you and your descendants all these lands. I will keep the solemn promise that I swore to Abraham your father.

⁴ I will make your descendants as numerous as the stars of heaven and I will give them all these lands. All the nations of the earth will be blessed by your descendants,

⁷ When the men there asked him about his wife, he told them, “She’s my sister,” because he was afraid. He said to himself, “If I say she’s my wife, the men here will kill me to get Rebekah, because she’s so beautiful.”

⁸ But later on, after he’d been there a while, Abimelech, king of the Philistines, happened to look out the window and saw Isaac lovingly fondling his wife Rebekah.

⁹ Abimelech sent for Isaac and complained. “From what I saw she’s clearly your wife!” he said. “Why on earth did you say, ‘She’s my sister’?” “Because I thought I’d be killed because of her,” Isaac replied.

¹⁰ “Why would you do this to us?” Abimelech asked. “One of the men here might have slept with your wife, and you would have made us all guilty!”

¹¹ Abimelech issued orders to all the people, warning them, “Anyone who touches this man or his wife will be executed.”

¹³ He became a rich man, and his wealth steadily increased until he was very rich.

¹⁴ He owned many flocks of sheep and herds of cattle, as well as many slaves. He had so much that the Philistines became jealous of him.

¹⁵ So the Philistines used dirt to block up all the wells his father Abraham’s servants had dug.

¹⁸ He unblocked the wells that had been dug in his father Abraham's time—the ones the Philistines had blocked after the death of Abraham. He gave them the same names his father had.

¹⁹ Isaac's servants also dug a new well in the valley and found spring water.

²¹ He had another well dug, and they argued over that one too. He named the well, "Opposition."^{*}

²² So they moved on from there and he had another well dug. This time there was no argument so he named the well, "Freedom,"[†] saying, "Now the Lord has given us freedom to expand and be successful in this land."

²³ From there he moved on to Beersheba.

²⁴ That night the Lord appeared to him and said, "I am the God of Abraham your father. Don't be afraid, for I am with you. I will bless you and give you many descendants for the sake of my servant Abraham."

²⁶ Sometime later Abimelech came from Gerar to see Isaac, along with Ahuzzath his advisor, and Phicol the commander of his army.[‡]

²⁷ "Why have you come to see me?" Isaac asked them. "Previously you hated me and told me to leave!"

²⁸ "Now we realize that the Lord is with you," they replied. "So we agreed that we should make a sworn agreement with you."

²⁹ You'll promise not to harm us in the same way we've never hurt you. You'll agree that we've always treated you well, and when we asked you to leave we did so kindly. Now look at how the Lord is blessing you!"

³¹ and got up early in the morning and they each swore oaths to one other. Then Isaac sent them on their way, and they left in peace.

¹ Isaac was old and going blind. He called for Esau, his oldest son, and said, "My son."

"I'm here," Esau replied.

² "I'm old now," said Isaac, "I may die soon, who knows?"

^{*} 26:21 "Opposition": The word is in fact the female form of the word, "satan," meaning opponent or adversary. [†] 26:22 "Freedom": literally, "wide/open space," which is often used in Hebrew as a synonym for freedom, since people are then given room to move around. See for example Job 36:16; Psalms 118:5. [‡] 26:26 See 21:22. In view of the length of time between these events it is unlikely that they are the same individuals. These were probably official titles rather than personal names.

³ So please take your bow and arrows and go hunting in the countryside for some meat for me.

⁴ Make me that tasty food that I love and bring it to me to eat, so I can bless you before I die."

⁶ Rebekah told her son Jacob, "Listen! I heard your father tell your brother,

⁷ 'Get me some wild game and make me some tasty food so I can eat it and then bless you in the presence of the Lord before I die.'

¹² Maybe my father will notice when he touches me. Then it will look like I'm deceiving him and I'll bring a curse down on myself instead of a blessing."

¹³ "Let the curse fall on me, my son," his mother replied. "Just do what I tell you. Go and get the young goats for me."

¹⁸ He went in to see his father, and called out, "My father, I'm here."

"Which son are you?" Isaac asked.

¹⁹ "It's me Esau, your firstborn son," Jacob told his father. "I did what you told me. So please sit up and eat some of my wild game meat so you can bless me."

²⁰ "How did you find an animal so fast, my son?" Isaac asked.

"Because the Lord your God sent it my way," Jacob replied.

²¹ "Come over here so I can touch you, my son," Isaac told Jacob, "so I can tell if you're really my son Esau or not."

²³ Isaac didn't realize it was really Jacob because his hands were hairy like his brother Esau's, so Isaac got ready to bless him.

²⁵ Then he said, "My son, bring me some of your wild game to eat, so that I may give you my blessing." Jacob brought some for him to eat, as well as some wine for him to drink.

²⁷ So Jacob went over and kissed him, and Isaac could smell the clothes Jacob was wearing. So he went ahead with the blessing, saying to himself,

"See—the smell of my son is like the smell of a field that the Lord has blessed."

²⁸ "May God use the dew of heaven and fertile land to give you rich harvests of grain and new wine!

²⁹ May the people of different nations serve you and bow down to you. May you rule over your relatives, and may they bow down to you. May everyone who curses you be cursed, and may everyone who bless you be blessed."

³¹ He had also made some tasty food, and took it to his father. Esau said to Isaac, "Sit up, my father, and eat some of my wild game so you can bless me."

³² "Who are you?" Isaac asked him.

"I'm your son, your firstborn son, Esau," he replied.

³³ Isaac started to shake all over and asked, "So who was it who went hunting game and then brought it to me? I ate it all before you came back and I blessed him. His blessing will remain."

³⁶ "Isn't he well named—Jacob the deceiver!"* said Esau. "He's deceived me twice. First he took my birthright, and now he's stolen my blessing! Haven't you kept a blessing for me?"

³⁷ Isaac replied to Esau. "I have made him ruler over you, and have said that all his relatives will be his servants. I have declared that he will be well supplied with grain and new wine. So what is left that I can do for you, my son?"

³⁸ "Do you only have one blessing, my father?" Esau asked. "Please bless me too!" Then Esau began to cry very loudly.

⁴⁰ You will make a living by using your sword, and you will be your brother's servant. But when you rebel, you will throw off his yoke from your neck."

⁴¹ From then on Esau hated Jacob because of his father's blessing. Esau said to himself, "Soon the time will come when I'll mourn my father's death. Then I'll kill my brother Jacob!"

⁴² However, Rebekah found out what Esau was saying, so she sent for Jacob. "Look," she told him, "your brother Esau is making himself feel better by making plans to kill you.

⁴⁴ Stay with him for a while until your brother's anger cools down.

⁴⁵ Once he's cooled down and forgets what you did to him, I'll send for you to come back. Why should I lose both of you in a single day?"

⁴⁶ Then Rebekah went and told Isaac, "I'm so sick of these Hittite women—they're ruining my life! If Jacob also marries a Hittite woman like them, one of the local people, I'd rather die!"

* 27:36 "Deceiver." See 25:26.

² “Leave right away and go to Paddan-aram, to the home of Bethuel, your mother's father. Find yourself a wife there—a daughter of Laban, your mother's brother.

⁴ May he grant you and your descendants the same blessing he gave to Abraham, so that you may take over the land where you now live as a foreigner, the land God gave to Abraham.”

⁷ He also discovered that Jacob had done what his father and mother told him and had left for Paddan-aram.

¹¹ He arrived after sunset at a particular place and stopped there for the night. He picked up a stone, put it under his head, lay down and went to sleep.

¹² He dreamed he saw a stairway that started on earth, and the top reached all the way into heaven. He saw God's angels going up and down on it.

¹³ Then he saw the Lord standing over him,* who said, “I am the Lord, the God of your father Abraham, and the God of Isaac. I'm giving you and your descendants the land you're lying on.

¹⁴ Your descendants will be as numerous as the dust of the earth, and will spread out west and east, and north and south. Everyone on earth will be blessed by your descendants.

¹⁵ Listen! I am with you and will take care of you wherever you go. I will bring you back to this country. I won't leave you because I'm going to do what I've promised you.”

¹⁶ When Jacob woke up he said to himself, “The Lord is right here, in this place, and I didn't realize it!”†

¹⁷ He became frightened and said, “This is a scary place! It must be the house of God and the entrance to heaven.”

²⁰ Jacob also made a solemn promise, saying, “God, if you will be with me, and take care of me on my journey, and give me food to eat and clothes to wear

* 28:13 “Over him”: or, “over it.” † 28:16 Jacob seems to be surprised that the Lord is present in some random location and not in some regular “sacred place.” ‡ 28:19 “Bethel” means “house of God.”

²¹ so I can return safely to my father's home, then you Lord will be my God.

²² This stone pillar that I've set up will be the house of God,[§] and I will give you one tenth of all you give me."

¹ Jacob went quickly on his way,^{*} and arrived in the land of the eastern people.

² As he looked around he saw a well in a field with three flocks of sheep lying down beside it, waiting to be given water. A large stone covered the top of the well.

⁴ Jacob asked them, "My brothers, where are you from?"

"We're from Haran," they replied.

⁵ "Do you know Laban, Nahor's grandson?" he asked.

"Yes, we know him," they replied.

⁶ "How is he?" he asked.

⁷ "Look, there's still plenty of daylight left," said Jacob. "It's too early to round up the sheep yet. Why not let them drink so they can go back to grazing?"

⁸ "We can't do that until all the flocks have arrived," they told him. "Then we roll away the stone from the well and let the sheep drink."

⁹ While he was still talking with them Rachel arrived with the flock she was looking after for her father.

¹⁰ When Jacob saw Rachel, the daughter of Laban, his mother's brother, he went over and rolled away the stone from the well so Laban's sheep could drink.

¹¹ Then Jacob kissed Rachel and wept for joy.

¹³ As soon as Laban heard the news about Jacob he ran out to meet him. He hugged him and kissed him, and took him home. After Jacob had explained everything to Laban, ¹⁴ Laban told him, "No question about it—you're my own flesh and blood!" Jacob stayed with Laban for a month.

¹⁵ One day Laban said to him, "You're my relative so you shouldn't be working for me for nothing! Tell me, what should I pay you?"

¹⁷ Leah had kind[‡] eyes, but Rachel had a shapely figure and beautiful looks.

[§] 28:22 In other words, a place of worship. ^{*} 29:1 "Went quickly on his way": literally, "lifted up his feet." [†] 29:3 "The usual practice was that": supplied for clarity. [‡] 29:17 "Kind": literally, "soft" or "gentle."

18 Jacob was in love with Rachel so he promised Laban, "I'll do seven years work[§] for you for Rachel, your younger daughter."

19 "Well it's better for me to give her to you than anyone else," Laban replied. "So stay here and work for me."

20 Jacob worked for Laban for seven years, but to him they seemed like just a few days because he really loved her.

21 Then Jacob said to Laban, "I've completed the time we agreed. Now give me your daughter to be my wife."

22 So Laban organized a wedding banquet* and invited everyone around to come.

23 But once it was dark Laban brought his daughter Leah to Jacob, and he slept with her.

24 (Laban also arranged for his servant Zilpah to be Leah's personal maid.)

25 When morning came, he saw it was Leah! He went to Laban and asked angrily, "What have you done to me? It was for Rachel that I worked for you! Why have you deceived me?"

26 "Here we don't give the younger daughter in marriage before the firstborn," Laban replied.

27 "Finish this week of wedding celebrations and then I'll give you the other daughter as well, as long as you work another seven years for me."

28 Jacob agreed. He finished the week of wedding celebrations for Leah, and then Laban gave Jacob his daughter Rachel as his wife as well.

29 (Laban also arranged for his servant Bilhah to be Rachel's personal maid.)

30 So Jacob slept with Rachel as well, and he loved Rachel more than Leah. He worked for Laban another seven years for Rachel.

31 The Lord saw that Leah wasn't loved he helped Leah to have children, but not Rachel.

32 Leah became pregnant, and had a son she named Reuben,[†] for she said, "The Lord saw how much I was suffering and now my husband will love me!"

33 Then Leah became pregnant again, and had another son. She said, "The Lord has heard that I'm not loved so he gave me this son." So she named him Simeon.[‡]

34 Leah became pregnant for the third time, and had another son. She said, "Finally my husband will be attached to me because now I've given him three sons." That's why he was named Levi.[§]

35 Once again Leah became pregnant and had another son. She named him Judah,^{*} for she said, "Now I can really praise the Lord!" After that she had no more children.

[§] 29:18 "Seven years work": in contrast to Abraham's servant Eliezer (chapter 24) Jacob had arrived with no gifts or dowry, so he offers his service as payment in kind. ^{} 29:22 "A wedding banquet": the word actually means "a drinking party," which is probably the only way the deception could have been successful. [†] 29:32 "Reuben": means "Look, a son!" and also sounds like "he saw my suffering." [‡] 29:33 "Simeon": means "he hears." [§] 29:34 "Levi": means "attached" or "joined." ^{} 29:35 "Judah": means "praise."

¹ When Rachel realized she was unable to give Jacob any children she was jealous of her sister. She complained to Jacob, "I'll die if you don't give me children!"

² Jacob became angry with Rachel and told her, "Am I God? Do you think I'm the one stopping you having children?"

⁵ Bilhah became pregnant and had a son for Jacob.

⁶ Rachel said, "God has judged in my favor! He listened to me and gave me a son." So she named him Dan.*

⁸ Rachel said, "I've had a hard struggle with my sister, but I've won." So she named him Naphtali.†

⁹ Leah realized she wasn't having any more children, so she gave her personal maid Zilpah to Jacob as a wife.

¹⁰ Zilpah had a son for Jacob.

¹² Leah's personal maid Zilpah became pregnant again and had a second son for Jacob.

¹³ Leah said, "I'm so happy, and the other women will say I'm happy too!" So she named him Asher.§

¹⁵ "Aren't you satisfied with stealing my husband?" Leah replied. "Are you going to take my son's mandrakes too?"

"Fine, he can sleep with you tonight if you give me some mandrakes in return," Rachel responded.

¹⁶ When Jacob came in from the fields that evening, Leah went out to meet him. "You have to sleep with me because I've paid for you with my son's mandrakes," she told him. So he slept with her that night.

¹⁸ Leah said, "The Lord has rewarded me for giving my personal maid to my husband." So she named him Issachar.*

²⁰ Leah said, "God has given me a good gift. Now my husband will honor me because I've given him six sons." So she named him Zebulun.†

²² Then God paid attention to Rachel and listened to her appeals, and helped her to have children.

* 30:6 Dan means "judge." † 30:8 Naphtali means "struggle." ‡ 30:11 Gad means "fortunate."

§ 30:13 Asher means "happy." * 30:18 Issachar means "reward." † 30:20 Zebulun is related to both the words for "gift" and "honor."

²³ She became pregnant and had a son. “God has removed my disgrace,” she said.

²⁴ She named him Joseph,[‡] saying, “May the Lord give me an additional son.”

²⁵ Once Rachel had given birth to Joseph, Jacob said to Laban, “Let me leave so I can return to my home and my own country.

²⁶ Give me my wives and children because I worked for you to have them. Let me go now because you know very well how much work I’ve done for you.”

²⁷ “Please be so kind as to stay,” Laban replied, “because I have discovered[§] that the Lord has blessed me because of you.”

³⁰ You hardly had anything before I arrived, but now you have so much! The Lord has blessed you through what I’ve done. When am I going to be able to provide for my own family?”

³¹ “Well, what do you propose I give you?” Laban asked again.

“You don’t have to give me anything,” Jacob replied. “If you want to do something for me, then how about this: I’ll go on looking after your flocks, making sure they’re fed.

³² Let me go through your flocks today and take all the sheep that are speckled or spotted, and all the dark ones, as well as all the speckled and spotted goats. They’ll be my wages.

³³ In the future you’ll be able to prove that I’ve been honest. When you check my flock, any goats that don’t have speckles or spots, or any sheep that aren’t dark will be considered stolen from you.”

³⁶ a three day journey between them and Jacob, while Jacob was looking after the rest of Laban’s flocks.

³⁷ Then Jacob cut some sticks from poplar, almond, and plane trees that had white wood under the bark. He peeled off some of the bark, making the sticks look streaked with white.

[‡] 30:24 Joseph may mean both “may he add,” and “he takes away,” referring to Rachel’s “disgrace.”

[§] 30:27 “Discovered”: or “learned by divination.”

¹ Jacob found out that Laban's sons were saying, "Jacob has taken everything that belonged to our father. All the wealth he has actually came from our father."

² Jacob also noticed that Laban was treating him differently to the way he had before.

³ The Lord told Jacob, "Go back to the country of your forefathers, to your family home. I will be with you."

⁴ Jacob sent for Rachel and Leah, telling them to come and meet him out in the fields where he was with his flock.

⁵ "I've noticed that your father is treating me differently to the way he did before," he told them. "But the God of my father will be with me."

⁸ If he said, 'You can have the speckled ones as your wages,' then the whole flock had speckled young. If he said, 'You can have the streaked ones as your wages,' then the whole flock had streaked young.

¹² He told me, 'Take a look and you'll see that all the male goats mating with the flock are streaked, speckled or spotted, for I've been watching everything that Laban has been doing to you.'

¹³ I am the God of Bethel, where you poured olive oil on the stone pillar and made a solemn promise to me. Now get ready to leave this land and go back to your homeland.' "

¹⁶ All the wealth that God has taken from him belongs to us and our children, so do whatever God has told you to do!"

¹⁹ While Laban was away from home shearing his sheep, Rachel stole the household idols* that belonged to her father.

* 31:19 "Household idols": small figurines considered important and "lucky," representative of pagan gods and consulted for making decisions. Often they were female figures, and associated with fertility. They also seem to be significant in determining issues of ownership of property and land, which is perhaps another reason why Rachel took them and why Laban was so keen to have them returned.

²³ Taking some of his relatives with him, he chased after Jacob and caught up with him seven days later in the hill country of Gilead.

²⁴ But during the night God came to Laban in a dream and told him, "Watch what you say to Jacob. Don't try to persuade him to come back, and don't threaten him either."[†]

²⁵ Jacob had set up his tents in the hill country of Gilead when Laban caught up with him, so Laban and his relatives did the same.

²⁶ "Why did you deceive me like this?" Laban asked Jacob. "You carried off my daughters as if they were some prisoners captured by the sword!"

²⁷ Why did you run away in secret, trying to trick me? Why didn't you come and tell me? I would have given you a good send-off, a celebration with singing and the music of tambourines and lyres.

²⁸ You didn't even let me kiss my grandchildren and daughters goodbye! You've really acted stupidly!

²⁹ I could really punish you badly, but the God of your father spoke to me last night and told me, 'Watch what you say to Jacob. Don't try to persuade him to come back, and don't threaten him either.'

³⁰ Clearly you wanted to leave and go back to your family home, but why did you have to steal my idols?"

³² As for your idols, anyone you find who has them will die. You can search everything in the presence of our relatives, and if you find I have anything that belongs to you, you can take it." (Jacob didn't know that Rachel had stolen the household idols.)

³⁵ She said to her father, "Sir, please don't get upset with me for not standing up in your presence, but I have my period." He looked everywhere but didn't find the idols.

³⁶ Jacob got angry with Laban and confronted him, saying, "What crime am I guilty of? What wrong have I done to you that you've come hunting me down?"

³⁷ You've searched through all my possessions. Did you find anything belonging to you? If you did, bring it out here before my relatives and yours so they can decide who's right!

[†] 31:24 "Don't try to get him to come back, and don't threaten him either": literally, "from good to bad." This idiomatic expression covered the range of possible approaches Laban might have been tempted to take, from trying to induce Jacob to return by offering some reward, to threatening him with force or some kind of penalty.

³⁹ If any of them were killed by wild animals, I never even brought you the carcass to prove the loss—I bore the loss myself. But you on the other hand always made me compensate you for any animals that were stolen, whether at night or in broad daylight.

⁴⁰ Whether it was sweating in the heat of the day, or freezing in the cold of the night when I couldn't sleep, I went on working for you for twenty years in your home.

⁴² If it weren't for the God of my father, the God of Abraham, the awesome God[‡] of Isaac, who took care of me, you would have dismissed me with nothing. But God saw my suffering, how hard I worked, and he condemned you last night."

⁴³ Laban replied, "These are my daughters and these are my children and these are my flocks! In fact, everything you see here is mine! However, what can I do now about my daughters and their children?"

⁴⁴ So let's make a solemn agreement between you and I, and it will be a witness to our mutual commitment."

⁴⁵ Jacob took a stone and set it upright as a pillar.

⁴⁶ Then he told his relatives, "Go and collect some stones." They all[§] made a pile of stones and then sat beside it to eat a meal.

⁴⁸ Laban announced, "This pile of stone serves as a witness between me and you." This is why it was called Galeed.

⁴⁹ It was also called Mizpah,[†] for as Laban said, "May the Lord keep a close eye on both of us when we're not together.

⁵⁰ If you treat my daughters badly or marry more wives in addition to them, God will see what you do even if no one else finds out!"

⁵¹ Then Laban told Jacob, "Look at this pile of stones and this pillar that I have set up as a memorial of the agreement[‡] between you and me.

⁵² They also act as a witness to our solemn promises to each other: I will not come past them to attack you; and you will not come past them to attack me.

⁵³ May the God of Abraham and the God of Nahor—the God of our forefathers—be the one to judge between us in any dispute." Jacob in turn made his solemn promise in the name of the awesome God of his father Isaac.

² When he saw them he said, "This must be God's camp!" He named the place "Two Camps."

[‡] 31:42 "The awesome God": literally "the Fear." [§] 31:46 "They all": including both groups.

* 31:47 Both names mean "pile of stones," the first in Aramaic, the second in Hebrew. [†] 31:49 "Mizpah": meaning "watchtower." [‡] 31:51 "A memorial of the agreement": supplied for clarity.

⁴ He told them, "This is what you are to say to my lord Esau. Your servant Jacob sends you this message. I've been staying with Laban up till now,

⁵ and I have cattle and donkeys and sheep and goats, and male and female slaves. I've sent these messengers to explain this to you my lord, hoping you'll be pleased to see me."

⁷ When Jacob heard this, he was absolutely terrified. He split all the people with him, along with the sheep, goats, cattle, and camels, into two groups,

⁸ saying to himself, "If Esau comes and destroys one group, the other one can get away."

⁹ Jacob prayed, "God of my grandfather Abraham, God of my father Isaac! Lord, you were the one who told me, 'Return to your own country and your family home, and I will treat you well.'

¹⁰ I don't deserve all the trustworthy love and faithfulness you have shown your servant. I crossed the Jordan years ago* with just my walking stick, and now I have two large camps.

¹² You yourself told me, 'I will definitely treat you well. I will make your descendants as numerous as the sand of the seashore—too many to count.' "

¹³ Jacob stayed the night there. Then he picked out animals as a gift to his brother Esau:

¹⁵ 30 female camels with their young, 40 cows, 10 bulls; 20 female donkeys, 10 male donkeys.

¹⁶ He put his servants in charge of each of the separate herds and told them, "Go on ahead of me, and keep a good distance between the herds."

¹⁷ He gave these instructions to those with the first herd: "When my brother Esau meets you and asks, 'Who is your master, and where are you going, and whose are these animals with you?'

¹⁹ He gave the same instructions to those with the second and third and all the subsequent herds, telling them, "This what you are to say to Esau when he meets you.

²⁰ You must also tell him, 'Your servant Jacob is right behind us.' "

Jacob said to himself, "Maybe by sending these gifts on ahead Esau won't be angry with me and when I meet him he'll be kind to me."

²¹ So the gifts went on ahead while Jacob spent the night at the camp.

²² He got up during the night and took his two wives and the two personal maids and his eleven sons and crossed the Jabbok River at the ford.

²³ After helping them cross he also sent over everything that belonged to him.

* 32:10 "Years ago": supplied for clarity.

²⁴ But Jacob stayed there alone. A man came and wrestled with him until dawn.

²⁶ Then the man said, "Let me go because it's almost dawn."

"I won't let you go unless you bless me," Jacob replied.

²⁷ "What's your name?" the man asked.

"Jacob," he replied.

²⁸ "Jacob will no longer be your name," said the man. "Instead you will be called Israel, because you fought with God and with men and you won."

²⁹ "Please tell me your name," Jacob asked.

"Why do you ask me my name?" the man replied. Then he blessed Jacob there.

² He placed the two personal maids with their children first, then Leah and her children, and Rachel and Joseph last.

³ Then Jacob went ahead of them and bowed low to the ground seven times before approaching his brother.

⁴ Esau ran over to him and hugged him. He put his arms around his neck and kissed him. The two of them wept.

⁵ Then Esau looked around at the women and children. "Who are these people with you?" he asked.

"They are the children God graciously gave your servant," Jacob replied.

⁸ "What were all the livestock for that I met on the way?" Esau asked.

"They're a gift to you my lord so you'd treat me well," Jacob answered.

⁹ "I have more than enough, my brother! You keep what you have," said Esau.

¹⁰ "No, please!" Jacob insisted. "If you're happy with me, then please accept the gift I'm giving you. Now I've seen your face again it's like seeing the face of God, and you have welcomed me so kindly!"

¹¹ Please take the gift I've brought to you because God has treated me so well and I have so much." So Esau accepted it.

¹² "Let's get on our way," Esau said. "I'll go ahead of you."

¹³ "My lord can see that the children are weak," Jacob responded. "Also, the goats, sheep, and cattle are nursing their young, and if I push them too hard, they'll all die."

15 "Fine, but let me leave some of my men with you," said Esau.
 "You're very kind, but there's no need to do that," Jacob replied.

16 So Esau started on his way back to Seir that day.

17 But Jacob headed to Succoth, where he built himself a house and shelters for the livestock. That's why the place is called Succoth.*

18 Later Jacob continued his journey from Paddan-aram. He arrived safely at Shechem in the country of Canaan where he camped outside the town.

19 He bought the plot of ground where he was camping from the sons of Hamor, the founder of Shechem, for 100 pieces of money.†

20 He built an altar there and called it El-Elohe-Israel.‡

34

1 Dinah, Jacob and Leah's daughter, went to visit some of the local women.

2 Shechem, son of Hamor the Hivite, the ruler of that area, saw her. He grabbed hold of her and raped her.

3 However, then he fell deeply in love with Dinah and tried to get her to love him too.

4 He went and asked his father, "Get this young girl for me so I can marry her."

5 Jacob found out that Shechem had violated* his daughter Dinah, but as his sons were away looking after the flocks in the fields he didn't say anything until they came home.

6 In the meantime Hamor, Shechem's father, arrived to talk with Jacob.

7 When Jacob's sons returned from the fields they were very upset when they heard the news and became extremely angry because Shechem had done something outrageous in Israel by having sex with Jacob's daughter—something that should never be done.

8 Hamor told them, "My son Shechem is very much in love with your daughter and your sister Dinah.† Please allow him to marry her.

9 In fact we can have more marriages—you can give us your daughters and you can have our daughters.

10 You can live among us and settle down wherever you like. You can go where you want and buy land for yourselves."

11 Then Shechem himself spoke up, and said to Dinah's father and brothers, "Please accept me and my proposal, and I'll do whatever you ask.

12 You can set the bride price as high as you like, and I'll pay it along with all the gifts I'll give. Just let me have the girl so I can marry her."

13 Jacob's sons weren't honest when they answered him and his father Hamor because Shechem had violated their sister Dinah.

14 They told them, "We can't do this! We can't allow our sister to marry a man who's not circumcised. That would bring disgrace on us.

15 We will only agree to it with this condition: all of you must be circumcised like us.

* 33:17 "Succoth" means "shelters" or "stalls." † 33:19 "Pieces of money": literally, "kesitah," whose value is unknown. ‡ 33:20 "El-Elohe-Israel": meaning "God is the God of Israel." * 34:5 "Violated": the word here is the one used in connection with being unclean. † 34:8 "And sister Dinah": supplied for clarity, since Hamor is addressing both Jacob and his sons.

¹⁶ Then we will give you our daughters and take your daughters, and we will live among you and become one family.

¹⁷ But if you don't agree with us that you should be circumcised, then we'll take our sister and leave."

¹⁸ Hamor and his son Shechem agreed to what was proposed.

²¹ "These men are our friends," they told them. "Let's have them live here in our country and allow them to go wherever they want—it's big enough for all of them too. We can take their daughters as wives, and we can give our daughters to them to marry.

²² But they will only agree to this on one condition: they will only join us and become one family if every male among us is circumcised like they are.

²³ If that happens, won't all their livestock and property—all their animals—end up belonging to us? We just have to agree to this and they will come and live among us."

²⁸ They took their sheep, goats, cattle, and donkeys. They took whatever was in the town, and in the fields—

³⁰ But Jacob criticized Simeon and Levi, telling them, "You've just caused me a lot of trouble! You've made me like a bad smell among the people in this country, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites. I only have a few men, and if these people gather to attack me, I and my whole family will be wiped out."

¹ Then God told Jacob, "Get ready to go to Bethel and live there. Build an altar there to God, who appeared to you when you were running away from your brother Esau."*

² So Jacob told his family and everyone who was with him, "Get rid of the pagan idols you have with you. Purify yourselves and change your clothes.

* 35:1 See 28:11 and on.

³ We have to get ready and go to Bethel so I can build an altar to God who answered me in my time of trouble. He has been with me wherever I went."

⁴ They handed over to Jacob all the pagan idols they had, as well as their earrings,[†] and he buried them under the oak tree at Shechem.

⁷ He built an altar there and called the place El-Bethel,[‡] because that was where God had appeared to him when he was running away from his brother Esau.

⁸ Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, died and was buried under the oak near Bethel. So it was named "the oak of weeping."

⁹ God appeared to Jacob again and blessed him after his return from Paddan-aram.

¹⁰ God told him, "Jacob will not be your name any longer. Instead of Jacob your name will be Israel." So God called him Israel.

¹¹ Then God said, "I am God Almighty! Reproduce, increase, and you will become a nation—in fact a group of nations—and kings will be among your descendants.

¹² I will give to you and to your descendants the land I also gave to Abraham and Isaac."

¹³ Then God left the place where he had been speaking to Jacob.

¹⁸ But she was dying, and with her last breath she named him Benoni.[§] But his father named him Benjamin.*

¹⁹ Rachel died and was buried on the way to Ephrath (also known as Bethlehem).

²⁰ Jacob set up a stone memorial over Rachel's grave, and it's still there to this day.

²² During the time he was living there, Reuben went and slept with Bilhah, his father's concubine, and Israel found out about it.[‡]

These were the twelve sons of Jacob:

²⁴ The sons of Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin.

[†] 35:4 "Earrings": some commentators believe that these earrings also had some religious associations. [‡] 35:7 "El-Bethel": meaning "the God of Bethel." Bethel in turn means "the house of God" (see 28:19). [§] 35:18 "Benoni" means "son of my suffering." * 35:18 "Benjamin" means "son of my right hand." The right hand was considered more favorable. [†] 35:21 "Israel": referring of course to Jacob after his name change. [‡] 35:22 The Septuagint adds, "and it was very distressing to him."

These were the sons of Jacob, who were born to him while in Paddan-aram.

²⁸ Isaac lived to be 180

36

⁹ The following is the genealogy of Esau, father of the Edomites, who lived in the hill country of Seir:

¹⁰ These were the names of Esau's sons: Eliphaz, son of Esau's wife Adah, and Reuel, son of Esau's wife Basemath.

¹¹ The sons of Eliphaz were: Teman, Omar, Zepho, Gatam, and Kenaz.

¹² Timna, the concubine of Esau's son Eliphaz, had Amalek for Eliphaz. These were the descendants of Esau's wife Adah.

¹³ These were the sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. They were the descendants of Esau's wife Basemath.

¹⁷ These were the sons of Esau's son Reuel: tribal leaders Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. They were the tribal leaders descended from Reuel in the country of Edom, and they were the descendants of Esau's wife Basemath.

* 36:16 "Korah": as listed here is often considered to be a copyist's mistake since he is listed as a son of Esau in verse 14.

²³ These were the sons of Shobal: Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Shepho, and Onam.

²⁶ These were the sons of Dishon: Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran.

²⁸ These were the sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.

²⁹ These were the tribal leaders of the Horites: tribal leaders Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah,

⁴² Kenaz, Teman, Mibzar,

⁴³ Magdiel, and Iram. These were the tribal leaders of Edom, listed according to the places where they lived in the country. Esau was the ancestor of the Edomites.

² This is the story of Jacob and his family. Joseph was seventeen, and helped look after the flock with his brothers, the sons of Bilhah and Zilpah, his father's wives. Joseph told his father about some of the bad things his brothers were doing.

³ Israel* loved Joseph more than any of his other sons, because Joseph had been born to him when he was already old. He made a colorful robe with long sleeves for Joseph.

⁷ "We were tying up bundles of grain out in the fields when all of a sudden my bundle stood up, and your bundles came over and bowed down to it."

⁸ "Do you really think you're going to be our king?" they asked. "Do you honestly believe you're going to rule over us?" They hated him even more because of his dream and how he described it.

⁹ Then he had another dream told his brothers about it. "Listen, I had another dream," he explained. "The sun and moon and eleven stars were bowing down before me."

¹⁰ He also told his father as well as his brothers, and his father told him off, saying, "What's this dream that you've had? Are we—I and your mother and brothers—really going to come and bow down to the ground before you?"

¹³ Israel told Joseph, "Your brothers are looking after the sheep near Shechem. Get ready because I want you to go and see them."

"I'll do it," Joseph replied.

¹⁴ So he told him, "Off you go and see how your brothers and the flocks are doing, and come back and let me know." So he sent him off.

Joseph set out from the Hebron Valley,

¹⁵ and arrived in Shechem. A man there found him wandering about in the field, so he asked him, "What are you looking for?"

¹⁶ "I'm looking for my brothers," Joseph replied. "Can you please tell me where they're looking after the flock?"

¹⁷ "They've already left," the man replied. "I heard them say, 'Let's go to Dothan.'" So Joseph followed his brothers and caught up with them at Dothan.

¹⁹ "Look, here comes the Lord of Dreams!" they said to each other.

²⁰ "Come on, let's kill him and throw him into one of the pits. We'll say that some wild animal has eaten him. Then we'll see what happens to his dreams!"

* 37:3 "Israel," that is, Jacob.

²¹ When Reuben heard all this, he tried to save Joseph from them.

²² "Let's not attack and kill him," he suggested. "Don't murder him, just throw him into this pit here in the desert. You don't need to be guilty of violence."[†] Reuben said this so that he could come back later and rescue Joseph from them and take him home to his father.

²³ So when Joseph arrived, his brothers ripped off his robe—the colorful long-sleeved robe he was wearing—

²⁴ grabbed him and threw him into a pit. (The pit was empty—it didn't have any water in it.)

²⁶ "What's the point of killing our brother?" Judah asked his brothers. "Then we'd have to cover up his death!"

²⁷ Instead, why don't we sell him to these Ishmaelites? We don't have to kill him. After all he's our brother, our own flesh and blood." His brothers agreed.

²⁸ So when the Ishmaelites (who were traders from Midian)[‡] came by, they pulled Joseph out of the pit and sold him to them for twenty pieces of silver. The Ishmaelites took him to Egypt.

³² Then they sent the colorful robe to their father with the message, "We found this. Please examine it and see if it's your son's robe or not."

³⁴ Jacob tore his clothes in grief and dressed in sackcloth. He mourned the death of his son for a long time.

³⁵ All his sons and daughters tried to console him, but he rejected their attempts. "No," he said, "I will go down into my grave mourning for my son." So Joseph's father went on weeping for him.

³⁶ In the meantime the Ishmaelites had arrived in Egypt and had sold Joseph to Potiphar. Potiphar was one of Pharaoh's officers, the captain of the guard.

[†] 37:22 "You don't need to be guilty of violence": literally "you must not send a hand against him." Reuben is suggesting that they don't have to actively kill Joseph, but if they throw him into a pit he will die without them being guilty of committing murder. [‡] 37:28 The text sometimes refers to them as Ishmaelites and sometimes as Midianites but are clearly one and the same group. Also verse 36.

4 She became pregnant again and had a son she named Onan.

5 Then she had another son she named Shelah who was born in Kezib.

6 Much later, Judah arranged for Er, his firstborn son, to marry a woman named Tamar.

7 But Er did what was evil in the Lord's sight, so the Lord put him to death.

8 Judah told Onan, "Go and sleep with your brother's wife to fulfill the requirements of a brother-in-law to have children on behalf of your brother."

9 Onan realized that any children he had wouldn't be his own, so whenever he slept with his brother's wife he made sure she wouldn't become pregnant by withdrawing and spilling his semen on the ground. In this way he prevented any children being born on behalf of his brother.

10 But what he did was evil in the Lord's sight, so he also put Onan to death.

11 Then Judah told his daughter-in-law Tamar, "Go to your father's house and live there as a widow until my son Shelah grows up." For he thought, "Maybe he'll die too, just like his brothers." So Tamar went and stayed in her father's house.

12 A long time later Judah's wife, the daughter of Shua, died. After Judah had finished the time of mourning, he went to visit his sheepshearers at Timnah with his friend Hirah from Adullam.

13 Tamar was told, "Your father-in-law is going to Timnah to shear his sheep."

14 So she took off her widow's clothes and covered herself with a veil, disguising herself. She sat down beside the entrance to Enaim, which is on the way to Timnah. She had realized that even though Shelah had now grown up, nothing had been done about her marrying him.

15 Judah saw her and thought she must be a prostitute because she had veiled her face.

16 He went over to her at the side of the road and said, "I want to sleep with you." He didn't know she was his daughter-in-law.

"What will you give me if I let you sleep with me?" she asked.

17 "I'll send you a young goat from my flock," he replied.

"What guarantee will you give me to make sure you'll send it?" she asked.

18 "What guarantee do I have to give you?" he asked.

"Your signet seal and its cord, and your walking stick that you're holding," she replied. He handed them over to her. He slept with her and she became pregnant.

19 She left, went home, took off her veil, and put on her widow's clothes.

20 Judah sent his friend Hirah from Adullam with a young goat to get back his belongings he'd left as a guarantee from the woman, but he couldn't find her.

21 Hirah asked the men there, "Where's the cult prostitute that sits by the entrance road to Enaim?"

"There's no cult prostitute here," they answered.

22 Hirah went back to Judah and told him, "I couldn't find her, and the men there said, 'There's no cult prostitute here.'"

23 "Let her keep what I gave her," Judah replied. "We'll look ridiculous to people if we go on searching. In any case I did try to send her the young goat as promised but you couldn't find her."

²⁴ Then about three months later Judah was told, "Tamar your daughter-in-law has had sex like a prostitute and now as a result she's pregnant!"

²⁵ As she was brought out, she sent a message to her father-in-law, saying, "I'm pregnant by the man who owns these things." Then she added, "Please look carefully at this signet seal and its cord and walking stick. Who do they belong to?"

²⁶ Judah recognized them right away and said, "She has honored the law more than I have, because I didn't give her in marriage to my son Shelah." He didn't sleep with Tamar again.

²⁷ When the time came for Tamar to give birth, she was found to be carrying twins.

²⁸ One baby put out his hand, and the midwife tied a scarlet thread around on his wrist and said, "This one came out first."

²⁹ But then he pulled back his hand and his brother was born, she said, "How did you burst out?" So he was named Perez.*

³⁰ Then his brother with the scarlet thread on his wrist was born. He was named Zerah.†

¹ Joseph had been taken to Egypt by the Ishmaelites, who had sold him to Potiphar, an Egyptian who was one of Pharaoh's officers, the commander of the royal guard.

² The Lord was with Joseph and made him successful. He lived in his Egyptian master's house.

⁴ Potiphar appreciated Joseph and his service, and put him in charge of his household and made him responsible for everything he owned.

⁶ So Potiphar left Joseph to care for everything he owned. He didn't bother with anything except to decide what food he was going to eat.

Now Joseph was handsome, having a good physique,

⁷ so some time later he caught the eye of his master's wife. She propositioned him, saying, "Come here! Sleep with me!"

⁹ no one in this house has more authority than me! He hasn't held back anything from me except you, because you are his wife. So how could I do such an evil thing as this, and sin against God?"

¹¹ But one day he went into the house to do his work and none of the other servants were there.

* 38:29 "Perez" means "burst out." † 38:30 "Zerah" means "rising" (as in "sun") with perhaps the implication of red color. * 39:8 "Trusts me so much": supplied for clarity.

¹⁴ she shouted out to her servants, “Look at this! He[‡] brought this Hebrew slave here to dishonor us! This man came to try and rape me, but I screamed at the top of my voice.

¹⁸ But as soon as I screamed and called for help, he left his clothing beside me and ran outside.”

³ and imprisoned them in the house of the commander of the guard, the same prison where Joseph was.

⁵ One night while they were in prison the cupbearer and the baker for the king of Egypt each had a dream. They were different dreams, each with its own meaning.

⁷ So he asked Pharaoh’s officials who were imprisoned with him in his master’s house, “Why are you looking so depressed?”

⁸ “We’ve both had dreams but can’t find anyone to explain what they mean,” they said.

So Joseph told them, “Isn’t God the one who can interpret the meaning of dreams? Tell me your dreams.”

[†] 39:12 “Clothing”: the Hebrew word is a general word for clothing and is not specific. However, ancient Egyptian art depicts servants as wearing only a loincloth, and it is likely this what was Joseph was wearing. It also fits the story in that this piece of cloth could easily have been torn off. However, since nothing specific is mentioned, the general term is used here. [‡] 39:14 Referring to her husband. It’s interesting that she simply refers to him as “he,” an indication of her lack of respect for him, also evidenced by her willingness to commit adultery.

⁹ So the chief cupbearer told Joseph his dream. "In my dream there was a vine right in front of me," he explained.

¹⁰ "The vine had three branches. As soon as it budded, it flowered, and produced clusters of ripe grapes.

¹² "This is the meaning," Joseph told him. "The three branches represent three days.

¹³ In three days' time Pharaoh will take you out of prison and give you back your job, and you will hand Pharaoh his cup as you used to.

¹⁴ But when things go well for you, please remember me with kindness and speak to Pharaoh on my behalf, and please get me out of this prison.

¹⁵ I was cruelly kidnapped from the land of the Hebrews, and now I'm here in this pit even though I've done nothing wrong."

¹⁶ When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was positive, he said to Joseph, "I also had a dream. I had three baskets of cakes on my head.

²³ But the chief cupbearer didn't remember to say anything about Joseph—in fact he forgot all about him.

¹ A full two years later, Pharaoh had a dream that he was standing beside the River Nile.

² He saw seven cows coming up from the river. They looked well-fed and healthy as they grazed among the reeds.

⁴ Then the ugly, skinny cows ate the well-fed, healthy cows. Then Pharaoh woke up.

⁵ Pharaoh fell asleep again and had a second dream. Seven heads of grain were growing on one stalk, ripe and healthy.

⁹ But then the chief cupbearer spoke up. “Today I’ve just remembered a bad mistake I’ve made,” he explained.

¹² A young Hebrew was there with us, a slave of the commander of the guard. When we told him our dreams, he interpreted for us the meaning of our different dreams.

¹⁴ Pharaoh summoned Joseph, and they quickly brought him from the prison. After he’d shaved and changed his clothes, he was presented to Pharaoh.

¹⁵ Pharaoh said to Joseph, “I had a dream, but no one can interpret its meaning. But I’ve heard that when someone tells you a dream you know how to interpret it.”

²³ Then seven heads of grain grew up after them, withered and thin and dried by the east wind.

²⁴ The seven thin heads of grain swallowed up the healthy ones. I told all this to the magicians, but none of them could explain its meaning to me.”

²⁵ “Pharaoh’s dreams mean the same thing,” Joseph responded. “God is telling Pharaoh what he is going to do.

²⁶ The seven good cows and the seven good heads of grain represent seven good years of harvest.† The dreams mean the same thing.

²⁸ It’s just as I told Your Majesty—God has shown Pharaoh what he is going to do.

* 41:8 “By his dreams”: supplied for clarity. † 41:26 “Of harvest”: supplied for clarity.

²⁹ There are going to be seven years with plenty of food produced throughout the whole country of Egypt.

³⁰ But after them will come seven years of famine. People will forget the time when there was plenty of food throughout Egypt. Famine will ruin the country.

³¹ The time of plenty will be completely forgotten because the famine that follows it will be so terrible.

³² The fact that the dream was repeated twice means that it has definitely been decided by God, and that God is going to do this soon.

³⁵ They should collect all the food during the good years that are soon coming, and store the grain under Pharaoh's authority, keeping it under guard to provide food for the towns.

³⁹ Then Pharaoh spoke to Joseph, telling him, "Since God has revealed to you all this, and there's no one like you with such insight and wisdom,

⁴⁰ you will be in charge of all my affairs, and all my people will obey your orders. Only I with my status as king[‡] will be greater than you."

⁴¹ Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Look, I'm putting you in charge of the whole country of Egypt."

⁴² Pharaoh took off his signet ring from his finger and put it on Joseph's finger. He dressed him in fine linen clothes and placed a golden chain around his neck.

⁴⁴ Then Pharaoh told Joseph, "I am Pharaoh, but without your permission nobody will lift a hand or a foot anywhere in the whole country."

[‡] 41:40 "My status as king": literally "the throne." § 41:43 "Bow down!" This Egyptian loan word is variously translated: "Attention!" "Make way!" "Praise!" "Do homage!" All relate to honoring a dignitary. * 41:45 Meaning "The God speaks and he (the subject) lives." [†] 41:46 "On an inspection tour": supplied for clarity.

⁴⁸ He collected all the food during the seven good years, and he stored the grain produced in the local fields in each town.

⁴⁹ Joseph piled up so much grain that it was like the sand of the seashore. Eventually he stopped keeping records because there was just so much!

⁵¹ Joseph named his firstborn Manasseh,[‡] because he said, “The Lord has made me forget all my troubles and all my father’s family.”

⁵² His second son he named Ephraim,[§] because he said, “God has made me fruitful in the country of my misery.”

⁵⁴ and the seven years of famine began, just as Joseph had said. There was famine in all the other countries but the whole of Egypt had food.

⁵⁵ When all of Egypt was hungry, the people cried out to Pharaoh for food, and he told everyone, “Go and see Joseph and do whatever he tells you.”

⁵⁶ The famine had spread all over the country so Joseph opened all the storehouses and sold grain to the people of Egypt. The famine was very bad in Egypt,

¹ When Jacob found out grain was available in Egypt, he asked his sons, “Why do you keep on looking at each other to do something?”

² I’ve heard there’s grain in Egypt. Go there and buy some for us so we can stay alive—if not, we’re going to die!”

³ So ten of Joseph’s brothers went to Egypt to buy grain.

⁶ Joseph was the governor of the country and he sold grain to all the people there. So Joseph’s brothers went to him, and bowed low before him with their faces to the ground.

⁷ Joseph recognized them as soon as he saw them, but he acted like a stranger towards them and spoke to them in a severe way, saying, “Where are you from?”

⁸ Even though Joseph recognized his brothers, they didn’t recognize him.

¹² “No! You’ve come to find our country’s weaknesses!” he insisted.

13 "Your servants are twelve brothers, the sons of one man living in the country of Canaan," they explained. "The youngest is right now with our father, and one has passed away."

14 "As I said before, you're spies!" Joseph declared.

15 "This is how your story will be checked. I swear on Pharaoh's life that you'll never leave this country unless your younger brother comes here.

16 One of you go back and bring your other brother here. The others of you will be kept here in prison until it's clear that you're telling the truth. If not, then I swear on Pharaoh's life it proves you're spies!"

17 So Joseph put all of them in prison for three days.

18 On the third day he told them, "Since I'm someone who respects God, do as I tell you and you'll live.

19 If you're truly honest, choose one of your brothers to stay here in prison. The rest of you can go back home with grain for your hungry families.

20 But you must bring your youngest brother here to me to prove what you're saying is true. If not, you will all die." They agreed to do this.

21 "Clearly we're being punished for what we did to our brother," they said to each other. "We watched him in agony pleading with us for mercy, but we refused to listen to him. That's why we're in all this trouble."

22 Reuben said to them, "Didn't I tell you, 'Don't harm the boy!' But you didn't listen to me. Now we're paying the price for what we did to him."*

23 They didn't realize that Joseph understood what they were saying because they were talking to him through an interpreter.

24 Joseph stepped away from them because he started crying. He came back when he was able to speak to them again. He chose Simeon and had him tied up as they watched.

25 Joseph gave the order to fill up their sacks with grain, and also to return the money they had paid by placing it in the sacks as well. He also ordered that they should be provided with food for their journey home. All this was done.

26 The brothers loaded the grain onto their donkeys and then set off.

27 On their way they stopped for the night, and one of them opened up his sack to give his donkey something to eat and saw his money there at the top of the sack.

28 He told his brothers, "My money's been returned to me. It's right here at the top of my sack!" They were horrified! Trembling with fear they asked each other, "What is this that God's done to us?"

29 When they arrived home in Canaan, they told their father Jacob everything that had happened.

30 "The man who is the country's governor spoke to us in a severe way, and accused us of spying on the land," they explained.

31 "We told him, 'We are honest men. We're not spies!'

32 We are twelve brothers, the sons of one father. One has passed away and the youngest is right now with our father in the country of Canaan.'

33 Then the man who is the country's governor said to us, 'This is how I'll find out if you're telling the truth: you are to leave one of your brothers here with me while the rest take grain home for your hungry families.'

* 42:22 Literally, "Now his blood is required." The concept is that the blood of the victim cries out for vengeance.

34 Then bring your youngest brother to me. That way I'll know you're not spies but you're telling the truth. I'll release your brother to you, and you can stay in the country and trade.' "

35 As they emptied their sacks, each one's money bag was there in his sack! When they and their father saw the money bags, they were horrified.

36 Jacob their father accused them, "You have taken Joseph from me—he's gone! Simeon is gone too! Now you want to take Benjamin away! I'm the one who's suffering from all of this!"†

37 "You can kill my two sons if I don't bring him back to you," Reuben assured him. "Trust me with him, and I will bring him home to you myself."

38 "My son won't go there with you!" Jacob declared. "His brother is dead, and he's the only one I have left. If anything bad happens to him on the journey you're planning, you'll send this old man to his grave in grief."

2 so once they had finished the grain they'd brought from Egypt, their father told them, "You have to go back and buy some more grain for us."

3 But Judah responded, "The man was adamant when he warned us, 'I won't even see you unless your brother is with you.'

4 If you send our brother Benjamin with us then we'll go and buy food for you.

5 But if you won't send him, then we won't go, because the man was very clear, 'I won't even see you unless your brother is with you.' "

6 "Why have you made things so bad for me by telling the man you had another brother?" Israel asked.

7 "The man kept on asking direct questions about us and our family like 'Is your father still alive?' and 'Do you have another brother?' " they replied. "We just answered his questions. How were we to know he'd say, 'Bring your brother here!'?"

8 Judah said to his father Israel, "Send the boy in my care, and we'll leave immediately, so that we can stay alive and not die—and that includes you and us and our children!

9 I promise to take care of him—I'll be personally responsible for bringing him back to you. If I don't, then I will always carry the blame!

10 Now let's go, because if we hadn't hesitated, we could have gone there and come back twice by now."

11 "If it has to be, then this is what you'll do," Israel replied. "Take with you the best our country produces. Pack your bags with gifts for the man—balm, a little honey, spices, myrrh, pistachios, and almonds.

12 Take double the money that was returned to you in your sacks—maybe it was a mistake.

14 May God Almighty make the man treat you kindly so when you come before him he'll release your other brother and send Benjamin back. As for me, if I am to lose all my children, then so be it."

† 42:36 The sentence is literally, "on me are all these things." The Hebrew construction focuses "on me" making it clear that Jacob is holding them responsible for his suffering.

15 So they packed the gifts, took double the money, and set off, accompanied by Benjamin. They arrived in Egypt and went to have an audience with Joseph.

16 When Joseph saw Benjamin was with them, he told his household supervisor, "Take these men to my house. Slaughter an animal and make a meal, for they are going to eat with me at noon."

17 The man did as Joseph ordered and took them to Joseph's house.

18 They were really worried that they were being taken to Joseph's house. "It's because of the money that was put in our sacks the first time we came," they said to each other. "That's why we're being brought in—so he can accuse us and attack us! He'll make us his slaves and take our donkeys!"

19 So they went and spoke to Joseph's household supervisor at the entrance to the house.

20 "Please excuse us, my lord," they said. "We came down the first time to buy food,

21 and when we stopped for the night, we opened our sacks and each of us found our money—the exact amount—at the top of our sacks. So we've brought it back with us.

22 We've also brought more money to buy food. We've no idea who put our money in our sacks!"

23 "Everything's fine!" he told them. "Don't worry! Your God, the God of your father, must have given you the treasure* hidden in your sacks. I got your money." Then he brought Simeon out to meet them.

24 The steward took them inside Joseph's house, gave them water to wash their feet, and supplied food for their donkeys.

25 They got their gifts ready for when Joseph would come at noon, because they had found out that they were going to eat there.

26 When Joseph arrived at the house they gave him the gifts they had brought for him, and bowed low to the ground before him.

27 He asked how they were, and then he asked, "How is your elderly father doing that you spoke of? Is he still alive?"

28 "Yes, your servant our father is still alive, and is well," they replied and bowed low in respect.

29 Then Joseph looked over at his brother Benjamin, the son of his own mother. "Is this your youngest brother that you told me about?" he asked. "God be gracious to you, my son," he said.

30 Joseph had to run out quickly because he was becoming so emotional at seeing his brother.† He looked for a place to cry, and went to his room to weep there.

31 Then he washed his face, got his emotions under control, and went back out. "Serve the food," he ordered.

32 Joseph was served at a table by himself, and his brothers were served at a separate table. The Egyptians were also served at another table, because Egyptians cannot eat with Hebrews because they find this repulsive.‡

* 43:23 "Treasure": the word refers of course to the money, and is one used to describe money that is hidden or buried. † 43:30 He hadn't seen Benjamin for more than 20 years. ‡ 43:32 It appears that since the Egyptians revered the cow goddess Isis they viewed anyone (including Hebrews) who ate such meat as unclean.

³³ The brothers had been seated in front of him in order by age, from the firstborn, the oldest, down to the youngest, and they looked at each other in complete surprise.[§]

³⁴ The food was served to them from Joseph's table, and Benjamin received five times as much as anyone else. So they ate and drank plenty with him.

² Then put my special silver cup at the top of the sack of the youngest, along with the money for his grain." He did as Joseph told him.

⁴ They had hardly left the city when Joseph told his household supervisor, "Go after those men, and when you catch up with them, ask them, 'Why have you paid back good with evil by stealing my master's silver cup?'"

⁵ This is the cup he personally drinks from, and which he uses for divination.[†] What you've done is really evil!"

⁸ Remember that we brought back the money we found at the top of our sacks when we returned from Canaan. Why would we steal silver or gold from your master's house?

⁹ If any one of us is found with it, he shall die, and all of us will become your slaves."

¹⁰ "Whatever you say," the man replied, "but only the one found with it will become my slave since the rest of you will be free of any blame."

¹² The household supervisor searched the sacks, beginning with the oldest and working his way down to the youngest. The cup was found in Benjamin's sack.

¹³ The brothers tore their clothes in grief. Then they loaded their sacks back on their donkeys and headed back to the city.

¹⁵ "Why do you do this?" Joseph asked. "Don't you know a man like me can find out things through divination?"

¹⁶ "My lord, what can we say?" Judah replied. "How can we explain this to you? In what way can we prove our innocence? God has exposed the guilt of your servants. My lord, we are your slaves—all of us, including the one who was found with the cup."

[§] 43:33 It would of course have been impossible for anyone without intimate family knowledge to do this. * 44:4 "By stealing my master's silver cup": Septuagint addition, used for clarity.

[†] 44:5 "Divination": a way of discovering secrets or hidden knowledge. Sometimes this is close to magic, but, in this case, it may be that Joseph is using a common superstition to cover up his plan.

17 "I wouldn't do anything like that!" Joseph replied. "Only the man who was found with the cup will become my slave. The rest of you are free to return to your father."

18 Judah came closer and said to him, "If you please, my lord, let your servant just say a word. Please don't become angry with your servant, even though you are as powerful as Pharaoh himself."

19 My lord, previously you asked us, 'Do you have a father or a brother?'

20 We told you, my lord, 'We have an elderly father, and a younger brother, born when our father was already old. The boy's brother is dead. He is the only one of his mother's children left, and his father loves him dearly.'

21 Then you ordered us, 'Bring him here to me so I can see him.'

22 We told you, 'The boy can't leave his father; if he did, his father would die.'

23 But you told us, 'If your youngest brother doesn't come with you, you won't see me again.'

24 So when we went back to your servant, our father, we explained to him everything you had told us.

25 However, later on, our father told us, 'Go back and buy some more food.'

26 But we said, 'There's no way we can go back unless Benjamin our youngest brother goes with us, because we won't be able to see the man if Benjamin isn't with us.'

27 Then my father said to us, 'You realize that my wife[‡] had two sons for me.'

28 One is no more, ripped to pieces no doubt,[§] for I've never seen him since.

29 If you take this one away from me too, and something bad happens to him, you'll send this old man to his grave in grief.'

30 So if the boy isn't with us when I go back to my father, whose life depends on the life of the boy, 31 as soon as he sees the boy isn't there he'll die, and we will really send this old man, our father, to his grave in grief.

32 In fact I gave myself as the guarantee for the boy to my father. I told him, 'If I don't bring him back to you, then I will always carry the blame!'

33 So please let me stay here as my lord's slave instead of the boy. Let him go back home with his brothers.

34 For how could I ever go back to my father if the boy wasn't with me? I couldn't stand seeing the anguish that would cause my father."

1 Joseph couldn't control his emotions any longer while all his attendants were there, so he shouted out, "Everybody leave me!" So there was nobody else there when Joseph revealed who he was to his brothers.

2 But he cried so loudly that the Egyptians could hear him, and they told Pharaoh's household about it.

3 "I'm Joseph!" he announced to his brothers. "Is my father still alive?" They couldn't answer him as they were so surprised to see him face to face.

4 “Please come closer to me,” he told his brothers. They came over to him. “I’m your brother Joseph who you sold into slavery in Egypt.

5 But don’t be worried or get angry with yourselves that you sold me to be a slave here, because it was God who sent me ahead of you to save lives.

6 The country has suffered from famine for two years already, but there will be five more years with no plowing or reaping.

7 God sent me ahead of you to make sure you would still have descendants, to save your lives in this miraculous way.*

8 So it wasn’t you who sent me here, but God. He was the one who made me Pharaoh’s chief advisor† in charge of all his affairs, and ruler of the whole country of Egypt.

9 Now hurry! Go back to my father and tell him, ‘This message comes from your son Joseph: God has made me the ruler of the whole of Egypt. Come to me now; don’t wait.

10 You’ll live in the land of Goshen so you can be close to me with your children and grandchildren, and with your flocks and herds and everything that belongs to you.

11 I’ll make sure you have food, because there are still five more years of famine to come. Otherwise you and your family and your animals are going to starve.’”

12 Then Joseph told his brothers,‡ “You can all see for yourselves—including my brother Benjamin—that it’s really me talking to you!

13 Tell my father how much I’m respected in Egypt. Tell him everything that you’ve seen. Hurry! Bring my father here quickly!”

14 He hugged Benjamin, and Benjamin hugged him back. They both wept for joy.

15 He kissed all his brothers and wept over them, and after that his brothers were able to start talking with him.

16 Word soon reached Pharaoh’s palace that Joseph’s brothers had arrived. Pharaoh and his officials were glad to hear the news.

17 Pharaoh said to Joseph, “Tell your brothers, ‘This is what you are to do: Load your donkeys with grain and go back to the country of Canaan.

18 Then bring your father and your families and return here to me. I will give you the best land in Egypt, and you shall eat the best food the country has to offer.’

19 Tell them to do this as well, ‘Take some wagons from Egypt for your children and your wives. Bring them and your father here.

20 Don’t worry about bringing your possessions because the best of all Egypt is yours.’”

21 So that’s what the sons of Israel did. Joseph provided them with wagons, as Pharaoh had ordered. He also gave them supplies for their journey.

22 He gave each of them new clothes. But to Benjamin he gave five sets of clothes and 300 pieces of silver.

* 45:7 “In this miraculous way”: or “with many survivors.” † 45:8 “Pharaoh’s chief advisor”: literally, “a father to Pharaoh.” ‡ 45:12 “Then Joseph told his brothers”: supplied for clarity to show that Joseph is now addressing his brothers directly again.

²⁶ "Joseph's still alive!" they told him. "It's true, and he's the ruler of the whole country of Egypt!" Jacob was stunned at the news—he just couldn't believe it!

²⁷ But when they told him everything that Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the wagons that Joseph had sent to take him to Egypt, Jacob came back to his senses.

²⁸ Israel said, "All right, I believe you! My son Joseph is still alive! I'm going to go and see him before I die."

² During the night God spoke to Israel in a vision. "Jacob! Jacob!" he called.

"I'm here," he replied.

³ "I am God, the God of your father! Don't be afraid to go to Egypt, because I will turn you and your descendants* into a great nation.

⁴ I will go to Egypt with you, and I promise to bring you back again. And Joseph will personally close your eyes when you die."

⁶ They also took with them all their livestock and all the personal belongings they had accumulated in the country of Canaan.

So Jacob and everyone in his extended family went to Egypt,

⁷ including all his sons and grandsons, daughters and granddaughters.

⁸ The following is the genealogy of Israel and his sons who went to Egypt: Reuben, Jacob's firstborn.

¹⁰ The sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul the son of a woman from Canaan.

¹² The sons of Judah: Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah. However, Er and Onan died in Canaan.

The sons of Perez: Hezron and Hamul.

¹⁴ The sons of Zebulun: Sered, Elon, and Jahleel.

* 46:3 "And your descendants": supplied for clarity. [†] 46:13 "Job" is given as "Jashub" in Numbers 26:24 and 1 Chronicles 7:1.

The sons of Beriah: Heber and Malchiel.

¹⁸ These are the sons of Jacob Zilpah had, the servant given by Laban to his daughter Leah, a total of sixteen children and grandchildren.

¹⁹ The sons of Jacob's wife Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin.

²¹ The sons of Benjamin: Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim, and Ard.

²³ The son of Dan: Hushim.

²⁶ All those who were part of Jacob's family who came to Egypt (his blood relatives, apart from wives of Jacob's sons) totaled sixty-six.

²⁸ Jacob sent Judah on ahead to meet Joseph and find out the way to Goshen. When they arrived in Goshen,

²⁹ Joseph ordered his chariot made ready and went to meet his father Israel there. As soon as he arrived, he hugged his father and wept for a long time.

³⁰ "Now I can die in peace because I have seen your face again and know you're still alive," Israel told Joseph.

³¹ Joseph told his brothers and his father's household, "I'm going to go and report to Pharaoh and tell him, 'My brothers and my father's household have arrived from the country of Canaan to join me.'

³² They are shepherds and keep livestock. They have brought with them their flocks and herds and all their possessions.'

¹ Joseph went to report to Pharaoh and told him, "My father and brothers, along with their flocks and herds and all their possessions, have arrived from the land of Canaan and now they're here in Goshen."

³ Pharaoh asked the brothers, "What work do you do?"

⁴ "We have come to live in Egypt because there's no grass left in Canaan for our flocks to eat," they explained. "The famine is really bad in Canaan. So we would like to please ask permission to live in Goshen."

⁵ Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Now that your father and brothers have arrived to join you,

⁶ you can choose wherever you like in Egypt, the best place, for them to live. Let them live in Goshen. If you know any of them who are good at what they do, put them in charge of my livestock as well."

⁹ "I have been wandering for 130 years," Jacob replied. "My life has been short and difficult—I have not lived as long as my forefathers who also wandered from place to place."

¹⁰ Then Jacob blessed Pharaoh again before leaving him.

¹¹ So Joseph arranged for his father and brothers to live in Egypt and gave them land in the best part near Rameses, as Pharaoh had ordered.

¹⁴ By selling grain Joseph collected all the money in Egypt and Canaan, and placed it in Pharaoh's treasury.

¹⁸ But when that year was over, they came to him the next year and said, "My lord, we can't hide from you the fact that our money is gone and that you now own our livestock. All we have left to give you are our bodies and our land.

¹⁹ Do you want us to die right in front of you? So buy us and our land in return for food. Then our land will belong to Pharaoh, and we'll be his slaves. Just give us grain so we can live and won't die, and so the land won't be abandoned."

²¹ and all the people became his slaves,* from one end of Egypt to the other.

²² The only land he didn't buy belonged to the priests because they had a food allowance provided to them by Pharaoh, so they didn't have to sell their land.

²³ Then Joseph told the people, "Listen to me! Now that I have bought you and your land for Pharaoh, I'm giving you some seed for you to sow the fields.

²⁴ However, when it's harvested, you have to give one fifth of it to Pharaoh. The other four-fifths you can keep as seed for the fields and as food for you, your households, and your children."

* 47:21 "The people became his slaves": Septuagint and other ancient translations. The Hebrew has "he moved them to the cities."

²⁶ So Joseph made it a law for Egypt which is still in effect today that one fifth of all produce from the land belongs to Pharaoh. Only the priests’ land was exempt since it did not belong to Pharaoh.

²⁸ Jacob lived in Egypt for seventeen years, so he lived in total 137 years.

²⁹ When the time came for Israel to die, he called for his son Joseph and said to him, “If you think well of me, place your hand under my thigh and promise to treat me with trustworthy love and faithfulness. Don’t bury me here in Egypt.

³⁰ When I die, bury me with my forefathers. You must take my body from Egypt to the family tomb and bury me with them.”

“I will do as you say,” Joseph promised.

³¹ “Swear to me that you will,” he said. Joseph swore that he would. Israel bowed in worship at the head of his bed.

¹ Sometime after this, Joseph was told, “Your father is sick.” So Joseph went to see him, taking with him his two sons Manasseh and Ephraim.

² When Jacob was told, “Your son Joseph has come to you,” he gathered his strength and sat up in bed.

⁴ He told me, ‘Listen! I will make you prosperous and make your descendants so numerous that you will become the ancestor of many nations, and I will give this land to your descendants to own forever.’

⁷ I’m doing this because* tragically for me when I was returning from Paddan-aram, Rachel died in Canaan some distance from Ephrath. I buried her there on the way to Ephrath” (also known as Bethlehem).

⁹ “Yes, these are the sons God gave me here,” Joseph told his father.

“Bring them over here so I can bless them,” he said.

¹⁰ Israel’s eyesight was failing because of his age and he couldn’t see well, so Joseph brought them close to his father, and he kissed and hugged them.

¹¹ Israel said to Joseph, “I never thought I’d see your face again, and now God has even let me see your children!”

* 48:7 “I’m doing this because”: supplied for context. The sense seems to be that since Rachel died in childbirth having Benjamin, she wasn’t able to have any more children, so in Jacob’s mind he claims Joseph’s sons as some kind of recompense.

¹⁵ He blessed Joseph, saying,

"May the God my grandfather Abraham and my father worshiped—the God who has taken care of me like a shepherd throughout my life until now, ¹⁶ the Angel who has saved me from all kinds of trouble—may he bless these boys. May my name and the names of my grandfather Abraham and father Isaac continue through them, and may they have many descendants that spread throughout the earth."

¹⁹ But his father refused, saying, "I know what I'm doing. Manasseh will also become an important people, but his younger brother will be greater than him, and his descendants will become a large nation."

²⁰ So Israel blessed them that day and said: "In the future the people of Israel will use your names to give a blessing, saying, 'May God bless you like he did Ephraim and Manasseh.'" In saying this he placed Ephraim before Manasseh.

²¹ Then Israel said to Joseph, "I'm going to die soon, but God will be with you and bring you back to the land of your fathers.

²² I'm also giving you something in addition to what I'm giving your brothers—piece of land on the mountain slope of Shechem[†] that I took from the Amorites with my sword and bow."

¹ Jacob called his sons together, and said, "Gather round so I can tell you what's going to happen to you in the future.

² Come here, sons of Jacob, and listen to Israel your father.

³ Reuben. You are my firstborn, conceived when I was strong, born when I was vigorous! You were above all others in position, above all others in power.

⁵ Simeon and Levi are two of the same kind—they use their weapons for destructive violence.[†]

[†] 48:22 The word used here meaning "shoulder" refers to both a mountain slope and also the town of Shechem named after such a slope. In 33:18, it's recorded that Jacob bought a piece of land at Shechem, and in Joshua 24:32 it's stated that Joseph was later buried there. It is also referred to in John 4:5 as the land Jacob gave to Joseph. * 49:4 See 35:22. † 49:5 See 34:25.

⁶ I refuse to be part of their decisions; I refuse to participate in what they do. For they killed men in their anger; they crippled cattle just for fun.

⁷ I curse their anger because it is too harsh; I curse their fury because it is too cruel! I will separate their descendants throughout Jacob; I will scatter them throughout Israel.

¹⁰ Judah will always hold the scepter, and the staff of authority will always be at his feet until Shiloh[‡] comes; the nations will obey him.

¹¹ He ties his donkey to the vine, his donkey's colt to the best vine. He washes his clothes in wine, his robes in the red juice of grapes.[§]

¹⁵ He sees that the place where he's resting is good, and the land is lovely, so he's willing to lower his back to accept the burden and to work as a slave.

¹⁷ Dan will be as dangerous as a snake beside the road, a viper by the path that bites the horse's heel, throwing its rider off backwards.

¹⁸ I trust in you to save me, Lord.

¹⁹ Raiders will attack Gad, but he will attack their heels.

²⁰ Asher will have delicious food—he'll produce fancy food for royalty.

²⁵ The God of your father will help you and the Almighty will bless you with blessings from the heavens above, with blessings from the depths below, with blessings for many children.[§]

[‡] 49:10 "Shiloh": there is considerable disagreement among commentators over this word. Many see this as a prophecy relating to the Messiah. § 49:11 The intent of this verse is that the descendants of Judah would have such prosperity that they could afford to tie donkeys to their vines and have so much wine they could wash their clothes with it. *

49:14 "Saddle bags": or, "sheepfolds." † 49:16 Dan means judge, see 30:6. ‡ 49:21 "Gives birth to beautiful fawns": or "gives beautiful words."

²⁷ Benjamin is a vicious wolf. In the morning he destroys his enemies,[†] in the evening he divides the loot.”

²⁹ Then he gave them the following instructions: “I’m going to die soon. Bury me with my forefathers in the cave in the field of Ephron the Hittite.

³⁰ This is the cave in the field of Machpelah, near Mamre in Canaan, that Abraham bought together with the field from Ephron the Hittite to own as a burial site.

³² The field and the cave were bought from the Hittites.”

³ This took a full 40 days, the normal time for the process, and the Egyptians mourned for him for 70 days.

⁴ Once the time of mourning was over, Joseph said to Pharaoh’s officials, “If you’d be so kind, please speak to Pharaoh on my behalf, and explain to him that ⁵ my father made me swear an oath, telling me, ‘You must bury me in the tomb I’ve prepared for myself in Canaan. Please allow me to go and bury my father and then I’ll return.’ ”

⁶ Pharaoh replied, “Go and bury your father as he made you swear to do.”

⁷ Joseph went to bury his father, and all Pharaoh’s officials went with him—all Pharaoh’s senior advisors and all the leaders of Egypt—

¹⁰ When they got to the threshing floor of Atad, on the other side of the Jordan, they wept loudly in sorrow. Joseph held a seven-day ceremony of mourning for his father there.

¹⁵ However, now that their father was dead, Joseph's brothers became worried, saying, "Maybe Joseph is holding a grudge against us, and he'll pay us back for all the bad things we did to him."

¹⁶ So they sent a message to Joseph to tell him, "Before your father died, he gave this order, ¹⁷ 'This is what you are to tell Joseph: Forgive your brothers their sins, the bad things they did to you, treating you in such a nasty way.' Now please forgive us our sins, we who are servants of the God of your father." When Joseph received their message, he cried.

¹⁸ Then his brothers themselves came and fell down before Joseph and said, "We are your slaves!"

¹⁹ "You don't need to be afraid!" he told them. "I don't stand in the place of God, do I?"

²⁰ While you planned bad things for me, God planned it for good so that in the end many lives could be saved.[†]

²¹ So don't worry. I'll go on taking care of you and your children." Speaking kindly like this he calmed them down.

²² Joseph remained in Egypt, together with his father's whole family. He lived to be 110,

²⁴ "I'm going to die soon," Joseph told his brothers, "but God will be with you, and he will lead you out of this country to the land that he swore to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

²⁵ Joseph made the sons of Israel swear an oath, saying, "When God comes to be with you, you must take my bones with you when you leave."[‡]

²⁶ Joseph died when he was 110. After his body was embalmed, he was placed in a coffin in Egypt.

Exodus

¹ These were the names of the sons of Israel (Jacob) who came with him to Egypt along with their families:

² Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah;

³ Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin;

⁴ Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

⁶ Eventually Joseph and all his brothers and all that generation died.

⁷ However, the Israelites had many children and their numbers increased rapidly. In fact there were so many of them that they became very powerful—the country was full of them.

⁹ He conferred with his fellow Egyptians and said, “Look at these Israelites—there are more than them than us, and they're more powerful than us.

¹⁰ We've got to make plan to deal with them before they become so many that if there's a war they'll side with our enemies and fight us, and flee the country.”

¹³ The Egyptians worked the Israelites brutally,

¹⁵ Then the king gave orders to the Hebrew midwives, Shiphrah and Puah.

¹⁶ He told them, “When you assist the Hebrew women during childbirth, if you see it's a boy, kill him; but if it's a girl, let her live.”

¹⁷ But because the midwives revered God, they didn't do what the king of Egypt had ordered. They let the boys live as well.

¹⁸ The king of Egypt called the midwives in and demanded to know, “Why have you done this— letting the male children live?”

¹⁹ “Hebrew women aren't like Egyptian women,” the midwives told Pharaoh. “They give birth more easily—they have them before we midwives arrive.”

²⁰ God treated the midwives well, and the people increased in number so there were even more of them.

²¹ Because the midwives revered God, he gave them families of their own.

²² Then Pharaoh issued this order to all his people: “Throw every Hebrew boy that's born into the Nile, but let every girl live.”

* 1:8 It is thought to refer to a different Egyptian dynasty. † 1:12 “Detested” or “feared.”

2

² She became pregnant and had a son. She saw he was a lovely baby, and she hid him for three months.

³ But when she couldn't hide him anymore, she got a papyrus basket and covered it with tar and pitch. Then she put her baby in the basket and placed it among the reeds along the bank of the Nile.

⁶ When she opened it she saw the baby boy. He was crying and she felt sorry for him. "This must be one of the Hebrew boys," she said.

⁹ "Take this baby boy and nurse him for me," she told his mother. "I will pay you myself." So his mother took him home and nursed him.

¹⁰ When the boy was older she took him to Pharaoh's daughter, who adopted him as her son. She called him Moses,* because she said, "I pulled him out of the water."

¹³ The following day he went back and he saw two Hebrews fighting with each other. He said to the one at fault, "Why are you beating one of your own people?"

¹⁴ "Who put you in charge to judge us?" the man replied. "Are you going to kill me like you did the Egyptian?" Moses became frightened at this, and said to himself, "People know what I've done!"

¹⁵ When Pharaoh found out, he tried to have Moses killed, but Moses ran away from Pharaoh and went to live in Midian.

One day as he was sitting by a well,

¹⁸ When they got home, their father Reuel asked them, "How did you get back so quickly today?"

²⁰ "So where is he?" Reuel asked his daughter. "You didn't just leave him there, did you? Go and invite him to eat with us!"

* 2:10 "Moses" sounds like the Hebrew word "pull out." In Egyptian it is an abbreviation meaning "son of..."

²² She had a son, and Moses named him Gershom,[†] for he said, "I'm an exile living in a foreign country."

²⁵ God also looked sympathetically on the Israelites, and was concerned for them.[‡]

3

¹ Moses was a shepherd, looking after the flock of Jethro,* his father-in-law, the Midianite priest. He led the flock far into the wilderness until he came to God's mountain, Mount Horeb.[†]

² There the angel of the Lord appeared to him in a flame of fire from inside a bush. Moses looked carefully and saw that though the bush was on fire, it wasn't being burned up.

⁴ When the Lord saw that Moses was coming to take a look, God called to him from inside the bush, "Moses! Moses!"

"I'm here," Moses replied.

⁵ "Don't come any closer!" God told him. "Take off your sandals because you're standing on holy ground."

⁶ Then he said, "I am the God of your father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob." Moses covered his face, because he was afraid to look at God.

⁷ "I'm completely aware of the misery of my people in Egypt," the Lord told him. "I have heard them crying out because of their taskmasters. I know how much they're suffering.

¹¹ But Moses said to God, "Why me? I'm a nobody! I couldn't go to Pharaoh and lead the Israelites out of Egypt!"

¹² "I'll be with you," the Lord replied, "and this will be the sign that it is really me who is sending you: when you have led the people out of Egypt, you will worship God at this very mountain."

¹³ Then Moses said to God, "Look! If I were to go to the Israelites and say to them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' and they ask me, 'What is his name?'—then what should I tell them?"

[†] 2:22 "Gersom" sounds like "a foreigner there." [‡] 2:25 "Was concerned for them": literally, "knew." * 3:1 "Jethro": another name for Reuel. [†] 3:1 "Mount Horeb": another name for Mount Sinai.

¹⁴ God replied to Moses, “ ‘I Am’ is who I am. Tell the Israelites this: ‘I Am’ has sent me to you.”

¹⁵ Then God said to Moses, “Tell the Israelites, ‘The Lord, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob—has sent me to you. This is my name forever, the name you are to call me for all generations to come.’”

¹⁶ Go, and call all the elders of Israel to meet with you. Tell them, ‘The Lord, the God of your fathers, has appeared to me—the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. He said, “I have paid close attention to what’s been happening to you in Egypt.”’

¹⁷ I have decided to take you away from the misery you’re having in Egypt and bring you to the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, a land flowing with milk and honey.”

¹⁸ “The elders of Israel will accept what you say. Then you must go with them to the king of Egypt and tell him, ‘The Lord, the God of the Hebrews has revealed himself to us. So please let us go three days journey into the desert so we can offer sacrifices to the Lord our God there.’”

¹⁹ But I know that the king of Egypt won’t let you go unless he’s forced to do so by a power stronger than him.[‡]

²⁰ So I will use my power to inflict[§] on Egypt all the terrifying things that I’m about to do to them. After that he’ll let you go.

4

¹ “But what if they don’t believe me or listen to what I say?” Moses asked. “They could say, ‘The Lord didn’t appear to you.’”

² The Lord asked him, “What are you holding in your hand?”

³ “Throw it on the ground,” he told Moses. So Moses did. It turned into a snake and Moses ran away from it.

⁴ “Reach out and grab hold of it by its tail,” the Lord told Moses. Moses did so and it turned back into a walking stick in his hand.

⁵ “You are to do this^{*} so that they will believe that I the Lord did appear to you, the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.”

⁶ Then the Lord told him, “Put your hand inside your clothes close to your chest.” So Moses did as he was told. When he took his hand out, it was white like snow with a skin disease.

⁷ “Now put your hand back inside your clothes,” the Lord said. Moses did so. When he took it out again, his hand had returned to normal.[†]

[‡] 3:19 “A power stronger than him”: literally, “a mighty hand.” [§] 3:20 “Use my power to inflict”: literally, “stretch out my hand and strike.” ^{*} 3:22 Presumably referring to Israelite women asking their Egyptian neighbors and guests.

9 “But if they still don’t believe you or listen to you because of these two signs, then you are to take some water from the Nile and pout it out on the ground. The Nile water will turn into blood on the ground.”

10 Then Moses said to the Lord, “Pleased excuse me, but I’m not someone who is good with words—not in the past, and not from the time you have been speaking with me, your servant. My speech is slow and I don’t say things well.”[‡]

11 “Who gave people mouths?” the Lord asked him. “Who makes people deaf or dumb, able to see or blind? It’s I, the Lord, who does that.

12 Now go, and I myself will be your mouth, and I will tell you what you are to say.”

13 “Please, Lord, send someone else!” Moses responded.

14 The Lord got angry with Moses, and told him, “There’s your brother Aaron, the Levite. I know he speaks well. He’s on his way to meet you, and he’ll be very happy to see you.

15 Speak to him and tell him what to say. I will be your mouth and his mouth, and I will tell you what you are to do.

16 Aaron will speak on your behalf to the people, as if he was your mouth, and you will be in the place of God to him.

17 Make sure to take your walking stick with you so you can use it to do the signs.”

18 Then Moses returned to Jethro his father-in-law and told him, “Please allow me to go back to my own people in Egypt so I can see if any of them are still alive.”

19 While Moses was in Midian, the Lord told him, “Go back to Egypt because all those who wanted to kill you have died.”

20 Moses put his wife and sons on a donkey and went back to Egypt, carrying the walking stick that God had used to perform miracles.[§]

21 The Lord told Moses, “When you get back to Egypt, make sure to go to Pharaoh and carry out the miracles I’ve given you to do. I will make him stubborn* and he will not let the people go.

22 This is what you are to tell Pharaoh, ‘This is what the Lord says. Israel is my firstborn son.

23 I ordered you to let my son go so he can worship me. But you refused to release him, so I will now kill your firstborn son.”

24 But while they were on their way the Lord came to the place where they were staying, wanting to kill Moses.

25 However, Zipporah used a flint knife to cut off her son’s foreskin. She touched his feet with it, and said to him, “You are a blood-husband to me.”

[‡] 4:10 “My speech is slow and I don’t say things well”: literally, “I am heavy of mouth and heavy of tongue.” [§] 4:20 “The walking stick that God had used to perform miracles”: literally, “the walking stick of God.” This interpretation refers back to the miracles recorded in verses 3 and 4.

* 4:21 “Stubborn”: literally, “harden his heart,” similarly translated throughout the book. The same experience is described as being God’s action, Pharaoh’s own action, and also in the passive with no agent identified. [†] 4:26 The term used here is not well understood. It may mean something like, “Through this blood I have spilled you are now related through marriage to me.” Some interpreters believe the word means “someone who is circumcised.”

²⁷ The Lord had told Aaron, "Go and meet Moses in the desert." So Aaron went and met Moses at the mountain of God and greeted him with a kiss.

²⁸ Then Moses explained to Aaron everything the Lord had sent him to say and all the miracles he had ordered him to do.

³⁰ Aaron shared with them everything the Lord had told Moses, and Moses carried out the miracles so they could see them.

¹ After this Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and told him, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel says, 'Let my people go so they can hold a religious festival for me in the desert.' "

² "Who is this 'Lord' that I should listen to his request to let Israel go?" Pharaoh replied. "I don't know the Lord and I certainly won't let Israel leave!"

³ "The God of the Hebrews came to us," they added. "Please allow us to go a three days journey into the desert and offer sacrifices to the Lord our God. Otherwise he'll kill us by disease or by the sword."

⁴ "Moses and Aaron, why are you trying to take people away from their assigned labor?" Pharaoh asked. "Get back to work!" he ordered.

⁷ "Don't give them any more straw to make bricks like before. Have them go and collect the straw themselves."

⁸ But still make them produce the same quantity of bricks as before. They're lazy people—that's why they're calling out, asking, 'Please let us go and offer sacrifices to our god.'

⁹ Make their work harder so they can get on with it and not pay any attention to all these lies!"

¹⁰ So the slave drivers and those in charge went out and told the people, "This is what Pharaoh has ordered: 'I won't give you any more straw.'

¹¹ Go and get straw for yourselves wherever you can find it, because your work quota won't be reduced."

¹² So the people went all over Egypt collecting stubble for straw.

¹³ The slave drivers kept on forcing them, saying, "You still have to do the same work as you did when you had straw provided!"

¹⁵ The Israelite supervisors went to Pharaoh to complain, saying, "Why are you treating us your servants like this?"

¹⁶ You don't give us any straw but your slave drivers demand that we make bricks, and they beat us! Your people are treating us badly!"

¹⁷ "No, you're just lazy, lazy people!" Pharaoh replied. "That's why you keep on asking, 'Please let us go and offer sacrifices to the Lord.' "

¹⁸ Now get out of here and go back to work! You won't be given any straw but you'll still have to produce the full quota of bricks!"

²⁰ They went over to Moses and Aaron who were waiting for them after their meeting with Pharaoh,

²¹ and said, "May the Lord see what you have done and judge you accordingly! You have made us like a bad smell to Pharaoh and his officials. You have put a sword in their hands to kill us!"

²² Moses went back to the Lord and complained, "Why have you caused all this trouble for your own people, Lord? Was this why you sent me?"

6

¹ But the Lord told Moses, "Now you'll see what I'm going to do to Pharaoh. Using my great strength I will force him to let them go; because of my power he will send them out from his country."

² God spoke to Moses and told him, "I am Yahweh!"*

³ I revealed myself as God Almighty to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, but they didn't know my name, 'Yahweh.'

⁶ So tell the Israelites, 'I am the Lord and I will save you from the forced labor the Egyptians are making you do; I will set you free from being their slaves. I will rescue you using my power and imposing heavy punishments.

⁷ I will make you my own people. Then you will know that I am the Lord your God, who rescued you from slavery in Egypt.

⁸ I will take you to the land that I solemnly promised to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. I will give it to you to own. I am the Lord!' "

⁹ Moses explained this to the Israelites but they did not listen to him, because they were so discouraged and because of the hard labor they were forced to do.

¹⁰ Then the Lord said to Moses,

¹¹ "Go and speak to Pharaoh, king of Egypt. Tell him to let the Israelites leave his country."

¹² But Moses replied, "Even my own people don't listen to me. Why would Pharaoh listen to me, especially since I'm such a poor speaker?"

¹³ But the Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, and told them what to do regarding the people of Israel and Pharaoh, king of Egypt, in order to bring the Israelites out of Egypt.

¹⁴ These were the Israelite family heads. The sons of Reuben, the firstborn son of Israel, were Hanok and Pallu, Hezron and Karmi. These were the families of Reuben.

* 6:2 "Yahweh": this is usually translated "Lord," but insofar as he is specifically identifying himself by name it seems appropriate to use Yahweh here.

¹⁶ These were the names of the sons of Levi according to their genealogical records: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. Levi lived for 137 years.

¹⁷ The sons of Gershon, by families, were Libni and Shimei.

¹⁸ The sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. Kohath lived for 133 years.

²¹ The sons of Izhar were Korah, Nepheg, and Zichri.

²² The sons of Uzziel were Mishael, Elzaphan, and Sithri.

²⁸ When the Lord spoke to Moses in Egypt,

²⁹ he said to him, "I am the Lord. Tell Pharaoh, king of Egypt, all that I tell you."

³⁰ But Moses replied, "I'm not a good speaker—why would Pharaoh listen to me?"

7

¹ The Lord told Moses, "Look, I will make you seem like God to Pharaoh, and your brother Aaron will be your prophet.

² You are to repeat everything that I tell you to say, and your brother Aaron must repeat it to Pharaoh so that he will let the Israelites leave his country.

³ But I will give Pharaoh a stubborn attitude, and though I will perform many signs and wonders in Egypt, he won't listen to you.

⁵ In this way the Egyptians will know that I am the Lord—when I take action against Egypt and lead the Israelites out of the country."

⁶ Moses and Aaron did exactly as the Lord had ordered.

⁸ The Lord told Moses and Aaron,

* 7:4 Literally, "lay my hand on."

⁹ “When Pharaoh asks you, ‘Why don’t you perform a miracle, then?’ tell Aaron, ‘Take your walking stick and throw it down in front of Pharaoh,’ and it will turn into a snake.”

¹⁰ Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and did what the Lord had ordered. Aaron threw down his staff in front of Pharaoh and his officials, and it turned into a snake.

¹¹ But Pharaoh called in wise men and sorcerers, and these Egyptian magicians did the same thing using their magic arts.

¹² Each of them threw down their walking sticks and they also turned into snakes, but Aaron’s walking stick swallowed up all their walking sticks.

¹⁵ So tomorrow morning go to Pharaoh as he walks down to the river. Wait to meet him on the bank of the Nile. Take with you the walking stick that turned into a snake.

¹⁶ Tell him: The Lord, the God of the Hebrews, has sent me to say to you, ‘Let my people go, so that they can worship me in the desert. But you have not listened up until now.

¹⁷ This is what the Lord is now telling you: This is how you will know that I am the Lord.’ ”

“Watch! Using the walking stick I’m holding, I’m going to hit the water of the Nile, and it will turn to blood.

¹⁹ The Lord said to Moses, “Tell Aaron, ‘Take your walking stick in your hand and hold it out over the waters of Egypt, over their rivers and canals and ponds and pools, so that they will turn to blood. There will be blood through all of Egypt, even in containers made of wood and stone.’ ”

²¹ The fish in the Nile died, and the river smelled so awful that the Egyptians could not drink its water. There was blood through all of Egypt!

²³ Pharaoh went back to his palace and didn’t pay any attention to what had happened.

²⁵ Seven days went by after the Lord hit the Nile.

8

¹ Then the Lord told Moses, “Go and see Pharaoh and say to him, ‘This is what the Lord says: Let my people go, so that they can worship me.

² If you refuse to let them leave, I will send a plague of frogs all over your country.

³ They will swarm out of the Nile, and they will enter your palace and get into your bedroom and jump onto your bed. They will get into the houses of your officials and jump around your people—even into your ovens and breadmaking bowls.

⁴ Frogs will jump all over you, your people, and all your officials.’ ”

⁵ The Lord said to Moses, “Tell Aaron, ‘Hold out your walking stick in your hand over the rivers and canals and ponds, and make frogs spread over Egypt.’ ”

⁷ But the Egyptian magicians did the same thing using their magic arts. They brought up frogs in Egypt.

⁸ Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron and pleaded with them, “Pray to the Lord, and ask him to take away the frogs from me and my people. Then I will let your people go so they can offer sacrifices to the Lord.”

⁹ “You may have the honor of deciding* when I’ll pray for you, your officials, and your people that the frogs will be removed from you and your houses. They will remain only in the Nile.”

¹⁰ “Do it tomorrow,” Pharaoh replied.

Moses said, “It will happen as you have requested so you will know that there is no one like the Lord our God.

¹¹ The frogs will leave you and your houses, your officials and your people, and they will remain only in the Nile.”

¹⁴ The people collected them in pile upon pile, and the whole country smelled terrible.

¹⁵ But when Pharaoh realized the plague had passed he chose to become hard and stubborn again, wouldn’t listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had predicted.

¹⁶ The Lord said to Moses, “Tell Aaron, ‘Pick up your walking stick and hit the dust of the ground. The dust will become gnats† swarming all over Egypt.’ ”

* 8:9 “You may have the honor of deciding”: literally, “Glorify yourself over me.” † 8:16 The exact insect mentioned here is not known with certainty. The Hebrew suggests “annoying insect,” and has been variously translated as lice, mosquitoes, or fleas in addition to gnats. However, some form of small biting flying insect like a gnat would best fit the context of “dust.” ‡ 8:19 “This is an act of God”: literally, “It is the finger of God.”

²¹ If you don't let my people leave, I will send swarms of flies on you and your officials, and on your people and your houses. Every Egyptian house and even the ground on which they stand will be filled with swarms of flies.

²² However, on this occasion I will treat the land of Goshen differently—that's where my people live—there won't be any swarms of flies there. This is how you will know that I, the Lord, am here in your country.

²³ I will distinguish[§] my people from your people. You will see this sign that confirms it tomorrow."

²⁵ Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron and told them, "Go and offer sacrifices to your God here in this country."

²⁶ "No, that wouldn't be the right thing to do," Moses replied. "The sacrifices we offer to the Lord our God would be offensive to Egyptians. If we went ahead and offered sacrifices offensive to Egyptians, they'd stone us!

²⁷ We must make a three-day journey into the wilderness and offer sacrifices there to the Lord our God as he has told us."

²⁸ "I'll let you go and offer sacrifices to the Lord your God in the desert, but don't go very far," Pharaoh answered. "Now pray for me that this plague ends."*

²⁹ "As soon as I leave you, I will pray to the Lord," Moses replied, "and tomorrow the flies will leave Pharaoh and his officials and his people. But Pharaoh should be sure not to be deceitful again and refuse to let the people go and offer sacrifices to the Lord."

³¹ and the Lord did as Moses asked, and removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh and his officials and his people. Not a single fly remained.

9

¹ The Lord told Moses, "Go and speak to Pharaoh. Tell him, 'This is what the Lord says: Let my people go, so that they can worship me.

² If you refuse to let them go and keep holding onto them,

⁴ But the Lord will distinguish between the livestock of the Israelites and the Egyptians, so that none of those belonging to the Israelites will die.'

⁷ Pharaoh sent out officials and discovered that not a single one of the Israelites' livestock had died. But Pharaoh was stubborn, and he would not let the people leave.

[§] 8:23 The Hebrew has "redemption" here, but it appears to be a slip of the pen. The Septuagint reading is followed here. * 8:28 "That this plague ends." Implied.

⁸ The Lord told Moses and Aaron, “Go and get some handfuls of soot from a furnace. Then have Moses throw it into the air in front of Pharaoh.

¹⁰ They got soot from a furnace, and went to see Pharaoh. Moses threw it into the air, and open sores broke out on people and animals.

¹³ The Lord told Moses, “Tomorrow morning get up early and go to Pharaoh, and tell him that this is what the Lord, the God of the Hebrews, says: ‘Let my people go, so that they can worship me.

¹⁴ This time I will direct all my plagues against you and your officials and your people, so you will realize that there is no one like me in all the earth.

¹⁶ However, I have let you live so you can see my power, and that my reputation may be spread throughout the earth.

¹⁸ So watch out! About this time tomorrow I will send down the worst hailstorm that has ever fallen on Egypt, from the beginning of its history until now.

¹⁹ So order your livestock and everything you have in the field to be brought inside. Every person and every animal that stays outside and is not brought inside will die when the hail falls on them.’ ”

²⁴ As the hail fell it was accompanied by lightning flashing back and forth. The hail that fell was so severe that nothing like it had ever been seen in the whole of Egypt since the beginning of its history.

²⁵ All across Egypt hail hit everything in the fields, both people and animals. It knocked down everything growing in the fields, and stripped every tree bare.

²⁶ Only in the land of Goshen where the Israelites lived was there no hail.

²⁷ Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron and told them, “I admit that I sinned this time! The Lord is right, and I and my people are wrong!

* 9:15 “Completely destroyed you”: literally, “you would have perished from the earth.”

²⁸ Pray to the Lord for us, because there's been more than enough of God's thunder and hail. I will let you leave. You don't need to stay here any longer."

²⁹ "Once I've left the city, I will pray to the Lord for you," Moses told him. "The thunder will stop, and there'll be no more hail, so that you will realize that the earth belongs to the Lord.

³² However, the wheat and the spelt were not destroyed because they grow later.)

³³ Moses left Pharaoh and went out of the city, and prayed to the Lord. The thunder and hail stopped, and the rainstorm finished.

² This is so you can tell your children and grandchildren how I made the Egyptians look foolish* by doing these miracles among them, and so that you may know that I am the Lord."

³ Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and told him, "This is what the Lord, the God of the Hebrews, says: 'How long are you going to refuse to humble yourself before me? Let my people go, so that they can worship me.

⁵ There will be so many of them that they'll cover the ground so no one can see it. They will eat whatever crops were left by the hail, as well as every tree growing in your fields.

⁷ Pharaoh's officials came to him and asked, "How long are you going to let this man cause us trouble?† Let these people go so they can worship the Lord their God. Don't you realize that Egypt has been destroyed?"

⁸ Moses and Aaron were brought back to see Pharaoh. "Go and worship the Lord your God," he told them. "But who of you will be going?"

⁹ "We will all go," Moses replied. "Young and old, sons and daughters—and we'll take our flocks and herds with us, for we're going to have a religious festival for the Lord."

* 10:2 "Look foolish": the word suggests that the Lord is mocking the Egyptians, and primarily this would be over their devotion to worthless idols. † 10:7 "Cause us trouble": literally, "be a snare to us."

10 “The Lord really would have to be with you if I let your children go with you!” Pharaoh answered. “Clearly you’re planning some kind of evil trick!”

11 So no! Only the men can go and worship the Lord, because that’s what you’ve been asking for.” Then he had Moses and Aaron thrown out.

12 The Lord told Moses, “Lift up your hand over Egypt, so that the locusts may swarm over it and eat every plant in the country—everything that was left by the hail.”

13 Moses held out his staff over Egypt, and all through that day and night the Lord sent an east wind blowing over the land. By the time morning came the east wind had brought in the locusts.

14 The locusts swarmed across the land and settled in every part of the country. There had never been such a swarm of locusts ever before, and there won’t be ever again.

15 They covered the ground until it looked black, and they ate up all the plants in the fields and all the fruit on the trees that had been left by the hail. Not a single green leaf was left on any tree or plant anywhere in Egypt.

16 Pharaoh called urgently for Moses and Aaron and said, “I have sinned against the Lord your God and against you.

17 So please forgive my sin just this one time and plead with the Lord your God, asking him to at least take away this deathly plague from me.”

18 Moses left Pharaoh and prayed to the Lord.

19 The Lord changed the direction of the wind so that a strong westerly wind blew the locusts into the Red Sea. There wasn’t a single locust left anywhere in Egypt.

20 But the Lord made Pharaoh stubborn, and he would not let the Israelites go.

21 The Lord told Moses, “Lift your hand toward the sky so that darkness will fall over Egypt, darkness so thick that it can be felt.”

22 Moses lifted up his hand toward heaven, and the whole of Egypt went completely dark for three days.

23 No one could see anyone else, and no one moved from where they were for three days. But there was still light where all the Israelites lived.

24 Eventually Pharaoh called for Moses. “Go and worship the Lord,” he said. “Just leave your flocks and herds here. You can even take your children with you.”

25 But Moses replied, “You must also let us have animals for sacrifices and burnt offerings, so we can offer them to the Lord our God.

26 Our livestock have to go with us too—not a single animal will be left behind. We’ll need some of them to worship the Lord our God, and we won’t know how we are to worship the Lord until we get there.”

27 But the Lord made Pharaoh stubborn, and he would not let them go.

28 Pharaoh shouted at Moses, “Get out of here! I don’t want to see you ever again! If I ever do see you again you’ll die!”

29 “May it be as you say,” Moses replied. “I won’t see you again.”

² Now go and tell the Israelites, both men and women, to ask their Egyptian neighbors for silver and gold objects.”

⁶ There will be loud cries of mourning all over Egypt, such as have never been before, and will never be again.

⁷ But among all the Israelites there won’t even be the sound of a dog barking at them or their animals. That way you will know that the Lord distinguishes between Egypt and Israel.’

⁸ All your officials will come to me, bowing down before me and saying, ‘Leave, and take everyone who follows you with you!’ After that I will leave.” Moses was very angry, and left Pharaoh.

² “This month will be for you the first month, the first month of your year.

³ Tell all the Israelites that on the tenth day of this month, every man must choose a lamb* for his family, one for each household.

⁵ Your lamb must be a year-old male without any defects, and you can take it either from the sheep or the goats.

⁶ Keep it until the fourteenth day of the month, when all the Israelites will slaughter the animals after sunset and before it gets dark.

⁸ They are to roast the meat over a fire and eat it that night, together with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

* 12:3 “Lamb”: or a young goat—the word used here applies to both.

¹² That very night I will go all through Egypt and kill every firstborn of both people and animals, and I will bring condemnation on all the gods of Egypt. I am the Lord.

¹³ The blood on the houses where you live will mark them out. When I see the blood, I will pass over you. No deathly plague will fall on you to destroy you when I attack Egypt.

¹⁴ This will be a day to remember for you. You are to celebrate it as a festival to the Lord for generations to come. You will observe this for all time to come.

¹⁶ On both the first day and on the seventh day you are to have a holy meeting. You must not work on those days, except to prepare food. That is all you are allowed to do.

¹⁷ You are to keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread because on this very day I led your tribes by their respective divisions out of Egypt. You are to observe this day for all time to come.

¹⁸ In the first month you are to eat bread without yeast from the evening of the fourteenth day until the evening of the twenty-first day.

¹⁹ For seven days there must be no yeast in your houses. If anyone eats something with yeast in it, then they must be excluded from the Israelite community, whether they are a foreigner or native of the land.

²⁰ You must not eat anything with yeast in it. Eat only bread without yeast in all your homes."

²² Get a bunch of hyssop, dip it into the blood in the basin, and put some on the top and sides of the doorframe. None of you are to go out through door of the house until morning.

²³ When the Lord passes through to punish the Egyptians, he will see the blood on the top and sides of the doorframe. He will pass over the door, and he will not allow the destroyer to enter your houses and kill you.

²⁶ When your children come and ask you, 'Why is this ceremony important to you?'

²⁷ you are to tell them, 'This is the Passover sacrifice to the Lord. He was the one who passed over the houses of the Israelites in Egypt when he killed the Egyptians but spared our households.' " The people bowed down in worship.

³⁰ Pharaoh got up during the night, as well as all his officials and all the Egyptians. There were loud cries of agony throughout Egypt, because there wasn't a single house where someone hadn't died.

³¹ Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron during the night and told them, "Get out of here! Leave my people, the two of you and the Israelites! Go, so you can worship the Lord as you have asked.

³² Take your flocks and herds as well, just like you've said, and leave! Oh, and bless me too."

³³ The Egyptians urged the Israelites to leave their country as quickly as possible, saying, "Otherwise we'll all die!"

³⁶ The Lord had made the Egyptians look so favorably on the Israelites that they agreed their request. In this way they took the wealth[†] of the Egyptians.

³⁷ The Israelites set out on foot from Rameses for Succoth and numbered about 600,000 men, as well as women and children.[‡]

³⁸ In addition many foreigners joined them. They also took with them large herds and flocks of livestock.

³⁹ Since their bread dough didn't have any yeast, the Israelites baked what they had brought out of Egypt into loaves without yeast. This was because when they were driven out of Egypt they had to leave in a hurry and didn't have time to prepare food for themselves.

⁴⁰ The Israelites had lived in Egypt for 430 years.

⁴² Because the Lord kept watch that night to lead them out of the land of Egypt, you are to keep watch this same night as an observance to honor the Lord, to be kept by all Israelites for generations to come.

⁴⁵ Foreign visitors or those hired from other nations shall not eat the Passover.

⁴⁶ It has to be eaten inside the house. You are not allowed to take any of the meat outside the house, or to break any of the bones.

⁴⁷ All Israelites are to celebrate it.

⁴⁸ If there's a foreigner lives with you and wants to celebrate the Lord's Passover, all the males in their household have to be circumcised. Then he may come and celebrate it, and he shall be treated like a native of the land. But no man who is not circumcised may eat it.

² “Every firstborn male is to be dedicated to me. The firstborn from every Israelite family belongs to me, and also every firstborn animal.”

³ So Moses told the people, “Remember this is the day you left Egypt, the land of your slavery, for the Lord led you out of it by his amazing power. (Nothing with yeast in it shall be eaten.)

⁷ Only bread without yeast is to be eaten during those seven days. You are not to have any yeast, in fact there is to be no yeast in any place where you live.

⁸ On that day tell your children, ‘This is because of what the Lord did for me when I left Egypt.’

⁹ When you celebrate this ceremony* it will be like a sign on your hand and a reminder between your eyes that this teaching of the Lord should be spoken about regularly. For the Lord led you out of Egypt with his great power.

¹¹ Once the Lord takes you into the land of the Canaanites and gives it to you, as he promised you and your forefathers,

¹³ You must buy back every firstborn donkey with a lamb, and if you don't do so, you have to break its neck. You must buy back every firstborn of your sons.

¹⁴ When in the future your children come to you and ask, ‘Why is this ceremony important to you?’ you are to tell them, ‘The Lord led us out of Egypt, the land of our slavery, by his amazing power.’

¹⁵ Pharaoh stubbornly refused to let us leave, so the Lord killed every firstborn in the land of Egypt, both human and animal. That's the reason why I sacrifice to the Lord the firstborn male of every animal, and I buy back all the firstborn of my sons.’

¹⁶ In this way it will be like a sign on your hand and a reminder between your eyes, for the Lord led us out of Egypt by his amazing power.”

¹⁷ When Pharaoh let the Israelites leave, God did not lead them along the road through the land of the Philistines, even though that was a shorter way. For God said, "If they are forced to fight, they might change their minds and go back to Egypt."

¹⁸ So God led the people by the longer way through the desert towards the Red Sea. When the Israelites left the land of Egypt they were like an army ready for battle.

¹⁹ Moses carried Joseph's bones with him because Joseph had made the sons of Israel swear a solemn promise, saying, "God will definitely take care of you, and then you must take my bones with you when you leave here."

² "Tell the Israelites to turn back and set up camp near Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea. You are to camp beside the sea, opposite Baal-zephon.

³ Pharaoh will conclude about the Israelites: 'They're wandering about the country in confusion—the desert has blocked them from leaving.'

⁴ I will give Pharaoh a stubborn attitude so that he will chase after them to get them back.* But I will gain respect through what happens to Pharaoh and all his army, and the Egyptians will know that I am the Lord." So the Israelites did as they were instructed.

¹¹ They complained to Moses, "Were there no graves in Egypt that you had to bring us out here in the desert to die? What have you done to us by making us leave Egypt?"

¹² Didn't we tell you back in Egypt, 'Leave us alone so that we can go on being slaves to the Egyptians'? It would have been better for us to be Egyptian slaves than to die here in the desert!"

* 14:4 "To get them back": supplied for clarity.

¹³ But Moses said to the people, “Do not be afraid. Stand where you are and you will see how the Lord will save you today. The Egyptians you see right now, you will never see again!

¹⁴ The Lord is going to fight for you—you don’t need to do anything.”

¹⁶ You are to pick up your walking stick and hold it out in your hand over the sea. Divide it so the Israelites can walk through the sea on dry ground.

¹⁷ I will give Egyptians a stubborn, hard-hearted attitude so that they will chase in after them. Then I will gain respect through what happens to Pharaoh and all his army, chariots, and horsemen.

¹⁹ The angel of God, who had been leading the Israelites, moved behind them. The pillar of cloud also moved from in front of them and stood behind them,

²¹ Then Moses held out his hand over the sea, and all through the night the Lord forced the sea back with a strong east wind, and turned the bottom of the sea into dry land. So the water was divided,

²³ The Egyptians chased after them—all Pharaoh’s horses, chariots, and horsemen. They followed the Israelites into the sea.

²⁴ But at the end of the night the Lord looked down on the Egyptian army from the pillar of fire and cloud, and he threw them into a panic.

²⁵ He made their chariot wheels get stuck so it was hard for them to drive. The Egyptians shouted out, “Retreat! We must run from the Israelites because the Lord is fighting for them against us!”

²⁷ So Moses held out his hand over the sea, and at dawn the sea returned to normal. As the Egyptians retreated, the Lord swept them into the sea.

³¹ When the Israelites saw the great power that the Lord had used against the Egyptians, they were in awe of the Lord, and they trusted in him and in his servant Moses.

"I will sing to the Lord, for he is supreme! He has thrown the horses and their riders into the sea.

² The Lord gives me strength. He is the theme of my song. He saves me. He is my God, and I will praise him. He is my father's God, and I will honor him.

⁴ He threw Pharaoh's chariots and his army into the sea. Pharaoh's best officers were drowned in the Red Sea.

⁵ The flooding water covered them. They dropped down into the depths like a stone.

⁷ By your majestic power you destroyed those who opposed you. Your anger blazed out and burned them up like stubble.

⁸ You blew* and the sea piled up. The waves stood straight like a wall. The depths of the ocean turned solid.

⁹ The enemy bragged, 'I will chase them and catch up with them. I will divide the plunder. I will eat them alive. I will swing my sword. By my hand I will destroy them.'

¹² You acted, and the earth swallowed the Egyptians.

¹⁴ The nations will hear what has happened and will shake with fear. The people who live in Philistia will experience agonizing distress.

¹⁶ Terror and fright will fall on them. Lord, because of your great power, they will be as still as stone until your people pass by, until the people you bought pass by.

¹⁷ You will take your people and plant them on the mountain that you own, the place that you, Lord, have prepared as your home, the sanctuary that your hands have built, Lord.

¹⁹ When Pharaoh's horses, chariots, and horsemen went into the sea, the Lord brought the water rushing back over them. But the Israelites walked through the sea on dry ground.

²⁰ Miriam the prophet, Aaron's sister, picked up a tambourine, and all the women followed her dancing and playing tambourines.

²³ When they arrived at Marah, the water there was too bitter to drink. (That's why the place is called Marah.)

²⁴ So the people complained to Moses, asking, "What are we going to drink?"

* 15:8 Literally, "by the breath of your nostrils."

²⁵ Moses called out to the Lord for help, and the Lord showed him a piece of wood. When he threw it into the water, it became sweet.

There the Lord gave them rules and instructions and also tested their loyalty to him.[†]

²⁶ He told them, "If you pay attention to what the Lord your God says, do what is right in his sight, obey his commands, and keep all his regulations, then I will not make you suffer from any of the diseases I gave the Egyptians because I am the Lord who heals you."

³ "The Lord should've killed us back in Egypt!" the Israelites told them. "At least there we could sit down beside stewpots of meat and eat bread until we were full. But you had to bring all of us out here in the desert to starve us all to death!"

⁴ The Lord told Moses, "Just watch! I'm going to rain down bread from heaven for you! Each day the people are to go out and collect enough for that day. I'm going to test them by this to find out whether they'll follow my instructions or not.

⁵ On the sixth day they are to collect twice as much as usual and prepare it."

⁶ So Moses and Aaron explained to all the Israelites, "This evening you will have the proof that it was the Lord who led you out of Egypt,

⁷ and in the morning you will see the glory of the Lord displayed as he responds to the complaints he's heard you making against him. For why should you be complaining to us? We're nobodies!"

⁸ Then Moses continued, "The Lord is going to give you meat to eat this evening and as much bread as you want in the morning, for he has heard your complaints against him. Why are you complaining to us nobodies? Your complaints aren't directed against us, but against the Lord."

¹¹ The Lord told Moses,

¹² "I have heard the complaints of the Israelites. Tell them, 'In the evening you will eat meat, and in the morning you will have as much bread as you want. Then you will know that I am the Lord your God.' "

¹⁵ When the Israelites saw it, they asked each another, "What is it?" because they had no idea what it was.

[†] 15:25 "Loyalty to him": supplied for clarity.

So Moses explained to them, "It's the bread the Lord has provided for you to eat.

¹⁶ This is what the Lord has ordered you to do: 'All of you shall collect as much as is needed. Take an omer for each person in your tent.' "

¹⁷ So the Israelites did as they were told. Some collected more, while others collected less.

¹⁸ But when they measured it out in omers, those who had collected a lot didn't have any left over, while those who had only collected a little still had enough. Each person collected gathered as much as they needed to eat.

²⁰ But some didn't listen to Moses. They did leave some of it until the morning, and it was full of maggots and smelled bad. Moses became angry with them.

²² However, on the sixth day, they collected twice as much of this food, two omers for each person. All the Israelite leaders came and told Moses what they had done.

²⁴ So they kept it until morning as Moses had ordered, and it didn't smell bad or have any maggots.

²⁵ Moses told them, "Eat it today, because today is a Sabbath to honor the Lord. Today you won't find anything out there.

²⁹ You need to understand that the Lord has given you the Sabbath, so on the sixth day he will provide you with food for two days. On the seventh day, everyone has to stay where they are—no one needs to go out."

³¹ The Israelites called the food manna.* It was white like coriander seed and tasted like wafers with honey.

³² Moses said, "This is what the Lord has ordered: 'Keep an omer of manna as a reminder for future generations, so that they can see the food I used to feed you in the desert when I led you out of Egypt.' "

³³ So Moses told Aaron, "Take a jar† and put an omer of manna in it. Then place it before the Lord to be kept as a reminder for future generations."

* 16:31 Meaning, "What is it?" See verse 15. † 16:33 In Hebrews 9:4 it is referred to as a "golden jar." Whether this is the original container is not certain.

³⁵ The Israelites ate manna forty years, until they came to the land where they would settle down—they ate manna until they arrived at the border of Canaan.

² Some of them came and complained to Moses, saying, "Give us water to drink!" Moses replied,

"Why are you complaining to me?" Moses asked. "Why are you trying to challenge the Lord?"

³ But the people were so thirsty for water there that they went on complaining to Moses, saying, "Why did you have to bring us out of Egypt? Are you trying to kill us and our children and livestock by thirst?"

⁴ Moses cried out to the Lord, "What am I going to do with these people? A bit more of this and they're going to stone me!"

⁵ The Lord told Moses, "Go ahead of the people, and take some of the elders of Israel with you. Take with you the walking stick you used to hit the Nile, and just go on ahead.

⁶ Look, I will stand there beside you by the rock at Horeb. When you hit the rock water will pour out for the people to drink." So Moses did this as the elders of Israel watched.

⁷ He called the place Massah and Meribah* because the Israelites argued there, and because they challenged the Lord, saying, "Is the Lord with us, or not?"

¹¹ As long as Moses held up the walking stick† his hands, the Israelites were the ones winning, but when he lowered them, it was the Amalekites.

¹² So when Moses' hands became heavy, the others took a stone and put it under him for him to sit on. Aaron and Hur stood on each side of Moses and held his hands up. In this way his hands were kept firmly up until the sun went down.

¹³ As a result Joshua defeated the Amalekite army.

¹⁴ The Lord told Moses, "Write all this down on a scroll as a reminder and read it out loud to Joshua, because I'm going to completely wipe out the Amalekites so nobody on earth will remember them."

¹⁵ Moses built an altar and called it "the Lord is my banner of victory."

[‡] 16:34 The meaning of this term in the context is uncertain. It usually refers to the two tablets of the Ten Commandments (see 25:16, 40:20 etc.) The pot of manna was eventually placed in the Ark of the Agreement together with the stone tablets of the Ten Commandments, but neither had yet been made (see chapters 25 and 26).

* 17:7 Massah means "testing" and Meribah means "complaining." † 17:11 "The walking stick": implied.

¹ Moses' father-in-law Jethro,^{*} the priest of Midian, heard about everything God had done for Moses and his people the Israelites, and how the Lord had led them out of Egypt.

³ together with her two sons. One son was named Gershom,[†] for Moses had said, “I have been a foreigner in a foreign land.”

⁴ The other son was named Eliezer,[‡] because Moses had said, “The God of my father was my helper, and saved me from death at Pharaoh's hand.”

⁵ Moses' father-in-law Jethro, together with Moses' wife and sons, came to see him in the desert at the camp near the mountain of God.

⁷ Moses went out to meet his father-in-law and bowed down and kissed him. They asked each other how they were and then went into the tent.

⁸ Moses told his father-in-law about everything the Lord had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians on behalf of the Israelites, about all the troubles they had experienced on the way, and about how the Lord had saved them.

¹⁰ Jethro announced, “May the Lord be blessed, who saved you from the Egyptians and from Pharaoh.”

¹¹ This is so convincing to me that the Lord is greater than all other gods, for he saved the people from the Egyptians when they acted so arrogantly towards the Israelites.”

¹⁴ When his father-in-law saw everything that Moses was doing for the people, he asked, “What's all this you're doing for the people? Why are you sitting alone as judge, with everyone presenting their cases to you from morning to evening?”

¹⁶ “When they argue over something, the case is brought before me to decide between one them, and I explain to them the God's laws and regulations.”

¹⁸ You, and these people who come to you, are all going to wear yourselves out, because the workload is far too heavy. You can't handle it alone.

[‡] 17:16 Or “a hand was lifted up towards the Lord's throne.” The Hebrew is unclear. ^{*} 18:1 Also called Reuel in chapter 2. [†] 18:3 See 2:22. [‡] 18:4 Meaning, “my God is my help.”

¹⁹ So please listen to me. I'm going to give you some advice, and God will be with you. Yes, you must continue to be the people's representative before God, and take their cases to him.

²² These men are to judge the people on a continuing basis. Major issues they can bring to you, but they can decide all the small matters themselves. In this way your burden will be made lighter as they share it with you.

²³ If you follow my advice, and if it's what God tells you to do, then you will be able to survive, and all these people can go home satisfied that their cases have been heard.”§

²⁴ Moses listened to what his father-in-law said and followed all his advice.

² They had set out from Rephidim, and after they entered the Sinai desert they camped there in front of the mountain.

³ Moses went up the mountain to God. The Lord spoke to Moses from the mountain, and told him, “This is what you are to say to the descendants of Jacob, the Israelites:

⁵ Now if you really obey what I say and keep the agreement with me, then out of all the nations you will be a special people that belong to me. While the whole world is mine,

⁶ for me you will be a kingdom of priests, a holy nation.’ This is what you are to tell the Israelites.”

⁹ The Lord told Moses, “Look! I'm going to come to you in a thick cloud so the people will hear me speaking with you and as a result they will always trust you.” Then Moses reported to the Lord what the people had said.

§ 18:23 “Satisfied that their cases have been heard”: literally, “in peace.” The word shalom however means more than peace, it also has the meaning of well-being and harmony within the community. * 19:1 “Two months to the day”: literally, “on the day of the third new moon.”

¹⁰ The Lord told Moses, “Go back down and prepare them spiritually† today and tomorrow. They must wash their clothes

¹⁵ He instructed the people, “Get ready for the third day, and don’t be intimate with‡ a woman.”

¹⁶ When morning came on the third day there was thunder and lightning, and a thick cloud covered the mountain. There was the very loud sound of a ram’s horn, and everyone in the camp shook with fear.

¹⁷ Moses led the people out from the camp to meet God. They stood at the foot of the mountain.

¹⁹ As the sound of the ram’s horn grew louder and louder, Moses spoke, and God answered him in a loud, thunderous voice.

²⁰ The Lord descended on the top of Mount Sinai, and he called Moses to come up there. So Moses went up,

²¹ and the Lord told him, “Go back down, and warn the people not to force their way across the boundary to try to come to the Lord or they will die.

²² Even the priests, who come before the Lord, must prepare themselves spiritually, so that the Lord does not punish them.”

²³ But Moses said to the Lord, “The people cannot come up Mount Sinai. You yourself warned us, ‘Set up a boundary around the mountain, and treat it as holy.’”§

²⁴ The Lord told him, “Go down and bring Aaron back up with you. But the priests and the people must not force their way to come up to the Lord, or he will punish them.”

²⁵ So Moses went down and explained to the people what the Lord had said.*

² “I am the Lord your God, who led you out of Egypt, out of the land of your slavery.

† 19:10 “Prepare them spiritually”: literally, “consecrate, set apart,” probably through some religious rituals. Also in verses 14 and 22. ‡ 19:15 “Don’t be intimate with”: literally, “don’t go near a woman.”

§ 19:23 “Treat it as holy”: the same word is used as for the people making them spiritually prepared, consecrated. Clearly however an inanimate object such as a mountain cannot be “consecrated” in the same way as a person. *

19:25 “What the Lord had said”: supplied for clarity.

⁴ You must not make for yourself any kind of idol, whether in the form of anything in the heavens above, or on the earth beneath, or in the waters below.

⁵ You must not bow down before them or worship them; for I am the Lord your God and I am passionately exclusive. I lay the consequences of the sin of those who hate me on their sons, grandsons, and great-grandsons;

⁶ but I show trustworthy love to the thousands of generations who love me and keep my commandments.

⁷ You must not use the name of the Lord your God in a wrong way, for the Lord will not forgive anyone who uses his name in a wrong way.

⁸ Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

¹⁰ but the seventh day is the Sabbath to honor the Lord your God. On this day you must not do any work—not you, not your son or daughter, not your male slave or female slave or livestock, and not the foreigner who is staying with you.

¹¹ For the Lord made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and everything in them in six days, and then rested on the seventh day. That's why the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and made it holy.

¹² Honor your father and mother, so that you may live a long time in the land that the Lord your God is giving you.

¹³ You must not murder.

¹⁴ You must not commit adultery.

¹⁵ You must not steal.

¹⁶ You must not give false evidence against others.

¹⁷ You must not desire to have anyone else's house. You must not desire to have their wife, or their male slave or female slave, or their ox or donkey, or anything else that belongs to them."

¹⁸ When all the people heard the thunder and the sound of the trumpet, and saw the lightning and the smoke from the mountain, they trembled with fear and stood a long way off.

¹⁹ "You speak to us, and we'll listen," they said to Moses. "But don't let God speak to us, or we'll die."

²⁰ Moses told them, "Do not be afraid, for God has only come to test you. He wants you to be in awe of him so that you don't sin."

²⁴ Make me an altar of earth, and sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and peace offerings, your sheep, goats, and cattle. Wherever I decide to be worshiped, I will come to you and bless you.

² If you buy a Hebrew slave, he is to work for you for six years. But in the seventh year, he is to be freed without having to pay anything.

³ If he was single when he came, he is to leave single. If he had a wife when he came, she is to leave with him.

⁴ If his master provides him a wife and she has children with him, the woman and her children shall belong to her master, and only the man shall be freed.

⁷ If a man sells his daughter as a slave, she is not to be freed in the same way as male slaves.

⁸ If the man who chose her for himself† is not pleased with her, he must let her be bought back. He is not permitted to sell her to foreigners, since he has been unfair to her.

⁹ If he chooses to give her to his son, he must treat her as a daughter.

¹¹ If he doesn't give her these three things, she is free to leave without paying anything.

¹² Anyone who hits and kills someone else must be executed.

¹³ However, if it wasn't intentional and God let it happen, then I will arrange a place for you where they can run to and be safe.

¹⁵ Anyone who hits their father or mother must be executed.

¹⁶ Anyone who kidnaps someone else must be executed, whether the victim is sold or is still in their possessions.

¹⁷ Anyone who despises their father or mother must be executed.

¹⁸ If men are fighting and one hits the other with a stone or with his fist, and the injured man doesn't die but has to stay in bed,

¹⁹ and then gets up and walks around outside with his walking stick, then the one who hit him won't be punished. Even so, he must still compensate the man for the time lost from his work and make sure that he's completely healed.

²⁰ Anyone who hits their male or female slave with a rod, and the slave dies as a result, must be punished.

²¹ However, if after a day or two the slave gets better, the owner won't be punished because the slave is their property.

²² If men who are fighting happen to hit a pregnant woman so she gives birth prematurely,§ but no serious injury occurs, he must be fined

* 21:6 The word used here also can refer to God, but in this context it seems a civil court is what is being referred to. Also in 22:8, 9. † 21:8 “Chose her for himself”: probably meaning she was a concubine. ‡ 21:14 “From my altar”: where people went to claim sanctuary. § 21:22 “Gives birth prematurely”: or, “has a miscarriage.”

²³ But if a serious injury does occur, then you must pay a life for a life,

²⁶ Anyone who hits their male or female slave in the eye and blinds them must free the slave as compensation for the eye.

²⁸ If an ox uses its horns to kill a man or woman, the ox must be stoned to death, and its meat must not be eaten. But the owner of the ox won't be punished.

²⁹ But if the ox has repeatedly hurt people with its horns, and its owner has been warned but still doesn't keep it under control, and it kills a man or woman, then the ox must be stoned to death and its owner must also be executed.

³¹ If the ox uses its horns and kills a son or a daughter the same rule is applicable.

³⁴ the owner of the pit must pay compensation to the animal's owner and keep the dead animal.

³⁵ If someone's ox injures another's ox and it dies, they must sell the live one and share money received; they must also share the dead animal.

¹ "Anyone who steals an ox or a sheep and kills or sells it, he must pay back five oxen for one ox and four sheep for one sheep.

² If a thief is discovered breaking into someone's house and is beaten to death, no one shall be guilty of murder.

³ But if it happens during daylight, then someone is guilty of murder. A thief must pay everything back that's stolen. If he doesn't have anything, then he must be sold to pay for what was stolen.

⁶ If a fire is started and it spreads to thorn bushes and then burns stacked or standing grain, or even the whole field, the person who started the fire must pay full compensation.

⁸ If the thief isn't caught the owner of the house must appear before the judges to find out whether he took his neighbor's property.

⁹ If there's an argument over the ownership of an ox, a donkey, a sheep, a garment, or anything that was lost that someone says, 'This is mine,' both parties are to bring their case before the judges. The one whom the judges find in the wrong must pay the other back double.

¹⁰ If someone asks a neighbor to look after a donkey, an ox, a sheep, or any other animal, but it dies or is injured or is stolen without anybody noticing,

¹¹ then an oath must be taken before the Lord to decide if the neighbor has taken the owner's property. The owner must accept the oath and not demand compensation.

¹² However, if the animal really was stolen from the neighbor, he must compensate the owner.

¹³ If it was killed and torn to pieces by a wild animal, the neighbor shall present the carcass as evidence and does not need to pay compensation.

¹⁴ If someone borrows a neighbor's animal and it's injured or dies while its owner is not present, they must pay compensation in full.

¹⁶ If a man seduces a virgin who is not engaged to be married and sleeps with her, he must pay the full bride-price for her to become his wife.

¹⁷ If her father adamantly refuses to give her to him, the man still must pay the same amount as the bride-price for a virgin.

¹⁹ Anyone who has sex with an animal must be executed.

²⁰ Anyone who sacrifices to any other god than the Lord must be set apart and executed.*

²¹ You must not exploit or mistreat a foreigner. Remember that you yourselves were once foreigners in Egypt.

²² You must not take advantage of any widow or orphan.

²⁴ I will become angry, and I will kill you with the sword. Your wives will become widows and your children will be fatherless.

²⁶ If you require your neighbor's cloak as security for a loan, you must return it to him by sunset,

* 22:20 "Set apart and executed": the term used here means "devoted to destruction" in the sense they now are to suffer God's punishment.

²⁷ because it's the only clothing he has for his body. What would he sleep in otherwise? If he calls out to me for help, I will listen, for I am considerate.

²⁸ You must not despise God or curse your people's leader.

³⁰ You must also give me the firstborn of your cattle, sheep, and goats. They can stay with their mothers for their first seven days, but give them to me on the eighth day.

² Don't follow the crowd in doing wrong. When you give evidence in a lawsuit, don't corrupt justice by siding with the majority.

⁵ If you see the donkey of someone who hates you that has fallen under its load, don't just leave it there. You must stop and help.

⁷ Don't have anything to do with making false accusations. Don't kill the innocent or those who do right, for I won't let the guilty go unpunished.

⁸ Don't accept bribes, for a bribe blinds those who can see, and undermines the evidence of the honest.

¹² You have six days to do your work, but on the seventh day you must stop working, so that your ox and your donkey can rest, and your slaves' families can catch their breath, as well as the foreigners living among you.

¹⁵ You are to observe the Festival of Unleavened Bread as I instructed you.[‡] You are to eat bread without yeast for seven days at the appropriate time in the month of Abib, because that was the month you left Egypt. No one can come before me without bringing an offering.

[†] 22:29 "Olive oil, and wine": literally, "best drippings." * 23:3 "Either": supplied for clarity. Justice has to be even-handed, so showing favoritism to any party is wrong. However, the more usual problem is the denial of justice to the poor (see for example verse 6). [†] 23:11 "What grows naturally": supplied for clarity. [‡] 23:15 See chapter 13.

¹⁷ Every Israelite male is to come before the Lord God at these three times every year.

¹⁸ You must not offer the blood of my sacrifices together with anything that contains yeast, and the fat from the offerings presented at my festival must not be left until morning.

¹⁹ Bring the best firstfruits of your crops to the house of the Lord your God. Don't cook a young goat in its mother's milk.

²⁰ Look, I'm sending an angel ahead of you to protect you on the way and to take you to the place I've prepared for you.

²² However, if you listen to him carefully, and do everything that I tell you, then I will be an enemy to your enemies and I will fight those who fight against you.

²³ For my angel will go ahead of you and take you into the land of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hivites, and Jebusites, and I will wipe them out.

²⁴ You must not bow down to their gods or worship them or follow their pagan practices. No, you must demolish their idols and smash their sacred pillars into pieces.

²⁵ You are to worship the Lord your God, and he will bless your food and water. I will make sure none of you fall sick.

²⁶ No woman will have a miscarriage or be without children. I will make sure you live long lives.

²⁷ I will send terror about me ahead of you which will throw every nation you meet into panic. I will make all your enemies turn and run away.

³¹ I will fix your borders from the Red Sea to the Sea of the Philistines,[‡] and from the desert to the Euphrates River. I will hand the inhabitants of the land over to you, and you will drive them out.

³³ They must not be allowed to stay in your land, otherwise they will lead you to sin against me. For if you worship their gods, they will definitely become a trap for you."

[§] 23:16 The more familiar name, given later, is the Festival of Shelters. * 23:21 "Carries my authority": literally, "my name is in his midst." † 23:28 "Hornets": the meaning of the word used here is debated. Some see it in a similar way to the "terror" of the previous verse that causes panic. ‡ 23:31 "Sea of the Philistines": the Mediterranean.

¹ The Lord told Moses, “Come up to the Lord—you and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of Israel’s elders. You are to worship at a distance.

² Only Moses may approach the Lord—the others must not come near. The people may not go up the mountain* with him.”

³ Moses went and told the people all the Lord’s instructions and regulations. They all responded together: “We will do everything the Lord says!”

⁵ Then he sent out some young Israelite men who went and offered burnt offerings and sacrificed young bulls as peace offerings to the Lord.

⁷ Then he picked up the Book of the Agreement and read it to the people. They replied, “We will do everything the Lord says. We will obey.”

⁸ So Moses took the blood, sprinkled it on the people, and said, “Look, this is the blood of the agreement that the Lord has made with you following these terms.”

⁹ Then Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of Israel’s elders climbed up the mountain,

¹¹ But God did not harm† the leaders of Israel—they saw him, and they ate and drank a sacred meal.‡

¹² Then the Lord told Moses, “Come up the mountain to me, and stay here, so I can give you the stone tablets, with the instructions and commands I have written for them to learn.”

¹⁴ He told the elders, “Stay here and wait for us to return. Aaron and Hur are with you. If anyone has a problem, they can talk with them.”

¹⁵ As Moses climbed up on the mountain, the cloud covered it

¹⁶ The Lord’s glory came down on Mount Sinai, covering it for six days. On the seventh day the Lord called to Moses from inside the cloud.

¹⁷ To the Israelites the Lord’s glory looked like a burning fire on the top of the mountain.

² “Instruct the Israelites to bring me an offering. You are to receive my offering from everyone who willingly wants to give.

³ These are the items you are to accept from them as contributions: gold, silver, and bronze;

* 24:2 “The mountain”: supplied for clarity. † 24:11 “Harm”: this was because of the expectation that anyone who saw God would die (Genesis 32:30; Judges 6:22), endorsed by God himself (33:20)

‡ 24:11 “A sacred meal”: supplied for clarity.

⁵ ram skins that have been tanned, and fine leather; acacia wood;
⁶ olive oil for the lamps; spices for the olive oil used in anointing and for the fragrant incense;

⁹ You must make the Tabernacle* and all its furnishings according to design I'm going to show you.

¹⁰ They are to make an Ark of acacia wood that measures two and a half cubits long by a cubit and a half wide by one and a half cubits high.

¹⁷ You are to make an atonement cover† of pure gold, two and a half cubits long by a cubit and a half wide.

²⁰ The cherubim are to be designed with spread wings pointing upward, covering the atonement cover. The cherubim are to be placed facing each another, looking down towards the atonement cover.

²¹ Place the atonement cover on top of the Ark, and put the Testimony that I'm going to give you inside the Ark.

²² I will meet with you there as arranged above the atonement cover, between the two cherubim that stand over the Ark of the Testimony, and I will talk with you about all the commands I will give the Israelites.

²³ Then you are to make a table of acacia wood two cubits long by a cubit wide by a cubit and a half high.

²⁶ Make four gold rings for the table and attach them to the four corners of the table by the legs.

* 25:9 The English word "Tabernacle" comes from the Latin for "tent," and translates the Hebrew which refers to a residence or dwelling place. † 25:17 "Atonement cover": the word used here means to "cover over," in the sense of dealing with sins. The traditional translation of "mercy seat" originated with Martin Luther. From a physical viewpoint it was the "lid" of the Ark. ‡ 25:18 A kind of angel.

²⁹ Make plates and dishes for the table, as well as pitchers and bowls for pouring out drink offerings. Make all of them out of pure gold.

³⁰ Place the Bread of the Presence on the table so it is always in my presence.

³² It is to have six branches coming out of the sides of the lampstand, three on each side.

³³ Have three cups shaped like almond flowers on the first branch, each with buds and petals, three on the next branch. Each of six branches that come out will have three cups shaped like almond flowers, all complete with buds and petals.

³⁴ On the main shaft of the lampstand make four cups shaped like almond flowers, complete with buds and petals.

³⁵ On the six branches that come out from the lampstand, place a bud under the first pair of branches, a bud under the second pair, and a bud under the third pair.

³⁷ Make seven lamps and place them on the lampstand so they can light up the area in front of it.

³⁹ The lampstand and all these utensils will require a talent of pure gold.

² Each curtain is to measure twenty-eight cubits long by four cubits wide, and all the curtains are to be the same size.

⁴ Use blue material to make loops on the edge of the last curtain of both sets.

⁵ Make fifty loops on one curtain and fifty loops on the last curtain of the second set, lining up the loops with each another.

⁶ Then make fifty gold clips and join the curtains together with the clips, so that the Tabernacle will be a single structure.

⁸ Each of the eleven curtains is to be the same size—thirty cubits long by four cubits wide.

⁹ Join five of the curtains together as one set and the other six as another set. Then fold the sixth curtain in two at the front of the tent.

¹⁰ Make fifty loops on the edge of the last curtain in the first set, and fifty loops along the edge of the last curtain in the second set.

¹³ The tent curtains will be a cubit longer on every side, and the extra length will hang over the sides of the Tabernacle so it is all covered.

¹⁴ Make a covering for the goat hair tent from tanned ram skins, and place an extra covering of fine leather over that.

¹⁶ Each frame is to be ten cubits long by one and a half cubits wide.

¹⁷ Each frame will have two pegs so the frames can be connected to each other. Make all the frames of the Tabernacle like this.

²⁰ Similarly for the north side of the Tabernacle, make twenty frames and forty silver stands, two stands per frame.

²³ along with two frames for its two back corners.

²⁴ Join these corner frames at the bottom and at the top near to the first ring. This is how you are to make the two corner frames.

²⁶ Make five crossbars of acacia wood to hold together the frames on the south side of the Tabernacle,

²⁸ The central crossbar which is placed halfway up the frames will run from one end to the other.

³⁷ Make five posts of acacia wood with gold hooks to hang the screen, and cast five bronze stands to hold them.

¹ Make an altar of acacia wood. It is to be square and measure five cubits long by five cubits wide by three cubits high.

* 26:33 "Clips": see verse 6.

² Make horns for each of its corners, all one piece with the altar, and cover the whole altar with bronze.

³ Make all its utensils of bronze: buckets for removing ashes, shovels, sprinkling bowls, meat forks, and firepans.

⁴ Make a bronze mesh grate for it with a bronze ring on each of its corners.

⁵ Put the grate under the ledge of the altar, so that the mesh comes halfway down the altar.

⁸ Make the altar hollow, using boards, just as you were shown on the mountain.

⁹ Make a courtyard for the Tabernacle. For the south side of the courtyard make curtains of finely-spun linen, a hundred cubits long on one side,

¹¹ Similarly there are to be curtains placed on the north side in an identical arrangement.

¹² The curtains for the west side of the courtyard are to be fifty cubits wide, with ten posts and ten stands.

¹³ The east side of the courtyard that faces the sunrise is to be fifty cubits wide.

¹⁴ Make the curtains on one side fifteen cubits long, with three posts and three stands,

¹⁵ and the curtains on the other side just the same.

¹⁷ All the posts around the courtyard are to have silver bands, silver hooks, and bronze stands.

¹⁸ The whole courtyard is to be a hundred cubits long and fifty cubits wide, with curtains made of finely-spun linen five cubits high, and with bronze stands.

² You are to have holy clothing made for your brother Aaron to make him look splendid and dignified.

³ You are to give instructions to all the skilful workers, to those who have received from me their abilities, as to how to make clothing for Aaron's dedication, so that he can serve me as priest.

⁷ Two shoulder pieces are to be attached to the front and back pieces.

⁸ The waistband of the ephod is to be one piece made in the same way, using gold thread, with blue, purple, and crimson thread, and with finely-woven linen.

¹¹ Engrave the names on the two stones the same way a jeweler engraves a personal seal. Then place the stones in ornamental gold settings.

¹³ Make ornamental gold settings

¹⁴ and two braided chains of pure gold, and fasten these chains to the settings.

¹⁵ You are also to make a breastpiece for decisions† in the same skilful way as the ephod, to be used in determining the Lord's will. Make it using gold thread, with blue, purple, and crimson thread, and with finely-woven linen.

¹⁶ It has to be square when folded, measuring around nine inches‡ in length and width.

²¹ Each of the twelve stones will be engraved like a personal seal with the name of one of the twelve Israelite tribes and will represent them.

²³ Make two gold rings and fasten them to the two top corners of the breastpiece.

²⁴ Attach the two gold chains to the two gold rings on the corners of the breastpiece,

* 28:10 "In birth order": literally, "as their generations." † 28:15 "Of decision": the breastpiece was to hold the Urim and the Thummin used for determining the Lord's will and decisions on different questions (see verse 30). ‡ 28:16 "Nine inches": literally, "a span," the distance between thumb and little finger when the hand is stretched. § 28:17 None of the following stones are identified with certainty.

²⁸ Tie the rings of the breastpiece to the rings of the ephod with a cord of blue thread, so that the breastpiece won't come loose from the ephod.

²⁹ Like this, whenever Aaron enters the Holy Place, he will wear the names of the Israelite tribes over his heart on the breastpiece, as a constant reminder before the Lord.

³⁰ Place the Urim and Thummim in the breastpiece of decision, so that they too will be over Aaron's heart whenever he comes into the Lord's presence. Aaron will continually carry the means of gaining decisions* over his heart before the Lord.

³² with an opening in the middle at the top. Stitch a woven collar around the opening to strengthen it so it won't tear.

³³ Make pomegranates using blue, purple, and crimson thread and attach them all the way around its hem, with gold bells between them,

³⁴ having the gold bells and the pomegranates alternate.

³⁵ Aaron is to wear the robe whenever he serves, and the sound it makes will be heard when he enters or leaves the sanctuary as he goes into the Lord's presence, so that he won't die.

³⁶ Make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it like a seal, "Holy to the Lord."

⁴³ Aaron and his sons are to wear them when they enter the Tent of Meeting or when they approach the altar to serve in the Holy Place, so that they will not bring guilt on themselves and die. This is a law for Aaron and his descendants forever.

29

¹ Now this is how you are to proceed to dedicate them to serve me as priests. Take a young bull and two rams with no defects.

* 28:30 "Means of gaining decisions": referring to the Urim and the Thummim.

² Then using the best wheat flour, make the following without yeast: bread, cakes mixed with olive oil, and wafers sprinkled with olive oil.

³ Put them all in a basket, and bring them as an offering, along with the bull and the two rams.

⁵ Take the clothes and put them on Aaron: the tunic, the robe of the ephod, the ephod itself, and the breastpiece. Tie the ephod on him with its waistband.

⁸ Then have his sons come and put the tunics on them.

¹⁰ Take the bull to the front of the Tent of Meeting, and Aaron and his sons are to place their hands on its head.

¹¹ Then slaughter the bull in the Lord's presence at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

¹² Take some of the bull's blood and smear it on the horns of the altar with your finger. Then pour out the rest of the blood at the base of the altar.

¹³ Take all the fat that covers the intestines, the best parts‡ of the liver, and the two kidneys with their fat, and burn them on the altar.

¹⁶ Slaughter the ram, take its blood, and splash it all around the altar.

¹⁹ Then have Aaron and his sons place their hands the head of the other ram.

²² Take the fat from the ram, including the fat of its broad tail, the fat covering the intestines, the best parts of the liver, the two kidneys with their fat, as well as the right thigh (because this is a ram for ordination).

* 29:4 This was a ceremonial cleansing, not like normal daily washing. † 29:6 This clearly relates to the engraved plate of gold mentioned in 28:36-38, but here is called a "crown" or "diadem," and so something more extensive may be involved. ‡ 29:13 "Best parts": this appears to refer to the omentum.

²³ Also take one loaf of bread, one cake of bread made with olive oil, and one wafer from the basket of bread made without yeast that is in the Lord's presence.

²⁴ Give all of them to Aaron and his sons to wave[§] before the Lord as a wave offering.

²⁵ Then take the different breads back and burn them on the altar on top of the burnt offering to the Lord to be accepted by him.

²⁶ Take the breast of the ram of Aaron's ordination and wave it before the Lord as a wave offering. This is the part you can keep.*

²⁷ Set apart for Aaron and his sons the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the offering that is lifted up, both taken from the ram of ordination.

²⁸ From now on whenever the Israelites lift up peace offerings to the Lord, these parts will belong to Aaron and his sons forever as a regular share from the Israelites.

²⁹ The holy garments that Aaron has will be passed down to his descendants, so they can wear them when they're anointed and ordained.

³¹ Take the ram of ordination and boil its meat in a holy place.

³² Aaron and his sons are to eat the ram's meat, and the bread that is in the basket, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

³³ They are to eat the meat and the bread that were part of the offerings that symbolized the forgiveness required‡ for their ordination and dedication. No one else may eat them, because they are holy.

³⁴ If any of the meat of ordination or any bread remains until the morning, burn what's left. It must not be eaten, because it's holy.

³⁵ This is the process you are to follow for Aaron and his sons, observing all the instructions I have given you. It will take seven days to ordain them.

³⁶ Every day you are to sacrifice a bull as a sin offering for forgiveness. When you do this the altar needs to be purified. Anoint it to make it holy.

³⁷ For seven days you shall purify the altar and consecrate it. Then the altar will become completely holy, and everything that touches the altar will become holy.

³⁹ In the morning offer one lamb, and offer the other one in the evening before it gets dark.§

§ 29:24 Some scholars believe that instead of "waving" the offering before the Lord, it was lifted up to him. However, this would seem to be the same as what is traditionally called the "heave" offering.

* 29:26 This portion from then on was reserved for the priests. † 29:30 "Of his ordination": supplied for clarity. ‡ 29:33 "That symbolized the forgiveness required": expanded for clarity. The Hebrew word is simply "to cover over," used to describe forgiveness and reconciliation.

⁴¹ Then offer the second lamb in the evening, with the same grain and drink offerings as in the morning, a burnt offering to the Lord and accepted by him.

⁴² These burnt offerings will be made continually for all generations at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting in the Lord's presence. I will meet you there to speak with you.

⁴³ I will meet with the Israelites there, and that place will be made holy by my glory.

⁴⁴ In this way I will dedicate the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and I will dedicate Aaron and his sons to serve me as priests.

⁴⁶ They will know that I am the Lord their God, who led them out of Egypt, so that I could live with them. I am the Lord their God.

² It shall be square, measuring a cubit by a cubit, by two cubits high, with horns on its corners that are all one piece with the altar.

³ Cover its top, its side, and its horns with pure gold, and make a gold trim to go all around it.

⁶ Put the altar in front of the veil that hangs before the Ark of the Testimony and the atonement cover that is over the Testimony† where I will meet with you.

⁷ Aaron is to burn fragrant incense on the altar every morning when he takes care of the lamps.

⁸ When he lights the lamps in the evening he must burn incense again so that incense will always be burned in the Lord's presence for generations to come.

* 30:1 This is in addition to the altar mentioned in chapter 27. † 30:6 "Testimony": referring to the tablets of stone inscribed with the Ten Commandments. ‡ 30:9 "Unapproved incense": in other words, incense not prepared according to the instructions given in verses 34-38. § 30:10 "Atonement": the Hebrew word is associated with the concept of "covering" sin, in other words, taking care of it. In this way people are reconciled to God and become "at one" with him. Note that the problem is not on God's side, but with rebellious humanity, estranged from God, treating him as an enemy.

¹³ Each one who crosses over to those counted* must give a half shekel, (using the sanctuary shekel standard, which weighs twenty gerahs). This half shekel is an offering to the Lord.

¹⁴ This offering to the Lord is required from everyone twenty years old and more.

¹⁵ When you give this offering to buy back your lives the rich are not to give more than a half shekel and the poor are not to give less.

¹⁶ Take this money paid by the Israelites and use it for the expenses involved in the services of the Tent of Meeting. It will serve as a reminder for the Israelites to buy back your lives in the presence of the Lord."

¹⁷ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁸ "Make a bronze basin with a bronze stand for washing. Place it between the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and put water in it.

¹⁹ Aaron and his sons will use it to wash their hands and feet.

²⁰ Whenever they enter the Tent of Meeting, they are to wash with water so that they will not die. When they approach the altar to present burnt offerings to the Lord,

²¹ they must also wash so that they will not die. This requirement is to be observed by them and their descendants for all generations."

²³ "Take the best quality spices: 500 shekels of liquid myrrh, 250 shekels of sweet-smelling cinnamon, 250 shekels of aromatic reed,

²⁴ 500 shekels of cassia, (weights using the sanctuary shekel standard), and a hin of olive oil.

²⁵ Mix these together into holy anointing oil, an aromatic blend like the product of an expert perfumer. Use it as holy anointing oil.

²⁶ Use it to anoint the Tent of Meeting, the Ark of the Testimony,

²⁸ the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils, and the basin plus its stand.

³⁰ Anoint Aaron and his sons too and dedicate them to serve as priests for me.

³¹ Tell the Israelites, "This is to be my holy anointing oil for all generations to come.

³² Don't use it on ordinary people and don't make anything like it using the same formula. It is holy, and you must treat it as being holy.

³³ Anyone who mixes anointing oil like it, or puts it on someone other than a priest,† will be expelled from their people.' "

* 30:13 Clearly there was some process by which as people moved from the "uncounted" group to the "counted" group the payment was made. † 30:33 "Someone other than a priest": literally, "a stranger."

³⁶ Grind some of it into powder and place it in front of the Ark of the Testimony in the Tent of Meeting, where I will meet with you. It shall be especially holy to you.

³⁷ Don't make for yourselves any incense like it using the same formula. You are to consider this incense as holy to the Lord.

³⁸ Anyone who makes incense like this for themselves to enjoy will be expelled from their people."

² "I have chosen by name Bezalel, son of Uri, son of Hur, from the tribe of Judah.

³ I have filled him with the Spirit of God giving him ability, creativity, and expertise in all kinds of craftsmanship.

⁴ He can produce designs in gold, silver, and bronze,

⁵ he can cut gemstones to place in settings, and he can carve wood. He is a master of every craft.

⁶ I have also chosen Oholiab, son of Ahisamach, from the tribe of Dan, to help him. I have also given all the craftsmen the skills needed to make everything that I have ordered you to make:

⁷ the Tent of Meeting, the Ark of the Testimony and its atonement cover, and all the other furniture in the Tent:

⁸ the table with its equipment, the pure gold lampstand with all its equipment, the altar of incense,

⁹ the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the basin plus its stand;

¹² The Lord told Moses,

¹³ "Tell the Israelites, 'It's absolutely essential that you keep my Sabbaths. The Sabbath will be a sign between me and you for generations to come, so that you'll know that I am the Lord who makes you holy.

¹⁴ You shall keep the Sabbath because it is holy to you. Anyone who dishonors it must be killed. Anyone who works on that day must be cut off from their people.

¹⁵ Six days you can work, but the seventh day is to be a Sabbath of rest, holy to the Lord. Anyone who does any work on the Sabbath day must be killed.

¹⁷ It's a sign between me and the Israelites forever, for the Lord made the heavens and the earth in six days, but on the seventh day he stopped and he rested.' "

¹ When the people realized how long Moses was taking before he came back down the mountain, they went together to see Aaron. They told him, "Get up! Make some gods for us who can lead us because this man Moses who brought us out of the land of Egypt—we don't know what's happened to him!"

² "Bring to me the gold earrings that your wives, sons, and daughters are wearing," Aaron replied.

³ So everyone took off the gold earrings they were wearing and brought them to Aaron.

⁵ When Aaron saw this, he built an altar in front of the golden calf and shouted out, "Tomorrow will be a festival to honor the Lord!"

⁸ They have been so quick to abandon the way I ordered them to follow. They have made a metal bull calf idol for themselves, bowing before it in worship and offering sacrifices to it. They're saying, 'These are the gods that brought you out of the land of Egypt.' "

⁹ "I know what these people are like," the Lord continued saying to Moses. "They are so rebellious!†

¹⁰ Now leave me! I am angry with them—let me finish them off! I will make you into a great nation."

¹¹ But Moses pleaded with the Lord his God, saying, "Why are you angry with the people you brought out of the land of Egypt with tremendous power and great strength?

¹³ Remember you swore a promise your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob,‡ telling them, 'I will make your descendants as numerous as the stars of heaven, and give you all the land I promised to them, and they shall own it forever.' "

¹⁵ Moses turned and went down the mountain, carrying the two stone tablets of the Law written on both sides.

* 32:6 The word used in this connection, sometimes translated "play," was not some kind of party game. The sexual overtones are clear from its use in Genesis 26:8 where it refers to the "fondling" of intimacy between Isaac and his wife Rebekah. Such an end result to a festival that included indulgence in eating and drinking was usual in pagan ceremonies. † 32:9 "Rebellious" or "perverse": the image is of a horse being tugged by the reins in one direction but deliberately going in the opposite direction. This means more than simply being obstinate, but actually trying to do the opposite. ‡ 32:13 "Jacob": literally, "Israel."

¹⁸ But Moses replied, "These are not the shouts of victory or of defeat. What I'm hearing is people partying!"

¹⁹ As he approached the camp he saw the bull calf idol and the dancing. He got so angry that he threw down the stone tablets and smashed them there at the foot of the mountain.

²¹ Then Moses asked Aaron, "What did these people do to you that you made them sin so badly?"

²² "Please don't get angry with me, my lord," Aaron replied, "You yourself know how liable these people are to do evil."

²³ They told me, 'Make some gods for us who can lead us because this man Moses who brought us out of the land of Egypt—we don't know what's happened to him!'

²⁴ So I said to them, 'Anybody who has gold jewelry, take it off and give it to me.' I threw the gold into the furnace and out came this bull calf."

²⁵ Moses saw the people going completely wild because Aaron had let them, and that this had brought ridicule on them from their enemies.

²⁶ So he went and stood at the entrance to the camp, and shouted out, "Whoever is on the Lord's side, come and join me!" All the Levites gathered around him.

²⁹ Moses told the Levites, "Today you have dedicated yourselves to the Lord because you took action against your sons and brothers. Today you have gained a blessing for yourselves."

³⁰ The following day Moses spoke to the people, saying, "You have sinned very badly. But now I will go up to the Lord. Maybe I can get him to forgive your sin."

³¹ So Moses went back to the Lord. He said, "Please—the people have sinned very badly by making gods of gold for themselves."

³³ But the Lord replied to Moses, "It's those who sinned against me who will be blotted out of my scroll."

³⁴ Now go and lead the people to the place I told you about. Look, my angel will go before you, but at the time I decide to punish, I will punish them for their sin."

¹ Then the Lord told Moses, "Leave this place, you and the people you led out of Egypt, and go to the land I promised with an oath to give to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, telling them, 'I will give this land to your descendants.'"

² I will send an angel out in front of you, and I will drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites.

⁵ For the Lord had previously told Moses, “Tell the people of Israel, ‘You are a rebellious people. If I was with you for just a moment, I would wipe you out. Now remove your jewelry, and I'll decide what to do with you.’”

⁷ Moses used to set up the Tent of Meeting some way outside the camp. Anyone who wanted to ask the Lord anything could go out there to the Tent of Meeting.

⁸ Whenever Moses went out to the Tent, all the people would go and stand at the entrance of their tents. They would watch him until he had gone inside.

¹⁰ When the people saw the cloud column standing in the doorway to the Tent, everyone would stand up and bow in worship at the entrance of their tents.

¹¹ Moses would speak to the Lord face to face as you would talk to a friend, and then returned to the camp. However, his young assistant Joshua, son of Nun, stayed in the Tent.

¹² Moses said to the Lord, “Look, you've been telling me, ‘Go and lead these people,’ but you haven't let me know who you're going to send with me. And yet you have stated, ‘I know you personally,[†] and I'm happy with you.’

¹³ Now if it's true that you're happy with me, please teach me your ways so I can get to know you, and go on pleasing you. Remember that the people of this nation are yours.”

¹⁴ The Lord replied, “I myself will go with you, and I will support you.”[‡]

¹⁵ “If you don't go with us yourself, then please don't take us away from here,” Moses responded.

¹⁶ “How will others know that you are happy with me, and with your people, if you don't accompany us? How would anyone tell us apart—me and your people—from every other people who live on the earth?”

¹⁹ “I will make all the goodness of my character pass in front of you, I will call out the name ‘Yahweh,’[§] I will show grace to those I want to show grace, and I will show mercy to those I want to show mercy.

* 33:6 “Mount Sinai”: literally, “Mount Horeb,” another name for the same mountain. [†] 33:12 “Personally”: literally “by name.” Also in verse 17. [‡] 33:14 “Support you”: literally, “give you rest.” [§] 33:19 “Yahweh”: this is the word usually translated as “the Lord,” so in the following verses note that “Yahweh” and “the Lord” are the same.

²⁰ But you won't be able to see my face, because no one can see my face and live."

²¹ "Come here and stand by me on this rock," the Lord went on,

¹ The Lord told Moses, "Cut out two stone tablets like the first ones, and I will write on them again the same words that were on the first tablets—the ones you broke.

² Get ready in the morning, and then come up Mount Sinai. Stand before me there on the mountain top.

³ Nobody else can come up with you—I don't want to see anyone anywhere on the mountain, and no flocks or herds should graze at the foot of the mountain."

⁵ The Lord descended in a cloud, stood there with him, and called out the name "Yahweh."

⁷ I go on showing my trustworthy love to thousands, forgiving guilt, rebellion, and sin. But I will not leave the guilty unpunished—the impact of sin will affect not only the parents, but also their children and grandchildren, up until the third and fourth generation."

⁸ Moses quickly bowed down to the ground, and worshiped.

⁹ He said, "Lord, if it's true that you're happy with me, please accompany us. Admittedly this is a rebellious people, but please forgive our guilt and sin. Accept us as specially belonging to you."

¹⁰ The Lord said, "Look, I'm making an agreement with you. Right in front of all of you I will do miracles that have never been done before—not among anyone anywhere on earth. Everyone here and those around will see the Lord at work, for what I'm going to do for you will be incredible.

¹¹ But you must carefully follow what I tell you to do today. Pay attention! I'm going to drive out ahead of you the Amorites, Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites.

¹² Make sure you don't agree to a peace treaty* with the people living in the land where you are going. Otherwise they will become a trap for you.

¹³ For you must tear down their altars, knock down their idolatrous pillars, and cut down their Asherah poles,

¹⁴ because you must not worship any other gods than the Lord. His name stands for being exclusive,[†] because he is a God who demands an exclusive relationship.

* 34:12 "Agree to a peace treaty": the word is the same as the "agreement" with God in verse 10. Also in verse 15. [†] 34:14 "Being exclusive": literally "jealous," however this in human terms has become associated with envy and resentment. God is "jealous" in wanting to be the only God who is worshiped.

¹⁵ Make sure you don't agree to a peace treaty with the people living in the land, for when they prostitute themselves by worshiping and sacrificing to their gods, they will invite you to join them, and you will eat from their pagan sacrifices.

¹⁷ Don't make any idols for yourselves.

¹⁹ Every firstborn is mine. That includes all the firstborn males of your livestock from your cattle herds, and flocks.

²⁰ You can redeem the firstborn of a donkey with a lamb, but if you don't, you must break its neck. All your firstborn sons must be redeemed. No one is to come before me without an offering.

²¹ You shall work for six days, but you shall rest on the seventh day. Even during the times of sowing and harvest you shall rest.

²³ Three times every year all your males must appear before the Lord Yahweh, the God of Israel.

²⁴ I will drive out the nations ahead of you and expand your borders, and no one will come and take your land when you go three times a year to appear before the Lord your God.

²⁶ When you harvest your crops, bring the firstfruits to the house of the Lord your God.

²⁷ Then the Lord told Moses, "Write down these words, because these are the basis for the agreement I have made with you and with Israel."

²⁸ Moses spent forty days and forty nights there with the Lord without eating bread or drinking water. He wrote down on the tablets the words of the agreement, the Ten Commandments.

³⁰ When Aaron and the Israelites saw Moses with his face shining so brightly they were frightened to approach him.

³⁴ However, whenever Moses went in to talk with the Lord, he would take off the veil until he came out again. Then he would tell the Israelites the Lord's instructions,

³⁵ and the Israelites would see his face shining brightly. So he would put the veil over his face until the next time he went to talk with the Lord.

² Six days you can work, but the seventh day is to be a holy Sabbath of rest to the Lord. Anyone who does any work on the Sabbath day must be killed.

⁴ Moses also told all the Israelites, "This is what the Lord has commanded:

⁵ Collect an offering to the Lord from what you have. Everyone who wants to should bring an offering to the Lord: gold, silver, and bronze;

⁷ tanned ram skins and fine leather; acacia wood;

⁸ olive oil for the lamps; spices for the anointing oil and for the aromatic incense;

¹¹ the Tabernacle with its tent and covering, its clips and frames, its crossbars, posts, and stands;

¹² the Ark with its poles and atonement cover, and the veil to hang over it;

¹³ the table with its poles, all its equipment, and the Bread of the Presence;

¹⁴ the lampstand of light with its equipment and lamps and olive oil to provide lighting;

¹⁵ the altar of incense with its poles; the anointing oil and aromatic incense; the screen for the Tabernacle entrance and all its accessories;

¹⁷ the curtains of the courtyard with its posts and bases, and the curtain for the courtyard entrance;

¹⁸ the tent pegs for the Tabernacle and for the courtyard, as well as their ropes;

¹⁹ and the woven clothes for serving in the holy place: the sacred clothing for Aaron the priest and for his sons to serve as priests."

²¹ and all those who felt moved to do so and who had a willing spirit came and brought an offering to the Lord for the work making the Tent of Meeting, for everything required for its services, and for the sacred clothing.

²² So everyone who was willing, both men and women, came and presented their gold as a thanks offering to the Lord, including brooches, earrings, rings, and necklaces—all kinds of gold jewelry.

²³ Everyone who had blue, purple, and crimson thread, finely-woven linen, goat hair, tanned ram skins, and fine leather, contributed them.

²⁴ Those who could present an offering of silver or bronze brought it as a gift to the Lord. Everyone who had acacia wood for any part of the work donated it.

²⁶ All the women who were willing to use their skills spun the goat hair.

²⁸ as well as spices and olive oil for lighting, for the anointing oil, and for the aromatic incense.

²⁹ All the Israelite men and women who were willing brought a freewill offering to the Lord for all the work in making what the Lord through Moses had ordered them to do.

³¹ He has filled him with the Spirit of God giving him ability, creativity, and expertise in all kinds of craftsmanship.

³² He can produce designs in gold, silver, and bronze,

² Moses summoned Bezalel, Oholiab, and all the skilled people who had been given special abilities by the Lord, everyone willing to come and do the work.

³ Moses gave them everything the Israelites had contributed to carry out the work of constructing the sanctuary. In the meantime the people went on bringing freewill offerings every morning,

⁴ so much so that all the craftsmen who were working on the sanctuary stopped what they were doing

⁵ and went and told Moses, "The people have already brought enough to complete the work the Lord has ordered us to do."

⁶ Moses gave the order, and an announcement was made throughout the camp: "Men and women, don't bring anything more as an offering for the sanctuary." So the people were stopped from bringing anything more,

¹¹ They used blue material to make loops on the edge of the last curtain of both sets.

¹² They made fifty loops on one curtain and fifty loops on the last curtain of the second set, lining up the loops with each another.

¹³ They also made fifty gold clips and joined the curtains together with the clips, so that the Tabernacle was a single structure.

¹⁴ They made eleven curtains of goat hair as a tent to cover the Tabernacle.

¹⁷ They made fifty loops on the edge of the last curtain in the first set, and fifty loops along the edge of the last curtain in the second set.

¹⁸ They made fifty bronze clips to join the tent together as a single cover.

²⁰ They made an upright framework of acacia wood for the Tabernacle.

²¹ Each frame was ten cubits long by one and a half cubits wide.

²³ They made twenty frames for the south side of the Tabernacle.

²⁵ Similarly for the north side of the Tabernacle, they made twenty frames

²⁶ and forty silver stands, two stands per frame.

²⁷ They made six frames for the back (west side) of the Tabernacle,

²⁸ along with two frames for its two back corners.

³⁰ In total there were eight frames and sixteen silver stands, two under each frame.

³¹ They made five crossbars of acacia wood to hold together the frames on the south side of the Tabernacle,

³³ They made the central crossbar which was placed halfway up the frames and ran from one end to the other.

³⁴ They covered the frames with gold, and made gold rings to hold the crossbars in place. They covered the crossbars with gold too.

³⁵ They made a veil out of blue, purple, and crimson thread, and finely-spun linen, embroidered with cherubim by someone who was skilled.

³⁶ They made four posts of acacia wood for it and covered them with gold. They made gold hooks for the posts and cast their four silver stands.

38 They also made five posts of acacia wood with hooks to hang the screen. They covered the tops of the posts and their bands with gold, and their five stands were made of bronze.

1 Bezalel made the Ark of acacia wood measuring two and a half cubits long by a cubit and a half wide by one and a half cubits high.

2 He covered it with pure gold on the inside and the outside, and made a gold trim to go around it.

3 He cast four gold rings and attached them to its four feet, two on one side and two on the other.

4 He made poles of acacia wood and covered them with gold.

5 He placed the poles into the rings on the sides of the Ark, so it could be carried.

6 He made the atonement cover of pure gold, two and a half cubits long by a cubit and a half wide.

7 He made two cherubim of hammered gold for the ends of the atonement cover;

8 and put one cherub on each end. All of this was made from one piece of gold.

9 The cherubim were designed with spread wings pointing upward, covering the atonement cover. The cherubim were placed facing each another, looking down towards the atonement cover.

10 Then he made the table of acacia wood two cubits long by a cubit wide by a cubit and a half high.

11 He covered it with pure gold and made a gold trim to go around it.

12 He made a border around it the width of a hand and put a gold trim on the border.

13 He cast four gold rings for the table and attached them to the four corners of the table by the legs.

14 The rings were close to the border to hold the poles used to carry the table.

15 He made the poles of acacia wood for carrying the table and covered them with gold.

17 He made the lampstand of pure, hammered gold. The whole of it was made of one piece—its base, shaft, cups, buds, and flowers.

18 It had six branches coming out of the sides of the lampstand, three on each side. It had three cups shaped like almond flowers on the first branch, each with buds and petals, three on the next branch.

19 Each of six branches that came out had three cups shaped like almond flowers, all complete with buds and petals.

20 On the main shaft of the lampstand he made four cups shaped like almond flowers, complete with buds and petals.

21 On the six branches that came out of it, he placed a bud under the first pair of branches, a bud under the second pair, and a bud under the third pair.

22 The buds and branches are to be made with the lampstand as one piece, hammered out of pure gold.

²³ He made seven lamps, as well as wick tongs and their trays of pure gold.

²⁴ The lampstand and all these utensils required a talent of pure gold.

²⁶ He covered its top, its side, and its horns with pure gold, and made a gold trim to go all around it.

²⁸ He made the poles of acacia wood and covered them with gold.

¹ Bezalel made the altar burnt offering from acacia wood. It was square and measured five cubits long by five cubits wide by three cubits high.

² He made horns for each of its corners, all one piece with the altar, and covered the whole altar with bronze.

³ He made all its utensils: buckets for removing ashes, shovels, sprinkling bowls, meat forks, and firepans. He made all its utensils of bronze.

⁴ He made a bronze mesh grate for the altar and placed it under the ledge of the altar, so that the mesh came halfway down the altar.

⁵ He cast four bronze rings for the four corners of the grate as holders for the poles.

⁶ He made poles of acacia wood for the altar and covered them with bronze.

⁷ He put the poles through the rings on either side of the altar so it could be carried. He made the altar hollow, using boards.

⁸ He made the bronze basin with its stand with bronze from the mirrors of the women who served at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

⁹ Then he made a courtyard. For the south side of the courtyard he made curtains of finely-spun linen, a hundred cubits long on one side,

¹¹ Similarly he made curtains placed on the north side in an identical arrangement.

¹² He made curtains for the west side of the courtyard fifty cubits wide, with ten posts and ten stands.

¹⁵ and the curtains on the other side just the same.

²⁰ All the tent pegs for the Tabernacle and for the surrounding courtyard were made of bronze.

²³ He was assisted by Oholiab, son of Ahisamach, from the tribe of Dan, an engraver, designer, and embroiderer using blue, purple, and crimson thread and finely-woven linen.

²⁴ The total amount of gold from the offering that was used for the work on the sanctuary was 29 talents and 730 shekels, (using the sanctuary shekel standard).

²⁵ The total amount of silver from those who had been counted in the census was 100 talents and 1,775 shekels (using the sanctuary shekel standard).

²⁶ This represents a beka per person, or half a shekel, (using the sanctuary shekel standard) from everyone twenty years of age or older who had been censused, a total of 603,550 men.

²⁷ The hundred talents of silver were used to cast the sanctuary stands and the curtain stands, 100 bases from the 100 talents, or one talent per base.

²⁸ Bezalel used the 1,775 shekels of silver to make the hooks for the posts, cover their tops, and make bands for them.

²⁹ The total amount of bronze from the offering was 70 talents and 2,400 shekels.

³⁰ Bezalel used it to make the stands for the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, the bronze altar and its bronze grate, all the utensils for the altar,

³ They hammered out thin sheets of gold and cut threads from them to weave in with the blue, purple, and scarlet thread, together with fine linen, all skillfully worked.

* 39:1 Referring to the craftsmen.

⁶ They placed the onyx stones in ornamental gold settings, engraved with the names of the Israelite tribes in the same way a jeweler engraves a personal seal.

⁸ They also made a breastpiece for decisions in the same skilful way as the ephod, to be used in determining the Lord's will. They made it using gold thread, with blue, purple, and crimson thread, and with finely-woven linen.

⁹ It was square when folded, measuring around nine inches[†] in length and width.

¹³ In the fourth row topaz, beryl, and jasper. They were all placed in ornamental gold settings.

¹⁵ They made cords of braided chains from pure gold to attach the breastpiece.

¹⁸ and then fastened the opposite ends of the two chains to the ornamental gold settings on the shoulder pieces of the front side of the ephod.

²² They made the robe that goes with the ephod exclusively from woven blue cloth,

²³ with an opening in the middle at the top. They stitched a woven collar around the opening to strengthen it so it wouldn't tear.

²⁵ They made pure gold bells and attached them between the pomegranates all the way around its hem, ²⁶ having the bells and the pomegranates alternate. The robe was to be used for priestly service, as the Lord had ordered Moses to do.

²⁷ They made tunics with finely-spun linen made by a weaver for Aaron and his sons.

[†] 39:9 "Nine inches": literally, "a span," the distance between thumb and little finger when the hand is stretched. [‡] 39:10 None of the following stones are identified with certainty.

²⁸ They also made turbans, headdresses, and headbands of fine linen, and finely-woven linen undershorts,

²⁹ as well as sashes of finely-woven linen embroidered with blue, purple, and crimson thread, as the Lord had ordered Moses to do.

³² So all the work for the Tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, was finished. The Israelites did everything as the Lord had ordered Moses to do.

³⁴ the covering of tanned ram skins, the covering of fine leather, and the veil;

³⁷ the pure gold lampstand with its lamps placed in a row, and all its equipment, as well as the olive oil for the lamps;

³⁸ the gold altar, the anointing oil, the aromatic incense, and the screen for the tent's entrance;

³⁹ the bronze altar with its bronze grate, its poles, and all its utensils; the basin plus its stand;

⁴⁰ the curtains of the courtyard and its posts and stands; the curtain for the courtyard entrance, its ropes and tent pegs, and all the equipment for the services of Tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting;

³ Place the Ark of the Testimony inside it. Make sure the Ark is behind the veil.

⁴ Bring in the table and put on it what's necessary. Bring in the lampstand too, and set up its lamps.

⁶ Set up the altar of burnt offering opposite the entrance to the Tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting.

⁷ Place the basin between the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and put water in it.

¹⁰ Anoint the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils. Dedicate the altar and it will be especially holy.

12 Take Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting and wash them there with water.

13 Then you are to put on Aaron the holy clothes, anoint him, and dedicate him, so that he may serve me as a priest.

14 Have his sons come forward and dress them with tunics.

15 Anoint them in the same way as you anointed their father, so that they can also serve me as priests. Their anointing makes their line priests forever, for generations to come."

18 When Moses put up the Tabernacle,† he placed its stands, attached its frames, connected its crossbars, and erected its posts.

19 Then he spread the tent over the Tabernacle and placed the covering over the tent, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

20 Moses took the Testimony‡ and put it in the Ark. He attached the poles to the Ark, and he placed the atonement cover on the top of the Ark.

21 Then he carried the Ark into the Tabernacle. He put up the veil, and made sure the Ark of the Testimony was behind it, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

22 Moses placed the table inside the Tent of Meeting on the north side of the Tabernacle, outside the veil.

23 He laid out the bread on it in the presence of the Lord, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

24 He placed the lampstand in the Tent of Meeting opposite the table on the south side of the Tabernacle

25 and put up the lamps in the presence of the Lord, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

26 Moses set up the gold altar in the Tent of Meeting, in front of the veil,

27 and he burned aromatic incense on it, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

29 He set up the altar of burnt offering near the entrance to the Tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, and presented the burnt offering and the grain offering, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

30 He placed the basin between the Tent of Meeting and the altar and put water in it for washing.

32 They washed whenever they went into the Tent of Meeting or approached the altar, as the Lord had ordered Moses to do.

33 Moses set up the courtyard around the Tabernacle and the altar, and he put up the curtain for the courtyard entrance. This marked the end of the work done by Moses.

34 Then the cloud covered the Tent of Meeting, and the glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle.

35 Moses could not enter the Tent of Meeting because the cloud remained on it, and the glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle.

* 40:17 In other words it was one year since they had left Egypt. † 40:18 Clearly Moses did not do all this work himself; rather he is overseeing it. ‡ 40:20 The two tablets inscribed with the Ten Commandments.

³⁷ If the cloud did not rise, they wouldn't set out until it did.

³⁸ The cloud of the Lord stayed over the Tabernacle by day, and fire burned inside the cloud by night, so that it could be seen by every Israelite wherever they traveled.

Leviticus

² “Go and speak to the Israelites and tell them: When you present an offering to the Lord, you may bring as your offering an animal from the herd of cattle or the flock of sheep or goats.

⁴ Put your hand on the head of the burnt offering, so it can be accepted on your behalf to make you right.*

⁶ Then you are to skin the burnt offering and cut it into pieces.

⁷ The sons of Aaron the priest shall start a fire on the altar and put wood on it.

⁸ Then the priests shall carefully place the pieces, including the head and the fat, on the wood burning on the altar.

¹² Then you are to cut it into pieces, and the priest shall carefully place the pieces, including the head and the fat, on the wood burning on the altar.

¹³ You shall wash the insides and legs with water, and the priest shall burn all of it on the altar as a burnt offering, a food offering, to be accepted by the Lord.

¹⁶ He must remove the crop and the feathers, and throw them to the east side of the altar into the ash pile.

* 1:4 “Make you right”: or, “make atonement.” The concept is that due to sin, the relationship with God has been fractured. The various rituals described in Leviticus are symbols of how the relationship can be restored, or “made right” in God's eyes. In addition people and objects (for example, the altar) can also be “made right” in the sense of being purified, so this term is also used in this translation. † 1:9 “Accepted by the Lord”: literally, “smelled a pleasing aroma.” This is a “figurative extension” of this sensory process which means that in the same way we like something, and by extension, accept it, so does God. Also in verses 13 and 17 etc.

¹ When you bring a grain offering to the Lord, your offering be of the best flour. Pour olive oil on it and put frankincense on it,

² and take it to Aaron's sons the priests. The priest shall take a handful of the flour and olive oil mixture, as well as all the frankincense, and burn this as a 'reminder part' on the altar, a food offering, to be accepted by the Lord.

³ The rest of the grain offering is for Aaron and his sons; it is a most holy part of the offerings given to the Lord as food offerings.

⁴ If your offering is of grain baked in an oven, it must be made from fine flour without using yeast. It can be cakes mixed with olive oil or wafers with olive oil spread on them.

⁸ Bring to the Lord the grain offering made in whichever of these ways. Present it to the priest, and who will take it to the altar.

⁹ The priest is to take the 'reminder part' from the grain offering and burn it on the altar as a food offering, to be accepted by the Lord.

¹⁰ The rest of the grain offering is for Aaron and his sons; it is a most holy part of the food offerings given to the Lord.

¹¹ No grain offering that you give to the Lord may be made using yeast. Don't burn any yeast or honey as a food offering to the Lord.

¹² You may give them to the Lord when you present your offerings of firstfruits, but they are not to be offered on the altar to be to be accepted by the Lord.

¹³ All of your grain offerings are to be seasoned with salt. Don't leave the salt of God's agreement out of your grain offering. Add salt to all of your offerings.

¹⁴ When you bring a grain offering of firstfruits to the Lord, offer crushed heads of new grain roasted on the fire.

3

¹ "When you want to give a peace offering and you offer an animal from a herd of cattle, whether male or female, you must present one without any defects before the Lord.

² Put your hand on the head of the offering and kill it at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. Then Aaron's sons the priests will sprinkle the blood on all sides of the altar.

⁴ both kidneys with the fat on them by the loins, and the best part of the liver, which you are to remove together with the kidneys.

⁶ When you want to give a peace offering and you offer an animal from a flock of sheep or goats, either male or female, you must present one without any defects before the Lord.

⁸ Put your hand on the head of the offering and kill it in front of the Tent of Meeting. Then Aaron's sons the priests will sprinkle the blood on all sides of the altar.

⁹ From the peace offering you are to bring a food offering to the Lord made up of its fat: the whole fat tail* removed from close to the tailbone, all the fat that covers the insides,

¹⁰ both kidneys with the fat on them by the loins, and the best part of the liver, which you are to remove together with the kidneys.

¹¹ Then the priest is to burn this on the altar as a food offering, a food offering to the Lord.

¹³ Put your hand on its head and kill it in front of the Tent of Meeting. Then Aaron's sons the priests will sprinkle the blood on all sides of the altar.

¹⁴ From your offering you are to present a food offering to the Lord made up of all the fat that covers the insides,

¹⁵ both kidneys with the fat on them by the loins, and the best part of the liver, which you are to remove together with the kidneys.

¹⁶ Then the priest is to burn this on the altar as a food offering, an offering to the Lord using fire. All the fat is for the Lord.

¹⁷ You must not eat any fat or any blood. This regulation is for all time and for all future generations everywhere you live."

4

² "Tell the Israelites that these are the rules to handle cases* of those who sin unintentionally against any of the Lord's commandments and do what is not permitted.

³ If it is the high priest who sins and brings guilt on everyone, he must present to the Lord a young bull without defects as a sin offering for his sin.

⁴ He must take the bull to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting before the Lord, put his hand on its head and kill it before the Lord.

⁵ Then the high priest shall take some of the bull's blood into the Tent of Meeting.

⁶ The high priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle some of it seven times before the Lord in front of the veil of the sanctuary.

⁷ The priest shall put some of the blood on the horns of the altar of aromatic incense that stands before the Lord in the Tent of Meeting. The rest of the bull's blood he is to pour out at the bottom of the altar of burnt offering at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

* 3:9 Tails of sheep in Israel were very large and considered a delicacy.

⁸ Then he shall remove all the fat from the bull of the sin offering: all the fat that covers the insides,

⁹ both kidneys with the fat on them by the loins, and the best part of the liver, which he is to remove together with the kidneys

¹⁰ in the same way as the fat is removed from the bull of the peace offering. Then the priest shall then burn this on the altar of burnt offering.

¹¹ But the skin of the bull, all its flesh, head, legs, insides and waste—

¹² all the rest of it—he has to take outside the camp to a place that is ceremonially clean, where the ashes are dumped, and he must burn it on a wood fire there on the ash heap.

¹³ If the whole Israelite community goes astray unintentionally, and even though they are unaware of doing what is not permitted by any of the Lord's commandments, they are all still guilty.

¹⁵ The elders of Israel are to put their hands on its head and kill it before the Lord.

¹⁶ Then the high priest shall take some of the bull's blood into the Tent of Meeting.

¹⁸ He shall put some of the blood on the horns of the altar that stands before the Lord in the Tent of Meeting. Then he is to pour out the rest of the bull's blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt offering at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

¹⁹ Then he shall remove all the fat from the bull and burn it on the altar.

²⁰ He shall offer this bull in the same way he did for the sin offering. This is how the priest will make them right, and they will be forgiven.

²¹ Then he shall take the bull outside the camp and burn it, just as he burned the bull previously mentioned. It is the sin offering for the whole community.

²⁵ Then the priest is to take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour out the rest of the blood at the bottom of the altar.

²⁶ He shall burn all its fat on the altar like the fat of the peace offerings. In this way the priest will make the man's sin right, and he will be forgiven.

²⁹ He must put his hand on the head of the sin offering and kill it at the place at the place of the burnt offering.

³⁰ Then the priest is to take some of its blood with his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour out the rest of the blood at the bottom of the altar.

³¹ He shall remove all its fat like the fat of the peace offerings and burn it on the altar and it will be to be accepted by the Lord. In this way the priest will make the man's sin right, and he will be forgiven.

³⁴ Then the priest is to take some of its blood with his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour out the rest of the blood at the bottom of the altar.

¹ If you sin by not giving the evidence you have about a legal case, whether you saw something yourself or heard about it, you bear responsibility for your guilt.

² If you touch anything unclean such as the dead body of any unclean* wild animal or farm animals or vermin, even if you're unaware of it, you become unclean and guilty.

³ If you touch something unclean from someone else who is unclean, even if you're unaware of it, you become guilty.

⁴ If you foolishly swear to do something, (whether good or bad, and in whatever way people impulsively swear an oath), even if you're unaware of it being wrong, when you eventually realize it, you are guilty.

⁵ If you become guilty in one of these ways, you must confess your sin,

⁶ and you must take your guilt offering of a female lamb or goat to the Lord as a sin offering for your sin. The priest will make your sin right.

⁷ If you can't afford a lamb, you may offer to the Lord as compensation for your sin two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one as a sin offering and one as a burnt offering.

⁸ You are to take them to the priest, who shall present the first one as the sin offering. He is to wring its head from the neck without removing it completely.

¹⁰ The priest must then prepare the second bird as a burnt offering according to the regulations. In this way the priest will make you right for your sin, and you will be forgiven.

* 5:2 The concept of ceremonial uncleanness is frequent here and in other books of the Old Testament. It is primarily a "religious" concept but does have a basis in some areas related to aspects of health and hygiene.

¹¹ If you can't afford two turtledoves or two young pigeons you may bring a tenth of an ephah of the best flour as a sin offering. Don't put olive oil or frankincense on it, because it is a sin offering.

¹² Take it to the priest, who shall take a handful as a 'reminder part' and burn it on the altar on top of the burnt offerings to the Lord. It is a sin offering.

¹³ This is how the priest will make right any of these sins you have committed, and you will be forgiven. The rest of the offering will belong to the priest, just like the grain offering."

¹⁴ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁵ "If any of you neglects unintentionally all that the Lord has declared belong to him and are holy,[†] you must bring your guilt offering to the Lord: a ram without defects from your herd or but one of equivalent value in silver shekels (according to the sanctuary shekel standard). It is a guilt offering.

¹⁶ As regards any holy requirement you failed to contribute, you must pay compensation by adding a fifth of its value to it and then give it to the priest, who will make it right with the ram as a guilt offering, and you will be forgiven.

¹⁷ If you sin and break any of the Lord's commandments, even if you are unaware of it, you are still guilty and bear responsibility for your guilt.

¹⁸ You must take to the priest a ram without defects of the appropriate value from the flock as a guilt offering. Then the priest will make right for you the wrong you did in ignorance, and you will be forgiven.

6

² "If you sin against the Lord, breaking your commitment to him, then this is what must happen.* You may have lied to your neighbor about something you were looking after for them, about some deposit paid, about something was stolen, or maybe you were trying to cheat them.

³ You may have found property someone lost, and you lied and made false statements about it, or you have sinned in others ways that people do in such situations.

⁴ If you have sinned and become guilty you must return what you have stolen or cheated from your victims, the deposit you took, the lost property you found,

⁵ or anything else that must be given back that you lied about. You must pay full compensation plus a fifth of the value, and give it to the owner as soon as you accept that you are guilty of sin.

⁷ This is how the priest will make you right before the Lord, and you will be forgiven whatever sins you may have done that you are guilty of."

⁸ The Lord told Moses,

[†] 5:15 This would include everything the Lord has said his people must give to him, including for example firstfruits, tithes, the firstborn etc. * 6:2 "Then this is what must happen": supplied for clarity.

9 “Give Aaron and his sons these instructions regarding the burnt offering: The burnt offering is to be left on the fireplace of the altar throughout night until morning, and the fire must be kept burning on the altar.

10 The priest shall put on his linen clothes and underwear, and he shall take from the altar the greasy ashes of the burnt offering that the fire has burned up and set them down beside the altar.

11 Then he has to change his clothes, and take the ashes outside the camp to a place that's ceremonially clean.

12 The fire on the altar must be kept burning—don't let it go out. Each morning the priest is to add wood to the fire, carefully place the burnt offering on it, and burn the fat parts of the peace offerings on it.

13 The fire must always be kept burning on the altar continually—don't let it go out.

14 These are the regulations for the grain offering: Aaron's sons are to present it before the Lord, in front of the altar.

15 The priest shall remove a handful of the best flour mixed with olive oil, as well as all the frankincense from the grain offering, and burn the ‘reminder part’ on the altar to be accepted by the Lord.

16 The rest is for Aaron and his sons to eat. It must be eaten without yeast in a holy place—the courtyard of the Tent of Meeting.

17 It must not be baked with yeast. I have provided it as their share of my food offerings. It is most holy, just like the sin offering and the guilt offering.

18 Any of Aaron's male descendants may eat it. This is a permanent allowance from the food offerings to the Lord for future generations. Whatever touches them shall become holy.”

19 The Lord told Moses,

20 “This is the offering that Aaron and his sons are to present to the Lord when they're anointed: a tenth of an ephah of best flour as a usual grain offering, half in the morning and half in the evening.

21 Cook it with olive oil on a griddle. Bring it well-kneaded and present it as a grain offering broken into pieces, to be accepted by the Lord.

22 It is to be cooked by the priest who is one of Aaron's descendants and who is to be anointed to take his place. In this case since it is permanently allocated to the Lord, it must be burned completely.

23 Every grain offering for a priest is to be burned completely. It must not be eaten.”

24 The Lord told Moses,

25 “Tell Aaron and his sons that these are the regulations for the sin offering. The sin offering is to be killed where the burnt offering is killed before the Lord, and it is most holy.

26 The priest who offers the sin offering is to eat it. It must be eaten without yeast in a holy place—the courtyard of the Tent of Meeting.

27 Whatever touches it shall become holy and if any of the blood is splashed on clothing, you must wash it in a holy place.

28 The clay pot used to boil the sin offering must be broken. If it's boiled in a bronze pot, the pot must be thoroughly cleaned and washed out with water.

29 Any male among the priests may eat it, it is most holy.

³⁰ But no sin offering may be eaten if its blood has been taken into the Tent of Meeting to as a means to make things right in the Holy Place. In that case it must be burned."

7

² The guilt offering is to be killed where the burnt offering is killed, and the priest shall sprinkle its blood on all sides of the altar.

³ All the fat from it shall be offered: the fat tail, the fat that covers the insides,

⁴ both kidneys with the fat on them by the loins, and the best part of the liver, which the priest is to remove together with the kidneys.

⁷ The guilt offering is like the sin offering; the regulations are the same for both. The priest who presents the offering that 'makes things right' is to have it.

⁹ In the same way all grain offerings that are baked in an oven or cooked in a pan or on a griddle is for the priest who presents it,

¹⁰ and all grain offerings, whether they mixed with olive oil or dry, are for all of Aaron descendants.

¹² If you offer it in a spirit of thanks, then along with the sacrifice of thanksgiving, you must offer bread, wafers, and well-kneaded cakes of the best flour all made without yeast and mixed or coated with olive oil.

¹⁵ The meat of the sacrifice of your peace offering of thanksgiving must be eaten the same day you offer it. Don't leave any of it until the morning.

¹⁷ However, any meat of the sacrifice still remaining on the third day must be burned.

¹⁸ If you eat any of the meat from your peace offering on the third day, it won't be accepted. You won't receive credit for offering it. In fact it will be treated as something disgusting, and anyone who eats it will bear responsibility for their guilt.

¹⁹ If this meat touches anything unclean it must not be eaten; it must be burned. This meat may be eaten by those who are ceremonially clean.

²⁰ If anyone who is unclean eats meat from the peace offering given to the Lord, they must be expelled from their people.

²¹ Anyone who touches anything unclean, whether it's from a person, an unclean animal, or an unclean revolting thing, and then eats meat from the peace offering given to the Lord, they must be expelled from their people."

²² The Lord told Moses,

²³ "Give these instructions to the Israelites. Tell them, 'You must not eat any of the fat of a bull, a sheep, or a goat.

²⁴ You can use the fat of an animal found dead or killed by wild beasts for whatever purpose you want, but you must not eat it.

²⁶ You must not eat the blood of any bird or animal in any of your homes.

²⁸ The Lord told Moses,

²⁹ "Give these instructions to the Israelites. Tell them that if you present a peace offering to the Lord you must bring part of it as a special gift to the Lord.

³⁰ You must personally bring the food offerings to the Lord; bring the fat as well as the breast, and wave the breast as a wave offering before the Lord.

³¹ The priest shall burn the fat on the altar, but the breast is for Aaron and his sons.

³⁶ From the time they were anointed, the Lord ordered that this be given them by the sons of Israel. It is their share for future generations.

³⁷ These are the regulations regarding of the burnt offering, the grain offering, the sin offering, the guilt offering, the ordination offering, and the peace offering.

² "Go with Aaron and his sons, and take their priestly clothes, anointing oil, the bull of the sin offering, two rams, and the basket of bread made without yeast,

⁴ Moses did as the Lord instructed him, and everyone gathered at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

⁷ He dressed Aaron with the tunic, tied the sash around him, put the robe on him and then the ephod. He tied the waistband of the ephod around him, fastening it to him.

⁸ Then Moses attached the breastpiece to Aaron and put the Urim and Thummim in the breastpiece.

¹² Moses poured some of the anointing oil on Aaron's head to anoint him and to dedicate him.

¹⁶ Moses took all the fat that covers the insides, the best part of the liver, both kidneys with the fat on them, burned all of it on the altar.

¹⁷ But the rest of the bull—the skin, the meat, and the waste he burned outside the camp, as the Lord had ordered him to do.

¹⁸ Moses brought the ram for the burnt offering, and Aaron and his sons put their hands on its head.

²⁰ He divided the ram into pieces and burned the head, the pieces, and the fat.

²¹ He washed the insides and legs with water and burned the whole ram on the altar as a burnt offering, a food offering to be accepted by the Lord, as the Lord had ordered Moses to do.

²⁵ Moses took the fat, including the fat tail, all the fat on the insides, the best part of the liver, both kidneys with the fat on them. Moses took the fat—together with the right thigh.

³⁴ What was done today was ordered by the Lord as a means of making you right.

³⁵ You must stay at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting for seven days, day and night, and follow the Lord's commands so that you will not die, for this is what I have been ordered to do."

9

¹ On the eighth day after the ordination* Moses called Aaron and his sons, and the elders of Israel, to meet with him.

² He told Aaron, "You need to bring a young bull as a sin offering and a ram as a burnt offering, both without defects, and present them before the Lord.

⁴ a bull and a ram as a peace offering to sacrifice before the Lord; and a grain offering mixed with olive oil. Do this because today the Lord is going to reveal himself to you today.' "

⁵ Following Moses' orders they brought what he'd said to the front of the Tent of Meeting. Everyone came and stood before the Lord.

⁷ Then Moses told Aaron, "Go to the altar and sacrifice your sin offering and your burnt offering to make you and the people right. Then sacrifice the offerings brought by the people as a means to make them right, as the Lord ordered."

⁸ So Aaron went to the altar and killed the calf as a sin offering for himself.

* 9:1 "After the ordination": supplied for clarity.

⁹ His sons brought the blood to him. He dipped his finger in the blood and put it on the horns of the altar. He poured out the rest of the blood at the bottom of the altar.

¹⁰ He burned the fat, the kidneys, and the best part of the liver from the sin offering on the altar, as the Lord had ordered Moses to do.

¹⁴ He washed the insides and the legs and burned them with the rest of the burnt offering on the altar.

¹⁵ Then Aaron presented the offerings of the people. He killed the male goat as the sin offering for the people, and offered it in the same way as his own sin offering.

¹⁶ He presented the burnt offering, doing so in accordance with the regulations.

¹⁷ He presented the grain offering. He took a handful from it and burned it on the altar, in addition to the burnt offering presented earlier that morning.

¹⁸ Aaron killed the bull and the ram as the peace offering for the people. His sons brought him the blood, and he sprinkled it on the sides of the altar.

²² Then Aaron held up his hands towards the people and blessed them. After that he came down from the altar, having completed the sin offering, the burnt offering, and the peace offering.

²³ Moses and Aaron went into the Tent of Meeting. When they came out, they blessed the people, and the glory of the Lord was revealed to everyone.

¹ Aaron's sons, Nadab and Abihu, set light to their incense burners using ordinary fire* and put in incense, and in this way offered forbidden† fire in the Lord's presence, something he had not authorized.

* 10:1 "Using ordinary fire": supplied for clarity. † 10:1 "Forbidden": the words used here means "strange" or "alien." Clearly the issue was acting in disobedience to God's explicit commands regarding the way in which such items were to be used in his service. The fire was to come from the altar.

² Fire came out from the Lord's presence[‡] and burned them up. They died in the Lord's presence.

³ Moses explained to Aaron, "This is what the Lord was talking about when he said: 'I will show my holiness to those who approach me; I will reveal my glory so everyone can see.'" But Aaron didn't reply.

⁵ They came and picked them up by their clothes, and took them outside the camp, as Moses had ordered.

⁷ Don't go outside the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, or you will die, because you have been anointed by the Lord." They did what Moses said.

⁸ The Lord told Aaron,

⁹ "You and your descendants must not to drink wine or any other alcohol when you go in to the Tent of Meeting, otherwise you will die. This regulation is for all time and for all future generations.

¹⁵ The thigh contribution and the breast of the wave offering, as well as the fat portions of the food offerings made, they are to bring and wave as a wave offering before the Lord. They belong to you and your children forever as the Lord has ordered."

¹⁶ Moses checked what had happened to the goat of the sin offering, and found out that it had been burned. He got angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons Aaron had left, and asked them,

¹⁹ So Aaron explained to Moses, "Look, it was today that they presented their sin offering and their burnt offering before the Lord. After all that's just happened to me, would the Lord have been pleased if I'd eaten the sin offering today?"

³ any animal that both has a divided hoof and also chews the cud.

⁴ However, if it either chews the cud, or has a divided hoof, then you may not eat it. These include: the camel, which though it chews the cud doesn't have a divided hoof, so it is unclean for you.

⁶ The hare, which though it chews the cud doesn't have a divided hoof, so it is unclean for you.

⁷ The pig, which though it has a divided hoof doesn't chew the cud, so it is unclean for you.

⁸ You are not to eat their meat or touch their dead bodies. They are unclean for you.

⁹ You are allowed to eat any creature with fins and scales that lives in the water, whether in the sea or in fresh water.

¹⁰ But you are not allowed to eat any of the many creatures that don't have fins and scales that live in the water, whether in the sea or in fresh water.

¹¹ They are repulsive.* You must not eat their meat, and you must treat their dead bodies as repulsive.

¹³ As for the birds,† these must not be eaten because they are repulsive: eagle, griffon vulture, bearded vulture,

¹⁴ buzzard, kite and similar birds of prey,

¹⁵ any raven or crow,

¹⁶ tawny owl, long-eared owl, gulls, any kind of hawk,

¹⁷ little owl, fish owl, eagle owl,

¹⁸ barn owl, desert owl, Egyptian vulture,

¹⁹ storks and any kind of heron, hoopoe, and bats.

²⁰ All flying insects that crawl‡ are repulsive to you.

²² So in this category you can eat any kind of locust, bald locust, cricket, or grasshopper.

* 11:11 "Repulsive": not only in a sensory way, but also in the sense that they are ceremonially unclean. † 11:13 The identification of the specific birds in the list that follows is uncertain. However, it primarily refers to birds of prey and other birds that eat carrion or unclean animals. In addition the word translated "birds" really means "flying creatures," which accounts for the inclusion of bats at the end of the list. ‡ 11:20 "Crawl": literally, "that go on all fours." However, this does not mean that insects had only four legs when they do in fact have six, it simply refers to the usual way animals move, most having four legs.

²³ All other flying insects that crawl are repulsive to you,
²⁴ and will make you unclean. If you touch their dead bodies you will be unclean until the evening,

²⁶ Every animal with hooves that are not divided, or that does not chew the cud, is unclean for you. If you touch any of them you will be unclean.

²⁷ Any four-legged animal that walks on its paws are unclean for you. If you touch their dead bodies you will be unclean until the evening.

²⁸ and if you pick up one of their dead bodies you must wash your clothes, and you will be unclean until the evening. They are unclean for you.

²⁹ The following animals[§] that run along the ground are unclean for you: rats, mice, any kind of large lizard,

³¹ These animals that run along the ground are unclean for you. If you touch a dead one of them you will be unclean until the evening.

³² Anything that one of them dies and lands on becomes unclean. Whatever it is—something made of wood, clothing, leather, sackcloth, or any work tool—it must be washed with water and will be unclean until the evening. Then it will become clean.

³³ If one of them falls into a clay pot, all that's in it becomes unclean. You must smash the pot.

³⁴ If water from that pot touches any food, that food becomes unclean, and any drink from a pot like that also becomes unclean.

³⁵ Anything that one of their dead bodies falls on becomes unclean. If it's an oven or a stove,* it must be smashed. It is permanently unclean for you.

³⁶ On the other hand, if it's a spring or cistern containing water then it will remain clean, but if you touch one of these dead bodies in it you will be unclean.

³⁷ Similarly, if one of their dead bodies falls on any seed used for sowing, the seed remains clean;

³⁹ If an animal that you are allowed to eat dies, anyone who touches the dead body will be unclean until the evening.

⁴⁰ If you eat anything from the dead body you must wash your clothes and you will be unclean until the evening. If you pick up the dead body you must wash your clothes and you will be unclean until the evening.

⁴¹ Every animal that crawls along the ground is repulsive—you must not eat it.

⁴³ Don't defile yourselves by any such crawling animal. Don't make yourselves unclean or defiled by them,

[§] 11:29 The identification of the specific animals in the list that follows is uncertain. * 11:35 "Stove": the word here is only used once in the Old Testament and so its meaning is uncertain. Clearly it is made of something breakable such as pottery.

⁴⁴ because I am the Lord your God; so dedicate yourselves and be holy, because I am holy. Don't defile yourselves by any animal that crawls along the ground.

⁴⁵ I am the Lord who led you out of Egypt so that I could be your God. So be holy, because I am holy.

² Any woman who becomes pregnant and has a boy, she will be unclean for one week, in the same way that she is unclean during her period.

⁵ If a woman has a daughter, she will be unclean for two weeks, in the same way that she is unclean during her menstrual period. The woman must wait a further sixty-six days for the purification of her blood.

⁷ The priest will then present them to the Lord to purify her so she will be clean from her bleeding. These are the regulations for a woman after she's had a son or a daughter.

⁸ If a woman can't afford to bring a lamb, she is to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons. One is for the burnt offering and the other for the purification offering. The priest will offer them to purify her, and she will be clean."

² "Anyone who has a swelling, a rash, or a spot on the skin that may be an infectious skin disease must be taken to Aaron the priest or to one of his descendants.

³ The priest will inspect whatever is on the skin. If the hair there has turned white and if the issue seems to be more than something on the surface, it is a serious skin disease, and the priest who inspects it will declare the person unclean.

⁴ But if the spot is only a white discoloration and doesn't seem to be more than superficial, and if the hair on the spot has not turned white, the priest will place the person in isolation for seven days.

⁶ On the seventh day after this the priest will inspect it again. If the spot has faded and has not spread on the skin, the priest will declare the person clean since it was a rash. They must wash their clothes and will be clean.

⁷ However, if the rash does spread after the person has been inspected by the priest and has been declared clean, the person must go back to be inspected again.

⁸ If the priest discovers that the rash has spread, he must declare the person unclean because it is certainly a skin disease.

⁹ Anyone who develops an infectious skin disease must be taken to the priest.

¹⁰ The priest will inspect them, and if there is a white swelling on the skin and the hair there has turned white, and there is an open wound in the swelling,

¹¹ it is a serious skin disease and the priest must declare them unclean. He doesn't need to place the person in isolation because they are unclean.

¹² However, if the skin disease affects all their skin so that it covers their skin from head to toe, everywhere the priest can see,

¹³ the priest shall inspect them, and if the disease has covered their entire body, he will declare the person clean. As it has all turned white, they are clean.

¹⁴ But if when someone's inspected an open wound is found, they will be unclean.

¹⁵ When the priest discovers an open wound, he must declare the person unclean. The open wound is unclean; it is an infectious skin disease.

¹⁶ But if the open wound heals and becomes white, the person must go back to the priest.

¹⁷ The priest will inspect them again, and if the wound has turned white, the priest is to declare the person clean; then they are clean.

¹⁹ and a white swelling or a reddish-white spot appears in its place, they must show themselves to the priest.

²⁰ The priest shall inspect it, and if it seems to be more than something on the surface, and if the hair there has turned white, the priest shall declare him unclean. It is a serious skin disease that has infected the boil.

²¹ However, if when the priest inspects it, it doesn't have white hair in it and doesn't seem to be more than superficial, and has faded, the priest is to place the person in isolation for seven days.

²⁵ the priest must inspect it. If the hair in the spot has turned white and the spot seems to be more than something on the surface, it is a serious skin disease that has infected the burn, and the priest who inspects it will declare the person unclean. It is an infectious skin disease.

²⁶ However, if when the priest inspects it, it doesn't have white hair in it and doesn't seem to be more than superficial, and has faded, the priest is to place the person in isolation for seven days.

²⁷ On the seventh day the priest will inspect the person again. If then the spot has spread further on the skin, the priest will declare them unclean; it is a serious skin disease.

²⁸ But if the spot stays the same and hasn't spread on the skin, but has faded, it's the swelling from the burn, and the priest will declare them clean because it's just the scar from the burn.

³⁰ the priest shall inspect it, and if it appears to be more than superficial and the hair in it has become pale and thin, the priest must declare them unclean; it is an infection producing scabs, a serious disease of the head or chin.

³¹ However, if the priest inspects the scabby infection and it doesn't seem to be more than superficial and has no pale* hair in it, the priest is to place the person in isolation for seven days.

³² On the seventh day the priest will inspect the person again and if the scabby infection has not spread and there is no pale hair in it, and it doesn't seem to be more than superficial,

³³ then the person must shave themselves except for the scaly area. The priest is to place the person in isolation for another seven days.

³⁴ On the seventh day the priest will inspect the scabby infection, and if it has not spread on the skin and doesn't seem to be more than superficial, the priest is to pronounce the person clean. They must wash their clothes and will be clean.

³⁵ However, if the scabby infection has spread on the skin after been declared clean,

³⁶ the priest must inspect them, and if the scabby infection has indeed spread on the skin, the priest doesn't need to check for pale hair; the person is unclean.

³⁷ But if the priest sees that the scabby infection hasn't changed, and black hair has grown in it, then it has healed. The person is clean, and the priest must declare it.

³⁸ If someone, man or woman, has white spots on the skin,

³⁹ the priest shall inspect them, and if the spots appear a dull white, it's just a rash that has developed on the skin; the person is clean.

⁴¹ If he has a receding hairline and he goes bald on his forehead, he is still clean.

⁴² But if a reddish-white sore appears on his bald head or forehead, it is an infectious disease developing.

⁴³ The priest must inspect him, and if the swelling of the sore on his bald head or forehead looks reddish-white like a skin disease,

⁴⁵ Anyone who has such diseases must wear clothes that are torn and let their hair remain uncombed. They must cover their faces† and shout out, 'Unclean, unclean!'

⁴⁶ They remain unclean as long as the infection lasts. They have to live alone somewhere outside the camp.

* 13:31 "Pale": the Hebrew text reads "black" but this is probably a scribal error. † 13:45 "Faces": literally, "upper lip."

⁴⁸ anything woven or knitted made from linen or wool, or anything made of leather:

⁵⁰ The priest must inspect the mold and place the item in isolation for seven days.

⁵¹ On the seventh day the priest shall inspect it again, and if the patch of mold has spread in the material, whether it's leather, woven, or knitted or some other leather item, then it is a harmful mold; the article is unclean, whatever it is being used for.

⁵² The priest is to burn it, whether the affected item is wool or linen or leather. Because the mold is harmful, the article must be burned.

⁵³ However, if when the priest inspects it again it, the patch mold has not spread,

⁵⁴ the priest shall order that the affected item is washed and placed in isolation for another seven days.

⁵⁵ Once it has been washed, the priest is to inspect again it, and if the item with the mold hasn't changed how it looks, it is unclean. Though the mold hasn't spread, you must burn the item, whether the mold damage is on the inside or the outside.

⁵⁶ If the priest inspects it and the patch of mold has faded after it has been washed, he is to cut out the affected part the material, whether it's leather, woven, or knitted.

⁵⁷ However, if the mold comes back then it is spreading. In that case you must burn the affected item.

⁵⁸ If the mold disappears after washing, then have it washed again, and it will be clean.

⁵⁹ These are the regulations regarding what needs to be done when mold contaminates wool or linen material, whether woven or knitted, or any leather item, as to declaring it clean or unclean."

¹ The Lord told Moses,

² "These are the regulations regarding those who have had a skin disease when they are declared clean having been brought to the priest.

³ The priest must go outside the camp and inspect the person. If the skin disease has healed,

⁴ the priest shall have two ceremonially clean birds brought to him, also some cedar wood, crimson thread, and hyssop, on behalf of the person to be made clean.

[‡] 13:47 "The following regulations relate": supplied for clarity. [§] 13:47 "Mold": the word used is the same as that for the infectious skin disease noted above.

⁷ He will use the blood to sprinkle seven times the person being made clean of the skin disease. Then the priest will declare them clean and let the live bird fly away.

⁹ On the seventh day they must shave off all their hair: their head, beard, eyebrows, and the rest of their hair. They must wash their clothes and wash themselves with water, and they will be clean.

¹² The priest will take one of the male lambs and present it as a guilt offering, together with the log of olive oil; and he will wave them before the Lord as a wave offering.

¹³ Then he will kill the lamb near the sanctuary where the sin offering and burnt offering are killed. The sin offering and the guilt offering belong to the priest; it is most holy.

¹⁶ dip his right index finger in it, and using his finger, sprinkle some of the olive oil seven times before the Lord.

¹⁷ The priest will then use some of the rest of the olive oil remaining in his palm on the person being made clean, and put it on top of the blood of the guilt offering. This will be on their right earlobe, on their right thumb, and on the big toe of their right foot, on top of the blood of the guilt offering.

¹⁸ What is left of the olive oil in his palm, the priest will put on the head of the person being made clean and then make them right before the Lord.

¹⁹ The priest will sacrifice the sin offering to make the person right, so that they are now clean from their uncleanness. After that, the priest will kill the burnt offering

²¹ But those who are poor and can't afford these offerings must bring one male lamb as a guilt offering to be waved to make them right, together with a tenth an ephah of best flour mixed with olive oil for a grain offering, a log of olive oil,

²² and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, whichever they can afford. One is to be used as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering.

* 14:10 "Log" is a liquid measure, a little less than a pint.

²³ On the eighth day they are to take them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting before the Lord so they can be made clean.

²⁴ The priest will take the lamb for the guilt offering, together with the log of olive oil, and wave them as a wave offering before the Lord.

²⁷ and using his right index finger, will sprinkle some of the oil from his left palm seven times before the Lord.

²⁸ The priest shall also put some of the olive oil in his palm on the right earlobe of the person being made clean, on their right thumb, and on the big toe of his right foot, in the same places as the blood of the guilt offering.

²⁹ What is left of the olive oil in his palm, the priest will put on the head of the person being made clean and then make them right before the Lord.

³⁰ Then they must sacrifice one of the turtledoves or young pigeons, whichever they can afford,

³¹ one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, along with the grain offering. This is how the priest will make the person right and clean before the Lord.

³² These are the regulations for those who have a skin disease and can't afford the usual offerings to make people clean."

³³ Then the Lord told Moses and Aaron,

³⁴ "When you get to Canaan, the land I'm giving you to own, if I put[†] some mold into a house there and contaminate it,

³⁵ the owner of the house must come and tell the priest, 'It seems my house has something like mold.'

³⁶ The priest must order the house to be emptied before he goes in to inspect the mold, so that nothing in the house will be declared unclean. Once that's done, the priest is to go in and inspect the house.

³⁷ He will examine the house and see whether the mold on the walls is made up of green or red indentations that go under the surface,

³⁹ On the seventh day the priest will return and inspect the house again. If the mold has spread on the walls,

⁴¹ Then he will order the all the plaster inside of the house to be scraped off and dumped in an unclean area outside the town.

⁴³ If the mold returns and affects the house again even after the stones have been removed and the house has been scraped and replastered,

⁴⁴ the priest must come and inspect it. If he sees the mold has spread in the house, it is a harmful mold; the house is unclean.

[†] 14:34 This is another example of the Lord being "credited" for a situation because he is the all-powerful God in charge of the universe. It does not necessarily mean that God directly acts in this way.

⁴⁶ Anyone who goes into the house during any time that it is sealed will be unclean until the evening.

⁴⁸ However, if when the priest comes and inspects it and finds that the mold hasn't reappeared after the house was replastered, he shall declare the house clean because the mold is gone.

⁵¹ He will dip the live bird, the cedar wood, crimson thread, and hyssop, in the blood of the bird that was killed and the fresh water, and sprinkle the house seven times.

⁵² He will make the house clean with the bird's blood, the fresh water, the live bird, the cedar wood, the hyssop, and the crimson thread.

⁵³ Then he will let the live bird fly away outside the town. This is how he will make the house right, and it will be clean.

⁵⁴ These are the regulations for any infectious skin disease, for a scabby infection,

⁵⁵ for mold on clothing and in a house,

⁵⁶ as well as for a swelling, rash, or spot.

⁵⁷ They are used to decide whether something is clean or unclean. These are the regulations regarding skin diseases and mold."

15

² "Tell the Israelites, When any man has a discharge from his genitals, the discharge is unclean.

³ The uncleanness comes from his discharge, whether his body allows it to flow out or blocks it. It makes him unclean.

⁵ Anyone who touches his bed has to wash their clothes, and wash themselves with water, and they will be unclean until the evening.

⁶ Anyone who sits on whatever the man was sitting on has to wash their clothes, and wash themselves with water, and they will be unclean until the evening.

⁸ If the man with the discharge spits on anyone who is clean, they have to wash their clothes, and wash themselves with water, and they will be unclean until the evening.

⁹ Whatever the man sits on when he's riding will be unclean.

¹⁰ Anyone who touches whatever was under him will be unclean until the evening. Anyone who picks these things up has to wash their clothes, and wash themselves with water, and they will be unclean until the evening.

¹¹ If the man with the discharge touches anyone without washing his hands with water first, the person who was touched has to wash their clothes, and wash themselves with water, and they will be unclean until the evening.

¹² Any clay item touched by the man must be broken, and any wooden item must be washed with water.

¹⁴ On the eighth day he must take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, come before the Lord at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and give them to the priest.

¹⁵ The priest will sacrifice them, one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. This is how the priest will make the man right before the Lord because of his discharge.

¹⁶ When a man has a release of semen, he must wash his whole body with water, and he will be unclean until the evening.

¹⁷ Any clothing or leather that the release of semen falls on must be washed with water, and it will remain unclean until the evening.

¹⁸ If a man sleeps with a woman and there is a release of semen, both of them must wash with water, and they will remain unclean until the evening.

¹⁹ When a woman has a discharge of blood from her body, she will be unclean because of her period for seven days, and anyone who touches her will be unclean until the evening.

²⁰ Anything she lies on during her period will be unclean,

²¹ and anyone who touches her bed must wash their clothes and wash themselves with water, and will be unclean until the evening.

²² Anyone who touches what she was sitting on has to wash their clothes, and wash themselves with water, and they will be unclean until the evening.

²³ Whether it's a bed or something she was sitting on, anyone who touches it will be unclean until the evening.

²⁴ If a man sleeps with her and the blood from her period touches him, he will be unclean for seven days, and any bed he lies on will be unclean.

²⁵ When a woman has a discharge of blood for several days when it's not the time for her period, or if it continues past her period, she will be unclean for the whole time she is bleeding, not just for the days of her period.

²⁶ Any bed she lies on or anything she sits on while she has her discharge will be unclean, just as her bed is during her period.

²⁸ Once the woman's discharge has healed, she must allocate seven days for her cleaning process, wash her clothes, and wash herself in fresh water, and she shall be clean.

²⁹ On the eighth day she must take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, come before the Lord at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and give them to the priest.

³⁰ The priest will sacrifice them, one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. This is how the priest will make her right before the Lord because of her discharge.

³¹ This is how you must stop the Israelites from becoming ceremonially unclean, so that they don't die by making my Tabernacle unclean, the place where I live with them.

³³ a woman during her period, any male or female who has a discharge, and a man who sleeps with an unclean woman.”

¹ The Lord spoke to Moses after the death of two of Aaron's sons when they went into the Lord's presence.

² The Lord told Moses: “Warn your brother Aaron not to come into the Most Holy Place whenever he wants, otherwise he'll die. For that's where I appear in the cloud above the atonement cover of the Ark, behind the veil.

³ These are the instructions as to how Aaron is to enter the sanctuary. He is to come with a young bull for a sin offering and a ram for a burnt offering.

⁵ From the people of Israel he is to bring two male goats for a sin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering.

⁶ Aaron will present the bull as his own sin offering to make himself and his household right.

⁸ Aaron will cast lots to choose between the goats, one for the Lord and the other for the scapegoat.

¹⁰ The goat chosen by lot as the scapegoat is to be presented alive before the Lord to make things right by sending it away into the wilderness as the scapegoat.

¹¹ Aaron is to present the bull for his sin offering to make things right for himself and his household by killing the bull as his own sin offering.

¹² Then he will fill up a incense burner with burning coals from the altar that is before the Lord, and with his hands full of finely-ground sweet-smelling incense, take them behind the veil.

¹⁴ He will take some of the bull's blood and with his finger sprinkle it on the east side of the atonement cover. He shall also sprinkle some of it with his finger seven times in front of the atonement cover.

¹⁵ Then Aaron will slaughter the goat for the sin offering for the people and bring its blood behind the veil, and with its blood he must do as he did with the bull's blood: He is to sprinkle it against the mercy seat and in front of it.

* 16:13 The “Testimony” refers to the two tablets of the Ten Commandments within the Ark.

¹⁸ Then he shall go to the altar that is before the Lord and purify it. He is to take some of the blood from the bull and the goat and put it on all the horns of the altar.

¹⁹ He is to sprinkle some of the blood on it with his finger seven times to dedicate it and purify it from the uncleanness of the Israelites.

²¹ Then he will put both hands on the head of the live goat and confess over it all the wrongs of the Israelites, all their acts of rebellion, and all their sins. He is to put them on the goat's head and send it away into the desert, taken there by a man chosen to do it.

²² The goat will take upon itself all their sins and go into a distant place, and the man will send it away into the desert.

²³ Aaron is to return to the Tent of Meeting, take off the linen clothes he put on before he went into the Most Holy Place, and leave them there.

²⁴ He is to wash himself with water in the sanctuary and put on his own clothes. Then he will go out and sacrifice his burnt offering and the people's burnt offering that makes him and the people right.

²⁶ The man who went and sent away the scapegoat must wash his clothes and wash himself with water; then he may come back into the camp.

²⁷ The remains of the bull used for the sin offering and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought into the Most Holy Place to purify it, must be taken outside the camp. Their skin, meat, and waste must be burned.

²⁸ The person who burns them must wash his clothes and wash himself with water; then he may come back into the camp.

²⁹ This regulation applies to you for all time. The tenth day of the seventh month is a day of self-denial for you. You are not to do any work. This applies to all who are native-born and also any foreigner who living among you,

³⁰ for on this day the process of making you right will be done, to make you clean from all your sins, clean before the Lord.

³¹ It is a Sabbath of Sabbaths, a day of rest and self-denial. This regulation applies for all time.

³² The priest who is anointed and dedicated to succeed his father as high priest shall carry out the ceremony of making things right, and put on the holy linen clothes.

³⁴ This regulation applies to you for all time: once a year the Israelites have all their sins made right." Moses did everything as the Lord had ordered.

³ Any Israelite who kills a bull, a lamb, or a goat, whether inside the camp or outside of it,

⁴ instead of bringing it to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting to present it as an offering to the Lord there, that person shall be held guilty of illegal killing.* They have shed blood and must be expelled from their people.

⁵ This is why the Israelites have to bring to the Lord the sacrifices they currently offer out in the fields. They must bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting and offer them as peace offerings to the Lord.

⁶ The priest will sprinkle the blood on the altar of the Lord at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and burn the fat to be accepted by the Lord.

⁷ They must not continue to offer their sacrifices to the goat devils† with whom they have acted like prostitutes. This is a regulation for all time and for all future generations.

⁸ Warn them that any Israelite or any foreigner living among them who offers a burnt offering or a sacrifice

⁹ without bringing it to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting to sacrifice it to the Lord must be expelled from their people.

¹¹ Life is in the body's blood. I have given it to you so that by putting it on the altar your lives can be made right, for it is the lifeblood that makes people's lives right.

¹³ Any Israelite or foreigner living among them who hunts and kills a wild animal or a bird which are allowed be eaten must drain the blood from its body and cover it with earth,

¹⁵ Anyone, Israelite or foreigner, who eats anything found dead or killed by wild animals must wash their clothes and wash with water, and they will be unclean until the evening. Then they will be clean.

¹⁶ But if they don't wash their clothes and wash themselves with water, then they bear responsibility for their guilt."

18

² "Tell the Israelites: I am the Lord your God.

³ Don't follow the ways of Egypt where you used to live, and don't follow the ways of Canaan where I'm going to take you. Don't adopt their practices.

* 17:4 "Illegal killing": literally simply "blood," the idea of bloodguilt being implied. † 17:7 Clearly some form of pagan worship.

4 Do what I tell you and keep my rules. I am the Lord your God.

5 If you keep my rules and do what I tell you, you will live. I am the Lord.

7 Don't shame your father by having sex with your mother. She is your mother; don't have sex with her.

8 Don't have sex with any of your father's wives and shame your father.

9 Don't have sex with your sister,* whether she's your father's daughter or your mother's daughter, or whether she was born in the same house as you or somewhere else.

10 Don't have sex with your granddaughter, your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter, because that would be shameful thing for you.

11 Don't have sex with the daughter of any of your father's wives and your father, she is your sister.

12 Don't have sex with your father's sister. She is a close relative of your father.

14 Don't bring shame on your uncle by having sex with his wife. She is your aunt.

15 Don't have sex with your daughter-in-law. She is your son's wife. Don't have sex with her.

16 Don't have sex with your brother's wife and bring shame on your brother.

17 Don't have sex with both a woman and her daughter. Don't have sex with her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter. They are her close relatives. That is something I loathe.

18 Don't marry your wife's sister and have sex with her while your wife is still alive. They will be hostile wives to one other.

19 Don't have sex with a woman during the time she is unclean because of her period.

20 Don't commit any sex act with any other man's wife. This would pollute you and make you unclean.

21 Don't give any of your children as a human sacrifice to Molech,† for you must not disgrace the character of your God. I am the Lord.

22 Don't have sex with a man as with a woman. That is something disgusting.

23 Don't have sex with any animal. This would pollute you and make you unclean.

24 A woman must not give herself to an animal to have sex with it. That is something disgusting. Don't pollute yourselves and make yourselves unclean by doing anything like this. That's the reason I'm expelling these nations from the land—they polluted themselves because of all these practices.

25 Even the land has become polluted, so I am punishing it for the sins committed by the people who live there, and the land will vomit them out.

26 You, however, must do what I tell you and keep my rules. You must not do any of these disgusting acts, whether an Israelite or a foreigner living among you.

* 18:9 This clearly includes a half-sister or a step-sister. † 18:21 Molech was a pagan god. The sacrifices were of children placed alive into the metal idols hands which had been heated with fire.

²⁹ Consequently anyone who does any of these disgusting things must be expelled from their people.

³⁰ You must accept my demand that you don't follow any of these disgusting practices done before you arrived. Don't pollute yourselves and make yourselves unclean. I am the Lord your God."

19

² "Tell all the Israelites: You must be holy because I am holy; I am the Lord your God.

³ Show respect for your mother and father, and keep my Sabbaths. I am the Lord your God.

⁴ Don't turn to idols for help or make for metal images of gods. I am the Lord your God.

⁵ When you sacrifice a peace offering to the Lord, make sure you do it correctly so God will accept you.

⁶ It needs to be eaten the day you sacrifice it, or the next day. Whatever is left over on the third day must be burned.

⁷ If you do eat some of it on the third day, the sacrifice becomes repulsive and won't be accepted.

⁸ Anyone who eats it will bear responsibility for their guilt, for they have made unclean what is holy to the Lord. They must be expelled from their people.

⁹ When you harvest the crops grown on your land, don't harvest right up to the edges of your field, or collect what has been missed.

¹⁰ Don't take every last grape from your vineyard or pick up the ones that have fallen. Leave them for the poor people and foreigners. I am the Lord your God.

¹¹ Don't steal. Don't lie. Don't deceive each other.

¹⁴ Don't speak badly about deaf people. Don't put objects in the way of blind people to trip them up. Instead show respect to your God. I am the Lord.

¹⁵ Don't be a corrupt judge. Don't show favoritism to the poor or to the rich. Judge others fairly.

¹⁸ Don't look for revenge or hold a grudge against anybody, but love your neighbor as yourself. I am the Lord.

* 19:12 Literally, "name." Throughout Scripture "name" is related to aspects of character. † 19:16 Literally, "don't stand still on the blood of your neighbor."

¹⁹ Do what I tell you! Don't make different kinds of livestock breed together. Don't sow your fields with two different kinds of seed. Don't wear clothes made of two different kinds of material.

²⁰ If a man has sex with a servant girl promised to become another man's wife, but who hasn't yet been bought or set free, then compensation has to be paid. However, they are not to be killed, because she hadn't been set free.

²¹ But the man must bring a ram as his guilt offering to the Lord at the entrance of the Tent of Meeting.

²² The priest will set things right for him before the Lord using the ram of the guilt offering for the sin he has committed, and his sin will be forgiven.

²³ When you enter the land and plant any kind of fruit tree, treat the fruit at first as unclean.[‡] For three years you are forbidden to eat it.

²⁴ The fourth year all the fruit must be dedicated to the Lord as a praise offering.

²⁵ However, the fifth year you may eat the fruit and in this way you will have an even greater harvest. I am the Lord your God.

²⁷ Don't cut your hair on the sides of your head or trim the sides of your beard,[§]

²⁸ don't cut your bodies in some pagan ritual for the dead, and don't get yourselves tattoos. I am the Lord.

³⁰ Keep my Sabbaths and show respect for my sanctuary. I am the Lord.

³¹ Don't try and find help from mediums or spiritists—don't even go looking for them, otherwise they will corrupt you. I am the Lord your God.

³³ Don't mistreat foreigners who live in your country.

³⁴ Treat them in the same way as a fellow citizen, and love them as you love yourself, because you were once foreigners living in Egypt. I am the Lord your God.

³⁵ Don't use dishonest weights and measures.

³⁶ Make sure your scales and weights are accurate, that your measures of ephah and hin are correct. I am the Lord your God who led you out of Egypt.

³⁷ Keep all my rules and regulations, and make sure you follow them. I am the Lord."

20

² "Tell the Israelites: these regulations are for both Israelites and foreigners living among them. Anyone who sacrifices their children to Molech must be executed. The community must stone them to death.

[‡] 19:23 "Unclean": literally, "uncircumcised." [§] 19:27 It is thought that this prohibition is associated with the next regarding some pagan ceremony.

³ I will disown them and expel them from their people, because by sacrificing their children to Molech they have polluted my sanctuary and disgraced my reputation.

⁴ If the community decides to look the other way and not execute those who sacrifice their children to Molech, then I will take action against them myself.*

⁵ I will disown them and their family, and expel them from their people—and not just them, but everyone who follows them in spiritually prostituting themselves with Molech.

⁸ Keep my rules and put them into practice. I am the Lord who makes you holy.

¹⁰ Any man who commits adultery with someone else's wife must be executed, as well as the woman.

¹¹ A man who has sex with his father's wife has brought shame on his father. Both the man and the woman must be executed. Both must surely be put to death; they bear the responsibility for their punishment.

¹² A man who has sex with his daughter-in-law must be executed, as well as the woman. They have done something perverse; they bear the responsibility for their punishment.

¹³ Men who have sex with other men as with a woman have done something disgusting. They must be executed; they bear the responsibility for their punishment.

¹⁴ A man who marries both a woman and her mother has acted perversely. They must all be burned to death so that there will be no such wickedness among you.

¹⁶ A woman who gives herself to an animal to have sex with it must be executed, along with the animal. They must both be killed; they bear the responsibility for their punishment.

¹⁷ A man who marries his sister, whether she's his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and they have sex, has done something shameful. They must be expelled from their people in front of everybody. He has brought shame on his sister; he bears the responsibility for his punishment.

¹⁸ A man who has sex with a woman having her period he has exposed where her blood flow comes from, and she has too. They must both be expelled from their people.

¹⁹ Don't have sex with your aunt, whether on your father or your mother's side, because it brings shame on your own family. Both will bear responsibility for their sin.

* 20:4 "I will take action against them myself": supplied for clarity. † 20:9 "They bear the responsibility for their punishment": literally, "his blood is on him."

²¹ A man who marries his brother's wife does something that is unclean. He has brought shame on his brother; the couple will have no children.

²² So keep all my rules and regulations, so that the land where I'm taking you to live won't vomit you out.

²⁴ But I have promised you that you will take over their land. I'm going to give it to you to own, a land that flows with milk and honey. I am the Lord your God, who has made you a distinctive people different from all others.

²⁵ So make sure you observe the difference between clean and unclean animals and birds. Don't make yourselves unclean because of any animal or bird, or by anything that runs along the ground. I have made the difference clear: they are unclean for you.

²⁶ You shall be holy to me because I am holy. I am the Lord, and I have made you a distinctive people different from all other nations. You belong to me.

²⁷ Anyone, man or a woman, who is a medium or a spiritist must be executed. They are to be stoned to death; they bear the responsibility for their punishment."

¹ The Lord told Moses, "Tell Aaron's sons, the priests: A priest is not to make himself unclean by touching the dead body of any of his relatives.

³ or his unmarried sister since she is a close relative because she doesn't have a husband.

⁴ He must not make himself unclean for those only related to him by marriage—he is not to make himself ceremonially impure.

⁶ They must be holy to their God and not disgrace their God's reputation. They are the one who present the food offerings to the Lord, the food of their God. Consequently they must be holy.

⁷ A priest is not to marry a woman made unclean through prostitution† or who is divorced by her husband, for the priest must be holy to his God.

⁸ You shall consider him holy because he presents the food offerings to your God. He shall be holy to you, because I am holy. I am the Lord, and I chose you as my special people.‡

⁹ A priest's daughter who makes herself unclean through prostitution makes her father unclean. She must be executed by burning.

¹⁰ The high priest has the highest place among the other priests. He has been anointed with olive oil poured on his head and has been ordained to wear the priestly clothing. He must not leave his hair uncombed or tear his clothes.[§]

* 21:5 See 19:27. † 21:7 This may include cultic prostitution at pagan temples. ‡ 21:8 "Chose you as my special people": literally, "set you apart."

¹¹ He is not to go near any dead body. He must not make himself unclean, even if it is for his own father or mother.

¹² He must not leave to deal with someone who has died* or make the sanctuary of his God unclean because he has been dedicated by the anointing oil of his God. I am the Lord.

¹⁴ He must not marry a widow, a divorced woman, or one made unclean through prostitution. He has to marry a virgin from his own people,

¹⁵ so that he doesn't make his children unclean among his people,[†] for I am the Lord who makes him holy."

¹⁶ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁷ "Tell Aaron: These rules apply for all future generations. If any of your descendants has a physical defect, he is not allowed to come and present the food offerings of his God.

¹⁸ No man is allowed to do this if he has any defects, including anyone who is blind, crippled, facially disfigured, or has deformities,

¹⁹ anyone who has a broken foot or arm,

²¹ No descendant of Aaron the priest who has a defect is allowed to come and present the food offerings to the Lord. Because he has a defect, he must not come and offer the food of his God.

²³ but because he has a defect, he is not allowed to go near the curtain or the altar, so that my sanctuary and everything in it[‡] are not made unclean, because I am the Lord who makes them holy."

² "Tell Aaron and his sons to be dedicated* when dealing with the holy offerings that the Israelites have dedicated to me, so that they don't dishonor my holy character. I am the Lord.

³ Tell them: These rules apply for all future generations. If any of your descendants in an unclean state comes close to the holy offerings that the Israelites dedicate to honor the Lord, that person must be expelled from my presence. I am the Lord.

[§] 21:10 These were signs of distress or mourning. * 21:12 "To deal with someone who has died": supplied for clarity. It doesn't mean the high priest could never leave the sanctuary. [†] 21:15 Having a foreign wife would mean that any children of the marriage would be considered unclean. They also could not follow their father in the priesthood, and indeed he could not continue as a priest either. [‡] 21:23 "My sanctuary and everything in it": literally, "my sanctuaries." * 22:2 "Dedicated": or "treat with respect." The sense is that since the offerings made by the people were given in dedication, the priests should deal with them in the same way.

anything made unclean by a dead body or by a man who has had a release of semen,

⁵ or anyone who touches an unclean animal or an unclean person, (whatever the uncleanness is),

⁶ anyone who touches anything like this will remain unclean until evening. He is not allowed to eat from the holy offerings unless he has washed himself with water.

⁸ He must not eat anything that's died, or killed by wild animals, because that would make him unclean. I am the Lord.

⁹ The priests must do as I demand, so that they don't become guilty and die because they have not done so, treating my requirements with contempt. I am the Lord who makes them holy.

¹⁰ Anyone who isn't part of a priest's family is not allowed eat the holy offerings. This also applies to a priest's guest or his paid worker.

¹² If the priest's daughter gets married to a man who isn't a priest, she is not allowed to eat the holy offerings.

¹³ But if a priest's daughter without children is widowed or divorced and goes back to her father's house, she is allowed to eat her father's food as she did when she was growing up. But no one outside the priest's family can eat it.

¹⁵ The priests must not make the holy offerings the Israelites present to the Lord unclean

¹⁶ by allowing the people to eat them and in so doing take upon themselves the punishment for guilt. For I am the Lord who makes them holy."

¹⁷ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁸ "Tell Aaron, his sons and all the Israelites: If you or foreigner living with you wants to make a gift as a burnt offering to the Lord, whether it's to fulfill a promise or as a freewill offering, this is what you are to do.

²⁰ Don't present anything with a defect because it won't be accepted on your behalf.

²¹ If you want to present a peace offering to the Lord from the herd or flock to fulfill a promise or as a freewill offering, in order to be acceptable the animal must be perfect, completely without defects.

²² Don't present to the Lord an animal that is blind, injured, or damaged in some way, or has warts, skin sores, or scabs. Don't place any animal that has these on the altar as a food offering to the Lord.

²³ However, you can present a freewill offering of a bull or sheep that has a leg that is too long or too short, but not if it is a sacrifice to fulfill a promise.

²⁴ Don't present to the Lord an animal with testicles that are accidentally or deliberately damaged. You are not allowed to sacrifice any of these damaged animals in your land.

²⁶ The Lord told Moses,

²⁷ “When a bull, a sheep, or a goat is born, it must stay with its mother for seven days. After eight days it can be accepted as a food offering to the Lord.

²⁸ However, don't kill a bull or a sheep and its young on the same day.

²⁹ When you present a thank offering to the Lord, make sure to do so in a way that it will be accepted on your behalf.

³⁰ It has to be eaten on the same day. Don't leave any of it until morning. I am the Lord.

³¹ Keep my rules and put them into practice. I am the Lord.

³² Don't disgrace my holy character. I must be accepted as holy by you. I am the Lord who makes you holy.

³³ I am the one who led you out of Egypt to be your God. I am the Lord.”

23

² “Tell the Israelites that these are my religious festivals, the festivals of the Lord that you are to call as the holy times when we meet together.

³ You have six days to work, but the seventh day is a Sabbath of complete rest, a holy day of meeting together. Don't do any work. It is the Lord's Sabbath everywhere you live.

⁴ These are the Lord's religious festivals, the holy meetings that you ate to announce at their specific times.

⁶ The Lord's Festival of Unleavened Bread begins on the fifteenth day of the first month. For seven days the bread you eat must be made without yeast.

⁷ On the first day you are hold a holy meeting. You must not do any of your usual work.

⁸ For seven days you shall present food offerings to the Lord. There is to be a holy meeting on the seventh day. You must not do any of your usual work.”

⁹ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁰ “Tell the Israelites that when you enter the land that I'm giving you and you harvest your crops, take a stack of grain from the firstfruits of your harvest to the priest.

¹¹ He will wave the stack of grain before the Lord so that it may be accepted on your behalf. The priest is to do this the day following the Sabbath.

¹³ together with its grain offering of two-tenths of an ephah of best flour mixed with olive oil (a food offering to the Lord to be accepted by him) and its drink offering of a quarter of a hin of wine.

¹⁴ Don't eat any bread, roasted grain, or new grain until the time you bring this offering to your God. This regulation is for all time and for future generations everywhere you live.

¹⁷ Bring two loaves of bread from your homes as a wave offering. Make them from two-tenths of an ephah of best flour, baked with yeast, as the firstfruits to the Lord.

¹⁸ As well as the bread, present seven one-year-old male lambs a year old without defects, one young bull, and two rams. They will be a burnt offering to the Lord, as well as their grain offerings and drink offerings, a food offering to the Lord to be accepted by him.

¹⁹ Present one male goat as a sin offering and two one-year-old male lambs a year old as a peace offering.

²⁰ The priest will wave the lambs as a wave offering before the Lord, along with the bread of the firstfruits. The bread and the two lambs are holy to the Lord and belong to the priest.

²¹ That same day you are to announce a holy meeting, and you must not do any of your usual work. This regulation is for all time and for future generations everywhere you live.

²² When you harvest the crops grown on your land, don't harvest right up to the edges of your field, or collect what has been missed. Leave them for the poor people and foreigners. I am the Lord your God."

²³ The Lord told Moses,

²⁴ "Tell the Israelites that on the first day of the seventh month you are to have a special Sabbath of complete rest, a holy meeting that is announced by the sound of trumpets.

²⁶ The Lord told Moses,

²⁷ "The Day of Atonement is on the tenth day of this seventh month. You are to have a holy meeting, deny yourselves,* and present a food offering to the Lord

²⁹ Anyone who does not practice self-denial on this day must be expelled from their people.

³¹ Don't do any kind of work at all. This regulation is for all time and for future generations everywhere you live.

³² It is to be a Sabbath of complete rest for you, and you shall practice self-denial. You are to observe your Sabbath from the evening of the ninth day of the month until evening the next day."

³³ The Lord told Moses,

³⁴ "Tell the Israelites that the Feast of Tabernacles to honor the Lord begins on the fifteenth day of the seventh month and lasts for seven days.

³⁵ On the first day have a holy meeting. You must not do any of your usual work.

* 23:27 "Deny yourselves": this is usually taken to mean fasting and the avoidance of pleasures.

³⁶ For seven days you shall present food offerings to the Lord. On the eighth day you are to have another holy meeting and present a food offering to the Lord. It is a meeting for worship. You must not do any of your usual work.

³⁸ All of these offerings are in addition to those for the Lord's Sabbaths. They are also in addition to your gifts, to all your offerings to fulfill promises, and to all the freewill offerings you present to the Lord.)

³⁹ You shall celebrate a feast to honor the Lord for seven days on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, once you have harvested your crops. The first day and the eighth day are Sabbaths of complete rest.

⁴⁰ On the first day you are to gather branches from large trees, from palm trees, from leafy trees and of river willows, and celebrate before the Lord your God for seven days.

⁴¹ You are to hold this festival to honor the Lord for seven days every year. This regulation is for all time and for all future generations.

⁴² You are to live in temporary shelters[†] for seven days. Every Israelite born in the country must live in shelters,

⁴³ so that your descendants will remember that I made the Israelites live in shelters when I led them out of Egypt. I am the Lord your God."

⁴⁴ So Moses told the Israelites all about the Lord's festivals.

² "Order the Israelites to bring you pure, pressed olive oil for the lamps, so they will always stay lit.

³ From evening until morning Aaron is to constantly look after the lamps continually before the Lord, outside the veil of the Testimony in the Tent of Meeting. This regulation is for all time and for all future generations.

⁴ He is to constantly look after the lamps placed on the pure gold lampstand before the Lord.

⁵ Using the best flour bake twelve loaves, with two-tenths of an ephah of flour per loaf.

⁶ Place them in two piles, six in each pile, on the table made of pure gold that stands before the Lord.

⁸ Every Sabbath day the bread shall be placed before the Lord, given by the Israelites as an ongoing sign of the eternal agreement.

⁹ It is for Aaron and his descendants. They are to eat it in a holy place; for they must treat it as a most holy part of the food offerings given to the Lord. It is their share of the food offerings for all time."

¹⁰ One day a man who had an Israelite mother and an Egyptian father went into the Israelite camp and had a fight with an Israelite.

¹¹ The Israelite woman's son cursed the name of the Lord. So they took him before Moses. (His mother's name was Shelomith, daughter of Dibri, from the tribe of Dan.)

¹² They detained him until it was clear what the Lord wanted them to do about it.

¹³ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁴ "Take the man who cursed me outside the camp. Have all who heard him curse put their hands on his head; then have everyone stone him to death.

¹⁵ Tell the Israelites that anyone who curses their God will be punished for their sin.

¹⁶ Anyone who curses the name of the Lord must to be executed. All of you must stone them to death, whether they are a foreigner who lives with you or an Israelite. If they curse my name, they must be executed.

¹⁷ Anyone who kills someone else must be executed.

¹⁸ Anyone who kills an animal has to replace it—a life for a life.

¹⁹ If anyone injures someone else, whatever they've done must be done to them:

²⁰ a broken bone for a broken bone, an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. Whatever way they injured the victim, the same must be done to them.

²² The same laws apply to foreigners who live with you as to Israelites, for I am the Lord your God."

²³ Moses told this to the Israelites, and they took the man who cursed the Lord outside the camp and stoned him to death. The Israelites did what the Lord ordered Moses to do.

² "Tell the Israelites: When you enter the land that I'm giving you, the land itself must also observe a Sabbath rest in honor of the Lord.

³ Six years you can cultivate your fields, take care of your vineyards, and harvest your crops.

⁴ But the seventh year is to be a Sabbath of complete rest for the land, a Sabbath in honor of the Lord. Don't plant your fields or care for your vineyards.

⁵ Don't harvest what may have grown up in your fields, or collect the grapes from your vineyards that you haven't cared for. The land is to have a year of complete rest.

⁶ You can eat whatever the land produces during the Sabbath year. This applies to yourself, your male and female slaves, paid workers and foreigners who live with you,

⁷ and to your livestock and the wild animals living in your land. Whatever grows can be used for food.

⁸ Count seven 'sabbaths' of years, in other words, seven times seven years, so that the seven sabbaths of years come to forty-nine years.

⁹ Then blow the trumpet all through the country on the tenth day of the seventh month, which is the Day of Atonement. Make sure this signal is heard throughout your whole country.

¹⁰ You are to dedicate the fiftieth year and announce freedom everywhere in the country for all who live there. This is to be your Jubilee, when each of you is to return to reclaim your property and to be part of your family once more.*

¹¹ The fiftieth year will be a Jubilee for you. Don't sow the land; don't harvest what may have grown up in your fields, or collect the grapes from your vineyards that you haven't cared for.

¹² It is a Jubilee and it is to be holy to you. You can eat whatever the land produces.

¹⁴ If you sell land to your neighbor, or buy land from him, don't exploit one another.

¹⁵ When you buy from your neighbor work out how many years have passed since the last Jubilee, for he is to sell to you depending on how many years of harvest remain.

¹⁶ The more years that are left, the more you shall pay; the fewer years that are left, the less you shall pay, because he is actually selling you a specific number of harvests.

¹⁸ Keep my rules and observe my regulations, so you can live in safety in the land.

¹⁹ Then the land will produce good harvest, so you will have plenty to eat and live in safety there.

²⁰ But if you ask, 'What are we going to in the seventh year if we do not sow or harvest our crops?'

²¹ I will bless you in the sixth year, so that the land will produce a crop that will be enough for three years.

²² As you sow in the eighth year, you will still be eating from that harvest, which will last until your harvest in the ninth year.

²⁴ So whatever land you buy to own, you must make arrangements so it can be returned to its original owner.†

²⁵ If one of your people becomes poor and sells you some of their land, their close family can come and buy back what they have sold.

²⁶ However, if they don't have anyone who can buy it back, but in the meantime their financial situation improves and they have enough to buy back the land,

²⁷ they will work how many years it has been since the sale, and pay back the balance to the person who bought it, and go back to their property

²⁸ If they can't raise enough to pay the person back for the land, the buyer will remain its owner until the Jubilee Year. But in the Jubilee the land will be returned so that the original owner can so that they can go back to their property.

* 25:10 This meant that whatever property had been sold during the previous 50 years now reverted back to its original owner, and that anyone who had become a slave was set free and allowed to return to their own family. † 25:24 "Returned to its original owner": literally, "the redemption of the land."

29 If someone sells a house located in a walled town, they have the right to buy it back for a full year after selling it. It can be bought back any time during that year.

30 If it isn't bought back by the end of a full year, then ownership of the house in the walled town is permanently transferred to the one who bought it and their descendants. It won't be returned in the Jubilee.

31 But houses in villages that don't have walls around them are to be treated as located in the fields. They can be bought back, and will be returned in the Jubilee.

32 However, the Levites always have the right to buy back their houses in the towns that belong to them.

33 Whatever the Levites own can be bought back, even houses sold in their towns, and must be returned in the Jubilee. That's because the houses in the towns of the Levites are what they were given to own as their share among the Israelites.

34 However, the fields surrounding their towns must not be sold because they belong to the Levites permanently.

35 If any of your people become poor and can't survive,[‡] you must help them in the same way you would help a foreigner or a stranger, so that they can go on living in your neighborhood.

36 Don't make them pay you any interest or demand more than they borrowed, but respect your God so that they can remain living in your area.

38 Remember, I am the Lord your God who led you out of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

39 If any of your people become poor and have to sell themselves to work for you, don't force them to work as a slave.

40 Have them live with you like a paid worker who is staying with you for a while. They are to work for you until the Jubilee Year.

41 Then they and their children must be freed, and they can go back to their family and to their family's property.

42 Israelites are not to be sold as slaves because they belong to me as my slaves—I led them out of Egypt.

43 Don't treat them with brutality. Have respect for your God.

45 You can also buy them from foreigners who have come to live among you, or from their descendants born in your land. You can treat them as your property.

46 You can pass them on to your children to inherit as property after you die. You can make them slaves for life, but you must not brutally treat any of your own people, the Israelites, as a slave.

47 If a foreigner among you becomes successful, and one of your people living nearby becomes poor and sells themselves to the foreigner or to a member of the foreigner's family,

48 they still have the right of being bought back after the sale. A member of their family can buy them back—

⁴⁹ an uncle or cousin or any close relative from their family can buy them back. If they become successful, they can buy themselves back.

⁵² If there are only a few years remaining before the Jubilee Year, then they only have to pay a percentage depending on the number of years still left.

⁵³ They are to live with their foreign owner just like a paid worker, hired from year to year, but see to it that the owner doesn't treat him brutally.

⁵⁴ If they are not bought back in any of the ways described, they and their children shall be freed in the Jubilee Year.

⁵⁵ For the Israelites belong to me as my slaves. They are my slaves—I led them out of Egypt. I am the Lord your God.”

¹ “Don't make yourselves idols anywhere in your land and bow down to worship them, whether they are images or sacred pillars or stone sculptures. For I am the Lord your God.

² Keep my Sabbaths and show respect for my sanctuary. I am the Lord.

⁴ I will make sure it rains at the right time so that the ground will grow good crops and the fruit trees will be productive.

⁵ Your time of threshing will last right up to the grape harvest, and the grape harvest until the time you have to sow again. You will have more than enough to eat and you will live in safety in your land.

⁶ I will make sure your land is at peace. You will be able to sleep without being afraid of anything. I will get rid of dangerous animals from the land, and you will not suffer from any violent enemy attacks.*

⁷ You will chase your enemies, and kill them with the sword.

⁸ Five of you will kill one hundred, and one hundred of you will kill ten thousand. You will destroy your enemies.

⁹ I will come to help you, so you will reproduce and increase in numbers, and I will confirm my agreement with you.

¹⁰ You'll still be eating your old stock of grain when you need to get rid of it so you can store the new grain.

¹¹ I will come and live with you—I certainly won't reject you.

¹² I shall always be right there with you. I will be your God, and you will be my people.

¹³ I am the Lord your God, who led you out of Egypt so you wouldn't have to be slaves to the Egyptians any longer. I smashed the yoke that kept you bent down and helped you to stand up straight.

¹⁴ But if you don't pay attention to me and do what I tell you;

¹⁵ if you reject my laws, hate my regulations, and refuse to follow my commandments, and consequently break my agreement,

* 26:6 “You will not suffer from any violent attacks”: literally, “a sword will not pass through your land.”

¹⁶ then this is what I am going to do to you: I will make you panic, and suffer from diseases like tuberculosis and fever that make you blind and drain your life away. It will be pointless for you to sow seed in your fields because your enemies will eat the harvest.

¹⁷ I will turn against you, and you'll be defeated by your enemies. People who hate you will rule over you, and you'll run away even when there's no one chasing you!

¹⁸ If after all this you still refuse to obey me, I will move to punishing you seven times over for your sins.

²⁰ Your strength will be completely wasted[†] because your land won't produce crops, and your trees won't produce fruit.

²¹ If you go on opposing me and refusing to do what I tell you, I will make your punishments seven times worse, based on your sins.

²² I will send wild animals to kill your children, wipe out your livestock, and make you so few in number that there won't be anyone on your roads.

²³ However, if in spite of all this correction you still don't change but go on opposing me,

²⁴ then I will take action against you. I will punish you seven times over for your sins.

²⁵ I will send enemies with swords to attack you in retaliation for breaking the agreement. Even though you retreat into your towns for defense, I will plague you with disease, and you will be handed over to your enemies.

²⁶ I will send a famine so bread is in short supply. One oven will serve the needs of ten women baking bread. It will be distributed by weight so that you'll eat but won't have enough.

²⁷ However, if in spite of all this you don't obey me, but go on opposing me,

²⁸ then I will take action against you in a rage of fury, and I will punish you myself seven times over for your sins.

²⁹ You will eat the bodies of your own sons and daughters.

³⁰ I will destroy your high places[‡] of worship, smash your altars of incense, and pile up your dead bodies on what remains of your idols, which also have no life at all. I will really despise you.

³² I will devastate your land myself, so that your enemies who come and live in it will be horrified at what has happened.

³³ I'm going to scatter you among the nations. You will be chased out by armies with swords as your land is ruined and your towns are destroyed.

³⁴ At least then the land will be able to enjoy its Sabbaths all the time it's abandoned while you are in exile in the land of your enemies. The land will finally be able to rest and enjoy its Sabbaths.

[†] 26:20 In other words attempts to cultivate the land will be pointless. [‡] 26:30 "High places": often associated with idol worship.

³⁵ The whole time it's abandoned the land will observe the Sabbaths of rest that it wasn't able to do while you were living there.[§]

³⁶ I will make those of you who survive so discouraged that as you live in the lands of your enemies even the sound of a leaf blowing in the wind will scare you into running away! You'll run away like you're being chased by someone with a sword, and fall down even though no one is after you.

³⁸ You'll die in exile and you'll be buried in a foreign country.

⁴¹ Because of this I took action against them and exiled them in the countries of their enemies. However, if they humbly give up their stubborn attitude and accept their punishment for their sins, ⁴² then I will fulfill the agreement I made with Jacob, Isaac, and Abraham, and I will not forget my promise about the land.

⁴³ For the land will be left empty by them, and it will enjoy its Sabbaths being abandoned. They will pay for their sins, because they rejected my rules and regulations.

⁴⁴ But despite all this, even while they are living in land of their enemies, I will not reject or hate them so much as to destroy them and break my agreement with them, because I am the Lord their God.

⁴⁵ Because of them I will renew the agreement I made with their fathers, those I led out of Egypt as the other nations watched, in order that I might be their God. I am the Lord."

⁴⁶ These are the rules, regulations, and laws that the Lord set up between himself and the Israelites through Moses on Mount Sinai.

² "Tell the Israelites: When you make a special promise to dedicate someone to the Lord, these are the values you are to use.

³ The value of a man aged twenty to sixty is fifty shekels of silver, (using the sanctuary shekel standard).

⁴ The value of a woman is thirty shekels.

⁵ The value of someone aged five to twenty is twenty shekels for a male and ten shekels for a female.

⁶ The value of someone aged one month to five years is five shekels of silver for a male and three shekels of silver for a female.

⁷ The value of someone aged sixty or older is fifteen shekels for a male and ten shekels of silver for a female.

⁸ However, if when you fulfill your promise you are poorer than the fixed value, you are to present the person before the priest, who will then set the value depending on what you can afford.

[§] 26:35 Another rebuke since clearly the rule about leaving the ground uncultivated one year in seven was not properly observed.

⁹ If when you fulfill your promise you bring an animal that is permitted as an offering to the Lord, the animal given to the Lord shall be considered holy.

¹⁰ You are not allowed to replace it or swap it, either for one that is better or one that is worse. However, if you do replace it then both animals become holy.

¹¹ If when you fulfill your promise you bring any unclean animal that is not permitted as an offering to the Lord, then you must show the animal to the priest.

¹³ If you then decide to buy the animal back, you have to add one fifth to its value in payment.

¹⁴ If you dedicate your house as holy to the Lord, then the priest will decide its value, whether high or low. Whatever value the priest places on it remains final.

¹⁵ But if you want to buy back your house, you have to add one fifth to its value in payment. Then it will belong to you again.

¹⁶ If you dedicate some of your land to the Lord, then its value shall be determined by the amount of seed required to sow it: fifty shekels of silver for every homer of barley seed used.

¹⁷ If you dedicate your field during the Jubilee Year, the value will be the full amount calculated.

¹⁸ But if you dedicate your field after the Jubilee, the priest will work out the value depending on the number of years left until the next Jubilee Year, so reducing the value.

¹⁹ But if you want to buy your field back, you have to add one fifth to its value in payment. Then it will belong to you again.

²⁰ But if you don't buy the field back, or if you've already sold it to someone else, it can't ever be bought back.

²¹ When the Jubilee comes, the field will become holy, in the same way as a field devoted to the Lord. It will become the property of the priests.

²² If you dedicate to the Lord a field you've bought that was not part of your original property,

²³ the priest will work out the value until the next Jubilee Year. You will pay on that day the exact value, giving it as a holy offering to the Lord.

²⁴ In the Jubilee Year, ownership of the field shall revert back to the person you bought it from—to the original owner of the land.

²⁵ (All values will use the sanctuary shekel standard of twenty gerahs to the shekel.)

²⁶ No one is allowed to dedicate the firstborn of the livestock, because the firstborn belong to the Lord. Whether they are cattle, sheep, or goats, they are the Lord's.

²⁷ But if it is an unclean animal, then you can buy it back according to its value, adding on one fifth extra. If it's not bought back, then it is to be sold according to its value.

²⁸ Anything that you specially dedicate* to the Lord from what you own, whether it's a person, an animal, or your land, can't be sold or bought back. Anything specially dedicated is most holy to the Lord.

* 27:28 The word used here and in the next verse is a religious term that means to give something to the Lord (set apart), either by destroying them or presenting them as an offering.

²⁹ No one who is specially dedicated to destruction can be bought back. They must be killed.

³² When you count your herds and flocks, every tenth animal that passes under the shepherd's rod is holy to the Lord.

³³ You must not examine it to see if it's good or bad, and you must not replace it. However, if you do replace it then both animals become holy; they can't be bought back."

³⁴ These are the laws the Lord gave to Moses for the Israelites on Mount Sinai.

Numbers

¹ The Lord spoke to Moses in the Tent of Meeting while they were in the Sinai desert. This was on the first day of the second month of the second year after the Israelites had left Egypt. He told him,

² "Census all the Israelites according to their tribe and family. Count every man and keep a record of each individual's name.

³ Those aged twenty or older who can do military service are to be registered by you and Aaron in their Israelite army divisions.

⁴ A representative from each tribe, the head of a family, must be there with you.

⁵ These are the names of the men who will work with you:

From the tribe of Reuben, Elizur, son of Shedeur;

⁸ from the tribe of Issachar, Nethanel, son of Zuar;

⁹ from the tribe of Zebulun, Eliab, son of Helon;

¹⁰ from the sons of Joseph: from the tribe of Ephraim, Elishama, son of Ammihud, and from the tribe of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur;

¹¹ from the tribe of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideoni;

¹² from the tribe of Dan, Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai;

¹³ from the tribe of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ocran;

¹⁴ from the tribe of Gad, Eliasaph, son of Deuel;

¹⁵ and from the tribe of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enan."

¹⁶ These were the men chosen from the Israelite community. They were the leaders of their fathers' tribes; the heads of the families of Israel.

¹⁷ Moses and Aaron summoned these men who had been selected by name.

¹⁹ as the Lord had told Moses to do. Moses conducted this census in the Sinai desert.

²¹ from the tribe of Reuben totaled 46,500.

²³ from the tribe of Simeon totaled 59,300.

²⁵ from the tribe of Gad totaled 45,650.

²⁷ from the tribe of Judah, totaled 74,600.

³³ from the tribe of Ephraim, totaled 40,500.

³⁵ from the tribe of Manasseh, totaled 32,200.

³⁷ from the tribe of Benjamin, totaled 35,400.

⁴¹ from the tribe of Asher, totaled 41,500.

⁴⁴ These were the totals of the men counted and registered by Moses and Aaron, with the help of the twelve leaders of Israel, who each represented their family.

⁴⁶ The sum total of those registered was 603,550.

⁴⁸ This was because the Lord had told Moses,

⁴⁹ "Don't register the tribe of Levi; don't count them in the census with the other Israelites.

⁵⁰ Put the Levites in charge of the Tabernacle and of the Testimony,* as well as all its furniture and everything it contains. They are the ones responsible for carrying the Tabernacle and all its items. They are to care for it, and to make their camp around it.

* 1:50 The Testimony refers to the stone tablets of the Ten Commandments contained inside the Ark.

⁵¹ When it's time to move the Tabernacle, the Levites shall take it down, and when it's time to make camp, the Levites shall put it up. Any outsider who goes near it must be put to death.

⁵² The Israelites are to make camp according to their tribal divisions, each person in their own camp under their own flag.

⁵⁴ The Israelites did everything that the Lord ordered Moses that they should do.

2

² "The Israelites are to set up their camp around the Tent of Meeting but some distance from it. Every member of each tribe will camp under their own flag and family banner.

³ The tribal division of Judah is to camp under their flag on the east side. Their leader is Nahshon, son of Amminadab, ⁴ and he has 74,600 men.

⁵ The tribe of Issachar will camp next to them. Their leader is Nethanel, son of Zuar,

⁶ and he has 54,400 men.

⁸ and he has 57,400 men.

⁹ So the total number of men in the area of the camp of Judah is 186,400.

When it's time to march out,* they are the ones who will lead.

¹⁰ The tribal division of Reuben is to camp under their flag on the south side. Their leader is Elizur, son of Shedeur,

¹² The tribe of Simeon will camp next to them. Their leader is Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai,

¹³ and he has 59,300 men.

¹⁶ So the total number of men in the area of the camp of Reuben is 151,450. They shall march out in second place.

¹⁷ The Tent of Meeting which is stands at the center of the camp is to accompany the Levites. They are to march out in the same order as they set up camp, each in their rightful place under their flag.

¹⁸ The tribal division of Ephraim is to camp under their flag on the west side. Their leader is Elishama, son of Ammihud,

²⁰ The tribe of Manasseh will camp next to them. Their leader is Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur,

²¹ and he has 32,200 men.

²³ and he has 35,400 men.

[†] 1:53 Presumably by preventing anyone who was not a priest approaching too close to the Tabernacle. * 2:9 "When it's time to leave": supplied for clarity.

²⁴ So the total number of men in the area of the camp of Ephraim is 108,100. They shall march out in third place

²⁶ and he has 62,700 men.

²⁷ The tribe of Asher will camp next to them. Their leader is Pagiel, son of Ocran, ²⁸ and he has 41,500 men.

²⁹ Next is the tribe of Naphtali. Their leader is Ahira son of Enan,

³⁰ and he has 53,400 men.

³² This sums up the registration of the Israelites, carried out by family. The final total of those counted in the camps by their tribal division was 603,550.

³⁴ The Israelites did everything the Lord had ordered Moses. They set up their camps under their flags in their assigned positions, and marched out in the same order, each with their own tribe and family.

3

³ These were the names of Aaron's sons who were anointed and ordained to serve as priests.

⁴ Nadab and Abihu died in the Lord's presence when they offered forbidden fire before the Lord in the Sinai desert. Since they didn't have any sons, Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests while their father Aaron was alive.

⁵ The Lord told Moses,

⁶ "Gather the tribe of Levi together and present them to Aaron the priest to help him with the ministry.

⁷ They are to carry out duties on his behalf and for all the Israelites at the Tent of Meeting, looking after the service of the Tabernacle.

⁸ They are responsible for caring for all the furniture of the Tent of Meeting, serving the Israelites through what they do in the Tabernacle.

⁹ The Levites are to work exclusively for Aaron and his sons of because this is their assignment among the Israelites.

¹⁰ You are to appoint Aaron and his sons to have the responsibility of the priesthood. Anyone else who tries to act as a priest must be executed."

¹¹ The Lord told Moses,

¹² "I've taken the Levites from the Israelites in place of every one of their firstborn. The Levites belong to me

¹³ because all the firstborn are mine. When I killed every firstborn in Egypt I set apart as holy to me all the firstborn of Israel, human and animal. They are mine. I am the Lord."

¹⁴ The Lord spoke to Moses in the Sinai desert. He told him,

¹⁶ So Moses registered them following the Lord's instructions, just as he had been told.

¹⁸ These were the names of the Gershon's sons by family: Libni and Shimei.

¹⁹ Kohath's sons by family were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

²⁰ Merari's sons by family were Mahli and Mushi. These were the families of the Levites, according to their father's line.

²¹ The family of Libni and the family of Shimei came from Gershon. These were the families of Gershon.

²² The total of all males aged one month or older was 7,500.

²³ The camp of families of Gerson was to the west, behind the Tabernacle.

²⁴ The leader of the Gershon families was Eliasaph, son of Lael.

²⁵ Their assigned responsibility for the Tent of Meeting was to take care of the Tabernacle and tent, its covering, the curtain at the entrance of the Tent of Meeting,

²⁸ The total of all males aged one month or older was 8,600. Their assigned responsibility was to take care of the sanctuary.

²⁹ The camp of families of Kohath was on the south side of the Tabernacle.

³⁰ The leader of the Kohath families was Elizaphan son of Uzziel.

³¹ Their assigned responsibility was to care for the Ark, the table, the lampstand, the altars, the articles of the sanctuary used with them, the veil, and everything connected with these items.

³² The chief of the leaders of the Levites was Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest. He was in charge of those responsible for serving in the sanctuary.

³³ The family of Mahli and the family of Mushi came from Merari. These were the families of Merari.

³⁴ The total of all males aged one month or older was 6,200.

³⁵ The leader of the Merari families was Zuriel, son of Abihail. Their camp was on the north side of the Tabernacle.

³⁷ as well as the posts of the surrounding courtyard with their stands, tent pegs, and ropes.

³⁸ The camp of Moses, Aaron, and Aaron's sons was to the east of the Tabernacle, in the direction of the sunrise, in front of the Tent of Meeting. They were responsible for the sanctuary on behalf of the Israelites. Anyone else who tried to act as a priest was to be executed.

³⁹ The sum total of Levites registered by Moses and Aaron as the Lord ordered was 22,000. This included all males aged one month or older.

⁴⁰ The Lord told Moses, "Conduct a census of all the firstborn Israelite males aged one month or older, and register their names."

⁴¹ Assign the Levites to me. I am the Lord. They are in place of all of the Israelites' firstborn children. The livestock of the Levites are in place of all the Israelites' firstborn livestock."

⁴² Moses conducted a census of all the firstborn of the Israelites, as the Lord had instructed him.

⁴³ The sum total of the firstborn males a month old or more, registered by name, was 22,273.

⁴⁴ The Lord spoke to Moses and told him,

⁴⁵ "You are to take the Levites in place of all the firstborn children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites in place of their livestock, because the Levites belong to me. I am the Lord.

⁴⁶ In order to buy back the 273 firstborn Israelites who are more than the number of Levites, ⁴⁷ collect five shekels for each of them, (using the sanctuary shekel standard of twenty gerahs).

⁴⁸ He handed the money over to Aaron and his sons as the redemption price for the extra Israelites."

⁴⁹ Moses collected the redemption money for those extra Israelites that were more than the number redeemed by the Levites.

⁵⁰ He collected the money given on behalf of the Israelites' firstborn children. It came to 1,365 shekels, (using the sanctuary shekel standard).

⁵¹ Moses gave this redemption money to Aaron and his sons as the Lord had told him to, following the Lord's instructions.

4

³ Count men aged thirty to fifty—all who are entitled to do the work of serving in the Tent of Meeting.

⁴ This work that they are to do in the Tent of Meetings involves the things that are most holy.

⁶ On top of this they are to put a fine leather covering, spread a cloth of solid blue over it, and then insert its carrying poles.

⁷ Have them spread a blue cloth over the table of the Presence as well, and put the plates and cups on it, as well as the bowls and jugs for the drink offering. The current bread offering is to stay on it.

⁸ Over everything they are to spread a crimson cloth, next a fine leather covering, and then insert its carrying poles.

⁹ Using a blue cloth, they are to cover the lampstand of light, together with its lamps, wick tongs, and trays, as well as the jars of olive oil used to fill them.

¹¹ They are to spread a blue cloth over the gold altar, cover it with fine leather, and then insert its carrying poles.

¹² They are to place all the utensils used for the service in the sanctuary in a blue cloth, cover them with fine leather, and place them on the carrying frame.

¹³ Have them clean the ashes from the bronze altar and spread a purple cloth over it,

¹⁶ Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, is to supervise obtaining olive oil for the lamps, the aromatic incense, the daily grain offering, and the anointing oil. He is in charge of the whole Tabernacle and everything in it—all the holy things and equipment."

¹⁷ The Lord told Moses and Aaron,

¹⁸ "Make sure the families of Kohath are not wiped out from the Levites.

¹⁹ This is what you have to do so that they'll live and won't die by getting too close to something holy. Aaron and his sons must go in and tell each of them what they have to do and what they have to carry.

²⁰ But they must not to go in and look at the things that are most holy, even for just a moment, otherwise they'll die."

²¹ The Lord told Moses,

²² "Register the descendants of Gershon, according to their family and father's line

²³ Count men aged thirty to fifty—all who are entitled to do the work of serving in the Tent of Meeting.

²⁴ This is how the families of Gershon will serve in terms of working and carrying:

²⁵ Have them carry the Tabernacle curtains, the Tent of Meeting with its fine leather covering, the curtains for the entrance to the Tent of Meeting,

²⁶ the courtyard curtains, the curtain at the entrance to the courtyard surrounding the Tabernacle and altar, the ropes, and everything connected with their use. The families of Gershon are responsible for everything required involving these items.

²⁷ All that they do is to be under the supervision of Aaron and his sons—all their work and carrying assignments. You are to tell them all they are required to carry.

²⁸ These are their responsibilities for moving the Tent of Meeting, carried out under the direction of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

³⁰ Count men aged thirty to fifty—all who are entitled to do the work of serving in the Tent of Meeting.

³¹ This is how they will serve in handling the Tent of Meeting: they are to carry the frames of the Tabernacle with its crossbars, posts, and stands, ³² the posts of the surrounding courtyard with their stands, tent pegs, and ropes, all their equipment and everything connected with their use. You are to tell them by name what they are responsible for carrying.

³³ These are their responsibilities for all their work in moving the Tent of Meeting, carried out under the direction of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.”

³⁶ The total by families was 2,750.

³⁷ This was the total of the families of Kohath—all who were entitled to do the work of serving in the Tent of Meeting. Moses and Aaron registered them in accordance with the Lord's instructions to Moses.

³⁸ The families of Gershon were counted, according to their family and father's line,

⁴⁰ The total by families and father's line was 2,630.

⁴¹ This was the total of the families of Gershon—all who were entitled to do the work of serving in the Tent of Meeting. They were registered by Moses and Aaron in accordance with the Lord's instructions.

⁴² The families of Merari were counted, according to their family and father's line,

⁴⁴ The total by families was 3,200.

⁴⁵ This was the total of the families of Merari registered by Moses and Aaron in accordance with the Lord's instructions.

⁴⁶ This is how Moses, Aaron, and the Israelite leaders registered all the Levites according to their family and father's line.

⁴⁸ The sum total was 8,580.

⁴⁹ It was in response to the Lord's instructions that they were registered by Moses. Each of those registered were told what to do and what to carry, as the Lord had ordered Moses.

5

² “Order the Israelites to expel from the camp anyone who has a skin disease, or who has a discharge, or who is unclean from touching a dead body.*

³ Whether male or female, you must expel them so they won't make their camp unclean, for that is where I live with them.”

⁴ The Israelites followed these instructions, and expelled such people from the camp. They did what the Lord had told Moses they should do.

⁵ The Lord told Moses,

* 5:2 “Unclean from touching a dead body”: This seems to be a temporary exclusion. See Leviticus 11:24.

⁶ “Tell the Israelites that when a man or woman is unfaithful to the Lord by sinning against someone else, they are guilty

⁷ and must confess their sin. They have to pay the full amount of compensation plus one fifth of its value, and give this to the person they have wronged.

⁸ However, if that person[†] doesn't have a relative who can be paid the compensation, it belongs to the Lord and shall be given to the priest, together with a sacrificial ram by which the guilty person is set right.

⁹ All holy offerings that the Israelites bring to the priest belong to him.

¹⁰ Your holy offerings belong to you, but once you give them to the priest they belong to him.”

¹¹ The Lord told Moses,

¹² “Tell the Israelites that these are the instructions to follow[‡] if a man's wife has an affair, being unfaithful to him

¹³ by sleeping with someone else. It may be that her husband doesn't find out and her unclean act wasn't witnessed—she wasn't caught out.

¹⁴ But if her husband becomes jealous and suspicious of his wife, whether she's guilty or not,

¹⁵ he is to take her before the priest. He is also to take with him on her behalf an offering of one tenth of an ephath of barley flour. He must also bring for her an offering of an ephah of barley flour. He's not to pour olive oil over it or put frankincense on it, since it's a grain offering for jealousy, a reminder offering to remind people about sin.

¹⁷ Then he shall fill a clay jar with holy water in a clay jar and sprinkle on it some dust from the floor of the Tabernacle.

¹⁹ He shall place the woman under oath and tell her, ‘If no one else has slept with you and you have not been unfaithful and become unclean while married to your husband, may you not be harmed by this bitter water that curses.

²⁰ But if you have been unfaithful while married to your husband and have become unclean and have had sex with someone else...”

²² May this water that curses go into your stomach and make your belly swell up and your thighs shrink.”

The woman is to answer, “I agree, I agree.”[§]

²³ The priest is to write these curses on a scroll and then wash them off into the bitter water.

²⁴ He shall make the woman drink the bitter water that curses, and it will cause her bitter pain if she is guilty.*

[†] 5:8 This provision relates to a situation where the person wronged has died. [‡] 5:12 “These are the instructions to follow”: supplied for clarity. [§] 5:22 Literally, “Amen, Amen.” * 5:24 “If she is guilty”: implied.

²⁵ The priest shall take back from her the grain offering for jealousy, wave it before the Lord, and take it to the altar.

²⁶ Then the priest shall take a handful of the grain offering as a reminder portion and burn it on the altar, and make the woman drink the water.

²⁷ After he has made her drink the water, if she has made herself unclean and has been unfaithful to her husband, then the water that curses will cause her bitter pain. Her belly will swell up and her thighs will shrink. She will become a cursed woman among her people.

²⁸ But if the woman has not made herself unclean by being unfaithful and is clean, she will not experience this punishment and she will still be able to have children.

²⁹ This is the rule to follow in cases of jealousy when a wife has an affair and makes herself unclean while married to her husband,

³⁰ or when a husband starts feeling jealous and becomes suspicious of his wife. He shall have his wife stand before the Lord, and the priest is to carry out every part of this rule.

³¹ If she is found guilty,[†] her husband will not be held responsible. But the woman will bear the consequences of her sin.

² "Tell the Israelites: If a man or a woman makes a special promise to become a Nazirite,* to dedicate themselves to the Lord,

³ they must not drink any wine or other alcoholic drink. They must not even drink vinegar made from wine or other alcoholic drink, or any grape juice or eat grapes or raisins.

⁴ The whole time they are dedicated to the Lord they must not eat anything from a grapevine, not even grape seeds or skins.

⁵ They must not use a razor on their heads during the whole time of this promise of dedication. They must remain holy until their time of dedication to the Lord is finished. They must let their hair grow long.

⁶ During this time of dedication to the Lord they must not go near a dead body.

⁷ Even if it's their father, mother, brother or sister who has died, they are not to make themselves unclean, because their uncut hair announces their dedication to God.

⁸ Through the whole time of their dedication they are to be holy to the Lord.

⁹ However, if someone dies suddenly close to them, making them unclean, they must wait seven days, and on the seventh day when they are made clean again they are to shave their heads.

¹¹ The priest will offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering to make them right, because they became guilty by being near the dead body. On that day they must re-dedicate themselves and let their hair grow again.

¹² They must re-dedicate themselves to the Lord for the full time they originally promised and bring a one-year-old male lamb as a guilt offering.

[†] 5:31 "If she is found guilty": implied. * 6:2 "Nazirite": means "dedicated."

The previous days don't count towards the time of dedication because they became unclean.

¹³ These are the rules to be observed when the Nazirite's time of dedication is finished. They are to be taken to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

¹⁴ There they are to present an offering to the Lord of a one-year-old male lamb without defects as a burnt offering, a one-year-old female lamb without defects as a sin offering, and ram without defects as a peace offering.

¹⁶ The priest will present all these before the Lord as well as sacrificing the sin offering and the burnt offering.

¹⁷ He will also sacrifice a ram as a peace offering to the Lord, together with the basket of bread made without yeast. In addition the priest will present the grain offering and drink offering.

²⁰ The priest will wave them as a wave offering before the Lord. These items are holy and belong to the priest, as well as the breast of the wave offering and the thigh that was offered. Once this is finished, Nazirites may drink wine.

²¹ These are the rules to be observed when a Nazirite promises to give offerings to the Lord regarding their dedication. They can also bring additional offerings if they can afford it. Every Nazirite must fulfill whatever promises they have made when they dedicated themselves."

²² The Lord told Moses,

²³ "Tell Aaron and his sons: This is how you are to bless the Israelites. This is what they are to say:

²⁴ 'May the Lord bless you and take care of you.

²⁵ May the Lord smile on you and be gracious to you.

²⁶ May the Lord watch over you and give you peace.'

²⁷ Whenever the priests bless the Israelites in my name, I will bless them."

7

¹ On the same day that Moses finished putting up the Tabernacle, he anointed it and dedicated it, along with all its furniture, the altar, and all its utensils.

² The Israelite leaders who were the heads of their families came and gave an offering. They were the same leaders of the tribes who had worked on the registration* of the Israelites.

* 7:2 See chapter 1.

³ They brought to the Lord an offering of six covered wagons and twelve oxen. Each leader gave an ox, and two leaders shared in giving a wagon. They presented them in front of the Tabernacle.

⁴ The Lord told Moses,

⁵ "Accept what they're giving you and use them in the work of the Tent of Meeting. Give them to the Levites to use as required."

⁶ Moses accepted the wagons and oxen and handed them over to the Levites.

⁸ He gave four wagons and eight oxen to the families of Merari, to use as they required. The work was all to be done under the direction of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

⁹ He didn't give any wagons or oxen to the Kohathites because their responsibility was to carry on their shoulders the holy objects assigned to their care.

¹⁰ The day the altar was anointed, the leaders came forward with their dedicatory offerings, presenting them in front of it.

¹¹ The Lord told Moses, "Have one leader come every day and present his offering for the dedication of the altar."

¹² The first day Nahshon, son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah came forward with his offering.

¹³ His offering was a silver plate that weighed a hundred and thirty shekels, and a silver bowl that weighed seventy shekels, (using the sanctuary shekel standard). They were both filled with the best flour mixed with olive oil as a grain offering.

¹⁴ He also presented a gold dish that weighed ten shekels filled with incense. As sacrifices he brought

¹⁵ a young bull, a ram, and a one-year-old male lamb as a burnt offering,

⁸⁸ The animals presented as a peace offering were twenty-four bulls, sixty rams, sixty male goats, and sixty one-year-old male lambs. This was the dedicatory offering for the altar once it had been anointed.

⁸⁹ Whenever Moses went into the Tent of Meeting to speak with the Lord, he would hear the voice speaking to him from the atonement cover on the Ark of the Testimony between the two cherubim. This is how the Lord spoke to him.

8

³ So that's what Aaron did. He placed the lamps facing towards the front of the lampstand, as the Lord had ordered Moses.

⁴ The lampstand was made of hammered gold from its base to the flower decorations on the top, in accordance with the design that the Lord had shown Moses.

⁵ The Lord told Moses,

⁶ “Separate the Levites from the other Israelites and purify them.

⁷ This is how you will purify them. Sprinkle on them the water of purification. They are to shave off all the hair from their bodies and wash their clothes so they will be clean.

⁸ Have them bring a young bull with its grain offering of the best flour mixed with olive oil, and you are to bring a second young bull as a sin offering.

¹⁰ When you bring the Levites to the Lord the Israelites are to place their hands upon them.

¹¹ Aaron shall present the Levites to the Lord as a wave offering from the Israelites so that they can do the Lord's work.

¹² The Levites are to place their hands on the heads of the bulls. One is to be sacrificed as a sin offering to the Lord, and the other as a burnt offering to set the Levites right with the Lord.

¹³ Have the Levites stand in front of Aaron and his sons and present them to the Lord as a wave offering.

¹⁵ They can come and serve at the Tent of Meeting once you've purified them and presented them as a wave offering.

¹⁶ The Levites have been completely given over to me by the Israelites. I have accepted them as mine in place of all the firstborn sons of the Israelites.

¹⁸ I have taken the Levites in place of all the firstborn sons of the Israelites.

²¹ The Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes. Then Aaron presented them as a wave offering to the Lord. Aaron also presented the sacrifice to make them right with the Lord so they would be clean.

²³ The Lord told Moses,

²⁴ “This rule applies to the Levites. Those twenty-five or older shall serve at the Tent of Meeting.

²⁵ However, once they reach the age of fifty they need to retire from the work and won't serve any longer.

²⁶ They can still help their fellow Levites in their assignments, but they are not to do the actual work themselves. These are the arrangements in the case of the Levites.”

9

³ Observe it at the time required—in the evening after sunset on the fourteenth day of this month, and do so in accordance with its rules and regulations.”

⁴ Moses told the Israelites to observe the Passover.

⁵ So they kept the Passover in the Sinai desert, beginning in the evening after sunset on the fourteenth day of the first month. The Israelites followed all the instructions the Lord had given to Moses.

⁶ However, there were some men who were unclean because they had been contact with a dead body, so they could not keep the Passover on that day. They went to see Moses and Aaron the same day

⁷ and explained to Moses, “We are unclean because of a dead body, but why should that mean we're prevented from giving our offering to the Lord with the other Israelites at the appropriate time?”

⁹ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁰ “Tell the Israelites: ‘If you or your descendants are unclean because of a dead body, or are away traveling, you can still keep the Lord's Passover.

¹¹ You are to observe it in the evening after sunset on the fourteenth day of the second month. You are to eat the lamb with the bread made without yeast, and the bitter herbs.

¹² You must not leave any of it until the following morning and you must not break any of its bones. You must observe the Passover according to all the regulations.

¹⁴ Any foreigners living among you who want to observe the Lord's Passover can do so following the Passover rules and regulations. The same rules apply to the foreigners as they do to you.’ ”

¹⁶ It was always like this. The cloud covered the Tabernacle during the day* and at night it looked like fire.

¹⁷ When the cloud rose from over the Tent, the Israelites would move on, and where the cloud stopped, the Israelites would set up camp there.

¹⁸ The Israelites moved on when the Lord told them to, and set up camp when the Lord told them to. While the cloud stayed over the Tabernacle, they remained camped there.

¹⁹ Even if the cloud didn't move for a long time, the Israelites did what the Lord told them and didn't move on.

* 9:16 “During the day”: Septuagint reading.

²⁰ Sometimes the cloud only stayed over the Tabernacle for a few days. As always they followed the Lord's command as to whether to camp or to move on.

²¹ Sometimes the cloud only stayed overnight, so when it rose in the morning they would move on. Whenever the cloud rose, day or night, they would leave.

²² If the cloud stayed in one place for two days, or a month, or longer, the Israelites stayed where they were and didn't leave as long as the cloud remained over the Tabernacle. However, once it rose, they would leave.

²³ They camped when the Lord told them to, and left when he told them to. They followed the Lord's instructions that he gave to Moses.

² "Make two trumpets out of hammered silver. They are to be used for summoning the Israelites and to have the camp move out.

³ When both trumpets are blown, all the Israelites are to gather before you at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

⁴ But if only one is blown, then only the tribal leaders are to gather before you.

⁵ When you blow the trumpet loudly, which is the alarm signal to move out, the camps on the east side are to march out first.

⁶ When you blow the trumpet loudly the second time, the camps on the south side are to march out. That's their signal to start moving.

⁹ When you're in your own land and have to go into battle against an enemy who has attacked you, blow the alarm signal and the Lord your God won't forget you—he will save you from your enemies.

¹¹ The cloud rose up from the Tabernacle of the Testimony on the twentieth day of the second month of the second year.

¹³ This was the first time they moved out following the Lord's command through Moses.

¹⁴ The tribal divisions of Judah went first, marching out under their flag, with Nahshon, son of Amminadab, in charge.

¹⁵ Nathaniel, son of Zuar, was in charge of the tribal division of Issachar,

¹⁶ and Eliab, son of Helon, was in charge of the tribal division of Zebulun.

¹⁸ Then came the divisions of Reuben who marched out under their flag, with Elizur, son of Shedeur, in charge.

¹⁹ Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai, was in charge of the tribal division of Simeon, ²⁰ and Eliasaph, son of Deuel, was in charge of the tribal division of Gad.

²¹ Then the Kohathites set off, carrying the holy objects. The Tabernacle would be put up before they arrived.

²² Then came the divisions of Ephraim who marched out under their flag, with Elishama, son of Ammihud in charge.

²³ Gamaliel, son of Pedahzur, was in charge of the tribal division of Manasseh,

²⁴ and Abidan, son of Gideon, was in charge of the tribal division of Benjamin.

²⁵ Lastly came the divisions of Dan who marched out under their flag, defending the rear of all the tribal groups, with Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai, in charge.

²⁶ Pagiel, son of Ocran, was in charge of the tribal division of Asher,

²⁸ This was the order in which the Israelite tribal divisions moved out.

²⁹ Moses explained to Hobab, the son of Moses' father-in-law Reuel the Midianite,* "We're leaving for the place of which the Lord promised, 'I'm going to give it to you.' Come with us, and we'll be good to you, because the Lord has promised good things to Israel."

³¹ "Please don't abandon us now," Moses said, "because you're the one who knows where we should camp in the desert and you can guide us."

³² If you come with us, whatever good things the Lord blesses us with we'll share with you."

³⁵ Whenever the Ark was carried out, Moses would call out, "Stand up, Lord, and may your enemies be scattered, and may those who hate you run away from you."

³⁶ Whenever it was set down, he would call out, "Return, Lord, to the thousands and thousands of the people of Israel."

11

¹ It wasn't long before the people started to complain about how much they were suffering. When the Lord heard what they were saying, he became angry. Fire from the Lord burned them, destroying some on the edge of the camp.

² The people cried to Moses for help. He prayed to the Lord and the fire subsided.

³ So that place was named Taberah,* because the fire from the Lord burned them.

* 10:29 This would make Hobab Moses' brother-in-law.

* 11:3 "Taberah" means "burning."

⁴ A group of troublemakers[†] among them had such intense food cravings they affected the Israelites who started crying again, asking “Who’s going to get us some meat to eat?”

⁵ We think back to all the fish we ate in Egypt that didn’t cost us anything, as well as the cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions, and garlic.

⁸ The people would go out and collect it, grind it up in a mill or crush it in a mortar. Then they would boil it in a pot and make it into flatbread. It tasted like pastries made with the best olive oil.

¹¹ He asked the Lord, “Why have you made things so tough for me, your servant? Why are you so unhappy with me that you have placed on me the heavy responsibility for all these people?”

¹² Are they my children? Did I give birth to them, so you could tell me, ‘Hold them close to your chest like a nurse carrying a baby’ and take them to the land you promised to give to their forefathers?

¹⁴ I can’t go on carrying all these people by myself—it’s just too much.

¹⁵ If this is the way you’re going to treat me, then please just kill me now so I don’t have to face how depressed I’ve become. Please grant me this one request.”

¹⁶ The Lord told Moses, “Bring before me seventy Israelite elders who you know are respected as leaders by the people. Take them to the Tent of Meeting. They will stand there with you.

¹⁷ I will come down and talk with you there. I will take some of the Spirit you have and give it to them. They will take some of the responsibility for the people so you won’t have to bear it alone.

¹⁸ Tell the people: Purify yourselves, for tomorrow you’ll have meat to eat, because you were complaining and the Lord heard you saying, ‘Who’s going to get us some meat to eat? We were better off in Egypt!’ So the Lord is going to provide you with meat to eat.

²⁰ You’re going to eat it for a whole month until it makes you vomit and it comes out through your nostrils, because you have rejected the Lord who is right here with you, complaining to him by saying, ‘Why on earth did we ever leave Egypt?’ ”

²¹ But Moses replied, “Here I am with 600,000 people and you’re telling me, ‘I’m going to give them meat and they’ll eat it for a month’?”

²² Even if all our flocks and herds were slaughtered, would that be enough for them? Even if all the fish in the sea were caught, would that be enough for them?”

²³ “Doesn’t the Lord have the power to do that?” the Lord responded. “Now you’re going to find out whether what I’ve said will happen or not!”

[†] 11:4 Generally associated with the “mixed multitude” that left Egypt with the Israelites (see Exodus 12:38)

²⁴ Moses went and shared with the people what the Lord said. He summoned seventy elders of the people and had them stand around the tent.

²⁵ Then the Lord came down and talked to him. The Lord took some of the Spirit Moses had and gave it to them. They prophesied, but this didn't ever happen again.

²⁶ However, two men named Eldad and Medad had stayed behind in the camp. The Spirit came on them too. (They had been put on the list of the seventy elders, but they hadn't gone to the tent. But they prophesied where they were in the camp anyway.)

²⁷ A young lad ran and told Moses, "Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp."

²⁸ Joshua, son of Nun, who had been Moses' assistant since he was young, reacted, saying, "Moses, my lord, you have to stop them!"

²⁹ "Are you jealous for my reputation?" Moses replied. "I wish that every one of the Lord's people were prophets and that the Lord would give his Spirit to all of them!"

³⁰ Then Moses went back to the camp with the elders of Israel.

³² All through that day and night, and all through the next day, the people went on collecting the quail. Everyone collected at least ten homers,[‡] and they spread them out to dry all around the camp.

³³ But while the people were still biting into the meat, before they even chewed it down, the Lord showed his burning anger against them, killing some of them with a severe disease.

³⁵ Then they moved on from Kibroth-hattaavah to Hazeroth, where they stayed for some time.

² "Is it only through Moses that the Lord speaks?" they asked. "Doesn't he speak through us too?" The Lord heard all this.

³ Moses was a very humble man, more than anyone else on earth.

⁴ All of a sudden the Lord called for Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, telling them, "The three of you, come to the Tent of Meeting." The three of them did so.

⁵ The Lord came down in a pillar of cloud and stood in the entrance to the Tent. He called Aaron and Miriam and they came forward.

⁶ "Now listen to my words, he told them. If you had prophets, I the Lord would reveal myself to them in visions; I would communicate with them in dreams.

[‡] 11:32 Estimated at a volume of 220 liters. [§] 11:34 Meaning "graves of craving." * 12:1 "Ethiopian": literally, "Cushite," referring to the land southeast of Egypt.

⁸ I talk to him personally, face to face. I speak plainly, not in riddles. He sees the likeness of the Lord. So why weren't you afraid when you criticized my servant Moses?"

⁹ The Lord was angry with them, and he left.

¹⁰ As the cloud rose above the Tent, Miriam's skin suddenly turned white with leprosy. Aaron turned to look and saw that she had leprosy.

¹¹ He said to Moses, "My lord, please don't punish us for this sin that we've so stupidly committed.

¹² Please don't let her become like a stillborn baby whose flesh is already decaying when they're born!"

¹³ Moses called out to the Lord, "God, please heal her!"

¹⁴ But the Lord replied to Moses, "If her father had spit in her face wouldn't she have been disgraced for seven days? Keep her in isolation outside the camp for seven days, and then she can be taken back in."

¹ The Lord told Moses,

² "Send some men to explore the land of Canaan, the country I'm giving to the Israelites. Choose one of the leaders from each of the tribes to go and do this."

³ Moses did as the Lord had ordered and sent the men out from the Desert of Paran. They were all leaders of the Israelites.

⁹ Hoshea,* son of Nun, from the tribe of Ephraim.

¹⁰ Palti son of Raphu, from the tribe of Benjamin.

¹² Gaddi, son of Susi, from the tribe of Manasseh (a tribe of Joseph).

¹⁶ Geuel, son of Machi, from the tribe of Gad.

¹⁷ These were the names of the men that Moses sent to explore the country. Moses called Hoshea Joshua.

¹⁸ Moses sent them out to explore the land of Canaan, telling them, "Go through the Negev and on into the hill country.

¹⁹ See what the place looks like, and find out about the people living there—are they strong or weak? Are there many of them or only a few?

²⁰ Is the land where they're living good or bad? Are their towns like open camps, or do they have defensive walls?

²¹ Is the soil productive or not? Is it forested? Be brave, and bring back some of the country's fruit." (It was the beginning of the grape harvest.)

* 13:8 Also called Joshua, see verse 16.

²² They went through the Negev and arrived in Hebron where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmi, the descendants of Anak, lived. This town was built seven years before the Egyptian town of Zoan.

²⁴ (The place was named the Valley of Eshcol[†] because of the bunch of grapes they took from there.)

²⁵ Forty days later the men returned from exploring the country.

²⁶ They went to see Moses and Aaron, and all the Israelites gathered there at their camp in Kadesh in the Desert of Paran. They gave a report before everyone and showed them the fruit they had brought back from the country.

²⁷ This is the report they gave to Moses: "We went and explored the country you sent us to, and it is definitely very productive, as if it was flowing with milk and honey. Just look at some of its fruit!

²⁸ But the people living there are strong, and their towns are big and have defensive walls. We also saw some descendants of Anak there.

²⁹ The Amalekites live in the Negev. The Hittites, Jebusites, and the Amorites live in the hill country. The Canaanites live on the sea coast and also beside the Jordan."

³⁰ Then Caleb asked for quiet as the people stood before Moses and told them, "Let's go and take over the land. We can conquer the country, no doubt about it!"

³¹ But the men who had gone with him disagreed. "We can't go and fight these people! They're much stronger than us!"

³² They spread a negative report among the Israelites about the country they had explored. They told people, "The country we explored destroys the people that live there. Plus everyone we saw was really big!

³³ We even saw giants there—people descended from Anak the giant! Compared to them we looked like grasshoppers, and we must have looked like that to them too!"

² All the Israelites went and complained to Moses and Aaron, telling them, "If only we'd died in Egypt, or here in this desert!

³ Why is the Lord taking us to this country only to get us killed? Our wives and children will be captured and taken away as slaves! Wouldn't we be better off going back to Egypt?"

⁴ They said to one another, "Let's choose a new leader us and go back to Egypt."

⁶ Joshua, son of Nun, and Caleb, son of Jephunneh, were there. They had been part of the group who had gone to spy out the land. They ripped their clothes,*

*

14:6 A sign of grief and intense emotion.

⁷ and told the Israelites, "The country we traveled through and explored has very good land.

⁸ If the Lord is happy with us, he will take us there and give it to us, a land that's so productive it's like flowing with milk and honey.

⁹ Don't rebel and fight against the Lord. You don't need to be afraid of the people living there in the country—we can take them easily! They're defenseless and the Lord is with us. Don't be frightened of them!"

¹⁰ In reply all the people shouted out, "Stone them!" But the glory of the Lord suddenly appeared in the Tent of Meeting, right in the middle of the Israelites.

¹¹ The Lord told Moses, "How long are these people going to reject me? How long are these people going to refuse to trust in me despite all the miracles I have done right in front of them?"

¹² I'm going to make them sick with a disease and kill them. Then I will make you into a nation that's greater and strong than them."

¹³ But Moses told the Lord, "The Egyptians will find out about it! It was by your power that you led the Israelites out from among them.

¹⁴ They will tell the people living in this country all about it. They've already heard that you, Lord, are with us Israelites, that you, Lord, are seen face to face, that your cloud stands guard over them, and that you lead them by a pillar of cloud during day and a pillar of fire at night.

¹⁵ If you kill all these people in one go, the nations who have heard about you will say,

¹⁶ 'The Lord killed these people in the desert because he wasn't able to take them to the country he promised to give them. He's killed them all in desert!'

¹⁹ Please forgive the sin of these people since your trustworthy love is so great, in the same way that you have forgiven them from the time they left Egypt until now."

²⁰ "I have forgiven them as you asked," the Lord replied.

²¹ "But even so, as I live and as the whole earth is filled with the Lord's glory,

²² not a single one of the those who saw my glory and the miracles I did in Egypt and in the desert—but provoked me and refused to obey me time and time again†—

²³ not a single one of them is ever going to see the country I promised to give their forefathers. None of those who rejected me will see it.

²⁴ But because my servant Caleb has a totally different spirit and is fully committed to me, I will lead him to the country he visited, and his descendants will own it.

²⁵ Since the Amalekites and Canaanites are living in the valleys, tomorrow you are to turn around and head back into the desert, taking the route towards the Red Sea."

† 14:22 "Time and time again": literally, "ten times," but this is thought to be an expression of multiple times.

²⁶ The Lord told Moses and Aaron,

²⁷ "How much longer are these wicked people going to criticize me? I've heard what they're saying, making complaints against me.

²⁸ Go and tell them, 'As I live, declares the Lord, I'll do just what I heard you say you wanted, believe me!

²⁹ All of you will die in this desert, everyone who was registered in the census that counted those aged twenty or over, because you made complaints against me.

³⁰ Absolutely none of you will enter the country I promised to give you to live in, except for Caleb, son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, son of Nun.

³¹ However, I will take your children—those you said would be taken away as plunder—into the country you rejected, and they will appreciate it.

³² But you—you are all going to die in this desert.

³⁴ Just as you explored the country for forty days, so shall your punishment for your sins be forty years, a year for every day, and you will see what happens when I oppose you.

³⁵ I, the Lord, have spoken! Just see if I won't do this to all these wicked Israelites who have got together to oppose me! They will end their lives in the desert—they will die there.' "

³⁶ The men that Moses had sent to explore the country—those who came back and because they gave a bad report they made all the Israelites complain against the Lord—

³⁷ those men who gave the bad report died before the Lord from plague.

⁴⁰ They got up early the next morning planning to go into the hill country. "Yes we really did sin," they said, "but now we're here and we'll go where the Lord told us."

⁴¹ But Moses objected. "Why are you disobeying the Lord's command? You won't succeed in your plan!

⁴² Don't try and go, otherwise you will be killed by your enemies, because the Lord isn't with you.

⁴³ The Amalekites and Canaanites living there will attack you, and you will die by the sword. Because you rejected the Lord, he won't help you."

⁴⁴ But they were arrogant and went up into the hill country, even though Moses and the Ark of the Lord's Agreement didn't move from the camp.

⁴⁵ The Amalekites and Canaanites who lived there in the hill country came down and attacked the Israelites and defeated them, and chased them all the way to Hormah.

15

² "Tell the Israelites, 'These are instructions about what you are to do once you arrive in the country I'm giving you to live in.

³ When you bring an offering to the Lord from your herd or flock (whether it's a burnt offering, a sacrifice to fulfill a promise you made, or a freewill or festival offering) that will be acceptable to the Lord,

⁴ then you shall also present a grain offering of one tenth of an ephah of best flour mixed with a quarter hin of olive oil.

⁵ Add a quarter of a hin of wine as a drink offering to the burnt offering or the sacrifice of a lamb.

⁶ When it comes to a ram, present a grain offering of two tenths of an ephah of best flour mixed with a third of a hin of olive oil,

⁸ When you bring a young bull as a burnt offering or a sacrifice to fulfill a promise you made or as a peace offering to the Lord,

⁹ then you shall also with the bull a grain offering of three-tenths of an ephah of the best flour mixed with half a hin of olive oil.

¹⁰ Add a half a hin of wine as a drink offering. All this is an offering to be acceptable to the Lord.

¹¹ This is to be done for every bull, ram, lamb, or goat brought as an offering.*

¹² This is what you need to do for each one, however many.

¹⁴ This also applies for all future generations that if a foreigner living among you or anyone else among you wishes to present an offering acceptable to the Lord: they are to do exactly what you do.

¹⁵ The whole congregation must have the same rules for you and for the foreigner living among you. This is a permanent law for all future generations. You and the foreigner are to be treated the same way before the law.

¹⁶ The same rules and regulations apply to you and the foreigner living among you.' "

¹⁷ Then the Lord told Moses,

¹⁸ "Tell the Israelites, 'When you get to the country where I'm leading you

¹⁹ and you eat the food produced there, you shall give some of it as an offering to the Lord.

²⁰ You are to give some of the flour you make into loaves as a gift—present it just like an offering from the threshing floor.

²¹ For all future generations, you are to give the Lord an offering from the first of your flour.

²² Now if you collectively sin without meaning to and don't follow all these instructions that the Lord has given Moses—

²³ everything that the Lord has ordered you to do through Moses from the time that the Lord gave them and for all future generations—

²⁴ and if it was done unintentionally without everyone knowing about it, then the whole congregation is to present a young bull as a burnt offering to be accepted by the Lord, along with its grain offering and drink offering presented according to the rules, as well as a male goat as a sin offering.

* 15:11 "Brought as an offering": supplied for clarity.

²⁵ In this way the priest is to make the whole congregation of Israel right with the Lord so that they can be forgiven, because the sin was unintentional and they have presented the Lord with an burnt offering and a sin offering, offered before the Lord for their unintentional sin.

²⁶ Then the whole congregation of Israel and the foreigners living among them will be forgiven, because the people sinned unintentionally.

²⁸ The priest will make the person who sinned unintentionally right before the Lord their behalf. Once they have been made right, they will be forgiven.

³⁰ But the person who sins in defiance, whether an Israelite or foreigner, is blaspheming[†] the Lord. They shall be expelled from their people.

³¹ They have to be expelled, because they have treated the word of the Lord with contempt and broken his commandment. They are responsible for the consequences of their own guilt.' "

³² During the time the Israelites were wandering in the desert, a man was caught collecting firewood on the Sabbath.

³⁴ They placed him under guard because it wasn't clear what should happen to him.

³⁶ So they all took the man outside the camp and stoned him to death as the Lord had ordered Moses.

³⁷ Sometime later the Lord told Moses,

³⁹ When you look at these tassels you will be reminded to keep all the commandments of the Lord and not be unfaithful, following your own thoughts and desires.

⁴⁰ In this way you'll remember to keep all my commandments and you will be holy to your God. I am the Lord your God who led you out of Egypt to be your God.

16

¹ Korah, * son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi tried to take over leadership, along with Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab, and On, son of Peleth, who were from the tribe of Reuben.

is holy, and the Lord is among them. So why do you set yourselves above the Lord's assembly?"

4 When Moses heard what they were saying, he fell facedown on the ground.

5 Then he told Korah and all those with him, "In the morning the Lord is going to make it clear who is his and who is holy, and allow that person to approach him. He will only allow whoever he chooses to approach him.

6 This is what you, Korah, and everyone with you are going to do. Take some incense burners,

7 and tomorrow put incense in them and set it on fire in the presence of the Lord. Then the man the Lord chooses is the one who is holy. It is you Levites who are taking too much power for yourselves!"

8 Moses also told Korah, "Listen, you Levites!

9 Do you think it's something insignificant that the God of Israel chose you from all the other Israelites and allowed you to approach him and carry out the work in the Lord's Tabernacle, to stand before the Israelites and serve them?

10 He has allowed you the privilege of approaching him, Korah, you and all the other Levites, but now you want to have the priesthood as well!

11 So in reality you and those who have joined you are fighting against the Lord—because who is Aaron that you should complain about him?"

12 Moses summoned Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, but they replied, "We're not going to appear before you!†

13 Haven't you done enough by taking us away from a land flowing with milk and honey in order to kill us out here in the desert? Do you have to make yourself a dictator as well, someone to rule us?

14 On top of that you haven't taken us to a land flowing with milk and honey or given us fields and vineyards to own. Do you really think you can fool everyone?‡ No, we will not attend!"

15 Moses got really angry and said to the Lord, "Don't accept their offerings. I have never taken even a donkey from them or treated any of them badly."

16 Moses told Korah, "You and all those who have joined you must appear before the Lord tomorrow—all of you and Aaron too.

17 Each one will take his incense burner, put incense in it, and offer it before the Lord. All 250 of you will use your incense burners and Aaron will as well."

18 So each one took his incense burner, put incense in it, set it on fire, and stood together with Moses and Aaron at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

19 When Korah had gathered all his rebellious group at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, the Lord's glory appeared before the whole congregation.

20 The Lord told Moses and Aaron,

† 16:12 In other word they refused to acknowledge Moses' authority to require them to appear before him to be judged. ‡ 16:14 The expression used here "Will you gouge out the eyes of these men?" is taken to mean something like "Are you going to pull the wool over their eyes?"

²² But Moses and Aaron fell facedown on the ground said, “God—God of everything that lives—when it’s just one man who sins, do you have to be angry with the everybody?”

²³ Then the Lord told Moses,

²⁵ So Moses went over to Dathan and Abiram, and the Israelite elders of Israel followed him.

²⁶ He ordered the people, “Move away from the tents of these wicked men and don’t touch anything that belongs to them, otherwise you will be destroyed along with them in all their sins.”

²⁷ The people moved away from the homes of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the entrances to their tents along with their wives, children and little ones.

²⁸ Moses said, “This is how you will know that the Lord did send me to carry out everything I’ve done, for it wasn’t anything I thought up. §

²⁹ If these men die a natural death, experiencing the destiny of every human being, then the Lord didn’t send me.

³⁰ But if the Lord does something totally different, and the earth opens up and swallows them down along with everything that belongs to them so that they go down alive into Sheol, then you will know that these men have acted with contempt to the Lord.”

³² and the earth opened up and swallowed them and their households down, as well as everyone who was there with Korah and everything that belonged to them.

³⁴ When they heard their cries, all the Israelites nearby ran away, shouting, “Watch out! The earth could swallow us too!”

³⁶ Then the Lord said to Moses,

³⁷ “Tell Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, to collect the holy incense burners from among those who have been burned up, and scatter the coals used for the incense well away from the camp.

³⁸ Have the incense burners of those who sinned at the expense of their own lives hammered into metal sheets as a covering for the altar, because they were offered before the Lord, and so have become holy. They will be a reminder to Israelites of what happened.”

³⁹ So Eleazar the priest collected the bronze incense burners used by those who had been burned up, and had them hammered out as a covering for the altar,

⁴⁰ following the instructions given to him from the Lord through Moses. This was to remind the Israelites that no one who is not a descendant of Aaron should come and offer incense before the Lord, otherwise they could end up like Korah and those with him.

§ 16:28 “It wasn’t anything I thought up”: literally, “not from my heart,” because it was believed that the heart was the place where thinking occurred.

⁴¹ The next day all the Israelites complained to Moses and Aaron, saying, "You have killed the Lord's people!"

⁴² But as the people gathered to confront them, Moses and Aaron went over to the Tent of Meeting, and suddenly the cloud covered it and the Lord's glory appeared.

⁴⁴ and the Lord said to Moses,

⁴⁵ "Get away from these people and I will finish them off immediately." Moses and Aaron fell facedown on the ground.

⁴⁶ Moses told Aaron, "Put some coals from the altar and some incense in your incense burner. Then run to the people and make them right before the Lord, for the Lord is angry with them and a plague has started."

⁴⁷ Aaron took the incense burner just as Moses had told him and ran into the middle of the assembly. He saw that the plague had started to affect the people so he offered the incense and made the people right with the Lord.

⁴⁸ He stood between those who had died and those who were still alive, and the plague was stopped.

⁵⁰ Then Aaron went back to Moses at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting because the plague had been stopped.

² "Tell the Israelites to bring twelve walking sticks, one from the leader of each tribe. Write the name of each man on the walking stick,

³ and write Aaron's name on the walking stick of the tribe of Levi, because there has to be a walking stick for the head of each tribe.

⁴ Place the walking sticks in the Tent of Meeting in front of the Testimony* where I meet with you.

⁵ The walking stick that belongs to the man I choose will sprout buds, and I will put a stop to the Israelites' constant complaints against you."

⁷ Moses placed the walking sticks before the Lord in the Tent of the Testimony.

⁸ The next day Moses went into the Tent of the Testimony and saw that Aaron's walking stick that represented the tribe of Levi, had sprouted and developed buds, flowered and produced almonds.

⁹ Moses took all the walking sticks from the presence of the Lord and showed them to all the Israelites. They saw them, and each man collected his own walking stick.

¹⁰ The Lord told Moses, "Put Aaron's walking stick back in front of the Testimony, to be kept there as a reminder to warn anyone who wants to rebel, so that you may stop their complaining against me. Otherwise they'll die."

¹¹ Moses did what the Lord ordered him to do.

* 17:4 The Testimony referred to the two stone tablets of the Ten Commandments which were kept inside the Ark.

¹² Then the Israelites came and told Moses, “Can’t you see we’re all going to die? We’ll be destroyed! We’re all going to be killed!”

¹³ Anyone who dares to approach the Tabernacle of the Lord will die. Are we all going to be completely wiped out?”

18

² Have your brothers from the tribe of Levi, your father’s tribe, join you to help you and your sons with your service in the Tent of the Testimony.

³ They will take care of your responsibilities and those relating to the Tent, but they must not come too close to the sacred objects of the sanctuary or the altar; otherwise they will die, and you will too.

⁵ You are to carry out the responsibilities relating to the sanctuary and the altar, so that my anger will not fall on the Israelites again.

⁶ Look, I myself have chosen your brothers the Levites from the Israelites as my gift to you, dedicated to the Lord to do the work that relates the Tent of Meeting.

⁷ But only you and your sons are responsible for your priesthood, doing all that concerns the altar and is behind the veil. Only you are to perform that service. I am giving you the gift of your priesthood, but anyone else who approaches the sanctuary must be executed.”

⁸ The Lord told Aaron, “Listen, I have put you in charge of officiating at my offerings. All the holy contributions of the Israelites that they bring are reserved for you, and this is a permanent rule.

¹¹ The following also belongs to you: the voluntary gifts as well as all the wave offerings of the Israelites. I have given this to you and your sons and daughters as a permanent rule. Everyone in your household who is ceremonially clean is allowed to eat it.

¹² I am giving you all the best olive oil and all the best new wine and grain that the Israelites give as firstfruits to the Lord.

¹³ The firstfruits of all the crops they produce in their land that they bring to the Lord are yours. Everyone in your family who is ceremonially clean is allowed to eat them.

¹⁴ Everything in Israel that is dedicated to the Lord is yours.

* 18:4 “During your priestly ministry”: supplied for clarity. † 18:10 As required by Levitical law—see for example Leviticus 6:16, Leviticus 16:26; Leviticus 7:6.

¹⁵ Every firstborn, whether human or animal, that is offered to the Lord is yours. But you must buy back every firstborn son and every firstborn male of unclean animals.

¹⁶ When they are one month old you shall pay the redemption price of five shekels of silver, (using the sanctuary shekel standard), equivalent to twenty gerahs.

¹⁷ But you are not allowed to redeem the firstborn of an ox, a sheep, or a goat because they are holy. You shall sprinkle their blood on the altar, and burn their fat as a burnt offering accepted by the Lord.

¹⁸ Their meat is yours, in the same way that the breast and right thigh of the wave offering are yours.

¹⁹ I am giving all the voluntary gifts that the Israelites present to the Lord to you and to your sons and daughters as a permanent rule. It is a permanent agreement of salt[‡] before the Lord for you and your descendants."

²⁰ "You won't possess property in their country, and you won't have a share in their land. I am your share and your possession among the Israelites.

²¹ Instead I have given the Levites all the tithes in Israel as compensation for the service they provide in doing the work in the Tent of Meeting.

²³ The Levites are to carry out the work in the Tent of Meeting, and they must take responsibility for any sins involved. This is a permanent rule for all future generations. The Levites won't receive a share of land among the Israelites.

²⁴ Instead I have given to the Levites as their compensation the tithe that the Israelites give to the Lord as a contribution. That's why I told them that they wouldn't receive a share of land among the Israelites."

²⁵ The Lord told Moses,

²⁶ "Talk to the Levites and explain to them, 'When you receive from the Israelites the tithe that I have given you as your compensation, you must return part of it as an offering to the Lord: a tithe of the tithe.

²⁷ Your offering will be considered as if it were the firstfruits of grain from your threshing floor or grape juice from the winepress.

²⁸ In this way you are to contribute an offering to the Lord from every tithe you receive from the Israelites, giving the Lord's offering to Aaron the priest.

²⁹ From all the gifts you receive you are to contribute as the Lord's offering the very best, the holiest part of every gift.'

³⁰ So tell the Levites, 'When you have presented the best part, it will be considered as your contribution produced by your threshing floor or winepress.

³¹ You and your families may eat it anywhere because it's compensation for your service in the Tent of Meeting.

³² You will not be considered to have sinned if you have presented the best part of it. But if you treat the sacred offerings of the Israelites with disrespect you will die.' "

[‡] 18:19 "Permanent agreement of salt": meaning an agreement that could not be broken. Salt was used as a preservative, and offerings to the Lord included salt (see Leviticus 2:13).

² “This is a legal regulation the Lord has ordered, saying, ‘Tell the Israelites to bring you a red cow* without defects which has never been yoked.

³ Hand it over to Eleazar the priest, and he will take it outside the camp and have it slaughtered before him.

⁴ Eleazar the priest will put some of its blood on his finger and sprinkle it seven times towards the entrance of the Tent of Meeting.

⁵ Then the cow must be burned as he watches. All of it is to be burned—its skin, meat, and blood, as well as its excrement.

⁷ Then the priest shall wash his clothes and his body in water, and after that he may enter the camp, but he will remain unclean until the evening.

⁸ The person who burned the cow shall also wash his clothes and his body in water, and he too will remain unclean until the evening.

¹⁰ The man who collected the ashes of the cow shall also wash his clothes, and he will remain unclean until the evening. This is a permanent rule for the Israelites and for the foreigner that lives with them.

¹² You must purify yourself with the water of purification on the third day and on the seventh day, and then you will be clean. But if you don't purify yourself on the third and seventh days, you won't be clean.

¹³ If you touch a dead body and don't purify yourself you make the Tabernacle of the Lord unclean and must be expelled from Israel. You are still unclean because the water of purification hasn't been sprinkled on you, and your uncleanness remains.

¹⁴ The following regulation applies when a person dies in a tent. Everyone who comes into the tent and everyone who is already in the tent will be unclean for seven days.

¹⁵ Any open container there that doesn't have a closed lid is unclean.

¹⁶ If you're out in the open and you touch someone who has been killed by the sword or who has died naturally, or if you touch a human bone or a grave, then you'll be unclean for seven days.

¹⁷ This is the process for the purification if you are unclean. Take some of the ashes of the burnt offering for purification, and put them in a jar with fresh water.

¹⁸ A man who is clean shall take some hyssop and dip it in the water. Then sprinkle the tent and everything inside it, and everybody who was there. He would also need to sprinkle you if you who touched a bone, or a grave, or someone who has died or has been killed.

* 19:2 “Cow”: the word used here is usually translated as “heifer” which in English refers to a young female cow that has not had a calf. However, as is clear from 1 Samuel 6:7 the word is also used to describe a cow that has had a calf and is producing milk.

¹⁹ The man who is clean is to sprinkle you both on the third day and on the seventh day. After you are purified on the seventh day, you must wash your clothes and yourself in water, and that evening you'll be clean.

²⁰ But if you don't purify yourself, you will be expelled from the Israelites, because you have made the Tabernacle of the Lord unclean. The water of purification hasn't been sprinkled on you, and you remain unclean.

²² Anything the unclean person touches will be unclean, and anyone who touches it will be unclean until the evening."

¹ It was during the first month of the year that all the Israelites arrived in the Desert of Zin and set up camp in Kadesh. (This was where Miriam died and was buried.)

² However, there was no water there for anyone to drink, so the people gathered to confront Moses and Aaron.

³ They argued with Moses, saying, "If only we'd died with our relatives in the Lord's presence!

⁵ Why did you lead us out of Egypt to come to this awful place? Nothing grows here—no grain or figs or vines or pomegranates. And there's no water to drink!"

⁷ The Lord told Moses,

⁸ "Take the walking stick and have the people gather around you. As they watch, you and your brother Aaron will order the rock and it will pour out water. You will bring water from the rock so the people and their livestock can drink."

⁹ Moses picked up the walking stick that was kept in the Lord's presence, as he had been ordered.

¹⁰ Moses and Aaron had everyone gather in front of the rock. Moses said to them, "Listen, you bunch of rebels! Do we have to bring water out of this rock for you?"

¹¹ Then Moses picked up the walking stick and hit the rock twice. Streams of water gushed out so that the people and their livestock could drink.

¹² But the Lord told Moses and Aaron, "Because you didn't trust me enough to demonstrate how holy I am to the Israelites, you will not be the ones to lead them into the country I've given them."

¹³ The place where the Israelites argued with the Lord was called the waters of Meribah, and was where he revealed his holiness to them.

¹⁴ Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of Edom, telling him, "This is what your brother Israel says. You know all about the difficulties we've faced.

¹⁵ Our forefathers went to Egypt and we lived there for a long time. The Egyptians treated us and our forefathers badly, ¹⁶ so we called out to the Lord for help, and he heard our cries. He sent an angel and led us out of Egypt.

Listen, now we are in Kadesh, a town on the border of your territory.

¹⁷ Please allow us to travel through your country. We won't cross any of your fields or vineyards, or drink water from any of your wells. We will stay on the King's Highway; we won't turn off either to the right or to the left until we have passed through your country."

¹⁸ But the king of Edom replied, "You are forbidden to travel through our country, otherwise we will come out and stop you by force."

¹⁹ "We'll keep to the main road," the Israelites persisted. "If we or our livestock drink your water, we'll pay you for it. That's all we want—just to pass through on foot."

²¹ Since the king of Edom refused to allow Israel to travel through his territory, the Israelites had to turn back.

²³ At Mount Hor, near the border with the country of Edom, the Lord told Moses and Aaron,

²⁴ "Aaron will shortly join his forefathers in death. He will not enter the country I have given the Israelites, because you both disobeyed my command at the waters of Meribah.

²⁵ Have Aaron and his son Eleazar join you and climb up Mount Hor together.

²⁶ Take off Aaron's priestly clothes and put them on his son Eleazar. Aaron is going to die there and join his forefathers in death."

²⁷ Moses did as the Lord ordered: They climbed up Mount Hor in full view of all the Israelites.

²⁸ Moses removed the priestly clothes that Aaron was wearing and put them on Aaron's son Eleazar. Aaron died there, on the top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar went back down.

21

¹ The Canaanite king of Arad who lived in the Negev learned that the Israelites were approaching on the road to Atharim. He went and attacked Israel and took some of them prisoners.

² So Israel made a solemn promise to the Lord: "If you hand these people over to us, we pledge to completely destroy their towns."

³ The Lord responded to their appeal and handed over the Canaanites to them. The Israelites completely destroyed them and their towns, and named the place Hormah.*

⁴ The Israelites left Mount Hor by the road leading to the Red Sea so they could avoid traveling through the country of Edom. But the people became bad-tempered on the way

* 21:3 "Hormah" means "destruction."

⁵ and made complaints against God and against Moses, saying, “Why did you lead us out of Egypt to die in the desert? We don’t have bread or water, and we hate this awful food!”[†]

⁶ So the Lord sent poisonous snakes to attack them, and many Israelites were bitten and died.

⁷ The people went to see Moses and told him, “We were wrong to make complaints against the Lord and against you. Please pray to the Lord to get rid of the snakes from us.” Moses prayed to the Lord on their behalf.

⁸ The Lord told Moses, “Make a model of a snake and put it on a pole. When anyone who has been bitten looks at it, they will live.”

⁹ Moses made a snake out of bronze and put it on a pole. Those who looked at it did live.

¹¹ Then they moved on from Oboth and camped at Iye-abarim in the desert on the east side of Moab.

¹³ Then they moved on from there and camped on the far side of the Arnon River, in the desert near Amorite territory. The Arnon River is the border between the Moab and the Amorites.

¹⁴ That’s why the Book of the Wars of the Lord refers to “the town of Waheb in Suphah and the canyon of the Arnon, ¹⁵ the canyon slopes that reach the village of Ar that lies on the border with Moab.”

¹⁶ From there they moved on to Beer, the well where the Lord told Moses, “Have the people gather together so I can give them water.”

¹⁷ Then the Israelites sang this song: “Pour out water, well! Everyone of you sing to it!

¹⁸ The tribal chiefs dug the well; yes the leaders of the people dug the well with their rods of authority and their walking sticks.”

¹⁹ From Mattanah they traveled to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth,

²⁰ and from Bamoth to the valley in the territory of Moab where the top of Mount Pisgah looks down on the wastelands.

²² “Please allow us to travel through your country. We won’t cross any of your fields or vineyards, or drink water from any of your wells. We will stay on the King’s Highway until we have passed through your country.”

²³ But Sihon refused to allow the Israelites to travel through his territory. Instead, he called out his whole army and went out to meet the Israelites head-on in the desert. When he arrived at Jahaz, he attacked the Israelites.

²⁴ The Israelites defeated them, killing them with their swords. They took over his land from the Arnon River to the Jabbok River—but only as far as the border of the Ammonites, because it was well defended.

²⁵ The Israelites conquered all the Amorite towns and took them over, including Heshbon and its surrounding villages.

²⁶ Heshbon was the capital of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who had fought against the previous king of Moab and had taken from him all his land as far as the Arnon River.

²⁸ For a fire blazed out from Heshbon, a flame from the town of Sihon. It burned up Ar in Moab where the rulers live on the high places of Arnon.

²⁹ What a disaster you face, Moab! You are all going to die, people of Chemosh![‡] You handed over your sons as exiles and your daughters as prisoners to Sihon, king of the Amorites.

³⁰ But now we have defeated the Amorites! Heshbon's rule has been destroyed all the way to Dibon. We wiped them out all the way to Nophah and on to Medeba."

³¹ The Israelites occupied the country of the Amorites.

³² Moses sent men to explore Jazer. The Israelites conquered its surrounding villages and expelled the Amorites living there.

³⁴ The Lord told Moses, "You don't need to be afraid of him, because I have handed him over to you, along with all his people and his land. Do to him what you did to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who ruled from Heshbon."

³⁵ So they killed Og, his sons, and all his army. Nobody survived, and the Israelites took over his country.

² Balak, son of Zippor, had seen all that the Israelites had done to the Amorites.

³ The Moabites were terrified of the Israelites because there were so many of them. The Moabites dreaded the arrival of the Israelites

⁴ and told the leaders of Midian, "This horde will eat up everything we have, just like an ox eats up grass in the field!" (Balak son of Zippor, was king of Moab at that time.)

⁵ He sent messengers to call Balaam, son of Beor, who lived in Pethor near the Euphrates River in his own country.

"Listen, a group of people has arrived here who came from Egypt," Balak said in his message to Balaam. "There are hordes of them and they present a real threat to me.

⁶ Please come immediately and curse these people for me, because they are stronger than me. Maybe then I'll be able to attack them and drive them out of my country because I know that whoever you bless is blessed, and whoever you curse is cursed."

⁷ The Moabite and Midianite leaders departed, taking payment for the fortune-telling with them. When they arrived they gave Balaam the message from Balak.

⁸ "Stay the night and I'll let you know the answer the Lord* gives me," Balaam told them. So the Moabite leaders stayed there with Balaam.

⁹ God came to Balaam and asked him, "Who are these men staying with you?"

[‡] 21:29 Chemosh was a god to whom human sacrifices were made.

* 22:8 Even though Balaam is not an Israelite he uses their name for God.

¹⁰ Balaam told God, "Balak, son of Zippor, the king of Moab, sent me this message:

¹¹ 'Listen, a group of people has arrived here who came from Egypt. There are hordes of them. Please come immediately and curse these people for me. Maybe then I'll be able to fight them and drive them out of my country.' "

¹² But God told Balaam, "You are not to go back with them. You must not curse this people, for they are blessed."

¹³ In the morning Balaam got up and said to Balak's messengers, "Go back to where you came from because the Lord has refused to allow me to go with you."

¹⁴ The Moabite leaders left. They returned to Balak, and told him, "Balaam refused to come back with us."

¹⁵ Then Balak sent even more leaders who were more prestigious than before.

¹⁶ When they arrived they told Balaam, "This is what Balak son of Zippor says: 'Please don't let anything stop you from coming to see me,

¹⁷ because I will pay you a great deal and follow all the advice you give me. Please come and curse these people for me!' "

¹⁸ But Balaam told Balak's officials, "Even if Balak gave me his whole palace full of silver and gold, I couldn't disobey the command of the Lord my God in any way.[†]

¹⁹ Now you should also stay the night so I can see if the Lord has anything else to tell me."

²⁰ God came to Balaam during the night and told him, "Since these men have come for you, get up and go with them. But only do what I tell you."

²² God's got angry because Balaam had decided to go. The angel of the Lord came and stood in the road to confront him. Balaam was riding on his donkey, and he was accompanied by his two servants.

²³ The donkey saw the angel of the Lord standing in the road holding a drawn sword, so it turned from the road and went into a field. So Balaam beat it to make it go back to the road.

²⁵ The donkey saw the angel of the Lord and tried to get past.[‡] It pushed up against the wall and crushed Balaam's foot against it. So he beat it again.

²⁶ Then the angel of the Lord went ahead and stood in a narrow place where there was no room to get past, either on the right or the left.

²⁷ The donkey saw the angel of the Lord and lay down under Balaam. He got angry and beat it with his walking stick.

²⁸ The Lord gave the donkey the ability to speak and it said to Balaam, "What have I done to you for you to beat me three times?"

²⁹ "You made me look stupid!" Balaam told the donkey. "If I was holding a sword, I'd kill you now!"

[†] 22:18 "In any way": literally, "whether little or much." [‡] 22:25 "And tried to get past": supplied for clarity.

³⁰ But the donkey asked Balaam, "Aren't I the donkey you've ridden all your life right up to today? Have I ever treated you this way before?"

"No," he admitted.

³¹ Then the Lord gave Balaam the ability to see the angel of the Lord standing in the road holding a drawn sword. Balaam bowed low and fell facedown on the ground.

³² The angel of the Lord asked him, "Why did you beat your donkey three times? Listen, I have come to confront you because you're being obstinate.

³³ The donkey saw me and avoided me three times. If it had not avoided me, by now I definitely would have killed you and allowed the donkey to live."

³⁴ "I have sinned because I did not realize that you were standing in the road to confront me," Balaam said to the angel of the Lord, "So if this isn't what you want, I'll go back home."

³⁵ The angel of the Lord told Balaam, "No, you can go with the men, but only say what I tell you." So Balaam continued on with Balak's officials.

³⁶ When Balak found out that Balaam was on his way, he went out to meet him at the Moabite town on the border at the Arnon River, the farthest point of his territory.

³⁷ He said to Balaam, "Didn't you think my call for you to come was urgent? Why didn't you come to me straight away? Did you think I couldn't pay you enough?"

³⁸ "Look, I'm here with you now, aren't I?" Balaam replied. "But do you think I can just say anything? I can only speak the words that God gives me to say."

⁴¹ The next morning Balak took Balaam up to Bamoth-baal.[§] From there he could see the extent of the Israelite camp.

² Balak did as Balaam had said, and together they offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

³ Balaam said to Balak, "Wait here beside your burnt offering while I go and see if perhaps the Lord will come and meet with me. Whatever he reveals to me, I'll share with you." Then Balaam left to climb up a rocky crag.

⁴ God met with him there, and Balaam said. "I have built seven altars and on each altar I have offered a bull and a ram."

⁵ The Lord gave Balaam a message to share. He told him, "Go back to Balak and this is what you are to say to him."

⁶ So he went back to Balak, who was waiting there beside his burnt offering, along with all the Moabite leaders.

[§] 22:41 "Bamoth-baal": meaning "the High Places of Baal." Some have concluded that a pagan temple to Baal occupied this high point.

"Balak brought me from Aram; the king of Moab brought me from the mountains of the east. He said, 'Come and curse Jacob for me! Come and condemn Israel!'

⁸ But how can I curse what God has not cursed? How can I condemn what the Lord has not condemned?

⁹ For I'm looking down on them from the top of rocky crags; I'm watching them from the hills. I see a people who live on their own, different from the other nations.

¹⁰ Who can count Jacob's descendants? They are so many they're like dust! Who can count even a quarter of the Israelites?

I would like to die as a good person dies! Let the end of my life be like their end!"

¹¹ Then Balak complained to Balaam, "What on earth have you done to me? I brought you here to curse my enemies, and now look! All you have done is bless them!"

¹² But Balaam replied, "Don't you think I should I say precisely what the Lord tells me?"

¹³ Then Balak said to him, "Please come with me to another place where you can see them. But you'll only see a part of their camp—you won't see all of them. You can curse them for me from there."

¹⁴ He took him to the field of Zophim at the top of Mount Pisgah. There he built seven altars and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

¹⁵ Balaam told Balak, "Wait here beside your burnt offering while I meet the Lord over there."

¹⁶ The Lord met Balaam and gave him a message to share. He told him, "Go back to Balak and this is what you are to say to him."

¹⁷ So he went back to Balak, who was waiting there beside his burnt offering, along with all the Moabite leaders.

"What did the Lord say?" Balak asked.

¹⁸ This is the prophecy that Balaam delivered:

"Stand up, Balak, and pay attention! Listen to me, son of Zippor!

¹⁹ God isn't a human being who would lie. He's not a mere mortal who changes his mind. Does he say he's going to do something but doesn't? Does he make promises he doesn't carry out?

²⁰ Look, I have been ordered to give a blessing. God has blessed, and I can't change that.

²¹ He's not expecting anything bad will happen to Jacob; he doesn't foresee any trouble for Israel. The Lord their God is with them; they celebrate him as their king.

²² God led them out of Egypt with great power, as strong as an ox.

²³ No spell can be cast against Jacob; no magic can be used against Israel. People will talk about Jacob and Israel, saying, 'What amazing things God has done for them!'

²⁵ Then Balak said to Balaam, "If you can't give them any curses then at least don't give them any blessings!"

²⁶ But Balaam replied, "Didn't I explain to you that I have to do whatever the Lord tells me?"

²⁷ "Please come with me and I will take you somewhere else," Balak said. "Maybe God would let you curse them for me from there."

²⁹ Balaam told Balak, "Build seven altars for me here, and prepare seven bulls and seven rams for me to sacrifice."

³⁰ Balak what Balaam told him, and he offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

24

¹ When Balaam saw that the Lord wanted to bless Israel, he chose not to use divination as he had previously. Instead he turned towards the desert,

² and as he looked at Israel camped there according to their respective tribes, the Spirit of God came on him.

³ He gave a declaration, saying:

⁵ How well set out your tents are, Jacob; the places where you live, Israel!

⁷ The Israelites will pour out bucketfuls of water; their descendants will have plenty of water. Their king will be greater than King Agag; their kingdom will be glorious.

⁸ God led them out of Egypt with great power, as strong as an ox, destroying enemy nations, breaking their bones, piercing them with arrows.

⁹ They are like a lion that crouches and lies down. They are like a lioness that nobody dares to disturb. Those who bless you will be blessed; those who curse you will be cursed."

¹⁰ Balak got angry with Balaam, and beat his fists together. He told Balaam, "I brought you here to curse my enemies, and now look! You keep on blessing them, doing it three times.

¹² But Balaam said to Balak, "Didn't I already explain to the messengers you sent

¹³ that even if you gave me your whole palace full of silver and gold, I couldn't do anything I wanted or disobey the command of the Lord my God in any way? I can only say what the Lord tells me.

¹⁴ Listen! I'm going back home now to my own people, but first let me warn you what these Israelites are going to do to your people in the future."

¹⁵ Then Balaam gave a declaration, saying, "This is the prophecy of Balaam, son of Beor, the prophecy of a man whose eyes are wide open

¹⁶ the prophecy of one who hears the words of God, who receives knowledge from the Most High, who sees the vision given by Almighty, who bows down in respect with open eyes.

* 24:4 "Wide open": the word only occurs here and in verse 15. It is variously translated as "closed" or "open," however the meaning is essentially clear in that Balaam is referring to prophetic insight. The Latin Vulgate has "eyes that are blocked" while the Greek Septuagint has "who truly sees."

¹⁷ I see him, but this isn't now. I observe him, but this isn't close at hand. In the future a leader like a star will come from Jacob, a ruler with a scepter will come to power from Israel. He will crush the heads of the Moabites, and destroy all the people of Seth.[†]

¹⁸ The country of Edom will be conquered, his enemy Seir[‡] will be conquered, and the Israelites will be victorious.

²⁰ Balaam turned his attention to the Amalekites and gave this declaration about them, saying, "Amalek was first among the nations, but they will end up being destroyed."

²¹ He turned his attention to the Kenites and gave this declaration about them, saying, "Where you live is safe and secure, like a nest on a cliff-face.

²⁴ Ships will be sent from Cyprus to attack Assyria and Eber, but they too will be permanently destroyed."

² who invited them to the sacrifices made to their gods. The Israelites ate the pagan meals and bowed down before these gods.

³ In this way the Israelites devoted themselves in worship to Baal of Peor, and the Lord was angry with them.

⁴ The Lord told Moses, "Arrest all the Israelite leaders and kill them before the Lord where everyone can see^{*} in order to turn the Lord's furious anger away from the people."

⁶ Right then an Israelite man brought a Midianite woman to his family tent in full view of Moses and all the Israelites as they were crying at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

⁸ and followed the man into his tent. There Phinehas drove the spear through both of them, through the Israelite and on into the woman's stomach. This action stopped the plague that had started to kill the Israelites, ⁹ but 24,000 had already died.

¹⁰ The Lord told Moses,

¹¹ "Phinehas son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, has turned my anger away from the Israelites, because out of all of them he was

[†] 24:17 "The people of Seth": if this was taken literally, such a description would also include the Israelites as descendants of Seth. In the context of Hebrew parallel poetry here it probably refers specifically to the Moabites. In the parallel passage in Jeremiah 48:45 it reads "rebellious people."

[‡] 24:18 Seir was the old name for Edom. ^{*} 25:4 "Where everyone can see": literally, "before the sun."

[†] 25:5 These were "judge leaders" who fulfilled more than simply a legal role in Israelite society.

passionately dedicated to me, so I did not destroy the Israelites in my passionate anger.

¹² So make an announcement that I am granting him my peace agreement.

¹³ It will be an agreement that ensures a permanent priesthood for him and his descendants, because he was passionately dedicated to his God and set the Israelites right."

¹⁴ The name of the Israelite who was killed with the Midianite woman was Zimri, son of Salu, a family leader of the tribe of Simeon.

¹⁵ The name of the Midianite woman who was killed was Cozbi, daughter of Zur, a family leader of a Midianite tribe.

¹⁷ "Attack the Midianites and kill them,

¹⁸ because they attacked you deceptively, leading you astray by using Peor and their woman Cozbi, the daughter of the Midianite leader—the woman who was killed on the day the plague came because of their devotion to Peor."

26

² "Census all the Israelites by family—all those twenty years of age or older who are eligible for military service in the army of Israel."

³ There on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan opposite Jericho, Moses and Eleazar the priest gave the order,

⁴ "Census the men twenty years of age or older, following the instructions the Lord gave to Moses."

³⁵ These were the descendants of Ephraim by family:

⁵¹ The total of all those counted was 601,730.

⁵² The Lord told Moses,

⁵³ "Divide the land that is to be owned based on the number of those censused.

⁵⁴ Give a larger area of land to large tribe, and a smaller area to a smaller tribe. Each tribe shall receive their allotment of land depending on their number counted in the census.

⁵⁵ The land has to be divided up by casting lots. Everyone shall receive their allotted land based on the name of their ancestor's tribe.

⁵⁶ Every allocation of land is to be divided by casting lots among the tribes, whether large or small."

⁵⁷ These were the Levites censused by family:

⁶¹ but Nadab and Abihu died when they offered forbidden fire in the Lord's presence.

⁶² The number of the Levites censused totaled 23,000. This included every male one month old or older. However, they were not counted with the other Israelites, because no land allotment was given to them with the other Israelites.

⁶⁴ However, they did not include a single one who had previously been censused by Moses and Aaron the priest when they counted the Israelites in the Sinai Desert,

⁶⁵ because the Lord had told them that they would all die in the desert. No one was left except Caleb, son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, son of Nun.

¹ The daughters of Zelophehad came to present their case.* Their father Zelophehad was the son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, and was from the tribe of Manasseh, son of Joseph. The names of his daughters were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. They came

² and stood before Moses, Eleazar the priest, the leaders, and all the Israelites at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. They said,

³ "Our father died in the desert, but he wasn't one of Korah's followers who joined together to rebel against the Lord. No, he died from his own sins, and he didn't have any sons.

⁴ Why should our family name be lost simply because he didn't have a son? Give us land to own alongside our uncles."

⁶ The Lord gave him this answer;

⁷ "What the daughters of Zelophehad are saying is right. You really must give them land to own alongside their uncles—give to them what would have been allocated to their father.

⁸ In addition, tell the Israelites, 'If a man dies and doesn't have a son, give his property to his daughter.

⁹ If he doesn't have a daughter, give his property to his brothers.

¹⁰ If he doesn't have brothers, give his property to his father's brothers.

¹² The Lord told Moses, "Go up into the Abarim mountains so you can see the land that I have given the Israelites.

* 27:1 See also Joshua 17:3-6.

¹³ After you have seen it, you will also join your forefathers in death, just as your brother Aaron did,

¹⁴ because when the Israelites complained in the Desert of Zin, you both rebelled against my instructions to show my holiness before them in regard to providing water.” (These were the waters of Meribah in Kadesh, in the Desert of Zin.)

¹⁵ Then Moses pleaded with the Lord,

¹⁶ “May the Lord, the God who gives life to all living beings, choose a man to lead the Israelites

¹⁷ who will tell them what to do and show them where to go, so that the people of the Lord won't be like sheep without a shepherd.”

¹⁸ The Lord told Moses, “Call for Joshua, son of Nun, a man who has the Spirit in him, and place your hands on him.

¹⁹ Make him stand in front of Eleazar the priest and all the Israelites, and dedicate him while they watch.

²⁰ Hand over some of your authority to him so that all the Israelites will obey him.

²¹ When he needs instructions he is to go before Eleazar the priest who will ask the Lord on his behalf and find out the decision using the Urim.[†] Joshua will give orders to all the Israelites concerning everything they are to do.”

²² Moses followed the Lord's instructions. He had Joshua come and stand in front of Eleazar the priest and all the Israelites.

²³ Moses placed his hands on Joshua and dedicated him, just as the Lord had told him to do.

¹ The Lord told Moses,

² “Give the following regulations to the Israelites:” * You are to present to me at the appropriate times my food offerings for me to accept.

³ Tell them you are to present to the Lord every day two male lambs a year old as a continual burnt offering.

⁵ along with one tenth of an ephah of best flour for a grain offering, mixed with a quarter of a hin of pressed olive oil.

⁶ This is a continual burnt offering that was begun at Mount Sinai as an offering acceptable to the Lord.

⁷ The drink offering that accompanies each lamb is to be a quarter of a hin. Pour out the offering of fermented drink to the Lord in the sanctuary.

⁸ Offer the second lamb in the evening before it gets dark, along with the same grain and drink offerings as in the morning. It is a burnt offering acceptable to the Lord.

⁹ On the Sabbath day, present male lambs two years old, without defects, along with a grain offering of two-tenths of an ephah of the best flour mixed with olive oil, and its drink offering.

[†] 27:21 Something used to determine the Lord's will. See Exodus 28:30, Leviticus 8:8.
This passage parallels the instructions given in Exodus 29:38-41.

* 28:2

¹¹ At the start of every month, you are to present to the Lord a burnt offering of two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old, all of them without defects,

¹³ and one tenth of an ephah of the best flour mixed with olive oil for each of the lambs. This is a burnt offering acceptable to the Lord.

¹⁴ Their respective drink offerings shall be a half a hin of wine for each bull, a third of a hin for the ram, and a quarter of a hin for each lamb. This is the monthly burnt offering to be presented every month during the year.

¹⁷ There shall be a festival on the fifteenth day of this month, and for seven days only eat bread without yeast.

³⁰ Also present a male goat as an offering to make you right.

³¹ Present these offerings along with their drink offerings in addition to the continual burnt offering and its grain offering. Make sure the animals sacrificed have no defects."

[†] 28:26 Also called the "Festival of Harvest" in Exodus 23:16.

³⁹ Present these offerings to the Lord at the times you are required to do so, in addition to your offerings to fulfill a promise and freewill offerings, whether they are burnt offerings, grain offerings, drink offerings, or peace offerings."

⁴⁰ Moses repeated all this to the Israelites as the Lord ordered him to do.

² If a man makes a solemn promise to the Lord, or pledges to do something by swearing an oath, he must not break his promise. He must do everything he said he would.

³ If a woman who's young and still living in her father's house makes a solemn promise to the Lord or pledges to do something by swearing an oath

⁴ and her father finds out about her promise or pledge but doesn't say anything to her, all the promises or pledges she has sworn to do will stand.

⁵ But if her father disallows them as soon as he finds out, then none of her promises or pledges remain valid. The Lord will release her from keeping them because her father has disallowed them.

⁶ If a woman marries after having made a solemn promise or sworn an oath without thinking

⁷ and her husband finds out about it but doesn't say anything to her right away, all the promises or pledges she has sworn to do will stand.

⁸ But if her husband disallows them when he finds out about it, then none of her promises or oaths remain valid and the Lord will release her from keeping them.

⁹ Every solemn promise made by a widow or a woman who is divorced must be kept.

¹¹ and her husband finds out about her promise or pledge but doesn't say anything to her and doesn't disallow them, then none of her promises or pledges remain valid.

¹² But if her husband disallows them as soon as he finds out about it, then none of her promises or oaths remain valid. The Lord will release her from keeping them because her husband has disallowed them.

¹³ Her husband may also confirm or disallow any solemn promise or pledge the woman may make for self-denial.

¹⁴ But if her husband doesn't ever say a word to her about it, then he is assumed to have confirmed all the solemn promises and pledges she has made.

¹⁵ However, if he disallows them some time later after finding out about them, then he will bear the responsibility for her breaking them."

¹⁶ These are the regulations that the Lord gave to Moses regarding the relationship between a man and his wife, and between a father and a daughter who is young and still living at home.

² "Punish the Midianites because of what they did to the Israelites. After that you will join your forefathers in death."

³ Moses instructed the people, "Have some of your men get ready for battle, so they can go and attack the Midianites and carry out the Lord's punishment on them.

⁵ So one thousand men were chosen from each Israelite tribe, making twelve thousand troops ready for battle.

⁶ Moses sent them into battle, one thousand from each tribe, together with Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest. He carried with him the holy objects from the sanctuary and the trumpets used for giving signals.

⁷ They attacked the Midianites, as the Lord had told Moses to do, and they killed all the men.

⁸ Among those killed were the five kings of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba. They also killed Balaam, son of Beor, with the sword.

⁹ The Israelites captured the Midianite women and children, and they took as plunder all their herds, flocks, and possessions.

¹¹ and carried away all the plunder and loot, including people and animals.

¹² They brought the prisoners, loot, and plunder to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the rest of the Israelites where they were camped on the plains of Moab, beside the Jordan opposite Jericho.

¹³ Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the Israelite leaders went out of the camp to meet them.

¹⁴ Moses was angry with the army officers, the commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, who returned from the battle.

¹⁵ "Why did you let all the women live?" he asked them.

¹⁶ "You realize that these were the women seduced the Israelite men, leading them to be unfaithful to the Lord at Peor, following Balaam's advice! That's why the Lord's people suffered from the plague!

¹⁷ So go and kill all the boys and every woman who has had slept with a man.

¹⁸ Let all the girls who are virgins live. They are yours.

¹⁹ All those of you who killed someone or touched a dead body must stay outside the camp for seven days. Purify yourselves and your prisoners on the third day and the seventh day.

²⁰ Also purify all your clothing garment and anything made of leather, goat's hair, or wood."

²¹ Eleazar the priest told the soldiers who had gone into battle, "These are the legal regulations that the Lord has ordered Moses to be carried out:

²² All that's made of gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin, and lead—

²³ anything that doesn't burn—must be put through fire to make it clean. But it still has to be purified using water of purification. Anything that burns must be put through the water.

²⁴ Wash your clothes on the seventh day and you will be clean. Then you can enter the camp."

²⁵ The Lord told Moses,

²⁶ "You, Eleazar the priest, and the Israelite family leaders are to take a record of the people and animals that were captured.

²⁷ Then divide them between the troops who went into battle and the rest of the Israelites.

²⁸ Take as a contribution to the Lord from what is allocated to the troops who went into battle one out of every five hundred people, cattle, donkeys, or sheep.

²⁹ Take this from their half share and give it to Eleazar the priest as an offering to the Lord.

³⁰ From the Israelites; half share, take one out of every fifty people, cattle, donkeys, or sheep, or other animals, and give them to the Levites who take care of the Lord's Tabernacle."

³¹ Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the Lord had ordered Moses.

³² This was the list of plunder remaining that had been looted by the troops: 675,000 sheep,

³³ 72,000 cattle,

³⁴ 61,000 donkeys,

³⁶ This was the half share for those who had gone to fight: 337,500 sheep,

³⁷ with a contribution for the Lord of 675,

³⁹ 30,500 donkeys, with a Lord's contribution of 61,

⁴⁰ and 16,000 people, with a Lord's contribution of 32.

⁴² The Israelites' half share left after Moses had given the half share to the troops who had gone to fight,

⁴³ consisted of: 337,500 sheep,

⁴⁴ 36,000 cattle,

⁴⁵ 30,500 donkeys,

⁴⁶ and 16,000 people.

⁴⁷ Moses took from the Israelites' half one out of every fifty people and animals and gave them to the Levites who take care of the Lord's Tabernacle, as the Lord had ordered him.

⁴⁸ The army officers, the commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, came to Moses

⁴⁹ and told him, "We, your servants, have checked the troops we command and not a single man is missing.

⁵⁰ So we have brought the Lord an offering of the gold objects each man received—armlets, bracelets, rings, earrings, and necklaces—in order that we may be right before the Lord."

⁵¹ Moses and Eleazar the priest accepted from them all the objects made out of gold.

⁵² The gold that the commanders of thousands and of hundreds gave as an offering to the Lord weighed in total 16,750 shekels.

⁵³ (The men who had fought in the battle had each taken plunder for himself.)

¹ The tribes of Reuben and Gad had large numbers of livestock and saw that the land of Jazer and Gilead was a good place to rear them.

² So they came to Moses, Eleazar the priest, and the Israelite leaders and said,

³ "The towns of Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam,* Nebo, and Beon,

* 32:3 Listed as Sibmah in verse 38.

⁴ which the Lord conquered in full view of the Israelites, are well-suited for the livestock that we your servants own.”

⁶ In reply Moses asked the tribes of Gad and Reuben, “Are you expecting your brothers to go and fight while you just sit here?”

⁸ This is just what your fathers did when I sent them out from Kadesh-barnea to explore the land.

¹⁰ As a result, they made the Lord very angry that day, and he swore this oath,

¹¹ ‘Not a single one of those I saved from Egypt who is twenty years old or older will ever see the land I promised with an oath to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because they were not completely committed to me—

¹² no one except Caleb, son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, and Joshua, son of Nun, because they were completely committed to me.’

¹³ The Lord was angry with Israel, and made them wander around in the desert for forty years, until the whole generation who had done evil in his sight had died.

¹⁵ If you give up following him, he will abandon these people in the desert once again, and their deaths will be your fault!”

¹⁶ Then the tribes of Gad and Reuben came to Moses and told him, “We would plan to build stone walls to keep our livestock safe and towns for our children.

¹⁷ But we will still get ourselves ready for battle, and we will be prepared to lead the Israelites until they can safely occupy their land. In the meantime, our children will stay behind, living in the fortified towns to protect them from the local people.

¹⁸ We won’t return to our homes until every Israelite is in possession of their allotted land.

¹⁹ However, we won’t own any land on the other side of the Jordan because we’ve received this land to own on this eastern side of the Jordan.”

²¹ and if all your troops cross the Jordan with the Lord until he has driven out his enemies ahead of him,

²² then once the country is conquered with the Lord’s help then you may return, and you will have fulfilled your obligations to the Lord and to Israel. You will own this land, granted to you by the Lord.

²³ But if you fail to do this, you will clearly be sinning against the Lord, and the consequences of your sin will catch up with you.

²⁴ Go ahead and build towns for your children and stone walls for your flocks, but make sure you do what you’ve promised!”

²⁶ Our wives and children, our livestock and all our animals, will all remain here in the towns of Gilead.

²⁷ But we your servants are ready for battle, and all our troops will cross over to fight with the Lord's help, just as you have said, sir."

²⁹ Moses told them, "If the tribes of Gadites and Reuben cross the Jordan with you, with all their troops ready for battle with the Lord's help, and the land is conquered as you advance, then give them the land of Gilead to own.

³⁰ But if they don't get themselves ready for battle and cross over with you, then they must accept their allotted land among you in the country of Canaan."

³¹ The tribes of Gad and Reuben responded, "We will do just as the Lord has told us, your servants.

³² We will cross over and enter the country of Canaan ready for battle with the Lord's help, so that we may have our allotted share of land on this side of the Jordan."

³³ So Moses gave to the tribes of Gad and Reubenites and the half-tribe of Manasseh, son of Joseph, the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og, king of Bashan. This land included its towns and their surrounding area.

³⁵ Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah,

³⁶ Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran as fortified towns, and they built stone walls for their flocks.

³⁷ The people of Reuben rebuilt Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim,

³⁸ as well as Nebo and Baal-meon (changing their names), and Sibmah. In fact they renamed those towns they rebuilt.

⁴¹ Jair, a descendant of Manasseh, attacked their villages and captured them. He named them the Villages of Jair.

⁴² Nobah attacked Kenath and captured it, along with its villages. He named it Nobah after himself.

² Moses recorded the different parts of their journey as instructed by the Lord. These are the journeys they made listed in order from where they started:

³ The Israelites left Rameses on the fifteenth day of the first month, the day after the Passover. They set out in triumph as all the Egyptians watched.

⁴ The Egyptians were burying all their firstborn that the Lord had killed, for the Lord had brought down his judgments on their gods.

⁶ They moved on from Succoth and set up camp at Etham, on the edge of the desert.

⁷ They moved on from Etham, turning back towards Pi-hahiroth, opposite Baal-zephon, and set up camp near Migdol.

⁸ They moved on from Pi-hahiroth* and crossed through the middle of the sea into the desert. They traveled on for three days into the Desert of Etham and set up camp at Marah.

⁹ They moved on from Marah and arrived at Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees, and set up camp there.

¹⁰ They moved on from Elim and set up camp beside the Red Sea.

¹¹ They moved on from the Red Sea and set up camp in the Desert of Sin.

¹² They moved on from the Desert of Sin and set up camp at Dophkah.

¹³ They moved on from Dophkah and set up camp at Alush.

¹⁴ They moved on from Alush and set up camp at Rephidim. There wasn't any water there for the people to drink.

¹⁵ They moved on from Rephidim and set up camp in the Sinai Desert.

¹⁶ They moved on from the Sinai Desert and set up camp at Kibroth-hattaavah.

¹⁷ They moved on from Kibroth-hattaavah and set up camp at Hazeroth.

¹⁸ They moved on from Hazeroth and set up camp at Rithmah.

¹⁹ They moved on from Rithmah and set up camp at Rimmon-perez.

²⁰ They moved on from Rimmon-perez and set up camp at Libnah.

²¹ They moved on from Libnah and set up camp at Rissah.

²² They moved on from Rissah and set up camp at Kehelathah.

²³ They moved on from Kehelathah and set up camp at Mount Shepher.

²⁴ They moved on from Mount Shepher and set up camp at Haradah.

²⁵ They moved on from Haradah and set up camp at Makheloth.

²⁶ They moved on from Makheloth and set up camp at Tahath.

²⁷ They moved on from Tahath and set up camp at Terah.

²⁸ They moved on from Terah and set up camp at Mithkah.

³⁰ They moved on from Hashmonah and set up camp at Moseroth.

³¹ They moved on from Moseroth and set up camp at Bene-jaakan.

³² They moved on from Bene-jaakan and set up camp at Hor-haggidgad.

³³ They moved on from Hor-haggidgad and set up camp at Jotbathah.

³⁴ They moved on from Jotbathah and set up camp at Abronah.

³⁷ They moved on from Kadesh and set up camp at Mount Hor, on the edge of Edom.

³⁹ Aaron was 123 when he died on Mount Hor.

⁴⁰ (The Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the Negev in the country of Canaan, found out that the Israelites were on their way.)

* 33:8 See Exodus 14:2.

⁴¹ The Israelites moved on from Mount Hor and set up camp at Zalmonah.

⁴² They moved on from Zalmonah and set up camp at Punon.

⁴³ They moved on from Punon and set up camp at Oboth.

⁴⁴ They moved on from Oboth and set up camp at Iye-abarim on the border of Moab.

⁴⁵ They moved on from Iye-abarim[†] and set up camp at Dibon-gad.

⁴⁶ They moved on from Dibon-gad and set up camp at Almon-diblathaim.

⁴⁷ They moved on from Almon-diblathaim and set up camp in the mountains of Abarim opposite Nebo.

⁴⁸ They moved on from the mountains of Abarim and set up camp on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan opposite Jericho.

⁴⁹ There on the plains of Moab they set up camp beside the Jordan, from Beth-jeshimoth to Abel-shittim.

⁵⁰ This was where, on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan opposite Jericho, that the Lord told Moses,

⁵¹ "Tell the Israelites, 'Once you cross the Jordan and enter the country of Canaan,

⁵² you must drive out everyone living in the land, destroy all their carved images and metal idols, and tear down all their pagan temples.[‡]

⁵³ You are to take over the country and settle there, because I have given you the land and it belongs to you.

⁵⁴ You are to divide the land and allocate it by lot to the different tribal families. Give a larger portion to a larger family, and a smaller portion to a smaller family. Each one's allocation is decided by lot, and you will all receive an allocation depending on your tribe.

⁵⁵ But if you don't drive out everyone living in the land, the people you allow to remain will be like grit in your eyes and thorns in your sides. They will cause you trouble where you settle in the country.

⁵⁶ Eventually the punishment I planned for them I will inflict on you."

34

² "Give this command to the Israelites: 'When you enter the country of Canaan, it will be allocated to you to own with the following boundaries:*

³ The southern extent of your country will be from the Desert of Zin along the border of Edom. Your southern border will run east from the end of the Dead Sea,

⁴ cross south of Scorpion Pass, on to Zin, and reach its southern limit south of Kadesh-barnea. Then it will go to Hazar-addar and on to Azmon.

⁵ There the boundary will turn from Azmon to the Wadi of Egypt,[†] ending at the Mediterranean Sea.

⁷ Your northern border will run from the Mediterranean Sea straight to Mount Hor.

[†] 33:45 As spelled in 21:11. Here the name is given as "Iyim." [‡] 33:52 "Pagan temples": literally, "high places." * 34:2 Other passages which include boundary demarcations include: Joshua 13:8-33, Joshua 14:1 to Joshua 19:51, Ezekiel 47:13-20. [†] 34:5 Usually identified with Wadi El-Arish. It is not thought to refer to the Nile.

⁸ From Mount Hor the boundary will go to Lebo-hamath, then on to Zedad,

⁹ to Ziphron, ending at Hazar-enan. This will be your boundary to the north.

¹⁰ Your eastern border will run straight from Hazar-enan to Shepham

¹¹ Then the boundary will go down from Shepham to Riblah on the east side of Ain. It will pass down along the slopes east of the Sea of Galilee.

¹² Then the boundary will go down along the Jordan, ending at the Dead Sea. This is to be your land with its surrounding borders.’ ”

¹³ Moses gave the order to the Israelites, “Allocate ownership of this land by lot. The Lord has commanded it to be given to the nine and a half tribes.

¹⁴ The tribes of Reuben and Gad, together with the half-tribe of Manasseh, have already received their allocation.

¹⁵ These two and a half tribes have received their allocation on the east side of the Jordan opposite Jericho.”

¹⁶ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁷ “These are the names of the men who will be in charge of allocating ownership of the land for you: Eleazar the priest and Joshua, son of Nun.

¹⁸ Have one leader from each tribe help in the distribution of the land.

¹⁹ These are their names:

From the tribe of Judah: Caleb, son of Jephunneh.

²⁰ From the tribe of Simeon: Shemuel, son of Ammihud.

²¹ From the tribe of Benjamin: Elidad, son of Chislon.

²³ A leader from the tribe of Manasseh, son of Joseph: Hanniel son of Ephod.

²⁹ These are the names of those the Lord put in charge of allocating land ownership in the country of Canaan.

35

² “Order the Israelites to provide from their land allocation towns for the Levites to live in and pastures around the towns.

⁴ The pastures around the towns you give to the Levites are to extend out from the wall a thousand cubits on all sides.

⁵ Measure two thousand cubits outside the town on the east, two thousand on the south, two thousand on the west, and two thousand on the north, with the town in the middle. These areas will be their pastures around the towns.

⁶ Six of the towns you give the Levites are to be sanctuary towns,* where a person who kills someone can run for protection. As well as these towns, give the Levites forty-two more.

* 35:6 See also Joshua 20.

⁷ The total number of towns you are to give the Levites is forty-eight, along with their pastures.

⁸ The towns that you allocate to be given to the Levites from the territory of the Israelites will be more from a larger tribe and less from a smaller one. The number will be in proportion to the size of the land allocation of each tribe.”

⁹ The Lord told Moses,

¹⁰ “Tell the Israelites: ‘When you cross over the Jordan into Canaan,

¹¹ choose towns as your sanctuary towns, so a person who kills someone by mistake may run there.

¹² These towns will be for you places of sanctuary from those seeking revenge, so that the killer will not die until they are tried in court.

¹⁴ Choose three cities on the other side of the Jordan and three in Canaan as cities of refuge.

¹⁵ These six cities will be places of sanctuary for the Israelites and for foreigners or settlers among them, so that anyone who kills a person by mistake may run there.

¹⁷ If anyone picks up something made of stone that could be used as a weapon and hits someone with it, and kills them, that person is a murderer and must be executed.

¹⁸ If anyone picks up something made of wood that could be used as a weapon and hits someone with it, and kills them, that person is a murderer and must be executed.

²⁰ Similarly, if anyone hates someone and knocks them down or deliberately throws something at them, and they’re killed;

²¹ or if someone hits another with his hand and they die, the one who hit him must be executed because he is a murderer. When the avenger finds the murderer, he is to kill him.

²² But if anyone knocks someone else down without meaning to and without hating them, or throws something at them not meaning to hurt them,

²³ or carelessly drops a heavy stone that kills them, but not as an enemy or intending to harm them,

²⁴ then the community must judge between the killer and the avenger following these regulations.

²⁵ The court is to protect the killer from being attacked by the avenger and must return him to the sanctuary town that he ran to, and he must stay there until the death of the high priest, who was anointed with holy oil.

²⁶ But if the killer ever leaves the limits of sanctuary town where they ran to,

[†] 35:19 “Avenger:” this was the closest relative to the victim: literally, “the avenger of blood.”

²⁸ because the killer has to stay in his sanctuary town until the death of the high priest. Only after the death of the high priest are they allowed to return to the land they own.

²⁹ These regulations apply to all future generations wherever you live.

³⁰ If anyone kills a person, the murderer is to be executed based on the evidence given by witnesses, plural. No one is to be executed based on the evidence given by a single witness.

³² Also you are not allowed to accept payment for a person who runs to a sanctuary town and permit them to return and live on their own land before the death of the high priest.

³⁴ Don't make the land impure where you live because I live there too. I am the Lord, and I live with the Israelites."

36

¹ The family heads of the descendants of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, one of the tribes of Joseph, came and spoke before Moses and the Israelite leaders, the heads of families.

² They said, "When the Lord ordered you, my lord, to allocate land ownership to the Israelites by lot, he also ordered you to give our brother Zelophehad's share to his daughters.

⁴ So when the Jubilee for the Israelites comes around, their allocation would be added to the tribe into which they marry, and taken away from our fathers' tribe."

⁶ This is what the Lord has ordered in regard to Zelophehad's daughters: They can marry anyone they want as long as they marry within a family that belongs to their father's tribe.

⁹ No land allocation may be passed from one tribe to another, for each Israelite tribe must hold onto its own allocation."

¹³ These are the orders and regulations that the Lord gave the Israelites through Moses on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan opposite Jericho.

Deuteronomy

¹ This is the record of what Moses told all the Israelites during their time in the desert to the east of the Jordan. They were in the Arabah* near Suph, between Paran on the one side and Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, and Di-zahab on the other.

³ On the first day of the eleventh month of the fortieth year,‡ Moses recounted to the Israelites everything that the Lord had instructed him to tell them.

⁴ This happened after he defeated Sihon king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon, and then at Edrei after he defeated Og king of Bashan, who ruled in Ashtaroth.

⁵ Speaking on the east side of the Jordan in the land of Moab, Moses began to explain these instructions, saying:§

⁶ The Lord our God told us at Horeb: “You have remained here beside this mountain for long enough.

⁸ Look, I'm giving this land to you. Go and take ownership of the land that the Lord promised he would give to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and to their descendants who would follow them.”

⁹ That's when I told you, “I can't take responsibility for all of you by myself.

¹⁰ The Lord your God has increased your numbers so much that today there are as many of you as there are stars in the sky.

¹¹ May the Lord, the God of your forefathers, multiply you a thousand times and bless you as he has promised.

¹² But how can I take on all your troubles, burdens, and arguments just by myself?

¹³ You must choose for yourselves wise, experienced men with good judgment from each of your tribes, and I will put them in charge as your leaders.”

¹⁵ So I summoned your tribal leaders, men with good judgment, and put them in charge of you, as commanders and officials for your tribes. Some were responsible for thousands, some for hundreds, some for fifties, and some for tens.

* 1:1 “The Arabah”: another name for the Jordan Valley. † 1:2 Horeb is another name for Mount Sinai. ‡ 1:3 “Fortieth year”: since leaving Egypt. § 1:5 Moses gives three long speeches which make up most of the book. This speech lasts from until 4:40. In order to reduce the number of quotes within quotes, this section does not start or end with quote marks. This procedure is repeated for the other speeches.

¹⁶ At the same time I gave strict instructions to your judges: “Hear the cases brought between your brothers, and make sure you are fair when you judge between a man and his brother or a foreigner living among you.

¹⁷ Don't show any favoritism when you judge—treat the powerful and the common people just the same. Don't let anyone intimidate you, because judgment is done on God's behalf. Bring me any case that is too hard for you, and I will hear it.”

¹⁸ This was also the time I instructed you about everything you had to do.

²⁰ I explained to you, “You have reached the hill country of the Amorites, which the Lord our God is giving to us.

²¹ Look, the Lord your God has given you the land! Go and take ownership of the land as the Lord, the God of your forefathers, has told you. Don't be frightened or terrified.”

²² Then you all came to me and suggested, “Let's send men on ahead to explore the land and report back to us about what route to take and which towns we'll come across.”

²³ It seemed like a good plan to me, so I chose twelve of your men, one from each tribe.

²⁴ They set off and went up into the hill country as far as the Valley of Eshcol, exploring the land.

²⁵ They brought back some of the country's fruit, carrying it down to us, and gave us the report: “The Lord our God is giving us good land.”

²⁶ But you didn't want to go. You rebelled against the instructions of the Lord your God.

²⁷ You complained while you were in your tents and said, “It's because the Lord hates us that he led us out of Egypt in order to hand us over to the Amorites to be wiped out.

²⁸ Where are we going? Our brothers terrified us* because they told us: ‘The people are bigger and taller than us; the towns are large, with high walls that reach the sky. We even saw the descendants of the giant Anak there!’ ”

³⁰ The Lord your God who leads your way will fight for you in the same way you saw him do for you in Egypt.

³² Despite all this, you didn't trust the Lord your God,

³³ who led you on the journey, present in the fire by night and in the cloud by day, looking to find a place for you to camp and to show you the way to go.

³⁴ When the Lord heard what you were saying, he got angry and swore an oath:

* 1:28 “Terrified us”: literally, “caused out hearts to melt.”

³⁵ “Not a single one of this evil generation will see the good land I promised to give your forefathers, ³⁶ except Caleb, son of Jephunneh. He will see it, and I will give him and his descendants the land he explored, because he was completely committed to the Lord.”

³⁷ The Lord also got angry with me because of you. He told me, “Even you won’t enter the country.

³⁸ However, Joshua, son of Nun, your assistant, will enter it. Encourage him, for he will help Israel to occupy the land.

³⁹ Your small children that you claimed would become prisoners, your children who at the time didn’t know good from evil, they will be the ones to enter the land that I will give them, and they will occupy it.

⁴⁰ But now turn around and head back into the desert on the road that leads to the Red Sea.”

⁴¹ But you answered and told me, “We have sinned against the Lord! We will go and we will fight and we will do everything the Lord our God has ordered us to do.” Then you all picked up your weapons and prepared for battle thinking it would be easy to go and fight in the hill country.

⁴² But the Lord instructed me, “Order them not to go and fight because I won’t be with you to prevent you from being defeated by your enemies.”

⁴³ I told you this, but you refused to listen. You defied the instructions of the Lord and arrogantly went to fight in the hill country.

⁴⁴ Then the Amorites living there in the hills came and attacked you. They chased after you like a swarm of bees, killing you all the way from Seir to Hormah.

⁴⁵ You came back to camp and wept before the Lord, but he refused to listen to what you said or to pay attention to you.

⁴⁶ You stayed there in Kadesh for a long time.

2

¹ Then we turned around and headed back into the desert on the road that leads to the Red Sea, as the Lord had told me, and we wandered around Mount Seir for a long time.

² This is when the Lord told me,

⁴ and give these orders to the people: ‘You are going to pass through the territory of your relatives, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir. They will be frightened of you, so you need to be very careful.

⁷ Remember that the Lord your God has blessed you in everything you’ve done. He has looked after you during your journey through this large desert. The Lord your God has been with you for these forty years, and you haven’t lacked anything.”

⁸ So we passed by our relatives, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir. We didn’t take the Arabah road from Elath and Ezion-geber. Instead we used the road that goes through the desert of Moab.

⁹ Then the Lord told me, “Don’t cause the Moabites any trouble or fight them, for I’m not going to give you any of their land, because I have given Ar to the descendants of Lot and it belongs to them.”

¹⁰ (A strong and numerous people called the Emim once lived there. They were as tall as the Anakim, *

¹¹ and just like the Anakim, they were also considered as Rephaim,† but the Moabites called them Emim.

¹² Previously the Horites lived in Seir, but the descendants of Esau took over their land. They killed the Horites and settled there, just like Israel did when they occupied the land that the Lord had given them.)

¹³ Then the Lord told us,‡ “Go and cross over Zered Brook.” So we crossed over Zered Brook.

¹⁴ The time it took for us to travel from Kadesh-barnea to when we crossed over the Brook of Zered was thirty-eight years. By this time the entire generation of warriors had died and were no longer part of the camp, as the Lord had sworn to them would happen.

¹⁶ Once the people’s warriors had died,

¹⁷ the Lord told me,

¹⁹ However, when you get enter Ammonite territory, don’t cause them any trouble or fight them for I’m not going to give you any Ammonite land, because I have given it to the descendants of Lot and it belongs to them.”

²⁰ (This land was previously considered as the country of the Rephaim who used to live there. However, the Ammonites called them Zamzummites.

²¹ They were a strong and numerous people, as tall as the Anakim. But the Lord destroyed them when the Ammonites invaded and drove them out and settled there,

²² just as he’d done for the descendants of Esau who lived in Seir when he destroyed the Horites.§ They drove them out and settled where they used to live, and are still there to this day.

²³ The Avvim, living in villages as far away as Gaza, were destroyed by the Philistines,* who came from Crete,† and settled where they used to live.)

²⁴ Then the Lord told us,‡ “Get up, go and cross the Arnon Valley. Look, I have handed over to you Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, as well as his land. Go and start taking it over, and fight him in battle.

²⁵ From this day on, I’m going to make all nations on earth dread you—they will be terrified of you. Because of the news they hear about you they will tremble in terror when you appear.”

²⁶ Moses told the Israelites,§ “From the Kedemoth Desert I sent messengers with an offer of peace to Sihon, king of Heshbon, telling him,

* 2:10 See 1:28. † 2:11 “Rephaim”: a race of giants. ‡ 2:13 “Then the Lord told us”: supplied for clarity. § 2:22 See verse 12. * 2:23 “Philistines”: literally, “Caphtorim.” † 2:23 “Crete”: literally, “Caphtor.” ‡ 2:24 “Then the Lord told us”: supplied for clarity. § 2:26 “Moses told the Israelites”: supplied for clarity.

²⁸ Sell us food to eat and water to drink for money. Just let us pass through on foot,

²⁹ just like the descendants of Esau living in Seir and the Moabites living in Ar allowed us, until we cross over the Jordan into the country that the Lord our God is giving to us.”

³⁰ But Sihon king of Heshbon refused to let us pass through, for the Lord your God gave him a stubborn spirit and an obstinate attitude, so the Lord could hand him over to you, as he has now done.

³¹ Then the Lord told me, “Look, I have started handing Sihon and his land over to you. Now you can begin to conquer and take over his land.”

³⁴ We also captured all his towns, and set apart for destruction* the people of every town: men, women, and children. We didn't leave any survivors.

³⁵ All we took for ourselves was the livestock and plunder from the towns we'd captured.

³⁷ But you didn't go anywhere near the country of the Ammonites—the area that borders the Jabbok River or the towns of the hill country, or any other place that the Lord our God had placed off limits.

² But the Lord told me, “Don't be afraid of him, for I have handed him over to you, together with all his people and his land. Deal with him as you did with Sihon, king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon.”

³ So the Lord our God handed over to us Og, king of Bashan, and his whole army as well. We killed them and left no survivors.

⁴ We also captured all his towns. There wasn't a single town among all the sixty that we didn't capture. This included the whole region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

⁵ All of these towns were fortified with high walls and gates with bars. There were many more villages as well, those that didn't have walls.

⁶ We set them apart for destruction, just as we did to Sihon, king of Heshbon, killing all the men, women, and children of every city.

⁷ But we took for ourselves all the livestock and plunder from the towns.

⁸ So in summary, at that time we took from the two Amorite kings the land east of the Jordan, from the Arnon Valley all the way to Mount Hermon.

* 2:34 “Set apart for destruction”: a special term that described a dedication to the Lord, indicating that what was promised was to be given over to the Lord and not retained.

¹⁰ The area included all the towns of the plain, all of Gilead, and all of Bashan, up to and including the towns of Salecah and Edrei in the kingdom of Og.

¹¹ (Only Og, king of Bashan, was left of the race of the Rephaim. He had a bed made of iron that was nine cubits long and four cubits wide. It's still in the Ammonite town of Rabbah.)

¹⁴ Jair, a descendant of Manasseh, took over the whole region of Argob right up to the border of the Geshurites and Maacathites and changed the name of Bashan to Havvoth-jair* after himself, which is still its name to this day.

¹⁵ I assigned the rest of† Gilead to the descendants of Machir,

¹⁷ The Jordan River in the Arabah bordered it to the west, from the Sea of Galilee to the Sea of the Arabah (the Dead Sea). On the east lay the slopes of the Pisgah mountain range.

¹⁸ This was when I gave you‡ these instructions: "The Lord your God has given you this country as yours to own. All your warriors are to cross over, ready for battle, leading your fellow Israelites.

¹⁹ However, your wives, your children, and your livestock (I know that you have plenty of livestock) can stay behind in the towns I have given you,

²⁰ until the Lord gives victory to your fellow Israelites and they have peace, just as he has for you, after taking over the land that the Lord your God is giving them on the other side of the Jordan. Then you can all return to the land I have given you to own."

²² Don't be afraid of them, for the Lord your God himself will be fighting on your side."

²³ This was also the time I pleaded with the Lord, saying,

²⁴ "Lord God, you've really only just begun to show your power and greatness to me, your servant. What god in heaven or on earth has the incredible ability to do the mighty acts you do?"

²⁵ Please, let me cross over the Jordan and see the good land there, the beautiful hills, and the mountains of Lebanon!"

²⁶ But the Lord was angry with me because of you, and he refused to listen to me. "That's enough," he told me. "Don't talk to me about this anymore.

* 3:14 "Havvoth-jair" means "the villages of Jair." † 3:15 "The rest of": supplied for clarity.

‡ 3:18 Referring to the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh.

²⁷ Climb up to the top of Mount and look west, north, south, and east. Take a long look at the land with your own eyes, because you're not going to cross this Jordan.

²⁸ Instead, put Joshua in charge because he's the one who will cross over, leading the people and helping them to take over the land that you see. Encourage him and support him."

²⁹ So we remained there in the valley near Beth-peor.

¹ People of Israel, pay attention to the rules and regulations I'm teaching you to observe. That way you can stay alive, and go in and take over the country the Lord, the God of your forefathers, is giving you.

² You are not to add to or take away from what I'm telling you, so that you can keep the commandments of the Lord your God that I'm ordering you to follow.

⁵ Listen, I have taught you the rules and regulations just as the Lord my God ordered me to do, so you can follow them in the country that you are about to enter and take over.

⁶ Be careful to observe them, because this will demonstrate your wisdom and insight to the other people living there who are watching. They will find out about all these rules and say, "The people of this great nation are very wise and have good insight."

⁷ What nation is as great as us, having a god so close to them as the Lord our God is to us whenever we call on him?

⁸ What nation is as great as us, having such good rules and regulations like all these laws that I'm placing before you today?

⁹ Just make sure to be very careful, and really watch what you do, so you don't forget the things you've have seen. Keep them in mind as long as you live. Teach them to your children and grandchildren.

¹⁰ That day when you stood in the presence of the Lord your God at Horeb,* the Lord told me, "Have the people come to me and to hear what I have to say, so they may learn to have respect for me throughout their lives here on earth, and so they may teach this to their children."

¹¹ You gathered and stood at the foot of the mountain. The mountain was on fire, shooting out flames into the sky and producing thick dark clouds.

¹² The Lord spoke to you from the fire. You heard the words, but you didn't see the form of anyone speaking—there was just a voice.

¹⁴ This was the time that the Lord ordered me to teach you the rules and regulations that you are to follow when you arrive in the country you're going to own once you've crossed the Jordan.

¹⁵ You didn't see any form when the Lord spoke to you from the fire at Horeb, so be very careful

* 4:10 "Horeb": another name for Mount Sinai.

¹⁶ that you don't spoil your relationship with the Lord by making an idol for yourselves in any shape or form, whether it looks like a male or female,
¹⁷ or any land animal or bird that flies,
¹⁸ or of any animal that crawls on the ground or any fish in the deep sea.

¹⁹ When you look up at the sky and see the sun, moon, and stars—all the heavenly bodies—don't be tempted to bow down to them. Don't worship them like all the other nations on earth in the way that the Lord has allowed.

²⁰ Remember that the Lord took you and led you out of the iron furnace which was Egypt to be his own people, just as you are today.

²¹ But the Lord was angry with me because of you, and he vowed that I wouldn't cross the Jordan to enter the good land that the Lord your God is giving you to own.

²² So I will not be crossing the Jordan, because I have to die here in this land. But you will cross over and occupy that good land.

²³ However, be careful not to forget the agreement of the Lord your God that he made with you. Don't make an idol for yourselves in the form of anything, because he has forbidden you to do this.

²⁴ For the Lord your God is a fire that burns everything up. He is an exclusive God.

²⁵ After you have been living in the country for a long time and have had children and grandchildren, if you then spoil the relationship you have with the Lord and make an idol in any form. The Lord your God sees this as evil makes him angry.

²⁶ If you do this, I call on heaven and earth to be witnesses against you today that you will be completely wiped out from the country that you are crossing the Jordan to occupy. You will not live long there—you will be totally destroyed.

²⁷ The Lord will scatter you among the other nations, and not many of you will survive in the countries where the Lord has exiled you.

²⁸ There you will worship gods of wood and stone made by human beings. These idols can't see or hear or eat or smell.

²⁹ However, if while you're there you decide to come to the Lord your God, you will find him if you come to him whole-heartedly, with complete commitment.

³⁰ When you are in trouble, after you've experienced all these things, then eventually you will return to the Lord your God and do what he says.

³¹ The Lord your God is a merciful God. He won't abandon you or destroy you or forget the agreement he made with your forefathers, confirmed by a solemn promise.

³² Think about it! Examine the whole of history from the beginning of time, long before you existed, when God made human beings, right up until now. Ask this question anywhere, from one end of the earth to the other: Has anything as amazing as this ever happened before; has anyone ever heard anything like this?

³⁴ Has any god tried to take a nation out of another nation and make them his own, using tests and signs and miracles and war—with his great power and incredible strength and terrifying actions—like the Lord your God did for you in Egypt, before your very eyes?

³⁵ You were shown all this so you could be certain that the Lord is God and there is no one like him.

³⁶ He made you hear his voice from heaven so you would obey him. On earth he revealed himself though blazing fire, and you heard him speak to you from the fire.

³⁷ Because he loved your forefathers, he chose you, their descendants. He himself led you out of Egypt by his great power, ³⁸ driving out ahead of you nations that were greater and stronger than you, in order to lead you to their land and give it to you as yours to own, just as you do today.

³⁹ So today be sure about this and never forget: the Lord is the only God in heaven above and on the earth below.

⁴⁰ Observe his rules and regulations that I'm giving you right now, so that you and your children will do well, and that you may have long lives in the country that the Lord your God is giving you for all time.

⁴¹ Then Moses assigned three sanctuary towns to the east of the Jordan

⁴² where a person could run to after accidentally killing someone without deliberate hatred. To save their life they could run to one of these towns:

⁴³ Bezer in the desert plain belonging to the tribe of Reuben; Ramoth in Gilead belonging to the tribe of Gad, or Golan in Bashan belonging to the tribe of Manasseh.

⁴⁴ This is the law that Moses placed before the Israelites.

⁴⁷ They took over his country and the country of Og king of Bashan. (They were the two kings of the Amorites who previously ruled on the east side of the Jordan.)

⁴⁸ The territory went from the town of Aroer on the edge of the Arnon Valley all the way to Mount Sirion,[†] otherwise known as Mount Hermon, ⁴⁹ and included all the Arabah to the east of the Jordan down as far as the Dead Sea beside the slopes of Mount Pisgah.

5

² Remember that the Lord our God made an agreement with us at Horeb.

³ He didn't make this agreement with our fathers, but with us, all of those who are still alive today.

⁴ The Lord talked with you person to person from the fire on the mountain.

[†] 4:48 "Sirion," here "Sion," but see 3:9.

* 5:1 See 1:6.

⁵ This was the time when I stood between the Lord and you to tell you what the Lord said, because you were afraid of the fire and refused to go up the mountain. He told you,

⁶ “I am the Lord your God, who led you out of Egypt, out of the prison-house of slavery.

⁸ You must not make for yourself any kind of idol, whether in the form of anything in the heavens above, or on the earth beneath, or in the waters below.

⁹ You must not bow down before them or worship them; for I am the Lord your God and I am passionately exclusive. I lay the consequences of the sin of those who hate me on their sons, grandsons, and great-grandsons;

¹⁰ but I show trustworthy love to the thousands of generations who love me and keep my commandments.

¹¹ You must not use the name of the Lord your God in a wrong way, for the Lord will not forgive anyone who uses his name in a wrong way.

¹² Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy, as the Lord as the Lord your God has commanded you to do.

¹⁴ but the seventh day is the Sabbath to honor the Lord your God. On this day you must not do any work—not you, not your son or daughter, not your male slave or female slave or your ox or donkey or any of your livestock, and not the foreigner who is staying with you, so that your male slave and females slave can have the same rest as you.

¹⁵ Remember that you were once slaves in Egypt, and that the Lord your God led you out from there with his great power and incredible strength. This is why the Lord your God has ordered you to keep the Sabbath day.

¹⁶ Honor your father and your mother, as the Lord your God has commanded you to do, so that you may live a long time and do well in the land that the Lord your God is giving you.

¹⁷ You must not kill people.

¹⁸ You must not commit adultery.

¹⁹ You must not steal.

²⁰ You must not give false evidence against others.

²¹ You must not desire to have anyone else's wife. You must not desire to have their house or field, or their male slave or female slave, or their ox or donkey, or anything that belongs to them.”

²² In a loud voice the Lord gave these commandments to all of you, speaking from the fire, the cloud, and the deep darkness that covered the mountain. He didn't add anything else. He wrote them down on two tablets of stone and gave them to me.

²³ When you heard the voice that came from the darkness while the mountain was on fire, all your tribal leaders and elders came to me,

²⁴ and said, “Listen, the Lord our God has revealed glory and majesty to us, and we have heard his voice that came from the fire. Today we have seen that human beings can don't die even when God speaks with them.

²⁵ But we could still die, couldn't we? This enormous fire is going to burn us up, and we'll die if the Lord our God continues to speak to us.

²⁶ Has anybody else ever heard the living God speak from the fire and survived, we have?

²⁷ You go and listen to everything the Lord our God tells you. Then you can repeat to us everything the Lord our God tells you. We promise to listen and obey."

²⁸ The Lord heard what you told me, and he said to me, "I've heard what these people told you. All that they've said is good.

²⁹ I only wish they really did respect me and always kept my commandments so that they and their children would do well for all time.

³⁰ Go and tell them: 'You need to return to your tents.'

³¹ But you are to stay here with me so that I can give you all the commandments and rules and regulations you are to teach them to follow in the country that I am giving them to take over and own."

¹ These are the commandments and rules and regulations that the Lord your God has ordered me to teach you to follow in the country that you're going to enter and occupy.

² This is so you and your children and grandchildren will show respect to the Lord your God throughout your lives by keeping all his rules and regulations that I give you, and so that you may have a long life.

³ Listen, people of Israel, and be careful to observe them, so that you may do well and have many descendants in a land flowing with milk and honey, just as the Lord, the God of your forefathers, promised you.

⁵ You shall love the Lord your God with all your mind and with all your being and with all your strength.

⁶ The commands I'm giving you today must stay in your minds.

⁷ You are to explain them carefully to your children and talk about them when you're at home and when you're traveling, when you lie down and when you get up.

⁸ Tie them on your hands as reminders and put them on your foreheads as well.

⁹ Write them on the doorposts of your homes and on your gates.

¹⁰ The Lord your God is going to take you into the country he promised to give you and your forefathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. It's a country with large, prosperous towns that you didn't build,

¹¹ with houses full of plenty of good things that you didn't provide, that have wells you didn't dig, and vineyards and olive groves that you did not plant. When you eat and are full

¹³ Respect the Lord your God only worship him, and only make promises in his name.

¹⁴ Don't worship any other gods, the gods of the peoples around you,

* 6:4 "Is the only one": or "is one."

¹⁵ because the Lord your God, who lives among you, is an exclusive God, and Lord your God will become angry with you, and he will wipe you out.

¹⁶ Don't test the Lord your God like you did at Massah.[†]

¹⁷ You must be careful to keep the commandments of the Lord your God and the laws and rules he's given you.

¹⁸ Do what's good and right in the Lord's sight so that it will go well for you and that you may enter and take over the good land that the Lord your God promised to give your forefathers,

¹⁹ He will drive out all your enemies ahead of you, just as he said.

²⁰ In the future, when your children come and ask you, "What's the point of decrees and rules and regulations that the Lord our God ordered you to follow?"

²¹ then you are to tell them, "Once we were slaves of Pharaoh in Egypt, but the Lord by his power led us out of Egypt.

²³ But he led us out of there to take us here, giving us this country that he had promised to our forefathers.

²⁴ The Lord ordered us to keep all these laws and to respect the Lord our God, so that we would always be safe and well, as we are today

7

¹ The Lord your God is going to lead you into the land that you are taking over in order to own it, and will drive out ahead of you many other nations: the Hittites, Girgashites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, seven nations that are larger and stronger than you.

² When the Lord your God has handed them over to you to defeat them, then you must set them apart for destruction.* Don't make any peace treaty with them and don't show them any mercy.

³ Don't intermarry with them. Don't let your daughters marry their sons or have their daughters marry your sons,

⁴ because they will lead your children away from following me to worship other gods. Then the Lord will be angry with you, and he will quickly come and kill you.

⁵ On the contrary, this is what you are to do to them: tear down their altars, knock down their idolatrous pillars, cut down their Asherah poles, and burn down their idols.

⁶ For you are the Lord your God's holy people. The Lord your God has chosen you to be his own special people, valued above all other peoples on the earth.

⁷ It wasn't because there were so many of you that the Lord loved you more than any other nation, in fact he chose you though there were so few of you.

⁸ However, because the Lord loved you and kept the promise he gave to your forefathers, He led you out by his power and rescued you from the prison-house of slavery, from the rule of Pharaoh, king of Egypt.

[†] 6:16 See Exodus 17:7. * 7:2 See footnote under 2:34.

⁹ That's why you can be sure that the Lord your God is the true God, the faithful God who keeps his agreement based on trustworthy love to a thousand generations of those who love him and keep his commandments.

¹² If you listen to these regulations and are careful to observe them, then the Lord your God will keep his agreement and the trustworthy love that he promised to your forefathers.

¹³ He will love you and bless you and give you many descendants. He will bless your children and the crops your land produces—your grain, new wine, and olive oil, the calves of your cattle herds and the lambs of your flocks—in the land that he promised your forefathers to give you.

¹⁴ You will be blessed more than any other nation; none of you will be childless, and none of your livestock will fail to have young.

¹⁵ The Lord will keep you from having any kind of sickness. He will not let you have any of the terrible diseases you saw in Egypt, but he will let all who hate you suffer from them.

¹⁶ You are to destroy all the nations the Lord your God hands over to you. Don't look on them with sympathy. Don't worship their gods, for that will end up being a trap to you.

¹⁷ You may say to yourselves, "These nations are stronger than us. How on earth can we drive them out?"

¹⁸ But don't be afraid of them. Make sure you remember what the Lord your God did to Pharaoh and the whole of Egypt:

¹⁹ the amazing tests you witnessed, the signs and miracles, the great power and incredible strength the Lord your God used to lead you out. The Lord your God is going to deal with all the nations you're currently afraid of in the same way.

²⁰ On top of this, the Lord your God will send the hornet[†] against them until anyone who has survived and anyone hiding from you have been killed.

²² The Lord your God will drive out these nations ahead of you in stages. You won't be able to get rid of them all at the same time, or you'd be overwhelmed by wild animals.[‡]

²³ But the Lord your God will hand them over to you and throw them into a terrible panic, until they are wiped out.

²⁴ He will give their defeated kings to you to be killed, and even their names will be forgotten. No one will be able to withstand you; you will completely destroy them.

²⁵ You must burn the idols of their god. Don't desire the silver and gold that covers them. Don't take it or otherwise it will be a trap for you because the Lord your God detests anything to do with idols.

²⁶ Don't bring any detestable idol into your house, otherwise you will treated just like it—by being set apart for destruction. You are to treat idols as totally despicable, and stay far away from them, because they are set apart for destruction.

8

¹ You must take care to follow every commandment I am giving you today, so that you may live and have many descendants, and go in and take over the country the Lord promised to give to your fore fathers.

² Remember how for these forty years the Lord your God has led you all the way through the desert, humbling you and testing you in order to find out what you were really thinking, and whether or not you would keep his commandments.

³ He humbled you, and when you were hungry he gave you manna to eat, which nobody, including you and your forefathers, had ever had before. This was in order to make it clear to you that human beings do not live by only eating bread, but by every word that comes from the mouth of the Lord.

⁷ For the Lord your God is taking you to a good country. It's a land of streams and pools and springs that flow through the valleys and down the hills;

⁹ It's a land where you won't run out of food, where you will have everything you need; a land whose rocks contain iron ore and whose hills can be mined for copper.

¹² For when you eat and are full, when you build beautiful houses to live in,

¹⁴ then you will become proud, and you will forget the Lord your God who led you out of Egypt, out of the prison-house of slavery.

¹⁵ He guided you through the immense and terrifying desert with its poisonous snakes and scorpions—a dried up, waterless land. He brought water for you out of a flint rock.

¹⁶ He fed you in the desert with manna that your forefathers had never known, humbling you and testing you, so that eventually you would do well in the future.

¹⁷ You might think to yourselves, "I became rich through all my hard work."

¹⁸ But remember it's the Lord your God who gives you the ability to become rich, in order to fulfill his agreement he promised to your forefathers that still exists today.

¹⁹ If you ever forget the Lord your God, and run after other gods, worshiping and bowing down to them, I assure you right now that you will definitely die!

²⁰ In the same way the Lord destroyed the nations as you advanced, you will also die if you don't obey the Lord your God.

9

¹ Listen, people of Israel! Shortly you're going to cross the Jordan to enter and take over the country from nations that are larger and stronger than you, that have large towns with walls that reach up into the sky.

² The people are strong and tall; they are the descendants of the Anakim. You all know about them and you have heard the saying, "Who could ever defeat the sons of Anak?"

³ But you should realize that today the Lord your God is going across ahead of you. He is like a consuming fire; he will destroy them and defeat them ahead of you. You will drive them out and quickly wipe them out, just as the Lord promised you.

⁴ When the Lord your God has driven them out ahead of you, don't think to yourselves, "It's because I'm such a good person that the Lord has brought me here to take over this land." No, the Lord is driving out these nations ahead of you because of they're so wicked.

⁵ It's not because you're so good or moral that you are going to take over their land. No, it's because of their wickedness that the Lord your God is driving out these nations ahead of you, to keep the promise he made to your fathers—to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

⁶ You'd better believe that it's not because you're such good people that the Lord your God is giving you this good land to own, because you are stubborn, hard-hearted people.

⁷ Remember how you provoked the Lord your God in the desert! Don't ever forget it! From the time you left the land of Egypt until you arrived here, you've been constantly rebelling against the Lord.

⁹ This was when I climbed up the mountain to receive the tablets of stone, the tablets that recorded agreement the Lord made with you. I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights, and I didn't eat or drink anything.

¹⁰ The Lord gave me the two stone tablets on which he'd written with his finger everything he'd told you when he spoke from the fire on the mountain when we were all assembled there.

¹¹ After forty days and forty nights, the Lord gave me the two stone tablets, the tablets of the agreement.

¹² The Lord told me, "Hurry! Go down immediately, because your people that you led out of Egypt, are committing a terrible sin. They have disobeyed what I told them so quickly! They have made themselves an idol using molten metal."

¹⁴ Leave me, so that I can destroy them and wipe out their name completely. Then I will turn you into a nation even more powerful and more important than them."

¹⁵ I went back down the mountain while it was still on fire, carrying the two tablets of the agreement.

¹⁶ Then I saw how much you had sinned against the Lord your God by making for yourselves a molten calf. You had disobeyed what the Lord had told you so quickly.

¹⁷ I threw the two tablets down, smashing them to pieces as you watched.

¹⁸ Then I lay down on the ground before the Lord for forty days and forty nights, just as I had before. I didn't eat or drink anything because of all the sins you had committed by doing what was evil in the Lord's sight, making him angry.

¹⁹ I was terrified at how angry and furious the Lord was with you. He was ready to destroy you. But once again the Lord listened to me.

²⁰ The Lord was so angry with Aaron he was ready to destroy him, but right then I prayed for Aaron too.

²¹ I took that abominable thing, the calf you'd made, and burned it. Then I crushed it up and ground it into dust, and I threw it into the stream that descended from the mountain.

²² But you went on provoking the Lord at Taberah, at Massah, and at Kibroth-hattaavah.

²³ When the Lord had you leave Kadesh-barnea, he told you, "Go and take over the country that I've given you."

But you defied the command of the Lord your God. You didn't believe him and you didn't obey him.

²⁴ You have been rebelling against the Lord from the day I first knew you.

²⁵ So I lay down on the ground before the Lord for forty days and forty nights, because the Lord had threatened to destroy you.

²⁶ I prayed to the Lord, saying, "Please Lord, God, don't destroy your people that belong to you, the ones whom you rescued by your great ability and led out of Egypt by your power.

²⁷ Please remember your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Please disregard the stubbornness of this people and their wicked sin.

²⁸ If you don't, those people back in Egypt will say, 'The Lord brought them out to kill them in the desert because he couldn't take them to the land he'd promised them, and because he hated them.'

²⁹ But they are your people, Lord! They belong to you! You led them out of Egypt by your amazing power and might!"

10

¹ After that the Lord told me, "Cut out two stone tablets just like the first ones, make an Ark out of wood, and come up to me on the mountain.

² I will write same the words on the tablets that were on the first ones, which you broke. Then put them in the Ark."

³ I made an Ark out of acacia wood, cut out two stone tablets like the first ones, and went up the mountain carrying them.

⁴ The Lord wrote what he had before on the tablets, the Ten Commandments that he'd told you when he spoke from the fire on the mountain when we were all assembled there. The Lord gave them to me,

⁵ and I went back down the mountain and put them in the Ark I'd made following the Lord's instructions. They have been there ever since.

⁶ The Israelites went from the wells of the people of Jaakan to Moserah. Aaron died there and was buried, and Eleazar his son took over as priest.

⁸ At this time the Lord put the tribe of Levi in charge of carrying the Ark of the Lord's Agreement, as well as serving the Lord by standing in his presence, and of pronouncing blessings in his name, as they continue to do to this day.

⁹ That's why the tribe of Levi has no land allowance or share among the other tribes. The Lord provides what they need, just as the Lord your God promised.

¹⁰ I remained on the mountain forty days and forty nights as before, and during that time the Lord listened to my prayers once more and agreed not to destroy you.

¹¹ Then the Lord told me, "Get ready and continue your journey leading the people so they may enter and take over the land that I promised their forefathers to give them."

¹² People of Israel, what does the Lord your God want from you? He wants you to respect the Lord your God by following all his ways. He wants you to love him. He wants you to worship the Lord your God with all your mind and with all your being,

¹⁴ Look! Everything belongs to the Lord your God: the heavens, the highest heavens, and the earth and all that is there.

¹⁵ But Lord was attracted to your forefathers and he loved them. He has also chosen you, their descendants, above any other people, even up till today.

¹⁶ Dedicate yourselves to God.* Don't be stubborn and hard-hearted anymore.

¹⁷ For the Lord your God is God of gods and Lord of lords. He is the great, powerful, and awesome God. He shows no favoritism and accepts no bribes.

²⁰ You must respect the Lord your God and worship him. Hold onto him and make your promises in his name.

²¹ He is the one you should praise and he is your God, who has carried out for you these incredible and awesome miracles that you've seen with your own eyes.

²² When your forefathers went to Egypt there were only seventy of them in total, but now God has increased your numbers so much that there are as many of you as there are stars in the sky.

11

* 10:16 "Consecrate yourselves to God" literally, "circumcise the foreskin of your heart."

² You should realize that it's not your children who have experienced the Lord your God's discipline. It was you who saw his greatness, his power and strength;

³ and his miracles. You saw what he did to Pharaoh king of Egypt and his whole country.

⁴ You saw what he did to the Egyptian army and its horses and chariots when he swept them away in the Red Sea, drowning them as they chased after you. The story hasn't changed!

⁵ You saw what he did for you in the desert until you arrived here.

⁷ You saw with your own eyes all the amazing things that the Lord has done.

⁸ So you must keep every commandment I am giving you today. That way you will have the strength to enter and take over the country that you are crossing the Jordan to have as your own,

⁹ You will also have long lives in the country that the Lord promised to give your forefathers and their descendants, a land flowing with milk and honey.

¹⁰ The country you're entering to occupy isn't like the country of Egypt that you've come from. There you had to sow your seed and work hard irrigating the ground, like taking care of a vegetable garden.

¹² It is a land that the Lord your God takes care of. The Lord your God it is always watching over it, all year long.

¹³ So if you pay careful attention to keep the commandments I'm giving you today, if you love the Lord your God and to worship with all your mind and with all your being,

¹⁴ then I will send rain for your land at the right time, rain in autumn and spring, so that you can harvest your grain, new wine, and olive oil.

¹⁵ I will also provide grass in the fields for your livestock. You will have more than enough to eat.

¹⁶ But make sure you're not that you're not fooled into worshiping and bowing down to other gods,

¹⁷ or the Lord will become angry with you. He won't send any rain, and the land won't produce any crops, and you will soon die, even in the good land that the Lord is giving you.

¹⁸ Focus your minds on the words that I'm saying. Tie them on your hands as reminders and put them on your foreheads as well.

¹⁹ Teach them to your children and talk about them when you're at home and when you're traveling, when you lie down and when you get up.

²⁰ Write them on the doorposts of your homes and on your gates,

²¹ so that as long as the earth lasts, you and your children may have long lives in the country the Lord promised to give your forefathers.

²² If you are careful to keep all these commandments I am giving you to follow, if you love the Lord your God and follow all his ways, and hold onto him,

²³ then the Lord will drive out all these nations ahead of you, and you will take over the country from nations that are greater and stronger than you.

²⁴ Everywhere you walk will belong to you. Your territory will extend from the desert all the way to Lebanon, and from the Euphrates River to the Mediterranean Sea.

²⁵ No one will be able to withstand you; the Lord your God will make everyone living there absolutely terrified of you wherever you go, just as he promised you.

²⁶ Look! Today I'm placing before you both a blessing and a curse.

²⁸ But you will receive a curse if you disobey the commandments of the Lord your God and don't keep to the path I'm ordering you to follow today by worshiping some other unknown gods.

²⁹ When the Lord your God takes you into the country you are going in to occupy, announce the blessing on Mount Gerizim and the curse on Mount Ebal.

³⁰ (These mountains are to the west of the Jordan, in the country of the Canaanites who live in the Arabah near Gilgal, beside the oaks of Moreh.)

³¹ Shortly you're going to cross the Jordan to enter and occupy the country the Lord your God is giving you. When you take it over and settle there,

³² make sure you follow all the rules and regulations that I'm giving you today.

¹ These are the rules and regulations you must make sure to follow the whole time you live in the land that the Lord, the God of your forefathers, has given you to own.

² You are to completely destroy all the pagan shrines where the nations you're driving out worshiped their gods: on the top of high mountains, on the hills, and under every green tree.

³ Tear down their altars, knock down their idolatrous pillars, burn down their Asherah poles, and cut down the idols of their gods. Remove any trace of them from everywhere.

⁵ No, you must go to the place the Lord your God will choose from the territory of all your tribes to set up a place where he will live with you. That's where you must go.

⁶ You'll take there your burnt offerings and sacrifices, your tithes and all your offerings—your freewill offerings and offerings to fulfill a promise, along with the firstborn of your herds and flocks.

⁷ That's where, in the presence of the Lord your God, you and your families will eat and celebrate everything you've worked for, because the Lord your God has blessed you.

⁹ because you haven't arrived in the land you will own that the Lord your God is giving you and where you will be at peace.

¹⁰ After you cross the Jordan and settle down in the country that the Lord your God is giving you to possess, and he lets you rest from fighting all your enemies and you live in safety,

¹¹ then the Lord your God will choose a place where he will live with you. That's where you are to bring everything I've order you to do—your burnt offerings and sacrifices, your tithes and freewill offerings, and all the special gifts you promise to give to the Lord.

¹² You will celebrate there in the presence of the Lord your God—you, your sons and daughters, your male and female slaves, and the Levites living in your towns, because they don't have any share in the allotment of land.

¹³ Make sure you don't present your burnt offerings just anywhere you want.

¹⁴ You are to offer them only in the place the Lord will choose in the territory of one of your tribes. That's where you are to do everything that I order you to do.

¹⁵ Of course you can slaughter and eat meat wherever you are, anytime you want, depending on how much the Lord your God has blessed you. All of you, whether you're ceremonially clean or not, can it eat it just like you would a gazelle or a deer, ¹⁶ but you are not to eat the blood—pour that out on the ground.

¹⁷ In your towns you must not eat the tithe of your grain or new wine or olive oil, the firstborn of your herds or flocks, any of the offerings that you give to fulfill a promise, your freewill offerings, or your special gifts.

¹⁸ No, you must eat them in the presence of the Lord your God at the place the Lord your God will choose— you, your sons and daughters, your male and female slaves, and the Levites living in your towns. Celebrate in the presence of the Lord your God in everything you do, ¹⁹ and make sure you don't forget about the Levites as the whole time you live in your land.

²⁰ When the Lord your God gives you more land as he promised, and you feel like some meat, and say, "I want to have some meat," you may can it whenever you want.

²¹ If the place where the Lord your God chooses to live with you is a long way away, then you can slaughter any animal from the herd or flock he has given you, following the regulations I have given you, and you can eat it in your town whenever you want.

²² In fact you can eat it like you would eat a gazelle or deer—whether you're ceremonially clean or not, you can eat it.

²³ Just make sure you don't eat the blood, because the blood is the life, and you must not eat the life with the meat.

²⁴ You must not eat the blood; pour it out on the ground.

²⁵ Don't eat it, so that all will go well with you and your children, because you will be doing what is right in the Lord's sight.

²⁷ Present your burnt offerings, the meat and blood, on the altar of the Lord your God. The blood of your other sacrifices is to be poured out beside the altar of the Lord your God, but you are allowed to eat the meat.

²⁸ Make sure you obey everything I'm commanding you, so that it may always go well with you and your children, because you will be following what is good and right in the sight of the Lord your God.

²⁹ When the Lord your God destroys the nations ahead of you as you enter the country to possess, and you drive them out and settle down in their land,

³⁰ make sure you don't fall into the trap of following their ways after they have been destroyed right in front of you. Don't try and find out about their gods, asking, "I wonder how these people worship their gods? I'll do like they did."

³² Be careful to do everything I order you to do. Don't add or take away anything from these instructions.

¹ Maybe a prophet or someone who has dreams about the future comes along and gives you a prediction you about some sign or miracle,

² and the sign or wonder does happens. If after that they tell you, "Let's follow other gods that you don't know, and let's worship them,"

³ then you must not listen to what that prophet or dreamer has to say because the Lord your God is trying to find out whether you really love him with all your mind and with all your being.

⁵ These kinds of prophet or dreamer must be executed, because they have promoted rebellion against the Lord your God, who led you out of Egypt and rescued you from the prison-house of slavery. They have tried to lead you from the way that the Lord your God has ordered you to follow. You must eliminate the evil among you.

⁶ Even if your own brother, or your son or daughter, or the wife you love, or your best friend secretly encourages you, saying, "Let's go and worship other gods" unfamiliar to you and your forefathers,

⁷ the gods of your pagan nation neighbors, whether they love close by or far away in any direction,

⁸ don't give into them or listen to them. Show them no mercy. Don't spare them or protect them.

⁹ No, you absolutely must kill them!. You start killing them, and then have everyone else help.

¹⁰ Stone the person to death for trying lead you away from the Lord your God, who led you out of Egypt, out of the prison-house of slavery.

¹² It may happen that once you're living in the towns the Lord your God is giving you, you hear

¹³ that evil people have taken over in one of your towns and have led the people there astray, telling them, "Let's go and worship other gods" that you don't know.

¹⁴ If this does happen you need to make a full investigation, inquiring about the facts and interrogating witnesses.

If it's proved beyond doubt that this awful sin has actually been committed among you,

¹⁵ then you have to kill the people living in that town with the sword. Set apart for destruction its people and its livestock.

¹⁶ You must pile up all the people's possessions in the middle of the public square, and completely burn the town and everything in it as a complete burnt offering to the Lord your God. The town must remain a heap of ruins forever. It must never be rebuilt.

¹⁷ Don't take for yourselves anything that has been set apart for destruction so that the Lord won't be angry any more. He will be merciful to you, showing you compassion, and giving you many descendants as he promised to your forefathers, ¹⁸ because you are obeying the Lord your God, keeping all his commandments that I'm giving you today, and doing what is right in the sight of the Lord your God.

¹ You are the children of the Lord your God. Don't mutilate yourselves or shave your forehead like pagans do* when they mourn the dead,

² because you are a holy people who belong to the Lord your God. The Lord chose you as his special people out of all the nations on earth.

³ You must not eat anything repulsive.

⁴ These are the animals that you are allowed to eat:† cattle, sheep, goats,

⁶ You can eat any animal that both has a divided hoof and also chews the cud.

⁷ But you are not allowed to eat those that either chew the cud or have a divided hoof. This includes: camels, rabbits, and rock hyraxes. Even though they chew the cud, they don't have a divided hoof. You must treat them as unclean.

⁸ The same applies to the pig. Even though it has a divided hoof, it does not chew the cud. So you must treat it as unclean. You must not eat its meat or touch its dead body.

⁹ When it comes to creatures that live in the water, you are allowed to eat anything that has fins and scales.

¹⁰ But you must not eat anything that does not have fins and scales. You must treat them as unclean.

¹¹ You are allowed to eat any clean bird.

¹² But you must not eat the following: eagle, griffon vulture, bearded vulture,

¹³ buzzard, kites, any kind of falcon,

¹⁴ any member of the crow family,

¹⁵ tawny owl, long-eared owl, gulls, any kind of hawk,

¹⁶ little owl, eagle owl, barn owl,

¹⁷ desert owl, Egyptian vulture, fish owl,

¹⁸ storks, any kind of heron, hoopoe, or bats.

* 14:1 "Like pagans do": supplied for clarity. † 14:4 See also the list in Leviticus 11. Not all identifications of the different animals and birds are certain.

¹⁹ All insects that fly are unclean to you; you must not eat them.

²¹ You must not eat any animal that dies. You can give it to a foreigner in your town, and they can eat it, or you can sell it to a foreigner. You, however, are a holy people who belong to the Lord your God. Don't cook a young goat in its mother's milk.

²² Make sure you pay a tithe of every crop grown each year in your fields.

²³ You are to eat a tenth of your grain, new wine, and olive oil, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks, in the presence of the Lord your God at the place he will choose to live with you, so that you will learn to always respect the Lord your God.

²⁴ However, if it's too far to carry all the tithe that the Lord your God has blessed you with, because the place where the Lord your God will choose to live with you is too distant,

²⁶ Then you can spend the money on anything you like—cattle, sheep, wine, alcoholic drink, or anything else you want. Then you can have a feast there in the presence of the Lord your God and celebrate with your family.

²⁸ At the end of every third year, collect a tenth of all your produce for that year and store it in your town.

²⁹ This way the Levites (who don't have any share in the allotment of land), the foreigners, the orphans, and the widows in your town will be provided with what they need. The Lord your God will bless you in everything you do.

² This is the way the it will work: If you provided a loan to someone you must cancel it. You are not allowed to collect anything from another Israelite, because the Lord's time of debt cancelation has been announced.

⁴ However, you shouldn't have poor people among you, for the Lord will really bless you in the country that the Lord your God is giving you to own.

⁵ You just need to make sure you obey the Lord your God, and that you're careful to follow all these commandments I'm giving you today.

⁶ The Lord your God is going to bless you as he promised. You will lend money to many nations but you won't need to borrow from any of them; you will rule over many nations but you won't be ruled by them.

⁷ If there are Israelites who are poor in any of your towns in the country the Lord your God is giving you, then you must not be unfeeling or miserly towards them.

⁸ On the contrary. You should be generous to them, and lend them whatever they need.

⁹ Make sure you don't think evil thoughts like, "The seventh year is coming up when debts will be canceled," so that you look down on the poor with a sneer and refuse to give them anything. They will complain to the Lord about you, and you will be found guilty of sin.

¹⁰ Give and give again to them, and don't feel irritated when you give. When you give generously the Lord your God will bless you in all your work and in everything you decide to do.

¹¹ You will always have those who are poor and in need among you, so that's why I'm telling you to give generously to them.

¹² If a Hebrew, one of your own people, whether man or woman, sells themselves to you as a slave and works for you for six years, you have to free them in the seventh year.

¹³ And when you free them, don't send them away with nothing.

¹⁴ Give them plenty of gifts: animals from your flocks, grain from your threshing floor, and wine from your winepress. Give to them as generously as the Lord your God has blessed you.

¹⁵ Don't forget that you were once slaves in Egypt, and the Lord your God set you free. That's why I'm giving you this command today.

¹⁶ However, if your male slave tells you, "I don't want to leave you," because he loves you and your family and is better off staying with you,

¹⁷ then use a metal tool* to pierce his ear against the door, and he will be your slave for life. Do the same for your female slave.

¹⁸ Don't see it as a problem to free your slave, because your slave's six years of service to you was worth twice what you would have paid to hire someone. The Lord your God will bless you in everything you do for acting in this way.

¹⁹ You are to separate out to give the Lord your God all the firstborn males of your herds and flocks. You must not have the firstborn of your cattle work, and don't shear the firstborn of your sheep.

²⁰ Every year you and your family are to eat these animals that have been sacrificed in the presence of the Lord your God in the place that the Lord will choose.

²¹ However, if an animal has some defect or is lame or blind, in fact if it has any serious defect at all, you are not to sacrifice it to the Lord your God.

²² Eat it at home. All of you, whether you're ceremonially clean or not, can eat it just like you would eat a gazelle or a deer, ²³ but you are not to eat the blood—pour that out on the ground.

¹ You are to observe the month of Abib and to celebrate the Passover* to the Lord your God, because it was in the month of Abib that the Lord your God led you out of Egypt by night.

² The Passover sacrifice from your herd or flock must be offered to the Lord your God in the place where the Lord will choose to live with you.

³ Don't eat ordinary bread with it. For seven days you are to eat bread made without yeast with it, the bread of hardship, because you had to leave Egypt in such a hurry. This way you'll remember day you left Egypt for the rest of your lives.

* 15:17 "Metal tool," literally, "an awl."
Numbers 28:16-25.

* 16:1 See also Exodus 12:14-28; Leviticus 23:4-8;

⁴ Don't have yeast anywhere in your country for seven days. Don't keep any of the meat that you sacrifice on the evening of the first day until the morning.

⁶ The Passover sacrifice must be offered by you only at the place where the Lord your God will choose to live with you. You are to do this in the evening at sunset—the same time you left Egypt.

⁷ Cook it and eat it in the place the Lord your God will choose. Then in the morning go back to your tents.

⁸ Eat bread without yeast for six days, and then on the seventh day you are to have a holy meeting to honor the Lord your God. You are not to do any work.

¹⁰ Then celebrate the Festival of Weeks to honor him the Lord your God by giving him a freewill offering, depending on just how much the Lord your God has blessed you.

¹¹ You will celebrate in the Lord's presence in the place where he will choose to live with you. This includes you, your sons and daughters, your male and female slaves, and the Levites who live in your towns, as well as the foreigners, orphans, and widows among you.

¹⁴ Enjoy your feast—you, your sons and daughters, your male and female slaves, and the Levites who live in your towns, as well as the foreigners, orphans, and widows among you.

¹⁵ Celebrate this Festival for seven days to honor the Lord your God in the place he will choose, because the Lord your God will bless your whole harvest and everything you do, so you will be really happy.

¹⁶ All your men must come before the Lord your God in the place He will choose three times every year: the Festival of Bread without Yeast, the Festival of Weeks, and the Festival of Shelters. No one should come before the Lord without an offering.

¹⁷ Each of you is to bring whatever gift you can, depending on how much the Lord your God has blessed you.

¹⁸ Choose judges and officials for each of your tribes in every town that the Lord your God is giving you. They must judge the people fairly.

¹⁹ Don't pervert justice or show favoritism. Don't take a bribe, for a bribe blinds the wise and twists the words of the truthful.

²⁰ Always do what is right and just, so that you may go on living, occupying the land that the Lord your God is giving you.

²² and don't make for yourselves an idolatrous stone pillar, which the Lord your God hates.

¹ Don't sacrifice to the Lord your God cattle or a sheep that has a defect or has something seriously wrong, for that is offensive to the Lord your God.

² There may be a report that one of you, whether a man or a woman, living in a town that the Lord your God gave you, has been found to be sinning in the sight of the Lord your God by breaking the Lord's agreement.

³ This person has done this by going to worship other gods, bowing down to them—or to the sun, moon, or any of the stars of heaven—which I have ordered you not to do.

⁴ If you hear such a report, you need to make a full investigation. If you find out that the report is true, and that such an awful sin has been committed in Israel,

⁶ That person is to be executed based on the evidence given by two or three witnesses. No one shall be executed on the evidence given by a single witness.

⁷ The witnesses must act first in executing the person, and then the rest of those who are present. You must eliminate the evil from among you.

⁸ If there's a case before your town court that is too problematic for you to settle, whether the argument is over murder or manslaughter, one legal decision against another, or different degrees of assault, you must take the issue to the place the Lord your God will choose.

⁹ Go to the priests, the Levites, and to the judge in charge. Present the case to them, and they will give you their decision.

¹⁰ You must abide by the decision they give you there at the place the Lord will choose. Make sure you do everything they tell you to do,

¹¹ in accordance with the legal instructions they give you and the verdict they delivered. Don't deviate from the decision they give you.

¹³ Then everyone else will hear about it and be afraid, and won't act with contempt in the future.

¹⁴ After you've entered the land that the Lord your God is giving you, and have taken it over and settled in it, and you decide, "Let's have a king to rule over us like all the other nations around us do,"

¹⁵ you can have a king but only one chosen by the Lord your God. He must be an Israelite. You must not have a king who is a foreigner; someone who is not an Israelite.

¹⁶ Your king must not have large numbers of horses,* or send his men to Egypt to buy more horses, because the Lord has declared, "You must never to return there again."

¹⁷ He must not have many wives, so they don't lead him away from following the Lord. He must not have large quantities of silver and gold.

¹⁸ Once he is king and sits on his royal throne, he must make a copy for himself of these instructions, writing them on a scroll in the presence of the Levitical priests.

* 17:16 Horses were used to provide the king with cavalry to fight battles.

¹⁹ He is to keep it with him, and he is to read from it each day throughout his life, so he may learn to respect the Lord his God by being careful to follow every word of these instructions and regulations.

²⁰ Then he won't think more of himself than his fellow Israelites, and he won't deviate from the commandments, so that he and his sons may have long reigns over the kingdom of Israel.

¹ The Levitical priests, in fact the whole tribe of Levi, will not have a share in the land allotment with the other Israelites. They are to eat from the food offerings presented to the Lord—that is what they are entitled to receive.

² While they don't own land among the other tribes, the Lord takes care of them, as he promised.

³ The priests' share of a sacrifice of a bull or a sheep that is brought by the people is as follows. The priests are to be given the shoulder, the jaw, and the insides.

⁴ You are to provide them with the firstfruits of your grain, new wine, and olive oil, as well as the first wool sheared from your flock.

⁵ For the Lord your God has chosen Levi and his descendants from all your tribes to stand before him and serve in his name forever.

⁷ then he shall be allowed to serve in the name of the Lord his God like all his fellow Levites who stand there in service before the Lord.

⁸ They will all receive the same food allowances, despite him having received money from the sale of his father's property.

¹⁰ There should be no one who sacrifices their son or daughter in the fire, practices divination or fortune-telling, uses magic or sorcery,

¹² It's because of these offensive things that the Lord your God is driving out the nations before you.

¹³ You are to be innocent of such things in the presence of the Lord your God.

¹⁵ The Lord your God will send you a prophet like me from your people. You must listen to him.

¹⁶ Remember what you told the Lord your God at Horeb when you were all assembled there. You said, "Please don't let us go on hearing the Lord our God speak to us, or see this terrifying fire anymore! Otherwise we're going to die!"

¹⁷ Then the Lord told me, "They are right in what they're saying.

¹⁸ I'm going to send them a prophet like you from their people. I will give him my messages, and he will tell them everything I order him to say.

¹⁹ I will deal with anyone who does not listen to my message that the prophet speaks in my name.

²⁰ However, if any prophet claims to be delivering a message in my name that I have not ordered him to give, or speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet must be executed."

²² When a prophet speaks in the Lord's name and what he says doesn't happen or come true, then that is not a message from the Lord. The prophet has spoken with contempt for the Lord. Don't be intimidated by him.

¹ After the Lord your God has destroyed the nations whose land he's giving you, and after you have driven them out and settled in their cities and houses,

² then you are to choose three sanctuary towns in the country that the Lord your God is giving you to own.

³ You are build roads to these towns. Divide the country the Lord is giving you into three sections. This way anyone who kills someone else can easily run to these towns for protection.

⁴ This is what is to happen when a person accidentally kills someone else without meaning to, and runs to one of these sanctuary towns to save their life.

⁶ Otherwise the avenger* in his anger might chase after the man and catch up with him and kill him, if it's a long distance. The man would be killed even though he didn't deserve to die, because he hadn't meant to cause any harm.

⁸ Should the Lord your God expand your territory, as he promised your forefathers, and give you all the land he said he would,

⁹ and if you are careful to keep all these commandments I'm giving you today, loving the Lord your God and always following his ways, then you are to choose three additional three sanctuary towns.

¹⁰ In this way the blood of innocent people won't not be shed in the country the Lord your God is giving you to own and you won't be responsible for the death of innocent people who aren't guilty of losing their lives.

¹¹ On the other hand, if a man hates someone, hides in wait, and attacks and kills them, and then the killer runs to one of the sanctuary towns,

¹³ Show him no mercy. You are to eliminate from Israel the guilt of shedding the blood of the innocent, and then all will be well.

¹⁴ Don't move your neighbor's boundary marker. It was placed there by your ancestors to mark the land allotment you will receive in the country that the Lord your God is giving you to own.

* 19:6 See Numbers 35:19.

¹⁵ The evidence given by a single witness is not enough to prove a sin or a crime against someone, never mind what offense they are alleged to have committed. The facts must be confirmed by the evidence given by two or three witnesses.

¹⁶ If someone falsely accuses another person of a crime,

¹⁷ both those involved must come to be judged in the presence of the Lord by the priests and judges who are then in office.

¹⁸ The judges shall conduct a full investigation, and if the accuser proves to be a liar who has made false accusations

¹⁹ then you must punish the accuser in the same way they wanted to punish their victim. You must eliminate this evil from among you.

²⁰ Then the rest of the people will hear and be afraid, and they will never again do anything so evil among you. Then everyone else will hear about it and be afraid, and won't ever do anything so evil.

¹ When you go to war with your enemies and you see horses and chariots, and a larger army than yours, don't be afraid of them, because the Lord your God who led you out of Egypt is with you.

² Before you go into battle, the priest shall come and speak to the army.

³ He is to tell them, "Listen, men of Israel! Today you are going to fight your enemies. Don't be nervous or afraid; don't be panicked or terrified by them.

⁴ For the Lord your God is going with you to fight for you against your enemies, and he will give you the victory."

⁵ The officers shall also speak to the army and tell them, "Is there any man here who has built a new house and hasn't dedicated it to the Lord?*" He can go home, otherwise he might die in battle and another man will dedicate it.

⁶ Is there any man here who has planted a vineyard and hasn't yet enjoyed its fruit? He can go home, otherwise he might die in battle and another man will enjoy its fruit.

⁷ Is there any man here who is engaged to a woman and hasn't married her? He can go home, otherwise he might die in battle and another man will marry her."

⁸ The officers are also to tell the army, "Is there any man here who is afraid or nervous? He can go home, so he won't affect his fellow-soldiers and make them as frightened as himself."

¹² However, if they refuse to make peace with you and decide to fight you, then lay siege to the town.

* 20:5 "To the Lord": implied.

¹³ Once the Lord your God has handed it over to you, kill every male with the sword.

¹⁴ But you can take as plunder the women, children, livestock, and everything else in the town. You can take and use all your enemies' possessions the Lord your God gives you.

¹⁶ However, when it comes to the towns of those nations whose land the Lord your God is giving you to occupy, don't leave anything alive that breathes.

¹⁸ This is to prevent them teaching you all the offensive things they do in worshiping their gods, and in so doing make you sin against the Lord your God.

¹⁹ Now when you lay siege to a town and it goes on for a long time as you fight to capture it, don't destroy the fruit trees there. You can eat their fruit. Don't cut them down. Are the trees in the orchard human beings that you should also attack?

²⁰ However, you may destroy the trees that you know are not fruit trees. You can use them to build siege equipment to attack the town that is fighting against you until it falls.

¹ Someone may be found murdered, lying in a field in the country that the Lord your God is giving you to own, and nobody knows who killed them.

² Your elders and judges must come and measure the distance from the body to the surrounding towns.

³ Then the elders of the town that's found to be nearest to the body shall take a cow that has never been put under a yoke or used for work.

⁴ Take the cow to a valley that has a stream running through it and whose ground has never been plowed or sown. Break the cow's neck there beside the stream.

⁵ The Levitical priests must be there too, because the Lord your God has chosen them to serve him and to give blessings in his name, and to decide on legal disputes and cases of assault.

⁷ "We had nothing to do with this murder, and we didn't see who did it.

⁸ Lord, please forgive your people Israel who you rescued, and do not hold them guilty of shedding of innocent blood. In this way the guilt for shedding blood will be forgiven."

⁹ This is how you are to remove from yourselves the guilt of shedding innocent blood, since you have done what is right in the Lord's sight.

¹⁰ When you go to war with your enemies and the Lord your God hands them over to you in defeat, and you capture them,

¹¹ you may see that one of them is a beautiful woman who you like and want to marry.

¹³ and get rid of the clothes she was wearing when she was captured.

After she has lived in your home and has finished her month of mourning for her father and mother, you may sleep with her and marry her, and she shall be your wife.

¹⁴ However, if you are not happy with her, you must let her leave and go wherever she wants. You are not allowed to sell her for money or treat her like a slave, because you have brought shame on her.

¹⁵ If a man has two wives, one he loves and one he doesn't, and both have sons by him, but the firstborn son is from the wife he doesn't love,

¹⁶ when the time comes for the man to decide what each son will inherit from him, he must not prefer the son of wife he loves and treat him as the firstborn instead of the son of the wife he doesn't love.

¹⁷ No. He is to recognize the firstborn, the son of the wife he doesn't love through the usual custom of* giving him a double portion of all that he owns. The firstborn son is the firstfruits of his father's strength, and so the rights of the firstborn are his.

¹⁸ If someone has a obstinate and rebellious son who doesn't obey his parents and doesn't obey them even when he's punished,

²⁰ and tell them, "Our son is obstinate and rebellious, He doesn't obey us. He's a worthless drunk!"

²¹ Then all the men of his home town will stone him to death. You must eliminate the evil from among you, and every Israelite will hear about it and be afraid.

²³ don't leave the body hanging there overnight. Make sure you bury the body the same day, because anyone who is hung is under God's curse. Don't defile the country that the Lord your God is giving you to own.

¹ If you see someone's cow or sheep wandering around, don't just ignore it. Make sure you take it back to its owner.

² If its owner doesn't live near you, or if you don't know who it is, take the animal home with you and keep it until the owner comes looking, then you can return it.

³ Do the same for whatever else you find that someone has lost—a donkey, a cloak, anything. Don't just ignore it.

⁵ A woman must not wear men's clothing, and a man must not wear women's clothing. Anyone who does this offends the Lord your God.

⁷ You may take the young, but make sure you let the mother go, so that you will do well and have a good long life.

* 21:17 "Through the usual custom of": supplied for clarity.

⁸ When you build a new house, be sure to install a railing around your roof, so that you won't be held guilty if someone dies falling from it.

⁹ Don't plant your vineyard with another kind of crop. Otherwise everything you produce—the crop you planted and the fruit of your vineyard—must be dedicated to the Lord.*

¹⁴ and accuses her of being immoral, giving her a bad name, saying, "I married this woman and slept with her, but I found out she wasn't a virgin."

¹⁵ The woman's parents are to bring the proof of her virginity to the elders at the town gate,

¹⁶ and the father will explain to them, "I gave my daughter in marriage to this man, but he has ended up hating her."

¹⁸ Then the elders of that city shall take the man and punish† him.

¹⁹ They shall also fine him a hundred shekels of silver and give the money to the young woman's father, because this man has given an Israelite virgin a bad name. She is to remain his wife; he is not allowed to divorce her as long as he lives.

²⁰ But if the accusation is true, and there's no proof of the woman's virginity, ²¹ she is to be taken to the door of her father's house, and there the men of her town are to stone her to death. She has done something disgraceful in Israel by acting immorally in her father's house. You must eliminate the evil from among you.

²³ If a man meets a girl, a virgin engaged to another man, and sleeps with her there in the town,

²⁴ then you must take both of them to the town gate and stone them to death. The young woman is guilty because she did not cry out for help in the town, and the man is guilty because he has brought shame on someone else's fiancée. You must eliminate the evil from among you.

²⁵ However, if the man happens to meet a woman who is engaged out in the countryside, and he attacks her and rapes her, only the man has to die.

²⁶ Don't do anything to the woman, because she has not committed a sin punishable by death. (This is the same kind of situation as when a man attacks someone else and murders them.)

²⁸ If a man happens to meet a virgin who is not engaged, and he grabs her and rapes her, and someone sees them,

* 22:9 "To the Lord": supplied for clarity. † 22:18 Probably by a public whipping.

²⁹ the man must pay the woman's father fifty shekels of silver; and he must marry her because he has brought shame on her. He is not allowed to divorce her as long as he lives.

³⁰ A man must not marry his father's wife, so that he won't bring shame on his father.

² No one of mixed race* is allowed to enter the Lord's sanctuary, and none of his descendants may do so either, up to the tenth generation.

⁴ For they did not come to meet you with food and water on your journey from Egypt, and they hired Balaam, son of Beor, from Pethor in Mesopotamia, to curse you.

⁵ But the Lord your God refused to listen to Balaam. The Lord your God turned what was meant to be a curse into a blessing for you because the Lord your God loves you.

⁶ Don't arrange a peace treaty with them or help them out as long as you live.

⁷ Don't look down on an Edomite, for they are your relatives. Don't look down on an Egyptian either, because you lived as foreigners in their country.

⁸ The third generation of their children are allowed to enter the Lord's sanctuary.

⁹ When you are in an army camp during a war with your enemies, make sure you avoid anything wrong.

¹¹ Towards the end of the day he must wash himself with water, and at sunset he may return to the camp.

¹² Choose a place outside the camp to be used as a toilet.

¹³ You need to have a spade as part of your equipment so that you can dig a hole, and then when you're finished you can cover up your excrement.

¹⁴ The Lord your God is present with you in your camp to keep you safe and to defeat your enemies. Your camp must be kept holy, because if he sees anything unclean among you and he will leave you.

¹⁶ Let the slave live in your country wherever they want, in whatever town they want. Don't mistreat them.

¹⁷ No Israelite women or men are to be cult prostitutes.

¹⁸ Don't bring into the house of the Lord your God any money from a prostitute, whether a woman or a man,[†] using it to fulfill a promise to the Lord, for both are offensive to the Lord your God.

* 23:2 "Mixed race": the word us only used here and in Zechariah 9:6, and it's meaning is unclear. Some take it to mean "illegitimate," and others "born of incest." † 23:18 "Man": the Hebrew uses the derogatory term, "dog."

¹⁹ Don't charge a fellow Israelite interest on money, food, or any other kind of loan.

²⁰ You may charge a foreigner interest, but not an Israelite, so that the Lord your God may bless you in everything you do in the country that you are going in to occupy.

²¹ If you make a promise to the Lord your God, don't be slow in keeping it, because he will definitely demand that you fulfill it and you will be guilty of sin if you don't.

²³ But make sure to carry out what you've said to the Lord your God, because it was you who freely chose to make such a promise.

²⁴ When you walk through your neighbor's vineyard, you can eat as many grapes as you want, but you must not collect any to take with you.

²⁵ When you walk through your neighbor's grainfield, you may pick the ears of grain with your hand, but you must not use a sickle to harvest it.

³ and suppose the second man also ends up hating her, writes out a certificate of divorce for her, gives it to her, and sends her out of his house—or he may happen to die.

⁴ The first husband who divorced her is not permitted to marry her again after she was shamed, for that offends the Lord. You are not to bring guilt upon the land that the Lord your God is giving you to own.

⁵ If a man has just got married, he is not to be sent to war or made to do any other duties. He is free to stay at home for one year and make his wife happy.

⁶ Don't accept a pair of millstones, or even just an upper millstone, as security for a debt, because that would put the borrower's life in danger.†

⁷ Anyone caught kidnapping a fellow Israelite must be executed, whether the kidnapper makes him a slave or sells him. You must eliminate the evil from among you.

⁸ When it comes to infectious skin diseases, make sure you follow carefully all the instructions of the Levitical priests. Be careful to follow the orders I've given them.

⁹ Remember what the Lord your God did to Miriam on the journey out of Egypt.

¹² If he is a poor man he may give his cloak as security,‡ but you must not keep it when you go to sleep.

* 24:1 "Shameful": the word means "nakedness" or "genitals." The issue is likely to be something related to sex. † 24:6 For without the mill the family would not be able to grind grain to make bread. ‡ 24:12 "He may give his cloak as security": supplied for clarity. From the context this is what has happened, but the text does not make this explicit.

¹³ Make sure you give it back by sunset, so that he can sleep in his own cloak and thank you, and you will be counted as doing good by the Lord your God.

¹⁴ Don't mistreat a paid servant who is poor and needy, whether he's an Israelite or a foreigner living in one of your towns.

¹⁵ Pay his wages every day before sunset, because he is poor and is relying on them. If you don't he may complain to the Lord about you, and you will be found guilty of sin.

¹⁶ Fathers are not to be executed because of their children, and children are not to be executed because of their fathers. Each person is to be executed because of their own sin.

¹⁷ Don't treat foreigners or orphans unjustly; don't take a widow's cloak as security.

¹⁸ Remember that you were once slaves in Egypt, and the Lord your God rescued you from that place. That's why I'm ordering you to do this.

¹⁹ If when you're harvesting in your field you forget a sheaf there, don't go back for it. Leave it for the foreigners, the orphans, and the widows, so that the Lord your God may bless you in everything you do.

²⁰ When you shake the olive trees to knock down the olives, don't go over the branches again. What's left is for the foreigners, the orphans, and the widows.

²¹ When you harvest the grapes in your vineyard, don't go over the vines again. What's left is for the foreigners, the orphans, and the widows.

²² Remember you were once slaves in Egypt. That's why I'm ordering you to do this.

25

¹ If there is some legal argument between two people, they are to go to court to have the case judged, in order to justify the one who is right and condemn the one who is wrong.

² If the person who is guilty is sentenced to be flogged, the judge shall order them to lie down and be flogged before him with the number of lashes the crime deserves.

³ They are not to receive more than forty lashes. More than that would be to publicly humiliate them.

⁶ The first son she has will be named after the dead brother, so that his name won't be forgotten in Israel.

⁸ The town elders are to summon him and talk with him. If he continues to refuse and says, "I don't want to marry her,"

* 25:5 See Genesis 38:8.

⁹ his brother's widow is to confront him in the presence of the elders, pull off his sandal, spit in his face, and announce, "This is what happens to the man who refuses to keep his brother's family name alive."

¹⁰ From then on his family name in Israel will be called "The Family of the Pulled-off Sandal."

¹¹ If two men are fighting, and one of their wives intervenes to save her husband from being beaten, and she grabs hold of the attacker's genitals,

¹³ Don't have two different measuring weights in your bag, one that's heavy and one that's light.

¹⁴ Don't have two different measuring containers in your house, one that's large and one that's small.

¹⁵ Make sure you always use accurate and true weights and measures. In that way you will have long lives in the country the Lord your God is giving you.

¹⁶ Anyone who doesn't do so and cheats like this offends the Lord your God.

¹⁷ Remember what the Amalekites did to you on your way out of Egypt.

¹⁸ They came out to confront you when you were tired and weary from your journey, and they attacked all those of you who were lagging behind. They didn't have any respect for God.

¹⁹ Once the Lord your God gives you peace after fighting your enemies in the country that he's giving you to take over and own, you are to wipe out even the memory of the Amalekites from the earth. Don't forget!

¹ Once you've entered the country that the Lord your God is giving you to own, and you take it over and settle there,

² take some of the firstfruits of all your crops produced by the land that the Lord your God is giving you and place them in a basket. Then go to the place the Lord your God will choose to live with you,

³ and tell the priest in charge at the time, "Today I declare to the Lord your God that I now live in the country that the Lord promised our forefathers to give us."

⁴ The priest will take the basket from you and place it in front of the altar of the Lord your God.

⁵ Then this is what you are to publicly declare before the Lord your God, "My father was an Aramean* who moved from place to place. There were only a few of them when he and his family went to live in Egypt. But they became a large and powerful nation.

⁶ But the Egyptians treated us very badly, oppressing us and forcing us to do hard labor.

⁷ We cried out for help to the Lord, the God of our forefathers; and the Lord answered us as he saw how much we were suffering, forced to work so hard in such cruelty.

⁸ The Lord led us out of Egypt with his great power and incredible strength and terrifying actions, signs and miracles.

⁹ He brought us here and gave us this country, a land flowing with milk and honey.

* 26:5 Probably referring to Jacob.

¹⁰ Look, Lord! I have brought you the firstfruits of the land that you have given me.” You shall place the basket before the Lord your God and bow down in worship before him.

¹¹ Then you, the Levites, and the foreigners who live with you are to celebrate all the good things the Lord your God has given to you and your family.

¹² Once you’ve finished storing up a tenth of all your crops in the third year, (the year of the tithe), you shall give it to the Levites, the foreigners, the orphans, and the widows, so they will have enough to eat in your towns.

¹³ Then you are to make this declaration in the presence of the Lord your God: “I have brought the holy tithe and I have given it to the Levite, the foreigners, the orphans, and the widows as you have ordered me to do. I have not broken or forgotten your commandments.

¹⁴ I have not eaten any of the holy tithe while in mourning, or taken any of it while I was unclean, or used any of it as an offering for the dead. I have obeyed the Lord my God. I have done everything you ordered me to do.

¹⁵ Please look down from your home in heaven, and bless your people the Israelites and the country you have given us as you promised our fathers—a land flowing with milk and honey.”

¹⁶ Today the Lord your God orders you to carry out these rules and regulations. Make sure you follow them with all your mind and with all your being.

¹⁷ Today you have publicly declared that the Lord is your God and that you will follow his ways, keep rules and commandments and regulations, and obey what he says.

¹⁸ Today the Lord has announced that you are a special people who belong to him as he promised. He has announced that you are to keep all his commandments.

¹ Moses and the Israelite elders of Israel gave these instructions to the people: Keep all the commandments I* am giving you today.

² The day you cross the Jordan into the country the Lord your God is giving you, set up some large stones and paint them with whitewash.

³ Then write all these laws on them once you’ve crossed over to enter the country that the Lord your God is giving you, a land flowing with milk and honey, just as the Lord, the God of your forefathers, promised you.

⁴ After you’ve crossed the Jordan, you are to set up these stones on Mount Ebal, having painted them with whitewash, as I’ve ordered you to do today.

⁶ Build the altar of the Lord your God with uncut stones and sacrifice burnt offerings on it to the Lord your God.

* 27:1 “I”: Moses is speaking.

7 That is also where you are to sacrifice and eat your peace offerings,[†] celebrating in the presence of the Lord your God.

8 Write all these laws clearly on the stones.

9 Moses and the Levitical priests gave these orders to all the Israelites: "Be quiet, people of Israel, and listen! Today you have become the people of the Lord your God.

10 So obey what the Lord your God tells you, and follow commandments and regulations that I'm giving you today."

11 That day Moses gave these orders to the people:

12 After you've crossed the Jordan, the following tribes are to stand on Mount Gerizim to bless the people: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin.

14 Then the Levites will shout in a loud voice so Israelite can hear:

15 "A curse on anyone who makes a carved image or a metal idol and worships it in secret. It's only an object that someone made, and it's offensive to the Lord!" Everyone says "Amen!"

16 "A curse on anyone who dishonors their father or mother." Everyone says "Amen!"

17 "A curse on anyone who moves their neighbor's boundary stone!" Everyone says "Amen!"

18 "A curse on anyone who allows a blind man to wander in the road!" Everyone says "Amen!"

19 "A curse on anyone who doesn't treat foreigners, the orphans, and widows fairly!" Everyone says "Amen!"

20 "A curse on any man who sleeps with his father's wife, for he has disgraced his father!" Everyone says "Amen!"

21 "A curse on anyone who has sex with any animal!" Everyone says "Amen!"

22 "A curse on any man who sleeps with his sister, the daughter of his father or the daughter of his mother!" Everyone says "Amen!"

23 "A curse on any man who sleeps with his mother-in-law!" Everyone says "Amen!"

24 "A curse on anyone who secretly attacks his neighbor!" Everyone says "Amen!"

25 "A curse on anyone who accepts a bribe to kill someone who's innocent!" Everyone says "Amen!"

26 "A curse on anyone who doesn't carefully obey all these laws by keeping them!" Everyone says "Amen!"

28

1 If you truly obey what the Lord your God tells you, and carefully follow all his commandments that I'm giving you today, then the Lord your God will place you high above all the nations of the earth.

2 You will have all the following blessings and even more, if you do what the Lord your God says.

3 You will be blessed when you're in the town; you will be blessed when you're in the countryside.

[†] 27:7 See Exodus 20:24.

⁴ You will be blessed with many children. You will be blessed with good harvests. You will be blessed with livestock—your cattle will have many calves, and your sheep will have many lambs.

⁵ You will be blessed with plenty of bread.*

⁶ You will be blessed wherever you go and in everything you do.

⁷ The Lord will defeat the enemies who come to attack you. They will come at you from one direction, but they will scatter seven different ways.

⁸ The Lord will bless your income[†] and everything you do. The Lord your God will bless you in the country he is giving you.

⁹ The Lord will make you his holy people, just as he promised you, if you obey the Lord your God's commandments and follow his ways.

¹⁰ Then everyone on earth will see that the Lord has chosen you to be his,[‡] and they will be afraid of you.

¹¹ The Lord will make you very prosperous. You will have many children, your livestock will produce plenty of young, and your land will grow good harvests—all this in the country the Lord promised your forefathers he would give you.

¹² The Lord will provide rain for your land at the right time from his heavenly storehouse to bless all your work growing crops. You will lend money to many nations but you won't need to borrow from any of them.

¹³ The Lord will put you in first place, not the last. You will only go up, never down, as long as you listen to and follow carefully the commandments of the Lord your God that I'm giving you today.

¹⁴ Don't deviate from any of my instructions today. Don't go and worship other gods.

¹⁵ But if you don't obey the Lord your God by following carefully all his commandments and regulations I'm giving you today, then you will experience all the following curses and more:

¹⁶ You will be cursed when you're in the town; you will be cursed when you're in the countryside.

¹⁷ You will be cursed by not having bread.

¹⁸ You will be cursed by not having children, and by not having good harvests, and by your cattle not having calves, and your sheep not having lambs.

²⁰ The Lord will send you curses, making you confused and frustrated in everything you do, until you are brought down and die quickly because of the evil that you've done by abandoning him.[§]

²¹ The Lord will give you infectious diseases until he has wiped you out from the country you are entering town.

²² Then Lord will hit you with sickness that makes you waste away, with a severe fever and swelling like you're burning up, while your crops are damaged by drought and blight and mildew. These will attack you until you die.

²³ The sky above you will be like bronze, and the earth beneath you will be like iron.

* 28:5 Literally, "your basket and kneading bowl will be blessed." Similarly the opposite in verse 17. † 28:8 Literally, "order a blessing on your barns." ‡ 28:10 Literally, "called by the name of the Lord." § 28:20 "Him": Hebrew "me."

²⁴ The Lord will change the rain of your land into dust and sand; it will fall from the sky on you until you're destroyed.

²⁵ The Lord will have your enemies defeat you. You will attack them from one direction, but you will scatter seven different ways. Everyone on earth will be horrified at what happens to you.

²⁶ Your dead bodies will be food for birds of prey and wild animals, and there won't be anyone to scare them away.

²⁷ The Lord will give you boils like he did to the Egyptians, with swellings and scabs and skin rashes that can't be cured.

²⁹ so that even at noon you will be groping around like a blind man in the dark. You won't be successful in what you do. You'll be persecuted and robbed the whole time, and no one will come and save you.

³⁰ You will be engaged to marry a woman, but another man will sleep with her. You will build a house but you won't live in it. You will plant a vineyard but won't benefit from any harvest.

³¹ Your ox will be slaughtered right in front of you, but you won't eat any of it. Your donkey will be taken away and won't be returned to you. Your sheep will be taken by your enemies, and no one will come and save you.

³² Your sons and daughters will be taken away as slaves to other nations while you watch, and you'll wear your eyes out crying over them, but there won't be anything you can do about it.

³³ A foreign nation you've never heard of will eat all the crops you worked so hard to grow. You will be continually persecuted and downtrodden.

³⁵ The Lord will give you painful boils that can't be cured on your knees and thighs, in fact from head to toe.

³⁶ The Lord will exile you and your chosen king you to a foreign nation that neither you nor your forefathers had ever heard of. There you will worship other gods, idols made of wood and stone.

³⁷ You will be something that horrifies all the nations where you've been exiled by the Lord. They will laugh at you and ridicule you.

³⁹ You will plant and vineyards and care for them, but you won't harvest the grapes or drink the wine, because they'll be eaten by maggots.

⁴⁰ You will have olive trees all over the country but you won't have any olive oil to use,* because the olives will drop early from the trees.

⁴¹ You will have sons and daughters, but you won't have them for long, because they will be taken off into captivity as slaves.

⁴² Locust swarms will destroy all your trees and crops.

⁴⁴ They will lend to you, but you will not lend to them. They will be the first, and you will be the last.

* 28:40 "Use": literally, "anoint," the process of applying olive oil to the skin.

⁴⁵ All these curses will come down on you. They will chase after you and attack you until you die because you did not obey the Lord your God and keep the commandments and regulations he gave you.

⁴⁸ you will serve your enemies that the Lord sends to attack you with hunger, thirst, nakedness, and poverty. He will tie an iron yoke on your neck until he has destroyed you.

⁴⁹ The Lord will bring a nation to attack you from a long way off, from the ends of the earth. They will swoop down upon you like an eagle, this nation whose language you won't understand.

⁵⁰ They are a ruthless nation who don't respect for the old and have no mercy on the young.

⁵¹ They will eat your lambs and calves and the crops you've grown until you are destroyed. They won't leave you any grain or new wine or olive oil, no calves from your herds or lambs from your flocks, so you'll die of starvation.

⁵² They will besiege all the towns in your country, until the high, fortified walls that you trust in have fallen. They will besiege all your towns in your country that the Lord your God has given you.

⁵³ You'll end up eating your children, the flesh of the sons and daughters the Lord your God gave you, because of the siege and the suffering that your enemy will cause you.

⁵⁴ The kindest and most sensitive man among you will refuse to share his food with his brother, the wife he loves, and those of his own children who are left.

⁵⁵ He will refuse to share with any of them the flesh of his children that he's forced to eat because he doesn't have anything else because of the siege and suffering your enemy has caused you in all your towns.

⁵⁶ The kindest and most sensitive woman among you, so kind and sensitive she wouldn't ever go barefoot on the ground, will refuse to share her food, a baby and its afterbirth, with the husband she loves and her own son and daughter.

⁵⁷ She will even secretly eat her the babies she gives birth to and the afterbirth, since she doesn't have anything else because of the siege and suffering your enemy has caused you in all your towns,

⁵⁸ If you don't carefully observe all these laws written down in this book so that you may show respect for this glorious and awesome Lord your God,

⁶⁰ He will give you all the diseases you were terrified of in Egypt, and they will stay with you.

⁶¹ The Lord will also give you every sickness and disease, even those not recorded in this Book of the Law, until you are destroyed.

⁶² You who grew as numerous as the stars in the sky will end up as only a few, because you would not obey what Lord your God told you.

⁶³ In the same way as he wanted to make you prosperous and increase in number, so now he will wipe you out and destroy you. You will be uprooted from the country you are going in to own.

⁶⁴ The Lord will scatter you among the nations all over the earth, and there you will worship other gods, gods made of wood and stone, which you and your fathers had never heard of.

⁶⁵ You won't find any place to rest among those nations, no place of your own. The Lord will make you anxious, with failing eyesight and a mind full of despair.

⁶⁶ You will see your life hanging in the balance as you doubt. You will be afraid day and night, terrified you won't survive.

⁶⁷ In the morning you'll say, "I wish it was evening!" and in the evening you'll say, "I wish it was morning!" because you're so frightened by the terrifying things you see.

¹ The following are the terms of the agreement that the Lord ordered Moses to make with the Israelites in the country of Moab This was in addition to the agreement he had made with them at Horeb.*

² Moses called all the Israelites together and announced to them, You saw with your own eyes everything the Lord did in Egypt to Pharaoh, to all his officials, and to his whole country.

³ You saw with your own eyes the amazing tests, and those great signs and miracles.

⁴ But up to now the Lord has not given you minds that understand, or eyes that see, or ears that hear, saying,

⁵ For forty years I led you through the desert, but your clothes and sandals didn't wear out.

⁶ You didn't have bread to eat, or wine or alcohol to drink in order that you would realize that I am the Lord your God.

⁷ When we arrived here, Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan marched out to fight us in battle, but we defeated them.

⁸ We took their land and gave it to the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh to own.

⁹ So make sure you keep and follow the terms of this agreement in order that you may be successful in everything you do.

¹⁰ Every one of you is stand here today before the Lord your God: you tribal leaders, officials, and all the men of Israel,

¹¹ your children and wives, and the foreigners in your camps who cut your firewood and carry your water.

¹² You're here so you can enter into the agreement of the Lord your God, which he is making with you today, and accept his solemn promise,

¹³ and so he can confirm you today as his people. He will be your God as he told you and as he promised your forefathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

* 29:1 "Horeb": another name for Mount Sinai.

¹⁴ It's not only with you that the Lord is making this agreement and solemn promise,

¹⁵ those who are standing here with us today in the presence of the Lord our God, but also with those who are not here today.

¹⁶ You know very well what it was like when we lived in the land of Egypt and our experiences as we passed through the nations on the way here.

¹⁷ You saw their disgusting religious practices and their idols of wood and stone, and silver and gold.

¹⁸ You need to make sure today that there's no man or woman, family or tribe of yours who wants to turn from the Lord our God and go and worship the gods of these nations. Make sure there is nothing like that among you that would produce such poison and bitterness.

¹⁹ For when someone like that hears the words of this solemn promise, they think they'll still receive a blessing, telling themselves, "I'll be safe, even though I'll go on doing whatever I feel like." Such an attitude would destroy good and bad alike.[†]

²⁰ The Lord would never want to pardon them. In fact, his passionate anger will burn against them, and every curse written in this book will fall on them. The Lord will erase their name from the earth,

²¹ and punish them as an example of them for all the Israelite tribes, in accordance with all the curses of the agreement written in this Book of the Law.

²⁴ Everyone everywhere will ask, "Why did the Lord do this to the country? Why did he get so terribly angry?"

²⁵ The people will answer, "It's because they abandoned the agreement of the Lord, the God of their forefathers, which he made with them when he led them out of Egypt.

²⁸ The Lord uprooted them from their country in his anger, rage, and fury, and he threw them out, leaving them in another land, where they are to this day."

²⁹ The Lord our God has secrets that belong to him, but what has been revealed belong to us and to our descendants forever, so that we may follow everything in this law.

¹ One day after you experience all this, the blessings and curses I've told you about, you'll think about them, living in all the different nations where the Lord your God has exiled you.

[†] 29:19 "Destroy good and bad alike": literally, "destroy the well-watered with the parched."

² When that happens, and when you and your children come back to the Lord your God, and when you do what he says with all your mind and all your being in accordance with everything I'm telling you today, then the Lord your God will be merciful to you.

³ He will bring you back home, gathering you from all the nations where he scattered you.

⁴ Even if you were exiled to the ends of the earth, will gather you from there and bring you back.

⁵ The Lord your God will bring you home to the country that belonged to your forefathers and you will own it again. He will make you successful, and you will have even more descendants than your forefathers.

⁶ The Lord your God will make you and your descendants his again,* and you will love him with all your mind and with all your being, so that you'll live.

⁷ Then the Lord your God will place all these curses upon your enemies instead, on those who hate and persecute you.

⁹ The Lord your God will make you successful in everything you do, you will have children, your livestock will be productive, and you will have good harvests. The Lord will once again be happy to do you good, as he did to your forefathers,

¹⁰ if you obey the Lord your God by keeping his commandments and regulations written in this book of the Law, and if you come back to him with all your mind and with all your being.

¹¹ The instruction I'm giving you today isn't too difficult for you to follow. It's not as if it's so far from you that it's impossible to achieve.

¹² It's not in heaven so you have to ask, "Who is going to go up to heaven get it for us and let us know what it says so we can obey it?"

¹³ It's not across the ocean not beyond the sea so you have to ask, "Who is going to cross the ocean to get it for us and let us know what it says so we can obey it?"

¹⁵ Listen! Today I've placed a choice before you: life and what's good, or death and what's evil.

¹⁶ I'm telling you today to love the Lord your God, to follow his ways, and to keep his commandments, rules, and regulations, so you can live and grow in number, and so the Lord your God may bless you in the country that you are entering and will own.

¹⁸ then I warn you right now that you will definitely die. You won't live long in the country that you're going to own after you cross the Jordan.

¹⁹ I call on heaven and earth to be my witnesses against you today that I have placed before you life and death, blessings and curses. Choose life, so you and your descendants will live,

* 30:6 "Make you and your descendants his again": literally, "circumcise the hearts of you and your descendants." Circumcision was a sign of God's "ownership" of the people, and circumcision of the heart was a description of true dedication to the Lord.

²⁰ so you will love the Lord your God, obey him, and hold onto him. For he is your life, and he will give you long lives in the country that the Lord promised to give your forefathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

¹ Once Moses had finished* giving these instructions to all the Israelites, ² he told them, I'm now a hundred and twenty years old. I can't get around like I used to, and the Lord has told me, "You are not to cross the Jordan."

³ The Lord your God himself is going to lead you across. He will destroy these nations as you advance, and you will take over their land. Joshua will cross ahead of you, as the Lord said.

⁴ The Lord will do to them what he did to Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites, and their land when he destroyed them.

⁵ The Lord will hand them over to you, and you will deal with them exactly as I've told you.

⁶ Be strong! Be brave! Don't be frightened or terrified of them, because the Lord your God will go with you. He won't ever leave you or abandon you.

⁷ Moses called for Joshua and told him in front of all the Israelites, "Be strong!! Be brave! You will accompany this people into the country that the Lord promised to give their forefathers, and you are to allocate it for them to own.

⁸ The Lord himself goes ahead of you. He will be with you. He won't ever leave you or abandon you. Don't be afraid and don't be discouraged."

⁹ Moses wrote this law down and gave it to the priests, the sons of Levi, who carried the Ark of the covenant of the Lord, and to all the Israelite elders.

¹⁰ Moses gave them these orders, At the end of every seven years, the year when debts are canceled during the Festival of Shelters,

¹¹ and when all the Israelites comes before the Lord your God at the place he will choose, you must read this law in the for everyone to hear.

¹² Have the people gather together—the men, women, children, and the foreigners living with you—so that they can listen and learn to respect the Lord your God and to carefully observe all the instructions of this law.

¹³ Then their children who don't know the law will listen and learn to respect the Lord your God as the whole time you live in the country that you are going to take over after you cross the Jordan.

¹⁴ Then the Lord told Moses, "Listen, you are soon going to die. Tell Joshua to meet you, and then both of you are to come and stand before me at the Tent of Meeting, so that I may appoint him as leader."

¹⁶ The Lord told Moses, "You will join your ancestors in death, and these people are going to prostitute themselves by worshiping the foreign gods of the country they are entering. They will abandon me and break the agreement I've made with them.

* 31:1 Dead Sea Scrolls and Septuagint reading.

¹⁷ Then I will abandon them and turn away from them, so they will be destroyed, and they will experience many disasters and problems.

At that time they'll say, 'We're suffering these disasters because our God has abandoned us!'

¹⁸ Then I will definitely ignore them because of all the evil they have done by worshiping other gods.

¹⁹ So write down this song and teach it to the Israelites. Help them learn to sing it, so it will provide evidence for me against them.

²⁰ Once I've led them into the country that I promised to give their forefathers, a land flowing with milk and honey, they will have plenty to eat and will do well. Then they will go and worship other gods, and they will abandon me and break my agreement.

²² Right then Moses wrote down this song and taught it to the Israelites.

²³ Then the Lord appointed Joshua son of Nun as leader, and told him, "Be strong! Be brave! For you are going to lead the Israelites into the country that I promised to give them, and I will be with you."

²⁴ After Moses had finished writing down this Law in a book from start to finish,

²⁵ he ordered the Levites who carried the Ark of the Lord's Agreement:

²⁶ "Place this book of the Law beside the Ark of the Lord your God's Agreement, so that it will be kept there as a evidence against you.

²⁷ I know how stubborn and rebellious you are. If you've already started rebelling against the Lord while I'm still alive, how much worse will you get after I die?

²⁸ Summon all the elders of your tribes and all your officers to gather here before me so that I can tell them this directly and call on heaven and earth as witnesses against them.

²⁹ I know that after my death you will become completely immoral, leaving the path I have ordered you to follow. In the future, evil things will happen to you because of the evil sins you commit in the sight of the Lord, making him angry by what you do."

³⁰ Then Moses recited all the words of this song as the Israelites listened.

² May my teaching fall gently like the rain; may my words drop lightly like the dew, like soft rain on new grass, like spring showers on growing plants.

⁵ His children have acted immorally towards him; so they are no longer his children because of their sinful stains. They are a perverse and corrupt people.

⁶ Is this any way to repay the Lord, you foolish, stupid people? Isn't he your Father who created you? Isn't he the one who turned you into a nation and made you strong?

⁷ Remember the olden days; think about times long ago. God and ask your father, and he will explain them to you. Talk to your elders, and they will let you know.

¹⁰ He found you in a desert land, in a desolate wasteland of whirlwinds. He protected you; he cared for you; he looked after you as the one he loved the most.†

¹¹ Like an eagle watching over‡ its nest, hovering over its chicks, he spread his wings and picked you up and carried you along.§

¹³ The Lord gave you the high country to rule,* and fed you with the crops of the field to eat. He sustained you with honey from the rock and olive oil from the flinty crag, ¹⁴ with yogurt from the herd and milk from the flock, with the fat of lambs, with rams from Bashan, and goats, along with the best wheat. You drank the wine made from the best grapes.

¹⁵ But Israel,† you grew fat and rebelled—fat, overweight, and bloated with food. You abandoned the God who made you and despised the Rock of your salvation.

¹⁶ You made the Lord jealous by worshiping foreign gods; you made him angry with such disgusting practices.

¹⁹ The Lord rejected them when he saw this; his sons and daughters made him angry.

²⁰ He said: "I will turn away from them. Then I'll see what happens to them! They are a perverse people, unfaithful children.

²¹ They have made me jealous by worshiping things that are not God; they have made me angry with their useless idols. So I will make them jealous using a people that aren't really a nation; I will make them angry using ignorant foreigners.

²² My anger has been set on fire, burning down to the depths of the grave,‡ destroying the earth and all it produces, even setting fire to the foundations of the mountains.

²³ I will pile disasters on them; I will use up my arrows shooting at them.

* 32:8 "Depending on their gods": this phrase is unclear. The Masoretic text has "according to the number of the sons of Israel." Some of the Dead Sea Scrolls and the Septuagint have "according to the number of gods." If the latter is the correct reading, it may mean that each nation was separated and given its borders in relationship to the gods they worshiped. † 32:10 "The one he loved the most": or, "the apple of his eye." ‡ 32:11 "Watching over": Septuagint reading. Hebrew, "rouses." § 32:11 "Along": literally, "on his pinions," the name of a part of a bird's wing that is not often used in English. * 32:13 "He gave him the high country to rule": literally, "He set him on the backs of the land." † 32:15 Literally, "Jeshurun," meaning, "the good one." ‡ 32:22 "The grave": literally, "Sheol."

24 They will waste away from hunger, destroyed by disease and poisonous plague. I will send wild animals to bite them with their teeth, the fangs of snakes that slide along the ground.

26 I would have told them I was going to cut them to pieces[§] and wipe out even the memory of them;

27 but I didn't want to hear their conquerors jeering, their enemies misunderstanding what had happened and saying, 'We won all by ourselves, the Lord didn't have anything to do with it.'

28 Israel is a nation that doesn't think straight; none of them understand anything.

29 How I wish they were wise, so they could understand it; they would recognize what was going to happen to them.

30 How on earth could one man chase after a thousand, or two make ten thousand run away, unless their Rock of protection had sold them, unless the Lord had surrendered them?

32 But their vine comes from the vine of Sodom, from the fields of Gomorrah. Their grapes are poisonous; they are bitter bunches.

34 I've stored this all up; it's sealed in my vaults.

35 I make sure justice is done, I will repay. The time is coming when they will fall, their day of disaster is approaching, their doom will soon arrive."

36 The Lord is going to vindicate his people; he will be merciful to his servants when he sees that they have no strength left, and that everyone is gone, whether slave or free.

37 He'll ask, "What happened to your gods, the rock where your went for protection?

38 Who ate the fat of your sacrifices and drank the wine of your drink offerings? Have them come and help you; have them come and protect you!

39 Listen! I am the only God! There is no other God except me! I bring death, and I give life; I wound, and I heal. No one can be rescued from my power.

40 I hold up my hand to heaven and solemnly declare on my eternal life,

41 when I sharpen my shining sword and pick it up to execute judgment, I will repay my enemies and punish those who hate me as they deserve.

42 My arrows will become drunk with blood, as my sword eats flesh; the blood of those who are killed and captured, the heads of the enemy's leaders."

43 Celebrate with him! Let all God's angels worship him![†] Celebrate, foreigners, with his people; because he will pay back those who killed his children.[‡] He will punish his enemies, and repay those who hate him; [§] he will purify his land and his people.

[§] 32:26 "Cut them to pieces": or, "scatter them." * 32:31 Septuagint reading. [†] 32:43 This line is not in the Masoretic text, but does occur in the Dead Sea Scrolls and the Septuagint. It is also quote in Hebrews 1:6. [‡] 32:43 Dead Sea Scrolls and the Septuagint reading. [§] 32:43 "Repay those who hate him": Septuagint and Vulgate reading.

⁴⁴ Then Moses came with Joshua son of Nun and recited all the words of this song for the people to hear.

⁴⁶ he told them, "Think about all these words I've declared to you today, so you can order your children to follow carefully everything in this law.

⁴⁷ Don't treat these words as trivial because they are your life, and by them you will have long lives in the country that you will own after crossing the Jordan."

⁴⁸ That same day the Lord told Moses,

⁵⁰ There on the mountain you've climbed, you will die and join your people in death, in the same way your brother Aaron died on Mount Hor and joined his people.

⁵¹ For there at the waters of Meribah-kadesh in the Desert of Zin, you both were unfaithful to me. You misrepresented me to the Israelites when you didn't treat me as holy in their presence.

⁵² Though you will see the country that I am giving the Israelites from a distance, you won't enter it."

33

² He said, The Lord came from Mount Sinai and shone on us from Mount Seir; he blazed out from Mount Paran coming with ten thousand of holy ones, holding flaming fire at his right hand.

³ How much you love the people; you hold all the holy ones in your hand. They sit down at your feet to listen to your words:

⁴ the law that Moses delivered to us that belongs to all the Israelites.

⁵ The Lord became King in Israel* when the people's leaders gathered, when the tribes of Israel assembled.

⁶ To Reuben he said, "May he live and not die, but may he only have a few men."

⁷ To Judah he said: "Lord, please hear the cry of Judah and reunite him with his people. Even though he fights for himself, may you help him against his enemies."

⁸ To Levi he said: "Your Thummim were given to Levi and your Urim to those dedicated to God, the ones you tested at Massah and argued with at the waters of Meribah.

⁹ Levi said that he didn't pay attention to his father and mother, that he didn't acknowledge his brothers, and that he didn't recognize his children.† The Levites did what you said and kept your agreement.

¹⁰ They will teach your regulations to Jacob and your law to Israel. They will place incense before you, and sacrifice whole burnt offerings on your altar.

¹¹ Lord, please bless what they have, and accept their service for you. Destroy those who attack them; make sure their enemies never rise again."

* 33:5 "Israel": literally, "Jeshurun." See 32:15. Also verse 26. † 33:9 Meaning that he wasn't influenced by the opinion of anyone in his family.

¹² To Benjamin he said: “May the one the Lord loves be kept safe and secure in the Lord. The Lord always protects him, letting him rest on his shoulders.”

¹³ To Joseph he said: “May the Lord bless his land with the best gifts of heaven—with the dew and water from the depths below;

¹⁵ with the finest contributions of the ancient mountains and the best materials of the everlasting hills;

¹⁶ with the best gifts of the land and everything in it, along with the appreciation of the one who was in the burning bush. May these blessings rest on the head of Joseph like a crown for this prince among his brothers.

¹⁷ He is as majestic as a firstborn bull; his horns are like those of a wild ox. He will use them to gore the nations, driving them to the ends of the earth. The horns represent the ten thousands of Ephraim, and the thousands of Manasseh.”

¹⁸ To Zebulun he said: “Celebrate, Zebulun, in your travels and Issachar, in your tents.

¹⁹ They will summon the peoples[‡] to a mountain; will offer the appropriate sacrifices there. They will enjoy the rich produce of the seas and from trading on the seashores.”

²⁰ To Gad he said: “Blessed is he who makes Gad's territory larger! Gad is like a lion lying in wait, ready to rip off an arm or a head.

²¹ He chose the best land for himself, for he was allocated a ruler's share. He met with the people's leaders; he did what the Lord said was right, following the Lord's regulations for Israel.”

²² To Dan he said: “Dan is a young lion that leaps out of Bashan.”

²³ To Naphtali he said: “Naphtali is really favored, full of the Lord's blessing. He shall take over the land to the west and south.”

²⁴ To Asher he said: “May Asher be blessed more than all the other sons; may he be favored above his brothers and bathe his feet in olive oil.

²⁵ May the bolts of your gate be strong as iron and bronze, and may you be strong all your life.”

²⁶ There is no one like the God of Israel, who rides across the heavens to come to help you; who rides the clouds in majesty.

²⁷ The eternal God is your home, and he holds you up with his everlasting arms. He drives out the enemy ahead of you, and gives the order, “Destroy him!”

²⁹ How blessed you are, Israel! Is there anyone like you, a people saved by the Lord? He is the shield that protects you, the sword that gives you confidence. Your enemies will tremble before you, and you shall tread them[§] underfoot.

[§] 33:29 Or “their high places,” the pagan shrines.

² This included all the territories of Naphtali, Ephraim and Manasseh, Judah as far as the Mediterranean Sea,

³ the Negev, and the Jordan Valley from Jericho (the city of palms) down to Zoar.

⁴ The Lord told him, "This is the country I solemnly promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob when I said, 'I'm giving it to your descendants.' I have allowed you to see it for yourself, but you're not going to enter it."

⁶ He buried him in a valley there in Moab that is opposite Beth-peor, but no one knows to this day where Moses' grave is.

⁷ Moses was 120 when he died, yet he was still seeing clearly and he was still strong.

⁸ The Israelites mourned for Moses on the plains of Moab for thirty days, until the time of mourning was over.

¹⁰ Since then there has never been a prophet in Israel like Moses who was the Lord's close friend.†

¹¹ The Lord sent him to carry out all the signs and miracles in Egypt to convince Pharaoh and his officials, and all the people in the country.

¹² Moses did these amazing things with tremendous power as the Israelites watched.

* 34:9 See Numbers 27:18.

† 34:10 "Who was the Lord's close friend": literally, "whom the Lord knew face to face."

Joshua

¹ After the death of Moses, the servant of the Lord, the Lord spoke to Joshua, the son of Nun, who had been Moses' assistant. He told him,

² "My servant Moses has died. So go and cross the Jordan, you and all the people, and enter the country I am giving to the Israelites.

³ As I promised Moses, everywhere you set foot will be land I am giving to you,*

⁴ from the desert to Lebanon, and on up to the River Euphrates; all the land of the Hittites, and to the shore of the Mediterranean Sea to the west. This will be your territory.

⁵ No one will be able to stand against you while you live. Just as I was with Moses, I will be with you. I will never leave you; I will never abandon you.

⁷ Just be strong and very brave, and be sure to obey all the law that my servant Moses instructed you to follow. Don't turn aside from it, either to the right or to the left, so that you may be successful in everything you do.

⁸ Keep on reminding the people about the law.† Meditate on it day and night, so you can be sure to do what it requires. Then you will be successful and prosper in what you do.

⁹ Don't forget what I told you: Be strong! Be brave! Don't be afraid! Don't get discouraged! For the Lord your God is with you wherever you go."

¹⁰ Then Joshua gave an order to those in charge of the people:

¹¹ "Go through the whole camp and tell the people, 'Get everything ready, because in three days time we will cross the Jordan, to go and take the land God is giving to you to possess.' "

¹³ "Remember what Moses, the servant of the Lord, ordered you to do: 'The Lord your God is giving you rest, and will give you this land.'

¹⁴ Your wives and children, and your livestock will remain here in the land that Moses allotted‡ you on the east side of the Jordan. But all your armed men, ready for battle, will cross over ahead of your brothers to help them,

¹⁵ until the Lord lets them rest, as he has let you rest, and they too have taken possession of the land that the Lord is giving to you. Then you can return and occupy your own land which Moses allotted to you on the east side of the Jordan."

¹⁶ They said to Joshua, "We will do everything you have ordered us to do, and we will go wherever you send us.

¹⁷ We will obey you just as we obeyed Moses in everything. May the Lord God be with you as he was with Moses.

* 1:3 Referring not to Joshua, but to all the people. † 1:8 Literally, "The scroll of the law shall not depart from your mouth." ‡ 1:14 It appears that generally the land divisions were decided by casting lots, so this seems the best word to use.

18 Anyone who rebels against what you say and doesn't follow your orders, who doesn't obey everything you command, will be put to death. So be strong! Be brave!"

2

1 Then Joshua, son of Nun, secretly sent out two spies from Shittim.* "Go and explore† the land, especially around Jericho," he told them. So they went, and stayed at the house of woman named Rahab, a prostitute. There they spent the night.

2 But the king of Jericho was told, "Look, some Israelites have come here this evening to spy out the land."

3 So the king of Jericho sent orders to Rahab, telling her, "Hand over the men who came to visit you and stay in your house, for they've come to spy out our whole country."

4 The woman had taken the two men and had hidden them. She told the king's messengers,‡ "Yes, it's true—the men did come to visit me, but I didn't know where they were from."

5 They left at sundown, just as the city gate was closing. I've no idea where they went. If you're quick, you can chase after them and maybe catch up with them."

6 (She had taken them up to the roof and hidden them under some bundles of flax that she had lying there.)

7 The king's messengers went chasing after the men down the road that leads to the Jordan River fords. As soon as the pursuers had left, the city gate was shut behind them.

8 Before the spies went to sleep, Rachel came up to the roof to talk to them.

9 She told them, "I know that the Lord has given this land to you. We're all terrified of you. Everyone who lives here is dying of fright since you people arrived."

10 We've heard how the Lord dried up the waters of the Red Sea before you when you left Egypt, and what you did to the two kings of the Amorites east of the Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you completely destroyed.

11 When we heard all this, our courage melted away. Nobody had any fighting spirit left because of you. For the Lord your God is God of heaven above and the earth below.

12 So now promise me in the name of the Lord that because I have acted in good faith to you, then you will do the same for my family. Give me some sign that I can trust you,

13 that you will spare my father and mother and brothers and sisters—and all who are part of their families—that you will save them from death."

14 "Our lives for yours!" the men told her. "If you don't tell anyone about this, we will treat you honestly and faithfully when the Lord gives us the land."

15 Then she lowered them down by a rope through the window since the house where she lived was built into the outside of the city wall.

16 "Run to the hills," she told them. "That way those searching for you won't find you. Stay there three days until they've gone home, and then you can be on your way."

* 2:1 The place where the Israelites were camped at the time. † 2:1 Literally, "go about on foot."

‡ 2:4 "King's messengers": implied.

¹⁷ The men had told her, “We will be freed from the promise you made us swear,

¹⁸ unless when we enter this land, you hang a scarlet cord in the window through which you lowered us. You must gather together in the house your father and mother and brothers—all the family.

¹⁹ If anyone leaves your house and is killed, that's their fault—we're not responsible for their death. But if anyone lays a hand on someone who is inside your house, we take full responsibility for their death.

²⁰ But if you tell anyone about this then we will be freed from the promise you made us swear.”

²² They went up into the hill country and stayed there three days. The men searching for them looked all along the road, but couldn't find them, so they returned home.

²³ Then the two men started back. They came down from the hill country and crossed over the Jordan. They went to Joshua and explained to him all that had happened to them.

²⁴ “The Lord has placed this land in our hands,” they assured him. “All the people who live there are scared to death of us!”

3

² Three days later those in charge of the people went through the camp

³ telling the people, “When you see the Ark of the Agreement of the Lord your God carried by the priests, the Levites, you must leave the place where you are and follow it.

⁴ That way you'll know which way to go, since you haven't been here before. Leave about 3,000 feet between you and the Ark. Don't go near it!”

⁶ Joshua spoke to the priests,† “Pick up the Ark of the Agreement and go before the people.” So they picked up the Ark of the Agreement and went ahead of the people.

⁷ The Lord said to Joshua, “What I do today will confirm you as great leader in the sight of all the Israelites, so that they'll realize that just as I was with Moses, so I will be with you.

⁸ Tell the priests carrying the Ark of the Agreement, ‘When you get to the edge of the Jordan, take a few steps into the water and then stop.’ ”

⁹ So Joshua said to the Israelites, “Come here and listen to what the Lord your God has to say to you.

* 3:5 “Pure”: a concept of religious purity achieved through specific rituals. † 3:6 Presumably on the following day.

11 Just watch—the Ark of the Agreement of the Lord of all the earth will cross in front of you through the Jordan.

12 Choose twelve men from the tribes of Israel, one per tribe.‡

13 The moment the priests carrying the Ark step into the water the river will stop flowing and the water will pile up.”

14 So the people broke camp and set out to cross the Jordan, with the priests carrying the Ark ahead of them.

15 As it was harvest season, the Jordan was full of water, overflowing its banks. But at the very moment the priests carrying the Ark stepped into the water, the river stopped flowing.

16 The water piled up a long way upstream, at the town of Adam, near Zarethan, while downstream no more water flowed into the Dead Sea. So the people crossed over, opposite Jericho.

17 The priests carrying the Ark stood on the dried-up riverbed of the Jordan as all the people went by, staying there until everyone had crossed over on dry ground.

4

1 Once the entire nation had finished crossing the Jordan, the Lord told Joshua,

2 “Choose twelve men from the people, one per tribe,

3 and tell them, ‘Pick up twelve stones from the middle of the Jordan, from right where the priests are standing. Then carry them and set them down at the place where you will camp tonight.’ ”

4 So Joshua sent for the twelve men he had chosen, one from each tribe,

5 and told them, “Go back into the middle of the Jordan, right in front of the Ark of the Agreement of the Lord your God, and each of you pick up a stone and carry it on your shoulder, one for each of the tribes of Israel.

6 This will be a memorial among you so when your children one day ask, ‘What do these stones mean?’

7 you can tell them, ‘It’s about the time the Jordan River stopped flowing when the Ark of the Lord’s Agreement went across. When it crossed over the water stopped. These stones are a memorial to the people of Israel forever.’ ”

8 The people of Israel did as Joshua told them. The men picked up twelve stones from the middle of the Jordan as the Lord had instructed Joshua. They carried them to the place where they camped overnight and placed the stones there, one for each of the tribes of Israel.

9 Joshua also set up twelve stones in the middle of the Jordan right where the priests carrying the Ark of the Agreement had stood, and they are still there to this very day.

10 The priests carrying the Ark remained standing in the middle of the Jordan until everything was done just as the Lord had told the people to do, all that Moses had told Joshua to do.* The people crossed over quickly.

11 Once all the people had crossed over, they watched as the Ark of the Lord was carried across by the priests.†

‡ 3:12 This verse seems out of place and is repeated in 4:2. * 4:10 This repetition and the additional mention of Moses leads some commentators to believe that the author was using multiple sources for his account. † 4:11 Or “Once all the people had crossed over, the Ark of the Lord was carried across by the priests and went ahead of the people.”

¹² The armed men from the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh crossed at the head of the people of Israel, as Moses had stipulated.

¹³ They numbered about 40,000 men, armed and ready for battle, crossed in the presence of the Lord to the plains of Jericho.

¹⁴ On that day the Lord confirmed Joshua as great leader in the sight of all the Israelites, and they were in awe of him just as they had been in awe of Moses.

¹⁵ The Lord had told Joshua,

¹⁶ “Order the priests carrying the Ark of the Testimony[‡] to come up out of the Jordan.”

¹⁹ The people went up from the Jordan and camped at Gilgal, to the east of Jericho, on the tenth day of the first month.[§]

²¹ He told the Israelites, “When some day your children ask you their parents, ‘What do these stones mean?’

²² you can explain to them, ‘This is where the Israelites crossed the Jordan on dry ground.’

²³ For the Lord your God made the Jordan River dry up right in front of you so you all could cross, just as the Lord your God did at the Red Sea which he dried up so we could all cross.

²⁴ He did this so everyone on earth would know how powerful the Lord is, and so that you might be in awe of the Lord your God forever.”

5

¹ When all the Amorite kings west of the Jordan and all the Canaanite kings of the Mediterranean coast heard how the Lord had dried up the waters of the River Jordan so that the Israelites could cross over, their courage melted and they no longer had any fighting spirit to face the Israelites.

³ Joshua had flint knives made and all male Israelites were circumcised at the place that became known as “the hill of foreskins.”

⁵ They had all been circumcised when they left Egypt, but those born on the journey since then had not.

[‡] 4:16 The Ark was also given this designation as it contained the ten commandments, God’s testimony or witness to his people. [§] 4:19 Late March or early April. ^{*} 5:2 “Circumcise the new generation”: literally, “circumcise again a second time.” This was not a command to repeat circumcision on those already circumcised, but to circumcise the new generation that had

⁶ For forty years the Israelites traveled through the wilderness until all the men of fighting age when they left Egypt had died, because they had not done what the Lord had told them to do. So the Lord had vowed that he would not let them see the land he had promised their forefathers to give us, a land flowing with milk and honey.

⁷ The Lord replaced them with their children, and these were the ones that Joshua circumcised. They were uncircumcised since they hadn't been circumcised on the way.

⁸ Once they had all been circumcised, they stayed in the camp until they recovered.

⁹ The Lord said to Joshua, "Today I have removed from all of you the disgrace of Egypt."[†] So that place has been called Gilgal to this day.

¹⁰ The Israelites camped at Gilgal and celebrated Passover there on the evening of the fourteenth day of the first month.

¹¹ From the very next day they began to eat produce from the land: unleavened bread and roasted grain.

¹² On the same day when they began eating produce from the land there was no more manna. No longer did the Israelites have manna; after that they ate the produce of the land of Canaan.

¹³ One day when Joshua was near Jericho, he looked up and saw a man standing in front of him with a drawn sword in his hand. Joshua went up to him and asked, "Are you for us or against us?"

"Neither," said the man. "I am the commander of the Lord's army. Now I'm here!"

¹⁴ Joshua fell down with his face to the ground in awe. Then he said, "What orders does my lord have for his servant?"

¹⁵ The commander of the Lord's army told Joshua, "Take off your sandals, for the place where you're standing is holy ground." Joshua did so.

6

² But the Lord told Joshua, "I'm handing over the city of Jericho to you, along with its king and its army of warriors.

⁴ Seven priests are to go ahead of the Ark, each carrying a ram's horn. On the seventh day, march seven times around the city, with the priests blowing their rams' horns.

⁵ When you hear a long blast on the rams' horns, everyone shall give a really loud shout. The city walls will collapse, and every man can go right in."

[†] 5:9 What this disgrace was is not explicitly defined. Some link it to slavery in Egypt, but more likely is it related to the Israelites' rebellion at Kadesh (Numbers 14) and God's decision not to allow that generation into the Promised Land. Initially he had threatened to destroy them, but Moses intervened, mentioning how much this would please the Egyptians (Numbers 14:13). The disgrace then would be that the Israelites had failed God by rebelling against him, and God would be perceived by the Egyptians and others as being unable to keep his promise. The act of circumcision (a sign of God's favor) brought the situation full circle back to the Exodus, and now the entrance into the Promised Land.

⁶ So Joshua, son of Nun, sent for the priests, and told them, “Pick up the Ark of Agreement, and have seven priests carry seven rams’ horns and go ahead of the Ark of the Lord.”

⁷ Then he told the people, “Move out! March around the city with the armed men up front ahead of the Ark of the Lord!”

⁹ Some of the armed men marched ahead of the priests blowing the horns, while some followed the Ark, the horns being blown continually.

¹⁰ However, Joshua ordered them, “Don’t shout, don’t even talk. Don’t say anything until I tell you all to shout—then shout!”

¹¹ So the Ark of the Lord was carried around the city, circling it once. Then they returned to the camp and spent the night there.

¹² Joshua got up early in the morning, and the priests picked up the Ark of the Lord.

¹⁴ So on the second day they marched around the city, circling it once, and returned to the camp. They did this for a total of six days.

¹⁵ On the seventh day they got up at dawn and marched around the city in the usual way, except that this day they circled the city seven times.

¹⁶ The seventh time around when the priests blew the horns, Joshua told the people, “Shout! For today the Lord has given the city to you!”

¹⁷ The city and everything in it is to be set apart for the Lord and destroyed.* Only Rahab the prostitute and all those with her in her house shall be spared, because she hid the spies we sent.

¹⁸ But stay away from everything set apart for the Lord, for if you were to take anything you too would be liable to be destroyed, and you would also bring disaster on the camp of Israel.

¹⁹ All the silver and the gold, and everything made of bronze and iron, are holy to the Lord and they must be placed in the Lord’s treasury.”

²⁰ So as soon as they heard the sound of the horns, the people gave a loud shout,† and the city walls collapsed. The men went in right away and captured the city.

²² Joshua had told the two men who had gone to explore the land, “Go to the house of Rahab the prostitute and bring her out together with all her family, as you promised.”

* 6:17 The term used means that it is “set apart,” “consecrated,” or “devoted” to the Lord, which in this instance meant that no one was to benefit from anything in Jericho—all had to be destroyed. This is similar to the idea of the “sacred” and the “holy”—dedicated solely to God. In some ways the “setting apart” of Jericho was similar to a ban—it belonged to God alone. † 6:20 The Hebrew text states that the people shouted and the horns blew, and then that when they heard the horns, the people shouted. Since it is considered that there was just one event, the repetition of the horns and the shout seems superfluous.

²³ So the spies went and brought out Rahab, her father and mother, and all who were with her. They brought out the whole family and took them to a place near the Israelite camp.

²⁴ Then the Israelites burned down the city and everything in it, except for the silver and the gold, and everything made of bronze and iron, which they placed in the treasury of the Lord's house.

²⁵ Joshua spared Rahab the prostitute and her family because she hid the men Joshua had sent to spy out Jericho. And she lives among the Israelites to this day.

²⁶ At that time Joshua declared a curse, saying: "Cursed before the Lord is anyone who attempts to rebuild this city of Jericho. He lays its foundation at the cost of his firstborn son; he sets up its gates at the cost of his youngest son."

7

² Joshua sent men from the camp near* Jericho to the town of Ai, which is near Bethaven, east of Bethel. "Go and explore the land," he told them. So they went and explored around Ai.

³ When they returned they told Joshua, "The whole army isn't needed. Two or three thousand men is enough to go and attack Ai. Don't bother sending everyone—there's only a few of them."

⁶ Joshua ripped his clothes‡ and fell down with his face to the ground in front of the Ark of the Lord until the evening. The elders did likewise, and he and the elders threw dust on their heads.

⁷ Joshua cried, "Why, oh why, Lord God, did you bring us across the Jordan River only to hand us over to the Amorites for them to destroy us? We should have been satisfied to stay on the other side of the Jordan!

⁸ Excuse me, Lord, but what can I say now that Israel has turned tail and run away from its enemies?

⁹ The Canaanites and everyone living in the land will come and surround us and wipe us out so completely that even our name will be forgotten. Then what will happen to your great reputation?"

¹⁰ But the Lord replied to Joshua, "Stand up! What do you think you're doing lying on your face like that?

* 7:2 "The camp near": implied. These were obviously not men from Jericho itself. † 7:5 "Until they were defeated": or, "to the quarries." ‡ 7:6 A symbol of grief.

¹¹ Israel has sinned and has broken[§] my agreement that I ordered them to keep. They have taken some of the things set apart for me; they have acted dishonestly; they have hidden the stolen items with their own belongings.

¹³ Get up, and make sure the people are pure. Tell them, 'Make yourselves pure in readiness for tomorrow, because this is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says, There are things set apart for me that are hidden among you, Israel. You will not be able to stand against your enemies until you remove all of them.'

¹⁴ In the morning, you will come forward, tribe by tribe. Whichever tribe the Lord chooses[†] will come forward clan by clan. The clan that the Lord chooses will come forward family by family. The family that the Lord chooses will come forward man by man.

¹⁵ The one who is caught with what was set apart for destruction will be burned by fire,[‡] along with all that is his, for he broke the Lord's agreement and committed a terrible act in Israel.' "

¹⁶ Joshua got up early the next morning and called Israel forward, tribe by tribe.

¹⁷ The tribe of Judah was chosen. The clans of Judah came forward and the Zerahites were chosen. The clan of Zerahites came forward, and the family of Zabdi[§] was chosen.

¹⁸ The family of Zabdi came forward, and Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was chosen.

¹⁹ Joshua said to Achan, "My son, honor the Lord, the God of Israel, and confess. Tell me what you have done. Don't hide it from me."

²⁰ "It's true!" Achan replied. "I have sinned against the Lord, the God of Israel. This is what I did."

²¹ Among the plunder I saw a beautiful cloak from Babylonia, two hundred shekels of silver, and a bar of gold weighing fifty shekels.* I really wanted them, so I took them. They're hidden in the ground inside my tent, with the silver buried deeper."

²² Joshua sent men who ran over to search the tent. They found what had been hidden, with the silver buried deeper.

²³ The men took the things from the tent and brought them to Joshua and all the Israelites. There they spread them out before the Lord.

§ 7:11 Literally, "transgressed," in the sense of going outside of what was promised. The actual word means to pass over, or to cross, and is exactly the same word that Joshua uses when he asks why the Lord brought them across the Jordan. So in a modern language parallel Joshua asks why the Lord bothered to help the Israelites to "cross" the river; and the Lord replies that they have "crossed" (or even "double-crossed") him. * 7:12 They became liable to be destroyed because they had taken things which were to be destroyed. See 6:18. † 7:14 It appears that the decision was made by casting lots. ‡ 7:15 This does not mean the culprit would be burned alive, as is clear from subsequent verses. § 7:17 "The family of Zabdi" (some Hebrew manuscripts). Others jump right to the individual chosen, and identify Zimri, though the following verse makes this problematic. * 7:21 Around five pounds of silver, and over a pound of gold.

²⁵ Then Joshua said to Achan, “Why did you bring so much trouble down on us? Today the Lord will bring trouble down on you.” All the Israelites stoned Achan. Then when they had stoned the rest they burned their bodies.

²⁶ They set up a great pile of stones over him which remains to this day. The Lord was no longer angry. This is why the place was called the Valley of Achor ever since.

8

¹ The Lord said to Joshua, “Don’t be afraid or downhearted! Take all the fighting men with you and attack Ai, for I’m handing over to you the king of Ai, his people, his town, and his land.

² You will do to Ai and its king what you did to Jericho and its king. However, this time you may keep for yourselves the plunder and the livestock. Set up an ambush behind the town.”

³ So Joshua and all the people got ready to attack Ai. He chose thirty thousand of his best fighting men and sent them out at night.

⁴ He ordered them, “You lie in ambush behind the town, not far away. All of you need to be ready.

⁵ When I and the rest of the men with me approach the town, the defenders will run out to attack us just like before, and we’ll run away from them.

⁶ They’ll chase after us as we draw them away from the town, because they’ll say to each other, ‘They’re running away from us just like before.’

⁷ While we’re running away from them, you will get up from your ambush positions and take the town for the Lord God will hand it over to you.

⁸ Once you’ve captured the town, set it on fire, as the Lord has instructed. Now follow your orders.”

⁹ Joshua sent them out, and they went to lie in ambush between Bethel and the west side of Ai. But that night Joshua stayed with the people in the camp.

¹¹ All the fighting men who were with him approached the front of the town, and camped there on the north side, with a valley between them and Ai.

¹² He took about five thousand men and had them lie in ambush between Bethel and Ai, to the west of the town.

¹³ So the army took up their positions—the main army to the north of the town, and the ambush to the west. Joshua went that night to the valley.

¹⁴ As soon as the king of Ai saw the situation, he and all his men rushed out early in the morning to attack the Israelites where they had before, at a place overlooking the Jordan valley.* He didn’t know about the ambush waiting on the other side of the town.

† 7:24 Meaning “the Valley of Trouble.”

* 8:14 To the east of the town.

¹⁵ Joshua and the Israelites allowed themselves to be driven back, and ran away in the direction of the wilderness.

¹⁶ All the men of the town were called out to chase after them, and as they pursued Joshua they were drawn father from the town.

¹⁹ As soon as they saw this signal the men lying in ambush got up and rushed into the town. They captured it, and quickly set it on fire.

²⁰ When the men of Ai looked back they saw the smoke rising up into the sky from the town. They had nowhere to run to, because the Israelites who had been running away towards the wilderness now turned on their pursuers.

²¹ For when Joshua and the Israelites saw that the ambush group had captured the town, and that smoke was rising from it, they turned around and attacked the men of Ai.

²² The men from the ambush also came from the town and attacked them, so they were caught on the middle, with the Israelites on both sides. The Israelites cut them down—not a single man survived or got away.

²³ Only the king of Ai was captured alive, and he was brought before Joshua.

²⁴ When the Israelites had finished killing the men of Ai who had chased them towards the wilderness—once they had all been cut down by the sword—the whole Israelite army returned to the town and killed everyone living there.

²⁶ For Joshua had continued to hold up his spear until all the people of Ai had been destroyed.[‡]

²⁷ Only the livestock and plunder were taken from the town by the Israelites, as the Lord had instructed Joshua.

²⁸ So Joshua burned the town of Ai, making it permanently into a heap of ruins where no one lives to this very day.

²⁹ He killed the king of Ai and hung his body on a tree until evening. When the sun went down Joshua ordered the body taken down. They threw it down in front of the entrance to the town gate and piled a heap of rocks over it which is still there today.

³⁰ Then Joshua built an altar on Mount Ebal for the Lord, the God of Israel.

³¹ He did what Moses, the servant of the Lord, had told the Israelites to do, as recorded in the book of the Law of Moses: an altar of uncut stones which no one has worked with iron tools. On the altar they made burnt offerings and friendship offerings to the Lord.

³² There in the presence of the Israelites, Joshua inscribed on the stones a copy of the Law of Moses.

[†] 8:17 Presumably the men from the nearby town of Bethel joined in what they thought was the rout of the Israelites. The Septuagint omits the mention of Bethel. [‡] 8:26 "Destroyed": The word for destruction here is the same as that used for the destruction of Jericho—"devoted to the Lord." See the footnote for 6:17.

³³ All the Israelites, the elders, the officers, and the judges stood in two groups facing each other with the priests, the Levites, and the Ark of the Lord's Agreement between them. (Included were the foreigners as well as the native born.) Half of them stood in front of Mount Gerizim, and half in front of Mount Ebal, just as Moses had ordered, for the blessing of the people this first time. §

³⁵ Joshua read out every word of Moses' instruction to the whole Israelite assembly, including the women, the children, and the foreigners who lived among them.

9

² So they gathered to fight together as a united army against Joshua and the Israelites.

³ But when the people of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai,

⁴ they decided on a cunning plan. They sent messengers to Joshua, their donkeys wearing worn-out saddles and carrying old wineskins that were torn and patched.

⁵ They put on worn sandals that had been mended and wore old clothes. All their bread was dry and moldy.*

⁶ They went to Joshua at the camp in Gilgal and told him and the men of Israel, "We have come from a land far away, so please make a treaty† with us."

⁷ But the Israelites said to the Hivites, "Maybe you live close by. If you do, we cannot make a treaty with you."

⁸ "We are your servants," they replied.

"But who are you? Where do you come from?" Joshua asked.

⁹ "Your servants have come from a land far away," they replied. "For we have heard of the reputation of the Lord your God, and reports of all that he did in Egypt,

¹⁰ and what he did to the two Amorite kings east of the Jordan—to Sihon, king of Heshbon, and Og, king of Bashan, who ruled in Ashtaroth.‡

¹¹ So our leaders§ and everyone who lives in our land told us: Take what you need with you for the journey. Go and meet with them, and tell them, 'We are your servants. Please make a treaty with us.'

¹² Look at this bread. It was warm when we took it from our houses on the day we set out to come here. But now it's dry and moldy, as you can see.

§ 8:33 The first blessing having entered the Promised Land. * 9:5 Or "crumbled." † 9:6 "Make a treaty": literally, "cut a covenant." The Israelites were allowed to make treaties with peoples from distant lands, but not those nearby. See Deuteronomy 7:1-2 Deuteronomy 20:10-15. ‡ 9:10 It's interesting that they deliberately leave out any mention of Jericho and Ai because they would not have known about these recent victories if they had come from a distant country. § 9:11 Apparently the Gibeonites did not have a king.

¹³ These wineskins were new when we filled them, but look at them now—they're split and damaged. These clothes of ours and our sandals are all worn out because the journey took so long."

¹⁴ The Israelites tried some of the food. However, they did not consult the Lord.

¹⁵ Then Joshua made a treaty with them, promising to spare their lives, and the leaders of the assembly swore an oath to guarantee it.

¹⁶ Three days after they had made the treaty, the Israelites learned that the Gibeonites lived nearby, right among them!

¹⁷ The Israelites left to go to the Gibeonite towns, and arrived there on the third day. The towns were Gibeon, Kephirah, Beeroth and Kiriath Jearim.

¹⁹ But the leaders replied to the people, "We swore to them by the Lord, the God of Israel, so we cannot lay a hand on them now.

²⁰ So this is what we're going to do to them. We'll let them live, so that we won't be punished for breaking the oath that we swore to them."

²¹ The leaders concluded, "Let them live." So the Gibeonites became woodcutters and water-carriers in service to the entire assembly, as the Israelite leaders had ordered.

²² Then Joshua summoned the Gibeonites and asked them, "Why did you trick us? You told us, 'We live a long way from you,' but you live right next door to us!

²³ Consequently you are under a curse. From now on you shall forever be servants, woodcutters and water-carriers for the house of my God."

²⁴ They answered Joshua, "We your servants were told very clearly that the Lord your God had ordered Moses to give you all this land, and that all its inhabitants were to be wiped out before you. So we really feared for our lives because of you. That's why we did what we did.

²⁶ Joshua did as he had said. He saved them from the Israelites, so that they did not kill them.

²⁷ That day Joshua made them woodcutters and water-carriers in service to the entire assembly and for the altar of the Lord wherever the Lord should choose. That is what they do right up to this very day.

¹ Adoni-zedek, king of Jerusalem, learned that Joshua had captured Ai and destroyed the town completely, as he had also done to Jericho, and had killed its king, just as he had the king of Jericho. He also heard that the Gibeonites had made peace with the Israelites and were allied with them.

² The people of Jerusalem were very frightened by this because Gibeon was a large town—as large as any town ruled by the king, and larger than Ai, and its men were tough fighters.

³ So Adoni-zedek, king of Jerusalem, sent a message to Hoham, king of Hebron, Piram, king of Jarmuth, Japhia, king of Lachish, and Debir, king of Eglon, saying,

⁵ So these five Amorite kings (the kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish, and Eglon) and their armies gathered and set off. They surrounded Gibeon and then began their attack.

⁶ The Gibeonites sent a message to Joshua at the camp in Gilgal, saying, "Please don't abandon us, your servants! Come quickly and save us! We need your help for all the Amorite kings of the hill country have joined in attacking us."

⁸ The Lord had said to Joshua, "Don't be afraid of them, for you will defeat them. Not a single one will be able to stand against you."

¹⁴ There wasn't a day like this ever before or since when the Lord listened to a human voice in such a way. It was because the Lord was fighting for Israel.

¹⁵ Then Joshua and all the army returned to the camp at Gilgal.

¹⁶ The five kings had run away and hid in a cave at Makedah.

¹⁷ When Joshua was told that the five kings were hiding in a cave at Makedah, ¹⁸ he gave this order, "Roll some large stones to block the entrance to the cave and have some men guard it.

¹⁹ But don't you stay there. Chase the enemy down and attack them from the rear. Don't let them escape to their towns for the Lord has given them to you to defeat."‡

²⁰ So Joshua and the Israelites totally defeated them, striking them down and killing them. Only a few of them survived to escape back to their towns.

²¹ The army returned to Joshua at the camp at Makedah, and no one dared even to threaten the Israelites.§

²² Then Joshua said, "Open the cave entrance and bring out the five kings to me from the cave."

* 10:12 "By": or "because of." Though often translated as "to," the sense here indicates divine approval rather than a conversation. † 10:13 "Book of Jasher": Or "Book of the Upright." This book is no longer known. It is also referred to in 2 Samuel 1:18. ‡ 10:19 "To you to defeat": literally, "into your hand." § 10:21 In other words, the surrounding peoples were so intimidated by this success that they didn't dare even to speak against the Israelites, let alone attack them.

²⁴ When they had brought the kings to Joshua, he summoned all the fighting men, and said to the commanders who had gone with him, “Come here, and put your feet on the necks of these kings.” So they came over and put their feet on their necks.

²⁵ Joshua said to them, “Don’t ever be afraid or discouraged! Be strong and be brave! For the Lord is going to do the same thing to all your enemies that you’re going to fight!”

²⁷ As the sun went down Joshua gave the order to take their bodies down from the trees and throw them into the cave where they had been hiding. Then the Israelites piled up stones over the entrance to the cave, and they are there to this very day.

²⁸ That day Joshua captured Makkedah, killing all its inhabitants, including the king. He set it apart and completely destroyed it and everyone in it,[†] leaving no survivors. He killed the king of Makkedah just as he had killed the king of Jericho.

³⁰ and the Lord gave the town and its king to the Israelites. Joshua had everyone in it killed, leaving no survivors. He killed its king just as he had killed the king of Jericho.

³² The Lord gave the town to the Israelites who captured it on the second day. Joshua had everyone in it killed, just as he had done in Libnah.

³³ Then Horam, king of Gezer, came with his army to help Lachish, but Joshua and his men killed them, leaving no survivors.

³⁴ Joshua and the Israelite army moved on from Lachish to Eglon, surrounding the town and attacking it.

³⁵ They captured it the same day. Joshua had everyone in it killed that very day. He set it apart and completely destroyed it, just as he had done in Lachish.

³⁷ They captured the town, as well as the towns nearby. Joshua had all the inhabitants killed, leaving no survivors. Just as he had done in Eglon, he set it apart and completely destroyed it and everyone in it.

³⁹ He captured it and its king and all the towns nearby. Joshua had all the inhabitants killed, leaving no survivors. Just as he had done in Hebron, he set it apart and completely destroyed it and everyone in it. He killed the king of Debir just as he had killed the king of Libnah.

⁴⁰ So Joshua conquered the whole land—the hill country, the Negev, the foothills, and the slopes—and all their kings. He didn’t leave a single survivor. He killed everyone[‡] as the Lord, the God of Israel, had commanded.

* 10:26 See Deuteronomy 21:22-23. † 10:28 See the explanation at 6:17. ‡ 10:40 Literally, “all that breathed.” This did not refer to the animals, however.

⁴¹ Joshua destroyed them from Kadesh-barnea to Gaza and the whole of the land from Goshen[§] to Gibeon.

⁴³ Joshua and the Israelite army then returned to the camp at Gilgal.

11

¹ When Jabin, king of Hazor, heard about what happened, he sent a message* to Jobab, king of Madon, to the kings of Shimron and Achshaph,

² and to the kings of the northern hill country, the Jordan Valley south of Kinnereth[†], the western foothills, and the foothills of Dor to the west,

⁵ All these kings joined forces and set up camp beside the waters of Merom to fight against Israel.

⁶ The Lord said to Joshua, "Don't be afraid because of them, for by this time tomorrow I myself will hand them all over to Israel, dead. Cripple their horses and burn their chariots."

⁷ Joshua and the Israelite army went and attacked them without warning at the waters of Merom.

⁸ The Lord handed them over to the Israelites who cut them down and chased them as far as Greater Sidon and Misrephoth Maim, and east to the valley of Mizpah, killing them until none were left.

⁹ Afterwards Joshua did what the Lord had ordered: he crippled the horses and burned the chariots.

¹⁰ Then Joshua turned on Hazor. He captured it and killed its king, for Hazor was at that time the chief of all these kingdoms.[‡]

¹¹ Joshua had all the inhabitants killed, leaving no survivors. He set it apart and completely destroyed it—no one was left alive. Then he burned down Hazor.

¹³ However, Israel did not burn any of the towns built on mounds, except Hazor, which Joshua did burn.

¹⁴ The Israelites did take for themselves all the plunder and livestock from these towns. But they killed all the inhabitants, destroying them all so none were left alive.

¹⁵ As the Lord had instructed Moses, so Moses had instructed Joshua. Joshua did what he had been told—he did everything that the Lord had instructed Moses.

¹⁶ So Joshua conquered the whole land—the hill country, the Negev, all the land of Goshen, the western foothills, the Jordan Valley, the mountains of Israel, and the eastern foothills.

[§] 10:41 Not the Goshen in Egypt. * 11:1 A call to arms. † 11:2 "Kinnereth": the Sea of Galilee.

[‡] 11:10 The king of Hazor had been the leader of the coalition against Israel—see 10:1.

¹⁹ Not a single town made peace with the Israelites except the Hivites, the inhabitants of Gibeon. All the rest were conquered in battle.

²⁰ For the Lord made them stubborn, wanting to fight the Israelites so that they might be set apart and completely destroyed, wiped out without mercy, as the Lord had instructed Moses.

²³ So Joshua took the entire land in accordance with what the Lord had instructed Moses, giving it to Israel to own as it was divided up among the tribes. Then the land was at peace.[†]

² Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, ruled from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon valley, all the way from the middle of the valley to the Jabbok River, the boundary with the Ammonites (and included half of Gilead).

⁶ Moses, the servant of the Lord, and the Israelites had defeated them, and Moses had allotted the land to the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh.

⁸ The land included the hill country, the foothills, the Jordan Valley, the slopes, and the Negev desert—the land of the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites.*

1 Many years had passed by, and Joshua had grown old. The Lord spoke to him, saying, "You're now an old man, but there's still a great deal of land still to be taken.

2 This is the remaining land: the territory of all the Philistines and all the Geshurites,

3 from the Shihur River on the border with Egypt north to the border of Ekron—all of which is counted as Canaanite but comes under the five Philistine lords of Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron. In addition there's the land of the Avvites

4 in the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and Mearah that belongs to the Sidonians, all the way to Aphek on the border with the Amorites,

5 as well as the land of the Gebalites and the Lebanon area from the town of Baalgad to the slopes of Mount Hermon to Lebo-hamath,

6 and the those who live in the hill country from Lebanon to Misrephoth Maim, including all the land of the Sidonians.

I myself will drive them out ahead of the Israelites. Just allocate the land to Israel for them to own,* as I have commanded you.

7 So divide this land among the nine tribes and the half-tribe of Manasseh for them to own."

8 The other half of the tribe of Manasseh, and the tribes of Reuben and Gad, had already received their land grant on the east side of the Jordan, as allotted to them by Moses, the servant of the Lord.

9 It stretched from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon valley, from the town in the middle of the valley, and all the plateau of Medeba, up to Dibon;

10 and all the towns that belonged to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon, up to the border with the Ammonites.

11 In addition it included Gilead, the land of the Geshurites and Maacathites, all of Mount Hermon, and all of Bashan as far as Salecah, 12 as well as all the land of the kingdom of Og of Bashan, who had ruled in Ashtaroth and Edrei. He was one of the last of the Rephaites. Moses had defeated them and driven them out.

† 12:23 The Septuagint has "Galilee." * 13:6 "To own," or, "as an inheritance."

¹³ But the Israelites had not driven out the Geshurites or the Maacathites, who still live among them to this very day.

¹⁴ Moses did not allocate any land for the Levites to own. Instead they were allotted the offerings made by fire to the Lord, the God of Israel, as the Lord had promised them.

¹⁵ This was the land that Moses allotted to the tribe of Reuben, by families:

¹⁶ Their territory stretched from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon valley, from the town in the middle of the valley, and all the plateau of Medeba;

¹⁷ Heshbon and all associated towns on the plateau—Dibon, Bamoth Baal, Beth Baal Meon,

¹⁸ Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mephaath,

²⁰ Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, Beth-jeshimoth—

²¹ all the towns of the plateau and all the kingdom of Sihon, the Amorite king, who ruled in Heshbon. He was defeated by Moses, as well as the Midianite leaders Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, princes who lived in the kingdom and who were allied to Sihon.

²³ The Jordan was the boundary for the tribe of Reuben. This was the land, the towns and the villages, allotted to the tribe of Reuben, by families.

²⁵ Their territory was Jazer, all the towns of Gilead, and half of the land of the Ammonites up to Aroer,[†] near Rabbah;[‡]

²⁶ stretching from Heshbon to Ramath-mizpeh and Betonim, and from Mahanaim to the Debir region.

²⁷ In the Jordan valley lay Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon, king of Heshbon. The boundary ran along the Jordan up to the bottom end of the sea of Kinnereth and then ran east.

²⁸ This was the land, the towns and the villages, allotted to the tribe of Gad, by families.

²⁹ This was the land that Moses allotted to the half-tribe of Manasseh, that is half of the tribe of the descendants of Manasseh, by families:

³⁰ Their territory stretched from Manahaim through the whole of Bashan, all the kingdom of Og, and all the towns of Jair in Bashan—sixty in all.

³¹ Also included was Gilead, and Ashtaroth and Edrei, the towns of king Og in Bashan. This was the land allotted to the descendants of Machir, son of Manasseh, for half of them, by families.

³² These were the allocations that Moses made when he was in the plains of Moab, on the other side of the Jordan, east of Jericho.

³³ However, Moses did not allot any land to the Levites, for the Lord, the God of Israel, had promised them that he would be their allocation.[§]

[†] 13:25 Not the same town as mentioned in 13:16. [‡] 13:25 Modern day Amman. [§] 13:33 See 13:14.

¹ This was the land that was allotted to the Israelites to own in the land of Canaan by Eleazar the priest, Joshua, son of Nun, and the leaders of the tribes.

² The decision regarding the land division among the nine and a half tribes was made by casting lots, as the Lord had instructed Moses.

³ Moses had allotted land to the two and a half tribes east of the Jordan but he had made no allocation to the Levites among them.

⁴ The descendants of Joseph had become two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim. The Levites were not given any land, only towns to live in and pasture for their flocks and herds.*

⁵ So the Israelites followed the instructions the Lord had given Moses in allocating the land.

⁶ Leaders from the tribe of Judah approached Joshua at Gilgal, and Caleb, son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, said to him, "You remember what the Lord told Moses, the man of God, at Kadesh-barnea about me and you.

⁷ I was forty when Moses, the servant of God, sent me from Kadesh-barnea to spy out the land. When I returned I told the truth in my report.

⁸ But those who went with me made our people afraid. However, I have faithfully followed the Lord my God.

⁹ At that time Moses made a solemn promise, telling me, 'The land where you have walked will belong to you and your children forever, because you faithfully followed the Lord my God.'

¹⁰ Look—the Lord has kept me alive these past forty-five years as he promised, from the time the Lord told Moses this while Israel was wandering in the wilderness. Now I'm eighty-five,

¹¹ but I'm still as strong today as when Moses sent me out. I'm as strong and ready for battle or for whatever may come as I was then.

¹² So give me the hill country that the Lord spoke about. You heard at that time about the descendants of Anak who lived there in large, fortified towns. If the Lord is with me I will drive them out as the Lord promised."

¹³ So Joshua blessed Caleb and granted him ownership of Hebron.

¹⁴ So Hebron belonged to Caleb, son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, from that day to this because he had faithfully followed the Lord, the God of Israel.

¹⁵ (Hebron was formerly called Kiriath-arba, named after a great leader of the descendants of Anak.) And the land was at peace.

15

² Their boundary began* at the end of the Salt Sea—the bay that faces south—

³ and then went south of Scorpion Pass† through the wilderness of Zin, then heading south from Kadesh-barnea to Hezron. From there it went up to Addar and then turned towards Karka,

* 14:4 "Herds": literally, "possessions," meaning movable personal property. * 15:2 Many of the directions given in the text are in the present tense. However, since we now look back historically, the past tense is used here. † 15:3 Also mentioned by name in Judges 1:36 and Numbers 34:4.

⁵ The eastern border of Judah was the Salt Sea, up to where the Jordan River ends.

The northern boundary ran from the northern bay of the sea where the Jordan ends

⁹ From there the boundary ran from the top of the mountain to the water spring at Nephtoah and on to the towns on Mount Ephron. Then it bent towards Ballah (Kiriath-jearim).

¹⁰ Then the boundary moved around to the west of Baalah to Mount Seir and passed along the northern slope of Mount Jearim to the town of Kesalon, down to Beth Shemesh and on to Timnah.

¹¹ The boundary then ran to the north slope of Ekron, and bent towards Shikkeron, passing Mount Baalah, out to Jabneel, and ending at the sea.

These were the boundaries around the tribe of Judah, by families.

¹³ The Lord had instructed Joshua to allocate some land in Judah's territory to Caleb, son of Jephunneh, and so he was given the town of Kiriath-arba, or Hebron. (Arba was the father of Anak.)

¹⁵ From there he went to attack the inhabitants of Debir (previously known as Kiriath-sepher).

¹⁶ Caleb announced, "Whoever attacks Kiriath-sepher and captures it, I will give him my daughter Acsah to marry."

¹⁷ Othniel, son of Kenaz, brother of Caleb, captured the town so Caleb gave him his daughter Acsah to marry.

¹⁸ When she came to him,[†] she encouraged him[‡] to ask her father for a field. When she got off her donkey, Caleb asked her, "What do you want?"

¹⁹ She replied, "Please give me a blessing. Since you have already given me land that's like the desert, please give me springs of water as well." So he gave her both the upper and the lower springs.

²⁰ This was the land allotted to the tribe of Judah, by families.

²² Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah,

[‡] 15:4 The Mediterranean. [§] 15:7 Not the Gilgal near Jericho. * 15:14 See Numbers 13:22. Since these names are mentioned more than forty years previously, it seems these are names for the larger family groups. [†] 15:18 Some believe this refers to the wedding day. [‡] 15:18 Some Greek manuscripts have "he encouraged her."

⁶² Nibshan, the City of Salt, and En-gedi—six towns with their associated villages.

⁶³ However, the tribe of Judah could not drive out the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so the Jebusites live among the tribe of Judah in Jerusalem to this very day.

³ Then it descended west to the border of the Japhletites and the border of Lower Beth-horon, on up to Gezer, and then out to the sea.

⁴ This was the allocation received by the descendants of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh.

⁵ This was the territory allocated to the tribe of Ephraim, by families. The boundary of their allocation ran from Ataroth-addar in the east to Upper Beth-horon

⁶ and then on to the sea. From Michmethath in the north the boundary turned east passing Taanath-shiloh to the east of Janoah.

⁷ From Janoah it went down to Ataroth and Naarah, then touched Jericho and ended at the Jordan.

⁸ From Tappuah the boundary ran west to the Brook of Kanah and then out to the sea. This was the land allotted to the tribe of Ephraim, by families.

¹⁰ However, they did not drive out the Canaanites living in Gezer, so the Canaanites live among the tribe of Ephraim to this very day, but as forced laborers.

¹ This was the allocation to the tribe of Manasseh, Joseph's firstborn son. Machir was Manasseh's firstborn son who was the father of Gilead. Because Machir had been an excellent fighter, Gilead and Bashan had already been allocated to him.

² The allocation was for the rest of the tribe of Manasseh, to the families of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, Hephher, and Shemida. These were the male descendants of Manasseh, the son of Joseph, by families.

³ But Zelophehad, son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons. He only had daughters, whose names were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

⁴ They approached Eleazar the priest, Joshua the son of Nun, and the leaders, and told them, "The Lord ordered Moses to give us an allocation of land along with our brothers." So Joshua allotted land to them along with their brothers, as the Lord had ordered.

⁵ Consequently Manasseh received ten shares of land beside the land of Gilead and Bashan on the other side of the Jordan,

⁹ From there the boundary ran down to the valley of Kenah. South of the valley some of the towns belonged to Ephraim among the towns of Manasseh. The boundary ran along the north side of the valley and ended at the sea.

¹⁰ To the south the land belonged to Ephraim, and to the north, to Manasseh. The sea is the boundary. The boundary to the north was with Asher, and with Issachar to the east.

¹¹ The following towns with their associated villages were allocated to Manasseh but lay within the land of Issachar and Asher: Beth-shan, Ibleam, Dor (on the coast), Endor, Taanach, and Megiddo.*

¹⁴ Then the descendants of Joseph came to Joshua and asked him, “Why have you given us only one allocation—only one share of the land—when there's so many of us because the Lord has blessed us so much?”

¹⁵ Joshua told them, “If there's so many of you, if the hill country of Ephraim is too small for you, then go and clear ground for yourselves from the forest in the land of the Perizzites and the Rephaim.”

¹⁶ The descendants of Joseph replied, “The hill country isn't big enough for us, but the Canaanites living in the lowlands have iron chariots, both those in Beth-shan and its villages, and those in the valley of Jezreel.”

¹⁷ Joshua said to the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, the descendants of Joseph, “Since you are so many, and you are so strong, you will be given more than just one share.

¹⁸ You will be allocated the hill country in addition. Though it is forest, you will clear it and own it, from one end to the other. You will drive out the Canaanites, even though they have iron chariots, and even though they are strong.”

³ So Joshua asked the Israelites, “How long will you go on being reluctant to go and take possession of the land that the Lord gave your forefathers?

* 17:11 The Hebrew at the end of the verse is difficult to understand. It says literally “three of the heights.” One solution is that it is a reference to the third named town, Dor, which is now specifically identified as “the one on the coast,” or Naphath-dor. See 12:23. * 18:1 Though subdued, it had not been fully conquered, as events of the time and later demonstrate. † 18:1 “Shiloh” means “place of rest.” ‡ 18:1 The Tabernacle. § 18:2 From what follows it's clear that the problem was not one of land allocation but a lack of desire to go and take possession of the land.

⁴ Choose three men from each tribe and I will send them out to explore the land. Then they can write a description regarding the land allocations and bring it to me.

⁵ They are to divide the land into seven parts, up to the boundary of Judah's land in the south and Joseph's* land in the north.

⁶ Once you have written the description the land, dividing it in seven parts, you will bring it to me here and I will cast lots for you in the presence of the Lord our God.

⁷ But the Levites do not receive a share, for their role as priests of the Lord is their allocation. Also, Gad, Reuben, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have already received their allocation that Moses, the servant of the Lord, gave them on the east side of the Jordan."

⁸ As the men started out on their way to explore the land. Joshua told them, "Go throughout the land and write a description of what you find. Then return to me and I will cast lots for you in the presence of the Lord here in Shiloh."

⁹ So the men went and explored the land and wrote down on a scroll a description of the seven parts, recording the towns in each part. Then they returned to Joshua at the camp in Shiloh

¹⁰ where Joshua cast lots for them in the presence of the Lord. There Joshua divided the land up and allotted the different parts to the remaining† Israelite tribes.

¹¹ The first lot cast went to the tribe of Benjamin, by families. The land allotted lay between that of the tribe of Judah and the tribe of Joseph.

¹⁴ Here the boundary turned south along the western side of the mountain facing Beth-horon, finishing at Kiriath-baal (or Kiriath-jearim), a town of the tribe of Judah. This was the western boundary.

¹⁵ The southern boundary began at the edge of Kiriath-jearim. It ran‡ to the spring at Nephtoah,

¹⁶ and then down to the foot of the mountain that faces the valley of Ben-hinnom, at the north end of the valley of Rephaim. Then it went down the valley of Hinnom, along the slope near the Jebusite town,§ south towards En-rogel.

¹⁷ From there it headed north to En-shemesh and on to Geliloth, opposite the heights of Adummim, and then on down to the Stone of Bohan (Reuben's son).

¹⁹ From there it ran along the north slope of Beth-hoglah, ending at the north bay of the Salt Sea, the southern end of the Jordan. This was the southern boundary.

²⁰ The eastern boundary was the Jordan.

* 18:5 Referring to Ephraim and Manasseh. † 18:10 "Remaining": implied. ‡ 18:15 The text says "west" but this is the wrong direction. § 18:16 Jerusalem.

These were the boundaries around the land of the tribe of Benjamin, by families.

²¹ These were the towns of the tribe of Benjamin, according to families: Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz,

²² Beth-arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel,

²³ Avvim, Parah, Ophrah,

²⁵ In addition: Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth,

²⁶ Mizpah, Kephirah, Mozah,

²⁷ Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah,

²⁸ Zela, Haeleph, Jebus (or Jerusalem), Gibeah, and Kiriath-jearim—fourteen towns with their associated villages. This was the land allotted to the tribe of Benjamin, by families.

19

¹ The second lot cast went to the tribe of Simeon, by families. The land was within the land allotted to the tribe of Judah.

² Their allocation included Beersheba, Sheba,* Moladah,

³ Hazar-shual, Balah, Ezem,

⁴ Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah,

⁵ Ziklag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah,

⁷ Also: Ain, Rimmon, Ether, and Ashan—four towns with their associated villages,

⁸ as well as all the villages around these towns as far as Baalath-beer (or Ramah of the Negev). This was the land allotted to the tribe of Simeon, by families.

⁹ The allocation of the tribe of Simeon was part of that given to the tribe of Judah, since what the tribe of Judah had received was too large for them.

¹¹ and then went west past Maralah, touched Dabbeshah, and then the brook near Jokneam.

¹³ From there it ran east to Gath-hepher, Eth-kazin, and on to Rimmon, and turned towards Neah.

¹⁷ The fourth lot cast went to the tribe of Issachar, by families.

* 19:2 “Sheba”: this is probably a repetition of the previous word, and should be deleted, since this would make the number fourteen and not thirteen as indicated in verse 6. † 19:12 “Going the other way”: implied. ‡ 19:15 Not the Bethlehem near Jerusalem.

¹⁸ Their land included these towns: Jezreel, Kesulloth, Shunem,

¹⁹ Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath,

²⁰ Rabbith, Kishion, Ebez,

²¹ Remeth, En-gannim, En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez.

²² The boundary also reached the towns of Tabor, Shahazumah, and Beth-shemesh, and ended at the Jordan River—sixteen towns with their associated villages.

²⁴ The fifth lot cast went to the tribe of Asher, by families.

²⁵ Their allocation included the towns of Helkath, Hali, Beten, Acshaph,

²⁷ Then it turned east towards Beth-dagon, reaching the land of Zebulun and the valley of Iphtah-el. From there it headed north to Beth-emek and Neiel, and continued north to Cabul, and on through to

²⁹ The boundary then turned towards Ramah and then the fortified town of Tyre, turning to Hosah and ending at the sea. Towns included Mehebel, Aczib,

³² The sixth lot cast went to the tribe of Naphtali, by families.

³³ Their boundary began at Heleph, by the oak at Zaananim, and went across to Adami-nekeb, Jabneel, and up to Lakkum, and ending at the Jordan.

³⁵ The fortified towns included: Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Kinnereth,

³⁶ Adamah, Ramah, Hazor,

³⁷ Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor,

³⁹ This was the allocation—the land, towns, and villages—given to the tribe of Naphtali, by families.

⁴⁰ The seventh lot cast went to the tribe of Dan, by families.

⁴¹ Their allocation included the towns of Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir-shemesh,

⁴² Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah,

⁴³ Elon, Timnah, Ekron,

⁴⁴ Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath,

⁴⁵ Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon,

⁴⁶ Me-jarkon, Rakkon, along with the territory opposite Joppa.

⁴⁷ However, the tribe of Dan was not able to hold on to their allotted land, so they went and attacked Leshem and captured it. They slaughtered its inhabitants and took possession of the town, settling there. They renamed Leshem as Dan, after their ancestor.

⁴⁸ This was the allocation—the land, towns, and villages—given to the tribe of Dan, by families.

⁵⁰ Following the Lord's command, they gave him the town he requested—Timnath-serah in the hill country of Ephraim. He rebuilt the town and settled there.

⁵¹ These were the allocations distributed by Eleazar the priest, Joshua, son of Nun, and the leaders of the Israelite tribes. They were made by casting lots at Shiloh in the presence of the Lord at the entrance of the Tent of Meeting. So they finished dividing up the land.

² “Tell the Israelites, ‘Assign sanctuary towns, as I instructed you through Moses.

⁴ When he gets to one of these towns, he shall state his case to the elders at the town gates. They must allow him to enter, and they will also arrange a place for him to stay.

⁶ He shall remain in that town until he has received a public trial and a verdict has been given, and until the death of the high priest of the time. Then he is free to return to his home, back to the town from where he ran away.’ ”

⁸ On the other side of the Jordan, east of Jericho, they assigned: Bezer, in the wilderness on the plateau, from the tribe of Reuben; Ramoth in Gilead, from the tribe of Gad; and Golan in Bashan, from the tribe of Manasseh.

⁹ These were the assigned towns for all the Israelites, as well as for the foreigners living among them. Anyone who unintentionally killed someone could go there so they would not be killed by those who wished to take revenge before they had received a public trial and been given a guilty verdict.†

² They spoke to them at Shiloh in Canaan, saying, “The Lord gave instructions through Moses to give us towns to live in, and pastures for our flocks.”

* 20:3 “Revenge”: literally “avenger of blood.” † 20:9 “And received a guilty verdict”: implied.

⁴ The lot was cast for the families of the Kothaites. These Levites, descendants of Aaron, were allotted thirteen towns from the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin.*

⁵ The remaining families of the descendants of Kothah were allotted ten towns from the tribes of Ephraim, Dan, and the half-tribe of Manasseh.

⁶ The families of the descendants of Gershon were allotted thirteen towns from the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali, and the half-tribe of Manasseh living in Bashan.

⁷ The families of the descendants of Merari were allotted twelve towns from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun.

⁹ They gave from the tribe of Judah and the tribe of Simeon the following towns, specifically named,

¹⁰ to the families of the Kothaites, descendants of Aaron, of the tribe of Levi, since the first lot fell to them:

¹¹ Kiriath-arba (or Hebron), in the hill country of Judah, together with the pastures around it. (Arba was the forefather of Anak.)

¹² But the more distant fields from the town and the villages had been given to Caleb son of Jephunneh to own.

¹³ They gave to the descendants of Aaron the priest the following towns and their pastures: Hebron (a sanctuary town for those who accidentally committed murder), Libnah,

¹⁴ Jattir, Eshtemoa,

¹⁵ Holon, Debir,

¹⁶ Ain, Juttah, and Beth-shemesh—nine towns from these two tribes.

¹⁷ From the tribe of Benjamin the following four towns and their pastures: Gibeon, Geba, ¹⁸ Anathoth, and Almon.

¹⁹ So in total thirteen towns and their pastures were given to the priests, the descendants of Aaron.

²⁰ As for the remaining families of the children of Kothah from the tribe of Levi, they were given by lot four towns and their pastures from the tribe of Ephraim:

²¹ Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim (a sanctuary town for those who accidentally committed murder), Gezer,

²² Kibzaim, and Beth-horon.

²⁴ Aijalon, and Gath-rimmon.

²⁵ From the half-tribe of Manasseh the following two towns and their pastures: Taanach and Gath-rimmon.

²⁶ So in total ten towns and their pastures were given to remaining families of the descendants of Kothah.

²⁷ The families of the descendants of Gershon from the tribe of Levi received the following two towns and their pastures from the half-tribe of Manasseh: Golan in Bashan (a sanctuary town for those who accidentally committed murder), and Be-eshterah.

* 21:4 Towns previously allotted.

²⁹ Jarmuth, and En-gannim.

³¹ Helkath, and Rehob.

³² From the tribe of Naphtali the following three towns and their pastures: Kedesh in Galilee (a sanctuary town for those who accidentally committed murder), Hammoth-dor, and Kartan.

³³ So in total thirteen towns and their pastures were allotted to the families of Gershon.

³⁴ The families of the descendants of Merari, those remaining from the tribe of Levi, received the following four towns and their pastures from the tribe of Zebulun: Jokneam, Kartah,

³⁵ Dimnah, and Nahalal.

³⁷ Kedemoth, and Mephaath.

³⁸ From the tribe of Gad the following four towns and their pastures: Ramoth in Gilead (a sanctuary town for those who accidentally committed murder), Mahanaim, ³⁹ Heshbon, and Jazer.

⁴¹ The Levites received a total of forty-eight towns and pastures within the land of the Israelites.

⁴² Each of these towns had pastures around them.

⁴³ And so the Lord gave to the Israelites all the land he had promised their ancestors. They took possession of it and settled there.

⁴⁵ Not a single one of the good things the Lord promised Israel had failed; everything had come true.[‡]

² He told them, "You have done everything that Moses, the servant of the Lord, told you to do, and you have followed all the commands I gave you.

³ You have never abandoned your brothers all this time, right up to the present day. You have carefully followed what the Lord your God ordered you to do.

⁴ Now that the Lord your God has given peace to your brothers, as he promised, go back home to your land that Moses, the servant of the Lord, gave you on the other side of the Jordan.

[†] 21:44 "Peace": literally, rest. [‡] 21:45 Clearly this is hyperbole; however had Israel followed the Lord's commands more closely this would have undoubtedly been true.

⁵ But make sure you keep the commandments and the law as Moses instructed you. Love the Lord your God, follow all his ways, keep his commandments, stay close to him, and serve him with your whole being.”

⁶ Joshua blessed them, sent them on their way, and they went home.

⁷ Moses had given to the half-tribe of Manasseh the land of Bashan, and to the other half of the tribe Joshua had given land west of the Jordan. Joshua blessed them and sent them home.

⁸ He told them, “Take all the wealth you have gained back home: the great herds of livestock, the things made of gold, silver, copper, and iron, the huge quantity of clothes. Share all this plunder with your brothers.”

¹¹ The Israelites were told, “Look, the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have built an altar in the Jordan region of the land of Canaan, on the side belonging to the Israelites.”

¹³ Before they did so, they sent Phinehas, the son of Eleazar the priest to the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead.

¹⁴ Ten leaders went with him, one from each of the ten tribes of Israel, and each the head of his family.

¹⁵ After they arrived they told the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh,

¹⁶ “This is what all of the Lord’s people say, ‘What is this disloyal act you have committed against the God of Israel by building an altar for yourselves? How could you turn away from him now in such rebellion?’

¹⁷ Wasn’t our sin at Peor† enough? Even now we’re still not clean from the plague that attacked the Lord’s people.‡

¹⁸ So why are you turning away from the Lord now? If you rebel against the Lord today, he will be angry with all of us tomorrow!

¹⁹ But if you think your land is tainted§ then come over to the land of the Lord where the Tabernacle of the Lord is located and share some of our land with us. Just don’t rebel against the Lord, or against us*, by building for yourselves an altar other than the altar of the Lord our God.

* 22:10 Literally, “for appearance.” This may also indicate that the altar was not to function as a place for sacrifice, simply that it looked like one. † 22:17 Numbers 25:1-9. It is likely that Phinehas as leader of the delegation spoke, and he was the one who had taken decisive action as recorded in Numbers 25:7-8. ‡ 22:17 This may not mean that the disease was still present, but the effects of lost relatives still had an effect. In addition it may mean that the cause of the plague—the worship of false gods—was still a problem, as is indicated by God’s warning against them in 24:14-23. § 22:19 A possible reason for building an altar might be that the land was viewed as “unclean” and needed to be “purified.”

* 22:19 “Or against us”: or, “or make us rebels too.”

²² "The Lord is God of gods,[‡] the Lord is God of gods, and he knows! May Israel also know![§] If we're in rebellion against God or being disloyal to him then kill us right now!

²³ If our action of building an altar was to turn away from the Lord, or to use the altar to make burnt offerings or grain offerings or friendship offerings, then may the Lord punish us.

²⁴ We did this because we were worried that in the future your descendants might say to ours, 'What have you got to do with the Lord, the God of Israel?

²⁵ The Lord put a border—the Jordan River—between us and you, descendants of Reuben and Gad. You don't belong to the Lord.' So your descendants might stop our descendants from worshipping the Lord.

²⁶ So we said to ourselves, 'Let's build an altar, not for burnt offerings or for sacrifices,

²⁷ but as a witness between us and you, and for the generations that come after us, that we will come to worship the Lord in his presence with our burnt offerings, sacrifices, and friendship offerings.' Then your descendants will not be able to say to ours in the future, 'You don't belong to the Lord.'

²⁸ If they were to do so in the future, our descendants could reply, 'Look at this copy of the Lord's altar which our forefathers made, not for burnt offerings or for sacrifices, but as a witness between us and you.'

³⁰ When Phinehas and the Israelite leaders heard this from the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh they were delighted.*

³¹ Phinehas replied to the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, "Today we know that the Lord is with us because you have not acted disloyally in doing this. Now you have saved the Israelites from being punished by the Lord."[†]

³² Then Phinehas and the Israelite leaders left the tribes of Reuben and Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead and returned to the land of Canaan to explain the situation to the Israelites.

³³ The Israelites were pleased with the report and God blessed them. They didn't talk about going to war any more to destroy the land where the tribes of Reuben and Gad were living.

³⁴ The tribes of Reuben and Gad called the altar, "Witness," because they said, "It is a witness between us that the Lord is also our God."

[†] 22:20 See 7:1-26. [‡] 22:22 Or "The Lord, the Mighty One, is God!" [§] 22:22 In other words, God knows their motives for building the altar, and the Israelite leaders should also know their motives. * 22:30 "They were delighted": literally, "it was good in their eyes." [†] 22:31 If the Israelites had wrongly gone to war against the other tribes this would have surely brought on them divine judgment.

² summoned all the Israelites—the elders, leaders, judges, and officials—and told them, “I’m old, getting on in years.

³ You’ve seen everything the Lord your God has done to all the nations on your behalf—the Lord your God has been fighting for you.

⁴ I have allotted the land of the remaining nations for you to own, as well as the nations already conquered, from the Jordan to the Mediterranean Sea.

⁵ The Lord your God will make them retreat from you. He will drive them out before you and you will take possession of their land, as the Lord your God promised you.

⁶ Be sure to observe everything that is written in the book of the Law of Moses. Don’t stray from it, either to the left or to the right.

⁷ Don’t associate* with the nations that are left. Don’t mention the names of their gods, and don’t swear by them, worship them, or bow down to them.

⁸ Stay close to the Lord your God, as you have done up to now.

⁹ The Lord has driven out strong, powerful nations before you. No one has been able to stand up to you to this day.

¹¹ Take great care to love the Lord your God.

¹² For if you do turn from him, and adopt the ways of the nations that are left, if you intermarry with them, associating with one other,

¹³ you can be absolutely sure that the Lord your God will definitely not drive out these nations before you. On the contrary,† they will be a trap and a snare to you, a whip on you back and thorns in your eyes until you die out completely from this good land the Lord your God has given you.

¹⁴ Now I am about to die, the fate of every living thing on the earth. Deep down you know that not a single one of the Lord’s good promises has failed. Everything has come true. Not one has failed.

¹⁵ But in the same way that you received all the good things that the Lord you God promised, the Lord will bring on you all the bad things he has threatened until you’re completely wiped out from this good land the Lord your God has given you.

¹⁶ If you break the agreement the Lord your God made with you, and you go and worship other gods, bowing down before them, then the Lord will become angry with you, and you will be quickly wiped out from the good land he has given you.”

24

¹ Joshua summoned all the tribes of Israel to Shechem. Then he called the elders, leaders, judges, and officials and they came and stood before the Tabernacle of God.

² Joshua said to all the people, “The Lord, the God of Israel, says this: ‘Long, long ago your forefathers, including Terah, the father of Abraham

* 23:7 Particularly regarding intermarriage. See verse 12. † 23:13 Implied.

and Nahor, lived beyond the Euphrates River, and they worshiped other gods.

³ I brought your father Abraham from beyond the Euphrates and led him through all the land of Canaan and gave him many descendants. I gave him Isaac.

⁴ I gave to Isaac Jacob and Esau. I gave to Esau the hill country of Seir to own, but Jacob and his children went down to Egypt.

⁶ Yes, I brought your forefathers out, but when you arrived at the Red Sea the Egyptians were chasing after your forefathers with chariots and horsemen.

⁷ Your forefathers called out to the Lord for help, and he placed darkness between you and the Egyptians. Then he brought the sea back over them and they drowned. You saw what I did with your own eyes in Egypt. Then you lived for many years in the wilderness.

⁸ After that I brought you to the land of the Amorites who lived on the other side of the Jordan. They fought against you but I handed them over to you to defeat and you took over their land. I destroyed them before you.

⁹ When Balak, son of Zippor, the king of Moab, wanted to fight against Israel, he sent for Balaam, son of Beor, to come and curse you.

¹¹ You crossed the Jordan and arrived at Jericho where the men of Jericho fought against you. So did the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites.

¹² But I handed them over to you to defeat. And I sent the hornet† before you to drive out the two kings of the Amorites. You did not win using your swords or your bows!

¹³ I gave you a land you didn't work for and towns you didn't build. Now you live in them and eat from vineyards and olive groves you didn't plant.'

¹⁴ So respect the Lord and worship him, sincerely and faithfully. Get rid of the gods your forefathers worshiped beyond the Euphrates and in Egypt, and worship the Lord.

¹⁵ But if you don't want to worship the Lord, choose today who you want to worship! Is it going to be the gods your forefathers worshipped beyond the Euphrates? Or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you're now living? But as for me and my family, we will worship the Lord!"

¹⁷ For the Lord our God brought us and our forefathers out of slavery in Egypt. He was the one who did great miracles before our very eyes. He looked after us on the way as we traveled through the lands of many nations.

* 24:5 The story uses "your forefathers" and "you" interchangeably, perhaps to enhance the involvement of the audience. † 24:12 Or "panic." See similar statements in Exodus 23:28 and Deuteronomy 7:20.

¹⁸ The Lord drove out before us the Amorites and all the other nations who were living in the land. So we will worship the Lord, for he is our God!"

¹⁹ Joshua told the people, "Remember that the Lord is a holy and jealous God. You won't be able to worship him, and he won't forgive your rebellion and sins

²⁰ if you give up on him and worship foreign gods. He will turn against you and destroy you despite all the good he has done for you."

²¹ "Don't say that!"[‡] the people replied. "We will worship the Lord!"

²² Then Joshua cautioned the people, "You have made yourselves witnesses against yourselves by saying that you have chosen to worship the Lord."§

"Yes, we are witnesses," the people replied.

²³ "Then get rid of those foreign gods you have and promise to be loyal only to the Lord, the God of Israel," Joshua told them.

²⁴ The people said to Joshua, "We will worship the Lord our God and we will obey him."

²⁵ So Joshua made a solemn agreement between the people and the Lord that day in Shechem, obligating them to follow all the Lord's laws and instructions.

²⁶ Joshua recorded this in the Book of the Law of God, and he set up a large stone under the oak tree near the Lord's sanctuary.

²⁷ Joshua said to the people, "Look at this stone. It stands here as a witness against us for it has heard everything the Lord has told us, and it will be a witness against you if you ever deny what you have promised your God."

²⁸ Then Joshua dismissed the people, sending them to their allotted lands.

²⁹ Later, after all this, Joshua, son of Nun, servant of the Lord, died at the age of one hundred and ten.

³¹ The Israelites continued to worship the Lord throughout Joshua's life, and throughout the lifetimes of the elders who outlived him, those who had seen all that the Lord had done for Israel.

³³ And Eleazar, son of Aaron, died and they buried him at Gibeah, in the hill country of Ephraim, land which had been given to his son Phinehas.

[‡] 24:21 "Don't say that!": literally, "No!" § 24:22 In other words they can never say they were not aware of this choice since they had publicly acknowledged it.

Judges

² “Judah is to go first,” the Lord replied. “I have handed the land over to them.”

³ The men of Judah said to their relatives of the tribe of Simeon, “Come with us to the land that has been allotted to us, and fight together with us against the Canaanites. Then we’ll do the same for you and your allotted land.”* So the tribe of Simeon joined with them.

⁴ The men of Judah attacked the Canaanites and Perizzites, and the Lord handed them over in defeat. They killed ten thousand of the enemy at the town of Bezek.

⁶ Adoni-bezek ran away, but they chased after him and captured him, and then cut off his thumbs and big toes.

⁷ Adoni-bezek said, “I had seventy kings with their thumbs and big toes cut off picking up left-overs from under my table. Now God has paid me back in the same way what I did to them.” They took him to Jerusalem where he died.

⁸ The men of Judah attacked Jerusalem and conquered it.[‡] They killed the inhabitants with the sword and burned the town down.

⁹ After this the men of Judah went to fight against the Canaanites living in the hill country, in the Negev, and in the foothills of the lowlands.

¹² Caleb announced, “I will give my daughter Acsah in marriage to whoever attacks and captures Kiriath Sepher.”

¹⁴ When Acsah came to Othniel, she encouraged him[§] to ask her father for a field. As she got off her donkey, Caleb asked her, “What do you want?”

¹⁵ “Please give me a blessing,”* she replied. “You gave me land that’s like the desert, so please give me springs of water as well.” So Caleb gave her the upper and lower springs.

¹⁶ The descendants of Moses’ father-in-law, the Kenite, went with the people of Judah from the city of palms to the wilderness of Judah in the Negev near Arad where they settled among the people.

¹⁷ Then Judah joined Simeon and defeated the Canaanites living in Zephath. They completely destroyed the town, so they named it Hormah.[†]

* 1:3 The allocations of land were next to each other. [†] 1:5 Meaning “the lord of Bezek.” [‡] 1:8 Clearly this was not a permanent conquest since David had to take Jerusalem several centuries later. [§] 1:14 Hebrew text. Some versions of the Septuagint read. “He encouraged her.” * 1:15 “Blessing”: this refers to the custom of the father of the bride giving his daughter a special blessing on the occasion of her marriage. [†] 1:17 “Hormah”: meaning “devoted to destruction.”

¹⁸ Judah also captured the towns of Gaza, Ashkelon, and Ekron, each with its surrounding territory.

²⁰ As Moses had stipulated, Hebron was given to Caleb, who drove out from it the descendants of three sons of Anak.

²¹ However, Benjamin could not drive out the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so the Jebusites live among the people of Benjamin in Jerusalem to this very day.[‡]

²³ They sent spies to investigate Bethel, which was previously known as Luz.

²⁴ The spies saw a man leaving the town and told him, "Please show us how to get into town, and we will treat you well."

²⁵ The man showed them the way into the town, and they killed all the inhabitants except the man and his family, whom they let go.

²⁶ The man moved to the country of the Hittites, and built a town there and called it Luz, which is its name to this day.

²⁷ However, Manasseh didn't drive out the people living in the towns of Beth Shan, Taanach, Dor, Ibleam, Megiddo and their surrounding villages because the Canaanites insisted on living in the land.

²⁹ Ephraim didn't drive out the Canaanites living in the town of Gezer, so the Canaanites went on living there among them.

³⁰ Zebulun didn't drive out the people living in the towns of Kitron and Nahalol, so the Canaanites went on living there among them. However, the Canaanites were made to do forced labor for the people of Zebulun.

³¹ Asher didn't drive out the people living in the towns of Acco, Sidon, Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik, and Rehob,

³³ Naphtali didn't drive out the people living in the towns of Beth-shemesh and Beth-anath. So the people of Asher went on living there among the Canaanite inhabitants of the land because they hadn't driven them out. However, the people of Beth-shemesh and Beth-anath were made to do forced labor for the people of Naphtali.

³⁵ The Amorites insisted on remaining in Mount Heres, Aijalon, and Shaalbim, but when the tribes of Joseph grew stronger, the Amorites were made to do forced labor.

³⁶ The border with the Amorites ran from Scorpion Pass through Sela and on up from there.

[‡] 1:21 See also Joshua 15:63 where Judah was similarly unable to take Jerusalem. [§] 1:22 Meaning the tribe of Ephraim and the half tribe of Manasseh.

¹ The angel of the Lord went from Gilgal to Bokim and told the people, "I led you out of the land of Egypt and brought you to this land that I promised to your forefathers, and I said I would never break the agreement I made with you.

² I also told you not to make any agreements with the people living in the land and to tear down their altars. But you refused to obey what I said. Why did you do this?

³ I also warned you, 'I will not drive them out before you, and they will be snares for you, and their gods will be traps for you.' ^{*}

⁴ After the angel of the Lord had explained this to all the Israelites, the people wept out loud.

⁶ After Joshua had dismissed the people, the Israelites went to take possession of the land, each to their allotted land.

⁹ They buried him in Timnath-heres in the hill country of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash, the land he had been allocated.

¹⁰ Once that generation had passed away, the generation that followed did not know the Lord, or what he had done for Israel.

¹¹ The Israelites did what was evil in the Lord's sight, and they worshiped the Baals.[‡]

¹³ They deserted the Lord and worshiped Baal and Ashtaroth idols.

¹⁵ Whenever Israel went into battle, the Lord fought against them and defeated them, just as he had warned them and as he had vowed he would do. They were in a great deal of trouble.

¹⁶ Then the Lord provided them with judges,[§] who saved them from their invaders.

¹⁷ But even so, they refused to listen to their judges, and prostituted themselves by following other gods, bowing down in worship to them. They quickly abandoned the way their forefathers had followed, and they did not obey the Lord's commandments as their forefathers had.

^{*} 2:3 See Numbers 33:55; Joshua 23:13 [†] 2:5 "Bokim" means "weeping." [‡] 2:11 "Baals": pagan gods. [§] 2:16 "Judges": or "leaders."

¹⁹ But when the judge died, the people relapsed, and did worse things even than their forefathers, following other gods and worshiping them. They refused to give up what they were doing and held to their stubborn ways.

²⁰ As a result the Lord became angry with Israel and he told them, "Because this nation has broken the agreement I ordered their forefathers to obey, and has not paid attention to what I said,

²² This is in order to use them to test Israel to see if they will keep the way of the Lord and follow it as their forefathers did."

²³ This is the reason why the Lord allowed those nations to remain, and didn't immediately drive them out by handing them over to Joshua.

3

² (He did so to teach warfare to the later generations of Israel, particularly to those who had not previously experienced it.)

³ They are: the five rulers of the Philistines, all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hivites living in the mountains of Lebanon from Mount Baal-hermon to Lebo-hamath.

⁴ They were left there to be a test for the Israelites, to find out whether the Israelites would keep the Lord's commandments which he had given their forefathers through Moses.

⁷ The Israelites did what was evil in the Lord's sight. They ignored the Lord their God and worshiped the images of Baals and Asherahs.

⁸ The Lord became angry with Israel, so he sold them to Cushan-Rishathaim, king of Aram Naharaim. The Israelites were subject to Cushan-Rishathaim for eight years.

⁹ But when the Israelites cried out to the Lord to help them, he provided someone to rescue them, Othniel, son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, and he saved them.

¹⁰ The Spirit of the Lord came on him, and he became Israel's judge. He went to war with Cushan-Rishathaim, king of Aram, and the Lord handed the king over to Othniel, who was victorious.

¹² But once again the Israelites did what was evil in the Lord's sight, and because they did this the Lord gave power to Eglon, king of Moab, to conquer Israel.

¹³ Eglon had the Ammonites and the Amalekite join him, and then attacked and defeated Israel, taking possession of the City of Palms.*

¹⁴ The Israelites were subject to Eglon, king of Moab, for eighteen years.

* 3:13 "City of Palms": Jericho.

¹⁶ Ehud had made for himself a cubit long double-edged sword, and he strapped it to his right thigh under his clothes.

¹⁸ Then after delivering the tribute he sent home those who had helped carry it.

²⁰ Ehud then went over to where Eglon was sitting alone in his cool upstairs room, and told him, "I have a message from God for you." As the king got up from his seat,

²³ Then Ehud closed and locked the doors, and escaped through the toilet.[†]

²⁴ After he had left, the servants came and saw that the doors of the room were locked. "He must be using the toilet," they concluded.

²⁵ So they waited until they couldn't stand it any more, and since he still hadn't opened the doors of the room, they went and found the key and opened the doors. There was their lord, lying dead on the floor.

²⁶ While the servants delayed acting, Ehud escaped, passing the stone idols and on to Seirah.

²⁷ When he got there, he blew a trumpet in the hill country of Ephraim, and the Israelites joined him. They went down from the hills, with Ehud leading them.

²⁸ He told them, "Follow me, for the Lord has handed Moab, your enemy, over to you." So they followed him down and took control of the fords of the Jordan leading to Moab. They didn't let anyone cross.

²⁹ Then they attacked the Moabites and killed around 10,000 of their best and strongest fighting men. Not a single one escaped.

³⁰ Moab was conquered that day and made subject to Israel, and the country was at peace for eighty years.

³¹ After Ehud was Shamgar, son of Anath, who killed six hundred Philistines with an oxgoad. He also rescued Israel.

4

² So the Lord sold them to Jabin, king of Canaan, who ruled from Hazor. His army commander was Sisera, who lived in Harosheth-hagoyim.

[†] 3:23 "Toilet": The meaning of the word is uncertain, some believe it means "porch," however it appears that Ehud managed to get out of the room secretly. Descending through an open latrine seems to be the best conclusion.

³ The Israelites cried out to the Lord to help them, for Sisera had nine hundred iron chariots and he cruelly mistreated them for twenty years.

⁴ Deborah, wife of Lappidoth, was a prophet, and she was leading Israel as a judge at that time.

⁵ She would sit under Deborah's Palm between Ramah and Bethel in the hill country of Ephraim, and the Israelites would go to her for her decisions.*

⁶ She sent for Barak, son of Abinoam, from the town of Kedesh in Naphtali and told him, "The Lord, the God of Israel, orders you: 'Go to Mount Tabor, and take with you ten thousand men of Naphtali and Zebulun, and lead them there.'

⁸ Barak replied, "If you come with me, I'll go; but if you don't come with me, I won't go."

⁹ "I'll definitely go with you," Deborah answered, "but if you're going to take that route then you won't receive any respect, because the Lord will give Sisera into the hands of a woman." Deborah got up and went with Barak to Kedesh.

¹⁰ Barak called up the armies of Zebulun and Naphtali, and ten thousand men assembled under his command. Deborah was also there with him.

¹¹ (Heber the Kenite had separated from the other Kenites, the descendants of Hobab, the father-in-law of Moses, and had set up his tent at the large tree in Zaanannim, which is near Kedesh.)

¹² Sisera heard that Barak, son of Abinoam, had gone to Mount Tabor,

¹³ so he summoned all his nine hundred iron chariots and all his men to come from Harosheth-hagoyim to the Kishon River.

¹⁴ Then Deborah told Barak, "Get going! Today the Lord has handed Sisera to you. Didn't the Lord march out ahead of you?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor, accompanied by ten thousand men.

¹⁵ When Barak attacked, the Lord threw Sisera and all his chariots and warriors into a confused panic. Sisera jumped down from his chariot and ran away.

¹⁶ Barak chased after the chariots and troops all the way to Harosheth-hagoyim. The whole of Sisera's army was killed—not a single man survived.

¹⁸ Jael went to meet Sisera and told him, "Come on in, my lord, come in with me. Don't be afraid." So he went into her tent, and she covered him with a thick blanket.

¹⁹ "Please give me a bit of water to drink, because I'm thirsty," Sisera asked her. So she opened a skin of milk, let him have a drink, and then covered him up again.

²⁰ "Stand guard at the tent door," he told her. "If anybody comes and asks you, 'Is there is anyone here?' just say no."

* 4:5 Though Deborah is called a "judge," her role is far more than that of a magistrate. The decisions she made were of national importance, more than the mere settling of legal disputes. In this case, "judging" would have the meaning of "governing."

²¹ But Jael, Heber's wife, picked up a tent peg and a hammer and crept quietly over to him where he lay fast asleep and exhausted. She drove the tent peg through his temple and into the ground, and he died.

²² So when Barak came past, hunting for Sisera, Jael went out to meet him, and said, "Come here, and I'll show you the man you're looking for." He went in with her, and there lay Sisera, dead, with the tent peg through his temple.

²⁴ From then on Israel grew ever more powerful until they destroyed Jabin, king of Hazor.

5

² "Israel's leaders took charge, and the people were totally committed. Praise the Lord!

³ Listen, kings! Pay attention, rulers! I, yes I, will sing to the Lord; I will praise the Lord, the God of Israel, in song.

⁴ Lord, when you set off from Seir, when you marched from the land of Edom, the earth shook, rain fell from the skies, the clouds poured down water.

⁵ The mountains melted in the presence of the Lord, the God of Sinai, in the presence of the Lord, the God of Israel.

⁶ In the days of Shamgar, son of Anath, in the days of Jael, people didn't use the main highways and stayed on winding paths.

⁷ Village life in Israel was abandoned* until I, Deborah, came on the scene as a mother in Israel.

⁸ When the people chose new gods,[†] then war arrived at their gates. Not even a shield or spear could be found among forty thousand warriors in Israel.

⁹ My thoughts are with the Israelite commanders and those people who volunteered. Praise the Lord!

¹¹ what people are talking about as they gather at the watering holes. They describe the Lord's just acts and those of his warriors in Israel. Then the people of the Lord went to the town gates.

¹⁴ Some came from Ephraim, a land that used to belong to the Amalekites; the tribe of Benjamin followed you with its men. Commanders came Makir; from Zebulun came those who carry a military officer's staff.

¹⁵ The leaders of Issachar supported Deborah and Barak; they raced into the valley following Barak. But the tribe of Reuben was very undecided.

* 5:7 Presumably people moved to fortified towns for protection. [†] 5:8 Or "When God chose new leaders." [‡] 5:13 "Survivors": referring to the "remnant" of Israel. The "nobles" and the "powerful" refer to the Canaanite overlords.

16 Why did you stay at home in the sheepfolds, listening to shepherds whistling for their flocks? The tribe of Reuben really couldn't decide what to do.

17 Gilead remained on the other side of Jordan. Dan stayed with his ships. Asher sat still on the seacoast, not moving from his ports.

18 The people of Zebulun risked their lives; as did Naphtali on the high battlefields.

19 Kings came and fought, the Canaanite kings fought at Taanach near the waters of Megiddo, but they didn't get any silver plunder.§

20 The stars fought from heaven. The stars in their courses fought against Sisera.

21 The Kishon River swept them away—the old river turned into a raging torrent!* I bravely march on!

23 'Curse Meroz,† says the angel of the Lord. 'Totally curse those who live there, for they refused to come help the Lord, to help the Lord against the powerful enemies.'

24 Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite is to be praised the most among women. She deserves praise above all other women who live in tents.

25 He asked for water, and she gave him milk. In a bowl fit for nobles she brought him buttermilk.

26 With one hand she picked up the tent peg, and with her right hand she held a workman's hammer. She hit Sisera and smashed his skull; she shattered and pierced his temple.

27 At her feet he collapsed, he fell, he lay motionless. At her feet he collapsed, he fell; where he collapsed, there he fell, his life plundered from him.‡

28 Sisera's mother looked out from the window. Through the latticed window she cried out, 'Why is his chariot taking so long to come? Why is the sound of his chariot arriving so delayed?'

29 The wisest of her ladies tells her, and she repeats the same words to herself,

30 'They're busy dividing up the plunder and assigning a girl§ or two for each man. There'll be colorful clothes for Sisera as plunder; beautifully embroidered colorful clothes as plunder; double-embroidered clothing reaching to the neck as plunder.'*

§ 5:19 They did not receive the plunder they hoped for from joining the battle against the Israelites.

* 5:21 The involvement of the stars of heaven and the rainstorm that caused the river to flood are significant since the Canaanite gods were associated with weather and the stars, showing to those involved the supremacy of the Lord over such "gods." † 5:23 "Meroz": the place is not mentioned anywhere else in Scripture. It is thought it may refer to Israelites who had become so "Canaanized" that they refused to help their fellow countrymen. ‡ 5:27 While there is much repetition in this verse, it is retained in translation for its dramatic effect. The last word in the Hebrew text means "plundered" or "looted" is also retained in translation rather than simply saying he was dead, since his life was taken from him in a similar way to a soldier plundering a victim's home. § 5:30

"A girl": literally, "a womb," a dismissive term for a woman. * 5:30 The repetition is again significant: The word "plunder" is used three times—Sisera's mother is imagined thinking about all the wonderful plunder she will receive. However, it is Sisera who has been "plundered" (the word used there often means simply destroyed, but may include looting and plundering), and of course Sisera's mother will be bitterly disappointed.

³¹ May all your enemies die like this, Lord, but may those who love you shine like the sun in all its brilliance!" The land was at peace for forty years.

6

¹ The Israelites did what was evil in the Lord's sight. So the Lord handed them over to the Midianites for seven years.

² The Midianite oppression was so great that because of them the Israelites made themselves hiding places in mountains, caves, and fortifications.

³ Whenever the Israelites planted their crops, the Midianites, Amalekites, and other peoples from the east would come and attack them.

⁴ They would set up their camps and destroy the country's crops as far away as Gaza. They didn't leave anything to eat in the whole of Israel, and they took for themselves all the sheep, cattle, and donkeys.

⁵ They arrived in huge numbers with their livestock and tents like swarms of locusts, with so many camels they couldn't be counted. They invaded the land to completely devastate it.

⁶ The Israelites were made desperately poor by the Midianites and they called out to the Lord for help.

⁷ When the Israelites cried out to the Lord for help because of the Midianites,

⁸ the Lord sent the Israelites a prophet. He told them, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: 'I brought you out of Egypt; I led you out from the place* where you were slaves.

⁹ I saved you from the power of the Egyptians and from everyone who oppressed you. I expelled them before you and gave their land to you.

¹⁰ I warned you: I am the Lord your God. You must not worship the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you're now living.' But you didn't listen to me."

¹¹ The angel of the Lord came and sat under the oak tree in Ophrah that belonged to Joash the Abiezwite. His son Gideon was threshing wheat in a winery there to hide it from the Midianites.

¹² The angel of the Lord appeared to him and said, "The Lord is with you, great man of courage!"

¹³ "Excuse me, my lord, but if the Lord is with us, why has all this happened to us?" Gideon replied. "Where are all his wonderful miracles that our forefathers reminded us about when they said, 'Wasn't it the Lord who led us out of Egypt?' But now the Lord has given up on us and has handed us over to the Midianites."

¹⁴ The Lord turned to him and said, "Go in the strength that you have and save Israel from the Midianites. Aren't I the one sending you?"

¹⁵ "Excuse me, my lord, but how can I save Israel?" Gideon replied. "My family is the least important of the tribe of Manasseh, and I am the least important person of that family!"

¹⁶ "I will be with you," the Lord told him. "You will defeat the Midianites as if they were just one man."

¹⁷ "Please, Lord, if you think well of me, give me a sign that it's really you telling me this," Gideon asked.

* 6:8 Literally, "house."

18 "Don't leave until I come back and present my offering to you."

"I will remain here until you return," he replied.

19 Gideon went and cooked a young goat, and baked some unleavened bread from an ephah of flour. He put the meat in a basket and the broth in a pot. He carried them out and presented them to the angel under the oak tree.

20 The angel of God told him, "Place the meat and the unleavened bread on this rock and pour the broth over them." So Gideon did.

21 The angel of the Lord held out the staff he was holding and touched the meat and unleavened bread with the tip. Fire flamed from the rock and burned up the meat and unleavened bread. Then the angel vanished.

22 When Gideon realized that it was the angel of the Lord, he cried out, "Oh no, Lord God! I've seen the angel of the Lord face to face!"

23 But the Lord told him, "Peace! Don't worry, you're not going to die."

24 So Gideon built an altar to the Lord there and called it "The Lord is Peace." It's still there today, in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.

25 That night the Lord told Gideon, "Take your father's bull and a second bull seven years old, and tear down your father's altar of Baal, and cut down the Asherah pole beside it.

26 Then build an altar to the Lord your God in the proper way on hilltop. Using the wood of the Asherah pole you cut down as firewood, take the second bull and present it as a burnt offering."

27 Gideon accompanied by ten of his servants did what the Lord had told him. However, because he was afraid of his family and the people of the town, he did it during the night rather than in the day.

28 Early in the morning when the people of the town got up, they saw that the altar of Baal had been torn down and the Asherah pole beside it had been cut down, with the second bull sacrificed on the altar that had just been built.

29 They asked one another, "Who did this?" They made inquiries and they were told, "Gideon, son of Joash, did it."

30 "Hand over your son," the people of the town ordered Joash. "He must die, because he has torn down the altar of Baal and cut down the Asherah pole beside it."

31 Joash replied to all those confronting him, "Are you arguing on Baal's behalf? Do you have to save him? Anyone who argues for him will be put to death by morning! If he is a god let him fight for himself against those who tore down his altar."

32 That day Gideon was called Jerub-baal, which means "Let Baal fight with him," because he had torn down his altar.

33 All the Midianites, Amalekites, and other peoples of the East gathered together and crossed over the Jordan. They camped in the Valley of Jezreel.

34 The Spirit of the Lord came[†] on Gideon, and he blew the trumpet, calling Abiezrites to join him.

35 He sent messengers through the whole territory of Manasseh, calling them to join him, and also to Asher, Zebulun and Naphtali, so they also came and joined the others.

36 Gideon said to God, "If you will save Israel through me as you promised,

³⁷ then look—I will put a fleece of wool on the threshing floor. If the fleece is wet with dew but the ground is dry, then I will know that you are going to save Israel through me as you promised.”

³⁸ That's what happened. When Gideon got up early the next morning, he pressed on the fleece and squeezed out the dew, enough water to fill a bowl.

³⁹ Then Gideon said to God, “Please don't get cross with me. Just let me make one more request. Let me do one more test with the fleece. This time let the fleece be dry and the whole ground covered with dew.”

⁴⁰ That night God did exactly that. The fleece alone was dry and the whole ground was covered with dew.

7

¹ Jerub-baal (Gideon) and those who were with him got up early and went and camped by the Harod spring. The Midianite camp was to the north in the valley near the Moreh hill.

² The Lord told Gideon, “There are too many soldiers with you for me to hand over the Midianites to them, otherwise Israel will brag to me, saying, ‘I saved myself by my own strength.’”

³ So tell the soldiers, ‘Anyone who is worried or afraid can leave Mount Gilead and go back home.’ ” Twenty-two thousand of them went back home, but ten thousand stayed.

⁴ Then the Lord told Gideon, “There are still too many soldiers. Take them down to the water and I will reduce* them for you. Whoever I tell you, ‘He shall go with you,’ he shall go. But anyone that I say, ‘He shall not go with you,’ he shall not go.”

⁵ Gideon took the soldiers down to the water. The Lord told Gideon, “Set to one side those who lap the water with their tongues, like a dog does, and on the other side those who kneel down to drink.”

⁷ The Lord told Gideon, “With these three hundred men that lapped I will save you and hand over the Midianites to you. Let all the rest of the soldiers go home.”

⁸ The three hundred took over the supplies and trumpets of the others. Gideon sent all the rest home, but held onto the three hundred men.

⁹ That night the Lord spoke to Gideon, “Get up, go down and attack the camp, for I have handed it over to you.

¹⁰ But if you are afraid to go down, go with your servant Purah to the camp.

¹¹ You'll hear what they're talking about and then you'll have the courage to attack the camp.” So he took his servant Purah with him and went to the edge of the camp where armed men were on guard.

¹² The Midianites, Amalekites, and all the peoples of the East filled the valley like a swarm of locusts, and as for their camels, they were as uncountable as the sand on the seashore.

¹³ Just as Gideon arrived, a man was telling his friend about a dream he'd had. He was saying, “I had this dream. I dreamed I saw a round

* 7:4 Or “test,” “sift,” “purge.”

loaf of barley bread come rolling into the Midianite camp. It hit a tent, knocking it upside-down, flat on the ground!"

¹⁴ "This can only represent the victory by the sword of Gideon, son of Joash, a man of Israel," his friend answered. "God has handed over to him the Midianites and everyone else camped here."

¹⁵ When Gideon heard the dream and what it meant, he bowed in thanks to God.[†] He went back to the Israelite camp and announced, "On your feet! For the Lord has handed over the Midianite camp to you!"

¹⁶ He divided the three hundred men into three companies. He handed them all trumpets, and empty jars with torches inside them.

¹⁷ "Watch me and follow my example," he told them. "So when I get to the edge of the camp, do exactly what I do."

¹⁸ Immediately I and those with me blow the trumpets, then you blow your trumpets from all around the camp, and shout, 'For the Lord and for Gideon!'"

¹⁹ Gideon and the hundred men who with him arrived at the edge of the camp around midnight,[‡] after the guards were changed. They blew their trumpets and smashed the jars they were holding.

²⁰ All three companies blew their trumpets and smashed their jars. They held the torches in their left hands and the trumpets in their right hands, and they shouted, "A sword for the Lord and for Gideon!"

²² When they blew the three hundred trumpets, the Lord made all the men in the camp attack one other with their swords. The enemy army fled to Beth-shittah near Zererah, all the way to the border of Abel Meholah near Tabbath.

²³ The Israelite soldiers were summoned from Naphtali, Asher, and all of Manasseh, and they chased after the Midianites.

²⁵ They also captured Oreb and Zeeb, two of the Midianite commanders. They killed Oreb at the rock of Oreb, and Zeeb at the winepress of Zeeb. They continued chasing down the Midianites and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb back to Gideon who was on the other side of the Jordan.

8

² "Now what have I achieved in comparison to you?" Gideon replied. "Even Ephraim's left-over grapes are better than Abiezer's whole grape harvest!"

³ God handed over to you Oreb and Zeeb, the two Midianite commanders. What have I managed to achieve in comparison to you?" When he told them this their animosity towards him died down.

[†] 7:15 "In thanks to God": implied. The Hebrew simply says, "he bowed." [‡] 7:19 Literally, "the beginning of the middle watch."

4 Then Gideon crossed the Jordan with his three hundred men. Even though they were exhausted they continued the chase.

5 When they got to Succoth, Gideon asked the people there, "Please provide some bread to the men with me because they're worn out—I'm pursuing Zebah and Zalmunna, the Midianite kings."

6 But the Succoth town leaders replied, "Why should we give your army bread when you haven't even captured Zebah and Zalmunna yet?"

7 "In that case, once the Lord has handed Zebah and Zalmunna over to me, I'll return and thrash you with thorns and briers from the desert!" Gideon replied.

8 He left and went to Penuel and asked them the same thing, but the people of Penuel answered the same way as the people of Succoth.

9 So he told them, "When I return victorious, I'll demolish this tower!"

10 Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor with their armies of around fifteen thousand men. These were all who remained of the armies of the people of the East—one hundred and twenty thousand swordsmen had already been killed.

11 Gideon took the caravan route to the east of Nobah and Jogbehah, and he attacked their army, catching them offguard.

12 Zebah and Zalmunna ran away, but he chased after the two Midianite kings and captured them, defeating the whole of their terrified army.

13 Then Gideon, son of Joash, returned from the battle through the Heres Pass.

14 There he captured a young man from Succoth and questioned him. The man wrote down for him the names of the seventy-seven leaders and elders of Succoth.

15 Gideon went and said to the Sukkoth town leaders, "Here are Zebah and Zalmunna, the ones you taunted me about when you said, 'Why should we give your exhausted army bread when you haven't even captured Zebah and Zalmunna yet?'"

16 So he took the town elders of Succoth and taught them a lesson using thorns and briers from the desert.

17 He also demolished the tower of Peniel and killed the men of the town.

18 Then Gideon asked Zebah and Zalmunna, "What were they like, the men you killed at Tabor?"

"They looked like you," they answered. "Each of them had the stature of a prince."

19 "Those were my brothers, my mother's sons," Gideon burst out. "As the Lord lives, if you had let them live, I wouldn't kill you!"

20 He told Jether, his oldest son, "Go on, kill them!" But the boy refused to draw his sword, because he was young and afraid.

21 Zebah and Zalmunna said to Gideon, "Come on, you do it! Show yourself a man and kill us!" So Gideon went over and killed Zebah and Zalmunna, and he took the crescent-shaped ornaments* from the necks of their camels.

22 Then the Israelites said to Gideon, "You must become our ruler, you, your son, and your grandson;† because you've saved us from the Midianites."

* 8:21 Probably made of gold and indicated that the camels belonged to the kings. † 8:22 Suggesting a hereditary kingship.

²³ “I won’t be your ruler, and my son won’t either,” Gideon replied. “The Lord will be your ruler.”

²⁴ Then Gideon said, “I have a request to ask of you: that each of you give me an earring from your plunder.” (Their enemies were Ishmaelites and wore gold earrings.)

²⁵ “We’ll happily give them to you,” they replied. They spread out a cloak, and each of them threw on it earrings from their plunder.

²⁷ From the gold Gideon made an ephod,[‡] which he placed in his hometown of Ophrah. All Israel prostituted themselves there by worshiping it as an idol,[§] and it became a trap to Gideon and his family.

²⁸ This is how the Midianites were subjugated before the Israelites and did not gain power again. So the land was at peace for forty years during the lifetime of Gideon.

³⁰ Gideon had seventy sons, all his own, because he had many wives.

³² Gideon, son of Joash, died at a good old age and was buried in the tomb of his father Joash, in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.

³⁵ They did not show any respect to the family of Jerub-baal (Gideon) for all the good he had done for Israel.

9

² “Please ask all the leaders of Shechem, ‘What’s best for you? That seventy men, all of them Jerub-baal’s sons, rule over you—or just one man?’ Remember I’m your own flesh and blood!”

³ His mother’s brothers shared his proposal with all the leaders of Shechem, and they decided to follow Abimelech, because they said, “He is our relative.”

⁴ They gave him seventy shekels of silver from the temple of Baal-berith. Abimelech used the money to hire some arrogant troublemakers as his gang.

⁵ He went to his father’s house in Ophrah, and on one stone killed his seventy half-brothers, the sons of Jerub-baal. But Jotham, Jerub-baal’s youngest son, escaped by going into hiding.

⁶ Then the leaders of Shechem and Beth-millo all assembled by the oak at the pillar in Shechem and made Abimelech their king.

[‡] 8:27 The breastplate worn by the high priest. This action by Gideon suggests that he thought a center of worship should be established in Ophrah. [§] 8:27 “By worshiping it as an idol”: supplied for clarity.

⁷ When Jotham got to hear this, he went up to the top of Mount Gerizim, and shouted in a loud voice: "Listen to me, leaders of Shechem, and God may to listen to you!

⁸ Once upon a time the trees were determined to anoint a king to rule over them. They said to the olive tree, 'You shall be our king.'

⁹ But the olive tree replied, 'Should I stop giving my rich oil that benefits both gods and men just to go and sway to and fro over the trees?'

¹⁰ Then the trees asked the fig tree, 'You come and be our king.'

¹¹ But the fig tree replied, 'Should I stop giving my good sweet fruit just to go and sway to and fro over the trees?'

¹² Then the trees asked the grape vine, 'You come and be our king.'

¹³ But the grape vine replied, 'Should I stop giving my wine that makes both gods and men happy just to go and sway to and fro over the trees?'

¹⁴ Then all the trees asked the thorn bush, 'You come and be our king.'

¹⁵ The thorn bush replied to the trees, 'If you're really sincere about anointing me as your king, come and find shelter in my shade. But if not, may fire flame out of the thorn bush and burn up the cedars of Lebanon!'

¹⁶ Have you acted sincerely and honestly by making Abimelech your king? Have you been acted honorably to Jerub-baal and his family? Have you respected him for all that he accomplished?

¹⁷ Don't forget how my father fought for you and risked his own life to save you from the Midianites!

¹⁸ But you have rebelled against my father's family today. You have killed his seventy sons on one stone and have made Abimelech, the son of his slave woman, king over the leaders of Shechem simply because he's related to you.

¹⁹ Have you acted sincerely and honestly toward Jerub-baal and his family today? If so, may you be happy with Abimelech, and may he be happy with too!

²⁰ But if you haven't, then may fire flame out from Abimelech, and may it burn up the leaders of Shechem and Beth-millo, and may fire flame out from the leaders of Shechem and Beth-millo and burn up Abimelech!"

²¹ Then Jotham escaped and ran away. He went to Beer and stayed there because of the threat of Abimelech his brother.

²² Abimelech ruled over Israel for three years.

²⁶ Gaal, son of Ebed, had moved to Shechem with his relatives, and he gained the loyalty of the leaders of Shechem.

²⁷ At harvest time they went out into the countryside and gathered the grapes from their vineyards and trod them. They celebrated by having a festival in the temple of their god, where they ate and drank, and cursed Abimelech.

28 “Who is this Abimelech?” asked Gaal, son of Ebed. “And who is Shechem, that we should have to serve him? Isn’t he the son of Jerub-baal, while Zebul is actually the one in charge? You should serve the family of Hamor, the father of Shechem. Why should we have to serve Abimelech?”

29 If I was the one in charge of you people, I would dispose of Abimelech! I would tell him, ‘Get your army together, and come and fight!’ ”

30 When Zebul, the governor of the city, got to hear what Gaal was saying, he became very angry.

31 He secretly sent messengers to Abimelech to tell him, “Look, Gaal, son of Ebed, and his relatives have arrived in Shechem, and they are stirring up the town to rebel against you.

32 So come at night with your army and hide in the countryside.

33 In the morning as soon as the sun comes up, go and attack the town. When Gaal and his men come out to fight you, you can do whatever you want to them.”

35 When Gaal, son of Ebed, went out and stood at the town’s entrance gate, Abimelech and his army came out from where they had been hiding.

36 Gaal saw the army approaching and said to Zebul, “Look! Some people are coming down from the hilltops!”

37 “No really, people are coming down from the high ground,” Gaal repeated. “Plus, there’s another company coming down the road that passes the diviners’ oak tree.”

38 “Where’s your big mouth now? You’re the one who said, ‘Who is this Abimelech, that we should have to serve him?’ ” Zebul told him. “Aren’t these the people you detested? Go on then—go and fight with them!”

39 So Gaal led the leaders of Shechem out of the town and fought with Abimelech.

40 Abimelech attacked, and chased him and his men as they ran away, killing many of them as they tried to get back to the town gate.

42 The following day the people of Shechem went out to the fields, and Abimelech was informed about it.

43 He divided his army into three companies and had them lay in ambush in the fields. When he saw the people coming out of the city, he attacked and killed them.

44 Abimelech and his company raced to occupy the town’s entrance gate, while the two companies raced to attack everyone in the fields and kill them.

45 The battle for the town lasted all day but eventually Abimelech captured it. He killed the people, demolished the town, and scattered salt over the ground.*

46 When all the leaders of the tower of Shechem realized what had happened, they took refuge in the strongroom of the temple of El-berith.

47 When Abimelech found out that all the leaders in the tower of Shechem had gathered there,

* 9:45 To prevent anything from growing.

⁴⁸ he and all the men with him went up Mount Zalmon. Abimelech grabbed hold of an ax and cut a branch from the trees. He lifted it onto his shoulder, and told his men, "Quick! You saw what I did. Do the same!"

⁴⁹ Each of them cut down a branch and followed Abimelech. They placed the branches against the strongroom and set it on fire. So all the people who lived in the tower of Shechem died, around one thousand men and women.

⁵⁰ Then Abimelech went to attack Thebez and captured it.

⁵¹ But there was a strong tower inside the city. All the men and women and the town leaders ran there and barricaded themselves in, and then went up to the roof of the tower.

⁵² Abimelech went up to the tower to attack it. But as he came close to the tower's entrance to set it on fire,

⁵⁴ He quickly called the young man who carried his weapons, and ordered him, "Draw your sword and kill me, so they won't say about me that a woman killed him." So the young man drove his sword through him, and he died.

⁵⁷ He also repaid the people of Shechem for their evil, and the curse of Jotham, son of Jerub-baal, came down upon them.

¹ After Abimelech's time, Tola, son of Puah, son of Dodo, from the tribe of Issachar, came on the scene to save Israel. He lived in the town of Shamir, in the hill country of Ephraim.

² He led Israel as a judge* for twenty-three years. Then he died and was buried in Shamir.

³ After Tola came Jair from Gilead, who led Israel as a judge for twenty-two years.

⁴ He had thirty sons who rode thirty donkeys. They had thirty towns in the land of Gilead, which to this day are called the Towns of Jair.

⁵ Jair died and he was buried in Kamon.

⁶ Once again the Israelites did what was evil in the Lord's sight. They worshiped the Baals and the Ashtoreths, as well as the gods of Aram, Sidon, and Moab, and the gods of the Ammonites and Philistines. They rejected the Lord and did not worship him.

⁸ That year and for eighteen more years they harassed and oppressed the Israelites, all the Israelites that lived on the east side of the Jordan in Gilead, the land of the Amorites.

⁹ The Ammonites also crossed the Jordan to attack Judah, Benjamin, and Ephraim, causing terrible trouble for Israel.

¹⁰ The Israelites cried out to the Lord for help, saying, "We have sinned against you, rejecting our God and worshiping the Baals."

* 10:2 See note on 4:5.

¹¹ The Lord replied to the Israelites, "Didn't I save you from the Egyptians, the Amorites, the Ammonites, the Philistines, ¹² the Sidonians, the Amalekites, and the Maonites? When they attacked you, and you cried out to me for help, didn't I save you from them?

¹⁴ Go and cry out for help to the gods you have chosen. Let them save you in your time of trouble."

¹⁵ The Israelites said to the Lord, "We have sinned! Treat us in whatever way you think you should, only please save us now!"

¹⁷ The Ammonite armies had been called up and were camped in Gilead. The Israelites assembled and camped at Mizpah.

¹⁸ The commanders of the people of Gilead agreed among themselves, "Whoever leads the attack on the Ammonites will become ruler over everyone who lives in Gilead."

¹ Jephthah of Gilead was a strong fighter. He was the son of a prostitute, and his father was Gilead.

² Gilead's wife gave him sons, who when they grew up, drove Jephthah away, telling him, "You won't inherit anything from our father because you are another woman's son."^{*}

³ Jephthah ran away from his brothers and went to live in the land of Tob. A gang of trouble-makers joined him and he led them out on raids.[†]

⁴ Later on, the Ammonites were at war with Israel.

⁵ As the Ammonites were attacking Israel, the elders of Gilead came to get Jephthah from the land of Tob.

⁷ "Weren't you the ones who hated me and drove me from my father's house?" Jephthah asked them, "Why are you coming to me now you're in trouble?"

⁸ "Yes, that's why we've turned to you now,"[‡] the elders of Gilead replied. "Come with us and fight the Ammonites, and you will be the leader of all the people of Gilead."

⁹ "So if I go back with you and fight the Ammonites, and the Lord makes me victorious, then I'll be your leader?" Jephthah asked the elders of Gilead.

¹⁰ "The Lord will be a witness between us," they replied. "We'll do whatever you say."

¹¹ So Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him their leader and army commander. And Jephthah repeated all his conditions before the Lord at Mizpah.

^{*} 11:2 "Another woman's son": this is what the Hebrew says, however it probably has the meaning of "the son of a prostitute." This is certainly how the Septuagint translators understood it. [†] 11:3 The Hebrew simply says, "they went out with him," however the context indicates they were a band of mercenaries. [‡] 11:8 It's unclear whether the elders are responding to Jephthah's first or second question. Both are possible as responses.

¹² Then Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites to ask him, "What have you got against me that you want to attack my land?"

¹³ The king of the Ammonites replied to Jephthah's messengers, "Israel seized my land when they came from Egypt. It extended from the Arnon River to the Jabbok River, and across to the Jordan River. So give it back and there'll be no fighting."

¹⁷ They sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying, 'Please let us pass through your country,' but the king of Edom refused to listen. They also sent the same request to the king of Moab, and he refused too. So they remained at Kadesh.

¹⁹ Then the Israelites sent messengers to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who ruled from Heshbon, and asked him, 'Please let us pass through your land to our own country.'

²⁰ But Sihon didn't trust the Israelites to pass through his territory. So he assembled his army, set up camp at Jahaz, and attacked the Israelites.

²¹ However, the Lord, the God of Israel, handed over Sihon and all his people to the Israelites, who defeated them. So the Israelites took over all the land inhabited by the Amorites.

²² They occupied all the territory of the Amorites from the Arnon River to the Jabbok River, and from the desert to the Jordan River.

²⁴ Why don't you keep whatever your god Chemosh gave you, and we'll keep whatever the Lord our God has given us?

²⁶ Israelites have been living in Heshbon, Aroer, their villages, and in all the towns along the banks of the Arnon River for three hundred years. Why didn't you take them back during that time?

²⁷ I have not sinned against you, but you have done me wrong by going to war against me. Let the Lord, the Judge, decide today between the Israelites and the Ammonites."

²⁹ Then the Spirit of the Lord came on Jephthah. He passed through Gilead and Manasseh, then on through Mizpah of Gilead. From there he advanced to attack the Ammonites.

³⁰ Jephthah made a solemn promise to the Lord, saying, "If you make me victorious over the Ammonites, ³¹ I will dedicate to the Lord whatever comes out of the door of my house to meet me on my safe return from the battle. I will present it as a burnt offering."

³² Jephthah advanced to attack the Ammonites, and the Lord gave him the victory over them.

³³ He soundly defeated them, capturing twenty cities from Aroer to the area around Minnith, up as far as Abel-keramim. This is how the Ammonites were conquered by the Israelites.

³⁴ When Jephthah arrived home in Mizpah, there came his daughter out to meet him, with tambourines and dancing! She was his only child—he had no son or daughter apart from her.

³⁵ The moment he saw her, he ripped his clothes in agony and cried out, “Oh no, my daughter! You have crushed me completely! You have destroyed me, for I made a solemn promise to the Lord and I can’t go back on it.”

³⁶ She replied, “Father, you have made a solemn promise to the Lord. Do to me what you promised, for the Lord brought vengeance your enemies, the Ammonites.”

³⁸ “You can go,” he told her. He sent her away for two months, and she and her friends went into the hills and cried because she would never marry.

³⁹ When the two months were over, she returned to her father, and he did to her as he had promised, and she was a virgin. This is the origin of the custom in Israel

¹ Then the Ephraimites were called up and crossed the Jordan to Zaphon. They said to Jephthah, “Why did you go and fight the Ammonites without summoning us to go with you? We’re going to burn your house down with you inside it!”

² “I was a man with a great fight on my hands,” Jephthah replied. “I and my people were fighting the Ammonites. When I called on you for help, you didn’t come and help save me from them.

³ When I realized that you weren’t going to help, I took my life in my hands and went to fight the Ammonites, and the Lord made me victorious over them. So why have you come here today to attack me?”

⁴ Jephthah summoned all of the men of Gilead and fought against the Ephraimites. The men of Gilead killed them because the Ephraimites taunted them, saying, “You Gileadites are nothing more than escapees living among Ephraim and Manasseh.”

⁵ The Gileadites took control of the fords over the Jordan River that led to Ephraim’s territory, and when an Ephraimite escapee* from the battle would come and ask, “Let me cross over,” the Gileadites would question him, “Are you an Ephraimite?” If he answered, “No,”

⁶ they would tell him, “Say Shibboleth.” If he was from Ephraim he would say “Sibboleth” because he couldn’t pronounce it right, and they’d grab him and kill him there at the Jordan fords. A total of 42,000 were killed at that time.

* 12:5 The word is the same as used to taunt the Gileadites in the previous verse. Now the Ephraimites are the “escapees.”

⁷ Jephthah led Israel as judge for six years. Then he died and was buried in one of Gilead's towns.

⁸ After Jephthah, Ibzan of Bethlehem led Israel as a judge.

⁹ He had thirty sons and thirty daughters. He married off his daughters to men of other tribes, and he brought in thirty wives from other tribes to marry his sons. Ibzan led Israel as judge for seven years.

¹⁰ Then Ibzan died and was buried in Bethlehem.

¹¹ After him, Elon the Zebulunite led Israel as judge for ten years.

¹² Then he died and was buried at Aijalon in the territory of Zebulun.

¹³ After him, Abdon, son of Hillel, from Pirathon, led Israel as judge.

¹⁵ Then he died and was buried at Pirathon in the territory of Ephraim, in the hill country of the Amalekites.

13

² At that time there was a man named Manoah. He was from the tribe of Dan and lived in the town of Zorah. His wife couldn't conceive and had no children.

⁵ You're going to become pregnant and have a son whose head a razor must never touch, because the boy is to be a Nazirite, dedicated to God from birth. He will start the process of saving Israel from the Philistines."

⁶ The woman went and told her husband, "A man of God came to me. He looked like the Angel of God, really frightening. I didn't ask him where he came from, and he didn't did not tell me his name.

⁷ But he told me, 'You're going to become pregnant and give birth to a son. You must not drink wine or any other alcoholic drink, and don't eat anything unclean. For the boy is to be a Nazirite, dedicated to God from birth until the day of his death.' "

⁸ Then Manoah prayed to the Lord, "Please, Lord, let the man of God you sent us return to us to explain what we're supposed to do with the boy who is to be born."

⁹ God responded to Manoah's request, and the Angel of God returned to the woman while she was sitting out in the field. However, her husband Manoah was not with her.

¹⁰ So she ran quickly to tell her husband, "Look! The man who appeared to me the other day has come back!"

¹¹ Manoah got up and went back with his wife, and asked, "Are you the man who spoke to my wife before?"

"Yes I am," he replied.

¹² So Manoah said, "May your promise come true! What shall be decided* for the boy, and what is to be his vocation?"

¹³ "Make sure your wife is careful to follow everything I told her," the angel of the Lord replied.

¹⁴ "She must not eat anything that comes from the vine or drink wine or any other alcoholic drink. She must not eat anything unclean. Your wife must follow everything I instructed her to do."

¹⁵ Manoah said to the angel of the Lord, "Please let us keep you here while we prepare a meal of a young goat for you."

¹⁶ The angel of the Lord replied, "I'll stay, but I won't eat your food. However, if you prepare a burnt offering, you can present it to the Lord." (Manoah didn't know he was the angel of the Lord.)

¹⁷ Manoah asked the angel of the Lord, "What is your name, so when your promise comes true we may honor you?"

¹⁸ "Why do you ask this?" the angel of the Lord responded. "My name is beyond comprehension."

¹⁹ Manoah took a young goat and a grain offering and presented them on a rock to the Lord. As Manoah and his wife watched, the LORD did something amazing.

²⁰ As the flame from the altar blazed up into the sky, the angel of the Lord ascended in the flame. Manoah and his wife saw what happened and fell with their faces to the ground.

²² "We're definitely going to die," he told his wife, "for we have seen God!"

²³ But his wife replied, "If the Lord had wanted to kill us he wouldn't have accepted our burnt offering and grain offering. He wouldn't have shown us all these things, and he wouldn't have come now and announced this to us."

²⁵ The Spirit of the Lord began to prompt† him at Mahaneh Dan, a place between Zorah and Eshtaol.

14

² He went back home and told his father and mother, "A Philistine woman in Timnah caught my attention. Now get her for me because I want to marry her."

³ But his father and mother replied, "Can't you find a young woman from our tribe or from our own people? Do you have to go to the heathen* Philistines to get a wife?"

* 13:12 The word used here is the same as that used to describe Deborah's decisions in 4:5.

† 13:25 Literally, "disturb," "stir," or "impel." * 14:3 Literally, "uncircumcised." † 14:3 "She": this is emphatic in the Hebrew, indicating Samson's determination that this particular woman become his wife.

4 (His father and mother didn't realize that this was in the Lord's plans, who was looking for an opportunity to deal with the Philistines; because at that time the Philistines ruled over Israel.)

5 Samson went to Timnah with his father and mother. When they passed the Timnah vineyards, all of a sudden a young lion came roaring out to attack him.

6 The Spirit of the Lord swept over him, and he ripped the lion apart with his bare hands[‡] as easily as ripping apart a young goat. But he didn't tell his father or mother what he'd done. Then he went on his way.

7 When Samson talked with the woman and decided she was right for him.

8 Later on when Samson returned to marry her, he turned off the road to look for the lion's carcass. Inside the body was a swarm of bees and their honey.

9 He scraped out some of honey into his hands and ate it as he walked. When he got back to his father and mother, he gave some to them and they ate it. But he didn't tell them he'd taken the honey from a lion's carcass.[§]

10 While his father went to visit the woman, Samson held a drinking party there, because this was the custom among high-class young men.

11 When the Philistine people saw him, they arranged for thirty men to accompany him.*

12 "Let me pose a riddle to you," Samson said to them. "If you can find its meaning and explain it to me during the seven days of the party, I'll give you thirty lines cloaks and thirty sets of clothes.

13 But if you can't explain it to me, you'll give me thirty lines cloaks and thirty sets of clothes."

"Fine," they replied. "Let's hear your riddle!"

14 "Food came out of the eater, and sweetness came out of the strong," he said. Three days later they still hadn't worked it out.

15 On the fourth[†] day they came to Samson's wife and told her, "Use your charms to get your husband to explain the riddle and then tell us, or we'll burn you and all your family to death. Did you bring us here just to rob us?"

16 So Samson's wife went crying to him, saying, "You really do hate me, don't you! You don't love me at all! You have posed a riddle to my people, but haven't even explained it to me."

"So?" he replied. "I haven't even explained it to my father or mother! Why should I explain it to you?"

17 She cried in front of him for the whole time of the party, and eventually on the seventh day he explained it to her because she nagged him so much. Then she explained the meaning of the riddle to the Philistine young men.

18 Before the sun set on the seventh day, the men of the town came to Samson and said, "What's sweeter than honey? What's stronger than a lion?"

[‡] 14:6 "Bare hands": literally "but there was nothing in his hand," in other words, he had no weapon. [§] 14:9 Even just touching anything from a dead body would have made them all ceremonially unclean. * 14:11 More likely as "minders" than "attendants," since it seems the Philistines were rather fearful of what Samson might do. [†] 14:15 "Fourth": Septuagint reading, Hebrew "seventh."

"If you hadn't used my cow to plough with, you wouldn't have found out the meaning of my riddle," Samson replied.

¹⁹ The Spirit of the Lord swept over him and he went to Ashkelon, killed thirty of their men, took their clothing, and gave it to those who had explained the riddle. Furiously angry, Samson went back to his father's house.

²⁰ Samson's wife was given to his best man who had accompanied him at the wedding.

¹ Some time later when the wheat was being harvested, Samson went to pay his wife a visit, taking with him a young goat as a present. "I want to go to my wife in her bedroom," he said when he arrived,* but her father would not let him go in.

² "I thought you must totally hate her, so I gave her to your best man," he told Samson. "But her younger sister is even more attractive—why don't you marry her instead?"

³ "This time I can't be blamed for the trouble I'm going to cause the Philistines," Samson declared.

⁴ He went and caught three hundred foxes and tied their tails together, two by two.

⁵ He attached a torch to each of the tied tails and set them on fire. Then he let them loose in the grain fields of the Philistines, setting fire to all the grain, harvested and unharvested, as well as the vineyards and olive groves.

⁶ "Who did this?" the Philistines asked. "It was Samson, the son-in-law of the man from Timnah," they were told. "That man gave Samson's wife to Samson's best man." So the Philistines went and burned her and her father to death.

⁷ Samson told them, "If this is the way you're going to act, then I won't stop until I take my revenge on you!"

⁹ So the Philistine army came and camped in Judah, drawn up for battle near Lehi.

¹⁰ The people of Judah asked, "Why have you invaded us?"

"We've come to capture Samson, to do to him what he's done to us!" they replied.

¹¹ Three thousand men of Judah went to the cave at the rock of Etam and asked Samson, "Don't you understand that the Philistines rule over us? What do you think you're doing to us?"

"I only did what they did to me," he replied.

¹² "Well, we've come to take you prisoner and hand you over to the Philistines," they told him.

"Just swear to me that you're not going to kill me yourselves," Samson answered.

¹³ "No, we won't," they assured him. "We'll only tie you up and hand you over to the Philistines. We certainly aren't going to kill you!" They tied him using two new ropes and led him up from the rock.

* 15:1 "When he arrived": supplied for clarity. † 15:8 "He attacked them violently": literally, "he struck them hip and thigh," meaning "completely."

¹⁵ He grabbed the fresh[‡] jawbone of a donkey, using it to kill a thousand Philistines.

¹⁶ Then Samson declared, "With a donkey's jawbone I have piled the dead into heaps. With a donkey's jawbone I have killed a thousand men."

¹⁸ He was now extremely thirsty, and he Samson called out to the Lord, saying, "You have achieved this amazing victory[§] through your servant, but now do I have to die of thirst and be captured by the heathen?"

¹⁹ So God split open a rock seam in Lehi, and water came out of it. Samson drank and his strength returned—he felt much better. That's why he named it the Spring of the Caller, and it's still there in Lehi to this very day.

²⁰ Samson led Israel as judge for twenty years during the time of the Philistines.

¹ Samson went to Gaza. There he saw a prostitute and he went to have sex with her that night.

² The men of Gaza found out Samson was there, so they gathered to spend the night lying in wait for him at the town gates. They kept quiet all night, whispering to one another, "We'll kill him when it gets light."

⁴ Later he fell in love with a woman named Delilah living in the Sorek Valley.

⁶ Delilah went and pleaded with Samson, "Please tell me where your incredible strength comes from, and what can be used to tie you up so you can't do anything."

⁷ "If I'm tied up with seven supple bowstrings that haven't dried out, I'll become just as weak," Samson told her.

⁸ The Philistine leaders brought her seven supple bowstrings that hadn't dried out, and she tied him up with them.

[‡] 15:15 In other words, the bone was not dry and brittle. [§] 15:18 Literally, "salvation." * 16:3 Gaza to Hebron is around 40 miles.

¹⁰ Later Delilah said to Samson, "You've made me look stupid, telling me these lies! So now please tell me what can be used to tie you up."

¹¹ "If I'm tied up tight with new ropes that haven't been used before, I'll become just as weak as anyone else," he told her.

¹³ Delilah said to Samson, "You keep on making me look stupid, telling me these lies! Just tell me what can be used to tie you up!"

"If you were to weave the seven braids of my hair into the web on the loom and tighten it with the pin, I'll become as weak as anyone else," he told her. So while he was asleep, Delilah took the seven braids of his head, weaving them into the web,

¹⁴ and tightening the pin. She shouted out, "Samson, the Philistines are here to get you!" But Samson woke up and ripped out both the pin and the web from the loom.[†]

¹⁵ Then Delilah complained to Samson, "How can you tell me, 'I love you,' when you don't let me into your confidence?[‡] Three times you've me look stupid, not telling me where your incredible strength comes from!"

¹⁶ She nagged and complained all the time, pestering him until he wanted to die.

¹⁷ Eventually Samson confided in her, sharing everything. "My hair has never been cut, because I've been dedicated as a Nazirite to God from my birth. If I'm shaved, my strength will leave me, and I'll become as weak as anyone else."

¹⁸ Delilah realized that he had truly confided in her and shared everything, she sent a message to the Philistine leaders telling them, "Come back once more, because this time he's confided in me and told me everything." So the Philistine leaders returned, bringing with them the money to give to her.

¹⁹ Delilah soothed him sleep on her lap, and then called in someone to shave off the seven braids of hair. She started to torment him but he couldn't do anything for his strength left him.

Samson woke up and thought to himself, "I'll do like before and shake myself free." But he didn't know that the Lord had left him.

²¹ The Philistines grabbed him and gouged out his eyes. Then they took him to Gaza where they imprisoned him in bronze chains. He was made to work grinding grain at the mill in the prison.

²³ The Philistine leaders gathered for a great religious festival to sacrifice to their god Dagon and to celebrate, saying, "Our god has handed Samson our enemy over to us!"

²⁴ When the people saw him, they praised their god, and said, "Our god has handed our enemy over to us, the one who devastated our land and killed so many of us."

[†] 16:14 The Hebrew of this and the following verse appears damaged. Septuagint reading used.

[‡] 16:15 "Tell me your private thoughts": literally, "your heart is not with me."

²⁵ As they began to get drunk, they shouted, “Summon Samson so he can entertain us!” So they summoned Samson from the prison to entertain them, and made him stand between the two main pillars of the building.

²⁶ Samson said to the servant boy who was leading him by the hand, “Leave me by the pillars on which the temple rests so I can feel them, and lean against them.”

²⁷ The temple was full of people. All the Philistine rulers were there, and on the roof were the ordinary people watching what Samson was doing.

²⁸ Samson called out to the Lord, “Lord God, please remember me and give me strength. Please God, do this just once more, so that with one act I may pay the Philistines back in revenge for the loss of my two eyes.”

²⁹ Samson reached for the two middle pillars that supported the temple. With his right hand leaning on one pillar and his left hand on the other,

³⁰ Samson shouted, “Let me die with the Philistines!” and he pushed with all his strength. The temple collapsed on the rulers and all the people in it. So those killed at his death were more than he killed in his life.

³¹ Then his brothers and his whole family came and took him back and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of Manoah his father. He led Israel as judge for twenty years.

² told his mother, “Those eleven hundred shekels of silver that were stolen from you and that I heard you curse—I’ve got the silver. I was the one who took it.”

Then his mother said, “My son, the Lord bless you!”*

³ He gave back to his mother the eleven hundred shekels of silver. His mother announced, “I’m completely dedicating this money to the Lord. I’m handing it over to my son to have an idol carved, an image made with molten silver.† So now I return it to you.”

⁴ After he’d returned the silver to his mother she gave two hundred shekels to a silversmith who made it into a carved idol, an image made with molten silver. They were kept in Micah’s house.

⁵ Micah had built a shrine for the idol. He also made an ephod and some household gods, and ordained one of his sons as his priest.

⁶ At that time Israel didn’t have a king— everyone did what they themselves thought was the right thing to do.‡

⁷ One young man, a Levite from the tribe of Judah§ had been living in Bethlehem in Judah,

⁹ “Where are you from?” Micah asked him.

* 17:2 This may mean that the mother was attempting to neutralize the curse with a blessing since it affected her son, or that she was pleased that he had owned up to the theft. † 17:3 It is unclear whether this refers to two objects or one. See 18:17 which seems to imply two objects, while 18:20 and 18:31 refer to just one. ‡ 17:6 This is exactly the opposite of the usual phrase “did what was right in the Lord’s sight.” Instead of a commendation, this must be seen as the “democratization of wickedness.” The same expression is used in 21:25. § 17:7 It’s not clear how this man could be both from the tribe of Levi and the tribe of Judah, unless his parents were from different tribes.

"I'm a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah," the man replied. "I'm looking for a place to live."

¹⁰ "Come and stay here with me. You can be my 'father' and priest, and I'll give you ten shekels of silver a year, plus your clothes and food." So the Levite went inside

¹¹ and agreed to stay with him. The young man became like a son to him.

¹² Micah ordained the Levite as his own priest and he lived in Micah's house.

¹ At that time Israel didn't have a king. The tribe of Dan was looking for territory where they could live, because up until then they hadn't gained possession of the land granted to them among the tribes of Israel.

² So the Danites chose from among them five leading men from Zorah and Eshtaol to scout out the land and explore it.

"Go and explore the land," they told them. When the men came to the hill country of Ephraim, they arrived at Micah's house where they spent the night.

³ While they were there, they recognized the young Levite's accent, so they went to him and asked him, "So who brought you here, and what are you doing in this place? Why are you here?"

⁴ "Micah arranged things for me, and he hired me as his priest," he told them.

⁵ "Please ask the Lord for us so we can find out if our journey will be successful," they asked him.

⁶ "Go in peace," the priest replied. "The journey you are taking is being observed by the Lord."*

⁷ The five men left and went to the town of Laish. They observed that the people there lived in safety, and followed the customs of the Sidonians. The people were unsuspecting and confident of their security, at home in a productive land. They didn't have a strong ruler; they lived a long way from the Sidonians, and had no other allies to help them.†

⁹ "Come on, let's go and attack them!" the men interrupted. "We've surveyed the land, and it's excellent! Aren't you going to do something? Don't put off going there and occupying the land!"

* 18:6 Note that the priest is not declaring success or otherwise. Literally he says that the journey "is in front of the Lord," which can mean either that the Lord is leading, or that the Lord is scrutinizing their actions. The quick response by the priest also leads to the suspicion that he did not really spend much time asking the Lord for an answer; † 18:7 "To help them." Supplied for clarity. The spies would obviously be concerned about who might come to the aid of this town if it was attacked. The distance from Sidon and the lack of apparent alliances gave them encouragement that an attack would be successful. In addition, the lack of a "strong ruler" (literally, "a possessor of restraint") meant that the town's defense would not be under a powerful military commander.

¹⁰ When you get there you'll find the people are unsuspecting and the land is extensive. God has given you a place where there's no shortage of anything!"

¹² En route they camped at Kiriath-jearim in Judah. That's why the place west of Kiriath-jearim is called the Camp of Dan to this very day.

¹³ Then they left from there and went into the hill country of Ephraim and came to Micah's house.

¹⁴ Then the five men who had gone to scout out the land of Laish told the other tribesmen, "Do you realize that here in these houses there's an ephod, household gods, and a carved idol, an image made with molten silver? So you know what you should do."

¹⁵ The five men left the road and went to where the young Levite was living in Micah's home to ask how he was.

¹⁸ When the priest saw them taking all the religious objects[‡] from Micah's home, he asked them, "What are you doing?"

¹⁹ "Be quiet! Don't say anything! Come with us, and you can be our 'father' and priest. Wouldn't it be better for you if instead of being a priest for just one man's household that you were the priest of an Israelite tribe and family?"

²⁰ This seemed like a good idea to the priest and he left with them. Carrying the ephod, the household idols, and the image made with molten silver, he marched with the people all around him.

²² The Danites were already quite a way from Micah's home when men from Micah's village caught up with them,

²³ shouting at them. The Danites turned around to face them and asked Micah, "What's the matter with you? Why call out these men to come after us?"

²⁴ "You stole the gods I made, and my priest too, and then left. What have you left me with? How can you ask me, 'What's the matter with you?'"

²⁵ "Don't complain to us!" Danites replied. "Otherwise some hot-tempered people here might attack you and you and your family will lose your lives!"

²⁶ The Danites carried on their way. Micah saw that they were too strong for him to fight so he turned around and went back home.

²⁷ So the Danites took with them the idols that Micah had made, as well as his priest. They attacked Laish with its peaceful and unsuspecting people, killed them with swords, and burned down the town.

²⁸ No one could save them because they were a long way from Sidon and had no other allies to help them. The town was in the valley belonging to Beth-rehob. The Danites rebuilt the city and lived there.

[‡] 18:18 The text repeats the items listed in verse 17.

²⁹ They renamed the city Dan after their forefather, the son of Israel. Laish was its former name.

³⁰ The Danites erected the carved idol to worship, and Jonathan, son of Gershom, son of Moses, and his sons became priests for the tribe of Dan until the time when the people went into captivity from the land.

³¹ They worshiped the carved idol that Micah had made the whole time God's Temple^S was at Shiloh.

¹ At that time Israel didn't have a king. A Levite who was living in a remote area in the hill country of Ephraim married a concubine-wife* from Bethlehem in Judah.

² But she was unfaithful[†] to him and left him to return to her father's house in Bethlehem. She was there for four months.

⁶ So the two men sat down to eat and drink together. The father said to his son-in-law, "Please agree to spend another night here, and you can enjoy yourself!"

⁷ The man got up to leave, but his father-in-law pressed him to stay, so in the end he spent the night there.

⁸ On the fifth day he got up early in the morning to leave. But his father-in-law said, "Eat before you go, then leave later this afternoon." So they had a meal together.

¹⁰ But the man didn't want to spend another night, so he got up and left. He headed towards the town of Jebus (now called Jerusalem) with his two saddled donkeys and his concubine.

¹¹ As they approached Jebus the day was over, the servant said to his master, "Sir, why don't we stop here at this Jebusite town for the night?"

¹² But his master replied, "No, we're not going to stop in this town where only foreigners live and no Israelites. We'll continue on to Gibeah."

¹³ Then he told his servant, "Come on, let's try and get to Gibeah or Ramah and spend the night somewhere there."

^S 18:31 Though no specific reference is made to a Temple being built at Shiloh, it is believed a more permanent structure was in place there, otherwise the location would have been referred to as the "Tent of Meeting." The account in the beginning of 1 Samuel supports this view. *

^{19:1} In other words, a "second-class" wife, not one viewed as having the social status of a true wife.

[†] 19:2 "Unfaithful": literally, "acted as a prostitute." However, some ancient versions have "was angry with him."

¹⁵ They stopped in Gibeah to spend the night, and sat down in the town's main square, but no one invited them to come and stay.

¹⁶ But later that evening an old man came by, returning from working in the fields. He was from the hill country of Ephraim, but was now living in Gibeah in the territory of Benjamin.

¹⁷ He looked over and noticed the traveler in the square and asked, "Where are you going and where have you come from?"

¹⁸ "We've come from Bethlehem in Judah and we're going to a remote area in the hill country of Ephraim," the man replied. "I'm from there and I went to Bethlehem, and now I'm going to the Lord's Temple.[‡] No one here has invited me to stay.

¹⁹ There's straw and food for our donkeys, and we your servants have bread and wine—enough for me, the woman, and my servant. We have all we need."

²⁰ "You are welcome to stay with me," the man replied. "I can let you have everything you need. Just don't spend the night here in the square."

²¹ He took him home and fed the donkeys. The travelers washed their feet and then started to eat and drink.

²² While they were enjoying themselves, some depraved men from the town came and surrounded the house, and banged on the door, shouting to the old man who owned the house, "Bring out the man who came to stay in your house so we can have sex with him."

²³ The man who owned the house went outside and told them, "My brothers, don't act in such an evil way! This man is a guest in my house. Don't do something so disgusting!

²⁴ Look, here's my virgin daughter and the man's concubine. Let me bring them out and you can rape them and do whatever you want to them. But don't do something so disgusting to this man."

²⁵ But the men refused to listen, so the man grabbed his concubine and threw her outside to them. They raped her and abused her all night until the morning, and only discarded her at dawn.

²⁶ As night turned into day she returned to the house where her master was staying and collapsed in front of the door as it got light.

²⁸ "Get up, let's go," he told her, but there was no answer. Then the man lifted her onto his donkey and went home.

²⁹ When he got home he took a knife, and holding onto his concubine, cut her up, limb by limb, into twelve pieces, and sent these pieces of her to every part of Israel.

³⁰ Everyone who saw her[§] said, "Nothing like this has ever been seen before, from the time the Israelites left Egypt up until now. You should think about what happened to her! Decide what to do! Speak up!"

[‡] 19:18 "To the Lord's Temple": the Septuagint reads, "to my house." § 19:30 "Her": most translations use "it," but the Hebrew literally says, "All the ones seeing said..." Clearly it was the dismembered body parts of the concubine that are being referred to here, and so the feminine pronoun makes the most sense.

² The leaders of all the people of every Israelite tribe took their assigned positions in the assembled army of God's people, four hundred thousand soldiers armed with swords.

³ The tribe of Benjamin found out that the Israelites had assembled at Mizpah. The Israelites asked, "Tell us, how could such an evil act have happened?"

⁵ The leaders of Gibeah came to attack me at night. They surrounded the house, intending to kill me.* They raped my concubine and she died.

⁶ I took my concubine and cut her into pieces, and I sent these pieces of her to every part of the country that had been given to Israel, because those men had done something shameful and disgusting in Israel.

⁹ This is what we're going to do to Gilboah: we will attack it with our forces chosen by lot.

¹¹ All the men of Israel were in agreement and gathered to attack the town.

¹² The Israelite tribes also sent men throughout the territory of Benjamin, asking the people, "What are you doing about this terrible evil that has taken place among you?"

¹⁶ Making up part of this army were seven hundred experienced soldiers who used their left hands. All of them could fire a slingshot and not miss by even a hair's breadth.

¹⁸ The Israelites went to Bethel and asked God, "Which ones of us should be the first to go and fight the Benjamites?"

* 20:5 It's interesting that the Levite glosses over the intended homosexual rape and instead states that this was a case of attempted murder.

"Judah is to go first," the Lord replied.

²⁰ Then they marched out for battle with the army of Benjamin, taking up their positions to attack Gibeah.

²² But the Israelites encouraged one other to be confident, and they took up the same positions they had on the first day.

²³ The Israelites went and cried before the Lord until the evening and asked, "Should we go and attack the Benjamites again, our relatives?" "Go and attack them," the Lord replied.

²⁵ However, Benjamites came out of Gibeah once more and slaughtered eighteen thousand Israelites, all armed with swords.

²⁶ Then all the Israelites and all their army went to Bethel, and sat crying there before the Lord. That day they fasted until evening and gave burnt offerings and friendship offerings to the Lord.

²⁷ The Israelites asked the Lord what to do. At that time the Ark of God's Agreement was kept there.

²⁸ Phinehas, son of Eleazar and grandson of Aaron, was the priest. The Israelites asked the Lord, "Should go and we fight again against our relatives from Benjamin, or not?"

"Yes, go! Tomorrow I will hand them over to you," the Lord replied.

²⁹ Then the Israelites set up an ambush around Gibeah.

³⁰ On the third day they took up the same positions they had as before.

³¹ The Benjamites came out to attack them and were lured away from the town as they began to kill Israelites as they had before. Some thirty Israelites died on the battlefield and along the roads, the one that goes towards Bethel and the other that goes back towards Gibeah.

But the Israelites said, "Let's run away from them and lure them away from the town towards the roads."

³³ The main army of Israelites left where they were and took up positions at Baal-tamar, while those in the ambush west of Gibeah charged out to attack from where they had been hiding.

³⁵ So the Lord defeated Benjamin before Israel. That day the Israelites killed twenty-five thousand one hundred Benjamites, all armed with swords.

³⁶ The Benjamites saw that they were defeated.

The Israelites had fallen back before the Benjamites because they were confident the ambush they had put in place near Gibeah would be successful.

³⁷ The men from the ambush raced to attack the town, and they killed everyone in it.

³⁸ The agreement was that they would send up a great cloud of smoke to show the town had fallen.†

³⁹ The Israelite army turned to attack the Benjamites, who had already killed about thirty Israelites. The Benjamites were saying, "We're completely defeating them, just like the first battle!"

⁴⁰ However, when the Israelites saw the columns of smoke rising heavenwards to form a great cloud over the whole of the town,

⁴¹ they turned on their enemies. The Benjamites were horrified when they saw it and realized they were doomed.

⁴² They turned and ran from the Israelites towards the desert, but the battle caught up with them, and the Israelites also killed those who left the towns on the way.

⁴⁴ Eighteen thousand Benjamites were killed, all of them courageous warriors.

⁴⁸ The Israelites went back into the territory of the Benjamites, and going from town to town, they killed everything: people, animals, everything they found. Then they burned down every town on their way.

² The Israelites went to Bethel and sat there before God until the evening, crying loudly in distress.

³ "Lord, God of Israel, why has this happened to Israel?" they asked. "Today one of our tribes is missing from Israel."

⁴ The next day they got up early, built an altar, and brought burnt offerings and friendship offerings.

⁵ "Which of all the tribes of Israel didn't attend the assembly we held before the Lord?" they asked. For they had sworn a sacred oath that anyone who did not come before the Lord at Mizpah would without exception be executed.

⁷ What shall we do about wives for those who are left, since we have sworn an oath before the Lord that we will not allow any of our daughters to marry them?"

⁸ Then they asked, "Which one of all the tribes of Israel didn't attend the assembly we held before the Lord at Mizpah?" They found out that no one from Jabesh-gilead had come to the camp for the assembly,

⁹ for once they had done a head count, there was nobody there from Jabesh-gilead.

¹⁰ So the assembly sent twelve thousand of their best warriors there. They gave them orders, saying, "Go and kill the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with your swords, even the women and children.

¹¹ This is what you have to do: Destroy* every male and every woman who has had sex with a man."

¹² They managed to find among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred virgins who had not had sex with a man. They took them to the camp in Shiloh, in the land of Canaan.†

¹³ Then the whole assembly sent a message to the Benjamites at Pomegranate Rock to tell them, "Peace!"

¹⁴ So the men of Benjamin went back home, and gave to them the four hundred women from Jabesh-gilead who had been spared as wives. However, there wasn't enough for all of them.

¹⁵ The people felt sorry for the Benjamites because the Lord had made this empty hole among the Israelite tribes.

¹⁸ But we can't let them have our daughters as wives, since we as the people of Israel swore a sacred oath, saying, 'Anyone who gives a wife to a Benjamite is cursed!' "

²⁰ So they ordered the Benjamites, "Go and hide in the vineyards.

²⁵ At that time Israel didn't have a king—everyone did what they themselves thought was the right thing to do.

* 21:11 Literally, "devote to destruction": this was the way God had ordered the Israelites to deal with the Canaanite towns (for example Jericho). Now it is being illegitimately applied to another Israelite town. † 21:12 It seems that this reference to Israel as "the land of Canaan" is deliberate and is intended to show how far Israel had fallen into idolatry. ‡ 21:21 The word used here is an unusual one and means to seize someone by force. § 21:22 Referring to the attack on Jabesh-gilead

Ruth

¹ There was a famine during the time when the judges ruled* Israel, so a man left Bethlehem in Judah and went to live in exile in the country of Moab, along with his wife and two sons.

² His name was Elimelech, and his wife's name Naomi. His sons were called Mahlon and Chilion. They were Ephrathites† from Bethlehem in Judah. They went to the country of Moab and lived there.

⁶ So she and her daughters-in-law prepared to leave the country of Moab and return home because she had heard that the Lord had blessed his people there with food.

⁷ She left the place where she had been living and with her two daughters-in-law set out on the road back to the land of Judah.

⁸ However, as they left, Naomi said to her two daughters-in-law, "Each of you, go back to your mother's homes, and may the Lord be as kind to you as you have been to me, and to those who have died.

⁹ May the Lord give you a good home with another husband." She kissed them, and they all started to cry loudly.

¹⁰ "No! We want to go back with you to your people," they replied.

¹² Go back home, my daughters, because I'm too old to marry again. Even if I were to sleep with a new husband tonight and had sons,

¹³ would you wait for them to grow up? Would you decide you weren't going to marry anyone else? No. The whole situation is more bitter for me than it is for you, for the Lord has turned against me!‡

¹⁷ Where you die, I will die, and there I will be buried. May the Lord punish me harshly if I let anything but death separate us!"

* 1:1 Literally "when judges judged," but this was in an executive role, rather than simply judicial. † 1:2 Ephrathah is thought to be an older name for this particular Bethlehem, or a way of specifically identifying it. The two names occur together in Micah 5:2. ‡ 1:13 "The Lord has turned against me": literally, "the hand of the Lord has gone against me."

¹⁹ So the two of them walked on until they reached Bethlehem. When they arrived there, the whole town got excited. “Is this Naomi?”[§] the women asked.

²⁰ She said to them, “Don’t call me Naomi! Call me Mara,* for the Almighty has treated me very bitterly.

²¹ I left here full, but the Lord has brought me home empty. Why call me Naomi when the Lord has condemned me, when the Almighty has brought disaster on me?”

2

¹ Now Naomi had a relative on her husband’s side whose name was Boaz. He was a rich and influential man from the family of Elimelech.

² Soon after Ruth the Moabite said to Naomi, “Please let me go to the fields and pick up grain that’s been left behind—if I can find someone will give me permission.”

“Yes, go ahead, my daughter,” Naomi replied.

³ So she went and picked up grain the reapers had left behind. She happened to be working in a field that belonged to Boaz, a relative of Elimelech.

⁴ Later on Boaz arrived from Bethlehem, and said to the reapers, “May the Lord be with you!” They replied, “The Lord bless you!”

⁵ Then Boaz asked his servant who was in charge of the harvesters, “Who is this young woman related to?”*

⁶ “The young woman is a Moabite who came back with Naomi from Moab,” the servant replied.

⁷ “She asked me, ‘Please may I have permission to pick up grain behind the reapers.’[†] So she came, and she’s been working here from morning until now, except for a brief rest in the shelter.”

⁸ Boaz went and spoke to Ruth. “Listen to me, my daughter,” he told her. “Don’t leave to go and pick up grain in someone else’s field. Stay close to my women.

⁹ Pay attention to what part of the field the men are reaping and follow the women.[‡] I’ve told the men not to bother you. When you get thirsty, go and have a drink from the water jars the servants have filled.”

¹⁰ She bowed down with her face to the ground. “Why are you being so kind to me or even notice me, seeing I’m a foreigner?” she asked him.

¹¹ “I’ve heard about all you’ve done for your mother-in-law since your husband died,” Boaz replied. “And also how you left your father and mother, and the land of your birth, to come and live among people you didn’t know.

[§] 1:19 Not that they didn’t recognize her, but that she was returning as a widow in poor circumstances. * 1:20 Naomi means “happy,” while Mara means “bitter.” * 2:5 Literally, “Whose is that young woman?” † 2:7 The Hebrew adds “among the sheaves,” but this is probably transposed from verse 15. She was given this unusual permission by Boaz only later. ‡ 2:9 It is thought that the men did the work of cutting the stalks of grain, while the women followed behind tying them into sheaves.

¹² May the Lord fully reward you for all you've done—the Lord, the God of Israel, to whom you've come for protection.[§]

¹³ Thank you for being so good to me, sir," she replied. "You have reassured me by speaking to me kindly. I'm not even one of your servants."

¹⁴ When it was time to eat, Boaz called her over. "Come here," he said. "Take some bread and dip it in wine vinegar."

So she sat down with the workers and Boaz passed her some roasted grain to eat. She ate until she'd had enough with some left over.

¹⁵ After Ruth went back to work Boaz told his men, "Let her pick up grain even among the sheaves. Don't say anything to embarrass her."

¹⁸ She picked it up and took it back to town to show her mother-in-law how much she had collected. Ruth also gave her what she had left over from her meal.

¹⁹ Naomi asked her, "Where did you pick up grain today? Exactly where did you work? Bless whoever cared enough about you to pay you some attention!" So she told her mother-in-law about who she had worked with. "The man I worked with today is called Boaz."

²⁰ "The Lord bless him!" Naomi exclaimed to her daughter-in-law. "He goes on showing his kindness to the living and the dead. That man is a close relative to us—a 'family redeemer.'"[†]

²¹ Ruth added, "He also told me, 'Stay close to my workers until they have finished harvesting my entire crop.'"

²² "That's good, my daughter," Naomi told Ruth. "Stay with his women workers. Don't go to other fields where you might be molested."

²³ So Ruth stayed with Boaz' women workers picking up grain until the end of the barley harvest, and then on to the end of the wheat harvest. She lived with her mother-in-law the whole time.

3

¹ A little later Naomi said to Ruth, "My daughter, don't you think I should find you a husband and a good home?"

² Don't ignore the fact that Boaz, whose women you worked with, is closely related to us. Now tonight he will be busy winnowing grain on the threshing floor.[†]

§ 2:12 Literally, "under whose wings you have sought refuge." * 2:17 "Large amount,": literally, "an ephah," a unit of measurement of uncertain quantity, estimated at between 22 and 45 liters.

† 2:20 "Family redeemer": a term for someone who had the responsibility to protect the interests of the family, particularly in the case of someone who died. * 3:1 "A husband and a good home": the word used here refers to the rest and security provided from being married. † 3:2 Grain was processed first by threshing, a procedure by which the grain was separated from the stalks. Then it was winnowed by throwing it up in the air so that the wind would carry away the outer shell of the grain called chaff, and the grain would fall back down to be collected.

³ Have a bath, put on some perfume, wear your best[‡] clothes, and go down to the threshing floor—but don't let him recognize you. Once he's finished eating and drinking,

⁴ watch where he goes to lie down. Then go and uncover his feet and lie down. Then he will tell you what to do.”[§]

⁵ “I'll do everything you told me,” said Ruth.

⁶ She went down to the threshing floor and did what her mother-in-law had told her to do.

⁷ After Boaz had finished eating and drinking, and was feeling contented, he went and lay down beside the grain pile. Ruth quietly approached him, uncovered his feet, and lay down.

⁸ Around midnight Boaz suddenly woke up. Bending forward he was surprised to see a woman lying at his feet.

⁹ “Who are you?” he asked.

“I'm Ruth, your servant,” she replied. “Please spread the corner of your cloak over me, for you are my family redeemer.”^{*}

¹⁰ “May the Lord bless you, my daughter,” he said. “You are showing even more loyalty and love to the family than before. You haven't gone looking for a younger man, of whatever social status.”[†]

¹³ Stay here tonight, and in the morning if he wants to redeem you, then fine, let him do it. But if he doesn't, then I promise you in the name of the living Lord, I will redeem you. Lie down here until morning.”

¹⁴ So Ruth lay at his feet until morning. Then she got up before it was light enough to recognize anyone because Boaz had told her, “No one must know that a woman came here to the threshing floor.”[‡]

¹⁵ He also told her, “Bring me the cloak you're wearing and hold it out.” So she held it out and he poured out six measures[§] of barley into it. He helped her put it on her back and she^{*} went back to town.

¹⁶ Ruth went to her mother-in-law, who asked her, “How did it go for you, my daughter?”[†] So Ruth told her everything that Boaz had done for her.

¹⁷ “And he also gave me these six measures of barley,” she added. “He told me, ‘You mustn't go home to your mother-in-law empty-handed.’ ”

¹⁸ Naomi said to Ruth, “Wait patiently, my daughter, until you find out how it all works out. Boaz won't rest until he has it settled today.”

[‡] 3:3 The Hebrew does not specifically say “best” but this would surely be implied. [§] 3:4 Ruth's action was a recognized symbol of asking for protection and initiating the obligation of “family redeemer” (see 2:20). This is why Boaz “will tell you what to do”—in terms of the requirements necessary to fulfill this obligation. ^{} 3:9 Again this symbolic act was a request to fulfill the obligation of family redeemer, which included marriage. [†] 3:10 “Social status”: literally, “rich or poor.” [‡] 3:14 Clearly Boaz was concerned to protect Ruth's reputation. [§] 3:15 Estimated at 24 liters or 50 pounds. ^{} 3:15 The majority of Hebrew manuscripts read “he.” The minority manuscripts are followed here. [†] 3:16 “How did it go for you?” literally, “who you, my daughter?”

4

¹ Boaz went to the town gate,* and sat down there. The family redeemer that Boaz had mentioned happened to pass by, so Boaz said to him, "Come over here, friend, and sit down." The man came over and sat down.

² Then Boaz selected ten of the town elders and asked them to sit there with them.

³ Boaz said to the family redeemer, "Naomi who has returned from the country of Moab is selling the piece of land that belonged to Elimelech, our relative.

⁴ I decided I should tell you in case you want to buy it here in the presence of these elders of the people. If you want to redeem it, then go ahead. But if you don't, then tell me so I'll know, because you are first in line to redeem it, and I'm next."

"I want to redeem it,"[†] said the family redeemer.

⁵ "When you buy the land from Naomi you also acquire Ruth the Moabite, Mahlon's widow, so you can marry her and have children with her to ensure the man's line continues,"[‡] Boaz explained.

⁶ "Well, I can't do it then," the family redeemer replied. "If I were to redeem it, that could jeopardize what I already own.[§] You redeem it for yourself, because I can't."

⁷ (Now during those times it was the custom in Israel to confirm the action of family redeemer, property transfer, or any similar legal matter by removing a sandal and handing it over. This was the way of validating a transaction in Israel.)

⁹ Then Boaz said to the elders and all the people present, "You are witnesses that today I have bought from Naomi all that belonged to Elimelech, Mahlon, and Chilion.

¹⁰ I have also acquired Ruth the Moabite, Mahlon's widow, as my wife. By having children who may inherit his property his name will be kept alive in his family and in his home town. You are witnesses of this today."

¹¹ The elders and all the people present at the town gate said, "Yes, we are witnesses. May the Lord make the woman who is coming to your house like Rachel and Leah who between them gave birth to the people of Israel. May you become prosperous in Ephrathah, and famous in Bethlehem.

¹³ Boaz took Ruth home, and she became his wife. He slept with her, and the Lord arranged for her to become pregnant, and she gave birth to a son.

¹⁴ The women of the town* came to Naomi and said, "Praise the Lord, for today he didn't leave you without a family redeemer by giving you this grandson[†]—may he become famous throughout Israel.

* 4:1 Civil affairs including legal matters were conducted in the area around the town gate. † 4:4 The answer is not a strongly positive one. ‡ 4:5 The marriage provision is found in Deuteronomy 25:5-10 and following, while the land transfer laws are in Leviticus 25:23-28. § 4:6 The man was concerned that any property he already had would also be included in the legacy to any son Ruth would have, and it would be credited to her dead husband's line. * 4:14 See 1:19. † 4:14 "By giving you this grandson": implied.

¹⁵ He will give you a new lease of life and provide for you in your old age, for your daughter-in-law, who loves you and who is better than seven sons to you, has given birth to him.”

¹⁶ Naomi picked up the child and hugged him. She looked after him like her own son.[‡]

¹⁷ The neighbor women named him Obed,[§] saying “Naomi now has a son!” He was the father of Jesse who was the father of David.

¹⁸ This is the family line of Perez: Perez was the father of Hezron.

¹⁹ Hezron was the father of Ram. Ram was the father of Amminadab.

²⁰ Amminadab was the father of Nahshon. Nahshon was the father of Salmon.

²¹ Salmon was the father of Boaz. Boaz was the father of Obed.

²² Obed was the father of Jesse. Jesse was the father of David.

[‡] 4:16 Literally, “she became his nurse.”

[§] 4:17 “Obed,” meaning “servant” as in “servant of God.”

1 Samuel

¹ Once there was a man from Ramathaim-zophim in the hill country of Ephraim. His name was Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, from the tribe of Ephraim.

² He had two wives. The name of the first wife was Hannah, and the name of the second, Peninnah. Peninnah had children, but Hannah had none.

³ Every year Elkanah would leave his town and go to worship and sacrifice to the Lord Almighty at Shiloh, where Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were the Lord's priests.

⁴ Whenever Elkanah offered a sacrifice, he would give portions of it to Peninnah his wife and to all her sons and daughters.

⁵ He would give an extra portion* to Hannah, to show his love for her even though the Lord hadn't given her any children.

⁸ "Hannah, what are you crying for?" her husband Elkanah would ask. "Why don't you eat? Why are you so upset? Aren't I better to you than ten sons?"

¹⁰ She was terribly upset, and prayed to the Lord as she cried and cried.

¹¹ She made a vow, asking, "Lord Almighty, if only you would pay attention to the suffering of your servant and remember me, and not forget me but give me a son, then I will dedicate him to the Lord for his whole life, and no razor shall ever touch his head."

¹³ Hannah was praying in her head, and though her lips were moving, her voice made no sound. Eli thought she must be drunk.

¹⁴ "Do you have to come here drunk?" he asked. "Get rid of your wine!"

¹⁵ "It's not that, my lord," Hannah replied. "I'm a very miserable woman. I haven't been drinking wine or beer; I'm just pouring my heart out to the Lord."

¹⁶ Please don't think I'm a bad woman! I have been praying because of all my troubles and grief."

¹⁷ "Go in peace, and may the God of Israel give you what you have asked him for," Eli replied.

¹⁸ "Thank you for your kindness to your servant," she said. Then she went on her way, had something to eat, and she didn't look sad any more.

¹⁹ Elkanah and Hannah got up early the next morning to worship the Lord and then they went home to Ramah. Elkanah made love to his wife Hannah, and the Lord honored her request.

* 1:5 By giving an extra portion, Elkanah was showing everyone that he treated Hannah as if she did have one child. † 1:9 "And went to the Temple": supplied for clarity.

²⁰ In due course she became pregnant and gave birth to a son. She named him Samuel, saying, "Because I asked the Lord for him."

²¹ Elkanah and all his family went to make the yearly sacrifice to the Lord and to fulfill his vow.

²² But Hannah did not go. She told her husband, "Once the boy is weaned I will take him to be presented to the Lord and to remain there forever."

²³ "Do as you see fit," her husband Elkanah replied. "Stay here until you have weaned him. May the Lord fulfill what he has said."[‡] So Hannah stayed behind and nursed her son until she had weaned him.

²⁴ When she had weaned him, Hannah took the boy with her, along with a three-year-old bull,[§] an ephah of flour, and a wineskin containing wine. Even though the boy was young, she brought him to the Lord's Temple at Shiloh.

²⁶ "Please, my lord," said Hannah, "as surely as you live, my lord, I am the woman who stood here with you praying to the Lord.

²⁷ I prayed for this boy, and since the Lord has given me what I asked him for, ²⁸ now I'm giving him to the Lord. As long as he lives he will be dedicated to the Lord." And he^{*} worshiped the Lord there.

2

¹ Hannah prayed, "I'm so happy in the Lord! He has empowered me! Now I have plenty to say in answer to those who hate me. I celebrate your salvation!

⁴ The weapons^{*} of the powerful are shattered, while those who stumble along are made strong.

⁵ Those who used to have plenty of food now have to work to earn a crust, while those who used to be hungry now have become fat. The woman who was childless now has seven children, while the woman with many children fades away.

[‡] 1:23 "What he has said" L referring to the Lord. The Septuagint and a scroll from Qumran read "what you have said," referring to Hannah. [§] 1:24 "A three-year-old bull": Septuagint reading.

^{} 1:28 "He": presumably referring to Elkanah. Some versions change this to "they." ^{} 2:4 "Weapons": literally, "bow."

¹⁰ The Lord crushes his enemies, he thunders against them from heaven. He rules[†] the whole earth; he strengthens his king, and gives power to the one he has anointed.”

¹¹ Then Elkanah went home to Ramah while the boy stayed with Eli the priest serving the Lord.

¹² Eli's sons were worthless men who didn't have any time for the Lord

¹³ or their role as priests to the people. They would send one of their servants over with a fork when anyone came to offer a sacrifice.

¹⁵ In fact even before the fat of the sacrifice was burned up the servant would come and would demand from the man sacrificing, “Give me meat to roast for the priest. He doesn't want boiled meat from you—he wants it raw.”

¹⁶ The man might answer, “Let me first burn up all the fat, and then you can have as much as you want.”

But the priest's servant would reply, “No, you must give it to me now. If you don't, I'll take it by force.”

¹⁷ The sins of these young men were extremely serious from the Lord's perspective because they were treating with contempt the Lord's offerings.

¹⁸ But Samuel served before the Lord—a boy dressed as a priest,[‡] wearing a linen ephod.

¹⁹ Every year his mother made him a little robe and took it to him when she went with her husband to offer the annual sacrifice.

²¹ The Lord blessed[§] Hannah with three sons and two daughters. The boy Samuel grew up in the presence of the Lord.

²² Eli was very old, however he had heard about all the things his sons were doing to the people of Israel, and how they were seducing the women who were serving at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

²³ He asked them, “Why are you doing all this? I keep on hearing from everyone about your evil actions.

²⁴ No, my sons, the report I hear about you from the Lord's people isn't good.

²⁵ If a man sins against someone, God can intercede for him; but if a man sin against the Lord, who is going to intercede for him?” But they didn't pay attention to what their father said, for the Lord was planning to put them to death.

²⁶ The boy Samuel grew physically, and also grew in the approval of both the Lord and the people.

²⁷ A man of God came to Eli and told him, “This is what the Lord says: Didn't I very clearly reveal myself to your forefather's family when they were ruled by Pharaoh in Egypt?

[†] 2:10 “Rules”: or “judges.” [‡] 2:18 “Dressed as a priest”: added for clarity [§] 2:21 “Blessed”: literally, “Paid attention to.”

²⁸ I chose him* out of all the tribes of Israel as my priest, to offer sacrifices on my altar, to burn incense, and to wear an ephod in my presence. I also gave to your forefather's family all the Israelites' offerings made with fire.

²⁹ So why have you treated with contempt my sacrifices and offerings that I have ordered for my place of worship? You honor your sons more than me by fattening yourselves with the best parts of all the offerings from my people Israel.

³⁰ Consequently, this is the declaration of the Lord: I made a definite promise that your family and your father's family would always serve me as priests. But now the Lord declares: Not anymore! Instead I will honor those who honor me, but those who despise me I will treat with contempt.

³¹ The time is coming when I will bring your family and your father's family to an end.† No one will live to an old age.

³³ Anyone of your family not cut off from serving at my altar will make your eyes weep and cause you grief. All your descendants will die when full of life.

³⁵ I will choose for myself a trustworthy priest who will do what I really want, what I have in mind. I will make sure he and his descendants are trustworthy and they will always serve my anointed one.

³⁶ Every one of your descendants who is left will come and bow down to him, asking for money and food, saying, 'Please give me work as a priest so that I can have food to eat.' "

3

² One evening, Eli had gone to bed in his room. His eyes were now so weak that he couldn't see.

³ The lamp of God hadn't yet gone out, and Samuel was sleeping in the Lord's Temple where the Ark of God was.

⁴ Then the Lord called, "Samuel!"

He answered, "I'm here."

⁵ He ran to Eli, and said, "I'm here—you called me."

"I didn't call you," Eli replied. "Go back to bed." So Samuel went back to bed.

⁶ Then the Lord called again, "Samuel!" Samuel got up, went to Eli and said, "I'm here—you called me."

⁷ (Samuel hadn't yet come to know the Lord and had not received any message from him.)

⁸ The Lord called again for the third time, "Samuel!" He got up went to Eli and said, "I'm here—you called me." Then Eli realized that it was the Lord calling the boy.

* 2:28 Referring to Aaron. † 2:31 "Bring your family... to an end": literally, "cut off your strength." ‡ 2:32 Perhaps referring to the loss of the Ark to the Philistines.

⁹ Eli told Samuel, "Go back to bed, and if he calls you, say, 'Speak, Lord, because your servant is listening.'" So Samuel went back to his bed.

¹⁰ The Lord came and stood there, calling just as before, "Samuel! Samuel!" Samuel answered, "Speak, because your servant is listening."

¹¹ The Lord told Samuel: "Pay attention, because I'm going to do something in Israel that will surprise everyone who hears it.*

¹² That's when I will carry out against Eli and his family everything I have said, from beginning to end.

¹³ I told him that I will judge his family forever because of the sins he knows about, because his sons blasphemed God and he did not try and stop them.

¹⁴ That's why I swore to Eli and his family, 'The guilt of Eli and his descendants will never be removed by sacrifice or offering.' "

¹⁵ Samuel remained in bed until the morning. Then he got up and opened the doors of the Lord's Temple as usual. He was afraid to tell Eli about the vision.

¹⁶ But Eli called him and said, "Samuel, my son."

"I'm here," Samuel answered.

¹⁷ "What did he tell you?" Eli asked. "Don't hide it from me. May God punish you very severely if you hide anything he told you from me!"

¹⁸ So Samuel told him everything and didn't hide anything from him.

¹⁹ Samuel continued to grow up. The Lord was with him and made sure all he said was trustworthy.

²¹ The Lord went on appearing at Shiloh, because there he revealed himself to Samuel and delivered his messages,

4

The Israelites marched out to confront the Philistines in battle. They set up camp at Ebenezer, while the Philistines set up camp at Aphek.

² The Philistines attacked the Israelites in formation, and when the battle spread, the Philistines defeated the Israelites, killing 4,000 of them on the battlefield.

³ When the Israelite army returned to camp, the elders of Israel asked, "Why did the Lord defeat us before Philistines today? Let's go and get the Ark of the Lord's Agreement from Shiloh, so that he can accompany us and save us from our enemies."

⁵ When the Ark of the Lord's Agreement arrived in the camp, all the Israelites gave such a loud shout it made the ground shake.

⁶ When the Philistines heard all the shouting, they asked, "What's the meaning of this shouting in the Israelite camp?" When they found out that the Ark of the Lord had arrived in the camp,

* 3:11 "Surprise everyone who hears it": literally, "will make the ears of all who hear it tingle."

⁷ the Philistines were afraid. “A god has arrived in the camp,” they said. “We’re in trouble, for nothing like this has happened before.”

⁸ This is disaster for us! Who will save us from the power of these mighty gods? These are the gods who attacked the Egyptians with all kinds of plagues in the wilderness.

⁹ Be brave, and fight like real men, Philistines! Otherwise you’ll end up as slaves to the Israelites, just as they were your slaves. Now be real men and fight!”

¹⁰ So the Philistines fought, and the Israelites were defeated—every man ran away home. The death toll was very large: thirty thousand of the Israelite infantry were killed.

¹² A man from the tribe of Benjamin ran from the battle that day all the way to Shiloh. His clothes were torn and he had dirt on his head.*

¹³ When he arrived, Eli was sitting there on his chair by the road, watching out for news because he was worried about the Ark of God. When the man came into town and gave his report, the whole town cried out loud.

¹⁴ Eli heard the crying and asked, “What’s all this noise?” The man rushed over to Eli and told him what had happened.

¹⁵ Eli was ninety-eight years old, and his eyes were fixed because he couldn’t see.

¹⁶ “I’ve just come from the battle,” the man said. “I ran away from it today.”

“What happened, my son?” Eli asked.

¹⁷ “Israel ran away from the Philistines—we were badly defeated,” the messenger replied. “Also your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were killed, and the Ark of God has been captured.”

¹⁸ As soon as the Ark of God was mentioned, Eli fell backward from his chair by the town gate. Since he was old and heavy, he broke his neck and died. Eli had been Israel’s leader for forty years.

¹⁹ His daughter-in-law, Phinehas’ wife, was pregnant and about to give birth. When she heard the news that the Ark of God had been captured, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she went into labor and gave birth, but her labor pains were too strong.

²⁰ Just before she died, the women caring for her said, “Don’t give up—you have given birth to a son!” But she didn’t answer or give any response.

²² She said, “The glory has left Israel, for the Ark of God has been captured.”

5

² They brought the Ark of God into the Temple of Dagon and placed it next to Dagon.

* 4:12 “His clothes were torn and he had dirt on his head.” This was symbolic of great distress.

³ When the people of Ashdod got up early the next day, they saw Dagon had fallen on his face in front of the Ark of the Lord. So they took Dagon and set him back up.

⁴ When they got up early the next morning, they saw Dagon had fallen on his face in front of the Ark of the Lord, with his head and hands broken off lying on the doorstep. Only his body remained intact.

⁵ (That's why the priests of Dagon, and all who enter the temple of Dagon in Ashdod, don't tread on the doorstep, even up to now.)

⁶ The Lord punished* the people of Ashdod and its surrounding area, devastating them and plaguing them with swellings.†

⁷ When the people of Ashdod saw what was going on, they said, "We can't let the Ark of the God of Israel remain here with us, because he is punishing us and Dagon our god."

⁸ So they sent for all the Philistine rulers and asked them, "What should we do with the Ark of the God of Israel?"

"Take the Ark of the God of Israel to Gath," they replied. So they moved it to Gath.

⁹ But once they'd moved the Ark to Gath, the Lord also took action against that town, throwing it into great confusion and attacking the people of the town, young and old, with a plague of swellings.

¹⁰ So they sent the Ark of God to Ekron, but as soon as it arrived, the leaders of Ekron shouted, "They've moved the Ark of the God of Israel here to kill us and our people!"

¹¹ So they sent for all the Philistine rulers and said, "Send the Ark of the God of Israel away, back to where it came from, otherwise it's going to kill us and our people." People were dying throughout the town, creating terrible panic, for God's punishment was very hard.

¹² Those who didn't die were plagued with swellings, and the cry for help from the town reached up to heaven.

6

¹ After the Ark of the Lord had been in the country of the Philistines for seven months,

² the Philistines summoned the priests and fortune-tellers, and asked, "What should we do with the Ark of the Lord? Explain to us how to send it back to where it came from."

³ "If you're going to send back the Ark of the God of Israel, do not send it back empty-handedly, but make sure to send along with it a gift of a guilt offering to him," they replied. "Then you will be healed, and you will understand why he has treated you like this."

⁴ "What kind of guilt offering should we send back to him?" asked the Philistines. "Five gold objects in the shape of the swellings, and five gold rats representing the number of rulers of the Philistines," they replied. "The same plague attacked both you and your rulers."

⁵ Make models to represent your swellings and the rats destroying the country, and honor the God of Israel. Perhaps he will stop punishing you, your gods, and your land.

* 5:6 "The Lord punished": literally, "The hand of the Lord was heavy." † 5:6 Some think these "swellings" or "tumors" were related to bubonic plague. The Septuagint adds at the end of this verse, "and rats swarmed throughout the land, and there was death and destruction in the town."

⁷ So get a new cart ready, pulled by two milk cows that have never been yoked. Tie the cows to the cart, but take their calves away and put them in a stall.*

⁸ Pick up the Ark of the Lord, put it on the cart, and place the gold objects you are sending him as a guilt offering in a chest beside it. Then send the Ark away. Let it go whichever way it wants,

⁹ but keep watching it. If it goes up the road to its home country, to Beth-shemesh, then it is the Lord who caused all this terrible trouble for us. But if it doesn't, then we'll know that it wasn't him who punished us—it just happened to us by chance."

¹¹ They put the Ark of the Lord on the cart, together with the chest containing the gold rats and models of their swellings.

¹³ The people of Beth-shemesh were reaping wheat in the valley. When they looked up and saw the Ark, they were so happy to see it.

¹⁷ The five gold models of swellings sent by the Philistines as a guilt offering to the Lord were from the rulers of Ashdod, Gaza, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron.

¹⁹ But God killed some of the people of Beth-shemesh because they looked inside the Ark of the Lord. He killed seventy,[†] and the people mourned deeply because the Lord had killed so many.

²⁰ The people of Beth-shemesh asked, "Who can stand before the Lord, this holy God? Where should the Ark go from here?"

²¹ They sent messengers to the people of Kiriath-jearim to say, "The Philistines have returned the Ark of the Lord. Come down and take it home with you."

* 6:7 The purpose of this was to force the cows to do something unusual by voluntarily leaving their calves behind. In this way the people would be sure that this course of action had God's approval if he made it happen. [†] 6:19 Some manuscripts appear to read 50,070, but this is an improbably large figure for a small settlement.

7

² The Ark remained there in Kiriath-jearim from that day for a long time, in fact for twenty years. Everyone in Israel mourned and in repentance came back to the Lord.

³ Then Samuel said to all of Israel, "If you sincerely wish to come back to the Lord, then get rid of the foreign gods and the Ashtoreth images you have, and commit yourselves to the Lord and only worship him, and he will save you from the Philistines."

⁴ The people of Israel got rid of their Baals and Ashtoreth images and worshiped only the Lord.

⁵ Then Samuel said, "Have all the people of Israel gather at Mizpah, and I will pray to the Lord for you."

⁷ When the Philistines found out that the Israelites had gathered at Mizpah, their rulers led an attack on Israel. When the Israelites heard about this, they were terrified at what the Philistines might do.

⁹ Samuel took a young lamb and presented it as a whole burnt offering to the Lord. He cried out for help to the Lord for Israel, and the Lord responded.

¹⁰ While Samuel was presenting the burnt offering, the Philistines approached to attack Israel. But the Lord thundered extremely loudly against the Philistines that day, which totally confused them, and they were defeated as Israel watched.

¹¹ Then the men of Israel ran out from Mizpah and chased them, killing them all the way to a place near Beth-car.

¹² After this Samuel took a stone and placed it between Mizpah and Shen. He called it Ebenezer, saying, "The Lord helped us right up to here!"

¹³ In this way the Philistines were kept under control and did not invade Israel again. During Samuel's lifetime the Lord used his power against the Philistines.

¹⁴ The towns the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, all the way from Ekron to Gath, and Israel also liberated the neighboring territory from the hands of the Philistines. There was also peace between Israel and the Amorites.

¹⁶ Every year he went around, going to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah. At all these places he ruled Israel.

¹⁷ Then he would return to Ramah because that was where he lived. He ruled Israel from there, and also built an altar to the Lord.

* 7:6 Literally "judge," which was equivalent to "leader." Also verse 15.

8

² His first son was named Joel, and his second son was named Abijah. They were rulers in Beersheba.

³ However, his sons did not follow his ways. They were corrupt, making money by accepting bribes and perverting justice.

⁵ “Look here,” they told him, “you are old, and your sons do not follow your ways. Choose a king to rule over us like all the other nations.”

⁶ Samuel thought this was a bad idea when they said, “Give us a king to rule over us,” so he prayed to the Lord about it.

⁷ “Do what the people tell you,” the Lord said to Samuel, “because it’s not you they’re rejecting, but me as their king.”

⁸ They’re doing just as they have always done since I led them out of Egypt right up to now. They have abandoned me and worshiped other gods, and they’re doing just the same to you.

⁹ So do what they want, but give them a solemn warning—explain to them what a king will do when he rules over them.”

¹¹ “This is what a king will do when he rules over you,” he told them. “He will take your sons and make them serve as charioteers and horsemen, and to run as a guard in front of his chariot.

¹² Some of them he will make commanders of thousands and commanders of fifties, and some will have to plow his fields and reap his harvest. Some will be assigned to making weapons of war and chariot equipment.

¹⁴ He will take your best fields, vineyards, and olive groves and give them to his officials.

¹⁵ He will take a tenth of your grain harvest and the produce of your vineyards and allocate it to his chief officers and officials.

¹⁶ He will take your male servants and your female servants, and your best young men and your donkeys, and make them work for him.

¹⁸ On that day you will plead to be rescued from the king you have chosen, but the Lord won’t answer you then.”

¹⁹ But the people refused to listen to what Samuel said. “No!” they insisted. “We want our own king!”

²⁰ That way we can be like all the other nations. Our king will rule us, and will lead us when we go out to fight our battles.”

²² The Lord told Samuel, “Do what they say and give them a king.” Then Samuel told the Israelites, “Go back to your homes.”

* 8:1 Again the word used is “judges,” but in this period of Israel’s history before they had kings the judges did not only settle legal cases but acted as rulers.

¹ There was a wealthy and influential man from the tribe of Benjamin, whose name was Kish son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Bekorath, son of Aphiah, a descendant of Benjamin.

² Kish had a son called Saul, the most handsome young man in all of Israel. He was head and shoulders taller than anyone else.

³ One time the donkeys of Saul's father Kish went astray. Kish told to his son Saul, "Please go and look for the donkeys. You can take one of the servants with you."

⁴ Saul searched the hill country of Ephraim and then the land of Shalishah, but didn't find the donkeys. He and the servant searched the region of Shaalim, but they weren't there. Then they searched the land of Benjamin, and they still couldn't find them.

⁵ When they got to the land of Zuph, Saul told his servant, "Come on, let's go back, otherwise my father won't be worrying about the donkeys, but about us."

⁶ But the servant replied, "Hold on! There's a man of God here in this town. He's very well thought of, and everything he says comes true. Let's go and see him. Maybe he can tell us which way we should take."

⁷ "But if we do go, what can we give him?" Saul replied. "All the bread in our bags is gone. We don't have anything to take to the man of God. What do we have with us?"

⁸ "Look, I've got a quarter shekel of silver with me. I'll give it to the man of God so he can tell us the way we should take," the servant told Saul.

⁹ (In the old days in Israel, someone who went to inquire of God would say, "Come on, let's go to the seer," because prophets used to be known as seers.)

¹² "He is," they replied, "up ahead of you. But you'll have to hurry. He's come to town today because the people are having a sacrifice at the high place."

¹³ When you enter the town you can find him before he goes up to eat at the high place. The people won't eat before he comes, because he has to bless the sacrifice. After that, those who've been invited will eat. If you leave now you'll catch him."

¹⁴ So they carried on their way up to the town. As they arrived there was Samuel going in the opposite direction. They met him on his way up to the high place.

¹⁵ The day before Saul arrived, the Lord had told Samuel,

¹⁶ "Around this time tomorrow I'm going to send you a man from the land of Benjamin. Anoint him as ruler over my people Israel, and he will rescue them from the Philistines. I have seen what's happening to my people and I have heard their cry for help."

¹⁷ When Samuel saw Saul, the Lord said to him, "This is the man I told you about. He is the one who is going to rule my people."

¹⁸ Saul went up to Samuel in the gateway and asked him, "Could you please tell me where the house of the seer is?"

¹⁹ "I am the seer," Samuel told Saul. "Go up ahead of me and we will eat together. Then in the morning I will answer all your questions and then send you on your way."

²⁰ About the donkeys you lost three days ago—don't worry about them because they've been found. But now—doesn't the hope of all of Israel rest on you and your family line?"

²¹ "But I'm from the tribe of Benjamin, the smallest tribe in Israel, and my family is the least significant of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin!" Saul replied. "Why are you telling me this?"

²² Then Samuel brought Saul and his servant into the hall, and sat them at the head of the thirty people who'd been invited.

²³ Samuel told the cook, "Bring the special piece of meat I gave you and told you to keep to one side."

²⁴ So the cook took the upper thigh* of meat and what was with it and placed it before Saul. Then Samuel said, "See, this is what was kept to one side. It was reserved for you. Eat it, for it was kept for you for this particular time, right from when I said, 'I have invited the people.' " So Saul ate with Samuel that day.

²⁵ Once they had returned from the high place to the town, Samuel spoke with Saul on the roof of his house.†

²⁶ At dawn the next day Samuel called out to Saul on the roof, "Get up! I need to send you on your way!" So Saul got up, and he went outside with Samuel.

²⁷ As they approached the edge of town, Samuel said to Saul, "Tell your servant to go on ahead of us. Once he's gone stay here for a while, because I have a message from God to give you." So the servant went on ahead.

² When you leave me today, you will meet two men near Rachel's tomb in Zelzah, on the border of Benjamin. They will tell you that the donkeys you went to look for have been found.

Now your father isn't concerned about them but is worried about you. He's wondering, 'What about my son?'

³ You will leave there and go on to the oak at Tabor where you will meet three men on their way to worship God at Bethel. One will be carrying three young goats, one will be carrying three loaves of bread, and one will be carrying a skin of wine.

⁵ Next you will come to Gibeah of God, where the Philistines have a garrison. As you come into town, you will meet a procession of prophets

* 9:24 Saul was given the meat that only priests were meant to eat. See Leviticus 10:14-15. † 9:25 In the absence of other rooms, the flat roof of the house was used as temporary accommodation.

* 10:1 This line is given in the form of a question, but is better translated as a statement, since a question can imply uncertainty. † 10:4 Literally, "shalom," the usual greeting of the time.

coming down from the high place led by harps, tambourines, flutes, and lyres, and they will be prophesying.

⁶ The Spirit of the Lord will come on you with power. You will prophesy with them, and you will become a different man.

⁷ After these signs have happened, do what you need to do, for God is with you.

⁸ Then go ahead of me to Gilgal. I assure you I will come and join you to present burnt offerings and friendship offerings. Wait there seven days until I come to you, and let you know what you should do."

¹⁰ When Saul and his servant arrived in Gibeah, there was a procession of prophets coming out to meet them, the Spirit of God came on Saul with power, and he also started to prophesy with them.

¹¹ Everyone who had used to know Saul and saw him prophesying with the prophets said to each other, "What's going on with the son of Kish? Is Saul one of the prophets too?"

¹² A man living there responded, "But who is their father?"[§] So it became a saying: "Is Saul one of the prophets too?"

¹³ After Saul had finished prophesying, he went to the high place.

¹⁴ Saul's uncle asked Saul and his servant, "Where have you been?"

"We were looking for the donkeys," Saul replied. "When we couldn't find them we went to Samuel."

¹⁵ "Please tell me what he said to you," Saul's uncle asked.

¹⁷ Samuel called the people of Israel to come before the Lord at Mizpah.

¹⁸ He told the Israelites, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: I led Israel out of Egypt, and I saved you from the Egyptians and from all the kingdoms that were oppressing you.

¹⁹ But now you have rejected your God, the one who saves you from all your troubles and disasters. You told him, 'You must appoint a king to rule us.' So now present yourselves before the Lord by your tribes and family groups."

²⁰ Samuel had all Israel come forward by tribes, and the tribe of Benjamin was chosen by lot.

²¹ Then he had the tribe of Benjamin come forward by its family groups, and the family group of Matri was chosen. Lastly, Saul, son of Kish, was chosen. But when they looked for him, he couldn't be found.

²² So they asked the Lord, "Has he arrived here yet?"

²³ They ran and brought Saul over. When he stood among the people, he was head and shoulders taller than anyone else.

²⁴ Samuel said to everyone, "Can you see the one the Lord has chosen? There's no one like him anywhere!"

[‡] 10:9 "Different way of thinking": literally "turned another heart to him." Since in Hebrew the heart was where thinking occurred, this relates to the mind. In many ways this corresponds to the Greek concept of a "mind change," which is the real meaning of conversion. So in a sense Saul could be said to have been "converted" at that point. [§] 10:12 In other words, the prophetic gift is not dependent on genealogy.

All the people shouted, "Long live the king!"

²⁵ Then Samuel explained to the people all that a king would do. He wrote it down on a scroll and placed it before the Lord. Then Samuel sent everyone home.

²⁷ But some obnoxious men asked, "How could this man save us?" They hated him and didn't bring him any gifts; but Saul did not retaliate.*

11

¹ Nahash the Ammonite came with his army* and besieged Jabesh-gilead. All the people of Jabesh said to him, "Make a peace treaty with us, and we will be your subjects."

² But Nahash the Ammonite responded, "I'll make a peace treaty with you on one condition: that I gouge out everyone's right eye to bring shame on all Israelites."

³ "Let us have seven days so we can send messengers all over Israel," replied the town elders of Jabesh. "If no one comes to help us, we will surrender to you."

⁴ When the messengers arrived in Gibeah of Saul and gave the message as the people listened, they all wept out loud.

⁵ Right then Saul was coming back from ploughing a field with his oxen. "Why is everyone so upset?" he asked. They told him what the men from Jabesh had said.

⁶ The Spirit of God came on Saul in power when he heard about this, and he grew very angry.

⁷ He took a pair of oxen and cut them into pieces. Then he sent them by messenger to every part of Israel with the message, "This is what will happen to the oxen of anyone who does not follow Saul and Samuel." The Lord made the people anxious† to do so, and they came out as one.

⁸ When Saul counted them at Bezek, there were 300,000 men from Israel and 30,000 men from Judah.

⁹ They said to the messengers who came, "Tell the men of Jabesh Gilead, 'Tomorrow you'll be rescued, by the time the sun is hot.' " The people of Jabesh were so happy when the messengers arrived and told them this.

¹⁰ They told the Ammonites, "We will surrender to you tomorrow, and then you can do to us whatever you want."

¹¹ The next day Saul organized the army into three divisions. They attacked the Ammonite camp before dawn and went on killing them until

* 10:27 In the traditional Hebrew text the chapter finishes here. However, in one scroll found at Qumran there is the following additional information which relates to the following chapter and is included here for interest. "Nahash, king of the Ammonites, had been severely oppressing the people of Gad and Reuben. He would gouge out their right eyes and would not let anyone help them. There wasn't anyone left of the Israelites across the Jordan whose right eye Nahash, king of the Ammonites, hadn't gouged out. However, there were seven thousand men who had escaped from the Ammonites and had gone to live in Jabesh-gilead." * 11:1 "With his army": added for clarity.

† 11:7 "The Lord made the people anxious": literally "The fear of the Lord fell on the people." This could be interpreted either as the Lord being the source of the fear, or the object of fear. In any case the result is that the people support Saul.

the day grew hot. The survivors were so scattered that not even two of them were left together.

¹² Then the people asked Samuel, "Who was saying, 'Why should we have Saul as our king?' Hand these men over so we can execute them."

¹⁴ Then Samuel said to the people, "Come with me—let's go to Gilgal and renew the kingdom."

¹⁵ Everyone went to Gilgal and confirmed Saul as king before the Lord. They sacrificed friendship offerings to the Lord, and Saul together with all the Israelites had a great celebration.

¹ Then Samuel said to all of Israel, "I have paid attention to everything you asked from me, and I have given you a king to rule over you.

² Now your king is your leader. I am old and gray, and my sons are here with you. I have led you from the time I was a boy up to today.

³ I stand here before you. Bring any charges you have against me in the presence of the Lord and of his anointed one.* Have I taken anyone's ox or donkey? Have I wronged anyone? Have I oppressed anyone? Have I accepted a bribe from anyone to turn a blind eye? Tell me, and I will repay you."

⁵ Samuel told them, "The Lord is a witness, and his anointed is a witness today, in this case involving you, that you have not found me guilty of anything."[†]

"He is a witness," they replied.

⁶ "The Lord is a witness,‡ he who appointed Moses and Aaron," Samuel went on. "He led your forefathers out of the land of Egypt.

⁷ So stand here as I present to you in the presence of the Lord the evidence of all the good things the Lord has done for you and your forefathers.

⁹ But they forgot about the Lord their God, so he abandoned them to Sisera, the commander of the army of Hazor, to the Philistines, and to the king of Moab, who attacked them.

¹⁰ They cried out to the Lord for help and said, 'We have sinned, for we have rejected the Lord and worshiped the Baals and Ashtoreths. Please save us from the hands of our enemies, and we will worship you.'

¹¹ Then the Lord sent Gideon,§ Barak,* Jephthah and Samuel, and he saved you from your enemies who surrounded you so you could live in safety.

* 12:3 "Anointed one": referring to the king. † 12:5 "Not found me guilty of anything": literally, "you have not found anything in my hand." ‡ 12:6 Septuagint reading. § 12:11 "Gideon": Here called "Jerub-Baal." * 12:11 Septuagint and Syriac reading. The Hebrew has "Bedan."

¹² But when you saw that Nahash, king of the Ammonites, was coming to attack you, you told me, 'No, we want our own king,' even though the Lord your God was your king.

¹³ So here's the king you have chosen, the one you asked for. Look—the Lord now gives him to you as your king!

¹⁴ If you honor the Lord, worship him, do what he tells you, and don't rebel against the Lord's instructions, and if both you and your king follow the Lord your God, then good!

¹⁵ However, if you refuse to do what he tells you, and rebel against the Lord's instructions, then the Lord will be against you as he was against your forefathers.

¹⁷ Isn't it the time of wheat harvest?† Well, I will ask the Lord to send thunder and rain. Then you will realize how very evil you were in the Lord's sight when you demanded your own king."

¹⁸ Then Samuel prayed to the Lord, and that very day the Lord sent thunder and rain. Everyone was in absolute awe of the Lord and of Samuel.

¹⁹ "Please pray to the Lord your God for us your servants, so we will not die!" they begged Samuel. "For we have added to all our sins the evil of asking for our own king."

²⁰ "Don't be afraid," Samuel replied. "Even though you have indeed done all these evil things, don't give up following the Lord, but dedicate yourselves completely to worshipping him.

²¹ Don't worship worthless idols that can't help you or save you, for they are nothing.

²² The fact is because of the kind of person the Lord is, he won't give up on his people, because he was happy to claim you as his own.

²³ As for me, how could I sin against the Lord by no longer praying for you. I will also continue to teach you the way of goodness and right.

²⁴ Make sure you honor God and worship him faithfully, with complete dedication. Think of all the tremendous things he has done for you.

²⁵ But if you continue to do what is evil, you and your king will be wiped out."

¹ Saul was thirty when he became king, and he reigned over Israel for forty-two years.

² Saul had chosen three thousand men of Israel. Two thousand of them were with Saul in Michmash and the hill country of Bethel, and another thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin. He sent the rest of the army home.

³ Jonathan attacked the Philistine garrison at Geba. The Philistines soon heard about it, so Saul had the trumpet call to arms sounded throughout the land, saying, "Hebrews,* pay attention!"

† 12:17 Rain did not usually occur at this time. * 13:3 "Hebrews": the term is the name given by others to the Israelites, and so used here reminds the Israelites they are dominated by other nations. Some have even suggested that the term was used for Israelites who were slaves to foreigners.

⁴ All of Israel heard the news, "Saul has attacked the Philistine garrison, and now Israel is like a bad smell to the Philistines!" So the whole army was called up to join Saul at Gilgal.

⁶ When the Israelite men realized the tough situation they were in, and that the army was taking a beating, they hid themselves in caves, holes, rocks, pits, and cisterns.

⁷ Some of the Hebrews even crossed the Jordan into the territory of Gad and Gilead, but Saul stayed at Gilgal, and all the men with him were trembling with fear.

⁸ Saul waited there seven days for the time that Samuel had said, but Samuel did not arrive at Gilgal, and the army started to desert him.

¹¹ "What have you done?" Samuel asked.

Saul replied, "Well I saw my men were deserting me, and you hadn't arrived when you said you would, and the Philistines were gathering at Michmash to attack.

¹² I said to myself, 'The Philistines are about to attack me at Gilgal, and I haven't asked the Lord for his help.' So I felt I had to present the burnt offering myself."

¹³ "You've been really stupid," Samuel told him. "You haven't kept the commands of the Lord your God. If you had, the Lord would have made your kingdom over Israel secure forever.

¹⁴ But now your kingdom won't last. The Lord has found for himself a man who thinks like him, and has chosen him as ruler over his people, because you haven't kept the commands of the Lord."

¹⁵ Then Samuel left Gilgal. The rest of the soldiers followed Saul to meet the army, going from Gilgal to Geba in Benjamin.[‡] Saul counted the number of soldiers who were with him and there were about six hundred.

¹⁶ Saul, his son Jonathan, and the soldiers with them were staying in Geba of Benjamin, while the Philistines were camped at Michmash.

¹⁷ Three groups of raiders left the Philistine camp to go and attack. One group went towards Ophrah in the land of Shual, ¹⁸ one towards Beth-horon, and one towards the border that looks down on the Valley of Zeboim by the wilderness.

²⁰ All the Israelites had to go to the Philistines to sharpen their iron plowshares, pickaxes, axes, and sickles.

²¹ The fee was two-thirds of a shekel[§] for plowshares and pickaxes, and a third of a shekel for sharpening the axes and cattle prods.

[†] 13:5 The Hebrew text reads "30,000" which seems excessive. The Lucian version of the Septuagint and the Syriac read 3,000. [‡] 13:15 One section of this verse is missing in the Hebrew text, probably due to a copyist's mistake, and the Septuagint is followed here. [§] 13:21 "Two-thirds of a shekel": literally "one pum."

²² So when it came to the day of battle none of the soldiers with Saul and Jonathan had swords or spears—only Saul and his son Jonathan had such weapons.

¹ One day Jonathan, son of Saul, said to the young armor-bearer, “Come on, let’s cross over to the Philistine garrison on the other side.” But he didn’t let his father know his plans.

² Saul was staying near Gibeah under a pomegranate tree* in Migron. He had about six hundred men with him,

³ including Ahijah, who was wearing an ephod.† He was a son of Ichabod’s brother Ahitub, son of Phinehas, son of Eli, priest of the Lord in Shiloh. No one realized Jonathan had left.

⁴ Cliffs stood on both sides of the pass that Jonathan planned to cross to reach the Philistine garrison, one called Bozez and the other Seneh.

⁵ The cliff to the north was on the Michmash side, the one to the south on the Geba side.

⁶ Jonathan said to the young armor-bearer, “Come on, let’s cross over to the garrison of these heathen‡ men. Maybe the Lord will help us out. It’s not a problem for the Lord to win, whether by many or by few.”

⁷ “You choose what you want to do,” the armor-bearer replied. “I’m with you whatever you decide!”

⁸ “Let’s go then!” Jonathan said. “We’ll cross over in their direction so they can see us.

⁹ If they tell us, ‘Wait there until we come down to you,’ we will wait where we are and we won’t go up to them.

¹⁰ But if they say, ‘Come on up to us,’ we’ll climb up, for that will be the sign that the Lord has handed them over to us.”

¹¹ So both of them let themselves be seen by Philistine garrison. “Hey, look!” shouted the Philistines. “The Hebrews are coming out of the holes§ they were hiding in.”

¹² The men from the garrison called down to Jonathan and his armor-bearer, “Come up here, and we’ll teach you a thing or two!”

“Follow me up,” Jonathan told his armor-bearer, “for the Lord has handed them over to Israel.”

¹⁴ In this first attack, Jonathan and his armor-bearer killed about twenty men over an area of half an acre.

¹⁵ Then Philistines went into a panic, in the camp, in the field, and throughout their army. Even those in the outposts and the groups of raiders became terrified. The earth shook—this was a panic from God.

* 13:23 This verse is better taken with the following chapter. * 14:2 “A pomegranate tree”: or “the Rock of Rimmon.” † 14:3 “Ephod”: a priestly garment. ‡ 14:6 “Heathen”: literally, “uncircumcised.” § 14:11 “Holes”: the word is often used to describe burrows where animals live. * 14:13 “Jonathan attacked and killed them”: literally, “they fell before Jonathan.”

¹⁶ Saul's lookouts at Gibeah in Benjamin saw the Philistine army melting away, scattering in all directions.

¹⁷ Saul told the soldiers with him, "Do a roll-call and find out who isn't here with us." When they did the roll-call, they discovered that Jonathan and his armor-bearer weren't there.

¹⁸ Saul said to Ahijah, "Bring the Ark of God here." (At the time the Ark of God traveled with the Israelites.)

¹⁹ But as Saul was speaking to the priest, the commotion coming from the Philistine camp grew louder and louder. So Saul told the priest, "Forget it!"[†]

²¹ The Hebrews who had previously sided with the Philistines, and who were with them in their camp, switched sides and joined the Israelites who were with Saul and Jonathan.

²² When all the Israelites who had been hiding in the hill country of Ephraim heard that the Philistines were running away, they also joined in chasing after the Philistines to attack them.

²³ On that day the Lord saved Israel, and the battle extended past Beth-aven.[‡]

²⁴ It was difficult for the men of Israel that day because Saul had ordered the army to take an oath, saying, "Cursed is anyone who eats anything before evening, before I have avenged myself on my enemies." So no one in the army had eaten anything.

²⁵ When they all entered the forest they found honeycomb on the ground.

²⁷ But Jonathan hadn't heard that his father had ordered the army to take this oath. So he stuck the end of his stick into the honeycomb, picked up a piece to eat, and he felt much better.[§]

²⁸ But one of the soldiers told him, "Your father made the army take a solemn oath, saying, 'Cursed is anyone who eats anything today!' That is why the men are exhausted."

²⁹ "My father has caused a whole lot of trouble for everyone,"* Jonathan replied. "See how well I am because I've eaten a little of this honey.

³⁰ It would have been so much better if only the army had eaten plenty today from the plunder taken from their enemies! How many more Philistines would have been killed?"

³¹ After defeating the Philistines that day, killing them from Michmash to Aijalon, the Israelites were totally exhausted.

[†] 14:19 "Forget it!": literally, "Take away your hand." The priest was about to try and determine the Lord's will regarding an attack on the Philistines, perhaps by consulting the Urim and the Thummin on the ephod or through the use of the Ark of God in some way. Whatever the case, Saul countermanded his previous order for divine guidance by telling the priest to stop whatever he was about to do. [‡] 14:23 The Septuagint adds the following at this point: "and the army with Saul numbered around ten thousand men. The battle extended across the hill country of Ephraim." [§] 14:27 "He felt much better": literally, "his eyes brightened." Also in verse 29.

* 14:29 "Everyone": literally, "the land."

32 They grabbed the plunder, taking sheep, cattle, and calves, and slaughtered them right there on the ground. But they ate them with the blood.

33 Saul was told, "Look, the men are sinning against the Lord by eating meat with the blood."

34 Then he said, "Go around the soldiers and tell them, 'Every man must bring me his cattle or his sheep and slaughter them here, and then eat. Don't sin against the Lord by eating meat with the blood.' " Everyone in the army brought what he had[†] and slaughtered it there that night.

35 So Saul built an altar to the Lord. This was the first altar he had built to the Lord.

36 Saul said, "Let's go and chase down the Philistines during night and plunder them till dawn, leaving no survivors."

"Do what you think best," they replied. But the priest said, "Let's ask God first."

37 Saul asked God, "Shall I go down and chase down the Philistines? Will you hand them over to Israel?" But that day God didn't answer him.

38 So Saul gave the order, "All you army commanders, come here so we can investigate what sin has happened today.

39 I swear on the life of the Lord who saves Israel, that even if it's my son Jonathan, he will have to die!" But no one of the whole army said anything.

40 Saul told them all, "You stand over to one side, and I and my son Jonathan will stand on the opposite side."

"Do what you think best," the army replied.

41 Saul prayed to the Lord, the God of Israel, "Let the Thummin show."[‡] Jonathan and Saul were identified, while everyone else was cleared.

42 Then Saul said, "Cast lots between me and my son Jonathan." Jonathan was selected.

43 "Tell me what you have done," Saul asked Jonathan.

"I just tasted a little honey with the end of my stick," Jonathan told him. "Here I am, and I have to die."

44 Saul said, "May God punish me very severely if you do not die, Jonathan!"

45 But the people told Saul, "Does Jonathan have to die, the one who achieved this great victory in Israel? Absolutely not! We swear on the life of the Lord, not a single hair of his head will fall to the ground, for it was with God's help that he achieved this today." The people saved Jonathan, and he didn't die.

46 Saul stopped chasing down the Philistines, and the Philistines went to their own country.

47 After Saul had made his hold over Israel secure, he fought against all his enemies all around: Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, the kings of Zobah, and the Philistines. Whatever direction he went he defeated them all.

48 He fought bravely, conquering the Amalekites, saving Israel from those who plundered them.

[†] 14:34 "What he had": Septuagint reading. [‡] 14:41 In other words, let the Thummin show who is the guilty party.

⁴⁹ Saul's sons were Jonathan, Ishvi,[§] and Malchishua. The names of his two daughters were Merab, (the firstborn), and Michal, (the younger one).

⁵⁰ The name of his wife was Ahinoam, daughter of Ahimaaz. The name of Saul's army commander was Abner, son of Ner, and Ner was Saul's uncle.

⁵² Throughout Saul's lifetime there was constant war with the Philistines. Saul recruited into his army every strong warrior and every brave fighter that he met.

15

¹ Samuel told Saul, "The Lord sent me to anoint you king of his people Israel. So now pay attention to what the Lord has to say.

² This is what the Lord Almighty says: I observed what the Amalekites did to Israel when they ambushed them on their way from Egypt.

³ Go and attack the Amalekites and exterminate all of them. Don't spare anyone, but kill every man, woman, child, and baby; every ox, sheep, camel, and donkey."

⁴ Saul called up his army at Telem.* There were 200,000 Israelite infantry and 10,000 men from Judah.

⁵ Saul advanced on the town of Amalek and set up an ambush in the valley.

⁶ Saul sent a message to warn the Kenites, "Move out of the area and leave the Amalekites so that I don't destroy you with them, because you showed kindness to all the people of Israel on their way from Egypt." So the Kenites moved away and left the Amalekites.

⁷ Saul defeated the Amalekites from Havilah as far as Shur, to the east of Egypt.

⁸ He captured Agag, king of Amalek, alive, but exterminated all the people by the sword.

⁹ Saul and his army spared Agag, together with the best sheep and cattle, the fat calves and lambs, and everything else that was any good. They didn't want to destroy those, but they completely destroyed all that was unwanted and worthless.

¹⁰ The Lord sent a message to Samuel, saying,

¹¹ "I'm sorry I made Saul king, for he has given up following me and hasn't done as I ordered." Samuel was upset, and he cried out to the Lord all through the night.

¹³ When Samuel caught up with him, Saul said, "The Lord bless you! I have done what the Lord ordered."

¹⁴ "So what's this bleating of sheep my ears are picking up? What's this lowing of cattle that I'm hearing?" Samuel asked.

¹⁵ "The army brought them from the Amalekites," Saul replied. "They spared the best sheep and cattle to sacrifice to the Lord your God, but we completely destroyed the rest."

¹⁶ "Oh, be quiet!" Samuel told Saul. "Let me tell you what the Lord told me last night."

[§] 14:49 Also called Ishbosheth.

* 15:4 Here spelled Telaim, but thought to be the same town called Telem in Joshua 15:24.

"Tell me what he said," Saul replied.

17 "Once you didn't use to think much of yourself, but haven't you become the leader of the tribes of Israel?" Samuel asked. "The Lord anointed you king of Israel.

18 Then he sent you out to do something, telling you, 'Go and exterminate those sinners, the Amalekites. Attack them until they're all destroyed.'

19 Why didn't you do what the Lord ordered? Why did you swoop down on the plunder and do what was evil in the Lord's sight?"

20 "But I did do what the Lord ordered!" Saul replied. "I went and did what the Lord sent me to do. I brought back Agag, king of Amalek, and completely destroyed the Amalekites.

21 The army took sheep and cattle from the plunder, the best of what was consecrated to God, to sacrifice them to the Lord your God in Gilgal."

22 "Does the Lord prefer burnt offerings and sacrifices, or obedience to what he says?" Samuel asked. "Listen! Obedience is better than sacrifice. Paying attention is more important than offering the fat of rams.

23 Rebellion is as bad as witchcraft, and arrogance is as bad as the sin of idolatry. Because you have rejected the Lord's commands, he has rejected you as king."

24 "I have sinned," Saul confessed to Samuel. "I disobeyed the Lord's orders and your instructions, because I was afraid of the people and followed what they said.

25 So please forgive my sin and come back with me, so I can worship the Lord."

26 But Samuel told him, "I'm not going back with you. You have rejected the Lord's orders, and the Lord has rejected you as king of Israel!"

27 As Samuel turned away to leave, Saul grabbed hold of the hem of his robe, and it ripped.

28 Samuel said to him, "The Lord has ripped the kingdom of Israel away from you today and has given it to your neighbor—someone who is better than you!

29 In addition, the Glory of Israel does not lie or change his mind, for he is not a human being who changes his mind!"

30 "Yes, I have sinned," Saul replied. "Please honor me now before the elders of my people and before Israel—come back with me, so that I may worship the Lord your God."

31 So Samuel went back with Saul after all, and Saul worshiped the Lord.

32 Then Samuel said, "Bring me Agag, king of the Amalekites." Agag came to him confidently, for he thought, "The threat of death of being killed must have passed."

33 But Samuel said, "In the same way that your sword has made women childless, so too your mother will be childless among women." Samuel cut Agag to pieces before the Lord at Gilgal.

34 Samuel left for Ramah, and Saul went home to Gibeath of Saul.

35 Until the day of his death, Samuel never visited Saul again. Samuel mourned over Saul, and the Lord regretted he had made Saul the king of Israel.

16

¹ The Lord asked Samuel, “How long are you going to continue to mourn over Saul because I have rejected him as king of Israel? Fill your flask* with olive oil and go. I’m sending you to Jesse of Bethlehem, for I have chosen a king for myself from among his sons.”

² “How can I go and do that?” Samuel asked. “Saul will hear about it and kill me!”

The Lord answered, “Take a young cow with you and say, ‘I’ve come to sacrifice to the Lord.’”

³ Invite Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will show you what you have to do. Anoint for me the one I tell you to.”

⁴ Samuel did what the Lord had told him to and went to Bethlehem. When the town elders met him, they were afraid and asked him, “Do you come in peace?”

⁵ “Yes, I come in peace,” he replied. “I have come to sacrifice to the Lord. Purify yourselves and come with me to the sacrifice.” He purified Jesse and his sons and invited them to the sacrifice.

⁶ When they arrived and Samuel saw Eliab, he said to himself, “This has got to be the Lord’s anointed!”

⁷ But the Lord said to Samuel, “Don’t look at his outward appearance or how tall he is because I have rejected him, for the Lord does not look as human beings do. Human beings only see with their eyes what’s on the outside, but the Lord looks at the way people think deep inside.”

⁸ Then Jesse called Abinadab and had him come before Samuel, who said, “The Lord hasn’t chosen this one either.”

⁹ Then Jesse had Shammah come forward. But Samuel said, “The Lord hasn’t chosen this one either.”

¹⁰ Jesse had seven of his sons come before Samuel, but Samuel told him, “The Lord has not chosen any of these.”

¹¹ So he asked Jesse, “Don’t you have any more sons?”

“Well, there’s still the youngest,” Jesse replied, “but he is out looking after the sheep.”

“Send for him and bring him here because we will not sit down and eat† until he gets here,” Samuel told Jesse.

¹² So Jesse sent for him and brought him in. He had a red complexion with beautiful eyes, and looked handsome. The Lord said, “Go and anoint him, for he’s the one.”

¹³ Samuel took the flask of olive oil and anointed him in the presence of his brothers, and the Spirit of the Lord came on David in power from that day on. Then Samuel left and returned to Ramah.

¹⁵ Saul’s servants told him, “It’s definitely an evil spirit from God that’s tormenting you.”

* 16:1 “Flask”: literally, “horn.” † 16:11 “Sit down and eat”: literally, “surround.” This is usually thought to mean to surround a table before sitting down, but it could also mean to “surround” an altar, i.e. the beginning of the sacrificial rituals. ‡ 16:14 As in other parts of Scripture, God is sometimes presented as doing something he does not actually prevent. The removal of the Spirit of the Lord left Saul open to control by another spirit. The way the servants react shows that this was a common view of the time—God is given responsibility for Saul’s problems.

¹⁶ Give us your servants here the order to find someone who is good at playing the harp so that when the evil spirit from God comes on you, he can play and you'll feel much better."

¹⁷ Saul gave the order to his servants, "Find me someone who is good at playing the harp and bring him to me."

¹⁸ One of the servants replied, "I know a son of Jesse of Bethlehem who is good at playing the harp. He is a brave man, a good fighter, well-spoken and handsome, and the Lord is with him."

¹⁹ Saul sent messengers to Jesse, telling him, "Send me your son David who takes care of the sheep."

²⁰ So Jesse loaded a donkey with bread, a skin of wine, and a young goat and sent them with his son David to Saul.

²³ So whenever the spirit from God came on Saul, David would take his harp and play, and Saul would gain relief and feel better, and the evil spirit would leave him.

² Saul and the Israelites gathered and camped in the Valley of Elah and took up their positions to engage in battle with the Philistines.

³ The Philistines were on one hill and the Israelites on another with the valley between them.

⁴ Then a champion* came out of the Philistine camp. His name was Goliath from Gath, and he was six cubits and a span tall.†

⁵ He had on his head a bronze helmet and he wore a bronze coat of mail weighing five thousand shekels.

⁷ The shaft of his spear was as thick as weaver's beam, with an iron tip that weighed six hundred shekels. His shield-bearer walked ahead of him carrying his shield.§

⁸ Goliath stood and shouted at the lines of Israelite soldiers, "Why have you come and lined for battle? I am the Philistine, and you're Saul's servants. Pick one of your men and have him come down and fight me.

⁹ If he can fight me and kill me, then we will be your slaves. But if I beat him and kill him, then you'll be our slaves and work for us."

¹⁰ Then the Philistine said, "I mock the battle lines of Israel today! Give me a man so we can fight each other!"

* 17:4 "Champion": literally "a man of the space between." This is usually taken to mean a champion who will fight another in a kind of proxy battle but its precise meaning is uncertain as it only occurs here and in verse 23 in the whole of the Old Testament. † 17:4 "Six cubits and a span tall." This is equivalent to around nine and a half feet. The Septuagint and a manuscript from Qumran have four cubits and a span, equivalent to six and a half feet. ‡ 17:6 "Javelin": some believe this was more likely a curved sword or scimitar, and certainly a sword is referenced in verse 51. § 17:7 "Carrying his shield": added for clarity.

¹¹ Saul and all the Israelite soldiers were shattered and absolutely terrified when they heard what the Philistine said.

¹² David was the son of a man named Jesse. He was an Ephrathite from Bethlehem of Judah who had eight sons. At the time Saul was king, Jesse was very old.

¹³ Jesse's three oldest sons had joined Saul's army war. These were Eliab (the firstborn), Abinadab (second), and Shammah (third).

¹⁴ David was the youngest. The three oldest were with Saul,

¹⁵ while David went to Saul and then back again to look after his father's sheep.

¹⁶ Every morning and evening for forty days the Philistine came out to take his stand.

¹⁷ Jesse told his son David, "Please take your brothers this ephah of roasted grain and these ten loaves of bread for your brothers. Take them quickly to your brothers' camp.

¹⁸ Take these ten cheese pieces to their commander. Check carefully to see how your brothers are doing and bring back their news."

¹⁹ They were with Saul and the whole Israelite army in the Valley of Elah, fighting the Philistines.

²⁰ David got up early in the morning and left the flock with a shepherd. He took the supplies and set out as Jesse had told him to. He arrived at the camp just as the army was marching out to its battle line, shouting the war cry.

²² David left his supplies with the one responsible and ran to the battle line. When he got there he asked his brothers how they were.

²⁴ All the Israelite soldiers ran away when they saw him because they were terribly afraid.

²⁵ "Have you seen this man who keeps on coming out to mock Israel?" they asked. "The king will make the man who kills him really rich. He will also give him his daughter in marriage, and his family will live tax-free in Israel."

²⁶ David asked the men who were standing beside him, "What will the man receive who kills this Philistine and removes this shame from Israel? Who does this heathen* Philistine think he is, mocking the armies of the living God?"

²⁷ The soldiers repeated what they had said, telling him, "This is what the man who kills him will receive."

²⁸ When David's oldest brother Eliab heard him talking with the men, he got angry with him. "What are you doing here?" he asked. "Who have you left those few sheep with in the wilderness? I know how proud and wicked you are! You've just come to watch the battle!"

²⁹ "What have I done now?" David asked. "Can't I even ask a question?"

³⁰ He went over to some others and asked the same question, and they gave the same answer as before.

* 17:26 "Heathen": literally, "uncircumcised." Also verse 36.

³¹ Someone overheard what David said and reported it to Saul who sent for him.

³² David told Saul, "No one should lose heart because of this Philistine. I, your servant, will go and fight him!"

³⁴ David replied, "Your servant has been looking after his father's sheep. When a lion or a bear came and took a lamb from the flock, ³⁵ I would chase after it, knock it down, and save the lamb from its mouth. If it turned to attack me, I would grab its hair, hit it, and kill it.

³⁶ I have killed lions and bears, and this heathen Philistine will be just like one of them, for he has mocked the armies of the living God."

³⁷ David concluded, "The Lord who saved me from the claws of the lion and the bear will save me from this Philistine."

"Go, and may the Lord be with you," Saul responded.

³⁹ David strapped his sword on over the armor but he couldn't walk because he wasn't used to it.

"I can't walk in all this," David told Saul. "I 'm not used to it." So David took all the armor off.

⁴⁰ He picked up his stick, chose five smooth stones from the stream, and put them in his shepherd's bag. Carrying his sling in his hand, he approached the Philistine.

⁴³ "Do you think I'm a dog, coming to fight me with a stick?" the Philistine asked David, and he cursed David by his gods.

⁴⁵ David replied to the Philistine, "You come to attack me with a sword, a spear, and a javelin. But I come to attack you in the name of the Lord Almighty, the God of the armies of Israel—the one you have mocked.

⁴⁶ Today the Lord will hand you over to me, and I will strike you down, cut off your head, and give the dead bodies of the Philistine soldiers to the birds and the wild animals. Then all the world will know that there is a God who acts for Israel.

⁴⁷ Everyone gathered here will realize that the Lord saves, but not with sword and spear. For the battle is the Lord's, and he will hand all of you over to us."

⁴⁸ As the Philistine moved forward to attack him, David raced toward the battle line to confront him.

⁴⁹ David reached into his bag, took out a stone, and fired it from his sling, hitting the Philistine on the forehead. The stone went into his forehead, and he collapsed facedown on the ground.

⁵⁰ This is how David defeated the Philistine with just a sling and a stone; with no sword in his hand David knocked the Philistine down and killed him.

⁵¹ David ran and stood over the Philistine. He took the Philistine's sword and pulled it out of its sheath. He killed him and then he cut off his head with the sword. When the Philistines saw that their champion was dead, they turned and ran away.

⁵² Then the men of Israel and Judah rushed forward shouting the war-cry and chased the Philistines all the way to Gath and to the gates of Ekron. Their bodies were scattered along the Shaaraim road to Gath and Ekron.

⁵⁴ David took the Philistine's head and brought it to Jerusalem, but he put the Philistine's weapons in his own tent.

⁵⁵ When Saul had watched David going out to fight the Philistine, he'd asked Abner the army commander, "Abner, whose son is that young man?"

"On your life, Your Majesty, I do not know," Abner replied.

⁵⁷ As soon as David returned from killing the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul. David was still clutching the Philistine's head in his hand.

⁵⁸ "Whose son are you, young man?" Saul asked.

"I am the son of your servant Jesse of Bethlehem," David replied.

18

² From that time on Jonathan had David work for him and would not let him go back home.

³ Jonathan made a solemn agreement with David because he loved him as he loved himself.

⁵ David was successful in doing everything Saul asked him to do, so Saul made him an officer in the army. This pleased everyone, including Saul's other officers.

⁸ What they were singing made Saul very angry as he didn't think it was right. He said to himself, "They've given David credit for killing tens of thousands, but only thousands to me. All that's left is to give him the kingdom!"

¹⁰ The following day an evil spirit from God came on Saul with power, and he was ranting† inside the house while David played the harp as he regularly did. Saul happened to be holding a spear, ¹¹ and he threw it at David, saying to himself, "I'll pin David to the wall." But David managed to escape him twice.

* 18:4 These actions were a way of confirming the agreement. † 18:10 "Ranting": the word is normally translated "prophesying," (see for example 10:10 when it is applied to Saul), but the main function of a true prophet of God was to deliver messages from God. That the source was "an evil spirit" does not fit such a picture, even if the evil spirit "came from God."

¹² Saul was afraid of David, because the Lord was with David, but he had given up on Saul.

¹³ So Saul sent David away and made him a commander of a thousand soldiers, leading them out and back as part of the army.

¹⁵ When Saul saw how successful David was, he was even more afraid of him.

¹⁶ But everyone in Israel and Judah loved David, because of his leadership in the army.

¹⁷ One day Saul told David, "Here's my oldest daughter Merab. I will give her to you in marriage, but only if you prove to me you're a brave warrior and fight the battles of the Lord." For Saul was thinking, "I don't need to be the one to kill him—let the Philistines do it!"

¹⁸ "But who am I, and what status does my family have in Israel, for me to become the son-in-law of the king?" David replied.[‡]

²⁰ Meanwhile Saul's daughter Michal had fallen in love with David, and when Saul was told, he was happy about it.

²¹ "I'll give her to David," Saul thought. "She can be the bait so the Philistines can trap him." So Saul said to David, "This is the second time you can become my son-in-law."

²² Saul gave these instructions to his servants, "Talk with David in private and tell him, 'Look, the king is very happy with you, and all of us love you. Why not become the king's son-in-law?'"

²³ Saul's servants spoke privately to David, but he replied, "Do you think it's nothing to become the king's son-in-law? I'm a poor man, and I'm not important."

²⁴ When Saul's servants explained to him what David had said,

²⁵ Saul told them, "Tell David, 'The only dowry the king wants for the bride is one hundred foreskins of dead Philistine as a way of taking revenge on his enemies.' " Saul's plan was to have David be killed by the Philistines.

²⁶ When the servants reported what the king had said back to David, he was happy to become the king's son-in-law. While there was still time,

²⁹ and so he became even more afraid of David, and was David's enemy for the rest of his life.

³⁰ Whenever the Philistine commanders attacked, David was more successful in battle than all of Saul's officers, so that his reputation grew rapidly.

[‡] 18:18 David may have been concerned at the cost of providing a dowry, especially as this is a condition of marriage mentioned later in verse 25.

19

² so he warned him, “My father Saul is trying to kill you. So be careful tomorrow morning—find a place to hide and stay hidden.

³ I’ll go out with my father and stand in the field near to where you are hiding. I’ll talk to him about you and see what I can find out, then I’ll let you know.”

⁴ Then Jonathan spoke positively about David to his father Saul, and told him, “The king should not do anything bad to his servant David because he’s not done anything bad to you—he has always served you well.

⁵ He took his life in his hands when he killed the Philistine, and the Lord brought about great salvation for the whole of Israel. You saw it and you were delighted, so why would you sin and spill innocent blood by killing David without having any reason?”

⁶ Saul accepted what Jonathan had to say, and promised with an oath: “I swear on the life of the Lord, he won’t be put to death.”

⁷ Later Jonathan called David and told him all that had been said. Then he took him to Saul, and David worked for Saul as he had before.

⁹ A while later an evil spirit from the Lord came on Saul while he was sitting in his house with his spear in his hand. As David played the lyre,

¹⁰ Saul tried to pin David to the wall with the spear. David managed to dodge the spear which embedded itself in the wall. Then David escaped and ran away into the night.

¹³ Then she took a home idol* and laid it in the bed, put a goat hair wig on its head, and covered it with bedclothes.

¹⁵ Saul sent the messengers back to see David, saying, “Bring him to me in the bed so I can kill him.”

¹⁷ “Why did you trick me like this—helping my enemy get away so he could escape?” Saul asked Michal.

“He told me, ‘Get out of my way! I don’t want to have to kill you!’” Michal replied.

¹⁸ This is how David got away and escaped. He went to Samuel at Ramah and explained to him everything that Saul had done to him. Then he and Samuel went to stay in Naioth.

¹⁹ When Saul got to hear that David was at Naioth in Ramah,

* 19:13 “Home idol”: the Hebrew word used here is teraphim and they are first mentioned in Genesis 31. They were cult objects that were used to determine the “god’s” will, see Ezekiel 21:21; Zechariah 10:2. That such idols would be there in David’s house shows the degree to which “pure religion” had been corrupted over time.

²⁰ he sent messengers to arrest him. But when they saw a group of prophets prophesying with Samuel leading out, the Spirit of God came on Saul's messengers and they started prophesying too.

²³ In the end Saul went himself to Ramah and arrived at the large cistern at Secu. "Where are Samuel and David?" he asked.

"At Naioth in Ramah," someone told him.

So Saul went on to Naioth at Ramah, but the Spirit of God even came on him, and he was prophesying as he walked along until he arrived in Naioth.

²⁴ Then Saul also took off his clothes and he too prophesied in Samuel's presence. Then he fell down and lay there naked all that day and all that night. That's why it is said, "Is Saul one of the prophets too?"

¹ David ran from Naioth in Ramah to Jonathan and asked him, "What have I done? What is my wrong have I done? What terrible thing have I done to your father that he wants to kill me?"

² "Nothing!" Jonathan replied. "You're not going to die! Listen! My father tells me everything he's planning, whatever it is. Why would my father keep something like this from me? It's not true!"

³ But David swore an oath again, saying, "Your father knows very well that I'm your friend, and so he's told himself, 'Jonathan can't find out about this, otherwise he'll be really upset.' I swear on the life of the Lord, and on your own life, my life is hanging by a thread."^{*}

⁵ "Well, the New Moon festival is tomorrow, and I'm meant to sit down and eat with the king. But if it's alright with you, I plan to go and hide in the field until the evening three days from now.

⁶ If your father does indeed miss me, tell him, 'David had to urgently ask my permission to hurry down to Bethlehem, his hometown, because of a yearly sacrifice there for his whole family group.'

⁷ If he says, 'That's fine,' then there's no problem for me, your servant, but if he gets mad, you'll know he intends to do me harm.

⁸ So please treat me well, as you promised when you made a agreement with me before the Lord. If I've done wrong, then kill me yourself! Why take me to your father for him to do it?"

⁹ "Absolutely not!" Jonathan replied. "If I knew for certain that if my father had plans to harm you, don't you think I'd tell you?"

¹⁰ "So who's going to let me know if your father gives you a nasty answer?" David asked.

¹¹ "Come on, let's go out into the countryside," Jonathan said. So they both of them went out into the countryside.

^{*} 20:3 "My life is hanging by a thread": literally, "there's just a step between me and death."

¹² Jonathan said to David, "I promise by the Lord, the God of Israel, that I will question my father by this time tomorrow or the day after. If things look good for you, I'll send a message to you and let you know.

¹³ But if my father plans to do you harm, then may the Lord punish me very severely, if I don't let you know by sending you a message so you can get away safely. May the Lord be with you, just as he was with my father.

¹⁵ and please don't ever remove your trustworthy love for my family, even when the Lord has removed every one of your enemies from the earth."

¹⁶ Jonathan made a solemn agreement with the family of David, saying, "May the Lord impose retribution on David's enemies."[†]

¹⁷ Jonathan made David swear this once more by making an oath based on David's love for him, for Jonathan already loved David as he loved himself.

¹⁸ Then Jonathan said to David, "The New Moon festival is tomorrow. You'll be missed, because your place will be empty.

²⁰ I'll shoot three arrows to the side of it as if I were shooting at a target.

²² But if I tell the boy, 'Look, the arrows are way past you,' then you'll have to leave, for the Lord wants you to go away.

²³ As for what you and I talked about, remember that the Lord is a witness between you and me forever."

²⁴ So David hid himself in the field. When the New Moon festival arrived, the king sat down to eat.

²⁵ He sat in his usual place by the wall opposite Jonathan. Abner sat next to Saul, but David's place was empty.

²⁶ Saul didn't say anything that day because he thought, "Something has probably happened to David to make him ceremonially unclean—yes, he must be unclean."

²⁷ But the second day, the day after the New Moon, David's place was still empty. Saul asked his son Jonathan, "Why hasn't the son of Jesse come to dinner either yesterday or today?"

²⁸ Jonathan answered, "David had to urgently ask my permission to go to Bethlehem.

²⁹ He told me, 'Please let me go, because our family is having a sacrifice in the town and my brother told me I had to be there. If you think well of me, please let me go and see my brothers.' That's why he's absent from the king's table."

³⁰ Saul got very angry with Jonathan and said, "You rebellious son of a whore! Don't you think I know that you prefer the son of Jesse? Shame on you! You're a disgrace to the mother who bore you!"

[†] 20:16 This and the previous verses have a number of problems in translation.

³¹ While the son of Jesse remains alive, you and your kingship are not secure. Now go and bring him here to me, for he has to die!”

³² “Why does he have to be put to death?” Jonathan asked. “What has he done?”

³³ Saul threw his spear at Jonathan, trying to kill him, so he knew that his father definitely wanted David dead.

³⁴ Jonathan left the table absolutely furious. He would not eat anything on the second day of the festival, for he was so upset by the shameful way his father had treated David.

³⁷ When the boy got to the place where Jonathan’s arrow had landed, Jonathan shouted to him, “Isn’t the arrow farther past you?”

⁴⁰ Jonathan gave his bow and arrows to the boy and said, “Take these back to town.”

⁴¹ After the boy had gone, David got up from beside the pile of stones, fell facedown to the ground, and bowed three times. Then he and Jonathan kissed each other and cried together as friends, though David cried the hardest.

⁴² Jonathan said to David, “Go in peace, for the two of us have sworn a solemn oath in the name of the Lord. We said, ‘The Lord will be a witness between me and you, and between my descendants and your descendants forever.’ ” Then David left, and Jonathan went back to town.

¹ David went to the town of Nob to see Ahimelek the priest. Ahimelek was trembling in fear when he met him, and he asked, “Why are you here alone? Why isn’t there anybody with you?”

² “The king has given me an assignment,” David replied. “He told me ‘Nobody must know anything about the assignment I have sent you to do.’ As for my men, I’ve told them where to meet me.

³ So what do you have on hand to eat? Let me have five loaves of bread, or whatever you can find.”

⁴ “There’s no ordinary bread,” the priest told David, “but there’s some holy bread, as long as your men have not slept with any women lately.”

⁵ “We have not slept with any women,” David answered. “In fact that’s the rule when I lead the troops on mission. They keep themselves pure even during ordinary missions, and all the more so right now.”

⁶ So the priest gave him the holy bread as they didn’t have any other bread there except this “Bread of the Presence,” which had been removed from the presence of the Lord* that day and replaced with fresh bread.

* 21:6 In other words placed in the Tent of Meeting.

⁷ One of Saul's servants happened to be there that day, trying to make himself right[†] with the Lord. He was Doeg the Edomite, Saul's chief shepherd.

⁸ "Have you got a spear or sword here?" David asked Ahimelech. "I didn't bring my sword or any of my weapons with me, because what the king needed me to do was urgent."

⁹ The priest replied, "The sword of Goliath the Philistine is here—the one you killed in the Valley of Elah. It's wrapped in a cloth behind the ephod. You can take it if you want. It's the only one here."

"It's better than any other sword! Please give it to me," David replied.

¹⁰ David ran away from Saul that day and went to Achish, king of Gath.[‡]

¹¹ But Achish's officials asked the king, "Isn't this David, the king of that country? Didn't they sing about him in their dances, 'Saul has killed his thousands, and David his tens of thousands'?"

¹² David listened carefully to what they said and this made him very afraid of Achish, the king of Gath.

¹³ So he changed the way he acted toward them and pretended to be crazy. He scratched marks on the town gates and let his spit run down his beard.

¹⁴ Achish told his officials, "Look, you can see the man is completely mad! Why did you bring him to me?"

¹⁵ Is it because I need more mad people that you've brought this man to go crazy right in front of me? Do you think I'm going to let him come into my house?"

22

¹ David escaped and went to the cave of Adullam. When they heard where he was his brothers and all the rest of his family went and joined him there.

² Everyone who was in trouble or in debt or resentful also came to him and he became their leader. He had around four hundred men with him.

³ Then David went to Mizpeh in the country of Moab. He asked the king of Moab, "Please let my father and mother come and stay with you until I find out what God is planning for me."

⁵ But then the prophet Gad told David, "Do not stay in the stronghold. Go back to the land of Judah." So David left and went to the forest of Hereth.

⁷ Saul said to them, "Listen to me, you men of Benjamin! Is the son of Jesse going to give all of you fields and vineyards and make you commanders and officers in the army?"

[†] 21:7 "Make himself right": literally "detained." It appears Doeg was offering a sacrifice for some sin he had committed and that the priest Ahimelech was aware of. This seems to be one reason Doeg informed on David (22:9) and executed Saul's command to kill Ahimelech and the other priests. [‡] 21:10 Gath was a Philistine town. * 22:4 "Stronghold": probably referring to his camp at the cave of Adullam.

⁸ Is that why you've all plotted against me? Not a single one of you told me that my own son had made an agreement with Jesse's son. Not a single one of you has shown you cared about me, or explained to me that my son has encouraged him to try and kill me, which is what he's doing right now!"

⁹ Doeg the Edomite, who was standing there with Saul's officers, spoke up, saying, "I saw the son of Jesse visit Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, at Nob.

¹⁰ Ahimelech asked advice from the Lord for him and gave him food. He gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine as well."

¹¹ The king sent a message to summon Ahimelech the priest, son of Ahitub, and all his family, who were priests at Nob. They all came to the king.

¹² "Now you listen, son of Ahitub," the king shouted.

"What is it, my lord?" Ahimelech asked.

¹³ "Why have you and the son of Jesse plotted against me? You gave him bread and a sword, and asked advice from God for him so that he could rebel against me and try and kill me, which is what he's doing right now!"

¹⁴ "Who of all your officers is as trustworthy as David, the king's son-in-law? He is in charge of your bodyguard, and highly respected in your family!" Ahimelech responded.

¹⁵ "And was that day the first time he asked advice from God on his behalf? Of course not! The king should not accuse me your servant or any of my family, for I didn't know anything about any of this."

¹⁶ "You're going to die for this!" the king declared. "You and all your family!"

¹⁷ Then the king turned to his bodyguards standing there and ordered them, "Kill these priests of the Lord, because they're on David's side! They knew he was a fugitive and yet they didn't tell me!" But the king's guards refused to attack the priests of the Lord.

¹⁸ So the king ordered Doeg, "You kill the priests!" Doeg the Edomite attacked and killed the priests, killing eighty-five men wearing the priestly ephod.

²⁰ But one of the sons of Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, managed to escape. His name was Abiathar, and he ran away and joined David.

²¹ He told David that Saul had killed the priests of the Lord.

²² David told Abiathar, "I knew that day when Doeg the Edomite was there that he was going to tell Saul about it. It's my fault that all your family have died.

²³ But you can stay with me and you don't need to be afraid, because the man who wants to kill you wants to kill me too. I'll take good care of you."

¹ One day David heard the news, "The Philistines are attacking Keilah and stealing the grain from the threshing floors."

² So he asked advice from the Lord, "Should I go and attack these Philistines?"

³ But David's men told him, "Even here in Judah we feel afraid. If we went to Keilah to fight the Philistine armies we'd be absolutely terrified!"

⁴ So David asked advice from the Lord again, and the Lord told him, "Go immediately to Keilah, for I will give you victory over the Philistines."

⁵ Then David and his men went to Keilah and fought the Philistines. They slaughtered them and drove off their livestock. By doing this David saved the people of Keilah.

⁶ (When Abiathar, son of Ahimelech, ran away to David at Keilah he brought the ephod with him.)

⁷ When Saul found out that David had gone to Keilah, he said, "God has handed him over to me, because he has locked himself inside a town with gates that can be barred shut."

⁸ So Saul called up his whole army to go and attack Keilah and to besiege David and his men.

¹⁰ David prayed, "Lord, God of Israel, I your servant have been clearly told that Saul plans to come to Keilah and destroy the town because of me.

¹¹ Are the town leaders of Keilah going to hand me over to him? Is Saul going to come, as I have heard? Lord, God of Israel, please tell me."

"Yes, he'll come," the Lord replied.

¹² "And will the town leaders of Keilah hand me and my men over to Saul?" David asked.

"Yes, they will," the Lord replied.

¹³ So David and his men, who numbered around six hundred, left Keilah and moved around from place to place. When Saul discovered that David had escaped from Keilah, he didn't bother going there.

¹⁴ David set up camp in the wilderness strongholds, staying in the mountains of the Desert of Ziph. Saul searched for him continually, but God did not let David be captured.

¹⁵ While David was staying at Horesh in the Desert of Ziph, he found out* that Saul was on his way to murder him.

¹⁶ Saul's son Jonathan went to see David in Horesh and encouraged him to go on trusting in God, telling him,

¹⁷ "Don't worry, because my father Saul is never going to find you. You're going to be king of Israel, and I'll be your deputy. Even my father Saul knows this."

¹⁸ The two of them made an agreement before the Lord. David stayed in Horesh and Jonathan went home.

¹⁹ Then the people of Ziph went to Saul at Gibeah and told him, "David is hiding in our area, in the strongholds in Horesh, on the hill of Hachilah, in the southern wastelands.

²⁰ So, Your Majesty, please come whenever you want, and we'll make sure to hand him over to you."

²¹ "The Lord bless you for thinking about me," Saul replied.

²² "Please go and make absolutely sure you know exactly where he is—where he stays and who has seen him there—because people tell me that he's very devious.

* 23:15 "Found out": or "was afraid."

²³ Look for and mark down all his hiding places. Then come back to me when you're sure, and I'll go back with you. If he's here in the country, I will hunt him down among all the people of Judah."

²⁴ So the people of Ziph set off, returning to Ziph ahead of Saul. David and his men were in the Desert of Maon in the Arabah Valley† in the southern wastelands.

²⁷ a messenger arrived to tell Saul, "Come at once! The Philistines have invaded the country!"

²⁸ So Saul had to stop chasing David and went to confront the Philistines. That's why the place is called the "Rock of Escape."

² So Saul took three thousand specially-picked men from all Israel and went searching for David and his men in the area around Wild Goats' Rocks.

³ As Saul passed the sheep pens on the way, there was a cave, and he went in to relieve himself. David and his men were hiding deep inside the cave.

⁴ David's men said to him, "Today's the day the Lord promised you when he told you, 'Listen, I'm going to hand over your enemy to you, so you can do to him whatever you want.' " Then David crept up quietly and cut a piece from the edge of Saul's robe.

⁶ He told his men, "May the Lord prevent me from doing anything like this* to my master, the Lord's anointed one. I will never attack him, for he is the Lord's anointed one."

Saul stood up and went on his way.

⁸ A little later David came out of the cave and shouted, "My master the king!" When Saul looked around, David bowed down with his face to the ground.

⁹ "Why do you pay attention to people who say, 'Watch out, David wants to harm you?'" David asked.

¹⁰ "Just look! You've seen with your own eyes today that the Lord handed you over to me in the cave. Some urged me to kill you, but I showed you compassion, and said, 'I refuse to attack my master, for he is the Lord's anointed one.'

¹¹ Take a look, my father! You see this piece of your robe I'm holding. Yes, I did cut it off, but I didn't kill you. Now you can see for yourself and you can be sure that I have done nothing evil or rebellious. I have not sinned against you, but you are hunting me down, trying to kill me.

* 24:6 "Like this": probably referring his men's desire to attack the king.

¹² May the Lord decide between you and me as to who of us is right, and may the Lord punish you, but I myself will never try to harm you.

¹³ As the old saying goes, 'From the wicked comes wickedness,' but I myself will never try to harm you.

¹⁴ Who is the king of Israel coming after? Who are you chasing? A dead dog! Just a flea!

¹⁵ May the Lord decide and choose between you and me. May he pay attention to my case and support it; may he save me from you."

¹⁷ He told David, "You are a better person than I am, because you have repaid me with good, but I have repaid you with evil.

¹⁸ Today you have demonstrated how well you have treated me—for when the Lord handed me over to you, you didn't kill me.

¹⁹ For if a man caught hold of his enemy, would he let him escape unharmed? The Lord reward you well for how you've treated me today.

²⁰ Listen, I know you definitely will be king, and your rule over the kingdom of Israel will be secure.

²¹ Now swear to me by the Lord that you will not destroy my descendants who follow me, and that you will not wipe out my name from my family line."

²² So David promised this to Saul with an oath. Then Saul went back home, but David and his men returned to the stronghold.

25

² A man from Maon was very wealthy. He had property in Carmel and owned one thousand goats and three thousand sheep. He was in Carmel shearing them.

³ The man's name was Nabal,* and his wife's name was Abigail. She was a wise and beautiful woman, but her husband was cruel and treated people badly. He was a descendant of Caleb.

⁴ David was in the wilderness, and he heard that Nabal was shearing sheep.

⁵ So David sent ten of his young men and told them, "Go and see Nabal at Carmel. Greet him in my name, and say hello from me.

⁷ Now I've heard that you are busy shearing. When your shepherds were with us, we didn't mistreat them, and nothing belonging to them was stolen all the time they were in Carmel.

⁸ Check with your men and they'll confirm it. Please be kind to my men, especially since we've come on this day of celebration. Please give whatever food you can to us and to your good friend David.' "

* 25:3 "Nabal" means "fool."

¹⁰ "Who does this 'David, son of Jesse' think he is?" Nabal replied. "Nowadays there are many servants on the run from their masters!"

¹¹ Why should I take the bread and water I've supplied, and the meat I've slaughtered for my shearers, and hand it over to these strangers? I don't even know where they're from!"

¹³ "Everyone, put on your swords!" David ordered. They all put on their swords, and David did too. About four hundred followed David, while two hundred remained behind to guard their gear.

¹⁴ In the meantime one of Nabal's men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, "David sent some messengers from the wilderness to bring greetings to our master, but he only insulted them.

¹⁵ David's men were always very good to us and they never mistreated us. All the time we were out in the fields with them nothing was stolen from us.

¹⁶ They were like a protective wall to us, both day and night, during the whole time we were with them looking after the sheep.

¹⁷ You should know what happened and consider what you should do about it. Disaster is about to strike our master and his whole family, but he's so obnoxious no one can talk sense into him!"

¹⁹ She told her men, "Go on ahead. I'll follow you." But she didn't say anything to her husband Nabal.

²⁰ As Abigail was riding her donkey through a mountain valley, she saw David and his men descending towards her, and she met them.

²¹ David had just been complaining, "So much for my protecting everything that belonged to this man in the wilderness! Nothing at all was stolen from him, and yet what does he do? Pay me back evil for good!"

²² May God punish me very severely if I leave even a single one of his men alive by morning!"

²³ When Abigail saw David, she quickly got off the donkey, and bowed before him, her face to the ground.

²⁴ Falling at his feet in respect, she said, "Sir, I accept full responsibility for what's happened. Please listen to what I, your servant, have to say.

²⁵ Please don't concern yourself with this worthless man Nabal. His name means 'fool,' and he is really foolish! As for me, your servant, I didn't even see the men you sent.

²⁶ Now, sir, as the Lord lives and as you live, the Lord has kept you from shedding blood and from taking your own revenge. Sir, may your enemies and those who want to do you harm be like Nabal.

²⁷ Please accept this present that I, your servant, have brought to you, sir, and give it to your men.

²⁸ Please forgive any offense that I, your servant, have committed, for the Lord is sure to set up a dynasty for you that will last for a long time, because you, sir, fight the battles of the Lord. Wickedness should not be found in you as long as you live.[†]

²⁹ If anyone pursues you and tries to kill you, then your life will remain bound up with those the Lord your God looks after, safe in his care. But he will throw away the lives of your enemies like stones from a sling.

³⁰ So when the Lord has done for you, sir, everything good he promised, and has made you ruler over Israel,

³¹ you won't have feelings of remorse or a guilty conscience over unnecessary bloodshed or of taking your own revenge. And when the Lord has done these good things for you, sir, please remember me, your maidservant."

³⁵ David accepted from Abigail what she had brought him, and told her, "You may go home in peace, because I agree with your advice and grant your request."

³⁶ When Abigail got back home to Nabal, he was in the house, partying like a king. He was feeling very merry, and he was very drunk. So she didn't tell him anything until the morning.

³⁷ When Nabal had sobered up the next morning, his wife told him what had happened. When he heard what she had to say he had a heart attack and was paralyzed.[‡]

³⁸ About ten days later the Lord struck Nabal down and he died.

³⁹ When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Praise the Lord who has supported me against Nabal's insult and has kept me from doing evil. For the Lord made Nabal's wickedness fall back on himself." Then David sent a message to Abigail, asking for her to marry him.

⁴¹ She stood up, then bowed down low, and said, "I am David's maidservant. I am prepared to serve and to wash the feet of my master's servants."

⁴⁴ However, Saul had given his daughter Michal, David's wife, to Paltiel, son of Laish. He was from Gallim.

[†] 25:28 Perhaps Abigail is suggesting that David's current mission is not sanctioned by God and that to follow through with it would be to compromise his reputation, especially as future king of Israel. [‡] 25:37 "Was paralyzed": literally, "he was as a stone."

² So Saul went to the Desert of Ziph along with three thousand specially-picked men from Israel to search for David there.

³ Saul set up camp beside the road at the hill of Hachilah opposite the wastelands, near to where David was living in the desert. When he realized that Saul had come looking for him there,

⁵ One night* David got up and went over to Saul's camp and saw where Saul was sleeping, along with Abner, son of Ner, the army commander. Saul was lying in the middle of the camp with his men all around him.

⁶ David asked Ahimelech the Hittite and Abishai, son of Zeruiah,[†] Joab's brother, "Who wants to go with me into the camp to Saul?"

"I'll go with you," Abishai replied.

⁷ So David and Abishai went to the army camp at night. Saul was sleeping there in the camp with his spear stuck in the ground beside his head, with Abner and his men sleeping around him.

⁸ Abishai said to David, "God has handed your enemy over to you today. So please let me spear him to the ground in one go. I won't need to do it twice!"

⁹ But David said to Abishai, "No, don't kill him! Who can attack the Lord's anointed one and not be guilty of a crime?"

¹⁰ As the Lord lives, the Lord himself will kill him. Either his time will come and he'll die, or he will go into battle and be killed.

¹¹ May the Lord prevent me from attacking the Lord's anointed one. Just pick up the spear and water jug beside his head, and let's go."

¹² David took the spear and water jug beside Saul's head, and they left. Nobody saw anything; nobody knew what had happened; nobody woke up. Everybody stayed asleep, because the Lord had made them fall into a deep sleep.

¹³ Then David went back over to the other side, and stood on top of the hill far enough away—there was a considerable distance between them.

¹⁴ He shouted down to the army and Abner, son of Ner, "Aren't you going to answer me, Abner?"

¹⁵ David called to Abner, "Aren't you meant to be this great man? Is there anyone in Israel who is better than you? So why didn't you protect your master the king when someone came to kill him?"

¹⁶ You haven't done well at all. As the Lord lives, you all deserve to die, because you did not protect your master, the Lord's anointed. Take a look around. Where are the king's spear and water jug that were beside his head?"

¹⁷ Saul recognized David's voice and asked, "Is that you speaking, David, my son?"

"Yes it's me, my lord and king," David replied.

¹⁸ "Why is my lord hunting me, his servant? What is it that I've done? What crime am I guilty of?" he continued.

¹⁹ "Please listen to me, my lord and king. If the Lord has made you angry with me, then may he be happy to accept an offering. But if it's men that have done it, may they be cursed before the Lord! For all this while they've been driving me away from living among God's chosen people, telling me, 'Go away and worship other gods.'

* 26:5 "One night": implied. † 26:6 Zeruiah was David's sister and mother of Joab, Abishai, and Asahel.

²⁰ Please don't let me die so far from the presence of the Lord. The king of Israel has come to chase down one little flea, hunting me like someone who hunts a partridge in the mountains."

²¹ "I've done wrong," Saul replied, "Come back, David, my son. I won't ever try to harm you again, because you valued me and spared my life today. I've been so stupid! I've made a big mistake!"

²² "I have the king's spear here," said David. "Send one of your men over to collect it.

²³ The Lord rewards all those who do what is right and who are trustworthy. The Lord handed you over to me today, but I refused to harm the Lord's anointed one.

²⁴ In the same way as I valued your life today, may the Lord value my life, and may he rescue me from all my troubles."

²⁵ Saul said to David, "May you be blessed, David my son. You will accomplish a great deal and always be successful." David left, and Saul went back home.

¹ But David said to himself, "One of these days Saul is going to get me. I think I'd better run away to the land of the Philistines. Then Saul will give up looking for me all over Israel and he won't catch me."

² So David and the six hundred men with him set off, crossed the border, and went to Achish, son of Maach, the king of Gath.

³ David and his men settled down with Achish in Gath. All the men had their families with them, and David had his two wives, Ahinoam from Jezreel and Abigail from Carmel, Nabal's widow.

⁴ When Saul found out that David had run away to Gath, he didn't go on looking for him.

⁵ David said to Achish, "Please do me a favor: assign me somewhere in one of the towns in the countryside so I can live there. I, your servant, don't really deserve to live in the royal city with you."

⁶ Achish gave him Ziklag right away, and the town still belongs to the kings of Judah to this day.

⁷ David lived in the country of the Philistines for a year and four months.

⁸ During that time David and his men were raiding the Geshurites, the Girzites, and the Amalekites. These people had lived in the land as far as Shur and Egypt from ancient times.

⁹ When David attacked a place, he did not leave anybody alive. He took the flocks and herds, the donkeys, camels, and clothing. Then he would go back to Achish.

¹⁰ When Achish asked him, "Where have you been raiding today?" David would reply, "In the desert* of Judah," or "the desert of Jerahmeel," or "the desert of the Kenites."

¹¹ David didn't leave anybody alive that could come to Gath because he thought, "They might tell on us and say, 'David did this.'" This is what he did all the time he lived in the country of the Philistines.

* 27:10 "Desert," literally "the Negev," the southern arid region.

¹² Achish trusted David, and said to himself, "He's made himself so offensive to his people the Israelites that he'll have to serve me forever."

28

¹ Around that time the Philistines called up their armies to go to war against Israel. So Achish told David, "You do realize that you and your men must accompany me as part of the army."

² "That's fine!" David replied. "Then you yourself will discover what I, your servant, can do."

"That's fine too," Achish responded. "I'll make you my bodyguard for life."

³ By now Samuel had died, and all of Israel had mourned for him and buried him in Ramah, his home town. Saul had got rid of mediums and spiritists from the country.

⁷ So Saul told his officers, "Find me a woman who is a medium so I can go and ask her advice."

⁸ Saul disguised himself by wearing different clothes. He went with two of his men to the woman at night. Saul told her, "Bring up a spirit for me so I can ask some questions. I'll give you the name."

⁹ "Don't you know what Saul has done," she replied. "He's got rid of the mediums and spiritists from the country. Are you trying to set a trap for me and get me killed?"

¹⁰ Saul swore an oath to her by the Lord, "As the Lord lives, you won't be held guilty for doing this."

¹¹ "Who do you want me to bring up for you?" the woman asked.

"Bring up Samuel," he replied.

¹² But when the woman saw Samuel, she shouted loudly, and said to Saul, "Why have you tricked me? You're Saul!"

¹³ "Don't be scared," The king told her. "What can you see?"

"I see a god coming up out of the ground," the woman replied.

¹⁴ "What does he look like?" Saul asked. "An old man is coming up," she replied. "He has a robe wrapped around him" Saul thought it must be Samuel, and he bowed facedown in respect.

¹⁵ Samuel said to Saul, "Why are you bothering me by bringing me up?"

"I'm in terrible trouble," Saul replied. "The Philistines are attacking me, and God has abandoned me. He doesn't answer me anymore, either by prophets or by dreams. That's why I have called you up so you tell me what to do."

¹⁶ "Why come and ask me when the Lord has abandoned you and has become your enemy?" Samuel asked.

¹⁷ "The Lord has done to you exactly what he said through me, for Lord has ripped the kingdom from you and has given it to your neighbor, David.

¹⁸ The Lord has done this to you today because you did not do what the Lord commanded and you did not execute his furious anger on the Amalekites.

¹⁹ The Lord will hand over Israel and you yourself to the Philistines. Tomorrow you and your sons will die and be with me. The Lord will also hand over the Israelite army of Israel to the Philistines.”

²⁰ Saul collapsed face down on the ground, terrified at what Samuel had said. He had no strength, because he hadn't eaten anything all that day and night.

²¹ The woman came over to Saul and saw that he was absolutely terrified. She told him, “Look, sir, I did what you asked. I risked my life and did what you told me.

²² Now please do what I tell you. Let me bring you a little bit of food. Eat it, and you'll have the strength to go on your way.”

²³ But he refused, saying, “I can't eat anything.” But his men and the woman encouraged him to eat, and he did what they said. He got up from the ground and sat on the bed.

²⁴ The woman had a fattened calf at the house, and she quickly went and slaughtered it. She also got some flour, kneaded it, and baked some unleavened bread.

²⁵ She served the meal to Saul and his men, and they ate it. Then they got up and left, the same night.

Achish replied to the Philistine commanders, “That's David, an officer of King Saul of Israel. He's been with me for a long time, years even, and I haven't found any fault in him since the day he came over to our side up till now.”

⁴ But the Philistine commanders got angry with Achish, and told him, “Send him back to the place he came from, to the town you assigned to him. He can't go with us into battle. What if he turns on us during the fighting? What a great way for him to please his master—by handing over the heads of our men!

⁷ So go back home in peace, and that way you won't do anything to upset the Philistine leaders.”

⁸ “But what have I done?” David asked. “What fault have you found in me, your servant, from the day I came to you until now, that would prevent me from going to fight the enemies of my lord the king?”

* 29:3 This could also be translated, “Who are these Hebrews?” since the text simply says “What these Hebrews?”

⁹ “As far as I’m concerned, you’re as good as an angel of God,” Achish replied. “But the Philistine commanders have stated, ‘He can’t go into battle with us.’”

¹¹ David and his men got up early in the morning and went back to the country of the Philistines. But the Philistines advanced on Jezreel.

² They had captured the women and everyone else there, young and old. They hadn’t killed anyone, but they took everyone with them as they left.

³ When David and his men arrived back in town, they found it burned to the ground, and their wives and children captured.

⁵ David’s two wives had also been taken as prisoners—Ahinoam from Jezreel and Abigail, Nabal’s widow, from Carmel.

⁶ David was in a great deal of trouble, because the men were so upset over losing their children that they began to talk of stoning him.

But trusting in the Lord his God,

⁷ David went to Abiathar the priest, the son of Ahimelech, and said, “Bring me the ephod.” Abiathar brought it to him.

⁸ David asked the Lord, “Should I chase after these raiders? Will I catch up with them?”

“Yes, chase after them,” the Lord replied, “for you will definitely catch up with them and rescue the prisoners.”

¹⁰ Two hundred of them remained behind there because they were too tired to cross the valley while David continued on with four hundred men.

¹¹ They came across an Egyptian in the countryside and they took him to David. They gave him some food to eat and water to drink.

¹² They also gave him a piece of a fig cake and two raisins cakes. He ate them and recovered, because he hadn’t had any food or water for three days and nights.

¹³ “Whose slave are you, and where do you come from?” David asked him.

“I’m an Egyptian,” he replied, “the slave of an Amalekite. My master left me behind three days ago when I got sick.

¹⁴ We raided the Kerethites in the Negev, as well as the part that belongs to Judah, and the Negev of Caleb. We burned Ziklag too.”

¹⁵ “Can you lead me to these raiders?” David asked.

“If you swear to me by God that you won’t kill me or hand me over to my master, then I’ll take you to them,” the man replied.

¹⁶ He led David to the Amalekites, where they were spread out all over the place, eating, drinking, and dancing because of the large haul of plunder they had taken from the lands of the Philistines and of Judah.

¹⁹ Everything was accounted for—all the adults and children, as well as all the plunder the Amalekites had taken. David brought everything back.

²⁰ He also recovered all the flocks and herds. His men drove them ahead of the other livestock, shouting, “This is David’s plunder!”

²¹ When David got back to the two hundred men who had been too tired to continue with him from the Besor Valley, they came to meet him and the men with him. As David approached the men to greet them,

²² all the unpleasant, good-for-nothing men of those who had gone with David said, “They weren’t with us, so we won’t share the plunder that we took, except to give them back their wives and children. They can take them and leave.”

²³ But David intervened, saying, “No, my brothers, you shouldn’t do this with what the Lord has given us. He has protected us and handed over to us the raiders that had attacked us.

²⁴ Who’s going to listen to you when you say such things? Whatever share those who went into battle receive will be the same as those who stayed to guard the supplies.”

²⁵ David made this the rule and regulation for Israel from that day until now.

²⁶ When David got back to Ziklag, he sent some of the plunder to each of his friends among the elders of Judah, saying, “Here’s a gift for you from the plunder of the Lord’s enemies.”

²⁸ Aroer, Siphmoth, Eshtemoa,

²⁹ Racal, and the towns of the Jerahmeelites and Kenites,

³⁰ Hormah, Bor-ashan, Athach,

³¹ Hebron—all the places David and his men had gone to.

³ The fighting became very intense around Saul, and the arrows of the Philistine archers found their target, wounding Saul very badly.

⁴ Saul said to his armor-bearer, “Take your sword and kill me, or these heathen* men will come and kill and torture me!”

But the armor-bearer didn’t want to do it because he was too afraid. So Saul took his own sword and fell on it.

⁵ When his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he also fell on his own sword and died with him.

⁶ Saul, his three sons, his armor-bearer, and all the men with him, died the same day.

⁷ When the Israelites who lived along the valley and those on the other side of the Jordan realized that the Israelite army had run away, and that Saul and his sons had died, they abandoned their cities and they also ran away. So the Philistines came and took them over.

* 30:27 “Bethuel”: far more likely than “Bethel” as in the Hebrew text. literally, “uncircumcised.”

* 31:4 “Heathen”:

⁸ The next day, when the Philistines went to strip the dead, they found Saul and his three sons lying on Mount Gilboa.

⁹ They cut off Saul's head, stripped him of his armor, and sent messengers throughout the country of the Philistines to announce the news in the temples of their idols and to their people.

¹⁰ They placed his armor in the temple of the Ashtoreths, and nailed his body to the town wall of Beth-shan.

¹¹ However, when the people of Jabesh-gilead heard what the Philistines had done to Saul,

¹³ Then they took their bones and buried them under the tamarisk tree in Jabesh, and fasted for seven days.

2 Samuel

² Then on the third day a man arrived from Saul's camp. His clothes were torn and he had dust on his head. When he approached David, he bowed before him, and fell to the ground in respect.

³ "Where have you come from?" David asked him.

"I got away from the Israelite camp," he replied.

⁴ "Tell me what happened," David asked.

"The army ran away from the battle," the man replied. "Many of them died, and Saul and his son Jonathan also died."

⁵ "How do you know Saul and Jonathan died?" David asked the man giving the report.

⁶ "I just happened to be there on Mount Gilboa," he replied. "I saw Saul, leaning on his spear, with the enemy chariots and the charioteers advancing on him."

⁷ He turned around and saw me. He called out and I replied, 'I'm here to help!'

⁸ He asked me, 'Who are you?'

I told him, 'I'm an Amalekite.'

⁹ Then he told me, 'Please come over here and kill me! I'm in terrible agony but life is still hanging on.'

¹⁰ So I went over him and killed him, because I knew that wounded as he was he couldn't last long. I took the crown from his head and his bracelet from his arm, and I've brought them here to you, my lord."

¹² They mourned and cried and fasted until the evening for Saul and his son Jonathan, and for the army of the Lord, the Israelites, that had been killed by the sword.

¹³ David asked man who brought him the report, "Where are you from?"

"I'm the son of a foreigner," he replied "I'm an Amalekite."

¹⁴ "Why weren't you worried about killing the Lord's anointed one?" David asked.

¹⁵ David called over one of his men and said, "Go ahead, kill him!" So the man cut the Amalekite down and killed him.

¹⁶ David had told the Amalekite, "Your death is your own fault because you testified against yourself when you said, 'I killed the Lord's anointed one.'"

¹⁷ Then David sang this lament for Saul and his son Jonathan.

¹⁹ "Israel, the glorious one lies dead on your mountains. How the mighty have fallen!

²⁰ Don't announce it in the town of Gath, don't proclaim it in the streets of Ashkelon, so that the Philistine women won't rejoice, so that the heathen women won't celebrate.

* 1:11 A sign of extreme emotion, usually grief.

²¹ Mountains of Gilboa, may no dew or rain fall on you! May you have no fields that produce offerings of grain. For it was there that the shield of the mighty was defiled; Saul's shield, no longer cared for with olive oil.[†]

²³ During their lives, Saul and Jonathan were much loved and very pleasant, and death did not divide them. They were faster than eagles, stronger than lions.

²⁴ Women of Israel, mourn for Saul, who gave you fine scarlet clothes decorated with gold ornaments.

²⁵ How the mighty have fallen in battle! Jonathan lies dead on your mountains.

²⁶ I weep so much for you, my brother Jonathan! You were so very dear to me! Your love for me was so wonderful, greater than the love women have!

²⁷ How the mighty have fallen! The weapons of war are gone!"

2

¹ Sometime after this, David asked the Lord, "Should I go to one of the towns of Judah?"

"Yes, do it," the Lord replied.

"Which one should I go to?" David asked.

"Go to Hebron," said the Lord.

³ He also brought the men who were with him, along with their families, and they settled in the villages near Hebron.

⁴ Then the men of Judah came to Hebron, and there they anointed David king of the people of Judah. When David found out that it was the men from Jabesh Gilead who had buried Saul,

⁵ he sent messengers to them, saying, "May the Lord bless you, because you demonstrated your loyal love to Saul your master, and you buried him properly.

⁶ Now may the Lord show you loyal love and trustworthiness, and I will also be good to you because of what you did for Saul.

⁷ So be strong and be brave, for even though Saul your master is dead, the people of Judah have anointed me as their king."

⁸ However, Abner, son of Ner, commander of Saul's army, had taken Ishbosheth,* son of Saul, to Mahanaim.

⁹ There he set up Ishbosheth as king over Gilead, Asher, Jezreel, Ephraim, and Benjamin, in fact over all Israel.

¹⁰ Ishbosheth, son of Saul, was forty when he became king over Israel, and he reigned for two years. However, the people of Judah were on David's side.

[†] 1:21 Saul's shield would be ritually defiled by blood, and would no longer be looked after by regular applications of olive oil. * 2:8 Ishbosheth. It is very unlikely that he was called this to his face. He is identified as "Eshbaal" in 1 Chronicles 8:33 and 1 Chronicles 9:39, which means "man of Baal." However, the writer of this account here found it intolerable that the name of the king should include reference to the pagan god "Baal," and so altered the name to Ishbosheth, meaning "man of shame."

¹¹ David ruled in Hebron as king over the people of Judah for seven years and six months.

¹³ Joab, son of Zeruiah, and David's men set off and met them at the pool of Gibeon, where they all sat down, facing each other across the pool.

¹⁴ Abner said to Joab, "Why not let's have some of the men fight in hand to hand combat before us."

"Fine," Joab agreed.

¹⁵ So twelve men came forward from each side—twelve for Benjamin and Ishbosheth, and twelve for David.

¹⁶ Each man grabbed his opponent's head and drove his sword into his opponent's side so that they all fell down dead together. That's why this place in Gibeon is called the Field of Sword-edges.

¹⁷ The battle that followed was hard-fought, but eventually Abner and his men were defeated by David's men.

¹⁸ The three sons of Zeruiah were there: Joab, Abishai, and Asahel. Asahel was a fast runner, like a gazelle racing across the open countryside.

¹⁹ He chased after Abner with single-minded determination.†

²⁰ Abner looked back and asked, "Is that you, Asahel?"

"Yes, it's me," Asahel replied.

²¹ Abner told him, "Leave me alone! Go and fight somebody else and take his weapons for yourself!" But Asahel refused to stop chasing him.

²² Abner warned Asahel again. "Stop chasing me!" he shouted. "Why do you want me to kill you? How could I ever face your brother Joab?"

²⁵ Abner's men from the tribe of Benjamin rallied to him there, forming a tight group around him standing at the top of the hill.

²⁶ Abner shouted to Joab: "Do we have to keep killing each other forever? Don't you realize that if we go on it'll only get worse? How long are you going to wait before you order your men to stop chasing their brothers?"

²⁸ Joab blew the horn so all the men stopped—they didn't continue chasing or fighting the Israelites.

²⁹ All through the night Abner and his men marched through the Jordan Valley. They crossed the Jordan River, and continued all morning until they arrived back at Mahanaim.

³⁰ When Joab got back from chasing Abner, he gathered all the men together. Nineteen of David's men were missing in addition to Asahel.

The handle was often sharpened to a point so that it could be stuck into the ground. § 2:24 Joab and Abishai were Asahel's brothers.

³¹ However, they had killed three hundred and sixty of Abner's men from the tribe of Benjamin.

³² They took Asahel's body and buried him in his father's tomb in Bethlehem. Then they marched all through the night and reached Hebron at dawn.

3

¹ There was a long war between those on the side of Saul and those on the side of David. David's side grew stronger, while Saul's side grew weaker.

⁷ Saul had a concubine named Rizpah, daughter of Aiah. One day Ishbosheth accused Abner, saying "Why have you been sleeping with my father's concubine?"

⁹ So now may God punish me severely if I don't help David achieve what the Lord has promised him.

¹¹ Ishbosheth didn't dare to say anything else to Abner because he was frightened of him.

¹² Then Abner sent messengers to speak for him to David, saying, "Who does the country belong to anyway? Make an agreement with me, and you can be sure I'll be on your side to have all of Israel follow you."

¹³ "Fine," David replied, "I'll make an agreement with you. But I have one condition: I won't see you unless you bring Saul's daughter Michal when you come."

¹⁴ Then David sent messengers tell Ishbosheth, son of Saul, "Give me back my wife Michal—I paid a dowry for her of one hundred Philistine foreskins."

¹⁷ Abner spoke with the elders of Israel and said, "For a while now you have wanted to have David as your king.

¹⁸ Now is the time to do it, because the Lord promised David, ‘Through my servant David I am going to save my people Israel from the Philistines and all their enemies.’”

¹⁹ Abner also talked to the people of Benjamin, and went to Hebron to let David know everything that the Israelites and the whole tribe of Benjamin had decided to do.

²¹ Abner told David, “Let me go immediately and summon all of Israel to come together for my lord the king, so they may make an agreement with you, and that you may rule over all you would wish.” Then David sent Abner safely on his way.

²³ When Joab and all the army that was with him arrived, he was told, “Abner, son of Ner, came to see the king, who sent him safely on his way.”

²⁴ Joab went to the king and asked, “What do you think you're doing? Here's Abner, who came to see you. Why on earth did you send him on his way? Now he's got clean away!”

²⁵ You do see that Abner, son of Ner, came here to trick you, to spy on the movements of your army, and to find out everything you're doing!”

²⁷ When Abner arrived back in Hebron, Joab took him aside into the town gatehouse as if he was going to talk with him in private. But Joab stabbed him in the belly, killing him in revenge for killing Joab's brother Asahel.

²⁸ When David heard about this later he said, “I and my kingdom are totally innocent before the Lord regarding the death of Abner, son of Ner!”

²⁹ May the guilt for his death fall on Joab and his family! May Joab's descendants always have someone who has running sores or leprosy or is crippled* or who is killed by the sword or who is starving.”

³¹ Then David ordered Joab and everyone who was there, “Tear your clothes, put on sackcloth, and mourn for Abner.” King David himself followed the body as it was carried to the grave.

³² They buried Abner in Hebron, and the king cried loudly at the grave, along with all the people.

³⁴ Your hands were not tied together, your feet were not in shackles. But just like a murderer's victim, you too were killed.” All the people cried for him even more.

* 3:29 “Crippled”: following the Septuagint reading which suggests that such a person always has to lean on a crutch.

³⁵ Then people came to David and tried to persuade him to have something to eat during the day. But David swore an oath, saying, "May God punish me severely if I eat bread or anything else before sunset!"

³⁶ Everyone saw this and thought it was the right thing to do, in the same way that they thought everything the king did was the right thing to do.

³⁹ I am weak right now, even though I'm anointed as king and these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are too powerful for me. But may the Lord repay the evil man according to the evil he has done."

4

¹ When Ishbosheth,* son of Saul, heard that Abner had died in Hebron, he was very discouraged,† and everyone in Israel was shocked.

² Ishbosheth had two commanders of his raiding bands, brothers by the name of Baanah and Rechab. They were the sons of Rimmon of the tribe of Benjamin from the town of Beeroth. Beeroth is considered part of the territory of Benjamin,

³ because the people who had lived in Beeroth before ran away to Gittaim and lived there as foreigners right up to the present.

⁴ Jonathan, son of Saul, had a son lame in both feet. He was five years old when the news about the deaths of Saul and Jonathan had come from Jezreel. His nurse had picked him up and ran away, but as she rushed to get away, he fell and became lame. His name was Mephibosheth.‡

⁵ Rechab and Baanah, sons of Rimmon from Beeroth, went to Ishbosheth's house, arriving in the heat of the day as the king was taking his midday rest.

⁶ The woman doorkeeper had been cleaning wheat, but she had grown tired and fallen asleep, so Rechab and Baanah were able to slip inside.§

⁷ They had gone into the house while Ishbosheth was asleep on his bed in his bedroom. After stabbing and killing him, they cut off his head which they took with them, and they traveled all night by the Jordan Valley road.

⁹ But David answered Rechab and his brother Baanah, sons of Rimmon from Beeroth, "As the Lord lives, who has saved me from all my troubles,

* 4:1 Both here and in verse 2, Ishbosheth is simply referred to as "son of Saul." His name is not given. † 4:1 "He was very discouraged": literally, "his hands hung limply." ‡ 4:4 Mephibosheth. His name is given as "Meribaal" in 1 Chronicles 8:34 and 1 Chronicles 9:40. The name here reflects the writer's reluctance to use the name of a pagan god in the name of one of the kings of Israel. See footnote to 2:8. § 4:6 There are a number of issues with this verse. Here this translation follows the Septuagint. The Hebrew text says, "They went inside the house as if to get some wheat, and they stabbed him in the belly. Then Rechab and his brother Baanah slipped out." Sadly this verse is not extant in any of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

¹⁰ when someone told me, 'Look, Saul is dead' and he thought he was bringing me good news, I grabbed him and had him put him to death at Ziklag. That was what he got for bringing me his news!

¹¹ Even more so then, when evil men kill a good man in his own house, and in his own bed, shouldn't I demand you pay for his life with your own lives, and exterminate you!"

¹² David gave the order to his men, and they killed Rechab and Baanah. They chopped off their hands and feet, and hung their bodies by the pool in Hebron. Then they took Ishbosheth's head and buried it in Abner's grave in Hebron.

5

¹ All the tribes of Israel came to David at Hebron and told him, "We are your flesh and blood.

² Previously when Saul was our king, you were the one who led the Israelite army into battle. The Lord told you, 'You will be the shepherd of my people Israel, and you will be their ruler.' "

³ All the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, where King David made an agreement with them in the Lord's presence. Then they anointed him king of Israel.

⁴ David was thirty when he became king, and he reigned for forty years.

⁵ He reigned over Judah seven years and six months from Hebron, and he reigned over all of Israel and Judah for thirty-three years from Jerusalem.

⁶ David the king and his men went to Jerusalem to attack the Jebusites who were living there. The Jebusites told David: "You'll never enter here. Even the blind and lame could stop you." They were convinced that David could not get in.

⁷ But David did capture the fortress of Zion, now known as the City of David.

⁸ At that time he said, "If we are to successfully conquer the Jebusites we'll have to go up the water shaft to attack these 'lame and blind' —these people who hate David. This is why it's said, 'The blind and the lame will never enter the house.' " *

¹⁰ David became increasingly powerful, for the Lord God Almighty was with him.

¹¹ King Hiram of Tyre sent representatives to David, together with cedar timber, carpenters, and stonemasons, and they built a palace for David.

¹⁵ Ibhar, Elishua, Nepheg, Japhia,

* 5:8 There is debate over the meaning of "house" here. It could refer to ordinary houses, or the king's house (palace). However, the Septuagint has "house of the Lord," which probably refers to the stipulation in Leviticus 21:17-23.

¹⁶ Elishama, Eliada, and Eliphelet.

¹⁷ When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king of Israel, the whole Philistine army came out to capture him, but David found out and went inside the stronghold.

¹⁸ The Philistines came and spread out across the Valley of Rephaim.

¹⁹ David asked the Lord "Should I go and attack the Philistines? Will you hand them over to me?"

"Yes, go," the Lord replied, "for I will definitely hand them over to you."

²⁰ David went to Baal-perazim and he defeated the Philistines there. "Like a flood that bursts out, so the Lord has burst out against my enemies right before me," David declared. So he named that place Baal-perazim.

²² A while later the Philistines came again and spread out across the Valley of Rephaim.

²⁴ Immediately you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees be ready, because this means the Lord has marched out before you to attack the Philistine camp."

²⁵ David followed the Lord's orders, and he slaughtered the Philistines from Geba all the way to Gezer.

6

² He went with all his men to Baalah in Judah to bring back the Ark of God, which belongs to the Lord Almighty who sits between the cherubim that are on the Ark.

³ They placed the Ark of God on a new cart and brought it from Abinadab's house, which was on a hill. Uzzah and Ahio, Abinadab's sons, were directing the cart

⁵ David and all the Israelites were celebrating in the Lord's presence, singing songs accompanied by zithers, harps, tambourines, rattles, and cymbals.†

⁸ David was angry because of the Lord's violent outburst against Uzzah. He called the place Perez-uzzah,§ which is still its name today.

⁹ David became afraid of the Lord that day. "How can I ever bring back the Ark of God home to me?" he asked.

* 6:4 Septuagint reading, supported by one of the Dead Sea Scrolls. † 6:5 The reference on the Hebrew to fir trees is improbable here, and the parallel passage in 1 Chronicles 13:8 helps provide clarity.

‡ 6:7 The meaning of the word used here is uncertain. It may indicate an action that is rash or irreverent. Here it seems to be reflective of a presumptuous attitude that treated the Ark as simple an ordinary object. § 6:8 Meaning "outburst against Uzzah."

¹⁰ Not wanting to bring the Ark of the Lord to be with him in the City of David, he had it taken to the home of Obed-edom the Gittite.

¹¹ The Ark of the Lord remained in Obed-edom's home for three months, and the Lord blessed Obed-edom's whole household.

¹² King David was told, "The Lord has blessed Obed-edom's household and all that he has because of the Ark of God." So David went and had the Ark of God brought from Obed-edom's house to the City of David. There was a lot of celebration!

¹³ After those carrying the Ark of the Lord had taken six steps, he sacrificed a bull and a fattened calf.

¹⁴ Wearing a priest's ephod, David danced as hard as he could before the Lord

¹⁶ As the Ark of the Lord was carried into the City of David, Saul's daughter Michal looked down from a window. She watched King David leaping and dancing before the Lord, and she really loathed him.

¹⁷ They brought the Ark of the Lord and put it on its place inside the tent that David had set up for it. Then David offered burnt offerings and friendship offerings before the Lord.

¹⁸ Once he had finished offering the sacrifices, David blessed the people in the name of the Lord Almighty.

¹⁹ He gave all the Israelites, both men and women, a loaf of bread, a date cake, and a raisin cake. Then he sent everyone home.

²¹ David told Michal, "I was dancing before the Lord, who chose me instead of your father and all his family when he named me ruler over the Lord's people Israel. I will continue to celebrate before the Lord,

²² in fact I'm going to make myself even less distinguished, become even more humble. However, I will be respected by those servant girls you spoke about."

²³ And Michal, Saul's daughter, never had any children.

7

² So he said to Nathan the prophet, "Look at me—I live in a palace made of cedar, but the Ark of God is still in a tent."

³ "Go ahead, do whatever you want, for the Lord is with you," Nathan told the king.

⁵ "Go and tell my servant David, This is what the Lord says: Should you be the one to build a house for me to live in?

⁶ For I have never lived in a house, from the time I led the Israelites out of Egypt up till now. I have always moved from place to place, living in a tent and a Tabernacle.

⁷ But in all those travels with all of Israel did I ever ask any Israelite leader I'd ordered to take care of my people, 'Why haven't you built a cedar house for me?'

⁸ So then, tell my servant David this is what the Lord Almighty says. It was me who took you from the fields, from looking after sheep, to become a leader of my people Israel.

⁹ I have been with you wherever you've gone. I have destroyed all your enemies right in front of you, and I will make your reputation as great as the most famous people on earth.

¹⁰ I will choose a place for my people Israel. I will settle them there and they won't be disturbed anymore. Evil people won't persecute them as they used to,

¹¹ from the time I placed judges in charge of my people. I will defeat all of your enemies.

Also I want to make it clear that I the Lord will build a house for you.*

¹² For when you come to the end of your life and join your ancestors in death, I will bring to power one of your descendants, one of your sons, and make sure his kingdom is successful.

¹⁴ I will be a father to him, and he will be a son to me. If he does wrong, I will discipline him with the rod like people do, like a parent punishing a child.

¹⁵ But I will never take away my kindness and love from him, as I did in the case of Saul who I removed before you.

¹⁶ Your house and your kingdom will last forever; your dynasty will be secure forever."

¹⁸ Then King David went and sat down in the presence of the Lord. He prayed, "Who am I, Lord God, and what is significant about my family, that you have brought me to this place?"

¹⁹ God, you talk as if this was a small thing in your eyes, and you also have spoken about the future of my house, my family dynasty.[†] Is this your usual way of dealing with human beings, Lord God?

²⁰ What more can I, David, tell you? You know exactly what your servant is like, Lord God.

²¹ You're doing all this for me and you have explained it to me, your servant, and because of your promise and because it's what you want to do.

²² How great you are, Lord God! There really is no-one like you; there is no other God, only you. We have never heard about anyone else.

²³ Who else is as fortunate as your people Israel? Who else on earth did God go and redeem to make his own people? You gained a wonderful reputation for yourself by all the tremendous, amazing things you did in driving out other nations and their gods before your people as you redeemed them from Egypt.

* 7:11 In other words, the Lord would build a "house" for David in the sense of establishing a royal dynasty. † 7:19 "My family dynasty": explaining the meaning of "house" in this context.

²⁴ You made your people Israel your own forever, and you, Lord, have become their God.

²⁵ So now, Lord God, please ensure that what you have said about me and my house happens, and is confirmed forever. Please do as you have promised,

²⁶ and may your true nature be honored forever, with people declaring, 'The Lord Almighty is Israel's God!' May the house of your servant David continue to be there in your presence.

²⁷ Lord Almighty, God of Israel, you have revealed this to me, your servant, telling me, 'I will build a house for you.' That's why your servant has had the courage to pray this prayer to you.

² David also defeated the Moabites. He made them lie down on the ground, and he measured them with a length of cord. He measured two lengths for those to be killed, and one cord length for those to be allowed to live. So he made them subject to him and required them to pay taxes.

³ David also defeated Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah, as he tried to enforce his control along the Euphrates River.

⁴ David captured from him 1,000 chariots, 7,000 charioteers, and 20,000 foot soldiers. David hamstrung all the chariot horses—except he saved enough for 100 chariots.

⁵ When the Arameans of Damascus came to help King Hadadezer of Zobah, David killed twenty-two thousand of them.

⁶ He placed garrisons in Aramean kingdom with its capital in Damascus, and made the Arameans subject to him and required them to pay taxes. The Lord gave David victories wherever he went.

⁷ David took the shields of gold that belonged to Hadadezer's officers and brought them to Jerusalem.

⁸ King David also took a large quantity of bronze from Betah and Berothai, towns that had belonged to Hadadezer.

⁹ When Tou, king of Hamath, learned that David had destroyed the entire army of Hadadezer, king of Zobah,

¹² Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, and Amalekites; as well as the plunder taken from Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

* 8:1 The meaning of this term is not known. It may be a place name. The parallel passage in Chronicles identifies "Gath and its nearby towns." 1 Chronicles 18:1.

¹³ David also made a name for himself when he came back after defeating eighteen thousand Edomites[†] in the Valley of Salt.

¹⁵ David ruled over all Israel. He did what was fair and right for all his people.

¹⁶ Joab, son of Zeruiah, was the army commander, and Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, kept the official records.

¹⁸ Benaiah, son of Jehoiada was in charge of the Cherethites and Pelethites;[‡] and David's sons were priests.[§]

9

² There was a man called Ziba who used to be a servant of Saul's family. They called for him to come to David, and the king asked him, "Are you Ziba?"

"Yes, I am your servant," he replied.

³ The king asked him, "Is there anyone still left of Saul's family so I can be kind to him as I promised before God?"^{*}

"There's still one of Jonathan's sons, who is lame in both feet," Ziba replied.

⁴ "Where is he?" asked the king.

"He's in the town of Lo-debar, living in the home of Machir, son of Ammiel," Ziba replied.

⁶ When Mephibosheth,[†] son of Jonathan, son of Saul, came to David, he bowed facedown to the ground in respect. Then David said, "Welcome Mephibosheth."

"I am your servant," he replied.

⁷ "Do not be afraid," said David, "for I will truly be kind to you for the sake of your father Jonathan. I will return to you all the land owned by your grandfather Saul, and you will always eat at my table."

⁸ Mephibosheth bowed down and said, "Who am I, your servant, that you should pay any attention to a dead dog like me?"

⁹ Then the king called for Saul's servant Ziba and told him, "I have given to your master's grandson everything that belonged to Saul and his family.

¹⁰ You and your sons and workers are to farm the ground for him and bring in the produce, so that your master's grandson will have food to eat.

[†] 8:13 The Hebrew text actually refers to Arameans, but in context this must be a scribal error.

[‡] 8:18 "The Cherethites and Pelethites": the king's bodyguard. [§] 8:18 "David's sons were priests": clearly not being Levites, David's sons would not be priests in the sense of officiating in religious ceremonies. Some have suggested that as used here, the word means "administrators."

See the parallel passage in 1 Chronicles 18:17. ^{*} 9:3 "I promised before God": David is probably remembering the mutual promise shared with Jonathan. 1 Samuel 20:42. [†] 9:6 He is called Meribbaal in 1 Chronicles 8:34 and 1 Chronicles 9:40. The same issue arises here as given in the footnote to 2:8.

But Mephibosheth, your master's grandson, will always eat at my table." Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty workers.

¹¹ Ziba replied to the king, "My lord the king, your servant will do everything that you have commanded." So Mephibosheth ate at David's table like one of the king's sons.

¹³ But Mephibosheth lived in Jerusalem, because he always ate at the king's table. He was lame in both feet.

² David said, "I will be kind to Hanun, son of Nahash, just as his father was kind to me." So David sent representatives to take his condolences to Hanun regarding his father. But when they arrived in the country of the Ammonites,

³ the Ammonite military leaders said to Hanun their king, "Do you really believe David sent condolences to you out of respect for your father? Isn't it more likely that David sent his representatives to scout out the city, spy on it, and then conquer it?"

⁴ So Hanun had David's representatives detained, shaved off half of each man's beard, cut off their clothes at the buttocks, and then sent them back home.

⁵ When David was told about this, he sent messengers to meet them, because they were very embarrassed. The king instructed them, "Stay in Jericho until your beards have re-grown, and then you can return."

⁷ When David learned of this, he sent Joab and the entire army to confront them.

⁸ The Ammonites set up their battle lines near the entrance to their town gate, while the Arameans of Zobah and Rehob and the men of Tob and Maakah took up positions by themselves in the open fields.

⁹ Joab realized he would have to fight both in front of him and behind him, he chose some of Israel's best troops and he took charge of them to lead the attack the Arameans.

¹⁰ He put the rest of the army under the command of Abishai, his brother. They were to attack the Ammonites.

¹¹ Joab told him, "If the Arameans are stronger than me, you come and help me. If the Ammonites are stronger than you, I'll come and help you.

¹² Be brave, and fight your best for our people and the towns of our God. May the Lord do what he sees as good!"

¹⁴ When the Ammonites saw that the Arameans had run away, they also ran away from Abishai, and retreated into the town. So Joab went back to Jerusalem after fighting the Ammonites.

¹⁵ As soon as the Arameans saw they had been defeated by the Israelites they reassembled their forces.

¹⁶ Hadadezer sent for more Arameans to be brought from beyond the Euphrates River. They arrived in Helam under the leadership of Shobach, commander of Hadadezer's army.

¹⁸ But the Aramean army ran away from the Israelites, and David killed 700 charioteers and 40,000 infantry. He also attacked Shobach, their army commander, and he died there.

¹⁹ When all the kings allied with Hadadezer realized that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with David and became subject to him. As a result, the Arameans were afraid to help the Ammonites any more.

11

² Late one afternoon, David got up from taking a nap and was walking on the roof of the palace. From the roof he saw a woman bathing—a very beautiful woman.

³ David sent someone to find out about the woman. He was told, "It's Bathsheba, daughter of Eliam, and wife of Uriah the Hittite."

⁴ David sent messengers to fetch her. When she came to him, he had sex with her. (Now she had just purified herself from having her period.)* Afterwards she went back home.

⁵ Bathsheba became pregnant and sent a message to David to tell him, "I'm pregnant."

⁶ So David sent a message to Joab, telling him, "Send Uriah the Hittite to me." Joab sent him to David.

⁷ When Uriah came to see him, David asked him how Joab was doing, and how the army was doing, and how the war was going.

¹⁰ David was told, "Uriah didn't go home," so he asked Uriah, "Haven't you just got back from being away? Why didn't you go home?"

¹³ David invited Uriah to dinner. Uriah ate and drank with him, and David got Uriah drunk. But in the evening he went to sleep on his mat with the king's guards, and didn't go home.

* 11:4 The Hebrew refers to "uncleanliness." † 11:8 "Have a rest": literally, "wash your feet."

¹⁴ In the morning David wrote Joab a letter, and gave it to Uriah to take to him.

¹⁵ In the letter, David told Joab, "Put Uriah right in the front where the fighting is worst, and then pull back behind him so that he'll be attacked and killed."

¹⁶ As Joab besieged the town, he made Uriah take a place where he knew the strongest enemy men would be fighting.

¹⁷ When the town's defenders came out and attacked Joab, some of David's men were killed, including Uriah the Hittite.

¹⁸ Joab sent David a full report about the battle.

¹⁹ He ordered the messenger, saying, "When you've finished telling the king all about the battle,

²⁰ if the king's gets angry and asks you, 'Why did you get so near to the town in the attack? Didn't you know they would shoot arrows from the wall?

²⁴ Their archers shot at us from the wall, and killed some of the king's men. Your officer Uriah the Hittite was also killed."

²⁵ Then David said to the messenger, "Tell Joab this: 'Don't be upset about this, for the sword destroys people at random. Press on with your attack against the town and conquer it.' Encourage him by telling him this."

²⁶ When Uriah's wife heard that her husband was dead, she mourned for him.

²⁷ Once the period of mourning was over, David sent for her to be brought to his palace, and she became his wife and bore him a son. But what David had done was evil in the Lord's sight.

12

¹ The Lord sent Nathan to see David. When he got there, he said, "Once there were two men living in the same town. One was rich, and one was poor.

² The rich man had many thousands of sheep and cattle,

⁴ One day the rich man had a visitor. He didn't want to take one of his own sheep or cattle to feed his visitor. He took the poor man's lamb instead to prepare a meal for his visitor."

⁵ David became absolutely furious with what that man did, and angrily told Nathan. "As the Lord lives, the man who did this should be put to death!

⁶ He must repay that lamb with four* of his own for doing this, for being so heartless."

⁷ "You are that man!" Nathan told David. "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: I anointed you king of Israel, and I saved you from Saul.

⁸ I gave your master's house to you and placed your master's wives in your lap. I gave you the kingdom of Israel and Judah, and if that hadn't been enough, I would have given you so much more.

⁹ So why have you treated what Lord said with contempt by doing evil in his sight? You killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword and stole his wife—you killed him using the sword of the Ammonites.

¹¹ This is what the Lord says: I'm going to bring disaster in you from your own family. I will take your wives before your very eyes and give them to someone else, and he will sleep openly with your wives where everyone can see.

¹² You did it all in secret, but I will do it openly where everyone in all of Israel can see."

¹³ David said to Nathan, "I have sinned against the Lord."

"The Lord has forgiven your sins. You're not going to die," Nathan replied.

¹⁴ "But because by doing this you have treated the Lord with complete contempt, the son you have will die."

¹⁵ Then Nathan went home.

The Lord made the child that Uriah's wife had borne to David become very sick.

¹⁶ David pleaded with God on behalf of the boy. He fasted, went to his bedroom, and spent the night lying in sackcloth‡ on the ground.

¹⁷ His senior officials approached him and tried to help him up from the ground, but he didn't want to, and he refused their appeals to eat.

¹⁸ On the seventh day the child died. But David's officials were scared to tell him that the child was dead, for they said to each other, "Look, while the child was still alive, we talked with him, and he refused to listen to us. How on earth can we tell him the child is dead? He may do something really bad!"

¹⁹ But David saw his officials were whispering among themselves, he realized that the child was dead. So he asked his officials, "Did the child die?"

"Yes, he died," they replied.

²⁰ David got up from the ground, washed and put on scented oils, and changed his clothes. Then he went to the house of the Lord and worshiped. Afterwards he went back home, and asked for some food. So they served him a meal which he ate.

²¹ "Why are you acting like this?" his officials asked him. "While the child was still alive, you fasted and cried aloud, but now that he's dead, you get up and eat."

* 12:6 See Exodus 22:1. † 12:10 "Sword" used in these verses refers to any kind of violent death.

‡ 12:16 "In sackcloth": Septuagint and Dead Sea Scrolls reading.

²² David replied, "While the child was still alive, I fasted and cried aloud, for I thought to myself, 'Who knows? Maybe the Lord will be gracious to me and let him live.'

²³ But now that he's dead, what's the point for me to go on fasting? Can I bring him back again? One day I will die and go to him, but he will never come back to me."

²⁴ David consoled his wife Bathsheba, and he made love to her. She gave birth to a son, and named him Solomon. The Lord loved the child,

²⁶ At this time Joab had been fighting against the Ammonite town of Rabbah, and had captured the royal fortress.

²⁷ Joab sent messengers to David to tell him, "I have attacked Rabbah and I have also captured its water supply.

²⁸ So please call up the rest of the army, besiege the town, and capture it. Otherwise I will capture the city, and I will get the credit."

²⁹ So David called up the rest of the army and marched on Rabbah. He attacked it and captured it.

³⁰ He took the crown from the head of their king, and it was placed on David's head. It weighed a talent of gold and was decorated with precious stones. David took a large amount of plunder from the town.

³¹ David took the inhabitants and forced them to work with saws, iron picks, and axes, and he also made them work making bricks.* He did the same in all the Ammonite towns. Then David and the whole Israelite army returned to Jerusalem.

² Amnon became so infatuated with his sister Tamar that he felt sick. She was a virgin, and Amnon saw it was impossible for him to have her.

³ However, Amnon had a friend named Jonadab, and he was the son of David's brother Shimeah. Jonadab was a very cunning man.

⁴ He asked Amnon, "Why are you, the king's son, so down every morning? Why don't you tell me what's wrong?"

"I'm in love with Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister," Amnon replied.

⁵ "Lie down on your bed and pretend you're sick," Jonadab told him. "When your father comes to see you, tell him, 'Please have my sister Tamar come and give me some food to eat. She can make it as I watch and she can hand it to me.'"

⁶ So Amnon lay down and pretended to be sick. When the king came to see him, Amnon asked him, "Please have my sister Tamar come and make a couple of pancakes as I watch, and she can hand them to me to eat."

⁷ Then David sent a message to Tamar at the palace: "Please be so kind as to go to the house of your brother Amnon and make him some food."

⁸ So Tamar went to the house of her brother Amnon to where he was lying down. She took some dough, kneaded it, and cooked the pancakes as he watched.

⁹ Then she took the pan and emptied it out before him, but he refused to eat. "Everybody leave me!" Amnon shouted. Everyone left.

¹⁰ Then Amnon said to Tamar, "Bring the food here into my bedroom so you can hand it to me to eat." So Tamar took the pancakes she had made to her brother Amnon in his bedroom.

¹¹ But as she handed him the food, he grabbed hold of her, and said, "Come to bed with me, my sister!"

¹² "No, you're my brother!" she exclaimed. "Don't rape me! That's not what we do in Israel! Don't do something so shameful!"

¹³ Stop and think about me! How could I bear such a disgrace? Think about yourself too! You'd be treated with contempt as a complete fool in Israel! Please talk with the king, for he won't stop you marrying me."

¹⁵ Then Amnon hated Tamar with immense hatred. His hatred was so strong that it was greater than the love he'd had before. "Get up! Get lost!" he told her.

¹⁶ "No! Don't do this!" she answered. "Sending me away in disgrace would be an even greater evil than what you've already done to me." But he wouldn't listen to her.

¹⁷ He called for his servant and said, "Get rid of this woman and lock the door behind her!"

¹⁸ So his servant threw her out and locked the door behind her. Tamar was wearing the long robe of a princess, which is what the king's virgin daughters wore.

¹⁹ Tamar put ashes on her head and tore her long robe. She put her hands on her head, she went away crying loudly.

²⁰ Her brother Absalom found her and asked, "Has brother Amnon been with you? Keep quiet for the moment, my sister. He's your brother. Don't be so upset about it." So Tamar lived as a ruined and abandoned woman in her brother Absalom's home.

²¹ When King David heard about it, he was very angry.

²³ Some two years later, when his sheepshearers were at Baal-hazor near Ephraim, Absalom invited all the king's sons to join the celebrations.*

²⁴ He went to the king and said, "I, your servant, have hired shearers. Would the king and his servants please join me?"

²⁵ "No, my son," the king replied, "we can't all go. We would be a burden to you." Even though Absalom went on asking, he was not willing to go, but he did give Absalom his blessing.

²⁶ "Well then, at least let my brother Amnon join us," Absalom responded.

"Why do you want him to go?" the king asked.

²⁷ But Absalom kept on asking, so the king sent Amnon and his other sons.

²⁸ Absalom gave orders to his men, saying, "Pay attention! When Amnon is feeling happy from drinking wine and I tell you, 'Attack Amnon!' then kill him. Don't be afraid. I myself am giving you this order. Be strong and be brave."

* 13:23 "To join the celebrations." Added for clarity, the yearly sheepshearing was also a time for feasting.

²⁹ So Absalom's men did what Absalom had ordered and killed Amnon. Then all the rest of the king's sons jumped up, got on their mules, and ran away.

³⁰ While they were on their way back, David received a message, "Absalom has killed all the king's sons—there's not a single one left!"

³³ So, Your Majesty, please don't believe the report that all the king's sons are dead. Only Amnon is dead."

³⁴ In the meantime, Absalom had run away.

When the watchman in Jerusalem[†] looked out, he saw a large crowd coming along the road west of him, down the side of the hill.[‡]

³⁵ Jonadab told the king, "Can you see? The king's sons are arriving! It's exactly as your servant said."

³⁷ Absalom ran away to Talmi, son of Ammihud, the king of Geshur. Every day David mourned for his son Amnon.[§]

³⁹ King David longed to go and see Absalom, for he had finished grieving over the death of Amnon.

² So Joab sent a messenger to Tekoa to bring back a wise woman who lived there. He told her, "Pretend to be a mourner. Put on clothes for mourning, and don't use any scented oils. Be like a woman who has been in mourning for the dead a long time.

³ Then go to the king and tell him this." Joab told her what to say.

⁴ When the woman from Tekoa went to see the king, she bowed facedown to the ground in respect, and said, "Please help me, Your Majesty!"

"Sadly I'm a widow. My husband is dead," she replied.

⁶ "Your Majesty, I had two sons. They had a fight outside, and there was nobody there to stop them. One of them hit the other, and killed him.

⁷ Now the whole family is against me. They're saying, 'Hand over your son who killed his brother so we can put him to death for murdering his brother. That way he won't inherit anything either!' By doing this they would snuff out the last ember of hope I have to carry on my husband's name and family in the world."

8 "Go on home," the king told the woman, "and I myself will make sure your case is dealt with for you."

9 "Thank you, Your Majesty," said the woman. "I and my family will take the blame,[†] and may Your Majesty and your family be held to be innocent."

10 "If anyone complains to you about it, bring him here to me, and he won't bother you again!" the king told her.

11 "Please, Your Majesty," the woman continued, "swear by the Lord your God that you will stop the person wanting to avenge the murder from making it worse by killing my son!"

"As the Lord lives," he promised, "not a single hair from your son's head will fall to the ground."

12 "Could I please ask for one other thing, Your Majesty?" the woman asked.

"Go ahead," he replied.

13 "So why have you schemed in a similar way against the people of God?" the woman asked. "Since Your Majesty just decided my case by what you said, haven't you convicted yourself because you refuse to bring back the son you banished?"

14 Yes, we all have to die. We're like water spilled on the ground that can't be collected again. But that's not what God does. Instead he works out ways for anyone who is banished to come back home to him.

15 That's why I've come to explain this to Your Majesty, because someone has frightened me. So I thought to myself, I will go and speak to the king. Perhaps he will grant my request.

16 Perhaps the king will listen and save me from the man who would cut off both me and my son from God's chosen people.

17 I thought: May what Your Majesty says bring me peace, for Your Majesty is able to tell the difference between good and evil, just like an angel of God. May the Lord your God be with you!"

18 "Please don't refuse to answer the question I'm about to ask," the king said to the woman.

"Please ask your question, Your Majesty," she replied.

19 "Is all this Joab's doing?" the king asked.

The woman replied, "As you live, Your Majesty, no one can hide anything from you. Yes, it was Joab, your officer, who ordered me to do this—he told me exactly what to say.

20 He did so to show the other side of the situation, but Your Majesty is as wise as an angel of God, and you know everything that happens in this country."

21 The king said to Joab, "Fine, I'll do it. Go and bring young Absalom back."

22 Joab bowed down with his face to the ground in respect, and blessed the king. "Today," said Joab, "I, your servant, know that you approve of me, Your Majesty, because you have granted my request."

23 Joab went to Geshur, and brought Absalom back to Jerusalem.

[†] 14:9 The woman is suggesting that because she is not following the Law of Moses in executing the murderer then her and her family are to be blamed.

²⁴ But the king gave this order, "He may return to his home, but he's not to come and see me." So Absalom returned to his own home, but he didn't go and see the king.

²⁶ He cut his hair every year because it got so heavy—it weighed two hundred royal shekels.

²⁷ He had three sons, and a daughter named Tamar—a very beautiful woman.

²⁸ Absalom lived in Jerusalem for two years but was not permitted to see the king.

²⁹ Absalom called Joab to arrange for him to see the king, for Joab, to send him to the king, but Joab refused to come. Absalom called Joab again, but Joab still wouldn't come.

³⁰ So Absalom told his servants, "Look, Joab's field is next to mine, and he has barley growing there. Go and set it on fire!" Absalom's servants went and set the field on fire.

³¹ Joab went to Absalom's house and asked "Why did your servants set my field on fire?"

³² "Look here," said Absalom, "I sent for you, saying, 'Come here. I want you to go to the king and ask: Why did I bother coming back from Geshur? It would have been better for me to stay there.' So go and arrange for me to see the king, and if I'm guilty of anything, he can kill me."

³³ So Joab went and told the king what Absalom had said. Then David summoned Absalom, who came and bowed down with his face to the ground before him in respect. Then the king kissed Absalom.

² He used to get up early and stand by the main road that led to the city gate. When people brought a case to the king for his decision, Absalom would call out and ask them, "What town are you from?" If they replied, "Your servant is from this particular tribe of Israel,"

⁴ Then he would say, "If only there was someone to appoint me as judge for the country. Then everyone could come to me with their case or complaint, and I would give them justice."

⁵ When anyone came to bow down before him, Absalom would stop them by reaching out his hand, taking hold of him, and kissing him.

⁶ This is how Absalom treated all the Israelites who came to the king for his judgment. So he captured the loyalty of the men of Israel.

⁷ Four* years later Absalom asked the king, "Please let me go to Hebron to fulfill a promise I made to the Lord.

⁸ For I, your servant, made this promise while living at Geshur in Aram, saying: 'If the Lord does bring me back to Jerusalem, I will worship the Lord in Hebron.' "

* 15:7 Septuagint and Syriac reading. The Hebrew has "forty."

9 "Go in peace," said the king. So Absalom went to Hebron.

10 Then Absalom sent his accomplices among all the tribes of Israel, saying, "When you hear the sound of the ram's horn, you shout, 'Absalom is king at Hebron!'"

11 Two hundred men from Jerusalem went with Absalom. They had been invited and went in all innocence, because they didn't know anything about what was planned.

12 While Absalom was offering sacrifices, he sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's advisor, asking him to come from Giloh, the town where he lived. The conspiracy grew stronger, and Absalom's followers went on increasing.

13 A messenger came to tell David, "Absalom has the loyalty of the men of Israel."

14 David said to all the officials with him in Jerusalem, "Quick! Let's go! Otherwise we won't be able to get away from Absalom! We must leave immediately, or he will soon catch up with us, attack us, and kill the people here in the city."

15 "Whatever Your Majesty decides, we'll do what you want," the king's servants replied.

16 The king set off with his whole household following him, but he left behind ten concubines to look after the palace.

17 The king left with all his soldiers following him. He stopped at the last house,

18 and all his men marched past him, including all the Cherethites and Pelethites, and six hundred Gittites who had come with him from Gath.

19 The king said to Ittai the Gittite, "Why are you coming with us too? Go back and stay with the new king, because you are a foreigner and an exile a long way from home.

20 You only just got here, so why should I make you wander around with us now when I don't even know where I am going? Go back and take your men with you. May the Lord show you kindness and faithfulness."

21 But Ittai answered the king, "As the Lord lives, and as Your Majesty lives, wherever Your Majesty may be, whether dead or alive, that's where your servant will be!"

22 "Go ahead, march on!" David replied. Ittai the Gittite marched past with all his men and all the families that were with him.

23 All the people in the countryside were crying aloud as everyone with David passed by. They crossed the Kidron Valley with the king on the way toward the wilderness.

24 Zadok was there too, and all the Levites were with him, carrying the Ark of God's Agreement. They set down the Ark of God, and Abiathar offered sacrifices until everyone had left the city.

25 Then the king told Zadok, "Take the Ark of God back to the city. If I find the Lord approves of me, he will bring me back and let me see both the Ark and his Tent again.

26 But if he says, 'I'm not happy with you,' then here I stand. Let him do to me whatever he thinks best."

²⁷ The king also told Zadok the priest, “You understand the situation, don’t you?[†] Go back to the city safely with your son Ahimaaz, and also Jonathan, son of Abiathar. You and Abiathar take both of your sons back with you.

²⁹ Zadok and Abiathar took the Ark of God back to Jerusalem and remained there.

³² When David arrived at the top of the Mount of Olives, where people worshiped God, there to meet him was Hushai the Archite, with his robe torn and with dust on his head.

³³ David told him, “If you come with me, you’ll only be a burden to me, ³⁴ but if you go back to the city and tell Absalom, ‘I will be your servant, Your Majesty! Formerly I worked for your father, but now I’ll work for you,’ then you can block Ahithophel’s advice for me.

³⁵ Zadok and Abiathar, the priests, will be there too. Tell them everything you hear in the king’s palace.

³⁷ David’s friend Hushai arrived back in Jerusalem at the same time Absalom was entering the city.

¹ After David had gone a little way past the top of the mountain, there was Ziba, Mephibosheth’s servant, waiting to meet him. He had two donkeys already saddled with him carrying two hundred loaves of bread, a hundred raisin cakes, a hundred summer fruits,^{*} and a skin of wine.

Ziba replied, “The donkeys are for the king’s family to ride on, the bread and summer fruit are for the men to eat, and the wine is for those to drink who get worn out in the wilderness.”

Ziba answered, “He decided to stay in Jerusalem. He’s saying, ‘Today the people of Israel will give me back my grandfather’s kingdom.’”

⁴ The king told Ziba, “I give you everything that belongs to Mephibosheth!”

[†] 15:27 “You understand the situation, don’t you?” This could be translated as “you see?” or “aren’t you a seer?” The implication is that David is trusting Zadok to let him know what is happening in Jerusalem. [‡] 15:31 Ahithophel, David’s advisor, was Eliam’s father according to 23:34, who in turn was the father of Bathsheba (11:3). This would surely have been a factor in Ahithophel joining Absalom’s rebellion. ^{*} 16:1 “Summer fruits”: probably figs. [†] 16:3 Referring to Mephibosheth.

⁷ "Get out of here, just get out, you murderer, you wicked man!" Shimei said as he cursed.

⁸ "The Lord has paid you back for all of Saul's family that you killed, and for stealing Saul's throne. The Lord has given the kingdom to your son Absalom. Look how you've ended up in disaster because you're a murderer!"

⁹ Abishai, son of Zeruiah, asked the king, "Why should this dead dog curse Your Majesty? Let me go and cut off his head!"

¹⁰ "What's that got to do with you, you sons of Zeruiah?" the king replied. "If he's cursing me because the Lord told him to, then who can question what he's doing?"

¹¹ David said to Abishai and to all his officers, "Look, if my very own son is trying to kill me, why shouldn't this Benjamite[‡] want to even more! Leave him alone; let him curse me, for the Lord told him to.

¹² Perhaps the Lord will see how I'm suffering and will pay me back with good for his curses today."

¹⁴ The king and everyone with him were tired out when they arrived at the Jordan.[§] David rested there.

¹⁵ In the meantime Absalom and all the Israelites with him arrived in Jerusalem, along with Ahithophel.

¹⁶ Hushai the Arkite, David's friend, went to see Absalom and declared, "Long live the king! Long live the king!"

¹⁷ "Is this how you show loyalty to your friend?" Absalom asked. "Why didn't you leave with your friend?"

¹⁸ "Certainly not!" Hushai replied. "I'm on the side of the one chosen by the Lord, by the army, and by all the people of Israel. I will remain loyal to him.

¹⁹ In any case, why shouldn't I serve his son? In the same way I served your father I will serve you."

²⁰ Then Absalom asked Ahithophel, "Give me your advice. What shall we do?"

²¹ Ahithophel told him, "Go and sleep with your father's concubines—the ones he left here to look after the palace. Then everyone in Israel will realize that you have so offended your father there's no turning back, which will encourage all your supporters."

²² So they put up a tent on the palace roof and Absalom went in and had sex with his father's concubines in the full view of everyone.

[‡] 16:11 The people of the tribe of Benjamin were generally Saul's supporters, and Saul is described as being a Benjamite in 1 Samuel 9:21. [§] 16:14 "Jordan." Not in the Hebrew, but given by some of the Septuagint manuscripts. Since the destination was given in 15:28 as "the fords of the wilderness" this appears reasonable.

²³ At that time Ahithophel's advice was like receiving messages from God himself. This was how both David and Absalom viewed Ahithophel's advice.

² I'll attack him while he is tired and weak. I'll catch him by surprise and all his men will run away. I'll only kill the king

³ and bring everybody else back to you. When everybody returns apart from the one man you're after, the whole country will be at peace."

⁴ This plan looked good to Absalom and to all the elders of Israel.

⁵ But then Absalom said, "Call in Hushai the Archite too, and let's hear what he's got to say as well."

⁶ When Hushai came in, Absalom, asked him, "Ahithophel has recommended this plan. Should we go ahead with it? If not, what's your suggestion?"

⁹ Right now he's holed up in a cave or some place like that. If he attacks first and some of your men are killed, people who hear about it will say, 'Absalom's men are being slaughtered.'

¹⁰ Then even the bravest soldier who has the heart of a lion will be scared to death, because everyone in Israel knows that your father is a powerful man who has brave men with him.

¹¹ My recommendation is that you call up the entire Israelite army from Dan to Beersheba—an army as numerous as the sand on the seashore! Once they've assembled, then you yourself lead them into battle!

¹² Then we'll attack David wherever he is, and we'll fall on him as dew falls on the ground. Neither he nor a single one of all the men with him will be left alive!

¹³ If he tries to find protection in a town, all of Israel will bring ropes to that town, and we will pull it down into the valley so that not even a stone will be left."

¹⁴ Absalom and all the Israelite leaders said, "Hushai the Arkite's advice is better than Ahithophel's." For the Lord had decided to block Ahithophel's good advice in order that he might bring disaster on Absalom.

¹⁵ Hushai spoke to Zadok and Abiathar, the priests, and told them, "Ahithophel has advised Absalom and the Israelite leaders to act in one way, but I have advised them to act in this different way.

¹⁶ So send a message quickly to David and tell him, 'Don't wait and spend the night at the fords of the wilderness, but cross over immediately or the king and everybody with him will be destroyed.' " *

¹⁷ Jonathan and Ahimaaz were staying at En-rogel because they couldn't be seen entering the city. A servant girl would come and tell them what was happening. Then they would go and let King David know.

* 17:16 "Destroyed": literally, "swallowed up."

¹⁹ His wife took a cloth to cover the well and spread it out over the opening and then scattered grain over it. No one knew the men were there.

²² David and everybody with him got up and crossed the Jordan. By the time it got light there wasn't anybody who hadn't crossed over.

²⁴ David went on to Mahanaim, and Absalom crossed over the Jordan with the entire Israelite army.

²⁶ The Israelites under Absalom set up camp in the land of Gilead.

²⁹ honey, curds, sheep, and cheese made from cow's milk for David and the people with him to eat. For they said, "The people are hungry, tired, and thirsty from their time in the wilderness."

² David sent the army out divided into three sections. One third was commanded by Joab, one third was commanded by Abishai, son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and one third was commanded by Ittai the Gittite. The king told the men, "I myself will go out into battle with you."

³ But the men replied, "No, you must not go out into battle! For if we have to run away, they won't care about us. Even if half of us die, they won't care about that either. But you are worth ten thousand of us, so it's better if you stay here and send us help from the town."

⁴ "I will do whatever you think best," the king replied. The king stood beside the gate while all his men marched out by hundreds and by thousands.

⁶ David’s army marched out to face the Israelites in battle, which was fought in the forest of Ephraim.

⁸ The battle covered the whole countryside, and that day more died because of the forest than were killed by the sword.

¹⁰ One of David’s men saw what happened, so he told Joab, “I just saw Absalom hanging from an oak tree!”

¹¹ “What! You saw him like that?” Joab said to the man. “Why didn’t you kill him right then and there? I would have given you ten shekels of silver and a soldier’s belt as a reward!”

¹² But the man replied, “Even if you gave me a thousand shekels of silver, I wouldn’t hurt the king’s son. We all heard the king give the order to you, Abishai, and Ittai, ‘Look after young Absalom for me.’”^{*}

¹³ If I had disobeyed and killed Absalom†—and the king finds out everything—you yourself wouldn’t have defended me.”

¹⁴ “I’m not going to waste time waiting around like this with you!” Joab told him. He grabbed three spears and drove them into Absalom’s heart while he was still alive, hanging from the oak tree.

¹⁵ Ten of Joab’s armor-bearers surrounded Absalom and hacked him to death.

¹⁷ They took Absalom and threw him into a deep pit in the forest, and piled a large heap of stones over him. All the Israelites ran away to their homes.

¹⁸ Absalom while he was alive had made a stone pillar and set it up in the King’s Valley as a memorial to himself, for he thought to himself, “I don’t have a son‡ to keep the memory of my name alive.” He named the pillar after himself, and it’s called Absalom’s Monument even today.

¹⁹ Then Ahimaaz, son of Zadok, said, “Please let me run and take the good news to the king that the Lord has vindicated him over his enemies.”

²⁰ “You’re not the man to take the good news today,” Joab replied. “You can do it some other time, but don’t do it today, because the king’s son is dead.”

²² Ahimaaz asked Joab again, “Never mind what happens, please let me run too, after the Ethiopian!” “Son, why do you want to run—you won’t get anything for it?” Joab replied.

^{*} 18:12 The Hebrew here is difficult, and is not the same as verse 5. † 18:13 Alternatively, “If I had put my own life in danger by killing Absalom.” ‡ 18:18 In 14:27 it’s recorded that Absalom had three sons, so either they had died or Absalom had disowned them.

²³ "Doesn't matter, I want to run anyway," he said.

"Fine, start running!" Joab told him. Ahimaaz took the route over flatter ground and overtook the Ethiopian.

²⁴ David was sitting between the inside and outside gates. The watchman climbed up to the roof of the gateway by the wall. He looked out, and saw a man running by himself.

²⁵ So he shouted down to tell the king.

"If he's by himself then he's bringing good news," the king replied.

As the first runner got closer,

²⁶ the watchman saw someone else running, and he shouted down to the gatekeeper, "Look! There's another man running by himself!"

"He'll also be bringing good news," said the king.

²⁷ "The first man seems to me to be running like Ahimaaz, son of Zadok," said the watchman.

²⁸ Ahimaaz shouted out greetings to the king. Then he came and he bowed facedown before the king. "Blessed be the Lord your God!" he said. "He has defeated the men who rebelled against Your Majesty!"

²⁹ "How is young Absalom? Is he alright?" the king asked.

Ahimaaz answered, "It was very chaotic when your officer Joab sent me, your servant. I really don't know what was happening."

³⁰ "Stand to one side and wait," the king told him. So Ahimaaz stood to one side and waited.

³¹ Right then the Ethiopian arrived and said, "Your Majesty, listen to the good news! Today the Lord has defeated all those who rebelled against you!"

³² "How is young Absalom? Is he alright?" the king asked.

The Ethiopian replied, "May what has happened to the young man happen to Your Majesty's enemies, and to everyone who rebels against you!"

³³ The king broke down. He went up to the room over the gate and cried. As he walked, he sobbed out, "My son Absalom! My son, my son Absalom! I wish I'd died instead of you, Absalom, my son, my son!"

² Victory that day was turned into mourning for the whole army, because they were told, "The king is grieving for his son."

⁴ The king held his face in his hands and sobbed loudly, "My son Absalom! Absalom, my son, my son!"

⁵ Then Joab went inside and told the king, "Today you have humiliated all your men who have saved your life, and the lives of your sons, your daughters, your wives, and your concubines.

⁶ You did this by loving those who hate you and hating those who love you. Today you have made it plain that the commanders and the men don't mean anything to you. Today I'm sure that you'd be quite happy if Absalom was alive and all of us were dead!"

⁸ So the king got up and went to sit at the town gate.* Everybody was told: "Look, the king is sitting at the town gate." They all came to see the king.

In the meantime the Israelites had run away and gone to their homes.

⁹ Everyone among the tribes of Israel were arguing with each other, saying, "The king rescued us from the persecution of our enemies, he saved us from the Philistines, but now he's had to run from the country because of Absalom.

¹⁰ Now Absalom, the man we chose to be our king by anointing him, he's died in battle. Why don't we do something and invite King David† to come back?"

¹¹ King David sent this message to Zadok and Abiathar, the priests: "Tell the elders of Judah, 'Are you going to be the last people to bring the king back to his palace, since the king has heard that all of Israel wants it?"

¹² You are my brothers, my own flesh and blood. Why should you be the last ones to want to bring the king back?"

¹³ Tell Amasa, 'Aren't you my flesh and blood too? May God punish me very severely if from now on you're not the commander of my army instead of Joab!' "

¹⁴ Amasa convinced all the people of Judah to unitedly support David,‡ so they sent a message to the king: "Please come back, you and everyone with you."

¹⁵ The king began his journey back, and when he arrived at the Jordan, the men of Judah met him at Gilgal to help him cross the river.

¹⁶ Shimei,§ son of Gera, the Benjamite from Bahurim, hurried down with the men of Judah to meet King David.

¹⁸ They crossed at the ford to bring the king's household over and whatever else he wanted. Shimei crossed the Jordan and fell facedown before the king.

²⁰ I, your servant, recognize that I have sinned. But look! Today I'm the first from any of the tribes of Joseph to come down and meet Your Majesty."

²² But David replied, "What's that got do with you, you sons of Zeruiah?* Do you want to be my enemies today? Is this a day to execute anybody in Israel? Aren't I certain that today I'm the king of Israel once more?"

* 19:8 In other words, David made himself accessible to them, rather than stay cooped up in his room. † 19:10 "David": name supplied for clarity. ‡ 19:14 "David": name supplied for clarity.

§ 19:16 See 16:5. * 19:22 David is not only replying to Abishai, but also to Joab, Abishai's brother.

²³ David turned to Shimei and swore an oath to him, "You're not going to die."

²⁴ Then Mephibosheth, Saul's grandson, went to meet the king. He had refused to look after his feet or trim his mustache or have his clothes washed from the day the king left until the day of his peaceful return.

²⁶ Mephibosheth answered, "Your Majesty, my servant Ziba tricked me. I told him, 'Saddle up my donkey[†] so I can ride her and leave with the king,' because you know that I'm lame.

²⁷ Ziba has misrepresented me, your servant, to Your Majesty. However, Your Majesty is like an angel of God, so do what you think best.

²⁸ All my grandfather's family could only expect death from Your Majesty, but you included me, your servant, among those who eat at your table. So what right do I have to ask the king for anything more?"

²⁹ "Why talk any more about these issues of yours?" David responded. "I've decided that you and Ziba should divide the land."

³⁰ Mephibosheth replied to the king, "Let him have it all! I'm just happy that Your Majesty has returned home in peace."

³¹ Barzillai the Gileadite had also come down from Rogelim to help the king cross the Jordan and to make his way onwards from there.

³² Barzillai was very old, eighty years of age, and because he was a very wealthy man, he had provided the king with food while he was staying in Mahanaim.

³³ The king said to Barzillai, "Cross the Jordan with me, and I will provide for you while you stay with me in Jerusalem."

³⁴ "How much longer do you think I have to live so I could go to Jerusalem and stay there with the king?" Barzillai replied.

³⁶ For your servant to cross the Jordan River with the king is enough reward for me![‡]

³⁷ Then let your servant go back home, that I may die in my home town near the tomb of my father and mother. But here is your servant, my son[§] Chimham. Let him cross over with Your Majesty, and treat him as you think best."

³⁸ The king replied, "Chimham will cross over with me, and I will treat him as you think best, and I will do for you whatever you want."

³⁹ So everybody crossed the Jordan first, and then the king crossed over. The king kissed Barzillai and blessed him, and then Barzillai went back home.

⁴⁰ Then the king carried on to Gilgal, and Chimham went with him. The whole army of Judah and half the army of Israel accompanied the king.

⁴¹ But soon the men of Israel who were there came to the king and asked him, "Why did our brothers, the men of Judah, secretly take Your Majesty away and bring you and your household across the Jordan, together with all your men?"

[†] 19:26 Septuagint reading. Hebrew: "Let me saddle up my donkey." [‡] 19:36 These two verses are set out as questions in the Hebrew, but they work better as statements in English. [§] 19:37 The text does not explicitly say that Chimham is Barzillai's son, but some Septuagint manuscripts do so and it is a likely conclusion.

⁴² The men of Judah explained to the men of Israel, "We did this because the king is one of our relatives. Why are you getting upset about this? When did we ever eat the king's food? When did we ever get anything for yourselves?"

⁴³ "We've got ten shares in the king,"* the men of Israel replied, "so we have a greater claim on David than you do. So why do you look down on us? Weren't we the first ones to talk about bringing back our king?" But the men of Judah argued even more strongly than the men of Israel.

¹ A rabble-rouser called Sheba, son of Bichri, from the tribe of Benjamin, happened to be there. He blew the ram's horn and shouted: "We have no interest in David, no commitment to Jesse's son. Israelites, let's all go home!"

² So all the men of Israel abandoned David to follow Sheba, son of Bichri. But the men of Judah accompanied their king all the way from the Jordan to Jerusalem.

⁴ Then the king ordered Amasa, "Call up the army of Judah. Have them come to me within three days, and you come too."

⁵ Amasa called up the army of Judah, but he took longer than the time he was given.

⁶ David then spoke to Abishai, saying, "Now Sheba the son of Bichri is going to cause us more trouble than Absalom did. Take the king's men and chase him down, or he will take over fortified towns and get away from us."

⁸ While they were at the large rock in Gibeon, Amasa caught up with them. Joab was dressed for battle. Over his clothes was a belt around his waist with a dagger in its sheath. As he moved forward, it fell out.[‡]

⁹ "How are you doing, my brother?" Joab asked Amasa. Joab held Amasa by the beard with his right hand to kiss him.

¹⁰ Amasa wasn't prepared for the dagger in Joab's left hand. Joab stabbed him in the belly and his intestines poured out onto the ground. Joab didn't need to stab him twice, because Amasa was already dead. Then Joab and his brother Abishai set off in pursuit of Sheba.

¹¹ One of Joab's men stood beside Amasa and called out, "If you're on Joab's side, and if you are on David's side, then follow Joab!"

* 19:43 Referring to the ten northern tribes.

* 20:3 See 15:16.

[†] 20:7 "The Cherethites, the Pelethites": David's personal bodyguard. [‡] 20:8 The details of what is happening here are not clear. Some think Joab had a concealed dagger which fell out, perhaps just into his tunic. Others think he intentionally dropped his sword so he would appear to be unarmed, but that he had another weapon, a dagger, still in his belt.

¹² But Amasa was there, lying in his blood in the middle of the main road. When the man saw that everybody was stopping to look, he pulled the body off the road into a field and threw a cloth over it.

¹⁴ In the meantime Sheba had gone around all the tribes of Israel[§] and eventually ended up the town of Abel-beth-maacah. All the Bichrites* gathered for battle and followed him into the town.

¹⁵ Joab's army came and besieged Sheba in Abel-Beth-Maacah. They built a siege ramp against the town's outer wall. While all of Joab's army was battering the wall to knock it down,

¹⁶ a wise woman from the town called out, "Listen! Please listen! Tell Joab, 'Come over here so I can speak to you.'"

¹⁷ He went over to her, and the woman asked, "Are you Joab?"

"Yes, that's me," he replied.

"Please listen to what I, your servant, have to say," she said.

"I'm listening," he replied.

¹⁸ Then the woman said, "In times gone by people used to say, 'If you want advice, go to Abel,' and that's how arguments were settled.

¹⁹ I am one of the peaceful and faithful people of Israel. You're trying to destroy a town that's like a mother in Israel. Why do you want to tear down the Lord's possession?"

²⁰ "Certainly not!" Joab answered. "It's not what I want—to destroy or tear down this town!

²¹ That's not the intention. But a man called Sheba, son of Bichri, from the hill country of Ephraim, has rebelled against the king, against David. Just hand over this one man and I will withdraw from the town."

"Fine," the woman replied, "his head will be thrown over the wall to you."

²² The woman went and talked with everyone about her wise plan. So they cut off the head of Sheba and threw it to Joab. Then Joab blew the ram's horn to sound the retreat, and all his men left the town and went home. Joab returned to the king in Jerusalem.

²³ Joab commanded the whole army of Israel. Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was in charge of the Cherethites and Pelethites.

²⁴ Adoniram was in charge of the labor force. Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, kept the official records.

²⁶ and Ira the Jairite was David's priest.

¹ Once during David's reign there was a famine for three years in a row, and David asked the Lord about it. The Lord replied, "It's because Saul and his family are guilty of murdering the Gibeonites."

² David summoned the Gibeonites and spoke with them. The Gibeonites were not Israelites, but what was left of the Amorites. The Israelites had sworn an oath to them,* but in his nationalistic passion for the Israelites and Judah, Saul had tried to wipe them out.

* 21:2 See Joshua 3.

3 “What can I do for you?” David asked the Gibeonites. “How can I compensate you so that you may bless the Lord’s people?”

4 “This isn’t a question of us receiving payment in silver or gold from Saul or his family,” the Gibeonites replied. “In addition we don’t have the right to have anyone in Israel put to death for us.”

“I’ll do whatever you ask,” David answered.

5 They replied, “Regarding the man who destroyed us, who planned to prevent us having any place to live in the whole country of Israel,

6 have seven of Saul’s male descendants be handed over to us, and we will hang them in the presence of the Lord at Gibeon of Saul, the Lord’s chosen one.”

“I will hand them over to you,” said the king.

7 However, the king spared Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, because of the oath sworn before the Lord between David and Jonathan, son of Saul.

8 The king took Armoni and Mephibosheth, the two sons of Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, whom she had borne to Saul, and the five sons of Merab,[†] the daughter of Saul, whom she had borne to Adriel, son of Barzillai the Meholahite.

9 He handed them over to the Gibeonites, and they hanged them on the hill in the presence of the Lord. All seven of them died at the same time, executed at the beginning of the barley harvest.

10 Rizpah the daughter of Aiah took some sackcloth and spread it out for herself on a rock.[‡] From the beginning of the harvest until the time the rains came and poured down on the bodies, she kept the birds away from them during the day and the wild animals at night.

11 When David heard what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, Saul’s concubine of Saul had done,

12 he retrieved the bones of Saul and his son Jonathan from the men of Jabesh-gilead, who had taken them from the public square of Beth-shan where the Philistines had hung the bodies after they had killed Saul at Gilboa.

13 David had the bones of Saul and his son Jonathan brought back, and also had the bones of those who had been hanged gathered up.

14 They buried the bones of Saul and his son Jonathan at Zela in the land of Benjamin, in the tomb of Saul’s father Kish. Once they finished doing everything the king had ordered, God answered their prayers to end the famine in the land.

15 There was war once more between the Philistines and Israel. David went down with his men to fight the Philistines, and he got worn out.

16 Ishbi-benob, one of the descendants of Rapha, whose bronze spear weighed three hundred shekels, and who was carrying a new sword, said he was going to kill David.

17 But Abishai, son of Zeruiah, came to his rescue, attacked the Philistine, and killed him. Then David’s men swore to him, “Don’t ever go out with us to battle again, so that the Israel’s light isn’t snuffed out!”

[†] 21:8 The Hebrew text reads Michal, but she is identified as childless in 6:23, and Merab is given as the wife of Adriel in 1 Samuel 18:19. [‡] 21:10 Probably both to cover the ground and as a sheet above her to protect her from sun and rain.

¹⁸ Some time after this there was another battle with the Philistines at Gob. But then Sibbecai the Hushathite killed Saph, one of the descendants of Repha.

¹⁹ In another battle with the Philistines at Gob, Elhanan, son of Jair, from Bethlehem, killed the brother of Goliath the Gittite. The shaft of his spear was as thick as a weaver's rod.

²⁰ In yet another battle at Gath, there was a gigantic man, who had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, making twenty-four all. He too was descended from the giants.

²¹ But when he insulted Israel, Jonathan, son of Shimea, David's brother, killed him.

²² These four were the descendants of the giants in Gath, but they were all killed by David and his men.

² He sang:

"The Lord is my rock, my fortress, and my Savior.

³ He is my God, my rock who protects me. He shields me from harm, his power saves me,[†] he keeps me safe. He is my protector; he is my savior; he saves me from violence.

⁷ In my despair I called on the Lord; I called out to my God. He heard my voice from his Temple; my cry for help reached his ears.

⁸ The earth shook to and fro; the foundations of the heavens trembled, shaking because of his anger.

⁹ Smoke came out of his nostrils, and fire from his mouth, burning coals that blazed before him.

¹⁰ He pushed aside the heavens and came down, with dark clouds beneath his feet.

¹¹ Riding on a heavenly being[‡] he flew, swooping on the wings of the wind.

¹² He hid himself in darkness, covering himself with black rainclouds.

¹⁷ He reached down his hand from above and grabbed hold of me. He dragged me out of the deep water.

* 22:1 This passage parallels Psalms 18. [†] 22:3 Literally, "horn of my salvation." [‡] 22:11 Literally, "cherub," but in English this has become associated with an angelic baby. [§] 22:15 Implied.

18 He rescued me from my powerful enemies, from those who hated me and who were much stronger than me.

19 They came at me at my worst possible moment,* but the Lord supported me.

20 He set me free,† he rescued me because he's happy with me.‡

21 The Lord rewarded me because I do what's right; he repaid me because I am innocent.§

22 For I have followed the Lord's ways; I have not sinned by turning away from my God.

23 I have kept all his laws in mind; I have not ignored his commandments.

24 I am blameless in his sight; I keep myself from sinning.

25 The Lord rewarded me for doing what's right. I am innocent in his sight.

26 You show trust to those who are trusting; you show integrity to those with integrity,*

27 You show yourself pure to those who are pure, but you show yourself astute to those who are crafty.

28 You save the humble, but your eyes watch the proud to bring them down.

29 You, Lord, are my lamp. The Lord lights up my darkness.

30 With you, I can charge down a troop of soldiers; with you, my God, I can climb a fortress wall.

31 God's way is absolutely right.† What the Lord says is trustworthy. He is a shield to all who come to him for protection.

32 For who is God except the Lord? Who is a Rock, except our God?

33 God makes me strong and keeps me safe.

34 He makes me surefooted like the deer, able to walk the heights in safety.

35 He teaches me how to fight in battle; he gives me the strength to draw a bronze bow.

36 You protect me with the shield of your salvation; your help has made me great.

37 You gave me room to walk, and prevented my feet from slipping.

38 I chased my enemies, and caught up with them. I did not turn around until I had destroyed them.

39 I struck them down—they couldn't get up. They fell at my feet.

40 You made me strong for the battle; you made those who rose up against me kneel low before me.

41 You made my enemies run away; I destroyed all my enemies.

42 They cried out for help, but no one came to rescue them. They even called out to the Lord, but he did not answer them.

43 I ground them into dust, like the dust of the earth. I crushed them and threw them out like mud in the street.

44 You rescued me from rebellious people; you have kept me as ruler over nations—people I didn't know now serve me.

* 22:19 Literally, "my day of disaster." † 22:20 Literally, "brought me out to a spacious place."

‡ 22:20 Or "he delights in me." § 22:21 Literally, "because of the cleanness of my hands."

* 22:26 The word used here means "complete" or "sound." † 22:31 The word used here, often translated as "perfect," is the same as in 18:25.

⁴⁵ Foreigners cower before me; as soon as they hear of me, they obey.

⁴⁶ They lose heart, and come trembling in surrender from their strongholds.

⁴⁸ God avenges me, he puts peoples under me,

⁴⁹ He frees me from those who hate me. You keep me safe from those who rebel against me, you save me from violent men.

⁵⁰ That's why I will praise you among the nations, Lord; I will sing praises about who you are.[‡]

⁵¹ You have saved the king so often,[§] showing your trustworthy love to David, your anointed, and to his descendants forever.”

23

¹ These are David's last words. The divine message of David son of Jesse, the divine message of the man made great by God, the one anointed by the God of Jacob, the wonderful psalm-writer of Israel:

² “The Spirit of the Lord spoke through me; my tongue gave his message.

³ Israel's God spoke; Israel's Rock told me, ‘He who rules the people justly, he who rules respecting God,

⁴ is like the light of the morning sunrise on a cloudless dawn; like the shining of raindrops on the new grass growing from the earth.’

⁵ Isn't this how my family is with God? For he has made an everlasting agreement with me, set out in detail and with every part guaranteed. He will make sure to save me and to give me all I want.

⁶ But evil people are like thorns to be thrown aside; they can't be held in the hand.

⁷ The only way to deal with them is to use an iron tool or the handle of a spear. They are completely burned up right where they are.”

⁸ These are the names of the leading warriors who supported David: Josheb-Basshebeth, a Tahkemonite, leader of the Three. Using his spear, he once killed eight hundred men in a single battle.

⁹ After him came Eleazar, son of Dodai, the Ahohite, one of the Three leading warriors. He was with David when they defied the Philistines gathered for battle at Pas-dammin. The Israelites retreated,

¹¹ After him came Shammah, son of Agee, the Hararite. When the Philistines gathered at Lehi, in a field full of lentils, the Israelite army ran away from them,

¹² but Shammah took his stand in the middle of the field, defending it and killing the Philistines. The Lord gave them a great victory.

¹³ At harvest time, the Three, who were part of the Thirty leading warriors, went down to meet David when he was at the cave of Adullam. The Philistine army was camped in the valley of Rephaim.

[‡] 22:50 “Of who you are”: literally, “to your name”: the concept of name in Hebrew is far more than a simple designation; it refers to the character of the person. [§] 22:51 Or “You have given many victories to the king.”

¹⁴ At the time David was in the stronghold, and the Philistine garrison was in Bethlehem.

¹⁵ David was feeling really thirsty, and he said, "If only someone could bring me a drink of water from the well beside the entrance gate to Bethlehem!"

¹⁷ "Lord, never let me do this!" he said. "Isn't it like drinking the blood of these men who risked their lives?" So he did not drink it. This is just some of the things the Three leading warriors did.

¹⁹ He was the most highly regarded of the Three and was their commander, though he was not one of the first Three.†

²¹ Another time he killed a huge Egyptian. The Egyptian had a spear in his hand but Benaiah attacked him with just a club. He grabbed the spear from the Egyptian's hand, and killed him with his own spear.

²³ He was the most highly regarded of the Thirty, though he was not one of the Three. David put him in charge of his personal bodyguard.

²⁴ Included in the Thirty were:

Asahel, Joab's brother; Elhanan, son of Dodo, from Bethlehem;

²⁵ Shammoth the Harorite; Elikai the Harodite,

²⁷ Abiezer from Anathoth; Mebunnai the Hushathite;

²⁸ Zalmon the Ahohite; Maharai the Netophahite;

²⁹ Heleb, son of Baanah the Netophahite; Ittai, son of Ribai from Gibeath of the Benjamites;

³¹ Abi-albon the Arbathite; Azmaveth the Baharumite;

³² Eliahba the Shaalbomite; the sons of Jashem; Jonathan,

³³ son of Shagee the Hararite; Ahiam, son of Sachar the Hararite;

³⁴ Eliphelet, son of Ahasbai, son of the Maacathite, Eliam, son of Ahithophel, the Gilonite,

³⁵ Hezro the Carmelite, Paarai the Arbite,

³⁷ Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Beerothite, the armor-bearer of Joab, son of Zeruiah,

* 23:18 However, Jashobeam has already been mentioned as leader of the Three (11:11), and the killing of 300 by his spear has also been mentioned. Some suggest a confusion of names or alternate spelling, or that this refers to another person altogether as leader not of the Three but the Thirty, or that there was another "Three." † 23:19 Identifying a first and second Three seems to be the simplest solution to what are confusing verses. ‡ 23:20 Septuagint understanding; it may refer to two fighting champions of Moab. § 23:33 The Hebrew does not have "son of."

- ³⁸ Ira the Ithrite; Gareb the Ithrite;
³⁹ and Uriah the Hittite; a total of thirty-seven.

² So David told Joab, the army commander, “Go and count the Israelites from Dan to Beersheba, so I can have a total number.”

³ But Joab replied to the king, “May the Lord multiply his people a hundred times over, Your Majesty, and may you live to see it! But why does Your Majesty want to do this?”

⁴ But the king was adamant so Joab and the army commanders left the king and went to census the people† of Israel.

⁵ They crossed the Jordan and camped on the south side of the town of Aroer, in the middle of the valley, and then continued towards Gad and Jazer.

⁶ Then they went on to Gilead, and to the land of Tahtim-hodshi; and then continued towards Dan, and from Dan around to Sidon.

⁷ After this they went to the fortress of Tyre, and all the towns of the Hivites and Canaanites. They ended up in the Negev of Judah at Beersheba.

⁹ Joab reported to the king the number of people that had been counted. In Israel there were 800,000 fighting men who could use the sword, and in Judah there were 500,000.

¹⁰ Afterwards, David felt really bad for ordering the census. He said to God, “I have committed a terrible sin by doing this. Please take away the guilt of your servant, for I have been very stupid.”

¹² “Go and tell David that this is what the Lord says: ‘I’m giving you three options. Choose one of them, and that’s what I’ll do to you.’ ”

¹³ So Gad went and told David, “You can choose three‡ years of famine in your land; or three months of running from your enemies while they chase you; or three days of plague in your land. So think about it and decide how I should reply to the One who sent me.”

¹⁴ David replied to Gad, “This is an awful situation for me! Please, let the Lord decide my punishment,§ for he is merciful. Don’t let me be punished by people.”

¹⁶ But just as the angel was getting ready to destroy Jerusalem, the Lord relented from causing such a disaster and told the destroying angel, “That’s enough. You can stop now.” Right then the angel of the Lord was standing beside the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

¹⁷ When David saw the angel striking down the people, he said to the Lord, “I’m the one who has sinned; I’m the one who has done wrong. These people are just sheep. What have they done? Punish me and my family instead.”

¹⁸ On that day Gad went to David and told him, “Go and build an altar to the Lord on the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite.”

²⁰ When Araunah looked up, he saw the king and his officials approaching. So he went out and bowed before the king with his face to the ground.

²¹ “Why has Your Majesty come to see me, your servant?” Araunah asked.

“To buy your threshing floor so I can build an altar to the Lord in order that the plague on the people may be stopped.” David replied.

²⁵ David built an altar to the Lord there, and presented burnt offerings and friendship offerings. The Lord answered his prayer for the country, and the plague on Israel was stopped.

* 24:23 “Respond positively”: or, “accept.”

1 Kings

¹ King David had grown old and couldn't keep warm in bed however many blankets they used to cover him.

² So his officials suggested, "Let a search be made on behalf of Your Majesty for a young virgin to serve you and look after you. She can lie next to you and keep you warm."

³ So they searched the whole country of Israel for a beautiful young woman and found Abishag from the town of Shunem and took her to the king.

⁵ Adonijah, son of Haggith, was busy promoting himself, saying "I'm going to be king!" He arranged chariots and horsemen for himself, and fifty men to run ahead of him.

⁶ (Never in his life had his father corrected him. He'd never asked him, "Why did you do that?" He was also very good-looking, and had been born after Absalom.)

⁷ Adonijah discussed his plan with Joab, son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest, who agreed to support him.

⁸ But Zadok the priest, Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophet, Shimei, Rei, and David's bodyguard were not on Adonijah's side.

¹⁰ But he didn't invite Nathan the prophet, Benaiah, David's bodyguard, or his brother Solomon.

¹² Let me give you some advice so you can save your life, and that of your son Solomon.

¹³ Go immediately to King David and ask him, 'Didn't Your Majesty swear to me, your servant, saying, Your son Solomon will definitely be king after me and will sit on my throne? So why is Adonijah saying he's king?'

¹⁴ Then I'll come in while you're still there talking with the king and I'll confirm what you're saying."

¹⁶ Bathsheba bowed low in respect. He asked her, "What is it that you want?"

¹⁷ She replied, "Your Majesty, you swore to me, your servant, by the Lord your God, 'Your son Solomon will definitely be king after me and will sit on my throne.'

¹⁸ But now Adonijah has become king and Your Majesty doesn't even know.

¹⁹ He has sacrificed plenty of cattle, fattened calves, and sheep, and he has invited all the king's sons, Abiathar the priest, and Joab the army commander. But he didn't invite your servant Solomon.

²¹ If you don't do anything,* as soon as Your Majesty dies, I and my son Solomon will be considered traitors..."†

²² Right then, while she was still speaking with the king, Nathan the prophet arrived.

²³ The king was told, "Nathan the prophet is here." Nathan went in to see the king. He bowed down with his face to the ground.

²⁴ Nathan asked the king, "Your Majesty, you must have announced, 'Adonijah will be king after me and will sit on my throne.'

²⁵ For today he has gone and sacrificed many cattle, fattened calves, and sheep, and he has invited all the king's sons, the army commanders, and Abiathar the priest. Right now they are eating and drinking with him, shouting, 'Long live King Adonijah!'

²⁶ But he didn't invite me, your servant, or Zadok the priest, or Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, or your son Solomon.

²⁷ If Your Majesty did this, you certainly didn't inform your officials as to who is meant to sit on your throne as the next king."

²⁸ King David replied, "Call Bathsheba for me." Bathsheba came in and stood before the king.

²⁹ The king swore a vow, saying, "As the Lord lives, who has saved me from all kinds of trouble, just as I swore to you previously by the Lord the God of Israel,

³⁰ telling you Solomon your son will be the next king and he will sit on my throne instead of me—I swear I will do this today."

³¹ Bathsheba bowed with her face to the ground, honoring the king and said, "May Your Majesty King David live forever."

³² Then King David said, "Call for me Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada." When they arrived,

³³ the king told them, "Take the king's officials with you, and have them put Solomon on my own mule and lead him down to the Gihon Spring.

³⁴ There have Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him king of Israel. Blow the trumpet and shout out, 'Long live King Solomon!'

³⁵ Then follow him back up, and have him come and sit on my throne. He is to be king instead of me. I am placing him in charge as ruler of Israel and Judah."

³⁶ "Amen!" replied Benaiah, son of Jehoiada. "May the Lord, the God of my lord the king, confirm this!

³⁷ In the same way the Lord was with my lord the king may he be with Solomon, and may he make his reign even greater than the reign of my lord King David."

³⁸ Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, together with the Cherethites and Pelethites,‡ went and placed Solomon on King David's mule, and led him down to the Gihon Spring.

³⁹ Zadok the priest took the horn containing olive oil from the Tent and anointed Solomon. Then they blew the trumpet, and all the people shouted, "Long live King Solomon!"

* 1:21 "If you don't do anything": literally, "It shall happen." † 1:21 Literally, "sinners." ‡ 1:38 "The Cherethites and Pelethites": the king's bodyguard.

⁴⁰ Everyone followed him, playing flutes and celebrating so happily that the sound shook the earth.

⁴¹ Adonijah and all his guests heard the noise as they were finishing eating. When Joab heard the sound of the trumpet, he asked, "What's all this noise coming from the city?"

⁴³ "Absolutely not!" Jonathan replied. "Our lord King David has made Solomon king!"

⁴⁴ He sent Solomon to be anointed[§] with Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites. They had him ride on the king's mule.

⁴⁵ Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anointed him king at the Gihon Spring. Now they have returned, celebrating with shouts that echo round the city. That's the noise you're hearing.

⁴⁷ and the royal officials have also gone to voice their approval to our lord King David, saying, 'May your God make Solomon's reputation even more famous than your own, and may he make his reign greater than your reign.' The king on his bed bowed his head,

⁴⁸ and said, 'Praise the Lord, the God of Israel! Today he has provided a successor to sit on my throne, and I have been privileged to see it.' "

⁵⁰ Adonijah was terrified of Solomon, so he ran off. He went and grabbed hold of the horns of the altar.

⁵¹ Solomon was told, "Adonijah is terrified of Your Majesty. He has grabbed hold of the horns of the altar, saying, 'Let King Solomon swear today that he won't kill me, his servant!'"

⁵² Solomon replied, "If he is an honorable man, not one hair of his will fall to the ground. But if he shows himself to be evil, he will die."

⁵³ King Solomon had Adonijah brought down from the altar, and he came and bowed down before King Solomon, who told him, "Go home."

2

² "I am about to go the way everybody on earth must go. Be brave, and act like a man.

³ Do what God orders you to do, follow his ways. Keep his rules, his commands, and his laws and regulations, as written in the Law of Moses, so you may be successful in everything you do, and in everything you give your attention to.

⁴ If so, then the Lord will keep his promise to me when he said: 'If your descendants are to live right before me, faithfully and with complete commitment, then you will always have one of them on the throne of Israel.'

⁵ In addition, you know what Joab, son of Zeruiah, did to me and what he did to Abner, son of Ner, and Amasa, son of Jether, the two army

⁷ But be kind to the sons of Barzillai of Gilead. Bring them into your royal court,[†] for they helped me when I ran from your brother Absalom.

⁸ Don't you forget Shimei, son of Gera, the Benjamite from Bahurim who cursed me with painful words when I went to Mahanaim. When he met me at the Jordan I swore to him by the Lord, 'I will not kill you with the sword.'

⁹ So don't leave him unpunished. You're a wise man and you know what you have to do to him—send him down into the grave with blood on his gray head."

¹⁰ Then David died and his was buried in the City of David.

¹³ Adonijah, son of Haggith, went to see Bathsheba, Solomon's mother. She asked him, "Have you come here with good intentions?"[‡] He replied, "Yes, with good intentions."

"Go on," she said.

¹⁵ "You know that the kingdom was mine," he declared, "and everyone in Israel was looking forward to me being their next king. But everything was turned upside-down, and the kingdom passed to my brother, because that's what the Lord wanted.

¹⁶ Now I've just one request to ask of you—please don't say no."

"Tell me," she said.

¹⁷ He went on, "Please talk to King Solomon for me because he won't turn you down. Ask him to give me Abishag from Shunem as my wife."

¹⁸ "Very well," Bathsheba replied. "I will talk to the king for you."

¹⁹ So Bathsheba went to talk to King Solomon for Adonijah. The king got up from his throne to meet her, and bowed before her. Then he sat back down and ordered another throne brought in for his mother. She sat to his right.

²⁰ "I have just one small request to ask of you," she said. "Please don't say no."

The king replied, "Ask away, dear mother. I won't say no to you."

²¹ "Please give Abishag from Shunem to your brother Adonijah as his wife," she replied.

²² King Solomon answered his mother, "Why on earth are you asking me to give Abishag to Adonijah? You might as well ask me to give my brother the kingdom! He is my older brother, and Abiathar the priest and Joab, son of Zeruiah, are on his side!"

* 2:5 Thought by some to be a symbolic act that showed the complete destruction of the victim, ending his movement and his ability to father children. [†] 2:7 Literally, "let them eat from your table." [‡] 2:13 "With good intentions": literally, "peaceably." Knowing the previous history, Bathsheba was right to ask such a question. However, her acceptance of Adonijah's request is surprising, unless she saw what it might lead to.

²³ Then King Solomon vowed before the Lord, "May God punish me, really punish me, if what Adonijah has asked for doesn't cost him his life.

²⁴ So I vow, as the Lord lives, who affirmed me as king and placed me on the throne of my father David, making me the head of a dynasty as he promised, Adonijah shall be executed today."

²⁶ In the case of Abiathar, the high priest, the king told him, "Go home and take care of your fields. You should be condemned to death, but I will not kill you right now because you carried the Ark of the Lord God ahead of my father David and went through all his hard times with him."

²⁷ So Solomon dismissed Abiathar from his position as priest of the Lord, and so fulfilled what the Lord had said at Shiloh regarding the descendants of Eli.^S

²⁸ When Joab heard the news he ran to the Lord's Tent and grabbed hold of the horns of the altar. (He had not supported Absalom's rebellion but he had supported Adonijah.)

²⁹ When King Solomon was told that Joab was seeking sanctuary* by the altar, he sent Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, to execute him.

³⁰ Benaiah went to the Lord's Tent and told called to Joab, "The king orders you to come out!"

"No! I'll die here!" Joab replied.

Benaiah went back to the king and told him what Joab had said.

³¹ "Do as he says," the king told Benaiah. "Strike him down and bury him. In that way you will remove from me and my family the guilt of the innocent blood that Joab shed.

³² The Lord will pay him back for the blood he shed, for without my father David's knowledge, he killed two good men who were better than he was. With his sword he killed Abner, son of Ner, commander of Israel's army, and Amasa, son of Jether, commander of Judah's army.

³³ May the responsibility for shedding their blood come back on Joab and his descendants forever; but may the Lord give peace and prosperity† to David, his descendants, his family, and his dynasty forever."

³⁴ So Benaiah son of Jehoiada returned and killed Joab. He was buried at his home in the wilderness.

³⁵ The king appointed Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, to take over Joab's role as army commander, and replaced Abiathar with Zadok the priest.

³⁶ Then the king summoned Shimei and told him, "Go and build yourself a house in Jerusalem and stay there, but don't leave and go anywhere else.

³⁷ You should know for certain that the day you leave and cross the Kidron Valley you will die. Your death will be your own responsibility."

³⁸ "What Your Majesty says is fair," Shimei replied. "Your servant will do as my lord the king has ordered." Shimei lived in Jerusalem for a long time.

³⁹ But three years later, two of Shimei's slaves escaped to Achish, son of Maacah, king of Gath. Shimei was told, "Look, your slaves are in Gath."

^S 2:27 See 1 Samuel 2:30-35; 1 Samuel 3:11-14. * 2:29 Sanctuary: this only applied if the killing of another was accidental. This clearly was not the case for Joab's deliberate murders. † 2:33 "Peace and prosperity": the word "shalom" includes both these concepts.

⁴⁰ So Shimei saddled up his donkey and went to Achish in Gath to look for his slaves. He found them and brought them back from Gath.

⁴¹ Solomon was informed that Shimei had left Jerusalem to go to Gath, and had then returned.

⁴² The king summoned Shimei and asked him, "Didn't I vow to you by the Lord, didn't I warn you that the day you left and went somewhere else that you should know for certain that you would die? Didn't you reply to me, 'What Your Majesty says is fair; I'll do as you ordered'?"

⁴³ So why haven't you kept your vow to the Lord, and obeyed my orders?"

⁴⁴ The king also told Shimei, "Deep down you know all the evil things you did to my father David. That's why the Lord will repay you for your evil.

⁴⁶ The king ordered Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, to execute Shimei, so he went and killed Shimei. In this way Solomon's hold on the kingdom was made secure.

3

² In those days, however, the people still sacrificed on the high places because a Temple to honor the Lord hadn't yet been built.

³ Solomon showed he loved the Lord by following the instructions of his father David, except that he sacrificed and burned offerings on the high places.

⁵ The Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream at Gibeon. God said to him, "Ask what you want me to give you."

⁶ Solomon replied, "You showed your servant David, my father, great trustworthy love because he lived his life before you with faithfulness, doing what was right and committed to principle. You have continued to show this great trustworthy love by giving him a son to sit on his throne to this day.

⁷ Now, Lord God, you have made me king in place of my father David. But I am like an inexperienced young boy who doesn't know what to do.†

⁸ I, your servant, am here in among your chosen people, a great people that are so many they cannot be counted.

⁹ So please give me a mind that's receptive so I can rule‡ your people well, understanding the difference between right and wrong, for who can rule this difficult people of yours?"

¹⁰ The Lord considered that what Solomon asked for was good.

* 3:1 "Marriage alliance": the word here literally means "make oneself a daughter's husband."

† 3:7 "What to do": literally, "going out or coming in." ‡ 3:9 Rule not so much in terms of imposing control but in governing wisely.

¹¹ So God told him, "Because you asked for this, and you didn't ask for a long life, or wealth, or the death of your enemies, but instead you asked for understanding to know what is right,

¹² I am giving you what you asked for. I am giving you a mind that is wise, with an understanding of what is right, more than anyone else before you or after you.

¹³ I am also giving you what you did not ask for, wealth and status—so much so that no king will compare to you for the whole of your life.

¹⁴ And if you follow my ways by keeping my laws and my commands, as your father David did, I will give you a long life."

¹⁵ Then Solomon woke up and realized he'd had a dream. He went back to Jerusalem, and stood in front of the Ark of the Lord's Agreement and he presented burnt offerings and friendship offerings, and he held a feast for all his officials.

¹⁶ Later two prostitutes came to the king and stood before him for judgment.[§]

¹⁷ One of the women spoke up, saying, "If it please Your Majesty: I share a house with this woman. I had a baby while she was living in the house.

¹⁸ Three days after the birth of my baby, this woman also had a baby. We were together; there was no one else in the house, just the two of us.

¹⁹ During the night this woman's son died because she rolled over on him.

²¹ When I got up in the morning to nurse my son I saw that he was dead. When I looked closely at him in the light I realized it wasn't my son."

²² The other woman argued, "No! My son is the one that's alive. Your son is the one that's dead." The first woman objected, "No! Your son is the one that's dead. My son is the one that's alive." They went on quarrelling in front of the king.

²³ The king intervened, saying, "So this woman says 'My son is the one that's alive. Your son is the one that's dead,' while the other woman says, 'No! Your son is the one that's dead. My son is the one that's alive.'"

²⁴ "Bring me a sword," the king ordered. So they brought him a sword.

²⁵ "Cut the child that's alive in two, and give half to one woman and half to another," he commanded.

²⁶ But the woman whose son was alive had so much love for him as a mother that she cried out to the king, "Please, Your Majesty, give her the boy! Don't kill him!" But the other woman said, "He won't be mine or yours—cut him in two!"

²⁷ The king gave his verdict. "Give the child that's alive to the first woman," he ordered. "On no account kill him, for she is his real mother."

²⁸ When everyone in Israel heard about the verdict the king had delivered, they had great respect for the king, because they recognized the wisdom God had given him to judge rightly.

[§] 3:16 "For judgment": implied by the fact they came before him.

² These were his officials: Azariah, son of Zadok, was the priest;

³ Elihoreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, were the king's secretaries. Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, kept the royal records.

⁴ Benaiah son of Jehoiada was the army commander. Zadok and Abiathar were priests.

⁵ Azariah, son of Nathan, was in charge of the governors. Zabud, son of Nathan, was a priest and the king's counselor.

⁶ Ahishar was the palace manager. Adoniram, son of Abda, was in charge of those forced to work for the king.

⁷ Solomon had twelve area governors whose responsibilities covered the whole of Israel, providing food for the king and his household. Each one in turn arranged supplies for one month of the year.

¹⁰ Ben-hesed in Arubboth (Socoh and all the land of Hephher was his);

¹² Baana, son of Ahilud, in Taanach and Megiddo, the whole of Beth-shan near Zarethan below Jezreel, and from Beth-shan to Abel-meholah and across to Jokmeam;

¹⁴ Ahinadab, son of Iddo, in Mahanaim;

¹⁵ Ahimaaz, in Naphtali (he had married Basemath the daughter of Solomon);

¹⁶ Baana, son of Hushai, in Asher and in Aloth;

¹⁷ Jehoshaphat, son of Paruah, in Issachar;

¹⁸ Shimei, son of Ela, in Benjamin;

¹⁹ Geber son of Uri in the land of Gilead, (the former country of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and of Og, king of Bashan. There was also a governor who was over the land of Judah).*

²⁰ Judah and Israel had become as numerous as the sand on the seashore. They ate, they drank, they were happy.

²¹ Solomon ruled over all the kingdoms from the Euphrates River to the land of the Philistines, right up to the border of Egypt. They presented tribute to Solomon and served him during his lifetime.

²² The food required every day for Solomon's court was thirty cors of the best flour and sixty cors of meal;

²³ ten fattened cattle, twenty range cattle, one hundred sheep, as well as deer, gazelles, roe deer, and fattened poultry.

²⁵ During Solomon's lifetime, everyone in Judah and Israel lived in safety, from Dan to Beersheba. Each one had their own vine and fig tree.

* 4:19 The Hebrew text is unclear. The Septuagint reading is followed here, indicating that there was also a governor over Judah. Some however take this to refer to the previous governor mentioned who was the sole governor during this reign.

²⁷ Every month the area governors provided in turn food for King Solomon and all who ate at his table. They made sure that nothing was missing.

²⁹ God gave to Solomon wisdom, very great discernment, and understanding as extensive as the sand on the seashore.

³⁰ Solomon's wisdom was greater than that of all the Eastern wise men, greater than all of Egypt's wisdom.

³¹ He was wiser than anyone, wiser than Ethan the Ezrahite, wiser than Heman, Calcol, and Darda, sons of Mahol. His reputation spread through the nations around.

³² Solomon composed three thousand proverbs and one thousand and five songs.

³³ He was able to discuss knowledge of trees, from the cedar in Lebanon to the hyssop that grows in the wall. He taught about animals, birds, reptiles, and fish.

³⁴ People from all nations came to hear Solomon's wisdom. They were sent by all the kings of the earth, who had heard about his wisdom.

5

² So Solomon sent this message back to Hiram,

³ "As you know, my father David was not able to build a Temple to honor the Lord his God because of the wars fought against him from every direction, until the Lord had conquered his enemies.*

⁴ But now the Lord my God has given me peace all around—no enemies, no bad things happening.

⁵ So I plan to build a Temple to honor the Lord my God, as the Lord told my father David. He said to him, 'Your son whom I will place on your throne to succeed you will build the Temple to honor me.'

⁶ So please order some cedars of Lebanon to be cut down for me. My workers will assist your workers, and I will pay your workers at the rate that you decide, for you know that we don't have anyone who knows how to cut timber like the Sidonians."

⁷ When Hiram heard Solomon's message, he was very happy and said, "Praise the Lord today, for he has given David a wise son to lead this great nation!"

⁸ Hiram sent this reply to Solomon:

"Thank you for your message. As for the cedar and cypress timber, I will do everything you want.

⁹ My workers will bring the logs down from Lebanon to the sea, and I will have them floated in rafts by sea to wherever you decide. I will have the rafts broken apart there, and you can take the logs away. In return I would like you to provide food for my household."

¹⁰ So Hiram provided Solomon with as much cedar and cypress timber that he wanted,

¹¹ Solomon gave Hiram 20,000 cors of wheat for food and 20,000 cors of olive oil for his household. Solomon provided this to Hiram every year.

¹³ King Solomon drafted a labor force of 30,000 from all of Israel.

¹⁴ He sent them in shifts of 10,000 each month to Lebanon, so that they were one month in Lebanon and two months at home, Adoniram was in charge of the labor force.

¹⁵ Solomon had 70,000 porters and 80,000 stonecutters in the hill country,

¹⁶ as well as 3,300 foremen he placed in charge of the workers.

¹⁷ Following the king's orders, they quarried large blocks of stone that were expensive to produce, and laid these dressed stones as the foundation for the Temple.

¹⁸ So Solomon's and Hiram's builders, together with the Gebalites, cut the stone. They prepared the timber and stone to build the Temple.

6

³ The entrance room at the front of the Temple was twenty cubits wide. It ran the whole width of the Temple and projected out ten cubits in front of the Temple.

⁴ He had latticed windows made to be placed high up in the Temple.

⁵ He also had a structure built against the outer wall of the Temple, both the outer and the inner sanctuary, to provide a series of side rooms.

⁶ The ground floor measured five cubits wide, the first floor six cubits, and the second floor seven cubits. In addition he had offset ledges placed all the way around the outside, so that beams would not have to be inserted into the Temple walls.

⁷ When the Temple was built the stones were finished at the quarry so that no noise from any hammer, ax, or any iron tool was heard in the Temple during construction.

⁸ The entrance to the ground floor was on the south side of the Temple. Stairs led to the first floor, and then on to the second floor.

⁹ So Solomon finished building the Temple, covering it with a roof made of cedar rafters and planks.

¹¹ The Lord sent this message to Solomon, telling him,

¹² "About this Temple you are building: if you follow what I have said, fulfilling my requirements and keeping my commandments in what you do, I will keep the promise I made to your father David through you.

¹³ I will live among the Israelites and will not abandon Israel, my people."

¹⁵ He lined the walls with cedar panels from floor to ceiling and he covered the floor of the Temple with cypress boards.

¹⁸ The cedar panels inside the Temple were decorated with carvings of gourds and open flowers. Everything was lined with cedar—none of the stone was visible.

²⁰ The inner sanctuary measured twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide, and twenty cubits high. He had the interior covered with a coating with pure gold, as well as the altar of cedar.

²¹ Solomon had the whole of the inside of the Temple covered with pure gold. He had gold chains stretched across the front of the inner sanctuary, which was also covered with gold.

²² He covered the whole inside of the Temple with a coating of gold until it was all finished. He also covered with gold the entire altar for the inner sanctuary.

²³ He had two cherubim made out of olive wood for the inner sanctuary, each one ten cubits tall.

²⁴ Both wings of the cherub measured five cubits, making a total wingspan of ten cubits.

²⁵ The other cherub was also ten cubits tall, since they were identical both in size and shape.

²⁶ Both cherubs were ten cubits tall.

²⁷ He had the cherubim placed inside the inner sanctuary of the Temple. Since their wings were fully spread, a wing of the first cherub touched one wall, a wing of the second cherub touched the other wall, and in the middle of the Temple their wings touched.

²⁸ The cherubim were also covered with a gold coating.

³¹ He had doors of olive wood made for the entrance to the inner sanctuary, together with a lintel and doorposts that had five sides.

³² These olive wood double doors had carved into them designs of cherubim, palm trees, and open flowers. The cherubim and palm trees carvings were covered with beaten gold.

³³ Similarly he had four-sided doorposts of olive wood made for the entrance to the sanctuary.

³⁴ Its doors were made of cypress wood, each with two hinged panels.

³⁷ The foundation of the Lord's Temple was laid in the fourth year of Solomon's reign, in the month of Ziv.

³⁸ The Temple was finished exactly as specified and planned in Solomon's eleventh year, in the eighth month, the month of Bul. So it took him seven years to build the Temple.

² He built the House of the Forest of Lebanon— a hundred cubits long, fifty cubits wide, and thirty cubits high. There were four rows of cedar pillars that supported cedar beams.

³ The cedar roof of the house was on top of the beams that rested on the pillars. There were forty-five beams, fifteen in each row.

⁴ The windows were placed high up, in three rows facing each other.

⁵ All the doorways and door casings had rectangular frames, the openings facing each other in sets of three.

⁶ He also had the Hall of Columns made—forty cubits long and thirty cubits wide. It had a porch in front, its canopy also supported by columns.

⁷ The throne room where he sat as judge was called the Hall of Justice, lined with cedar panels from floor to ceiling.

⁸ Solomon's own palace where he lived was in a courtyard behind the porch, made in a similar way to the Temple.* He also had a palace made for Pharaoh's daughter, whom he'd married.

⁹ All these buildings were built using stone blocks that were expensive to produce. They were cut to size and trimmed with saws on the inside and outside. These stones were used from the foundation to the eaves, from the outside of the building all the way to the great courtyard.

¹⁰ The foundations were laid with very large top-quality stones, between eight and ten cubits long.

¹¹ On these were placed top-quality stones, cut to size, along with cedar timber.

¹² Around the great courtyard, the inner courtyard, and the porch of the Lord's Temple were three courses of dressed stone and a course of cedar beams.

¹⁴ He was the son of a widow from the tribe of Naphtali, and his father was from Tyre, a craftsman who worked in bronze. Hiram had great expertise, understanding and being familiar with all kinds of bronze work. He came to King Solomon and carried out all that the king required.

¹⁵ He cast two columns in bronze. They were both eighteen cubits high and twelve cubits in circumference.

¹⁶ He also cast two capitals in bronze to place on top of the columns. Each capital was five cubits high.

¹⁷ He made a network of lattice of interlinked chains for both capitals, seven for each one.

¹⁹ The capitals placed on top of columns in the porch were in the shape of lilies, four cubits high.

* 7:8 "To the Temple": implied. [†] 7:13 "Hiram," or "Huram." Not the King of Tyre who bore the same name.

²⁰ On the capitals of both columns were the two hundred pomegranates in rows that encircled them, just above the rounded part that was next to the chain network.

²¹ He erected the columns at the entrance porch of the Temple. The southern column he named Jachin, and the northern column he named Boaz.

²⁴ Below the edge it was decorated with ornamental gourds that encircled it, ten per cubit all the way around. They were in two rows cast as one piece with the Sea.

²⁶ It was as thick as the width of a hand, and its edge was like the flared edge of a cup or a lily flower. It held two thousand baths.

²⁸ This is how they were put together: side panels were attached to uprights.

²⁹ Both the side panels and the uprights were decorated with lions, bulls, and cherubim. Above and below the lions and the bulls were decorative wreaths.

³⁰ Each cart had four bronze wheels with bronze axles. A basin rested on four supports that had decorative wreaths on each side.

³¹ At the top of each cart was a round opening like a pedestal to hold the basin.[§] The opening was one cubit deep, and one and a half cubits wide. The opening had carvings around it. The panels of the cart were square, not round.

³² The four wheels were under the panels, and the axles of the wheels were attached to the cart. Each wheel measured one and a half cubits in diameter.

³⁴ Each cart had four handles, one on each corner, made as part of the stand.

³⁵ There was a ring on the top of the cart a half cubit wide. The supports and panels were cast as one piece with the top of the cart.

³⁶ He had designs of cherubim, lions, and palm trees engraved on the panels, supports, and frame, wherever there was space, with decorative wreaths all around.

³⁷ This is how he made the ten carts, with the same casts, size, and shape.

³⁸ Then he made ten bronze basins. Each one held forty baths and measured four cubits across, one basin for each of the ten carts.

³⁹ He placed five carts on the south side of the Temple and five on the north side. He placed the Sea on the south side, by the southeast corner of the Temple.

[‡] 7:23 The "Sea" was a very large metal bowl that contained water. [§] 7:31 "To hold the basin": implied.

⁴⁰ He also made the pots, shovels, and bowls.

So Hiram finished making everything required by King Solomon for the Temple of the Lord:

⁴¹ the two columns; the two capitals shaped like bowls on top the columns; the two chain networks that covered the bowls of the capitals on top of the columns;

⁴² the four hundred ornamental pomegranates for the chain networks (in two rows for the chain networks that covered the capitals on top of the columns);

⁴³ the ten carts; the ten basins on the carts;

⁴⁴ the Sea; the twelve bulls under the Sea;

⁴⁶ The king had them cast in molds made of clay in the Jordan valley between Succoth and Zarethan.

⁴⁸ Solomon also had made all the items for the Temple of the Lord: the golden altar; the golden table where the Bread of the Presence was placed;

⁴⁹ the lampstands made of pure gold that stood in front of the inner sanctuary, five on the right and five on the left; the flowers, lamps, and tongs that were all made of pure gold;

⁵⁰ the basins, wick trimmers, bowls, ladles, and censers that again were all made of pure gold; and the gold hinges for the doors of the inner sanctuary, the Most Holy Place, in addition to the doors of the main hall of the Temple.

¹ Then Solomon summoned before him in Jerusalem the elders of Israel, including all the heads of the tribes and the family leaders of the Israelites. He instructed them to bring up with them the Ark of the Lord's Agreement from Zion, the City of David.

⁴ The priests and Levites carried them up.

⁵ In front of the Ark, King Solomon and all the congregation of Israel who had gathered there with him sacrificed many, many sheep and bulls—so numerous they couldn't be counted!

⁶ Then the priests carried the Ark of the Lord's Agreement to its place in the inner sanctuary of the Temple, the Most Holy Place, underneath the wings of the cherubim.

* 8:2 The Festival of Shelters.

⁷ The cherubim spread their wings over the place where the Ark was, covering the Ark and its carrying poles.

⁸ The poles were so long that the ends could be seen from the Holy Place in front of the inner sanctuary, but not from outside. They are there to this day.

⁹ There was nothing in the Ark apart from the two tablets of stone that Moses had placed in it at Horeb,[†] where the Lord had made an agreement with the Israelites after they came out of the land of Egypt.

¹¹ Due to the cloud, the priests could not stay there to carry out their service, for the glory of the Lord had filled the Lord's Temple.

¹⁵ saying, "Praise the Lord, the God of Israel, who by his own power has fulfilled the promise he made to my father David when he said,

¹⁶ 'Since the day I brought my people Israel out of Egypt I have not chosen any town of the tribes of Israel as the place to build a Temple to honor me. But I have chosen David as king over my people Israel.'

¹⁷ My father David really wanted to build a Temple to honor the Lord, the God of Israel.

¹⁸ But the Lord told my father David, 'You had the desire to build a Temple to honor me, and it was good that you really wanted to do this.

¹⁹ But it won't be you who will build this Temple, but your son who is to be born to you—he will build the Temple to honor me.'

²⁰ Now the Lord has kept his promise that he made. I have succeeded my father David, and I sit on the throne of Israel, just as the Lord promised. I have built the Temple to honor the Lord, the God of Israel.

²¹ I have provided a place there for the Ark, which contains the agreement of the Lord that he made with our forefathers when he led them out of the land of Egypt."

²² Then Solomon stood in front of the altar of the Lord before the whole assembly of Israel and held out his hands toward heaven.

²³ He said, "Lord, God of Israel, there is no God like you in heaven above or on earth below. You keep your agreement of trustworthy love with your servants, those who are totally committed to following you.

²⁴ You have kept the promise you made to your servant David, my father. You yourself promised, and by your own power you have fulfilled it today.

²⁵ So now, Lord, God of Israel, please also keep the promise you made to your servant, my father David, when you said: 'You will never fail to have a descendant sit in my presence on the throne of Israel, as long as they make sure to follow me as you have done.'

²⁶ Now, God of Israel, please keep the promise you made to our servant, my father David.

[†] 8:9 "Horeb": another name for Mount Sinai. [‡] 8:12 "You": literally, "he," but changed to the second person in order to be consistent with the rest of the prayer.

²⁷ But will God really live here on earth? The heavens, even highest heaven, cannot contain you, much less this Temple I have built!

²⁸ Please hear the prayer of your servant and his request, Lord my God. Please hear the appeals and the prayers that your servant is presenting before you today.

²⁹ May you watch over this Temple day and night, caring for the place where you said you would be honored. May you hear the prayer your servant prays toward this place,

³⁰ and may you hear the request of your servant and your people Israel when they pray toward this place. Please hear from heaven where you live. May you hear and forgive.

³¹ When someone sins against another and is required to take an oath before your altar in this Temple,

³² listen from heaven—act and judge your servants. Pay back the guilty; vindicate and reward those who do right.

³³ When your people Israel are defeated by an enemy because they have sinned against you, and if they come back in repentance to you, praying for forgiveness in this Temple,

³⁴ then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your people Israel, and bring them back to the land you gave to them and their forefathers.

³⁵ If the skies are closed shut and there is no rain because your people have sinned against you, if they pray toward this place and if they come back in repentance to you, turning away from their sin because you have punished them,

³⁶ then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your servants, your people Israel. Teach them the good way so that they can walk on it, and send rain on the earth that you have given to your people as their possession.

³⁷ If there is famine in the land, or disease, or blight or mildew on the crops, or if there are locusts or caterpillars, or if an enemy comes to lay siege to the towns in the land—it can be whatever kind of plague or whatever kind of disease—

³⁸ then whatever kind of prayer or whatever kind of appeal is made by anyone or all your people Israel, in fact anyone who, knowing their problems and pains, prays toward this Temple,

³⁹ then hear from heaven, the place where you live, and forgive. Give according to the way they live their lives, for you know what people are really like inside, and you alone know the true character of people.

⁴⁰ Then they will respect you and follow your ways all the time they live in the land you gave to our forefathers.

⁴³ then hear from heaven, the place where you live, and give them what they're asking. That way, everyone on earth will come to know and respect you, just as your own people Israel do. They will also know that this Temple I have built is dedicated to you.

⁴⁴ When your people go to fight against their enemies, wherever you send them, and when they pray to you towards the city you have chosen and the house I have built to honor you,

⁴⁵ then hear from heaven what they are praying and asking for, and support their cause.

⁴⁶ If they sin against you—and there is nobody who does not sin—you may become angry with them and hand them over to an enemy who takes them away as prisoners to a foreign land, near or far away.

⁴⁷ But if they think again in their land of captivity and repent and plead for mercy from you, saying, ‘We have sinned, we have done wrong, we have acted wickedly,’

⁴⁸ and they come back to you with complete sincerity in their thoughts and attitudes there in their land of captivity; and they pray towards the land you gave their forefathers, the city you chose, and the Temple I have built to honor you,

⁴⁹ then hear from heaven, the place where you live, respond and support their cause.

⁵⁰ Forgive your people who have sinned against you, all the rebellious acts they have committed against you. Please make those who have captured them show mercy to them.

⁵² May you pay attention to the requests of your servant, and to the requests of your people Israel, and may you respond whenever they call out to you.

⁵³ For you set them apart from all the nations of the world as a people who belonged to you, just as you declared through your servant Moses when you led our fathers out of Egypt.”

⁵⁵ Solomon stood, and in a loud voice he blessed the whole assembly of Israel, saying,

⁵⁶ “Praise the Lord, who has given rest to his people Israel in accordance with everything he promised. Not a single word has failed among all the good promises he made through his servant Moses.

⁵⁷ May the Lord our God be with us in the same way he was with our forefathers. May he never leave us or abandon us.

⁵⁸ May he help us to come to him, to follow all his ways and to keep the commandments, statutes, and regulations he ordered our forefathers to observe.

⁵⁹ May these words of mine I have used to make my request in the Lord's presence be before the Lord our God day and night. In that way he may support the cause of his servant and of his people Israel as is needed every day,

⁶⁰ in order that everyone on the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is no other!

⁶¹ So make sure you are completely committed to the Lord our God just as you are today, and be careful to follow his statutes and to keep his commandments.”

⁶² Then the king and together with all of Israel offered sacrifices before the Lord.

⁶³ Solomon presented as friendship offerings to the Lord 22,000 bulls and 120,000 sheep. In this way the king and all the people of Israel dedicated the Lord's Temple.

⁶⁵ Then Solomon together with all of Israel observed the festival before the Lord our God for seven days, and then another seven days—fourteen days in all. It was a large assembly of people, who came from as far away as Lebo-hamath to the Wadi of Egypt.

⁶⁶ One day later[§] Solomon sent the people home. They blessed the king and went home, full of joy and happy for all the good things that the Lord had done for his servant David and for his people Israel.

9

² the Lord appeared to him a second time, as he had appeared to him at Gibeon.

³ The Lord told him, "I have heard your prayer and your request to me. I have dedicated this Temple you have built by placing my name on it forever; I will always watch over it and take care of it.

⁴ As for you, if you follow my ways as your father David did, doing everything I've told you to do, and if you keep my laws and regulations,

⁵ then I will make your throne secure forever. I made this agreement with your father David, telling him, 'You will always have a descendant to rule over Israel.'

⁶ But if you or your descendants turn away and do not keep the laws and the commandments I have given you, and if you go and serve and worship other gods,

⁷ then I will cut Israel off from the land I have given them. I will banish from my presence this Temple I have dedicated to my honor, and I will make it an object lesson of ridicule among the nations.

⁸ This Temple will become a pile of rubble. All who pass by it will be appalled and will hiss, saying, 'Why has the Lord acted in such a way to this land and this Temple?'

⁹ The answer will come, 'Because they abandoned the Lord their God, who brought their forefathers out of Egypt, and have embraced other gods, worshiping them and serving them. That's why the Lord has brought all this trouble upon them.' "

¹⁰ It took twenty years for Solomon to construct the two buildings—the Temple of the Lord and his own palace. After this,

¹¹ King Solomon gave twenty towns in Galilee to Hiram king of Tyre, because Hiram had provided him with all the cedar and juniper and gold he wanted.

§ 8:66 "One day later": literally, "on the eighth day," counting from the beginning of the second week.

¹² But when Hiram went from Tyre to see the cities that Solomon had given him, he was not happy with them.

¹³ “What are these towns you have given me, my brother?” asked Hiram. He called them the land of Cabul,* the name they are known by to this day.

¹⁴ Even so, Hiram sent the king 120 talents of gold in payment.

¹⁵ Here is the account of the forced labor that King Solomon imposed to build the Lord's Temple, his own palace, the terraces, and the wall of Jerusalem, as well as Hazor, Megiddo, and Gezer.

¹⁶ Pharaoh, king of Egypt, had attacked and captured Gezer. He had set it on fire, killed the Canaanites living in the town. He had then given it as a wedding dowry to his daughter, Solomon's wife.

¹⁸ Baalath and Tamar in the wilderness, in the land of Judah,

²⁰ The descendants of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites (people who were not Israelites)

²¹ who remained in the land—those whom the Israelites were unable to destroy completely—were conscripted by Solomon to work as forced laborers, as they continue to do to this day.

²² But Solomon did not enslave any of the Israelites. They were his soldiers, officials, commanders, captains, chariot commanders, and horsemen.

²³ They were also the chief officers in charge of Solomon's programs: 550 in command of the people who carried out the work.

²⁴ Once Pharaoh's daughter had moved from the City of David to the palace that Solomon had built for her, he built the city terraces.

²⁶ King Solomon built a fleet of ships at Ezion-geber, which is near Eloth on the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom.

²⁷ Hiram sent his sailors who knew the sea to serve in the fleet with Solomon's men.

²⁸ They sailed to Ophir and brought back 420 talents of gold from there and delivered it to Solomon.

² She brought with her a very large entourage, with camels loaded with spices, large amounts of gold, and precious gemstones. She came to Solomon and asked him about everything she had on her mind.

* 9:13 “The land of Cabul:” suggesting these towns were of no value. † 9:25 “So fulfilled what was required at the Temple.” Some read this as “so he completed building the Temple,” however this has already been stated, and this verse begins by stating that Solomon sacrificed three times a year, clearly regular acts well after the completion of the Temple.

³ Solomon answered all her questions. There was nothing he couldn't explain to her.

⁴ When the queen of Sheba saw Solomon's wisdom, and the palace he had built,

⁷ But I didn't believe what they told me until I came and saw with my own eyes. In fact, I wasn't told the half of it—the extent of your wisdom far exceeds what I heard!

⁸ How happy your people must be! How happy those who work for you, who stand here every day listening to your wisdom!

⁹ Praise the Lord your God who is so pleased with you, who placed you on his throne as king to rule on his behalf. Because of the love of your God for Israel he has made them secure forever, and he has made you king over them to do what is fair and right."

¹⁰ She presented the king with one hundred and twenty talents of gold, huge amounts of spices and precious stones. Never before had there been spices like those the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon.

¹¹ (Hiram's fleet of ships brought gold from Ophir, and also carried alnum wood and precious stones.

¹² The king used the alnum wood to make steps‡ for the Temple and for the royal palace, and into lyres and harps for the musicians. Nothing like them had ever been seen before in the land of Judah.)

¹³ King Solomon gave the queen of Sheba all she wanted, whatever she asked for. This was in addition to the usual gifts he had generously given her. Then she and her attendants returned home to her own country.

¹⁴ The weight of gold that Solomon received each year was 666 talents,

¹⁶ King Solomon made two hundred shields of hammered gold. Each shield required six hundred shekels of hammered gold.

¹⁷ He also made three hundred small shields of hammered gold. Each of these shields required three gold minas.§ The king placed them in the Palace of the Forest of Lebanon.

¹⁸ The king also made a great throne of ivory, and covered it with pure gold.

¹⁹ The throne had six steps, with a rounded top* at the back. There were armrests on both sides of the seat, with lions standing beside the armrests.

²⁰ Twelve lions stood on the six steps, one on opposite ends of each step. Nothing like this had ever been made for any kingdom.

* 10:5 "She was so astonished": implied by the phrase (literally) "there was no longer breath in her." † 10:6 "Proverbs": literally, "words." ‡ 10:12 "Steps": or "railings." § 10:17 A mina was worth around 50 shekels. * 10:19 "Rounded top": the Septuagint has "calves," in other words a carving depicting calves.

²¹ All of King Solomon's drinking cups were gold, and all the utensils of the Palace of the Forest of Lebanon were pure gold. No silver was used, because it was not valued in the days of Solomon.

²² The king had a fleet of ships from Tarshish crewed by Hiram's sailors. Once every three years the ships of Tarshish would arrive with a cargo of gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.

²³ King Solomon was greater than any other king on earth in wealth and wisdom.

²⁵ Year after year, every visitor would bring gifts—articles of silver and gold, clothes, weapons, spices, horses, and mules.

²⁶ Solomon accumulated 1,400 chariots and 12,000 horsemen. He kept them in the chariot towns, and also with him in Jerusalem.

²⁸ Solomon's horses were imported from Egypt[†] and Kue—the royal merchants purchased them in Kue.

² They were from the nations that the Lord had warned the Israelites, “You must not intermarry with them, for they will undoubtedly convince you to worship their gods.” Yet Solomon because of his love for women held on to them.

³ He had seven hundred wives of noble birth and three hundred concubines. His wives did convince him to turn away from the Lord.

⁴ As Solomon grew old, his wives led him to follow other gods, and he did not commit himself wholeheartedly to the Lord as his father David had done.

⁶ This was how Solomon did evil in the Lord's sight, and was not completely dedicated to the Lord as his father David was.

⁸ He built places of worship for all his foreign wives where they burned incense and sacrificed to their gods.

¹⁰ The Lord had warned Solomon about this—that he should not worship other gods. But Solomon did not listen to the Lord's warning.

[†] 10:28 “Egypt”: or Musri (Cappadocia).

^{*} 11:5 The word for “god” is replaced in the text by the word “filth,” meaning something vile and detestable. Also in verse 7.

¹¹ So the Lord told him, "Since this is what you have done, and since you have not kept my agreement and my laws that I commanded, I will definitely take[†] the kingdom away from you and give it to your servant.

¹² However, for the sake of your father David, I will not do this in your lifetime—I will take it away from your son.

¹³ Even then I will not take away the whole kingdom. I will leave your son with one tribe for the sake of my servant David, and for the sake of my chosen city Jerusalem."

¹⁴ Then the Lord encouraged Hadad the Edomite of Edom's royal family to oppose Solomon.

¹⁵ Previously, when David was in Edom, Joab the commander of the Israelite army had gone to bury some of his soldiers who had been killed, and had slaughtered every male in Edom.

¹⁷ But Hadad and some Edomites who had been his father's officials had run away to Egypt—Hadad was just a boy at the time.

¹⁸ They left Midian and went to Paran. Then, along with some people from Paran, they went to Egypt, to Pharaoh king of Egypt. He provided Hadad with a house and food, and also assigned him land as a gift.

²¹ However, when news reached Hadad in Egypt that both David and Joab, the commander of the army, had died, Hadad said to Pharaoh, "Let me leave and return to my own country."

²² Pharaoh asked him, "Is there anything that you have lacked here with me that now you want to go back to your own country?"

"No, there's nothing," Hadad replied, "but please just let me go home."

²³ God also encouraged Rezon, son of Eliada, to oppose Solomon. He had run away from his master Hadadezer, king of Zobah. After David had destroyed Zobah's army,

²⁴ Rezon gathered around him a rebel band, and became their leader. They went and settled in Damascus, where they took over.

²⁶ In addition, Jeroboam, son of Nebat, rebelled against the king. One of Solomon's officials, he was an Ephraimite from Zeredah. His mother was a widow called Zeruah.

²⁷ This is why he rebelled against the king: Solomon had built the terraces and had closed the gap in the wall of the city of his father David.

²⁸ Jeroboam was a man of ability, and when Solomon realized how successful he was in what he did, he placed him in command of all the forced labor of the tribes of Joseph.

²⁹ Around that time the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite met Jeroboam on the road as he was leaving Jerusalem.

[†] 11:11 The word used here is to rip or tear. Also in verse 12.

³⁰ Ahijah had wrapped himself in a new cloak, and the two of them were by themselves in the countryside. Ahijah took the new cloak he was wearing and ripped it up into twelve pieces.

³¹ He said, "Jeroboam, take ten pieces. This is what the Lord God of Israel says. 'Jeroboam, I am the Lord, the God of Israel, and I am going to take Solomon's kingdom from him and give you ten of the tribes.

³² One tribe will be left for the sake of my servant David and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city I chose from among all the tribes of Israel.

³³ This is because they have abandoned me and bowed down in worship of Ashtoreth, goddess of the Sidonians, Chemosh, god of the Moabites, and Molech, god of the Ammonites. They have not followed my ways; they have not done what is right in my sight; they have not kept my commandments and laws as David, Solomon's father, did.

³⁴ Even so, I'm not going to take the whole kingdom from Solomon, because I made him ruler for his lifetime for the sake of my servant David. I chose him because he kept my commandments and laws.

³⁶ I will give his son one tribe, so that my servant David will always have a descendant like[‡] a lamp before me in Jerusalem, the city where I chose to be honored.

³⁷ I will take you, and you shall reign over everything that you want. You will be king over Israel.

³⁸ If you accept everything that I command you, if you follow my ways, if you do what is right in my sight, keeping my laws and commandments as my servant David did, then I will be with you. I will set up for you a dynasty that lasts, just as I did for David, and I will give Israel to you.

³⁹ I will punish David's descendants because of this, but not forever."

⁴⁰ So Solomon tried to kill Jeroboam. But Jeroboam ran away to Egypt, to Shishak king of Egypt. He remained there until Solomon's death.

⁴¹ The record of the rest of the acts of Solomon, including everything he did, and his wisdom, are written in the Book of the Acts of Solomon.

⁴³ Solomon died and was buried in the city of his father David. His son Rehoboam succeeded him as king.

¹ Rehoboam went to Shechem because that is where the whole of Israel had gone to make him king.

² Jeroboam, son of Nebat, was still in Egypt when he heard about this. (He had run away to Egypt to escape from King Solomon and was living there.)

³ The Israelite leaders sent for him. Jeroboam and the whole assembly of Israelites went to talk with Rehoboam.

⁴ "Your father placed a heavy burden on us," they told him. "But now if you lighten the load when we served your father and the heavy demands he put on us, we will serve you."

⁶ King Rehoboam asked for advice from the elders who had served his father Solomon when he was alive. "How do you advise me to reply to these people about this?" he asked.

⁷ They replied, "If you are a servant to these people today, if you serve them and answer them, by speaking kindly to them, they will always serve you."

⁸ But Rehoboam dismissed the advice of the elders. He instead asked advice from the young men who he had grown up with, and who were close to him.

⁹ He asked them, "What response do you advise that we send back to these people who have told me, 'Lighten the burden your father put on us'?"

¹⁰ The young men who he had grown up with told him, "This is what you have to tell these people who said to you, 'Your father made our burden heavy, but you should make it lighter.' This is what you should answer them: 'My little finger is thicker than my father's waist!'

¹¹ My father placed a heavy burden on you, and I will make it even heavier. My father punished you with whips; I will punish you with scorpions.'

¹³ The king answered the people sharply. Dismissing the advice of the elders,

¹⁴ he replied using the advice of the young men. He said, "My father placed a heavy burden on you, and I will make it even heavier. My father punished you with whips; I will punish you with scorpions."

¹⁵ The king did not listen to what the people said, for this change in circumstances was from the Lord, to fulfill what the Lord had told Jeroboam son of Nebat through Ahijah the Shilonite.

¹⁶ When all the Israelites saw that the king wasn't listening to them, they told the king: "What share do we have in David, and what part do we have in the son of Jesse? Go home, Israel! You're on your own, house of David!" So all the Israelites went home.

¹⁷ However, Rehoboam still ruled over the Israelites who lived in Judah.

¹⁹ As a result, Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David to this day.

²¹ When Rehoboam arrived in Jerusalem, he gathered the men from the households of Judah and Benjamin— 180,000 chosen warriors—to go and fight against Israel to bring the kingdom back to Rehoboam, son of Solomon.

²³ "Tell Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, to Judah and Benjamin, and to the rest of the people:

* 12:18 He was sent out to put down the rebellion.

²⁴ “This is what the Lord says. Don’t fight against your Israelite relatives. Every one of you, go home! For it was me that made this happen.” So they obeyed what the Lord told them and went home, as the Lord had said.

²⁶ Jeroboam said to himself, “The kingdom could easily return to the house of David.

²⁷ When people from here go to offer sacrifices at the Lord’s Temple in Jerusalem, they will transfer their loyalty back to Rehoboam, king of Judah. Then they will kill me and go back to King Rehoboam.”

²⁸ So after taking advice, the king had two golden calves made, and he told the people, “Don’t bother going to Jerusalem any more. Look, Israel, here are your gods who led you out of the land of Egypt.”

²⁹ He placed one in Bethel, and the other in Dan.

³¹ In addition Jeroboam had shrines built on high places and appointed as priests all kinds of people who were not Levites.

³² Jeroboam initiated a festival on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, just like the festival held in Judah, and he offered sacrifices on the altar. He made this offering in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves he had made, and appointed priests in Bethel for the high places he had built.

³³ So on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, a month he had chosen himself, Jeroboam offered sacrifices on the altar he had set up in Bethel. In this way he instituted a festival for the Israelites, offering sacrifices on the altar and burning incense.

¹ The Lord ordered a man of God from Judah to go to Bethel. He arrived just as Jeroboam was standing beside the altar about to present a burnt offering.

² He shouted out the Lord’s condemnation of the altar: “Altar, altar, this is what the Lord says. A son will be born to the house of David. His name will be Josiah, and on you he will sacrifice the priests of the high places who burn offerings on you, and human bones will be burned on you.”

³ The same day the man of God gave a sign, saying, “This is the sign to prove that the Lord has spoken. Look! The altar will be split apart, and the ashes on it will spill out.”

⁶ Then the king said to the man of God, “Please plead with the Lord your God—pray for me that I may have my hand back!” The man of God pleaded with the Lord, and the king was given back the use of his hand as it was before.

[†] 12:25 “Strengthened”: literally, “built,” but Shechem existed long before this (see for example Genesis 12:6).

7 Then the king said to the man of God, "Come to my home and have a meal so I can give you a present."

8 But the man of God told the king, "Even if you gave me half of everything you own, I still wouldn't go with you. In fact I refuse to eat or drink anything in this place."

9 The Lord ordered me not to eat or drink anything, and not to return by the way I came."

10 So he went a different way—he did not return the way he had come to Bethel.

11 It so happened that an old prophet lived in Bethel. His sons* came and told him everything the man of God had done that day in Bethel. They also told their father what the man had said to the king.

12 "Which way did he go?" their father asked them. So his sons showed him the way taken by the man of God from Judah.

13 "Saddle up a donkey for me," he told his sons. They saddled up a donkey and he got on.

14 He rode after the man of God and found him sitting under an oak tree. "Are you the man of God who came from Judah?" he asked him. "Yes I am," the man replied.

15 "Come home with me and have something to eat," he told him.

16 "I can't turn around and go with you, and I won't eat or drink with you in this place," the man of God replied.

17 "The Lord ordered me, saying 'You must not eat or drink anything there, or return by the way you came.'"

18 But the old prophet told him, "I am also a prophet, just like you. An angel told me God said, 'Take him home with you so that he can have something to eat and drink.'" But he was lying to him.

19 So the man of God went back with him, and ate and drank in his house.

20 As they were sitting at the table, a message from the Lord came to the prophet who had brought him back.

21 He called out to the man of God who had come from Judah, "This is what the Lord says: Because you have disobeyed the word of the Lord and have not followed the orders that the Lord your God gave you,

22 instead you went back and ate and drank in the place where he told you not to, your body will not be buried in the tomb of your fathers."

23 After the man of God had finished eating and drinking, the prophet who had brought him back saddled his own donkey for him.

24 But as he went on his way a lion came across him on the road and killed him. His body was left lying in the road, with both the donkey and the lion standing beside it.

25 Some passers-by saw the body lying in the road with the lion standing beside it, so they went and let people know about it in the town where the old prophet lived.

26 When the old prophet who had led the other astray heard what had happened, he said, "It's the man of God who disobeyed the Lord's orders. That's why the Lord put him in the path of the lion, and it has mauled him and killed him, just as the Lord told him would happen."

* 13:11 "Sons": the Hebrew text has "son" here, but in view of the plural being used later it seems best to use it here too.

²⁷ The prophet told his sons, “Saddle up a donkey for me.” So they saddled a donkey,

²⁸ and he went and found the body. It was still lying in the road, with the donkey and the lion standing beside it. The lion had not eaten the body or attacked the donkey.

²⁹ The prophet picked up the body of the man of God, placed it on the donkey, and brought it back to his own town to mourn over him and bury him.

³¹ After he’d buried him, he told his sons, “When I die, bury me in the grave where the man of God is buried. Lay my bones beside his bones.

³² For the message from the Lord that he gave in condemnation against the altar in Bethel, and against all the shrines on the high places in the towns of Samaria, will definitely happen.”

³³ But even after all this, Jeroboam did not change his evil ways. He went on choosing priests from all kinds of people. He appointed anyone who wanted to be a priest of the high places.

³⁴ This was because of this sin that the house of Jeroboam was wiped out, completely destroyed from the face of the earth.

² So Jeroboam told his wife, “Please go and disguise yourself so nobody will know you’re Jeroboam’s wife. Then go to Shiloh and look for Ahijah the prophet. He was the one who told me I would become king over this people.

³ Take with you ten loaves of bread, some cakes, and a jar of honey for him.* He will explain to you what will happen to the boy.”

⁴ Jeroboam’s wife did as she was told. She got up and went to Ahijah’s house in Shiloh. Ahijah could not see—he had become blind because of his age.

⁵ But the Lord had told Ahijah, “Look, Jeroboam’s wife is coming to ask you about her son, because he’s ill. This is what you are to tell her, because she’ll come in disguise.”

⁶ So as soon as Ahijah heard her footsteps at the door, he called out, “Come in, wife of Jeroboam! Why do you bother coming in disguise? I have been given some bad news for you.

⁷ Go and tell Jeroboam this is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: I picked you from the masses and I made you ruler over my people Israel.

⁸ I took the kingdom from the house of David and gave it to you. But you were not like my servant David, who kept my commandments and was totally committed to following me, only doing what was right in my sight.

⁹ You have done more evil than all those† who lived before you. You have gone and made other gods for yourself, idols made of molten metal that made me angry. You have tossed me aside.

¹⁰ Now pay attention, because as a result of this I am going to bring disaster on the house of Jeroboam. I will totally exterminate every one of your descendants in Israel, whether slave or free. I will burn the house of Jeroboam like a man burning refuse until it's all gone.

* 14:3 “For him”: implied. † 14:9 Probably referring to previous kings.

¹¹ Those of Jeroboam's family who die in the town will be eaten by dogs, and those who die in the countryside will be eaten by birds. For the Lord has spoken.

¹² As for you, get up and go home. As soon as you arrive in the city, the child will die.

¹³ All of Israel will mourn for him, and they will bury him. He alone of Jeroboam's family will be buried in a tomb[‡] because only in him has the Lord, the God of Israel found anything good—of the whole family of Jeroboam.

¹⁴ The Lord will choose for himself a king to rule over Israel who will destroy the house of Jeroboam. This is starting to happen even now!

¹⁵ The Lord will strike Israel like a reed jerked to and fro by the water. He will pull up Israel by the roots from this good land that he gave their forefathers and scatter them beyond the Euphrates, because they have made their pagan Asherah poles, making the Lord angry.

¹⁶ He will abandon Israel because of the sins of Jeroboam, those that he committed himself, and those he made Israel commit.”

¹⁷ Jeroboam's wife got up and left for Tirzah. As soon as she stepped through the doorway of her home, the boy died.

²⁰ Jeroboam reigned for twenty-two years, and then he died. His son Nadab succeeded him as king.

²¹ Rehoboam, son of Solomon, reigned in Judah. He was forty-one when he became king, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city the Lord had chosen from all the tribes of Israel where he would be honored. The name of his mother was Naamah the Ammonite.

²⁴ There were even cult prostitutes[§] in the land. They followed all the disgusting practices of the nations that the Lord had driven out before the Israelites.

²⁶ He took the treasures of the Lord's Temple and the royal palace. He took everything, including all the gold shields Solomon had made.

²⁷ So King Rehoboam made bronze shields to replace them and handed them over to the captains of the guard to look after. They stood on duty at the entrance to the royal palace.

²⁸ Whenever the king went to the Lord's Temple, the guards would carry the shields. Afterwards they returned them to the guardroom.

[‡] 14:13 Receiving a proper burial was considered very important in Israelite society. § 14:24 Referring to both males and females.

²⁹ The rest of what happened in Rehoboam's reign and everything that he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

³⁰ Rehoboam and Jeroboam were always at war with each other.

² He reigned in Jerusalem for three years. His mother's name was Maacah, daughter of Abishalom.

³ Abijam committed all the sins his father had before him. He was not wholly dedicated to the Lord his God as his forefather David had been.

⁴ Even so, for David's sake, the Lord his God let his descendants to continue to rule like a lamp,* a son to rule after him and to make Jerusalem strong.

⁵ For David had done what was right in the Lord's sight, and had not deviated from anything the Lord commanded throughout his lifetime, except in the case of Uriah the Hittite.

⁶ (Rehoboam and Jeroboam were always at war with each other.)†

⁷ The rest of what happened in Abijam's reign and everything that he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. Abijam and Jeroboam were always at war with each other.

⁸ Abijam died and was buried the City of David. His son Asa succeeded him as king.

⁹ Asa became king of Judah in the twentieth year of the reign of Jeroboam, king of Israel.

¹⁰ He reigned in Jerusalem forty-one years. His grandmother's name was Maakah, daughter of Abishalom.

¹² He expelled the cult prostitutes from the land and got rid of all of the idols that his forefathers had made.

¹³ He even dismissed his grandmother Maacah as queen mother, because she had made a disgusting idol. Asa had the idol chopped down and burned in the Kidron Valley.

¹⁵ He brought into the house of the Lord the silver and gold and the other items that he and his father had dedicated.

¹⁶ Asa and Baasha, king of Israel, were always at war with each other.

¹⁷ Baasha, king of Israel, attacked Judah and fortified Ramah to stop people coming from or going to Asa, king of Judah.‡

* 15:4 See 11:36. † 15:6 This verse appears to be repeated from 14:30 and does not fit here in the description of Abijam. In the following verse it indicates that Abijam and Jeroboam were also always at war. Perhaps for this reason this verse is omitted from some manuscripts of the Septuagint. ‡ 15:17 Because some of those in Baasha's kingdom realized that Asa was following the true God, they wished to go over to him (see 2 Chronicles 15:9).

¹⁸ So Asa took all the silver and gold that was left in the treasuries of the Lord's Temple and of the royal palace. He handed it over to his servants and sent them to Ben-hadad, son of Tabrimmon, the son of Hezion, king of Aram, who lived in Damascus, along with this message:

¹⁹ "Let us make a treaty between us, just as there was between my father and your father. Look, I've sent you a gift of silver and gold. Go and break your treaty with Baasha, king of Israel, so that he will retreat and leave me alone."

²² Then King Asa issued a proclamation throughout all Judah, with no exception. The people obeyed, and carried away the stones and the timbers Baasha had used for building up Ramah. King Asa used these building materials to strengthen Geba of Benjamin, as well as Mizpah.

²³ The rest of what happened in Asa's reign, all his achievements, everything that he did, and the towns he built, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. But when he grew old he had disease in his feet.^S

²⁴ Asa died and was buried with his ancestors in the City of David. His son Jehoshaphat succeeded him as king.

²⁵ Nadab, son of Jeroboam became king of Israel in the second year of the reign of King Asa of Judah. He reigned in Israel for two years.

²⁶ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight. He followed the ways of his father and committed the same sins his father had made Israel commit.

²⁷ Baasha, son of Ahijah of the tribe of Issachar, plotted a rebellion against him. Baasha murdered Nadab at the Philistine town of Gibbethon while Nadab and the whole Israelite army were besieging it.

²⁸ Baasha killed Nadab and took over as king in the third year of the reign of King Asa of Judah.

²⁹ As soon as he became king he killed all the rest of Jeroboam's family. He did not leave any of Jeroboam's descendants alive—he destroyed them all, as the Lord had said through his servant Ahijah the Shilonite.

³⁰ This happened because of the sins Jeroboam had committed and had made Israel commit, and because he had made the Lord, the God of Israel, angry.

³² Asa and Baasha, king of Israel, were always at war with each other.

³³ Baasha, son of Ahijah, became king over all of Israel in the third year of the reign of King Asa in Judah. Baasha reigned in Tirzah for twenty-four years.

^S 15:23 This aspect was associated with problems in Asa's later life—see 2 Chronicles 16.

² “Even though I lifted you out of the dust to make you ruler over my people Israel, you have followed the way of Jeroboam and have made my people Israel sin, making me angry by their sins.

⁴ Those of Baasha's family who die in the town will be eaten by dogs, and those who die in the countryside will be eaten by birds.”

⁶ Baasha died and was buried in Tirzah. His son Elah succeeded him as king.

⁷ The message from the Lord condemning Baasha and his family came to the prophet Jehu, son of Hanani. It came because Baasha had done what was evil in the Lord's sight, in the same way as the family of Jeroboam had done, and also because Baasha had killed Jeroboam's family. The Lord was angry because of Baasha's sins.

⁸ Elah, son of Baasha, became king of Israel in the twenty-sixth year of the reign of King Asa of Judah. He reigned in Tirzah for two years.

⁹ One of Elah's officials called Zimri who was in charge of half his chariots plotted a rebellion against him. One time Elah was in Tirzah, getting himself drunk at the home of Arza, the palace manager at Tirzah.

¹⁰ Zimri went up to him, attacked him, and killed him. This was in the twenty-seventh year of the reign of Asa, king of Judah. Then he took over from him as king.

¹¹ As soon as he became king and was installed on his throne, he killed all of Baasha's family. He did not leave a single male alive, whether of his relatives or of his friends.

¹³ This was because of all the sins Baasha and his son Elah had committed and had made Israel to commit. Their worship of their useless idols had angered the Lord, the God of Israel.

¹⁶ When the troops who were camped there learned that Zimri had plotted rebellion against the king and had murdered him, they made Omri, the army commander, king of Israel that same day in the army camp.

¹⁸ When Zimri saw that the city had been taken he went into the fortress of the royal palace and set it on fire around him, and he died, because of the sins he had committed.

²⁰ The rest of what happened in Zimri's reign and his rebellion are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

²² However, those on Omri's side defeated Tibni's supporters. Tibni was killed and Omri became king.

²³ Omri became king of Israel in the thirty-first year of the reign of King Asa of Judah. He reigned for a total of twelve years, (six of them were in Tirzah).

²⁵ Omri did what was evil in the Lord's sight—in fact he did more evil than those* who lived before him.

²⁶ For he followed all the ways of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, and in his sins which he made Israel commit, worshipping their useless idols which angered the Lord, the God of Israel.

²⁷ The rest of what happened in Omri's reign, what he did, and his achievements are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

²⁸ Omri died and was buried in Samaria. His son Ahab succeeded him as king.

²⁹ Ahab, son of Omri, became king of Israel in the thirty-eighth year of the reign of King Asa of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for twenty-two years.

³⁰ Ahab, son of Omri, did evil in the Lord's sight, more than those who lived before him.

³² Ahab made an altar for Baal in the temple of Baal that he had built in Samaria.

³³ Then he put up an Asherah pole. In this way Ahab did more to anger the Lord, the God of Israel, than all the kings of Israel before him.

³⁴ During Ahab's reign Hiel of Bethel rebuilt Jericho. He sacrificed Abiram his firstborn son when he laid its foundation, and sacrificed Segub his youngest son when he constructed its gates.† This fulfilled the message the Lord had given through Joshua, son of Nun.

¹ Elijah the Tishbite, (from Tishbe in Gilead), told Ahab, "As the Lord, the God of Israel, lives, the one I serve, in the years to come there will be not be any dew or rain unless I say so!"

² Then the Lord told Elijah,

* 16:25 Probably referring to previous kings. Also verse 30. † 16:34 The practice of sacrificing children when constructing a building was a rite carried out by the pagan Canaanites.

⁴ You can drink from the brook, and I have ordered ravens to bring you food you there.”

⁵ So Elijah did what the Lord told him. He went to the valley of the Cherith brook, where it meets the Jordan, and stayed there.

⁶ Ravens brought him bread and meat both in the morning and in the evening, and he drank from the brook.

⁷ A while later the brook dried up because there had been no rain in the land.

⁸ Then the Lord told Elijah,

⁹ “Leave here and go to Zarephath near Sidon and stay there. I have given instructions to a widow there to provide you with food.”

¹⁰ So he left for Zarephath. When he arrived at the entrance to the town, he saw a woman, a widow, gathering sticks. He called her over and asked her, “Could you bring me a little water in a cup so I can have a drink?”

¹² She replied, “As the Lord your God lives, I have no bread, only a handful of flour is left in a jar and a little bit of olive oil in a jug. Right now I am gathering a few of sticks so I can go and cook what's left for myself and my son so we can eat it, and then we'll die.”

¹³ Elijah said to her, “Don't be afraid. Go home and do what you said. But first make me a small loaf of bread from what you have and bring it to me. Then make something for yourself and your son.

¹⁴ For this is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: ‘The jar of flour will not become empty and the jug of olive oil will not run out until the day the Lord sends rain to water the ground.’”

¹⁶ The jar of flour was did not become empty and the jug of olive oil did not run out, just as the Lord had said through Elijah.

¹⁷ Later on the woman's son fell sick. (She was the one who owned the house.) He went from bad to worse, and finally he died.

¹⁸ “What are you doing to me,* man of God?” the woman asked Elijah. “Have you come to remind me about my sins and cause my son to die?”

¹⁹ “Give me your son,” Elijah replied. He picked him up from her arms, carried him upstairs to the room where he was staying, and laid him on his bed.

²⁰ Then he cried out to the Lord, saying, “Lord my God, why have you allowed this to happen to this widow who has opened her home to me, this terrible tragedy of causing her son to die?”

²¹ He stretched himself out on the boy three times, and cried out to the Lord, “Lord my God, please let this boy's life return to him!”

²² The Lord responded to Elijah's cry. The boy's life returned to him, and he lived!

²³ Elijah took the boy and brought him down from the room into the house, and gave him to his mother. “See, your son is alive,” Elijah told her.

* 17:18 The literal phrase in the Hebrew is “what for me and for you?” It is sometimes translated “What do I have to do you with you?” but here it is clearly being used as a question regarding the death of the widow's son.

²⁴ “Now I’m convinced that you are a man of God, and that what the Lord speaks through you is the truth,” the woman replied.

¹ Sometime later, during the third year, a message from the Lord came to Elijah: “Go and appear before Ahab, and I will send rain on the earth.”

² So Elijah went to appear before Ahab. In the meantime the famine had become severe in Samaria.

³ Ahab summoned Obadiah, the manager of his palace (Obadiah was a very sincere believer in the Lord.

⁴ While Jezebel was busy killing the Lord’s prophets, Obadiah had taken one hundred prophets and hidden them, fifty in each of two caves, and had provided them with food and water.)

⁵ Ahab told Obadiah, “Go throughout the country and check all the springs and valleys. Perhaps we can find some grass to keep the horses and mules alive so we will not lose any of the animals.”

⁶ So they divided the land between them. Ahab went in one direction, and Obadiah the other.

⁷ As Obadiah went on his way, Elijah came to meet him. Obadiah recognized him, bowed down to the ground, and said, “Is it you, my lord Elijah?”

⁹ “How have I sinned that you are handing me, your servant, over to Ahab to be killed?”

¹⁰ As the Lord your God lives, there’s no nation or kingdom where my master hasn’t sent someone to search for you. When a nation or kingdom said you weren’t there, he made them swear that they couldn’t find you.

¹¹ And now you’re telling me to go to my master and announce, ‘Elijah is here!’

¹² I have no idea where the Spirit of the Lord will take you after I leave you. If I go and tell Ahab and then he can’t find you, he’s going to kill me, even though I, your servant, have worshiped the Lord since I was young.

¹⁴ And now you’re telling me to go to my master and announce, ‘Elijah is here.’ He’s going to kill me!”

¹⁵ Elijah replied, “As the Lord Almighty lives, the one I serve, I will definitely appear before Ahab today.”

¹⁶ So Obadiah went to meet Ahab and told him, and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

¹⁷ When Ahab saw Elijah, he said to him, “Is that you—you who are causing trouble for Israel?”

²⁰ So Ahab summoned all of Israel and also gathered the prophets on Mount Carmel.

²¹ Elijah approached the people and asked them, "How long will you hobble along, hesitating between two opposite beliefs? If the Lord is God, then follow him. But if Baal is God, then follow him." But the people gave no answer.

²² Then Elijah told them, "I am the only one left of the Lord's prophets—just me alone—but Baal has four hundred and fifty prophets.

²³ Provide us with two bulls. Let the prophets of Baal choose for themselves the one they want, and have them cut it into pieces and place it on the firewood. But don't set fire to it. I will prepare the other bull and place it on the firewood but I won't set fire to it.

²⁴ Then you call on your god by name, and I will call on the Lord by name. The god who replies by sending fire—he is God." Then all the people said, "We agree to what you say."^{*}

²⁵ Elijah said to the prophets of Baal, "You choose one of the bulls and prepare it first, because there are so many of you. Call on your god by name, but don't light the fire."

²⁶ So they took the bull provided and prepared it. Then they called on Baal by name from morning until noon. "Baal, answer us!" they pleaded. But no voice was heard, no one answered. They hobbled[†] in a dance around the altar they had made.

²⁷ At noon Elijah began to mock them. "Shout really loud!" he said. "Isn't he meant to be a god? Maybe he's meditating, or he's gone to the bathroom, or he's away on a trip! Maybe he's asleep and has to be woken up!"

²⁸ They shouted even louder and cut themselves with swords and spears until they bled. This was their usual way of worshipping.

²⁹ Noon came and went, and they went on with their manic "prophesying" until the time[‡] of the evening sacrifice. But no voice was heard, no one answered, no one was listening.

³⁰ Then Elijah told everyone, "Come over here to me." They went over to him, and he repaired the altar of the Lord that had been torn down.

³¹ Elijah took twelve stones to represent the tribes of the sons of Jacob. (Jacob was the one who received the Lord's message that said, "Israel shall be your name.")

³² With the stones he built an altar in the Lord's name. He dug a ditch around it that could hold two seahs of seed.

³³ He put the wood in place, cut the bull into pieces, and laid it on the wood. Then he told them, "Fill up four large jars with water and pour it over the offering and the wood."

³⁴ "Do it again," he said. So they did. "Do it for a third time," he said. So they did it for the third time.

³⁵ The water ran down all over the altar and even filled the ditch.

³⁶ At the time of the evening sacrifice, the prophet Elijah went over to the altar and prayed: "Lord, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel,

^{*} 18:24 "We agree to what you say": literally "the word is good." Perhaps a more modern colloquialism would be "good idea." [†] 18:26 "Hobbled": the word is the same used in verse 21 for their wavering between two beliefs. It is used here to describe the wayward, stumbling dance of these pagan priests who became increasingly disorientated as they tried to make their "god" answer them. [‡] 18:29 Around 3 pm.

demonstrate today that you are God in Israel, that I am your servant, and that everything I have done has been at your command.

³⁷ Answer me, Lord! Answer me, so that these people will know that you, Lord, are God, and that you are bringing them back to you."

³⁸ Then the fire of the Lord came down and burned up the sacrifice, the wood, the stones, and the soil—it even licked up the water in the ditch!

³⁹ When all the people saw this, they fell face down on the ground and shouted, "The Lord, he is God! The Lord, he is God!"

⁴⁰ Then Elijah ordered them, "Grab hold of the prophets of Baal. Don't let any escape!" They grabbed them, and Elijah brought them down to the Kishon Valley and killed them there.

⁴² So Ahab went to eat and drink, but Elijah went to the top of Carmel. There he bent down to the ground, putting his face between his knees.

⁴³ "Go and look toward the sea," he told his servant. The man went and looked. "There's nothing there," he said. Seven times Elijah told him, "Go and look again."

⁴⁴ The seventh time the servant came back and said, "I saw a small cloud the size of a man's hand coming up from the sea." So Elijah said, "Run to Ahab and tell him, 'Get your chariot ready and go down before the rain stops you.'"

⁴⁵ Very quickly the sky grew dark with clouds, the wind blew, heavy rain started falling, and Ahab rode down to Jezreel.

⁴⁶ The Lord gave his power to Elijah—he tucked his cloak into his belt and ran ahead of Ahab all the way to Jezreel.

¹ Ahab told Jezebel everything that Elijah had done and that he had killed all the prophets of Baal with the sword.

² Jezebel sent a messenger to Elijah to say, "May the gods do as much to me and more if by tomorrow I haven't made your life like the lives of those you killed!"

³ Elijah was afraid and ran for his life. When he arrived in Beersheba in Judah, he left his servant there

⁴ and traveled another day's journey into the desert. He sat down under a broom tree and asked to die. "I've had enough now, Lord," he said. "Take my life! I'm no better than my forefathers."

⁵ He lay down and fell asleep under the broom tree. All of a sudden an angel touched him and said, "Get up, and eat."

⁶ He looked around, and there beside his head was some bread baking over hot coals, and a jar of water. He ate and drank and lay down again.

⁷ The angel of the Lord returned a second time and touched him, and said, "Get up and eat, otherwise the journey will be too much for you."

⁸ So he got up and ate and drank, and with the strength the food gave him he was able to walk forty days and forty nights to Mount Horeb,* the mountain of God.

⁹ There he entered a cave and spent the night.

* 19:8 Another name for Mount Sinai.

The Lord spoke to Elijah, and asked him, "What are you doing here, Elijah?"

¹⁰ "I have worked passionately for the Lord God Almighty," he replied. "But the Israelites have abandoned your agreement, torn down your altars, and killed your prophets with the sword. I am the only one who's left, and they are trying to kill me as well."

¹² After the earthquake there came a fire, but the Lord wasn't in the fire. And after the fire came a voice speaking in a gentle whisper.

¹³ When Elijah heard it, he wrapped his cloak around his face and went out and stood at the cave entrance. Immediately a voice spoke to him and asked, "What are you doing here, Elijah?"

¹⁴ "I have worked passionately for the Lord God Almighty," he replied. "But the Israelites have abandoned your agreement, torn down your altars, and killed your prophets with the sword. I am the only one who's left, and they are trying to kill me as well."

¹⁵ The Lord told him, "Go back the way you came to the desert of Damascus. When you get there, go and anoint Hazael king of Aram.

¹⁶ Also anoint Jehu, son of Nimshi, king of Israel and Elisha, son of Shaphat, from Abel-meholah, to take over from you as prophet.

¹⁸ I still have seven thousand left in Israel, all those who have not bowed their knees to worship and whose mouths have not kissed him."

²⁰ Elisha left the oxen, ran after Elijah, and said, "Please let me go and kiss my father and mother goodbye, and then I will follow you." "Go on home," Elijah replied. "I've never done anything for you."[†]

²¹ Elisha left him, took his pair of oxen, and slaughtered them. Using the wood of the oxen's yoke as fuel, he cooked the meat and gave it to the people, and they ate it.[‡] Then he left to follow and serve Elijah.

² He sent messengers to Ahab, king of Israel, in the city to tell him, "This is what Ben-hadad says:

³ Your silver and gold belong to me now, and your best wives and children also belong to me!"

⁴ "It's as you say, my lord the king," the king of Israel replied. "I am yours, as well as everything that belongs to me."

[†] 19:20 Meaning that there was no material advantage in following Elijah. [‡] 19:21 By taking these actions Elisha indicated to everyone he would not be using the oxen and plow ever again.

⁵ The messengers returned and said, "This is what Ben-hadad says: I have sent you a message demanding you give me your silver, your gold, your wives, and your children.

⁶ But around this time tomorrow I'm going to send my men to search your palace and the homes of your officials. They will take and carry away everything you see as valuable."

⁷ The king of Israel called all the elders of the land and told them, "Look how this man is trying to cause trouble! When he demanded my wives and my children, my silver and my gold, I didn't say no."

⁸ All the elders and all the people present responded, "Don't listen to him. Don't agree to his demands."

⁹ So the king told Ben-hadad's messengers, "Tell my lord the king: Everything you demanded at first your servant will do, but I cannot agree to this latest demand." The messengers took the reply back to him.

¹⁰ Ben-hadad responded to him, "May the gods do as much to me and more if there remains enough dust in Samaria to give my subjects a handful each!"

¹¹ The king of Israel replied, "Tell him this: A man putting on his armor should not brag like one who is taking it off."*

¹² Ben-hadad received this message while he and the kings were drinking in their tents. He immediately gave the order to his officers, "Get ready to attack!" So they prepared to attack the city.

¹³ At the same time a prophet came up to Ahab, king of Israel, and told him, "This is what the Lord says: You see this massive army? Just watch, because I will make you victorious today, and you will be convinced† that I am the Lord."

¹⁴ "But who's going to do this?" Ahab asked. The prophet answered, "This is what the Lord says: It will be the young officers under the district commanders."

"And who's going to start the battle?" he asked. The prophet replied, "You are!"

¹⁵ So Ahab called up the 232 young officers of the district commanders, and assembled the 7,000 soldiers that made up Israel's army.

¹⁷ The young officers of the district commanders took the lead. The scouts Ben-hadad had sent out came and reported to him, "Enemy soldiers are advancing from Samaria."

¹⁸ "If they're coming in peace, take them alive," he ordered. "If they're coming to attack, take them alive."

²⁰ Each man killed his opponent, and the Arameans ran away. The Israelites chased them, but Ben-hadad, king of Aram, escaped on horseback with his cavalry.

²¹ Then the king of Israel came out and attacked the horses and chariots. He inflicted a great defeat on the Arameans.

* 20:11 In other words, boasting should only be done when victory is won. † 20:13 "Convinced": literally, "know," but this is more than simply being aware of something, rather a motivating belief.

²² Later on the prophet came to the king of Israel and told him, “Go and reinforce your defenses, and check what you need to do, because in the spring the king of Aram will come and attack you again.”

²⁴ You should do this: remove each of the kings from their positions and replace them with commanders.

²⁵ You also have to raise another army to replace the one you lost—horse for horse, chariot for chariot. Then we can fight them in the lowlands and we will definitely beat them.” Ben-hadad listened to their advice and did as they said.

²⁶ When spring came Ben-hadad called up the Aramean army and went to attack Israel at Aphek.

²⁷ The Israelite army was also called up and provided with supplies. They went to confront the Arameans. But when the Israelites set up their camp opposite the enemy they looked like couple of flocks of goats in comparison with the Aramean army that filled the whole land.

²⁸ Then the man of God came to the king of Israel and said, “This is what the Lord says: Because the Arameans have said, ‘The Lord is only a god of the mountains and not of the valleys,’ I will make you victorious over the whole of this massive army. Then you will be convinced that I am the Lord.”

²⁹ The armies camped opposite each other for seven days. On the seventh day the battle took place. The Israelites killed 100,000 of the Aramean infantry in one day.

³⁰ The rest ran away to the town of Aphek, where a wall collapsed on 27,000 of those that remained. Ben-hadad also ran to the town and hid in an inside room.

³¹ Ben-hadad's officers said to him, “Look, we've heard that the Israelite kings are merciful. Let's surrender to the king of Israel, wearing sackcloth around our waists and ropes on our heads. Maybe he will let you live.”

³² So wearing sackcloth around their waists and ropes on their heads, they went and surrendered to the king of Israel, and told him, “Your servant Ben-hadad asks, ‘Please let me live.’ ” The king replied “Is he still alive? I think of him as my brother.”

³³ The men thought this was a good sign and they immediately took the king at his word, saying, “Yes, Ben-hadad is your brother.”

“Go and fetch him!” said the king. So Ben-hadad came out of hiding and surrendered to Ahab, who pulled him up into his chariot.

³⁴ Ben-hadad said to him, “I will return the towns my father took from your father, and you can organize your own places for trade in Damascus, like my father did in Samaria.”

“By making this agreement I set you free,” Ahab replied. He made a treaty with Ben-hadad and let him go.

³⁵ Following a message he received from the Lord, one of the sons of the prophets^S said to his colleague, “Please hit me.” But the man refused to hit him.

‡ 20:34 See 15:20. § 20:35 “Sons of the prophets,” also referred to as “the school of the prophets” was a kind of institution of religious education and a center for the prophetic gift.

³⁶ So the prophet told him, "Since you have not done what the Lord said, once you leave me a lion is going to kill you." When the man left, a lion came and killed him.

³⁷ The prophet found another man and said, "Please hit me!" So the man hit him, wounding him.

³⁸ Then the prophet went and stood beside the road, waiting for the king. He had disguised himself with a bandage over his eyes.

³⁹ As the king was passing by, he shouted out to the king: "Your servant had gone out fighting right in the middle of the battle, when all of a sudden a man came over with a prisoner and told me, 'Guard this man! If for any reason he escapes, you will pay for his life with your life, or you will be fined a talent of silver.'

⁴⁰ But while your servant was busy with other things, the man got away." "So that will be your punishment then," the king of Israel told him. "You have sentenced yourself."

⁴¹ Then the prophet quickly took off the bandage from his eyes, and the king of Israel recognized he was one of the prophets.

⁴² He told the king, "This is what the Lord says: You have let go a man I had decided should die. Therefore you will pay for his life with your life, your people for his people."

⁴³ The king of Israel went home to Samaria, sulking and infuriated.

² Ahab went to Naboth and said, "Give me your vineyard so I can turn it into a vegetable garden, because it's close to my palace. In return I'll give you a better vineyard, or if you want I'll pay you for it in cash."

³ But Naboth replied, "The Lord curse me if I should give you my forefathers' inheritance."*

⁴ Ahab went home sulking and infuriated because Naboth from Jezreel had said, "I will not give you my forefathers' inheritance." He went to bed, wouldn't look at anyone, and refused to eat.

⁵ His wife Jezebel came in and asked him, "Why are you so upset about? That you don't want to eat?"

⁶ Ahab replied, "It's because I talked with Naboth from Jezreel and I asked him, 'Give me your vineyard for cash, or if you want, I'll give you another vineyard instead.' But he said, 'I will not give you my vineyard.' "

⁸ So she wrote some letters in Ahab's name and sealed them with his seal. She sent the letters to the elders and leaders in the town where Naboth lived.

⁹ In the letters she wrote to tell them, "Announce a religious fast, and give Naboth a seat of honor.

* 21:3 According to Levitical law, inheritance was to be kept according to the original tribal allocations. See Numbers 36:7-9.

¹⁰ But seat two bad men[†] opposite him and have them accuse him, saying, 'You have cursed God and the king!' Then take him out and stone him to death."

¹¹ So the elders and leaders who lived in Naboth's town did as Jezebel had said in the letters she had written and sent to them.

¹³ Two bad men came and sat opposite him, and accused him in front of the people, saying, "Naboth has cursed God and the king." So they took him outside the town and stoned him to death.

¹⁴ Then they sent a message to Jezebel, saying, "Naboth has been stoned. He's dead."

¹⁵ As soon as Jezebel heard that Naboth had been stoned and he was dead, Jezebel told Ahab, "Get up, go and claim ownership of the vineyard of Naboth from Jezreel, which he refused to sell you, for Naboth is no longer alive, but dead."

¹⁶ When Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, he got up and went to claim ownership of Naboth's vineyard.

¹⁷ Then the Lord sent a message to Elijah the Tishbite:

¹⁸ "Go and meet Ahab, king of Israel, in Samaria. He is right now in Naboth's vineyard, where he has gone to claim ownership of it.

¹⁹ Tell him: This is what the Lord says: Have you murdered a man and robbed him? Then tell him: This is what the Lord says: In the very spot where dogs licked up Naboth's blood, dogs will lick up your own blood."

²⁰ "So have you come to find me, my enemy?" Ahab asked Elijah. "I have found you, because you have sold yourself to do what is evil in the Lord's sight," Elijah replied.

²¹ He says, "Watch out! I'm going to bring disaster on you and destroy your descendants. I will kill from every male of Ahab's line, both slave and free, in the whole of Israel.

²² I will make your house like that of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, and like that of Baasha, son of Ahijah, because you have angered me and made Israel sin.

²³ And as far as Jezebel is concerned, the Lord says, 'Dogs will eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel.'

²⁴ Those of Ahab's family who die in the town will be eaten by dogs, and those who die in the countryside will be eaten by birds."

²⁵ (No one else was so bad as Ahab, who sold himself to do what is evil in the Lord's sight, because his wife Jezebel encouraged him.

²⁶ He did the most despicable things, worshiping idols like the Amorites the Lord had driven out before Israel.)

²⁷ As soon as Ahab heard this message, he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth, and fasted. He even went to bed in sackcloth, and walked around repentantly.[‡]

²⁸ Then the Lord sent a message to Elijah the Tishbite:

²⁹ "Have you seen how Ahab has humbled himself before me? Because he has humbled himself before me, I will not bring the disaster during his lifetime, but I will bring down disaster on his family in the lifetime of his son."

² But in the third year Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, went to visit the king of Israel.

³ The king of Israel had said to his officers, "Aren't you aware that Ramoth-gilead really belongs to us and yet we haven't done anything to take it back from the king of Aram?"

⁴ So he asked Jehoshaphat, "Will you join me in an attack to recapture Ramoth-gilead?"

Jehoshaphat replied to the king of Israel, "You and I are as one, my men and your men are as one, and my horses and your horses are as one."

⁵ Then Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, "But first though, please find out what the Lord says."

⁶ So the king of Israel brought out the prophets—four hundred of them—and he asked them, "Should I go up and attack Ramoth-gilead, or should I not?"

"Yes, go ahead," they replied, "for the Lord will hand it over to the king."

⁷ But Jehoshaphat asked, "Isn't there another prophet of the Lord here that we can ask?"

⁸ "Yes, there's another man who could consult the Lord," the king of Israel replied, "but I don't like him because he never prophesies anything good for me—it's always bad! His name is Micaiah, son of Imlah."

"You shouldn't talk like that," said Jehoshaphat.

¹⁰ Dressed in their royal robes, the king of Israel and King Jehoshaphat of Judah, were sitting on their thrones at the threshing floor beside the gate of Samaria, with all of the prophets prophesying in front of them.

¹¹ One of them, Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah, had made himself iron horns. He announced, "This is what the Lord says: 'With these horns you will gore the Arameans until they're dead!'"

¹² All the prophets were prophesying the same thing, saying, "Go ahead, attack Ramoth-gilead; you will be successful, for the Lord will hand it over to the king."

¹³ The messenger who went to call Micaiah told him, "Look, all the prophets are unanimous in prophesying positively to the king. So please make sure to speak positively like them."

¹⁴ But Micaiah replied, "As the Lord lives, I can only say what my God tells me."

¹⁵ When he came before the king, the king asked him, "Should we go up and attack Ramoth-gilead, or should we not?"

"Yes, go ahead and be victorious," Micaiah replied, "for the Lord will give it into the king's hand."*

¹⁶ But the king said to him, "How many times must I make you swear to tell me only the truth in the name of the Lord?"

¹⁷ So Micaiah answered, "I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains like sheep without a shepherd. The Lord said, 'These people have no master;† let each of them go home in peace.' "

* 22:15 Perhaps Micaiah is using a sarcastic repetition of the other prophets, leading Ahab to respond as he does in the next verse. † 22:17 "No master": implying that their master is dead.

18 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Didn't I tell you he never prophesies anything good for me, only bad?"

19 Micaiah went on to say, "So listen to what the Lord says. I saw the Lord sitting on his throne, surrounded by the whole army of heaven standing to his right and to his left.

20 The Lord asked, 'Who will trick Ahab, king of Israel, into attacking Ramoth-gilead so he will be killed there?'

One said this, another said that, and another said something else.

21 Finally a spirit came and approached the Lord and said, 'I will trick him.'

22 'How are you going to do that?' the Lord asked.

'I will go and be a lying spirit and make all his prophets tell lies,' the spirit replied.

'That will work,' the Lord responded. 'Go and do it.'

23 As you see, the Lord has put a lying spirit into these prophets of yours, and the Lord has pronounced your death sentence."

24 Then Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah, went and slapped Micaiah in the face, and demanded, "Which way did the Spirit of the Lord go when he left me to speak to you?"

25 "You'll soon find out when you try and find some secret place to hide!" Micaiah replied.

26 The king of Israel ordered, "Place Micaiah under arrest and take him back to Amon the governor of the city and to my son Joash.

27 Tell them these are the king's instructions: 'Put this man in jail. Give him only bread and water until my safe return.' "

28 "If you do in fact return safely then the Lord has not spoken through me," Micaiah declared. "Pay attention everyone to all I've said!"

29 The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, went to attack Ramoth-gilead.

30 The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "When I go into battle I will be in disguise, but you should wear your royal robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself and went into battle.

31 The king of Aram had already given these orders to his chariot commanders: "Head straight for the king of Israel alone. Don't fight with anyone else, whoever they are."

32 So when the chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they shouted, "This must be the king of Israel!" So they turned to attack him, but when Jehoshaphat called out for help, 33 the chariot commanders saw it wasn't the king of Israel and stopped chasing him.

34 However, an enemy archer shot an arrow at random, hitting the king of Israel between the joints of his armor by his breastplate. The king told his charioteer, "Turn around and get me out of the fight, because I've been wounded!"

35 The battle lasted all day. The king of Israel was propped up in his chariot to face the Arameans, but in the evening he died. The blood had poured out of his wound onto the floor of the chariot.

³⁷ So the king died. He was taken back to Samaria where they buried him.

³⁸ They washed his chariot at a pool in Samaria where the prostitutes came to bathe, and dogs licked up his blood, just as the Lord had said.

³⁹ The rest of what happened in Ahab's reign, all that he did, the ivory palace he constructed and all the cities he built are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

⁴⁰ Ahab died and his son Ahaziah succeeded him as king.

⁴¹ Jehoshaphat, son of Asa, became king of Judah in the fourth year of the reign of Ahab, king of Israel.

⁴² Jehoshaphat was thirty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-five years. His mother's name was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi.

⁴³ He followed all the ways of his father; he did not depart from them, and he did what was right in the Lord's sight. However, the high places were not removed and the people still sacrificed and presented offerings there.

⁴⁴ Jehoshaphat also made peace with the king of Israel.

⁴⁵ The rest of what happened in Jehoshaphat's reign, his great achievements and the wars he fought are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

⁴⁷ (At that time there was no king in Edom; only a deputy who served as king.)

⁴⁸ Jehoshaphat built sea-going ships[‡] to go to Ophir for gold, but they went because they were wrecked at Ezion-geber.

⁴⁹ During that time Ahaziah, son of Ahab, asked Jehoshaphat, "Let my men sail with your men," but Jehoshaphat refused.

⁵⁰ Jehoshaphat died and was buried with his forefathers in the City of David. His son Jehoram succeeded him as king.

⁵¹ Ahaziah, son of Ahab, became king of Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and he reigned over Israel for two years.

⁵² He did what was evil in the Lord's sight and followed the ways of his father and mother, and of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, who had made Israel sin.

⁵³ He served Baal and worshiped him, and angered the Lord, the God of Israel, just as his father had.

[‡] 22:48 "Sea-going ships": literally "ships of Tarshish" to indicate they were built for long-distance travel. See 2 Chronicles 20:35-37.

² Ahaziah* had fallen through the lattice-work† of his upper room in Samaria and had hurt himself badly. So he sent out messengers, telling them: "Go and ask Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, whether I will get better from this injury."

³ But the angel of the Lord told Elijah the Tishbite, "Go and meet the messengers of the king of Samaria and ask them, 'Is it because there's no God in Israel that you're going to ask advice from Baal-Zebub, the god of Ekron?'"

⁴ So this is the Lord's answer: 'You will not leave the bed on which you are lying. You're definitely going to die.' " And Elijah left.

⁵ The messengers returned to the king, and he asked them, "Why have you come back?"

⁶ "A man came and met us," they replied. "He told us, 'Go back to the king who sent you, and tell him, This is what the Lord says: Is it because there is no God in Israel that you are sending to ask advice from Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? As a result you will not leave the bed on which you are lying. You're definitely going to die.' "

⁷ "What was he like, this man who met you and told you all this?" the king asked.

⁸ "He was a hairy man wearing a leather belt around his waist," they replied.

"It's Elijah the Tishbite," said the king.

⁹ Then the king sent an army captain with fifty men to Elijah. The captain went up to Elijah, who was sitting on the top of a hill, and told him, "Man of God, the king orders you, 'Come down!' "

¹⁰ Elijah replied to the captain, "If I am a man of God, then let fire fall from heaven and burn up you and your fifty men." Fire fell from heaven and burned up the captain and his men.

¹¹ So the king sent another captain with his fifty men to Elijah. The captain said to Elijah, "Man of God, the king orders you, Come down immediately!"

¹² Elijah replied to the captain, "If I am a man of God, then let fire fall from heaven and burn up you and your fifty men." Fire fell from heaven and burned up the captain and his men.

¹³ So the king sent a third captain with his fifty men. The third captain went up, kneeled before Elijah, and pleaded with him, "Man of God, please value my life and the lives of these fifty men."

¹⁴ Yes, fire has fallen from heaven and burned up the first two captains of fifty, along with all their men. But now please value my life!"

¹⁵ Then the angel of the Lord told Elijah, "Go down with him. You don't have to be afraid of him." So Elijah got up and went down with him to the king.

* 1:2 Ahab's son who had succeeded him as king of Israel. † 1:2 Lattice-work: perhaps the shade used to cover a window.

¹⁶ Elijah told the king, "This is what the Lord says: 'Is it because there's no God in Israel for you to consult that you have sent messengers to ask advice of Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? As a result you will not leave the bed on which you are lying. You're definitely going to die.'"

¹⁷ Ahaziah died just as the Lord had said through Elijah. Because he had no son, Joram[‡] succeeded him as king in the second year of the reign of Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah.

¹⁸ The rest of what happened in Ahaziah's reign and what he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

2

² Elijah said to Elisha, "Please stay here, for the Lord has sent me to Bethel."

But Elisha replied, "As the Lord lives, and as you yourself live, I will not leave you." So they went to Bethel.

³ The sons of the prophets who lived in Bethel came to Elisha and told him, "You do know that the Lord is going to take your master away from you today, don't you?"

"Yes, I know," he replied. "Don't talk about it."

⁴ Then Elijah said to him, "Please stay here, Elisha, for the Lord has sent me to Jericho."

He replied, "As the Lord lives, and as you live, I will not leave you." So they went to Jericho.

⁵ The sons of the prophets who lived in Jericho came to Elisha and told him, "You do know that the Lord is going to take your master away from you today, don't you?"

"Yes, I know," he replied. "Don't talk about it."

⁶ Then Elijah said to him, "Please stay here, Elisha, for the Lord has sent me to the Jordan."

He replied, "As the Lord lives, and as you live, I will not leave you." So they travelled on together.

⁷ Then a group of fifty of the sons of the prophets went and stood facing Elijah and Elisha at a distance as the two of them stood by the Jordan.

⁸ Elijah took his cloak, rolled it up, and hit the water. It divided to the one side and to the other and both of them crossed over on dry ground.

⁹ When they arrived on the other side, Elijah asked Elisha, "What can I do for you before I'm taken from you?"

"Please let me have a double amount of your spirit," Elisha replied.

¹⁰ "What you have asked for is hard," Elijah responded. "But if you see me when I am taken from you, you will have it, otherwise not."

¹¹ As they were walking along, talking, a chariot of fire and horses of fire came between them, and Elijah was taken up in the whirlwind to heaven.

¹² Elisha saw what happened and cried out, "My father! My father! Look! The chariots and horsemen of Israel!" Then Elisha couldn't see him anymore. He took his clothes and ripped them to pieces.*

[‡] 1:17 "Joram," spelled here Jehoram. For purposes of clarity the king of Israel is called Joram in this translation, while the king of Judah is called Jehoram, though the names are basically the same and are used interchangeably in the Hebrew text. * 2:12 A symbolic act of great distress.

13 Then Elisha picked up Elijah's cloak that had fallen from him, and went back and stood on the bank of the Jordan.

14 He took Elijah's cloak that had fallen from him, hit the water, and cried out, "Where is the Lord, the God of Elijah?" When he hit the water, it divided to the one side and to the other and Elisha crossed over.

15 The sons of the prophets who lived in Jericho saw him from the opposite side and shouted out, "Elijah's spirit now rests upon Elisha!" They went over to meet him, and bowed to the ground before him.

16 "Look," they said to Elisha, "we your servants have fifty good men here. Please allow them to go and search for your master. Maybe the Spirit of the Lord has taken him and put him down on a mountain or in a valley somewhere."

"Don't bother sending them," Elisha replied.

17 But they went on trying to persuade him until he was too embarrassed to say no. "Go ahead and send them," he told them. So they sent fifty men, who searched for Elijah for three days but couldn't find him.

18 When they returned to Elisha, who was staying in Jericho, he said to them, "Didn't I tell you not to bother going?"

19 The townspeople said to Elisha, "Look, sir, while our town has a good location as you can see, the water is bad and the soil is poor."

20 "Bring me a brand new bowl and put some salt in it," he replied. So they brought it to him.

21 Then Elisha went to the spring, threw the salt into it, and said, "This is what the Lord says: 'I have purified this water. It won't cause death or miscarriages anymore.'"

22 The water there is still pure to this very day, just as Elisha said it would be.

23 Elisha went on from there to Bethel. As he was walking along the road, a group of youths came from the town. They made fun of him, calling out, "Go on up, baldy! Go on up, baldy!"[†]

24 Turning around, he looked at them and called down a curse on them in the Lord's name. Suddenly two female bears came out of the forest and mauled forty-two of them.

25 Elisha carried on to Mount Carmel, and from there he went back to Samaria.

3

1 Joram, son of Ahab, became king of Israel in the eighteenth year of the reign of King Jehoshaphat of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for twelve years.

2 He did evil in the Lord's sight, but not like his father and mother had done, for he got rid of the stone image of Baal that his father had made.

3 However, he still held on to the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit—he did not give them up.

4 Mesha, king of Moab, was a sheep breeder. He used to provide a tribute to the king of Israel of one hundred thousand lambs and the wool of one hundred thousand rams.

5 But after Ahab died, the king of Moab rebelled against the king of Israel.

[†] 2:23 It seems they were taunting Elisha by saying he should leave in the same way as Elijah.

⁶ Immediately King Joram called up the whole Israelite army and left Samaria.

⁷ On his way he sent a message to Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, saying, "The king of Moab has rebelled against me. Will you join me in an attack on Moab?"

Jehoshaphat replied, "Yes, I will join you. You and I are as one, my men and your men are as one, and my horses and your horses are as one."

⁸ Then he asked, "Which way shall we go?"

"We'll take the road through the desert of Edom," he replied.

⁹ So the king of Israel, the king of Judah, and the king of Edom set off. Having followed an indirect route for seven days, they ran out of water for their army and for their animals.

¹¹ But Jehoshaphat asked, "Isn't there a prophet of the Lord here with us? Let us consult the Lord through him."

One of the king of Israel's officers answered, "Elisha, son of Shaphat, is here. He was Elijah's assistant."^{*}

¹² Jehoshaphat agreed, "The Lord communicates by him." So the king of Israel, Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom went to see him.

¹³ Elisha said to the king of Israel, "What have I got to do with you? Go to your own prophets, those of your father and your mother." But the king of Israel said to him, "No—because it's the Lord who has brought these three kings here to hand them over to the Moabites!"

¹⁴ Elisha replied, "As the Lord Almighty lives, the one I serve, if I didn't respect the fact that Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, is here, I wouldn't even look in your direction or acknowledge you.

¹⁵ Now bring me a musician."[†]

While the musician played, the Lord's power came upon Elisha,

¹⁶ and he announced, "This is what the Lord says: This valley will be filled with pools of water. For the Lord says:

¹⁷ You won't see any wind, you won't see any rain, but even so this valley will be filled with water. You will drink, and your cattle, and your animals.

¹⁸ The Lord views this as something trivial to do; and he will also make you victorious over the Moabites.

¹⁹ You will conquer every fortified town, and every important town. You will chop down every good tree, block up every spring, and spoil every good field by throwing stones on them."

²⁰ The next day, around the time of the morning sacrifice, water suddenly flowed from the direction of Edom, filling the whole countryside with water.

²¹ All the Moabites had heard that the kings had come to attack them. So everyone who could wear a sword, young and old, was called up and went to guard the border.

²² But the next morning when they got up the sun was shining on the water, and to the Moabites on the other side it looked blood red.

²³ "This is blood!" they said. "The kings and their armies must have attacked and killed each other! Moabites, let's grab the plunder!"

^{*} 3:11 "He was Elijah's assistant": literally, "He used to pour water on Elijah's hands." [†] 3:15 "Musician": usually referring to someone who could play a stringed instrument. A harp is often suggested.

²⁴ But when the Moabites arrived at the Israelite camp, the Israelites ran out and attacked them, and they ran away from them. So the Israelites invaded their country and killed the Moabites.

²⁵ They destroyed the towns, and each soldier threw stones on every good field until it was covered. They blocked up every spring and chopped down every good tree. Only Kir-haraseth still had its walls, but soldiers using slingshots surrounded it and attacked it as well.

²⁷ So the king of Moab took his firstborn son, who was meant to succeed him, and sacrificed him as a burnt offering on the town wall. Great anger came upon the Israelites, so they left and went back to their own country.‡

4

¹ The wife of one of the sons of the prophets appealed to Elisha, "My husband, your servant, is dead, and you know that he honored the Lord. But now to pay his debts his creditor is coming to take my two sons as his slaves!"

² "What can I do to help you?" asked Elisha. "Tell me, what do you have in your house?"

"I, your servant, don't have anything in my house except a jar of olive oil," she replied.

³ "Go and borrow empty jars from your neighbors—as many as possible, not just a few," Elisha told her.

⁴ "Then go inside, shut the door behind you and your sons, and start pouring olive oil into all these jars, placing the full jars to one side."

⁵ She left Elisha, went home, and shut the door behind her and her sons. They brought the jars to her and she kept on pouring.

⁶ When all the jars were full, she told her son, "Bring me another one." But he replied, "There aren't any jars left." Then the olive oil stopped flowing.

⁷ She went and told the man of God what had happened, and he said, "Go and sell the olive oil and pay your debts, and you and your sons can live on what's left."

⁸ One day as Elisha was passing through Shunem, a wealthy woman who lived there convinced him to have a meal. After that, whenever he was passing by he would stop there to eat.

⁹ She told her husband, "I'm sure that this man who regularly visits us is a holy man of God."

¹⁰ Please let's make a small room on the roof. We can put a bed, a table, a chair, and a lamp in it for him. Then he can stay there whenever he visits us."

¹¹ One day Elisha arrived and went up to his room and lay down.

¹² He said to his servant Gehazi, "Ask the Shunammite woman* to come here." Gehazi called her and she came to see Elisha.

‡ 3:27 Whether this was great anger displayed by the Moabites against the Israelites, or whether such a horrific act made the Israelites very angry is debated. It seems more likely that such a gruesome human sacrifice was so offensive, even to the Israelites in their lax spiritual state, that they simply left. * 4:12 Referring to the woman who had arranged his accommodation.

¹³ Elisha said to Gehazi, "Please tell her, 'You have gone to a lot of trouble on our behalf. Now what can we do for you? Do you want us to speak for you to the king or the army commander?' "

"I live with my own people,"[†] she replied.

¹⁴ After she had left,[‡] Elisha asked, "What can we do for her?"

"She doesn't have a son, and her husband is old," Gehazi replied.

¹⁵ Elisha said, "Ask her to come back." So Gehazi called her, and she came stood by the door.

¹⁶ Elisha told her, "Around this time next year, you will be holding a son in your arms."

"No, my lord!" she responded. "Man of God, don't tell your servant lies!"

¹⁷ But the woman did indeed become pregnant, and the next year around that same time she gave birth to a son, just as Elisha had promised her.

¹⁸ The child grew up, but one day he when went out to see his father who was with the reapers,

¹⁹ he complained to his father, "My head hurts! My head hurts!"

His father told one of his servants, "Carry him back to his mother."

²⁰ The servant picked him up and took him back to his mother. The boy sat on her lap until noon, and then he died.

²¹ She went upstairs and laid him on the bed of the man of God. Then she shut the door behind her and left.

²² She called her husband and said, "Please send me one of the servants and a donkey so I can run to the man of God and come back."

²³ "Why do you need to go and see him today?" he asked. "It's not the New Moon or the Sabbath."

"Don't worry about it," she replied.

²⁴ She put the saddle on the donkey and told her servant, "Let's go quickly! Don't slow down for me unless I tell you to!"

²⁵ So she set off, and went to the man of God who was at Mount Carmel.

When he saw her way in the distance, the man of God told his servant Gehazi, "Look! There's the Shunammite woman!"

²⁶ Please run to meet her and ask her, 'Is everything fine with you, your husband, and your boy?' "

"Everything's fine," she replied.

²⁷ But when she got to the man of God at the mountain, she grabbed hold of his feet. Gehazi came over to push her away, but the man of God said, "Leave her alone, for she's in terrible misery, but the Lord has hidden it from me and has not explained it to me."

²⁸ "Did I ask you for a son, my lord?" she asked. "Didn't I tell you, 'Don't tell me lies?'"

²⁹ Elisha said to Gehazi, "Put your cloak in your belt, pick up my staff, and go! Don't even say hello to anyone you meet, and if anyone says hello you, don't reply. Place my staff on the boy's face."

³⁰ But the boy's mother said, "As the Lord lives and as you live, I'm not leaving without you!" So he got up and went with her.

³¹ Gehazi ran on ahead and placed the staff on the boy's face, but there was no sound or sign of life. So Gehazi went back to meet Elisha and told him, "The boy hasn't woken up."

[†] 4:13 In other words, she had all she needed. [‡] 4:14 "After she had left": implied.

³² When Elisha got to the house, there was the boy, lying dead on his bed.

³⁴ Then he got on the bed and lay on top of the boy, and put his mouth on the boy's mouth, his eyes on the boy's eyes, his hands on the boy's hands. As he stretched out on him, the boy's body warmed up.

³⁵ Elisha got up, walked back and forth once in the room, and then got back on the bed and stretched out on him again. The boy sneezed seven times and then opened his eyes.

³⁶ Elisha called Gehazi and said, "Ask the Shunammite woman to come." So he did. When she arrived, Elisha said to her, "Here's your son. You can pick him up."

³⁷ She came in, fell at his feet, and bowed to the ground. Then she picked up her son and left.

³⁸ When Elisha went back to Gilgal, there was a famine in that area. The sons of the prophets were sitting at his feet, and he said to his servant, "Use the large pot and boil some stew for the sons of the prophets."

³⁹ One of them went out into the countryside to pick herbs. He found a wild vine and picked as many wild gourds as his cloak could hold. Then he came back and chopped them up into the pot of stew. But nobody knew they were dangerous to eat. §

⁴⁰ They served it to the men to eat, but when they tasted the stew they shouted, "There's death in the pot, man of God!" They couldn't eat it.

⁴¹ Elisha said, "Get some flour." He threw it into the pot, and said, "Serve it to the people to eat." There was nothing bad to eat in the pot.

⁴² A man from Baal-shalishah came to the man of God with a sack of firstfruits—the first grain of the year, along with twenty loaves of barley bread. "Give it to the people to eat," said Elisha.

⁴³ "How can I serve just twenty loaves to a hundred men?" his servant asked.

"Give it to the people to eat," said Elisha, "for this is what the Lord says: 'They will eat and there will still be some left over.' "

⁴⁴ So he served the bread to them. They ate, and had some left over, just as the Lord had said.

5

¹ Naaman, the king of Aram's army commander was considered a great man by his master and highly respected, for through him the Lord had made the Arameans victorious. He was a mighty warrior, but he was a leper.

² Some Arameans had gone on a raid and had captured a young girl from the land of Israel. She had been made a servant to Naaman's wife.

³ She told her mistress, "If only my master would go and see the prophet who lives in Samaria. I'm sure he could cure him of his leprosy."

⁴ Naaman went to his master and explained what the Israelite girl had said.

⁵ "You can go," said the king of Aram, "and I will send a letter with you to the king of Israel." So Naaman left. He took with him ten talents of silver, six thousand shekels of gold, and ten sets of clothing.

§ 4:39 "Dangerous to eat": implied.

⁶ The letter he took to the king of Israel read: "This letter accompanies my servant Naaman, sent to you so you can heal him of his leprosy."

⁷ When the king of Israel read the letter, he ripped his clothes in panic and said, "Does this man think I'm God, having power over life and death, sending me a leper to heal? Obviously he's just trying to invent an excuse to attack me, as anyone can see!"

⁸ But when Elisha, the man of God, heard that the king of Israel had ripped his clothes in panic, he sent a message to the king, saying: "What did you rip your clothes for? Please send the man to me, so he will be convinced there is a prophet in Israel."

¹⁰ Elisha sent a messenger to him, saying, "Go and wash yourself seven times in the Jordan. Then your body will be healed, and you will be clean."*

¹¹ But Naaman got angry and left, saying, "I expected he would at least come out, stand there and invoke the name of the Lord his God, and wave his hand over where my leprosy is and heal it."

¹² Aren't the rivers of Damascus, Abanah and Pharpar, better than any of these streams of Israel? Couldn't I have washed in them and been healed?" So he turned around and went off in a rage.

¹³ But Naaman's officials went to him and said, "Sir, if the prophet had told you that you had to do something extraordinary, wouldn't you have done it? How much easier is it to do what he says, 'Wash and you'll be healed'?"

¹⁴ So Naaman went down and plunged himself underwater in the Jordan seven times, as the man of God had told him. His body was healed, his skin became like a baby's, and he was clean.

¹⁵ Then Naaman and his whole entourage went back to the man of God, stood before him, and Naaman announced, "Now I'm convinced that there is no God in all the world except in Israel. Please accept a gift from me, your servant."

¹⁶ But Elisha replied, "As the Lord lives, the one I serve, I will not accept anything." Even though Naaman tried to persuade him to take the gift, he refused.

¹⁷ So Naaman said, "If you won't, please let me, your servant, take back with me two mule loads of earth, for I will never again bring a burnt offering or make a sacrifice to any other god but the Lord."

¹⁸ In addition, may the Lord forgive me for doing this: When my master goes into the temple of Rimmon to worship there, and I assist him, and I bow down in the temple of Rimmon, may the Lord forgive me for doing so."

¹⁹ "Go in peace," said Elisha, and Naaman left. But he had only gone a short way

²⁰ when Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said to himself, "Just look how my master has let this Naaman the Syrian off the hook by not accepting the gifts he brought! As the Lord lives, I'll run after him and get something from him."

* 5:10 "Clean": from an Israelite perspective, anyone with leprosy was unclean.

²¹ So Gehazi chased after Naaman. When Naaman saw him running after him, he jumped down from the chariot to meet him and asked, "Is everything all right?"

²² "Everything's fine," Gehazi replied. "My master sent me to tell you, 'I've just found out that two young men have arrived to see me from the sons of the prophets who live the hill country of Ephraim. Please let them have a talent of silver and two sets of clothing.' "

²³ But Naaman replied, "Please, take two talents." He insisted that Gehazi to accept them. Then he tied up two talents of silver in two bags as well as two sets of clothing. He gave them to two of his servants, who carried them for Gehazi.

²⁴ When Gehazi arrived at the hill fortress, he took the gifts from the servants and put them in the house. He told the men they could go, and they left.

²⁶ But Elisha told him, "Didn't I see you in my mind's eye when the man got down from his chariot to meet you? Is this the time to take money and clothing, olive groves and vineyards, sheep and oxen, male and female servants?"

²⁷ Consequently Naaman's leprosy will stick to you and your descendants forever!" As Gehazi left him, he had leprosy—he looked as white as snow.

6

¹ The sons of the prophets told Elisha, "Look, the place we meet with you is too small for us.

² Let's go to the Jordan and each of us can carry one log back. We can build a new place there for us to meet."

"Go ahead," said Elisha.

"I'll come," he replied.

⁴ So he went with them. When they got to the Jordan, they started cutting down trees.

⁵ But as one of them was cutting down a tree, the iron axhead fell into the water. "Oh no! My master, it was one that was borrowed!" he shouted.

⁶ "Where did it fall?" the man of God asked. When he showed him the place, the man of God cut a stick, threw it in there, and made the iron axhead float.

⁷ "Pick it up," Elisha told the man. So he reached out his hand and picked it up.

⁸ The Aramean king was at war with Israel. After consulting with his officers, he said, "I will set up my camp in this particular place."

⁹ Then the man of God sent a warning to the king of Israel: "Watch out if you go near this place, because the Arameans are going to be there."

¹⁰ So the king of Israel sent a warning to the place the man of God had indicated. Elisha repeatedly warned the king, so that he was on the alert in those places.

¹¹ This made the Aramean king really mad. He summoned his officers, demanding an answer: "Tell me, which of us is on the side of the king of Israel?"

12 "It's none of us, my lord the king," one of his officers replied. "It's Elisha, the prophet who lives in Israel—he tells the king of Israel even what you say in your bedroom."

13 So the king gave the order, "Go and find out where he is so I can send soldiers to capture him."

He was told, "Elisha is in Dothan."

14 So he sent horses, chariots, and a large army. They came at night and surrounded the town.

15 Early in the morning when the servant of the man of God got up, he went out and saw that an army with horses and chariots had surrounded the city. "Oh, my master, what are we going to do?" he asked Elisha.

16 Elisha replied, "Don't be afraid, for there are many more who are with us than there are with them!"

17 Elisha prayed, saying, "Lord, please open his eyes so he can see." The Lord opened the servant's eyes, and when he looked he saw the hills full of horses and chariots of fire all around Elisha.

18 As the army* descended on him, Elisha prayed to the Lord, "Please strike these people with blindness." So he struck them with blindness, as Elisha had asked.

19 Then Elisha went and told them, "This isn't the right road, and this isn't the right town. Follow me, and I'll take you to the man you're looking for." He led them to Samaria.

20 After they had entered Samaria, Elisha prayed, "Lord, open the eyes of these men that they can see." The Lord opened their eyes, and they looked around and saw that they were in Samaria.

21 When the king of Israel saw them, he asked Elisha, "My father, shall I kill them? Shall I kill them?"

22 "No, don't you kill them!" he replied. "Would you kill prisoners you captured with your own sword or bow? Give them some food and water so that they may eat and drink, and then let them go back to their master."

23 So the king had a great feast prepared for them, and once they had finished eating and drinking, he sent them back to their master. The Aramean raiders did not enter the land of Israel again.

24 Sometime after this Ben-hadad king of Aram called up all his army and went to lay siege to Samaria.

25 So there was a major famine in Samaria. In fact the siege lasted so long that a donkey's head cost eighty shekels of silver, and a quarter cab of dove's dung† cost five shekels of silver.

26 As the king of Israel was walking by on the city wall, a woman called out to him, "Help me, my lord the king!"

27 "If the Lord doesn't help you, why would you think I can help you?" the king replied. "I don't have grain from the threshing floor, or wine from the winepress."

28 But then he asked her, "What's the problem?"

"This woman told me, 'Give up your son and we'll eat him today, and tomorrow we'll eat my son,' " she answered.

29 "So we cooked my son and we ate him. The next day I said to her, 'Give up your son so we can eat him,' but she's hidden her son."

* 6:18 Referring to the Arameans. † 6:25 "Dove's dung": Some believe this referred to a kind of wild vegetable. One "cab" was equivalent to about 1.2 liters.

³⁰ When the king heard what the woman said he ripped his clothes. As he walked by on the wall, the people saw that he was wearing sackcloth under his clothes next to his skin.

³¹ "May God punish me very severely if the head of Elisha, son of Shaphat, remains on his shoulders today!" he declared.

³² Elisha was sitting in his house with the elders. The king had sent a messenger on ahead, but before he got there, Elisha told the elders, "Can you see how this murderer is sending someone to cut off my head? So, as soon as the messenger arrives, close the door and hold it shut against him. Isn't that the sound of his master's footsteps following him?"

³³ While Elisha was still speaking with them, the messenger arrived. The king said, "This disaster is from the Lord. Why should I wait for the Lord any longer?"[‡]

7

¹ Elisha replied, "Listen to the message from the Lord. This is what the Lord says: Around this time tomorrow a seah of the best flour will sell for a shekel, and two seahs of barley will sell for a shekel at the gate of Samaria."*

² The officer who was the king's assistant said to the man of God, "Look, even if the Lord opened windows in heaven what you say couldn't happen!"

Elisha replied, "You'll see it with your own eyes, but you won't get to eat any of it."

³ There happened to be four men with leprosy at the entrance of the city gate. They said to each other, "Why are we sitting around here until we die?"

⁴ If we say, 'Let's go into the city,' we'll die because of the famine there; but if we go on sitting here, we'll die too. So come on, let's go to the camp of the Arameans and surrender to them. If they let us live, we'll live; if they kill us, we'll die."

⁵ So they set off when it was getting dark and went to the camp of the Arameans. But when they arrived at the edge of the camp, nobody was there!

⁶ For the Lord had made the Arameans hear the sound of chariots, horses, and a large army approaching, so they said to each other, "The king of Israel has hired the kings of the Hittites and Egyptians to come and attack us."

⁷ So they jumped up and ran away into the night, leaving behind their tents, their horses, and their donkeys. In fact the camp was left just as it was when they ran for their lives.

⁸ When the lepers got to the edge of the camp, they went into a tent and ate and drank. Then they took the silver, gold, and clothes, and hid them. After that they went back to another tent, took some things from there, and hid them.

⁹ Then they said to each other, "It's not right what we're doing. This is a day of good news, and if we keep quiet about it and wait until it gets light,

[‡] 6:33 The king believed the Lord had caused the problems and since there seemed to be no action from the Lord to solve them, the king was taking matters into his own hands. He was rejecting God, and intended to take vengeance on God's prophet Elisha. * 7:1 In other words, the basic food commodities would be selling at low prices.

we're sure to be punished. So let's go right away and let them know at the king's palace."

¹⁰ They went and called to the gatekeepers of the city, "We went over to the Aramean camp and no one was there, not a sound of anybody! There were just horses and donkeys tied up, and the tents just as they were."

¹² The king got up in the night and said to his officers, "Let me tell you the trick the Arameans are trying to play on us. They know we're starving, so they have left the camp and hidden in the field, thinking, 'When they leave the city, we'll take them alive and be able to enter the city.' "

¹³ One of his officers suggested, "Have some men take five of the remaining horses in the city. What happens to them will be the same as that of all the Israelites left here. All the Israelites here are doomed. Let's send them to find out what's going on."

¹⁴ So they got two chariots ready with their horses, and the king sent them out to the Aramean camp, telling them "Go and take a look."

¹⁵ They went after them as far as the Jordan, and the whole way was full of clothing and equipment the Arameans had thrown aside as they ran away. The messengers returned and reported to the king.

¹⁷ The king had put the officer who was his assistant in charge of the gate. In their rush the people trampled him in the gateway and he died, just as the man of God had said when the king visited him.

¹⁸ What the man of God had told the king also came true when he said, "Around this time tomorrow a seah of the best flour will sell for a shekel, and two seahs of barley will sell for a shekel at the gate of Samaria."

¹⁹ Also the officer who was the king's assistant had said to the man of God, "Look, even if the Lord opened windows in heaven what you say couldn't happen!" Elisha had replied, "You'll see it with your own eyes, but you won't get to eat any of it."

²⁰ This is what happened to him. The people trampled him in the gateway and he died.

8

¹ Elisha told the woman whose son he had brought back to life, "You and your family need to pack up and leave, and live where you can somewhere else like a foreigner. For the Lord announced a famine will come to the land and will last seven years."

² The woman packed up and did what the man of God had told her. She and her family went and lived as foreigners for seven years in the country of the Philistines.

³ When the seven years were over, she came back from the country of the Philistines and went to the king to appeal for the return of her house and lands.

⁴ The king was talking with Gehazi, the servant of the man of God, asking him, "Please tell me about all the wonderful things Elisha did."

⁵ It so happened that right then Gehazi was telling the king the story of how Elisha had brought the dead boy back to life when his mother arrived to make her appeal to the king for the return of her house and lands.

"My lord the king," Gehazi called out, "this is the woman, and this is her son that Elisha brought back to life."

⁶ The king asked the woman about it and she explained the whole story to him. The king gave orders to an official, saying, "Make sure everything that belonged to her is returned to her, together with all the profit from her lands from the day that she left the country until now."

⁷ Elisha went to Damascus when Ben-hadad king of Aram was ill. The king was informed, "The man of God has arrived in town."

⁸ The king ordered Hazael, "Take a gift with you and go and meet the man of God. Ask him to ask the Lord, 'Will I recover from this illness?'"

⁹ So Hazael went to meet Elisha. He took with him a gift of all the best things from Damascus—forty camel-loads of goods. He came in and stood before him and said, "Your son Ben-hadad, king of Aram, has sent me to you to ask, 'Will I recover from this illness?'"

¹⁰ "Go and tell him, 'You will definitely recover.' But the Lord has shown me that definitely he is going to die," Elisha replied.*

¹¹ Elisha stared at him for a long time until Hazael became uncomfortable. Then the man of God started to cry.

¹² "Why are you crying, my lord?" asked Hazael.

"Because I know the evil things you are going to do to the Israelites," Elisha replied. "You will set their fortresses on fire, kill their young men with the sword, dash to pieces their little ones, and rip open their pregnant women."

¹³ "But how could someone like me who's just a 'dog' achieve anything like that?" Hazael asked.

"The Lord has shown me that you are going to be the king of Aram," Elisha replied.

¹⁴ Hazael left Elisha and went to his master, who asked him, "What did Elisha tell you?"

Hazael replied, "He told me you would definitely recover."

¹⁵ But the following day Hazael took the bed cover, soaked it in water, and spread it over the king's face until he died. Then Hazael took over from him as king.

¹⁷ He was thirty-two when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eight years.

¹⁸ Jehoram followed the ways of the kings of Israel, just as the house of Ahab had done, for he married a daughter of Ahab and did what was evil in the Lord's sight.

* 8:10 The prophet is not telling Hazael to lie. The question from the king was in regard to his illness. The king's death was not caused by his illness, but by Hazael who murdered him. † 8:16 This is clearly a co-regency.

¹⁹ But for the sake of David his servant the Lord didn't want to destroy Judah since he had promised him that there would always be a ruler from his descendants, like a lamp forever.‡

²¹ So Jehoram went over to Zair with all his chariots. The Edomites surrounded him and his chariot commanders, but he took action and attacked at night. But his army ran back to their homes.

²² As a result Edom has been in rebellion against Judah's rule to this day. At the same time Libnah also decided to rebel.

²³ The rest of what happened in Jehoram's reign and all that he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

²⁴ Jehoram died and was buried with his forefathers in the City of David. His son Ahaziah succeeded him as king.

²⁵ Ahaziah, son of Jehoram, became king of Judah in the twelfth year of the reign of Joram, son of Ahab, king of Israel.

²⁶ Ahaziah was twenty-two when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for one year. His mother's name was Athaliah, the granddaughter of Omri, king of Israel.

²⁷ Ahaziah also followed the evil ways of the family of Ahab, and did what was evil in the Lord's sight as the family of Ahab had done, for he was related to them by marriage.

²⁹ and he returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds he'd received in Ramah fighting against Hazael king of Aram. Ahaziah, son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went to Jezreel to visit Joram, son of Ahab, because Joram was wounded.

9

² Once you get there, look for Jehu, son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi. Go in, get him away from his companions, and take him to an inner room. Get him to leave his friends, lead him to a private room,

³ take the flask of olive oil, and pour it on his head. Tell him, 'This is what the Lord says: I anoint you king of Israel.' Then open the door and run away! Don't wait around!"

⁴ So the young prophet went to Ramoth-gilead.

⁵ When he arrived, he saw the army commanders sitting around. "I've got a message for you, commander," he said.

"For which one of us?" Jehu asked.

"For you, commander," he replied.

⁶ Jehu got up and went inside, where the young prophet poured the olive oil on his head and announced to him, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: 'I anoint you king over the Lord's people Israel.

‡ 8:19 See for example 1 Kings 11:36.

⁷ You are going to destroy the family of Ahab, your master. You will avenge the blood my prophets and the blood of all the Lord's servants killed by Jezebel.

⁸ The whole house of Ahab will be eradicated—I will destroy all the males of Ahab's family in Israel, both slave and free.

⁹ I will make the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha, son of Ahijah.

¹⁰ Dogs will eat Jezebel, Ahab's wife, at the plot of ground in Jezreel, and no one will bury her." Then the young prophet opened the door and ran away.

¹¹ When Jehu went back out to the other officers of his master, they asked him, "Is everything fine? Why did this crazy man come to you?"

"You know what he's like, and how he goes on and on," he replied.

¹² "Liar!" they said. "Please tell us what's going on."

"Well, he talked to me about this and that, and he told me, 'This is what the Lord says: I anoint you king over Israel.'"

¹³ They quickly grabbed their cloaks and spread them on the bare steps. They blew the trumpet and shouted, "Jehu is king!"

¹⁴ So Jehu, son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi, plotted rebellion against Joram. Joram and the whole Israelite army had been defending Ramoth-Gilead against Hazael, king of Aram.

¹⁵ But Joram had returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds he'd received fighting against Hazael, king of Aram. So Jehu said, "If you commanders want to make me king, don't let anyone leave town and go and announce it in Jezreel."

¹⁶ Jehu got on his chariot and went to Jezreel, for Joram was recuperating there. Ahaziah, king of Judah, was there too because he had come to visit Joram.

¹⁷ The watchman on the tower in Jezreel saw Jehu's soldiers approaching, and he shouted out, "I see a soldiers coming!"

"Choose a horseman," Joram ordered. "Send him out to meet them and ask, 'Do you come in peace?'"

¹⁸ So a horseman rode off to meet Jehu, and said, "This is what the king asks: 'Do you come in peace?'"

"What has peace got to do with you?" Jehu replied. "Turn around and follow me."

The watchman reported, "The messenger has reached them, but he's not returning."

¹⁹ The king sent out a second horseman. He went up to them and said, "This is what the king asks: 'Do you come in peace?'"

"What has peace got to do with you?" Jehu replied. "Turn around and follow me."

²⁰ The watchman reported, "The messenger has reached them, but he's not returning. The driving* looks like the driving of Jehu, son of Nimshi—he's a crazy driver!"

²¹ "Prepare my chariot!" Joram shouted, and they had his chariot ready. Then Joram, king of Israel, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, set off in their separate chariots, and met Jehu on the plot of ground that was previously owned by Naboth from Jezreel.

* 9:20 The driving of the chariot.

²² When Joram saw Jehu, he asked him, "Do you come in peace, Jehu?" "What peace can there be with so much prostitution[†] and witchcraft caused by your mother Jezebel?" Jehu replied.

²³ Joram turned around and raced away, shouting out to Ahaziah, "It's treason, Ahaziah!"

²⁴ Jehu picked up his bow and shot Joram between the shoulders. The arrow went through his heart and he collapsed dead in his chariot.

²⁵ Jehu said to Bidkar his officer, "Pick him up and throw him into the field of Naboth from Jezreel. Remember when you and I were riding together behind his father Ahab how the Lord made this prophecy against him:

²⁶ 'In the same way as I saw the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons yesterday, says the Lord, so I will certainly repay you on this same plot of ground, says the Lord.' Now then, following what the Lord has said, pick him up and throw him on the plot of ground."

²⁸ His servants took him by chariot to Jerusalem and buried him with his forefathers in his tomb in the City of David.

²⁹ Ahaziah became king of Judah in the eleventh year of the reign of Joram, son of Ahab.

³⁰ When Jezebel heard that Jehu had arrived in Jezreel, she put on her black eye-shadow, placed jewelry in her hair, and watched from a window.

³¹ As Jehu came in through the gate, she shouted down, "Do you come in peace? Or are you like Zimri, a murderer of your master?"

³² Jehu looked up at the window and shouted out, "Who is on my side? Anyone?" Two or three eunuchs looked down at him.

³³ "Throw her down!" he shouted. And they threw her down. Her blood splattered on the wall and on the horses which then trampled her.

³⁴ Jehu went inside and ate and drank. Then he said, "Please deal with that cursed woman and bury her, for she was a king's daughter."

³⁵ They went out to bury her but all they found were her skull, her feet, and her hands.

³⁶ They went back and told Jehu, who said, "This is what the Lord said through his servant Elijah the Tishbite: 'Dogs will eat Jezebel's flesh on the plot of ground at Jezreel.'

³⁷ Jezebel's body will lie like manure in the field on the plot of ground at Jezreel, so that no one can say: This is where Jezebel is buried.'"

10

² "Since your master's sons are with you, and you have at your disposal chariots, horses, a fortified city, and weapons, when you receive this letter,

[†] 9:22 "Prostitution": in the spiritual sense of going after pagan gods, and also in the literal sense as pagan worship often involved sex with temple prostitutes, both male and female. *

^{10:1} "Samaria." The Hebrew text identifies "Jezreel," but Jehu was already there.

³ choose the best and most appropriate son of your master; place him on his father's throne, and fight for your master's house."

⁴ But they were extremely frightened, and said to themselves, "If two kings couldn't defeat him, how could we?"

⁵ So the palace and the city leaders, the elders, and the guardians sent a message to Jehu: "We are your servants, and we will do whatever you tell us. We're not going to make anyone king. Do what you think is best."

⁶ Then Jehu wrote them a second letter, saying, "If you are on my side, and if you are going to obey what I say, bring the heads of your master's sons to me in Jezreel by this time tomorrow." The seventy king's sons were being raised by the leading men of the city.

⁷ When the letter arrived, they seized the king's sons and killed all seventy of them, placed their heads in baskets, and sent them to Jehu at Jezreel.

⁸ A messenger came in and told Jehu, "They have brought the heads of the king's sons."

Jehu gave the order, "Put them in two piles at the entrance to the city gate until the morning."

⁹ In the morning Jehu went out to speak to the people who had gathered. "You haven't done anything wrong,"[†] he told them. "I was the one who plotted against my master and killed him. But who killed all these?"

¹⁰ Rest assured that nothing of what the Lord has prophesied against the house of Ahab will fail, for the Lord has done what he promised through his servant Elijah."

¹³ he met some relatives of Ahaziah, king of Judah.

"Who are you?" he asked them.

"We're relatives of Ahaziah," they replied. "We've come to visit the sons of the king and of the queen mother."

¹⁴ "Take them alive!" Jehu ordered. So they took them alive, then killed them at the well of Beth-eked. There were forty-two men. He didn't allow any of them to live.

¹⁵ He left there and came across Jehonadab, son of Rekab, who was coming to meet him. Jehu greeted him and asked him, "Are you as committed to me, as I am to you?"

"Yes I am," Jehonadab replied.

"In that case, give me your hand," said Jehu. So he stretched out his hand, and Jehu helped him up into the chariot.

¹⁶ "Come with me and see how dedicated I am to the Lord!" Jehu said, and had him ride in his chariot.

¹⁷ When Jehu arrived in Samaria, he went around killing everyone who was left of Ahab's family until he had killed all of them, just as the Lord had said through Elijah.

¹⁸ Jehu had all the people gather together and told them, "Ahab worshiped Baal a little, but Jehu will worship him a lot.

[†] 10:9 "You haven't done anything wrong": literally, "You are righteous."

¹⁹ So summon all the prophets of Baal, all his servants and all his priests. Make sure no one is missing, because I'm organizing a great sacrifice for Baal. Anyone who doesn't attend will be executed." But Jehu's plan was a trick to destroy the followers of Baal.

²⁰ Jehu gave the order, "Call a religious assembly to honor Baal!" So they did so.

²¹ Jehu sent the announcement through the whole of Israel. All the followers of Baal came—not a single man was missing. They went into the temple of Baal, filling it from end to end.

²² Jehu said to the keeper of the wardrobe, "Distribute clothes for all the servants of Baal." So he brought out clothes for them.

²⁵ As soon as Jehu had finished presenting the burnt offering, he ordered his guards and officers, "Go in and kill them all! Don't let even one escape!" So they killed them with their swords. The guards and officers threw their bodies outside, and then they went into the inner sanctuary of the temple of Baal.

²⁶ They dragged out the idol pillars and burned them.

²⁷ They smashed the sacred pillar of Baal, and tore down the temple of Baal and turned it into a toilet, which it still is to this day.

²⁸ This was how Jehu destroyed Baal worship in Israel,

²⁹ but he did not end the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit—the worship of the golden calves at Bethel and Dan.

³⁰ The Lord said to Jehu, "Since you have done well, and have carried out what is right in my sight, and have accomplished all that I planned for the house of Ahab, your descendants will sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation."

³¹ But Jehu was not completely committed to following the law of the Lord, the God of Israel. He did not end the sins that Jeroboam had made Israel commit.

³² At that time the Lord began to reduce the extent of Israel. Hazael defeated the Israelites throughout their territory

³³ east of the Jordan, all the land of Gilead (the region occupied by Gad, Reuben, and Manasseh), and from Aroer through the Arnon Valley up to Gilead and Bashan.

³⁴ The rest of what happened in Jehu's reign, all that he did and what he accomplished, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

³⁵ Jehu died and was buried in Samaria. His son Jehoahaz succeeded him as king.

³⁶ Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria for twenty-eight years.

11

¹ When Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah,* saw that her son was dead, she had all the rest of the royal family murdered.

² But Jehosheba, daughter of King Jehoram, sister of Ahaziah, took Ahaziah's son Joash, stealing him away from the rest of the sons of the king who were being killed. She put him and his nurse in a bedroom to hide him from Athaliah, and he was not murdered.

³ Joash stayed hidden in the Lord's Temple for six years while Athaliah ruled the country.

⁴ In the seventh year, Jehoiada† sent for the commanders of hundreds, the Carites,‡ and the guards, and brought them into the Lord's Temple. He made an agreement with them and made them swear an oath. There in the Lord's Temple he showed them the king's son

⁵ and ordered them, "This is what you are going to do: One third of you who come on duty on the Sabbath will guard the royal palace.

⁶ One third will be at the Sur Gate, and one third at the gate behind the guards. You will alternate in guarding the palace.

⁷ The two divisions that would normally go off duty on the Sabbath will guard the Lord's Temple for the king.

⁸ Surround the king with weapons drawn, and anyone who approaches this line must be killed. Stay close to the king wherever he goes."

¹⁰ Then the priest handed over to the commanders of hundreds the spears and shields that had belonged to King David which were kept in the Lord's Temple.

¹¹ The guards stood with weapons drawn surrounding the king by the altar, and in a line around the Temple, from the south side to the north side of the Temple.

¹² Then Jehoiada led out the king's son, placed the crown on him, and handed him a copy of God's Law. They proclaimed him king and anointed him. The people clapped, and shouted, "Long live the king!"

¹³ When Athaliah heard the noise of the guards and the people, she rushed to the crowds at the Lord's Temple.

¹⁴ She saw the king standing by his pillar as the custom was. The commanders and trumpeters were with the king, and everyone was celebrating and blowing trumpets. Athaliah ripped her clothes and screamed out, "Treason! Treason!"

¹⁶ They grabbed hold of her, took her to where the horses enter the palace grounds and they killed her there.

¹⁷ Then Jehoiada made a solemn agreement between the Lord, the king, and the people that they would be the Lord's people. He also made an agreement between the king and the people.

* 11:1 Ahaziah was the king of Judah. † 11:4 Jehoiada was the high priest. ‡ 11:4 "Carites": probably foreign mercenaries used as the royal guard.

¹⁸ Everyone went to the Temple of Baal and tore down its altars and smashed the idols to pieces. They killed Mattan, the priest of Baal, right in front of the altar.

¹⁹ Along with the commanders, the nobles, the governors of the people, and all the people, he led the king in a procession down from the Lord's Temple, entering through the upper gate to the royal palace. There they set the king on the royal throne.

²⁰ All throughout the land people celebrated, and Jerusalem was at peace, because Athaliah had been killed by the sword at the palace.

²¹ Joash was seven when he became king.

12

³ Even so, the high places were not removed—the people went on sacrificing and presenting burnt offerings at these places.

⁴ Joash told the priests, "Collect together all the money that is brought as holy offerings to the Lord's Temple, whether the census money, the money from individual vows, and the money brought as a voluntary donation to the Lord's Temple.

⁵ Let each priest receive the money from those who give, and use it to repair whatever damage is discovered in the Temple."

⁶ But by the twenty-third year of the reign of Joash, the priests still had not repaired the damage to the Temple.

⁷ So King Joash called together Jehoiada and the other priests and asked, "Why haven't you repaired the damage in the Temple? Don't use any more money you're given for yourselves, instead hand it over to others to repair the Temple."

⁸ The priests agreed not to receive any more money from the people, and that they wouldn't carry out the repairs to the Temple themselves.

⁹ Jehoiada the priest took a large wooden box, cut a hole in its lid, and placed it on the right side of the altar next to the entrance to the Lord's Temple. There the priests who guarded the doorway put all the money brought into the Lord's Temple into the collection box.

¹⁰ Whenever they saw there was a lot of money in the box, the king's secretary and the high priest would come, count the money brought into the Lord's Temple, and put it into bags.

¹¹ Then they weighed out the money and gave it to the supervisors of the work on the Lord's Temple. They paid the ones doing the work—the carpenters, builders,

¹² masons, and stonecutters. They also bought the timber and blocks of cut stone needed for the repair of the Lord's Temple, and paid all the other costs of restoring the Temple.

* 12:1 Here and elsewhere spelled "Jehoash."

¹³ However, the money collected for the Lord's Temple was not used for making silver basins, lamp trimmers, bowls, trumpets, or any items of gold or silver for the Lord's Temple.

¹⁴ It was used to pay the workers doing the repairs to the Lord's Temple.

¹⁵ No accounts were demanded from the men who received the money to pay the workers because they did everything honestly.

¹⁶ The money from the guilt offerings and sin offerings was not collected for the Lord's Temple because it belonged to the priests.

¹⁷ Around this time Hazael, king of Aram, went and attacked Gath, and captured it. Then he marched to attack Jerusalem.

¹⁸ So King Joash of Judah took all the holy objects dedicated by his forefathers Jehoshaphat, Jehoram, and Ahaziah, the kings of Judah, along with all the items he had dedicated himself, and all the gold found in the treasuries of the Lord's Temple and the royal palace, and he sent everything to Hazael, king of Aram. So Hazael retreated from Jerusalem.

²¹ The officials who attacked and killed him were Jozacar, son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad, son of Shomer. They buried him with his forefathers in the City of David. His son Amaziah succeeded him as king.

¹ Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, became king of Israel in the twenty-third year of the reign of Joash, son of Ahaziah, king of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for seventeen years.

² He did what was evil in the Lord's sight, and followed the sins that Jeroboam son of Nebat, had made Israel commit; he did not end them.

⁴ Jehoahaz asked the Lord for help, and the Lord responded to his request because he saw how badly the king of Aram was treating Israel.

⁵ The Lord gave Israel someone who would save them so they no longer were under Aramean rule. Then the Israelites were able to go back to living in safety as before.

⁶ Even so they did not end the sins that the house of Jeroboam had made Israel commit—they continued to follow them. The Asherah idol still stood in Samaria.

⁷ All that was left of Jehoahaz's army were fifty horsemen, ten chariots, and ten thousand soldiers, for the king of Aram had destroyed the rest, turning them into dust like that when grain is threshed.

⁸ The rest of what happened in Jehoahaz's reign, all he did, and his great achievements are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

⁹ Jehoahaz died and was buried in Samaria. His son Jehoash* succeeded him as king.

* 13:9 "Jehoash": here spelled "Joash," a variant spelling, but in this translation kept as Jehoash to differentiate from Joash, king of Judah.

¹⁰ Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz, became king of Israel in Samaria in the thirty-seventh year of the reign of King Joash of Judah, and he reigned for sixteen years.

¹¹ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight and did not end all the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit—he continued to follow them.

¹³ Jehoash died, and Jeroboam sat on his throne.[†] Jehoash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

¹⁴ Elisha had become ill with a disease that would eventually kill him. Jehoash, king of Israel, went to visit him, and wept over him, saying, "My father, my father, the chariots and the horsemen of Israel!"

¹⁵ Elisha told him, "Find a bow and some arrows." So Jehoash found a bow and some arrows.

¹⁶ Then Elisha said to the king of Israel, "Pick up the bow." So the king picked up the bow. Elisha placed his hands on the king's hands.

¹⁷ "Open the east window," he told him. So the king opened it and Elisha said, "Shoot!" So he fired an arrow.

Then Elisha explained, "This is the Lord's victory arrow representing the arrow of victory over the Arameans. You will attack the Arameans in Aphek and finish them off."

¹⁸ Then Elisha said, "Pick up the arrows!" So he picked them up.

Elisha told the king of Israel, "Hit the ground with them!" He hit the ground three times, and then stopped.

¹⁹ The man of God got angry with him, telling him, "You should have hit the ground five or six times. Then you would have attacked the Arameans until you had completely destroyed them. But now you will only attack the Arameans three times."

²⁰ Elisha died and was buried.

Raiders from the country of Moab used to invade Israel every spring.

²¹ On time some Israelites were burying a man when suddenly they saw some raiders coming, so they quickly threw the man into Elisha's tomb. As soon as he touched Elisha's bones, the man came back to life and stood up.

²³ But the Lord graciously helped them and was kind to them. He looked after them because of his agreement with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Even to this day he's been unwilling to destroy them or to throw them out of his presence.

²⁴ When Hazael, king of Aram, died, his son Ben-hadad succeeded him as king.

²⁵ Then Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz, recovered from Ben-hadad son of Hazael, the towns that Hazael had captured from his father Jehoahaz. Jehoash defeated Ben-hadad three times, and so recaptured the Israelite towns.

[†] 13:13 Some believe this change in the formula describing royal succession suggests that Jeroboam was already reigning as co-regent with his father.

² He was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-nine years. His mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

³ He did what was right in the Lord's sight, but not in the same way as his forefather David had. He did everything just as his father Joash had done.

⁵ Once he was secure on the throne he executed the officials who had murdered his father the king.

⁶ But he did not execute the murderers' children, following the Lord's command in the law of Moses that "Fathers must not be put to death for their children's sins, and children must not be put to death for their father's sins. Everyone is to die for their own sin."

⁷ Amaziah killed ten thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt. He attacked and captured Sela and renamed it Joktheel, which is what it is called to this very day.

⁸ Amaziah sent messengers to the king of Israel, Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, telling him, "Let's fight,* face to face!"

⁹ Jehoash, king of Israel, replied to Amaziah, king of Judah: "In Lebanon a thistle sent a message to a cedar, saying, 'Give your daughter as a wife to my son.' But a wild animal of Lebanon came by and trampled down the thistle.

¹⁰ You may indeed have defeated Edom. Now you've become arrogant. Stay home and enjoy your victory! Why provoke trouble that will bring you down, and Judah with you?"

¹¹ But Amaziah refused to listen, so Jehoash, king of Israel, came to attack him. He and Amaziah, king of Judah, met face to face at Beth Shemesh in Judah.

¹² The army of Judah was defeated by Israel, and ran away home.

¹³ Jehoash, king of Israel, captured Amaziah, king of Judah, the son of Joash, son of Ahaziah, at Beth Shemesh.

Then Jehoash attacked Jerusalem and knocked down the city wall from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate, about four hundred cubits in length.

¹⁴ He removed all the gold and silver, and all the items found in the Lord's Temple and in the treasuries of the royal palace, and also some hostages. Then he went back to Samaria.

¹⁵ The rest of what happened in Jehoash's reign, all he did, and his great achievements and his war with Amaziah, king of Judah, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

¹⁶ Jehoash died and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel. His son Jeroboam succeeded him as king.

¹⁷ Amaziah, son of Joash, king of Judah, lived for fifteen more years after the death of Joash, son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel.

¹⁸ The rest of the events that happened in Amaziah's reign are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

* 14:8 "Fight": literally "meet," but the context makes it clear that Amaziah was trying to provoke armed conflict.

¹⁹ A conspiracy against Amaziah took place in Jerusalem, and he ran away to Lachish. But men were sent after him and they murdered him there.

²⁰ They brought him back on horses and buried him in Jerusalem with his forefathers in the City of David.

²³ Jeroboam, son of Jehoash, became king of Israel in the fifteenth year of the reign of Amaziah, son of Joash, king of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for forty-one years.

²⁴ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight and did not end all the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit.

²⁵ He restored the border of Israel to where it had been, from Lebo-hamath as far as the Sea of the Arabah,[†] as the Lord, the God of Israel, had said through his servant Jonah, son of Amittai, the prophet, who came from Gath-hepher.

²⁶ The Lord had seen how badly the Israelites were suffering, both slave and free. No one was there to help Israel.

²⁷ However, since the Lord had said that he would not wipe out Israel, he saved them through Jeroboam, son of Jehoash.

²⁹ Jeroboam died and was buried with the kings of Israel. His son Zechariah succeeded him as king.

15

² He was sixteen years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for fifty-two years. His mother's name was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

³ He did what was right in the Lord's sight, just as his father Amaziah had done.

⁴ But the high places were not removed. The people still were sacrificing and presenting burnt offerings in those places.

⁵ The Lord touched the king and he had leprosy until the day he died. He lived in isolation in a separate house. His son Jotham was in charge of the palace and was the country's actual ruler.

⁶ The rest of what happened in Azariah's reign and all he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

⁷ Azariah died and was buried with his fore fathers in the City of David. His son Jotham succeeded him as king.

[†] 14:25 "Sea of the Arabah": the Arabah is the Jordan Valley, so this would refer to the Dead Sea.

⁸ Zechariah, son of Jeroboam, became king of Israel in the thirty-eighth year of the reign of Azariah, king of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for six months.

⁹ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight, as his forefathers had done. He did not end the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit.

¹⁰ Then Shallum, son of Jabesh, plotted against Zechariah. He attacked him, murdering him in front of the people, and took over as king.

¹¹ The rest of the events of Zechariah's reign are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

¹² In this way what the Lord told Jehu came true: "Your descendants will sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation."

¹³ Shallum, son of Jabesh, became king in the thirty-ninth year of the reign of King Uzziah of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for one month.

¹⁵ The rest of the events of Shallum's reign and the rebellion he plotted are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

¹⁶ At that time Menahem, starting from Tirzah, attacked Tiphshah and the region nearby, because they would not surrender the town to him. So he destroyed Tiphshah and ripped open all the pregnant women.

¹⁷ Menahem, son of Gadi, became king of Israel in the thirty-ninth year of the reign of King Azariah of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for ten years.

¹⁸ Throughout his reign he did what was evil in the Lord's sight. He did not end the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit.

¹⁹ Pul,* king of Assyria, invaded the country. Menahem paid Pul a thousand talents of silver to support Menahem in consolidating his power over the kingdom.

²⁰ Menahem demanded payment from all the wealthy men of Israel, fifty shekels of silver each, to give to the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria retreated and did not stay in the country.

²¹ The rest of what happened in Menahem's reign and all he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

²² Menahem died, and his son Pekahiah succeeded him as king.

²³ Pekahiah, son of Menahem, became king of Israel in Samaria in the fiftieth year of the reign of King Azariah of Judah, and he reigned for two years.

²⁴ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight. He did not end the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit.

²⁵ Pekah, son of Remaliah, one of his officers plotted against him together with Argob, Arieah, and fifty men from Gilead. Pekah attacked and killed Pekahiah in the fortress of the king's palace in Samaria, and took over as king.

²⁶ The rest of what happened in Pekahiah's reign and all he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

²⁷ Pekah, son of Remaliah, became king of Israel in the fifty-second year of the reign of King Azariah of Judah. He reigned in Samaria for twenty years.

* 15:19 Usually associated with Tiglath-Pileser.

²⁸ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight. He did not end the sins that Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had made Israel commit.

²⁹ During the reign of Pekah, king of Israel, Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, invaded and captured Ijon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, Galilee, and all the land of Naphtali, and he took the people to Assyria as prisoners.

³⁰ Then Hoshea, son of Elah, plotted against Pekah, son of Remaliah. In the twentieth year of the reign of Jotham, son of Uzziah, Hoshea attacked Pekah, killed him, and took over as king.

³¹ The rest of what happened in Pekah's reign and all he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

³² Jotham, son of Uzziah, became king of Judah in the second year of the reign of Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel.

³⁴ He did what was right in the Lord's sight, just as his father Uzziah had done.

³⁵ But the high places were not removed. The people still were sacrificing and presenting burnt offerings in those places. He rebuilt the upper gate of the Lord's Temple.

³⁶ The rest of the events of Jotham's reign are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

³⁷ During that time the Lord started sending Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, to attack Judah.

³⁸ Jotham died and was buried with his forefathers in the City of David, his ancestor. His son Ahaz succeeded him as king.

² Ahaz was twenty when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for sixteen years. But unlike David his forefather, he did not do what was right in the sight of the Lord his God.

⁴ He sacrificed and presented burnt offerings on the high places and on the hills and under every green tree.

⁵ Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, king of Israel, came and attacked Jerusalem. They besieged Ahaz but couldn't defeat him.

⁶ This was when Rezin, king of Aram, recovered Elath for Edom.* He expelled the people of Judah, and sent Edomites to Elath, where they still live to this day.

* 16:6 Aram/Edom. There two words are similar in Hebrew. It seems unlikely that the Arameans would have wished to hold a town so far from their own territory in the land of the Edomites. Some versions replace "Rezin, king of Aram" with "the king of Edom," but he is not previously mentioned. The conclusion is that it is unsure as to whether Elath was conquered by Arameans or Edomites; however it is sure that the town was lost to the people of Judah and was occupied by Edomites.

⁷ Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, saying, "I'm your servant, and your son. Please come and rescue me from the kings of Aram and Israel who are attacking me."

⁸ Ahaz took the silver and gold from the Lord's Temple and from the treasuries of the king's palace, and he sent it to the king of Assyria as a gift.

⁹ The king of Assyria responded positively to him. He went and attacked Damascus, and captured it. He deported its inhabitants to Kir and executed Rezin.

¹¹ So Uriah the priest built an altar following all the instructions King Ahaz had sent from Damascus, completing it before King Ahaz returned.

¹² When the king came back from Damascus he saw the altar. He went over to it and made offerings on it.

¹³ He presented his burnt offering and his grain offering, he poured out his drink offering, and sprinkled the blood of his friendship offerings on it.

¹⁵ Then King Ahaz ordered Uriah the priest: "Use this new important altar to offer the morning burnt offering, the evening grain offering, the king's burnt offering and grain offering, and the burnt offering of all the people, and their grain offerings and their drink offerings. Sprinkle on this altar the blood of all the burnt offerings and sacrifices. The old bronze altar I'll use for divination."

¹⁶ Uriah the priest followed King Ahaz's orders.

¹⁷ King Ahaz also removed the frames of the movable carts, and also took out the bronze basin from each of them. He removed the Sea from the bronze bulls it rested on and placed it on a stone pedestal.

¹⁸ He took down the Sabbath canopy they had built in the Temple, as well as the king's outer entrance to the Lord's Temple. He did this to please the king of Assyria.

¹⁹ The rest of what happened in Ahaz's reign and all he did are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

²⁰ Ahaz died and was buried with his forefathers in the City of David. His son Hezekiah succeeded him as king.

² He did what was evil in the Lord's sight, but not in the same way the kings of Israel who were before him.

³ Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, came and attacked him, and Hoshea submitted to him and paid him tribute.

[†] 16:10 Clearly a pagan altar, probably Assyrian. It is likely that Tiglath-pileser required subservient kings to prove their loyalty to him, and this action of Ahaz would have demonstrated this.

⁴ But then the king of Assyria discovered that Hoshea was being disloyal. Hoshea had sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, asking for help, and he also had stopped sending annual tribute to the king of Assyria as he had done previously. So the king of Assyria arrested Hoshea and put him in prison.

⁵ Then the king of Assyria invaded the whole country, and attacked Samaria, besieging it for three years.

⁶ In the ninth year of the reign of Hoshea, the king of Assyria captured Samaria and deported the Israelites to Assyria. He settled them in Halah, in Gozan on the Habor River, and in the towns of the Medes.

⁷ All this happened because the people of Israel had sinned against the Lord their God, the one who had led them out of Egypt, saving them from the power of Pharaoh, king of Egypt. They had worshiped other gods,

⁸ adopting the ways of the nations the Lord had driven out before the Israelites, and the pagan practices introduced by the kings of Israel.

⁹ Secretly the Israelites did things that were not right against the Lord their God. They built high places in all their towns, from watchtowers to fortified cities.

¹⁰ They set up pagan stone pillars and Asherah poles on every high hill and under every green tree.

¹¹ They offered sacrifices on all the high places, just like the nations the Lord drove out before them. They did evil things, angering the Lord.

¹² They worshiped idols, even though the Lord had told them, "You are not to do this."

¹³ Yet the Lord had warned Israel and Judah repeatedly through all his prophets and seers, saying, "Leave your wicked ways and keep my commandments and instructions. Follow the whole law that I ordered your forefathers to obey, and gave to you through my servants the prophets."

¹⁵ They gave up on his regulations and the covenant he had made with their forefathers, as well as the decrees he had given them. They followed pointless idols and they became pointless themselves, copying the nations around them that the Lord ordered them not to copy.

¹⁷ They sacrificed their sons and daughters as pagan burnt offerings, and practiced fortune-telling and witchcraft. They gave themselves over to doing what was evil in the Lord's sight, making him angry.

¹⁸ So the Lord was extremely angry with Israel, and he banished them from his presence. Only the tribe of Judah was left,

²⁰ The Lord gave up on all the descendants of Israel. He punished them and handed them over to their enemies,* until he had banished them from his presence.

* 17:20 "Enemies": literally, "plunderers."

²¹ When the Lord ripped Israel away from the house of David, they made Jeroboam, son of Nebat, their king. Jeroboam led Israel away from the Lord and made them commit terrible sins.

²² The Israelites continued to practice all the sins that Jeroboam committed. They did not stop doing them,

²³ so the Lord eventually expelled them from his presence, just as he had said he would through all his servants, the prophets. So the Israelites were deported from their land and taken to Assyria, where they are to this day.

²⁴ The king of Assyria brought people from Babylon, Kuthah, Avva, Hamath, and Sepharvaim and settled them in the towns of Samaria instead of the Israelites. They took over ownership of Samaria and lived in its towns.

²⁵ When they first started living there they did not worship the Lord, so he sent lions there among them, killing some of them.

²⁶ The king of Assyria was told, "The peoples that you brought and settled in the towns of Samaria they don't not know the rules of the God of the land. As a result, he has sent lions among them, which are killing them off because they don't know what the God of the land requires."

²⁷ The king of Assyria gave the order: "Send back one of the priests you deported from Samaria, and let him go back and live there and teach the rules of the God of the land."

²⁸ So one of the priests who had been deported from Samaria returned to live in Bethel, and taught them how to worship the Lord.

²⁹ But the people of the different nations went on making their own gods in the towns where they had settled, and they placed them in the shrines of the high places that the people of Samaria had made.

³⁰ Those from Babylon made Sukkoth Benoth, those from Kuthah made Nergal, and those from Hamath made Ashima.

³¹ The Avvites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites sacrificed their children as burnt offerings to their gods Adrammelech and Anammelech.

³² While they worshiped the Lord, they also appointed priests from all kinds of their own people to offer sacrifices for them in the shrines of the high places.

³⁴ Even to this day they are still following their former practices. None of them truly worship the Lord or observe the regulations, requirements, laws, and commandments that the Lord gave to the descendants of Jacob, the one he named Israel.

³⁵ For the Lord had made an agreement with the Israelites, ordering them, "Don't worship other gods or bow down to them; don't serve them or offer sacrifices to them.

³⁶ You must worship only the Lord, who led you out of Egypt, helping you with his great power and strong arm. Only bow down to him; only offer sacrifices to him.

³⁷ Always pay attention to observe the regulations, requirements, laws, and commandments he gave you in writing, and don't worship other gods.

³⁸ Don't forget the agreement I have made with you, and don't worship other gods.

⁴¹ Even while these people from different nations were worshiping the Lord, they were actually worshiping their idols. Their children and grandchildren continue to do as their forefathers did to this day.

18

² He was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-nine years. His mother's name was Abi, daughter of Zechariah.

³ He did what was right in the Lord's sight, following all that his forefather David had done.

⁴ He removed the high places, smashed the stone idols, and cut down the Asherah poles. He ground to pieces the bronze snake Moses had made, because up to then the Israelites had been sacrificing offerings to it. It was called Nehushtan.

⁵ Hezekiah put his trust in the Lord, the God of Israel. Among the kings of Judah there was no one like him, neither before him nor after him.

⁶ He stayed faithful to the Lord and did not give up following him. He kept the commandments that the Lord had given Moses.

⁷ The Lord was with him; he was successful in everything he did. He defied the king of Assyria and refused to submit to him.

⁸ He defeated the Philistines all the way to Gaza and the surrounding area, from watchtower to fortified town.

⁹ In the fourth year of Hezekiah's reign, equivalent to the seventh year of the reign of Hoshea, son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, attacked Samaria, besieging it.

¹⁰ The Assyrians conquered it after three years. This was during the sixth year of Hezekiah, equivalent to the ninth year of Hoshea, king of Israel.

¹¹ The king of Assyria deported the Israelites to Assyria. He settled them in Halah, in Gozan on the Habor River, and in the towns of the Medes.

¹² This happened because they refused to listen to the Lord their God and broke his agreement—all that Moses, the Lord's servant, had commanded. They refused to listen and did not obey.

¹³ Sennacherib, king of Assyria, attacked and conquered all the fortified towns of Judah in the fourteenth year of the reign of Hezekiah.

¹⁴ So Hezekiah, king of Judah, sent a message to the king of Assyria who was at Lachish, saying, “I’ve made a terrible mistake! Please retreat and leave me alone, and I’ll pay you whatever you want!” The king of Assyria demanded Hezekiah, king of Judah, pay three hundred talents of silver and thirty talents of gold.

¹⁵ Hezekiah paid him using all the silver from the Lord's Temple and the treasuries of the royal palace.

¹⁶ He even stripped the gold he had used to overlay the doors and doorposts of the Lord's Temple and gave everything to the king of Assyria.

¹⁷ Even so, the king of Assyria sent his commander in chief, his head officer, and his army general,* along with a large army, from Lachish to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem. They approached Jerusalem and made camp beside the aqueduct of the upper pool, on the road to where laundry is washed.

¹⁸ They called for the king. Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, the palace manager, Shebna the scribe, and Joah, son of Asaph, the record-keeper, went out to speak with them.

¹⁹ The Assyrian army general said to them, "Tell Hezekiah this is what the great king, the king of Assyria, says: What are you trusting in that gives you such confidence?"

²⁰ You say you have a strategy and are ready for war, but these are empty words. Who are you relying on, now that you have rebelled against me?

²² If you tell me, 'We're trusting in the Lord our God,' well didn't Hezekiah remove his high places and his altars, telling Judah and Jerusalem: 'You have to worship at this altar in Jerusalem'?

²⁴ How could you defeat even a single officer in charge of the weakest of my master's men when you're trusting in Egypt for chariots and horsemen?

²⁶ Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, together with Shebna and Joah, said to the army general, "Please speak to us, your servants, in Aramaic, for we understand it. Don't speak to us in Hebrew while the people on the wall are listening."

²⁷ But the army general replied, "Did my master only send me to say these things to your master and to you, and not to the people sitting on the wall? They too, just like you, are going to have to eat their own excrement and drink their own urine!"

²⁸ Then the army general shouted out in Hebrew, "Listen to this from the great king, the king of Assyria!"

²⁹ This is what the king says: Don't let Hezekiah trick you! He can't save you from me!

³⁰ Don't believe Hezekiah when he tells you to trust in the Lord, saying, 'I'm certain the Lord will save us. This city will never fall into the hands of the king of Assyria.'

³¹ Don't listen to Hezekiah. This is what the king says: Make a peace treaty with me and surrender to me. That way everyone will eat from their own vine and their own fig tree, and drink water from their own well!

³² I will come and take you to a land that's like your own, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive trees and honey. Then you will live and not die.

* 18:17 Literally, "Tartan, Rab-saris, and Rabshakeh." However, they are Assyrian titles, not personal names.

But don't listen to Hezekiah, for he's tricking you when he says, 'The Lord will deliver us.'

³³ Have any of the gods of any nation ever saved their land from the power of the king of Assyria?

³⁴ Where were the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where were the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivvah? Were they able to save Samaria from me?

³⁵ Which one of all the gods of these countries has saved their land from me? How then could the Lord save Jerusalem from me?"

³⁶ But the people remained silent and didn't say anything, for Hezekiah had given the order, "Don't answer him."

³⁷ Then Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, the palace manager, Shebna the scribe, and Joah, son of Asaph, the record-keeper, went to Hezekiah with their clothes torn, and they told him what the Assyrian army general had said.

² He sent Eliakim the palace manager, Shebna, the scribe, and the leading priests, all wearing sackcloth, to see the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz.

³ They told him, "This is what Hezekiah says: Today is a day of trouble, punishment. It's like when babies arrive at the entrance to the birth canal but there's no strength to deliver them.

⁴ Maybe the Lord your God, hearing the message the army commander delivered on behalf of his master, the king of Assyria—a message sent to insult the living God—will punish him for his words. Please say a prayer for the remnant of us who still survive."

⁶ Isaiah replied to them, "Tell your master, This is what the Lord says: Don't be frightened by the words that you have heard, the words used by the servants of the king of Assyria to blaspheme me.

⁷ Look, I'm going to scare him—he'll hear a rumor, and he'll have to return to his own country. When he's there I'll have him killed by the sword."

⁹ Sennacherib had received a message about Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, that said, "Watch out! He has set out to attack you." So Sennacherib sent messengers again to Hezekiah, saying,

¹⁰ "Tell Hezekiah, king of Judah: 'Don't let your God, the one you're trusting in, fool you by saying that Jerusalem won't fall into the hands of the king of Assyria.

¹¹ Look! You've heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the countries they've invaded*— they destroyed them completely! Do you really think you'll be saved?

¹² Did the gods of the nations my forefathers destroyed save them—the gods of Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who lived in Telassar?

¹³ Where today is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, the king of Hena, or the king of Ivvah?"

* 19:11 "They've invaded": implied.

¹⁴ Hezekiah received the letter from the messengers and read it. Then he went up to the Lord's Temple and opened it out before the Lord.

¹⁵ Hezekiah prayed to the Lord, saying, "Lord, God of Israel, you who live above the cherubim, you alone are God over all the kingdoms of the earth, you are Creator of heaven and earth.

¹⁷ Yes, it's true, Lord, that the Assyrian kings have destroyed these nations and their lands.

¹⁸ They have thrown their gods into the fire because they are not really gods—they are just the work of human hands, made of wood and stone so they could destroy them.

¹⁹ Now, Lord our God, please save us from him, in order that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that only you, Lord, are God."

²⁰ Then Isaiah, son of Amoz, sent a message to Hezekiah, saying, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: I have heard your prayer about Sennacherib, king of Assyria.

²¹ This is the word the Lord condemning him: The virgin daughter of Zion scorns you and mocks you; the daughter of Jerusalem shakes her head as you run away.

²² Who have you been insulting and ridiculing? Who did you raise your voice against? Who did you look at with so proud eyes? It was against the Holy One of Israel!

²³ By your servants you have mocked the Lord. You said: 'With my many chariots I have ascended to the high mountains, to the farthest peaks of Lebanon. I have chopped down its tallest cedars, the best of its cypress trees. I have reached its most distant outposts, its deepest forests.

²⁴ I have dug wells and drunk water in foreign lands. With the soles of my feet I dried up all the rivers in Egypt.' "

²⁵ The Lord replies,[†] "Haven't you heard? I decided it long ago; I planned it in the olden days. Now I am making sure it happens—that you are to knock down fortified towns into piles of rubble.

²⁶ Their people, powerless, are terrified and humiliated. They're like plants in a field, like soft green shoots, like grass that sprouts on rooftop—scorched before it can even grow.

²⁷ But I know you very well—where you live, when you come in, when you leave, and your furious anger against me.

²⁸ Because of your furious anger against me, and because I know how you disrespect me, I'm going to put my hook in your nose and my bit in your mouth, and I will force you to return the same way you came."

[†] 19:25 "The Lord replies": supplied for clarity. [‡] 19:29 "To prove this is true": implied.

³¹ For a remnant will come out of Jerusalem, and survivors will come from Mount Zion. The intense determination of the Lord will make sure this happens.

³² This is what the Lord says about the king of Assyria: He shall not enter this city or shoot an arrow at it. He shall not advance towards it with a shield, or build a siege ramp against it.

³⁴ I will defend this city and save it, for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David."

³⁵ That night the angel of the Lord went to the Assyrian camp and killed 185,000. When the survivors woke up in the morning, they were surrounded by dead bodies.

³⁶ Sennacherib, king of Assyria, gave up and left. He returned home to Nineveh and stayed there.

³⁷ While he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer killed him with the sword and then ran away to the land of Ararat. His son Esar-haddon succeeded him as king.

¹ About this time Hezekiah fell very sick and was about to die. The prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz, went to him and said, "This is what the Lord says: Put your affairs in order, because you are going to die. You won't recover."

² When Hezekiah heard this, he went to pray privately* to the Lord, saying

⁵ "Go back in and tell Hezekiah, the ruler of my people, This is what the Lord, the God of your forefather David, says: I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears. Look! I am going to heal you. In three days time you will go to the Lord's Temple.

⁶ I will add fifteen years to your life. I will save you and this city from the king of Assyria. I will defend this city for my sake and for the sake of my servant David."

⁷ Then Isaiah said, "Prepare a dressing from figs." Hezekiah's servants did so and put it on the skin sores, and Hezekiah got better.

⁸ Hezekiah had previously asked Isaiah, "What is the sign to confirm that the Lord is going to heal me and that I will go to the Lord's Temple in three days time?"

⁹ Isaiah replied, "This is the sign from the Lord to you that the Lord will do what he promised: Do you want the shadow to go forward ten steps, or back ten steps?"

¹⁰ "It's easy enough for the shadow to go forward ten steps, but not to go back ten steps," Hezekiah answered.

¹¹ So Isaiah the prophet asked the Lord, and he moved the shadow back the ten steps it had gone down on the stairway of Ahaz.

* 20:2 "Privately": literally, "turned his face to the wall."

¹² At the same time Merodach-baladan, son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah, because he had heard that Hezekiah was sick.

¹³ Hezekiah welcomed the visitors and showed them everything in his treasury—all the silver, the gold, the spices, and the expensive oils. He also showed them his armory and all that he had in his storehouses. In fact there wasn't anything in his palace or in the whole of his kingdom that Hezekiah didn't show them.

¹⁴ Then the prophet Isaiah went to King Hezekiah and asked him, "Where did those men come from, and what did they tell you?"

"They came from a long way away, from Babylon," Hezekiah replied.

¹⁵ "What did they see in your palace?" Isaiah asked.

"They saw everything in my palace," replied Hezekiah. "There wasn't anything in all my storehouses I didn't show them."

¹⁶ Isaiah told Hezekiah, "Listen to what the Lord says:

¹⁷ You can be certain that the time is coming when everything in your palace, and everything that your forefathers have saved up until now, will be taken away to Babylon. There will be nothing left, says the Lord.

¹⁸ Some of your sons, your own offspring, will be taken to serve as eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon."

¹⁹ Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "The message from the Lord that you have told me is fine." For he said to himself, "Why not, if there'll be peace and safety in my lifetime."

²⁰ The rest of what happened in Hezekiah's reign, all he did, and how he made the pool and the tunnel to bring water into the city, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

²¹ Hezekiah died, and his son Manasseh succeeded him as king.

² He did what was evil in the Lord's sight by following the disgusting pagan practices of the nations that the Lord had driven out before the Israelites.

³ He rebuilt the high places his father Hezekiah had destroyed, and he erected altars for Baal. He made an Asherah idol pole, just as Ahab, king of Israel, had done, and he worshiped and served the sun, moon, and stars.

⁴ He set up pagan altars in the Lord's Temple, right where the Lord had said, "I will place my name in Jerusalem forever."

⁵ He set up altars to worship the sun, moon, and stars in the two courtyards of the Lord's Temple.

⁶ He even he sacrificed his own son as a burnt offering, and used fortune-telling and witchcraft, and he dealt with mediums and with spiritists. He did a great deal of evil in the Lord's sight, making the Lord angry.

⁷ He took the Asherah idol pole he had made and placed in the Temple. This was the place referred to by the Lord when he told David and Solomon, his son, "In this Temple and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen from all the tribes of Israel, I will place my name forever.

⁸ I will never again make the Israelites wander from the land I gave their forefathers if they are careful to follow everything I have ordered them to do—the whole law that my servant Moses gave them.”

⁹ The people refused to listen and Manasseh led them to sin so that the evil they did was even worse than the nations the Lord had destroyed before the Israelites.

¹⁰ The Lord said through his servants the prophets:

¹¹ “Since Manasseh, king of Judah, has committed all these disgusting sins, doing even more evil things than the Amorites who lived before him, and by his encouragement of idol worship has made Judah sin,

¹² this is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: Watch out! I am going to bring down upon Jerusalem and Judah such a disaster that it will cause ringing in the ears of everyone who hears it.

¹⁴ I will give up on the remnant of my special people and hand them over to their enemies. They will be plunder and loot to all their enemies,

¹⁵ because they have done what is evil in my sight, and have made me angry from the day their fathers left Egypt until today.”

¹⁶ On top of that, Manasseh murdered so many innocent people that Jerusalem was filled from one side to the other with their blood. This was in addition to the sin that he had made Judah commit, doing evil in the Lord's sight.

¹⁸ Manasseh died, and was buried in his palace garden, the garden of Uzza. His son Amon succeeded him as king.

¹⁹ Amon was twenty-two when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for two years. His mother's name was Meshullemeth, daughter of Haruz. She came from Jotbah.

²⁰ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight, just as his father Manasseh had done.

²² He rejected the Lord, the God of his forefathers, and did not follow the way of the Lord.

²⁴ But then the people of the land killed everyone who had plotted against King Amon, and they chose his son Josiah king to succeed him.

²⁵ The rest of what happened in Amon's reign, and all he did, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

²⁶ He was buried in his tomb in the garden of Uzza, and his son Josiah succeeded him as king.

* 21:13 In other words, God says he will apply the same standard for judging Judah as he did for Israel.

22

¹ Josiah was eight when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for thirty-one years. His mother's name was Jedidah, daughter of Adaiah. She came from Bozkath.

² He did what was right in the Lord's sight, and followed all the ways of David his forefather—he did not deviate to the right or to the left.

³ In the eighteenth year of his reign, Josiah sent Shaphan, son of Azaliah, son of Meshullam, to the Lord's Temple. He said,

⁴ “Go to Hilkiah the high priest and have him count the money the doorkeepers have collected from the people coming to the Lord's Temple.

⁵ Then hand it over to those who are supervising the work on Lord's Temple, and have them pay the workmen doing the repairing of the Lord's Temple,

⁶ the carpenters, the builders and the masons. In addition have them purchase timber and cut stone to repair the Temple.

⁷ Don't ask for any accounts from the men who received the money because they deal honestly.”

⁸ Hilkiah the high priest told Shaphan the scribe, “I've found the Book of the Law in the Lord's Temple.” He gave it to Shaphan who read it.

⁹ Shaphan the scribe went to the king and to give him a report, saying, “Your officials have paid out the money that was in the Lord's Temple and have handed it over to those appointed to supervise the work at the Lord's Temple.”

¹¹ When the king heard what was in the book of the Law, he tore his clothes.

¹² Then he gave orders to Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam, son of Shaphan, Achor, son of Micaiah, Shaphan, the scribe, and Asaiah the king's assistant, saying,

¹³ “Go and talk to the Lord for me, and for the people, and for all of Judah, about what is said in the book that's been found. For the Lord must be really angry with us, because our forefathers have not obeyed the Lord's instructions in this book; they have not been doing what is written there for us to do.”

¹⁵ She told them, “This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: Tell the man who sent you to me,

¹⁶ this is what the Lord says: I am about to bring disaster down on this place and on its people, in accordance with everything written in the book that has been read to the king of Judah.

¹⁷ They have abandoned me and offered sacrifices to other gods, making me angry by everything they've done. My anger will be poured out upon this place and will not be stopped.

* 22:14 “Wardrobe”: either the king's clothes, or those of the priest (s).

¹⁸ But tell the king of Judah who sent you to ask the Lord, tell him this is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: As for what you heard read to you—

¹⁹ because you were receptive and repentant before God when you heard his warnings against this place and against its people—that would become desolate and a curse—and because you have torn your clothes and wept before me, I have also heard[†] you, declares the Lord.

²⁰ All this will not happen until after you have died, and you will die in peace.[‡] You will not see all the disaster that I'm going to bring down on this place." They went back to the king and gave him her response.

² He went to the Lord's Temple with all the people of Judah and Jerusalem, together with the priests and the Levites, all the people from the least to the greatest, and he read to them the whole Book of the Agreement that had been discovered in the Lord's Temple.

³ The king stood by the pillar and made a solemn agreement before the Lord to follow him and to keep his commandments, laws, and regulations with total dedication, and to observe the requirements of the agreement as written in the book. All the people entered into the agreement.

⁵ He also dismissed the priests appointed by the kings of Judah to present burnt offerings on the high places of the towns of Judah and in the places all around Jerusalem, those who had sacrificed to Baal, to the sun and moon, to the constellations, and to all the powers of heaven.

⁸ Josiah brought to Jerusalem[†] all the priests from the towns of Judah and defiled the high places, from Geba to Beersheba, where the priests had sacrificed burnt offerings. He demolished the high places of the gates, near to the entrance of the gate of Joshua, the governor of the city, which was left of the town gate.

⁹ Though the priests of the high places did not serve at the altar of the Lord in Jerusalem, they did eat unleavened bread with their brother priests.

¹⁰ He defiled the Topheth altar in the Valley of Ben-hinnom so that no one could sacrifice his son or daughter in the fire to Molech.

[†] 22:19 "Heard": in the sense of a positive response. [‡] 22:20 "Die in peace": of course this did not happen, because Josiah chose to confront the Egyptian Pharaoh in battle and was killed. See 23:29. * 23:7 Referring to both males and females. [†] 23:8 "To Jerusalem": implied.

¹¹ He removed the horses that the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sun from the entrance to the Lord's Temple. They were in the courtyard near the room of a eunuch named Nathan-melech. Josiah also burned the chariots dedicated to the sun.

¹² He demolished the altars that the kings of Judah had set up on the roof near the upper chamber of Ahaz, and the altars Manasseh had placed in the two courtyards of the Lord's Temple. The king smashed them to pieces and scattered them in the Kidron Valley.

¹⁴ He smashed the sacred stone pillars to pieces, chopped down the Asherah poles, and covered the places with human bones.

¹⁵ He also demolished the altar at Bethel, the high place set up by Jeroboam, son of Nebat, who had made Israel sin. Then he burned the high place, ground it to dust, and burned the Asherah pole.

¹⁶ As Josiah looked around he saw some tombs there on the hill. He had the bones taken from the tombs, and he burned them on the altar to defile it, just as the Lord had said through the man of God who had prophesied these things.

¹⁷ Then he asked, "Whose gravestone is this that I see?"

"It's the tomb of the man of God who came from Judah and proclaimed exactly what you have done to the altar of Bethel,"[‡] the townspeople replied.

¹⁸ "Let him rest in peace," said Josiah. "Don't anyone touch his bones." So they left his bones undisturbed, together with the bones of the prophet who came from Samaria.

¹⁹ Josiah destroyed, just as he did at Bethel, all the shrines of the high places in the towns of Samaria that the kings of Israel had built that had angered the Lord.

²⁰ Josiah slaughtered all the priests who were there at the high places on the altars, and burned human bones on them. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

²¹ The king sent out an order to all the people, "Observe the Passover of the Lord your God, as it is written in this Book of the Agreement."

²³ But in the eighteenth year of King Josiah, this Passover was observed to honor the Lord in Jerusalem.

²⁴ In addition, Josiah got rid of the mediums and spiritists, the household gods and idols, and all the disgusting practices that were present in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem. He did this to fulfill the words of the law written in the book that Hilkiah the priest had found in the Lord's Temple.

²⁵ Never before was there a king like him who committed himself to the Lord in all his thoughts and attitudes, and with all his strength, keeping all the Law of Moses. There was no king like him afterwards either.

[‡] 23:17 See 1 Kings 13:2.

²⁶ However, the Lord had not given up his furious hostility, which burned against Judah because of all that Manasseh had done to anger him.

²⁷ So the Lord announced, "I'm also going to banish Judah from my presence, just as I banished Israel. I will abandon this city that I have chosen, Jerusalem, and the Temple regarding which I said, My name will be there."

²⁸ The rest of what happened in Josiah's reign, and all he did, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

²⁹ While Josiah was still king, Pharaoh Neco, king of Egypt, led his army to help the king of Assyria at the Euphrates River. King Josiah took his army to fight him at Megiddo, but when Neco saw Josiah he killed him.

³⁰ His servants put his body in a chariot, brought him back from Megiddo to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own tomb. Then the people of the land chose Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, anointed him, and made him king in succession to his father.

³¹ Jehoahaz was twenty-three when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for three months. His mother's name was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah. She came from Libnah.

³² He did what was evil in the Lord's sight, just as all his forefathers had done.

³⁴ Pharaoh Neco made Eliakim, son of Josiah, king in succession to his father Josiah, and he changed Eliakim's name to Jehoiakim. Neco took Jehoahaz to Egypt, where he died.

³⁵ Jehoiakim paid the silver and gold to Pharaoh Neco, but in order to meet Pharaoh's demand he taxed the land and required payment of the silver and the gold from the people, each in proportion to their wealth.

³⁷ He did evil in the Lord's sight, just as his forefathers had done.

² Then the Lord sent bands of raiders against Judah to destroy them. They came from Babylonia, Aram, Moab, and Ammon, just as the Lord had said through his servants the prophets.

³ The Lord spoke against Judah to banish them from his presence because of all the sins that Manasseh had committed, and the innocent people he had killed,

⁵ The rest of what happened in Jehoiakim's reign, and all he did, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

⁶ Jehoiakim died, and his son Jehoiachin succeeded him as king.

⁷ The king of Egypt didn't leave his country again for the king of Babylon had taken all the territory that used to belong to him, from the Wadi of Egypt all the way to the Euphrates River.

⁸ Jehoiachin was eighteen when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for three months. His mother was Nehushta, daughter of Elnathan. She came from Jerusalem.

⁹ Jehoiachin did what was evil in the Lord's sight, just as his father had done.

¹¹ Then Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon came himself while his officers were besieging the city.

It was in the eighth year of his reign that Nebuchadnezzar captured Jehoiachin.

¹³ Nebuchadnezzar took all the treasures from the Lord's Temple and the royal palace, and he cut up all the gold items that Solomon, king of Israel, had made for the Lord's Temple, as the Lord had said would happen.

¹⁴ He deported all of Jerusalem, all the commanders and experienced soldiers, all the craftsmen and metalworkers, a total of ten thousand prisoners. Only the very poor people of the land were left.

¹⁵ He took Jehoiachin away into exile to Babylon, as well as the king's mother and the king's wives and his officials and the leading men of the land, he deported them all from Jerusalem to Babylon.

¹⁷ The king of Babylon made Mattaniah, Jehoiachin's uncle, king instead of him, and changed his name to Zedekiah.

¹⁸ Zedekiah was twenty-one when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eleven years. His mother's name was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah. She came from Libnah.

¹⁹ He did evil in the Lord's sight, just as Jehoiakim had done.

²⁰ All this happened in Jerusalem and Judah, because of the Lord's anger, until he eventually banished them from his presence.

Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

² The city remained under siege until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah.

³ By the ninth day of the fourth month, the famine in the city was so bad that the people had nothing left to eat.

⁴ Then the city wall was broken through, and all the soldiers escaped at night through the gate between the two walls by the king's garden, even though the Babylonians had the city surrounded. They ran away in the direction of the Arabah,*

⁵ but the Babylonian army chased after the king and caught up with him on the plains of Jericho. His whole army had scattered and left him.

⁶ They captured the king and took him to the king of Babylon at Riblah, where he was sentenced.

⁷ They slaughtered Zedekiah's sons while he watched, and then gouged out his eyes, bound him in bronze shackles, and took him to Babylon.

⁸ On the seventh day of the fifth month, in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan, the commander of the guard, an officer of the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem.

⁹ He burned down the Lord's Temple, the royal palace, and all the large buildings of Jerusalem.

¹⁰ The whole Babylonian army under the commander of the guard knocked down the walls around Jerusalem.

¹² But the commander of the guard allowed the poor people who were left in the country to stay and take care of the vineyards and the fields.

¹³ The Babylonians broke into pieces the bronze pillars, the movable carts, and the bronze Sea that belonged to the Lord's Temple, and they took all the bronze to Babylon.

¹⁵ The commander of the guard removed the censers and bowls, anything that was made of pure gold or silver.

¹⁶ The amount of bronze that came from the two columns, the Sea and the movable carts, which Solomon had made for the Lord's Temple, all of this weighed more than could be measured.

¹⁷ Each column was eighteen cubits tall. The bronze capital on top of one column was three cubits high, with a network of bronze pomegranates around it. The second column was the same, and also had a decorative network.

¹⁸ The commander of the guard took as prisoners Seraiah, the chief priest, Zephaniah the priest, second in rank, and the three Temple doorkeepers.

²¹ The king of Babylon had them executed at Riblah in the land of Hamath.

So the people of Judah had to leave their land.

²² Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, appointed Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, as governor over the people he had left in the land of Judah.

* 25:4 "Arabah": the Jordan Valley.

²⁴ Gedaliah swore an oath to them and their men, telling them, "Don't be afraid of the Babylonian officials. Stay here in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and you'll be fine."

²⁵ But in the seventh month, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of royal blood, came with ten men. They attacked and killed Gedaliah, along with the men of Judea and Babylonians who were with him at Mizpah.

²⁶ As a result, all the people, from the least to the greatest, along with the army commanders, ran away to Egypt, terrified of what the Babylonians would do.

²⁷ In the year Evil-merodach became king of Babylon, he released Jehoiachin, king of Judah, from prison. This happened on the twenty-seventh day of the twelfth month of the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin, king of Judah.

²⁸ The king of Babylon treated him well and gave him a position of honor higher than the other kings there with him in Babylon.

* 4:3 "Sons": the Hebrew text reads "father," but some Septuagint manuscripts and the Vulgate read "sons." † 4:4 "Father": probably in the sense of "founder." ‡ 4:9 "More faithful to God": literally, "more honorable," but this does not carry the meaning of a better relationship to God.

§ 4:10 "Expand my borders": or, "enlarge my territory." While this may be seen as simply a request for greater land ownership, it is perhaps better to understand this request that God would expand all that Jabez had, including spiritual aspects. * 4:10 "Pain": part of the prayer is a desire that despite the name his mother gave him that he would not thereby be cursed to suffer pain.

† 4:12 "Father": probably in the sense of "founder." Ir Nahash means "city of the serpent." ‡ 4:12 "Recah." Some manuscripts read "Recab," in which case this would refer to those mentioned in 2:55.

* 4:14 "Father": probably in the sense of "founder." Ge Harashim means "valley of craftsmen."

† 4:17 "Mered": assumed from the context of the following verse. ‡ 4:17 "Father": in the sense of "founder" of the town of that name. § 4:18 "Father": each refers to the "founder" of the respective towns. See Joshua 15. *

* 4:18 Presumably referring back to the sons mentioned in the preceding verse.

⁴⁰ They found good pastureland there, and the area was open, quiet, and peaceful, for those who used to live there were Ham's descendants.[‡]

⁴¹ In the time of Hezekiah, king of Judah, the leaders listed above by name came and attacked these descendants of Ham where they lived, along with the Meunites there and totally destroyed them, as is clear to this very day. Then they settled there, because there was pastureland for their flocks.

⁴² Some of these Simeonites invaded Mount Seir—five hundred men led by Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the sons of Ishi.

⁴³ They destroyed the rest of the Amalekites who had escaped. They have lived there to this very day.

¹ The sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel. (Though he was the firstborn, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel

[†] 4:33 See Joshua 19:8. [‡] 4:40 "Ham's descendants": in other words, the former Canaanite inhabitants.

because he had defiled his father's bed.* That is why Reuben is not listed in the genealogy according to birthright,

² and even though Judah became the strongest of his brothers and a ruler came from him, the birthright belonged to Joseph.)

⁴ The sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son,

⁵ Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son,

⁶ and Beerah his son, the one whom Tiglath-Pileser the king of Assyria took into exile. He (Beerah) was a leader of the Reubenites.

⁸ and Bela of Azaz, son of Shema, son of Joel. They lived from Aroer to Nebo and Baal Meon.

⁹ On the eastern side they expanded into the land right up to the edge of the desert that continues to the Euphrates River, because their flocks had grown so big in Gilead.

¹⁰ In the time of Saul they went to war against the Hagrites, defeating them. They took over the places where the Hagrites had lived in all the regions east of Gilead.

¹¹ Next to them the descendants of Gad lived in Basha, all the way to Salecah.

¹³ Their relatives, according to family, were: Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia, and Eber—a total of seven.

¹⁴ These were the sons of Abihail, son of Huri, son of Jaroah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jeshishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz.

¹⁵ Ahi son of Abdiel, son of Guni, was their family chief.

¹⁹ They went to war against the Hagrites, Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab.

²¹ They captured their enemies' livestock—fifty thousand camels, two hundred fifty thousand sheep, and two thousand donkeys. They also captured one hundred thousand people, ²² and many others were killed because the battle belonged to God. They took over the land and lived there until the exile.

²³ The half-tribe of Manasseh had grown very large. They lived in the land from Bashan to Baal Hermon, (otherwise known as Senir and Mount Hermon).

* 5:1 Reuben had slept with Bilhah, Jacob's concubine. Genesis 35:22, Genesis 49:4.

²⁴ These were the family heads: Ephraim, Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, and Jahdiel. They were strong warriors, famous men, heads of their families.

²⁵ But they were unfaithful to the God of their forefathers. They prostituted themselves by following the gods of the peoples of the land, those that God had destroyed before them.

²⁶ So the God of Israel encouraged Pul, king of Assyria, (otherwise known as Tiglath-Pileser king of Assyria), to invade the land. He took into exile the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh. He brought them to Halah, Habor, Hara, and the river of Gozan, where they remain to this very day.

* 8:29 Following some Septuagint manuscripts and also 1 Chronicles 9:35. His name is missing in the Hebrew text. [†] 8:30 Following some Septuagint manuscripts and also 1 Chronicles 9:36. His name is missing in the Hebrew text. [‡] 8:33 Elsewhere he is known as "Ish-bosheth," to avoid including in his name the pagan god Baal. "Bosheth" means "shame." [§] 8:34 Similarly, he is also known as Mephi-bosheth. * 9:1 Clearly the author of Chronicles is writing after the Captivity, and attributes this event to the nation's failure to follow the true God.

¹⁸ They had the responsibility up until now of looking after the King's Gate on the east side. They were the gatekeepers of the camps of the Levites.

¹⁹ Shallum was the son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah. He and his relatives, the Korahites, were responsible for guarding the entrances to the sanctuary[‡] in the same way their fathers had been responsible for guarding the entrance to the tented house[§] of the Lord.

²⁰ Previously Phinehas son of Eleazar had been the leader of the gatekeepers. The Lord was with him.

²¹ Zechariah son of Meshelemiah was the gatekeeper at the entrance to the tent of meeting.

²² In total there were 212 chosen to be gatekeepers at the entrances. They recorded their genealogies in their home towns. David and Samuel the prophet had selected their forefathers for their faithfulness.

²³ They and their descendants were responsible for guarding the entrance to the house of the Lord, also when it was a tent.

²⁴ The gatekeepers were placed on four sides: east, west, north, and south.

[†] 9:17 "Of the Temple": implied. [‡] 9:19 "Sanctuary": literally, "tent," even though this now referred to the Temple building. [§] 9:19 "Tented house," or "Tabernacle."

²⁶ The four chief gatekeepers, who were Levites, were given the responsibility of looking after the rooms and treasuries in the house of God.

²⁷ They spent the night around the house of God because they had to guard it and they had the key to unlock it in the morning.

²⁸ Some of the gatekeepers were responsible for the articles that were used in worship services. They counted what was brought in and what was taken out.

²⁹ Others were given the job of looking after the furniture and equipment used in the sanctuary, as well as the special flour, wine, olive oil, incense, and spices.

³⁰ (However, some of the priests were in charge of mixing the spices.)

³¹ Mattithiah, a Levite, who was the firstborn son of Shallum the Korahite, was given the responsibility of baking the bread used in offerings.

³² Other Kohathites were in charge of preparing the bread set out on the table every Sabbath.

³³ The musicians, heads of Levite families, lived in the rooms in the Temple and were not required to carry out other duties because they were on duty day and night.

³⁴ These were all heads of Levite families, leaders as recorded in their genealogies, and they lived in Jerusalem.

³⁵ Jeiel* was the father of Gibeon and he lived in Gibeon. His wife's name was Maacah.

³ The battle raged intensely around Saul. The enemy archers saw where he was, and they wounded him.

* 9:35 See 8:29. † 9:39 See footnote to 8:33. ‡ 9:40 See footnote to 8:34. § 9:41 "And Ahaz": Septuagint and 8:35. The name is missing in the Hebrew text here. * 9:42 Following the Septuagint and 8:36. Here spelled "Jarrah."

⁴ Saul told his armor bearer, "Take out your sword and kill me before these heathen come and torment me." But his armor bearer refused—he was too afraid to do it. So Saul took his own sword and fell on it.

⁷ When all the Israelites in the valley saw that their army had run away, and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their towns and they also ran away. The Philistines came and occupied them.

⁸ The following day, when the Philistines came to strip the dead, they discovered the bodies of Saul and his sons on Mount Gilboa.

⁹ They stripped him, cut off his head, and took his armor. Then they sent the news throughout the land of Philistia, to their idols and their people.

¹⁰ They put Saul's armor in the temple of their idols and fixed his head to the temple of Dagon.

¹¹ However, when everyone in Jabesh-gilead heard everything the Philistines had done to Saul,

¹² all their fighting men went and recovered the bodies of Saul and his sons. They brought them back and buried them under the large tree in Jabesh. Then they fasted for seven days.

¹³ Saul died because he was unfaithful to the Lord. He did not keep the Lord's commands, and he also went to consult a medium.

¹⁴ He did not consult the Lord, so the Lord put him to death and he handed over the kingship to David, son of Jesse.

11

¹ All the Israelites gathered to meet with David in Hebron. They told him, "We are your flesh and blood.*"

² In recent times, even though Saul was king, you were the real leader of Israel.† The Lord your God told you, 'You will be the shepherd of my people, and you will be the leader of my people Israel.' "

⁴ Then David and all the Israelites went to Jerusalem (formerly known as Jebus) where the Jebusites lived.

⁵ The Jebusites told David, "You will not enter here!" But David did capture the fortress of Zion, now known as the City of David.

⁶ David had said, "Whoever is first to attack the Jebusites will be my commander-in-chief." Since Joab, son of Zeruiah, was the first, he became commander-in-chief.

⁷ David decided to love in the fortress, which is why they named it after him the City of David.

⁸ He built up the city all around it, from the Millo§ in a circuit all around, while Joab repaired the rest of the city.

* 10:6 Literally, "all of his house died together," however this must be taken in the context that none of his sons succeeded him, for his son Ishbosheth did survive. * 11:1 "Flesh and blood": literally, "bones and flesh." † 11:2 "Real leader of Israel": literally, "You led out and your brought in Israel." ‡ 11:3 "Solemn agreement": or, "covenant." § 11:8 The meaning of this word is uncertain.

⁹ David became more and more powerful,* for the Lord Almighty was with him.

¹⁰ These were the leaders of David's powerful warriors who, along with all the Israelites, gave him strong support in becoming king, just as the Lord had promised would happen to Israel.

¹³ He was with David at Pas-dammin when the Philistines gathered for battle that took place in a field full of barley. The Israelite army ran away when the Philistines attacked.

¹⁴ But David and Eleazar took a stand in the middle of the field, defending their ground and killing the Philistines. The Lord saved them by giving them a great victory.

¹⁶ At the time David was in the stronghold, and the Philistine garrison was in Bethlehem.

¹⁷ David was feeling really thirsty, and he said, "If only someone could bring me a drink of water from the well beside the entrance gate to Bethlehem!"

¹⁸ The Three broke through the Philistine defenses, took some water from the well at Bethlehehem's gate, and brought it back to David. But David refused to drink it, and poured it out as an offering to the Lord.

¹⁹ "God forbid that I should do this!" he said. "It would be like drinking the blood of these men who risked their lives! They risked their lives to bring me a drink." So he did not drink it. This is just some of the things the Three leading warriors did.

²⁰ Abishai, Joab's brother, was leader of the second Three.‡ Using his spear, he once killed 300 men, and became famous among the Three.

²¹ He was the most highly regarded of the Three and was their commander, though he was not one of the first Three.§

²³ Another time he killed an Egyptian—a huge man who stood seven foot six inches tall.† The Egyptian had a spear whose shaft was as thick as a weaver's rod. Benaiah attacked him with just a club, but he was able to grab the spear from the Egyptian's hand, and killed him with his own spear.

* 11:9 "More and more powerful": literally, "increased and increased." † 11:15 Implied.

‡ 11:20 However, Jashobeam has already been mentioned as leader of the Three (11:11), and the killing of 300 by his spear has also been mentioned. Some suggest a confusion of names or alternate spelling, or that this refers to another person altogether as leader not of the Three but the Thirty, or that there was another "Three." § 11:21 Identifying a first and second Three seems to be the simplest solution to what are confusing verses.

* 11:22 Septuagint understanding; it may refer to two fighting champions of Moab. † 11:23 Literally "five cubits."

²⁴ These were the kind of things Benaiah did that made him as famous as the Three leading warriors.

²⁵ He was the most highly regarded of the Thirty, though he was not one of the Three. David put him in charge of his personal bodyguard.

²⁶ Other leading warriors were: Asahel, Joab's brother; Elhanan, son of Dodo, from Bethlehem;

²⁷ Shammoth the Harorite; Helez the Pelonite;

²⁸ Ira, son of Ikkes from Tekoa; Abiezer from Anathoth;

²⁹ Sibbecai the Hushathite; Ilai the Ahohite;

³⁰ Maharai of Netophah; Heled, son of Baanah of Netophah;

³² Hurai from the valleys of Gaash; Abiel the Arbathite;

³³ Azmaveth the Baharumite; Eliahba the Shaalbonite;

³⁴ the sons of Hashem the Gizonite; Jonathan, son of Shagee the Hararite;

³⁵ Ahiam, son of Sachar the Hararite; Eliphaz, son of Ur;

³⁶ Hephher the Mecherathite; Ahijah the Pelonite;

³⁷ Hezro the Carmelite; Naarai, son of Ezbai;

³⁸ Joel the Nathan's brother; Mibhar, son of Hagri;

⁴⁰ Ira the Ithrite; Gareb the Ithrite;

⁴¹ Uriah the Hittite; Zabad son of Ahlai;

⁴² Adina, son of Shiza the Reubenite, leader of the Reubenites, and the thirty who were with him;

⁴³ Hanan, son of Maacah; Joshaphat the Mithnite;

⁴⁴ Uzzia the Ashterathite; Shama and Jeiel, the sons of Hotham the Aroerite;

⁴⁵ Jediahel, son of Shimri, and his brother, Joha the Tizite;

⁴⁶ Eliel the Mahavite; Jeribai and Joshaviah, the sons of Elnaam; Ithmah the Moabite;

⁴⁷ Eliel; Obed; and Jaasiel the Mezobaite.

² They were all skilled archers, and could shoot arrows or slingshots with their right or their left hands. They were relatives of Saul from the tribe of Benjamin.

³ Ahiezer was their leader; then Joash; the sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite; Jeziel and Pelet the sons of Azmaveth; Beracah; Jehu the Anathothite;

⁴ Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, (a strong warrior among the Thirty, and leader over the Thirty); Jeremiah; Jahaziel; Johanan; Jozabad the Gederathite;

⁶ Elkanah, Isshiah, Azarel, Joezer, and Jashobeam (they were Korahites);

⁸ Some warriors from the tribe of Gad went over to David's side when he was at the stronghold in the desert. They were strong and experienced warriors, battle-hardened, experts in the use of shields and spears. Their faces looked as fierce as lions, and they ran as fast as gazelles in the mountains.

⁹ Ezer the was the leader, Obadiah (second), Eliab (third),

¹⁰ Mishmannah (fourth), Jeremiah (fifth),

¹¹ Attai (sixth), Eliel (seventh),

¹² Johanan (eighth), Elzabad (ninth),

¹³ Jeremiah (tenth), Machbannai (eleventh).

¹⁴ These warriors from Gad were army officers. The least able of them was in charge of 100 men; the best was in charge of 1,000.

¹⁶ Some others from the tribes of Benjamin and Judah also came to join David at the stronghold.

¹⁷ David went out to meet them and told them, "If you've come in peace to help me, we can be friends.* But if you've come to betray me to my enemies, even though I've done no wrong, then may the God of our fathers see what you're doing and condemn you."

¹⁸ Then the Spirit came upon† Amasai, the leader of the Thirty. "We are yours, David, and we are with you, son of Jesse! May peace, prosperity, and success‡ be yours and those who help you, for God is the one who is helping you." So David allowed them to join him, and put them in charge of his bands of raiders.

¹⁹ Others came over to David's side from the tribe of Manasseh and joined him when he went with Philistines to attack Saul. However, the Philistine rulers eventually decided to send them away, saying to themselves, "It will cost us our heads if he deserts us and goes over to his master Saul."

²⁰ The following is a list of the men from Manasseh who went over to David's side as he returned to Ziklag: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu, and Zillethai, leaders of thousands in Manasseh.

²¹ They helped David against raiders for they were all strong and experienced warriors and commanders in the army.

²² Men arrived daily to help David until he had a large army, like the army of God.

²³ This is a list of the numbers of armed warriors who came and joined David in Hebron to turn over Saul's kingdom to him, as the Lord had said.

²⁶ From the tribe of Levi, 4,600,

²⁷ including Jehoiada, leader of the family of Aaron, and with him 3,700,

²⁹ From the tribe of Benjamin, from among Saul's relatives, 3,000, most of whom had remained loyal to Saul up until this time.

³⁰ From the tribe of Ephraim, 20,800 strong warriors, each highly regarded in his own clan.

* 12:17 "We can be friends": literally, "my heart will be together with you." † 12:18 "Came upon": literally, "clothed." ‡ 12:18 "Peace, prosperity, and success": literally, "Shalom, shalom to you, and shalom whoever helps you."

³¹ From the half-tribe of Manasseh, 18,000 men were designated by name to come and make David king.

³² From the tribe of Issachar came leaders who knew and could understand the signs of the times and what Israel should do—a total of 200 leaders of the tribe together with their relatives.

³³ From the tribe of Zebulun, 50,000 warriors. They were fully armed and battle-ready, and totally dedicated.

³⁴ From the tribe of Naphtali, 1,000 officers and 37,000 warriors carrying shields and spears.

³⁶ From the tribe of Asher, 40,000 experienced warriors, all battle-ready.

³⁷ From the east side of the Jordan River, from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, 120,000 warriors carrying all kinds of weapons.

³⁹ They stayed three days there, eating and drinking together, for their relatives had provided them with supplies.

⁴⁰ Their neighbors, even as far away as Issachar, Zebulun, and Naphtali, arrived bringing food on donkeys, camels, mules, and oxen. They had plenty of flour, fig cakes, bunches of raisins, wine, olive oil, cattle, and sheep, for Israel was so happy.

³ Let us bring the Ark of our God back† to us, because we forgot about it during the time of Saul.”

⁴ The whole assembly was pleased with the proposal, agreeing that this would be a good thing to do.

⁵ So David summoned all of Israel, from the Shihor River of Egypt up to Lebo-hamath, to help bring the Ark from Kiriath-jearim.

⁶ So David and all of Israel went to Baalah (otherwise called Kiriath-jearim) in Judah to bring back the Ark of God the Lord, whose throne is between the cherubim and who is called by the Name.

⁷ They loaded the Ark of God onto a brand new cart and brought it from Adinadab's house, with Uzzah and Ahio directing it.

⁹ But when they came to the threshing floor of Chidon, the oxen stumbled and Uzzah stretched out his hand to stop the Ark falling.

* 13:1 “Thousands and hundreds”: referring to the way the army was structured, with some being in charge of 1000 men, and others in charge of 100. † 13:3 “Bring... back”: interestingly the verb root has the basic meaning of “surround.”

¹⁰ The Lord was angry with Uzzah for daring to touch the Ark like this so he struck him down, and Uzzah died there before the Lord.

¹¹ David became angry with the Lord for his violent outburst against Uzzah. He named the place Perez-uzzah,[‡] and it is still called that today.

¹² David became afraid of God that day. "How can I ever bring back the Ark of God home to me?" he asked.

¹³ So David did not move the Ark of God to be with him in the City of David. Instead, he had it taken to the home of Obed-edom the Gittite.

¹⁴ The Ark of God remained in Obed-edom's home for three months, and the Lord blessed Obed-edom's household and all that he had.

² In this way David realized that the Lord had placed him on the throne as king of Israel and had blessed by supporting his kingdom for the sake of the Lord's people Israel.

³ David married more wives in Jerusalem, and had more sons and daughters.

⁵ Ibhar, Elishua, Elpelet,

⁶ Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia,

⁷ Elishama, Beeliada, and Eliphelet.

⁸ When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all of Israel, they gathered their whole army to go after him. But David heard they were coming and went out to confront them.

⁹ The Philistines arrived and raided the valley of Rephaim.

¹⁰ David consulted God, asking "Shall I go and attack the Philistines? Will you make me victorious over them?"

"Go ahead," the Lord told him, "I will make you victorious over them."

¹¹ So David attacked and defeated them there at Baal-perazim. "God used me to defeat my enemies like a torrent of water that bursts out," he declared. That's why the place was named Baal-perazim.*

¹³ However, the Philistines returned and made another raid on the valley.

¹⁴ David consulted God again. "Don't make a frontal attack," God told him. "Instead go around behind them and attack them in front of the balsam trees."

¹⁵ As soon as you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, go and attack for the Lord has gone before you to strike down the Philistine army."

¹⁶ So David did what God told him, striking down the Philistine army all the way from Gibeon to Gezer.

¹⁷ As a result David's reputation was spread everywhere, and the Lord made all the nations afraid of David.

15

¹ Once David had finished building houses for himself in the City of David, he made a place for the Ark of God and set up a tent there.

² Then he gave orders: "Nobody is to carry the Ark of God except the Levites, for the Lord himself chose them to carry the Ark of the Lord and to serve him forever."

³ David summoned all of Israel to Jerusalem to bring the Ark of the Lord to the place he'd prepared for it.

⁴ This is the list of the Levites, the sons of Aaron, that David called to attend:

¹¹ Then David summoned the priests Zadok and Abiathar, and the Levites Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel, and Amminadab.

¹² He told them, "You are the heads of the Levite families. You must make yourselves and your relatives ceremonially clean and pure* before you bring back the Ark of God, the Lord of Israel to the place I have made for it.

¹³ Because you weren't there the first time to carry the Ark the Lord our God burst out in violence against us. We didn't treat it in accordance with his instructions."

¹⁴ So the priests and the Levites purified themselves so that they could bring back the Ark of the Lord, the God of Israel.

¹⁵ Then the Levites carried the Ark of God in the way that Moses had ordered, according to what God had said—on their shoulders using the special carrying poles.

¹⁶ David also instructed the leaders of the Levites to assign from their relatives singers who would sing loudly for joy, accompanied by musicians playing lyres, and harps, and cymbals.

¹⁷ So the Levites assigned Heman the son of Joel; and from his relatives Asaph the son of Berechiah; and from the sons of Merari, their relatives, Ethan the son of Kushaiah.

¹⁸ The second group of Levites consisted of Zechariah, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, and Mikneiah; and the gatekeepers Obed-edom and Jeiel.

¹⁹ The musicians Heman, Asaph, and Ethan were to strike the bronze cymbals;

²⁰ Zechariah, Aziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah, and Benaiah were to play harps "according to alamoth,"

²¹ while Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, and Azaziah were to lead the music with lyres "according to sheminith."

²² Kenaniah, the leader of the Levites in singing, was chosen to lead the music because of his ability.

²³ Berechiah and Elkanah were appointed to guard the Ark.

* 15:12 "Ceremonially clean and pure": following the religious rules and requirements.

²⁴ Shebaniah, Joshaphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer the priests were to blow the trumpets in front of the Ark of God. Obed-edom and Jehiah were also appointed to guard the Ark.

²⁶ Because God helped the Levites who carried the Ark of the Lord's Agreement, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven rams.

²⁷ David wore a robe of fine linen like all the Levites who were carrying the Ark, and the singers and Kenaniah the leader of the music and singers. David also wore a linen ephod.[‡]

²⁹ But as Ark of the Lord's Agreement entered the City of David, Saul's daughter Michal looked down from a window. Seeing David the king jumping and dancing for joy, she was full of contempt for him.

16

¹ They brought the Ark of God and placed it in the tent that David had prepared for it. They presented burnt offerings and friendship offerings to God.

² Once David had finished presenting the burnt offerings and friendship offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord.

³ Then he shared out to every Israelite, to every man and woman, a loaf of bread, a date cake, and a raisin cake.

⁴ David assigned some of the Levites to serve as ministers before the Ark of the Lord, to remember, to thank, and to praise the Lord, the God of Israel.

⁵ Asaph was the one in charge, Zechariah was second, then Jeiel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed-edom, and Jeiel. They played harps and lyres, and Asaph struck the cymbals,

⁶ and the priests Benaiah and Jahaziel blew the trumpets continually in front of the Ark of God's Agreement.

⁷ This was the day that David first instructed Asaph and his relatives to express thanks to the Lord in this way:*

⁸ Give the Lord thanks, worship his wonderful nature, let people know what he's done!

¹⁰ Be proud of his holy character; be happy, all who come to the Lord!

¹² Remember all the wonderful things he's done, the miracles he's performed, and the judgments he's carried out,

¹⁴ He is the Lord, our God, his judgments cover the whole earth.

¹⁵ He remembers his agreement forever, the promise he made lasts for a thousand generations;

[†] 15:25 "Senior army commanders": literally, "commanders of thousands." [‡] 15:27 "Ephod": special clothing worn by priests. * 16:7 "In this way": implied. What follows is a selection from Psalms 105, Psalms 96, Psalms 107, and Psalms 106.

16 the agreement he made with Abraham, the vow he gave to Isaac.

17 The Lord legally confirmed it with Jacob, he made this everlasting agreement with Israel:

18 saying, "I will give the land of Canaan to you for you to possess."

19 He said this when there were only a few of you, just a small group of foreigners in the land.

20 They wandered from country to country, from one kingdom to the next.

21 He didn't let anyone one treat them badly; warning kings to leave them alone:

22 "Don't touch my chosen people; don't harm my prophets!"

23 Sing to the Lord, all the earth, sing to the Lord! Each day let everyone know of his salvation!

24 Declare his glorious acts among the nations, the wonderful things he does among all peoples.

25 For the Lord is great, and deserves the best praise! He is to be respected with awe above all gods.

26 For all the gods of other nations are idols; but the Lord made the heavens!

27 Splendor and majesty are his; power and glory are in his sanctuary.

28 Give the Lord credit, nations of the world, credit him with glory and strength.

29 Give the Lord the glory he deserves; bring an offering and come before him. Worship the Lord in his magnificent holiness.

30 Let everyone on earth tremble in his presence. The world is held together firmly—it cannot be broken apart.

31 Let the heavens sing for joy, let the earth be happy. Tell the nations, "The Lord is in charge!"

32 Let the sea and everything in it shout with praise! Let the fields and everything there celebrate;

33 Let all the trees in the forest sing for joy, for he is coming to judge the earth.

34 Say thank you to the Lord, for he is good! His trustworthy love continues forever!

35 Shout out, "Save us, Lord, our God! Bring us back together from among the nations, rescue us, so we can thank you and praise how magnificent and holy you are."

36 How wonderful is the Lord, the God of Israel, who lives forever and ever! Then all the people said, "Amen!" and "Praise the Lord!"

37 Then David made sure Asaph and his brothers would minister continually before the Ark of the Lord's Agreement, performing whatever services were needed every day, 38 as well as Obed-edom and his sixty-eight relatives. Obed-edom, son of Jeduthun, and Hosah, were gatekeepers.

39 David put Zadok the priest and his fellow priests in charge of the Ark of the Lord at the high place in Gibeon

40 to present burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar of burnt offerings, morning and evening, according to all that was written in the law of the Lord which he had ordered Israel to follow.

⁴¹ They were accompanied by Heman, Jeduthun, and the rest of those chosen and identified by name to give thanks to the Lord, for “His trustworthy love lasts forever.”

⁴² Heman and Jeduthun used their trumpets and cymbals to make music to accompany the songs of God. The sons of Jeduthun guarded the gate.

⁴³ Then all the people went home, and David went to bless his family.

¹ Once David had settled into his palace, he spoke to the prophet Nahum. “Look,” he said, “I’m living in a cedar palace while the Ark of the Lord’s Agreement is kept in a tent!”

² “Do what you think you should, for the God is with you,” Nathan replied.

³ But that night God told Nathan,

⁴ “Go and talk to my servant David. Tell him, this is what the Lord says, You are not to build a house for me to live in.

⁵ I have not lived in a house from the time I led Israel out of Egypt* until now. I have lived in tents, moving from place to place.

⁶ But in all those travels with all of Israel did I ever ask any Israelite leader I’d ordered to take care of my people, ‘Why haven’t you built a cedar house for me?’

⁷ So then, go and tell my servant David this is what the Lord Almighty says. It was me who took you from the fields, from looking after sheep, to become a leader of my people Israel.

⁸ I have been with you wherever you’ve gone. I have struck down all your enemies right in front of you, and I will make your reputation as great as the most famous people on earth.

⁹ I will choose a place for my people Israel. I will settle them there and they won’t be disturbed anymore. Evil people won’t persecute them as they used to,

¹⁰ from the time I placed judges in charge of my people. I will defeat all of your enemies.

Also I want to make it clear that I the Lord will build a house for you.†

¹¹ For when you come to the end of your life and join your ancestors in death, I will bring to power one of your descendants, one of your sons, and make sure his kingdom is successful.

¹² He will be the one to build me a house, and I will make sure his kingdom lasts forever.

¹⁵ This is what Nathan explained to David—everything he was told in this divine revelation.

* 17:5 “Out of Egypt”: implied—these words are not in the Hebrew text. † 17:10 In other words, the Lord would build a “house” for David in the sense of establishing a royal dynasty.

¹⁶ Then King David went and sat down in the presence of the Lord. He prayed, “Who am I, Lord God, and what is significant about my family, that you have brought me to this place?”

¹⁷ God, you talk as if this was a small thing in your eyes, and you also have spoken about the future of my house, my family dynasty.[‡] You also see me as someone very important, Lord God.

¹⁸ What more can I, David, say to you for honoring me in this way? You know your servant all too well!

²⁰ Lord, there really is no-one like you; there is no other God, only you. We have never heard about anyone else.

²¹ Who else is as fortunate as your people Israel? Who else on earth did God go and redeem to make his own people? You gained a wonderful reputation for yourself by all the tremendous, amazing things you did in driving out other nations before your people as you redeemed them from Egypt.

²³ So now, Lord, please ensure that what you have said about me and my house happens, and lasts forever. Please do as you have promised,

²⁴ and may your true nature be recognized and honored forever, with people declaring, “The Lord Almighty, the God of Israel, is Israel's God!” May the house of your servant David continue to be there in your presence.

²⁵ You, my God, have explained to me, your servant, that you will build me a house. That's why your servant has had the courage to pray to you.

²⁷ So now, please bless your servant's house that it may continue in your presence forever. For when you bless, Lord, it is blessed forever.”

18

² David also defeated the Moabites, making them subject to him and requiring them to pay taxes.

³ David then defeated Hadadezer, king of Zobah, near Hamath, as he tried enforce his control along the Euphrates River.

⁴ David captured from him 1,000 chariots, 7,000 charioteers, and 20,000 foot soldiers. David hamstringed all the chariot horses—except he saved enough for 100 chariots.

⁶ David placed forces* in the Aramean town of Damascus, and also made them subject to him and required them to pay taxes. The Lord gave David victories wherever he went.

[‡] 17:17 “My family dynasty”: explaining the meaning of “house” in this context. * 18:6 What David placed is not specified in the Hebrew text. From the text it appears to be army units or garrisons as the Septuagint and Vulgate translations suggest, and is confirmed in the parallel passage in 2 Samuel 8:6.

⁷ David took the shields of gold that were carried by Hadadezer's officers and brought them to Jerusalem.

⁸ David also took a large quantity of bronze from Tibhath and from Cun, towns that had belonged to Hadadezer. Solomon used that bronze to make the bronze sea, the columns, and the various bronze objects.[†]

¹¹ King David dedicated these gifts to the Lord, along with the silver and gold he had taken from all the following nations: Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, and Amalekites.

¹² Abishai,[‡] son of Zeruiah, killed 18,000 Edomites in the Valley of Salt.

¹³ He set up army posts in Edom, and all the Edomites became subject to David. The Lord gave David victories wherever he went.

¹⁴ David ruled over all Israel. He did what was fair and right for all his people.

¹⁵ Joab, son of Zeruiah,[§] was the army commander, while Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, kept the official records.

¹⁷ Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was in charge of the Kerethites and Pelethites;^{*} and David's sons were at the king's side, serving as his chief officials.

² David said, "I will be kind to Hanun, son of Nahash, for his father was kind to me." So David sent messengers to comfort him over his father's death. David's ambassadors arrived in the land of the Ammonites and went to comfort Hanun.

³ But the Ammonite princes said to Hanun, "Do you really think that David is honoring your father by sending comforters to you? Haven't these 'comforters' only come to spy out the land to find ways to conquer it?"

⁴ So Hanun detained David's ambassadors and had them shaved, and their robes cut off at the buttocks.^{*} Then he sent them back.

⁶ Then the Ammonites realized that they had really been offensive to David. So Hanun and the Ammonites sent a thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and charioteers from Aram-naharaim, Aram-maacah, and Zobah.

[†] 18:8 Objects used in the Temple. [‡] 18:12 In the parallel passage in 2 Samuel 8:13 David is credited with this victory. [§] 18:15 Zeruiah was David's sister (2:16). ^{*} 18:17 "The Kerethites and Pelethites": these were the king's bodyguard (2 Samuel 15:18).

^{*} 19:4 To humiliate and shame them, and to send a message of defiance back to David.

⁷ They also hired 32,000 chariots and the king of Maacah with his army. They came set up camp near Medeba. The Ammonites were also called up from their towns and prepared for battle.

⁸ When David learned of this, he sent Joab and the entire army to confront them.

⁹ The Ammonites set up their battle lines near the town entrance, while the other kings who had joined them took up positions in the open fields.

¹⁰ Joab realized he would have to fight both in front of him and behind him, he chose some of Israel's best troops and he took charge of them to lead the attack the Arameans.

¹¹ He put the rest of the army under the command of Abishai, his brother. They were to attack the Ammonites.

¹² Joab told him, "If the Arameans are stronger than me, you come and help me. If the Ammonites are stronger than you, I'll come and help you.

¹³ Be brave, and fight your best for our people and the towns of our God. May the Lord do what he sees as good!"

¹⁵ When the Ammonites saw that the Arameans had run away, they also ran away from Abishai, Joab's brother, and retreated into the town. So Joab went back to Jerusalem.

¹⁸ But the Aramean army ran away from the Israelites, and David killed 7,000 charioteers and 40,000 infantry, as well as Shobach, their army commander.

¹⁹ When Hadadezer's allies realized that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with David and became subject to him. As a result, the Arameans didn't want to help the Ammonites any more.

² David took the crown from the head of their idol Milcom.* It was made of gold, and was set with gems. It weighed a talent† and was placed on David's head. David also took a great deal of plunder from the city.

³ David made the people there work with saws, iron picks, and axes. He also did the same to all the Ammonite towns. Then David and all his army returned to Jerusalem.

* 20:2 "Milcom": or "their king." † 20:2 A talent was equal to around 75 pounds.

⁴ Some time after this was broke out with the Philistines at Gezer. But then Sibbecai the Hushathite killed Sippai, a descendant of the Rephaim,[‡] and the Philistines were forced to submit.

⁵ In another battle with the Philistines, Elhanan, son of Jair, killed Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the Gittite. The shaft of his spear was as thick as a weaver's rod.

⁶ In yet another battle at Gath, there was a gigantic man, who had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, making twenty-four all. He too was descended from the giants.

⁷ But when he insulted Israel, Jonathan, son of Shimea, David's brother, killed him.

⁸ These were the descendants of the giants in Gath, about they were all killed by David and his men.

² So David told Joab and the army commanders, "Go and count the Israelites from Beersheba to Dan. Then report back to me so I can have a total number."

³ But Joab replied, "May the Lord multiply his people a hundred times over. Your Majesty, aren't they all your subjects? Why do you want to do this? Why should you make Israel guilty?"

⁴ But the king was adamant so Joab left and went all over Israel. Eventually he returned to Jerusalem,

⁵ and he gave David the number of people censused. In Israel there were 1,100,000 fighting men who could handle a sword, and 470,000 in Judah.

⁶ However, Joab did not include Levi and Benjamin in the census total, because he disagreed with what the king had ordered.

⁷ The Lord considered the census a bad thing to do and he punished Israel for it.

⁸ Then David said to God, "I have committed a terrible sin by doing this. Please take away the guilt of your servant, for I have been very stupid."

⁹ The Lord told Gad, David's seer,

¹⁰ "Go and tell David that this is what the Lord says: 'I'm giving you three options. Choose one of them, and that's what I'll do to you.' "

¹¹ So Gad went and told David, "This is what the Lord says: 'Make your choice:

¹² either three years of famine; or three months of devastation, running from the swords of your enemies; or three days of the Lord's sword—in other words three days of plague in the land, with an angel of the Lord causing destruction throughout the whole of Israel.' Now you have to decide how I should reply to the one who sent me."

¹³ David replied to Gad, "This is an awful situation for me! Please, let the Lord decide my punishment,* for he is so merciful. Don't let me be punished by people."

¹⁴ So the Lord a plague on Israel, and 70,000 Israelites died.

[‡] 20:4 "Rephaim": a race of giants. Similar word is used in 20:8. * 21:13 "Let the Lord decide my punishment": literally, "let me fall into the hands of the Lord." Also at the end of the verse, "Do not let me fall into human hands."

¹⁵ God also sent an angel to destroy Jerusalem. But just as the angel was about to destroy it, the Lord saw it, and he relented from causing such a disaster. He told the destroying angel, "That's enough. You can stop now." Right then the angel of the Lord was standing beside the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

¹⁶ When David looked up and saw the angel of the Lord standing between earth and heaven, holding his drawn sword extended over Jerusalem, David and the elders, wearing sackcloth, fell on their faces.

¹⁷ David said to God, "Wasn't it me who ordered the census of the people? I'm the one who has sinned and acted wickedly. But these sheep, what have they done? Lord my God, please punish me and my family, but don't punish your people with this plague."

¹⁸ Then the angel of the Lord told Gad to tell David to go and build an altar to the Lord on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

²⁰ Ornan was busy threshing wheat. He turned around and saw the angel; and his four sons who were with him went and hid.

²² David said to Ornan, "Please let me have the threshing floor. I'll buy it at its full price. Then I can build an altar to the Lord here so that the plague on the people may be stopped."

²³ "Take it, and Your Majesty can do whatever you want with it," Ornan told David. "You can have the oxen for burnt offerings, the threshing boards for firewood, and the wheat for a grain offering. I'll give it all to you."

²⁴ "No, I insist, I will pay the full price," replied King David "I won't take for the Lord what is yours or present burnt offerings that didn't cost me anything."

²⁶ David built an altar to the Lord there and presented burnt offerings and friendship offerings. He called on the Lord in prayer, and the Lord answered him with fire from heaven on the altar of burnt offering.

²⁷ Then the Lord told the angel to put his sword back into its sheath.

²⁸ When David saw that the Lord had answered him at the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite, he offered sacrifices there.

²⁹ At that time the tent of the Lord that Moses had made in the wilderness, and the altar of burnt offering, were at the high place in Gibeon.

³⁰ But David did not want to go there to ask God's will,[†] because he was afraid of the sword of the angel of the Lord.

¹ Then David said, "This is where the house of the Lord God will be, and this is the place for the altar of burnt offering for Israel."

² So David gave orders to summon the foreigners living in the land of Israel, and he assigned stonecutters to prepare dressed stones to build the house of God.

[†] 21:30 "Ask God's will": literally, "inquire of God."

³ David provided plenty of iron to make the nails for the entrance doors and for the supports, as well as more bronze than could be weighed.

⁴ He provided more cedar logs than could be counted, because the people of Sidon and Tyre had brought a huge quantity of cedar logs to David.

⁵ David said to himself, "My son Solomon is still young and inexperienced, and the house that is to be built for the Lord must be truly magnificent, famous and glorious around the world. I need to start preparing for it." So David made sure plenty of building materials were ready before he died.

⁸ But the Lord told me, 'You have shed a lot of blood and engaged in many wars. You are not to build a house to honor me because I have seen you shed so much blood on the earth.

⁹ But you will have a son who will be a man of peace. I will give him peace from all his enemies in the nations around. Solomon will be his name, and I will grant peace and quiet to Israel during his reign.

¹⁰ He is the one who will build a house to honor me. He will be my son, and I will be his father. And I will make sure the throne of his kingdom over Israel lasts forever.'

¹¹ Now, my son, may the Lord be with you so you may succeed in building the house of the Lord your God, just as he said you would.

¹² Only may the Lord give you insight and understanding when he puts you in command of Israel, so that you may keep the law of the Lord your God.

¹³ Then you will be successful, as long as you are careful to follow the laws and regulations that the Lord through Moses instructed Israel to do. Be strong and be brave! Don't be afraid or discouraged!

¹⁴ Look, I've taken a lot of trouble to provide for the house of the Lord—100,000 talents of gold, 1,000,000 talents of silver, and bronze and iron, more than can be weighed.

¹⁵ I have also provided timber and stone, but you will need to add more.

¹⁶ You have many workers such as stonecutters, masons, carpenters, and all kinds of craftsmen of gold, silver, bronze, and iron—without limit. So get started, and may the Lord be with you!"

¹⁷ David also ordered all the leaders in Israel to help his son Solomon.

¹⁸ "Isn't the Lord God with you? Hasn't he given you peace on all your borders?" he asked. "Why? Because he has placed the inhabitants of the land under my power, and they are now subject to the Lord and to his people.

¹⁹ Now, with your whole mind and heart, make a definite decision to always worship the Lord your God. Get started on building the sanctuary of the Lord God. Then you can bring the Ark of the Lord's Agreement and the holy things of God into the house that is to be built to honor the Lord."

23

² He also summoned all the leaders of Israel, the priests, and the Levites.

³ The Levites over thirty years old were counted, and there was 38,000 in total.

⁴ “Of these 24,000 will be in charge of the work of the house of the LORD, while 6,000 will be officers and judges,” David instructed.

⁵ “And 4,000 will be gatekeepers, while 4,000 will praise the Lord using the musical instruments I have provided for praise worship.”

⁸ The sons of Ladan: Jehiel (chief), and Zetham, and Joel, three in total.

¹² The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel—a total of four.

¹³ The sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Aaron was dedicated to service with the most holy things, that he and his sons should always present offerings to the Lord, and minister before him, and give blessings in his name forever.

¹⁴ As for Moses, the man of God, his sons were included with the tribe of Levi.

¹⁵ The sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer.

¹⁶ The sons of Gershom: Shebuel (chief).

¹⁷ The sons of Eliezer: Rehabiah (chief). Eliezer had no other sons, but Rehabiah had many sons.

¹⁸ The sons of Izhar: Shelomith (chief).

¹⁹ The sons of Hebron: Jeriah (chief), Amariah (second), Jahaziel (third), and Jekameam (fourth).

²⁰ The sons of Uzziel: Micah (chief) and Isshiah (second).

²¹ The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli: Eleazar and Kish.

²² Eleazar died without having sons, only daughters. Their cousins, the sons of Kish, married them.

²³ The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth—three in total.

²⁴ These were the descendants of Levi by family, the heads of families chiefs listed individually by name—those twenty years of age or more who served in the house of the Lord.

²⁵ For David said, “The Lord, the God of Israel, has given peace to his people, and he will live in Jerusalem forever.

²⁶ So the Levites don't need to carry the Tent any longer, or anything needed for its service.”

²⁷ In accordance with David's final instructions, Levites twenty years of age or more were counted.

²⁸ Their assignment was to help the descendants of Aaron with the service of the house of the Lord. They were responsible for the courtyards and rooms, for cleansing all the holy things, and the work of the service of the house of God.

* 23:10 “Zizah”: as per the Septuagint and Vulgate, Hebrew reads “Zina” (but note the following verse).

³⁰ They also had to stand every morning to give thanks and praise to the Lord, and do the same in the evening,

³¹ and whenever burnt offerings were presented to the Lord whether on Sabbaths, new moons, and feast days. They were to serve regularly before the Lord according to the number required for them.

³² So the Levites were to carry out the responsibility of caring for the Tent of Meeting and the sanctuary, and with their brothers the descendants of Aaron, they served the house of the Lord.

² But Nadab and Abihu died before their father did, and they had no sons. Only Eleazar and Ithamar carried on as priests.

³ With the help of Zadok, a descendant of Eleazar, and Ithamar, a descendant Ahimelech, David placed them in divisions according to their appointed duties.

⁵ They were divided by casting lots, without preference, for there were officers of the sanctuary and officers of God from both the sons of Eleazar and the sons of Ithamar.

⁶ Shemaiah son of Nethanel, a Levite, was the secretary. He wrote down the names and assignments in the presence of the king, the officials, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the family leaders of the priests and Levites. One family from Eleazar and one from Ithamar were chosen in turn.

⁷ The first lot fell to Jehoiarib. The second to Jedaiah.

⁸ The third to Harim. The fourth to Seorim.

⁹ The fifth to Malkijah. The sixth to Mijamin.

¹⁰ The seventh to Hakkoz. The eighth to Abijah.

¹¹ The ninth to Jeshua. The tenth to Shecaniah.

¹² The eleventh to Eliashib. The twelfth to Jakim.

¹³ The thirteenth to Huppah. The fourteenth to Jeshebeab.

¹⁴ The fifteenth to Bilgah. The sixteenth to Immer.

¹⁵ The seventeenth to Hezir. The eighteenth to Happizzel.

¹⁶ The nineteenth to Pethahiah. The twentieth to Jehezkel.

¹⁷ The twenty-first to Jakin. The twenty-second to Gamul.

¹⁸ The twenty-third to Delaiah. The twenty-fourth to Maaziah.

¹⁹ This was the order in which each group were to serve when they came into the house of the Lord, following the procedure defined for them by their forefather Aaron, as instructed by the Lord, the God of Israel.

²⁰ These were the rest of the sons of Levi: from the sons of Amram: Shubael; from the sons of Shubael: Jehdeiah.

²² From the Izharites: Shelomoth;

from the sons of Shelomoth: Jahath.

²³ The sons of Hebron: Jeriah (first), Amariah (second), Jahaziel (third), and Jekameam (fourth).

²⁶ The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The son of Jaaziah: Beno.

²⁸ From Mahli: Eleazar, who did not have any sons.

²⁹ From Kish: the son of Kish, Jerahmeel.

³⁰ The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth.

These were the sons of the Levites, according to their families.

³¹ They also cast lots in the same way their relatives the descendants of Aaron did. They did this in the presence of King David, and of Zadok, Ahimelech, and the family leaders of the priests and of the Levites, the family leaders and their youngest brothers alike.

¹ David and the leaders of the Levites* chose men from the families of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun to serve by prophesying accompanied by lyres, harps, and cymbals. Here is the list of those who performed this service:

² From the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asarelah. These sons of Asaph were under the supervision of Asaph, who prophesied under the supervision of the king.

³ From the sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiah, Shimei, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, six in total, under the supervision of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied accompanied by the harp, giving thanks and praise to the Lord.

⁵ All these sons of Heman, the king's seer, were given to him through the promises of God to honor him, for God gave Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

⁷ Along with their relatives, all of them trained and skilled in singing to the LORD, they totaled 288.

⁸ They cast lots for whatever responsibility they had, the least important equal to the most important, the teacher to the student.

¹⁰ The third fell to Zaccur, his sons, and his brothers, 12 in total.

* 25:1 "Leaders of the Levites": Many translations render this as "army commanders," which seems a strange kind of role for them here. However, the word is also used for leaders of a gathering of Levites (see for example Numbers 4:3; Numbers 8:24-25). See also 15:16 in this book for a similar description.

- ¹¹ The fourth fell to Izri, his sons, and his brothers, 12 in total.

²⁹ The twenty-second fell to Giddalti, his sons and his brothers, 12 in total.
³⁰ The twenty-third fell to Mahazioth, his sons and his brothers, 12 in total.
³¹ The twenty-fourth fell to Romamti-Ezer, his sons and his brothers, 12 in total.

- ¹ This is a list of the divisions of the gatekeepers. From the Korahites: Meshelemiah son of Kore, one of the sons of Asaph.
³ Elam (fifth), Jehohanan (sixth), and Eliehoenai (seventh).
⁴ The sons of Obed-edom: Shemaiah (first), Jehozabad (second), Joah (third), Sacar (fourth), Nethanel (fifth),
⁵ Ammiel (sixth), Issachar (seventh), and Peullethai (eighth), for God had blessed Obed-edom.
⁶ Shemaiah, Obed-edom's son, had sons who were capable leaders and had great authority in their father's family
⁷ The sons of Shemaiah: Othni, Rephael, Obed, and Elzabad. His relatives, Elihu and Semakiah, were also capable men.
⁸ All these descendants of Obed-edom, plus their sons and grandsons, a total of sixty-two, were capable men, well qualified for their service.
⁹ Meshelemiah's eighteen sons and brothers were also capable men.
¹⁰ Hosah, one of the sons of Merari, made Shimri as leader among his sons, though he was not the firstborn.
¹¹ His other sons included Hilkiah (second), Tebaliah (third), and Zechariah (fourth). The total of Hosah's sons and relatives was thirteen.
¹³ Every gate was assigned by lot to different families, the least important equal to the most important.

¹⁴ The lot for the east gate fell to Meshelemiah.* Then they cast lots for his son Zechariah, a wise counselor with insight, and the lot for the north gate fell to him.

¹⁵ The lot for the south gate fell to Obed-edom, and the lot for the storehouse fell to his sons.

¹⁶ Shuppim and Hosah received the west gate and the gate of Shallecheth on the road that leads up. They were always guarded.†

¹⁸ Six were on duty every day at the west gate, four at the main road, and two at the courtyard.

¹⁹ These were the divisions of the gatekeepers from the sons of Korah and the sons of Merari.

²⁰ Other Levites under Ahijah were in charge of the treasuries of the house of God and the treasuries of the what had been dedicated to God.

²² The sons of Jehieli, Zetham and his brother Joel, were in charge of the treasuries of the house of the Lord.

²³ From the Amramites, the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites:

²⁴ Shebuel, a descendant of Gershom, son of Moses, who was the chief officer in charge of the treasuries.

²⁵ His relatives by Eliezer were Rehabiah, Jeshaiiah, Joram, Zicri, and Shelomoth.

²⁶ Shelomoth and his relatives were in charge of all the treasuries for all that had been dedicated by King David, by the family leaders who were the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and by the army commanders.

²⁷ They dedicated a part of the plunder they had won in battle to help maintain the house of the Lord.

²⁸ Shelomoth and his relatives also looked after the gifts dedicated to the Lord by Samuel the seer, Saul son of Kish, Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah. All the dedicated gifts were the responsibility of Shelomoth and his relatives.

²⁹ From the Izharites: Kenaniah and his sons were given outside duties as officials and judges over Israel.

³² Among the relatives of Jerijah were 2,700 capable men who were family leaders. King David put them in charge of the tribes of Reuben and Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh. They were responsible for everything involving the Lord's work and the king's service.

* 26:14 See 26:2. The Hebrew here reads "Shelemiah." † 26:16 Literally, "guard of like guard." The meaning is uncertain.

27

³⁴ After Ahithophel came Jehoiada, son of Benaiah and Abiathar. Joab was the commander of the royal army.

28

² King David got to his feet and said, "Listen to me, my brothers and my people! I really wanted to build a house as a resting place for the Ark of the Lord's Agreement, as a footstool for our God. So I made plans to build it.

³ But God told me, 'You are not to build a house to honor me because you are a man of war who has spilled blood.'

⁴ However, the Lord, the God of Israel, chose me out of all my father's family to be king of Israel forever. For he chose Judah as the leading tribe, and from among the families of Judah he chose my father's family. From among my father's sons he was pleased to chose me as king over the whole of Israel.

⁵ From all my sons (for the Lord gave me many) the Lord has chosen Solomon my child to sit on the throne and to rule over the Lord's kingdom Israel.

⁶ He told me, 'Your son Solomon is the one who will build my house and my courts, because I have chosen him as my son, and I will be his father.'

* ^{27:24} They were however recorded in summary—see 21:5.

⁷ I will make sure his kingdom lasts forever if he single-mindedly keeps my commandments and regulations like he does today.

⁸ So now, in the sight of all Israel, the assembly of the Lord, and as God listens, be sure to obey all the commandments of the Lord your God so that you may go on possessing this good land and be able to pass it on as an inheritance to your descendants forever.

⁹ Solomon my son, get to know the God of your father. Serve him with complete dedication and with a willing mind, for the Lord examines every motivation and understands the intention of every thought. If you look for him, you will find him; but if you abandon him, he will reject you forever.

¹⁰ Pay attention now, for the Lord has chosen you to build a house for the sanctuary. Be strong, and take action!"

¹¹ Then David gave his son Solomon the plans for the Temple porch, its buildings, storehouses, upper rooms, inner rooms, and the room for the "place of atonement."

¹² He also gave him everything he had planned for the courts of the house of the Lord, for all the surrounding rooms, for the treasuries of the house of God and of those things that had been dedicated.

¹³ In addition he passed on instructions regarding the divisions of the priests and the Levites, for all the work of service of the house of the Lord, and for all that was used for worship in the house of the Lord.

¹⁴ He also laid down how much gold and silver was to be used in making the different objects used in every kind of service,*

¹⁵ the weight of the gold and silver lampstands and their lamps, depending on the use of each lampstand;

¹⁶ the weight of gold for each table of showbread, and the weight of silver for the silver tables,

¹⁸ the weight of the refined gold for the altar of incense; and lastly plans for a golden chariot of cherubim that spread their wings, covering the Ark of the Lord's Agreement.

¹⁹ "All this is in writing from the hand of the Lord, given to me as instructions—every detail of this plan," said David.

²⁰ Then David also told Solomon, "Be strong, be brave, and take action! Don't be afraid or discouraged, for the Lord God, my God, is with you! He will not let you down or leave you. He will make sure all the work for the service of the house of the Lord is finished.

²¹ The divisions of the priests and the Levites are prepared for all the service of the house of God. People will be willing to use their different skills to help you in all the work—the officials and all the people will do what you tell them."

¹ Then King David said to everyone gathered there, "My son Solomon, chosen by God alone, is young and inexperienced, and the work to be done is great because this Temple* will not be for man, but for the Lord God.

* 28:14 In the following verses there is much repetition so the translation has been simplified for clarity. * 29:1 "Temple": the word can also be translated as "palace" or "fortress."

² Using all my means I have provided for the house of my God—gold for the articles made of gold, silver for the silver, bronze for the bronze, iron for the iron, and wood for the wood; onyx stones and stones for settings: turquoise, different colored stones, every kind of precious stone; and plenty of marble.

³ More than this, because of my devotion to the house of my God, I'm now giving my personal fortune of gold and silver, in addition to everything that I have provided for this holy house.

⁴ 3,000 talents of gold—the gold of Ophir—and 7,000 talents of refined silver will go to cover the walls of the buildings,

⁵ gold for the gold work, and silver for the silver work, and for all the work done by the craftsmen. Now who willingly wants to commit themselves to giving to the Lord today?"

⁶ They gave willingly—the family leaders, those in charge of the tribes of Israel, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and the officials in charge of the king's work.

⁷ They gave to the service of the house of God 5,000 talents and 10,000 darics[†] of gold, 10,000 talents of silver, 18,000 talents of bronze, and 100,000 talents of iron.

⁸ Those who had precious stones gave them to the treasury of the house of the Lord, under the supervision of Jehiel the Gershonite.

¹⁰ Then David praised the Lord before the whole assembly:

"Praise to you, Lord, the God of Israel our father, for ever and ever!

¹¹ Lord, yours is the greatness, the power, the glory, the splendor, and the majesty, for everything in heaven and on earth is yours. Lord, yours is the kingdom, and you are admired as ruler of all.

¹² Riches and honor come from you and you reign supreme. You possess power and might, and have the ability to make people great and to give strength to all.

¹⁴ But who am I, and who are my people, that we are able to give as willingly as this? For everything we have comes from you—we are only giving back what you have given us.

¹⁵ In your eyes we are strangers and foreigners, just like our forefathers. Our time here on earth passes like a shadow, we have no hope of staying here long.

¹⁶ Lord our God, even all this wealth that we have provided to build you a house for your holy name comes from what you give, and it all belongs to you.

¹⁷ I know, my God, that you look on the inside and are happy when we live right. Everything I have given willingly and with an honest heart, and now I have seen your people here giving happily and willingly to you.

[†] 29:7 A daric was a Persian coin.

¹⁸ Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac, Israel, and our forefathers, please keep these thoughts and commitments in the minds of your people forever, and make sure they stay loyal[‡] to you.

¹⁹ Please also give my son Solomon a desire to whole-heartedly keep your commandments, decrees, and statutes, and to do all he can to build your Temple that I have provided for.”

²⁰ Then David said to everyone there, “Praise the Lord your God!” So everyone praised the Lord, the God of their fathers. They bowed down in reverence to the Lord and to the king.

²¹ The following day they presented sacrifices and burnt offerings to the Lord: one thousand bulls, one thousand rams, and one thousand lambs, with their drink offerings and plenty of sacrifices for all of Israel.

²² Then they ate and drank in the presence of the Lord with great happiness that day. They made Solomon, the son of David, king for a second time, and they anointed him as ruler for the Lord, and anointed Zadok as priest.

²³ So Solomon took the throne of the Lord as king in place of David, his father. He was successful, and all the Israelites obeyed him.

²⁴ All the officials and warriors, as well as all of King David's sons, gave a solemn promise of loyalty to King Solomon.

²⁶ So David, son of Jesse, ruled over all of Israel.

²⁸ David died at a good old age, having lived a long life, blessed with wealth and honor. Then his son Solomon took over and ruled in his place.

²⁹ Everything that King David did, from beginning to end, is written down in the Records of Samuel the Seer, the Records of Nathan the Prophet, and the Records of Gad the Seer.

³⁰ These include all the details of his reign, his power, and what happened to him, and to Israel, and all to the kingdoms of the neighboring countries.

[‡] 29:18 “Make sure they stay loyal”: literally, “from their heart.”

2 Chronicles

¹ Solomon, son of David, strengthened his hold over the kingdom, and the Lord God was with him and made him extremely powerful.

² Solomon sent for all the Israelite leaders, to the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges, and to every family leader.

³ Solomon went with the whole assembly to the high place at Gibeon, for this was the site of God's Tent of Meeting that Moses, the Lord's servant, had made in the wilderness.

⁴ David had brought up the Ark of God from Kiriath-jearim to the place in Jerusalem where he had set up a tent for it.

⁵ However, the bronze altar made by Bezalel, son of Uri, son of Hur, was there* in front of the Tent of the Lord, so that is where Solomon and the assembly went to worship.

⁶ Solomon went up to the bronze altar before the Lord, in front of the Tent of Meeting. There he presented one thousand burnt offerings.

⁷ That night God appeared to Solomon and told him, "Ask what you want me to give you."

⁸ Solomon responded to God, "You showed trustworthy love without limit to my father David, and you have made me king in his place.

⁹ Lord God, please keep the promise you made to my father David. You have made me king over a nation that has as many people as the dust of the earth.

¹¹ God told Solomon: "Because this is what you really wanted, and you didn't ask for wealth, possessions, or honor, or the death of those who hate you, or for a long life, but instead you asked for wisdom and knowledge so you can rule with justice my people that I have made you king over;

¹² wisdom and knowledge is given to you. I will give you wealth, possessions, and honor as well, much more than any king who came before you has had, or who comes after you will ever have."

¹³ Then Solomon returned to Jerusalem from the Tent of Meeting in Gibeon, and he ruled over Israel.

¹⁴ Solomon built up an army of chariots and horses. He had 1,400 chariots and 12,000 horses, which he placed in the chariot cities, and also with him in Jerusalem.

¹⁵ The king made silver and gold as plentiful in Jerusalem as stones, and cedar wood as plentiful as sycamore-figs trees in the foothills.

¹⁷ A chariot could be imported from Egypt for six hundred silver shekels, and a horse for a hundred and fifty. In the same way they exported them to all the Hittite kings and the Aramean kings.

* 1:5 In Gibeon. † 1:10 "Lead this people": literally, "go out and come in before this people."

² He allocated 70,000 men as laborers, 80,000 as stone cutters in the mountains, and 3,600 as foremen.

⁴ “Please do as you did with my father David when you sent him cedar timber for him to build a palace to live in. I’m about to start building a Temple to honor the Lord my God, dedicated to him, where he will be offered sweet-smelling incense, where the showbread will be always set out in rows, and where burnt offerings will be made every morning and evening, on the Sabbaths, at new moon festivals, and at the feasts of the Lord our God—this to be done forever in Israel.

⁵ This Temple I am about to build must be impressive, because our God is greater than all gods.

⁶ But who can build a Temple for him to live in, for the heavens, even highest heaven, cannot contain him, and who am I that I should dare to build him a house, except to burn incense to him?

⁷ So please send me a master craftsman who is skilled in working with gold, silver, bronze, and iron; and in purple, scarlet, and blue fabrics. He must also know how to engrave, working together with my expert craftsmen from Judea and Jerusalem provided by my father David.

⁸ Also send me cedar, cypress, and algum timber from Lebanon, for I know that your workers are skillful in cutting down the trees of Lebanon. I will send men to help your workers

⁹ to produce a large quantity of timber because the Temple I’m building will be really large and very impressive.

¹⁰ I will pay your workers, the wood-cutters, 20,000 cors of crushed wheat, 20,000 cors of barley, 20,000 baths of wine, and 20,000 baths of olive oil.”

¹¹ King Hiram of Tyre responded to Solomon by letter: “It’s because the Lord loves his people that he has made you their king.”

¹² Hiram went on, “Praise the Lord, the God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth! He has given King David a wise son with insight and understanding who is going to build a Temple for the Lord and a royal palace for himself.

¹³ I’m sending you Hiram-Abi, a master craftsman who knows and understands what he’s doing.

¹⁵ Now my lord, please send to us his servants the wheat, barley, olive oil, and wine he spoke about.

¹⁶ We will cut all timber you need from Lebanon and take it to you by sea in rafts to Joppa. From there you can transport it to Jerusalem.”

* 2:1 The words “Temple” and “palace” translate the usual word for “house.” † 2:3 “Hiram,” here spelled “Hiram,” also 2:11. (See 1 Kings 5).

¹⁷ Solomon had a census taken of all the foreigners in the land of Israel, like the census his father David had conducted, and found there were 153,600.

¹⁸ He allocated 70,000 as laborers, 80,000 as stonecutters in the mountains, and 3,600 as foremen.

3

² Solomon began construction on the second day of the second month in his fourth year as king.

³ The size of the foundation Solomon laid for the Temple of God was sixty cubits long and twenty cubits wide, (according to the old cubit measurement).

⁴ The front porch that ran across the width of the Temple was twenty cubits long and twenty* cubits high. He covered the inside of the porch with pure gold.

⁶ He decorated the Temple with beautiful gems, and with gold he imported from Parvaim.

⁷ He covered the beams, thresholds, walls, and doors of the Temple with gold, and he carved cherubim on the walls.

⁸ He made the room of the Most Holy Place to correspond with the width of the Temple—twenty cubits long and twenty cubits wide. He covered the interior with six hundred talents of fine gold.

⁹ The weight of the nails was one shekel for every fifty shekels of gold.†

¹⁰ He made for the Most Holy Place two wooden cherubim covered with gold.

¹³ So the wingspan of these cherubim together was twenty cubits. They stood on their feet, facing the main room.

¹⁴ He made the veil‡ of blue, purple, and crimson embroidery on fine linen, with images of cherubim on it.

¹⁵ He made two columns for the front of the Temple, thirty-five cubits, each having a capital five cubits high.

* 3:4 The Hebrew reads “one hundred and twenty” but this is surely a scribal error, since the height of the main Temple according to 1 Kings 6:2 was 30 cubits. † 3:9 “One shekel for every fifty shekels of gold”: Septuagint reading. ‡ 3:14 “Veil”: a curtain separating the Most Holy Place from the main room.

¹⁶ He made chains like in the Most Holy Place and he placed them on top of the columns. He also made one hundred ornamental pomegranates and attached them to each chain. §

¹⁷ He set up the columns in front of the Temple, one on the south, and one on the north. The column on the south he named Jachin, and the column on the north he named Boaz.

4

¹ Solomon made a bronze altar twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide, and ten cubits high.

² He made a "Sea" from cast metal,* ten cubits in diameter, five cubits in height, and thirty cubits in circumference.

³ Below it were ornamental bulls† all around it, ten per cubit. They were in two rows when it was all cast.

⁴ The Sea was supported by twelve statues of bulls three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, and three facing east. The Sea was placed on them, with their rears toward the center.

⁵ It was as thick as the width of a hand, and its edge was like the flared edge of a cup or a lily flower. It held three thousand baths.‡

⁶ He also made ten basins on carts for washing. He placed five on the south side, and five on the north. They were used for cleaning what was used in burnt offerings, but the Sea was used by the priests for washing.

⁷ He made ten gold lampstands as had been specified,§ and placed them in the Temple, five on the south side and five on the north.

⁸ In addition he made ten tables and placed them in the Temple, five on the south side and five on the north. He also made a hundred gold basins.

⁹ Solomon also built a courtyard of the priests, and the large courtyard and doors for the courtyard, and he covered the doors with bronze.

¹⁰ He placed the Sea on the south side, by the southeast corner.

¹¹ Hiram also made the pots, shovels, and basins. Hiram completed the work that he had been doing for King Solomon on the Temple of God:

¹² the two columns; the two bowl-shaped capitals on top of the columns; the two sets of network* that covered both bowls of the capitals on top of the columns;

¹³ the four hundred ornamental pomegranates for the two sets of network—two rows of pomegranates for each network covering both the bowl-shaped capitals on top of the columns;

¹⁴ the water carts and the basins on the water carts;

¹⁵ the Sea and the twelve bull statues that supported it; the pots, shovels, forks, and everything else.

¹⁶ All the metalwork Hiram made for King Solomon for the house of the Lord was of polished bronze.

§ 3:16 It seems there were four chains each holding one hundred ornamental pomegranates (see 4:13, 1 Kings 7:42). * 4:2 This was a large basin filled with water. The metal used was probably bronze, but is not specifically identified as such in the text. † 4:3 See 1 Kings 7:24 which reads "gourds." ‡ 4:5 See 1 Kings 7:26 which lists the capacity as two thousand baths. § 4:7 See 1 Chronicles 28:15. * 4:12 Presumably a network of chains, already mentioned.

¹⁸ Solomon made so many of these things that the weight of the bronze used could not be measured.

¹⁹ Solomon also made everything used in the Temple of God: the golden altar; the tables where the Bread of the Presence was displayed;

²⁰ the lampstands of pure gold and their lamps that were to burn in front of the Most Holy Place as specified;

²¹ the decorative flowers, lamps, and tongs—all made of solid gold;

5

¹ Once Solomon had finished all the work on the house of the Lord, he brought the holy items of his father David had dedicated—the silver, the gold, and all the various worship items—and he placed them in the treasuries of God's Temple.

² Then Solomon summoned to Jerusalem the elders of Israel—all the heads of the tribes and family leaders of the Israelites—to bring the Ark of the Lord's Agreement from Zion, the City of David.

⁵ The priests and Levites brought up the Ark, the Tent of Meeting, were with him were there in front of the Ark.

⁶ They sacrificed so many sheep and cattle that they couldn't be counted!

⁸ The cherubim were spreading their wings over the place where the Ark was, so that the cherubim made a covering above the Ark and its poles.

⁹ The poles were so long that their ends could be seen from the Holy Place in front of the Most Holy Place, but not from outside. They are there to this day.

¹⁰ Inside the Ark there was nothing except the two stone tablets that Moses had placed in it at Mount Sinai,[†] where the Lord had made an agreement with the people of Israel when they came out of Egypt.

¹³ The trumpeters and singers joined together with one voice to praise and thank the Lord. Accompanied by trumpets, cymbals, and musical instruments, the singers raised their voices, praising the Lord: "For he is good; his trustworthy love lasts forever."

Then the Temple, the house of the Lord, was filled with a cloud.

* 5:3 The Festival of Shelters. † 5:10 "Mount Sinai": literally, "Horeb," an alternative name.

¹⁴ The priests could not stand up to continue with the service because of the cloud, for the glory of the Lord had filled the Temple of God.

6

² However, I have built you a magnificent Temple, a place for you to live forever."

³ Then the king turned and blessed the whole assembly of Israel, as they all stood.

⁴ He said, "Praise the Lord God of Israel, who has kept the promise he made to my father David when he said,

⁵ 'Ever since the day I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I have not chosen a town from any tribe of Israel where a Temple could be built to honor me, and I have not chosen anyone to be ruler over my people Israel.

⁶ But now I have chosen Jerusalem so that I will be honored there, and I have chosen David to rule over my people Israel.'

⁷ My father David really wanted to build this Temple to honor the Lord, the God of Israel.

⁸ But the Lord told my father David, 'You really wanted to build me a Temple to honor me—and it was good for you to want to do this.

¹⁰ Now the Lord has kept the promise he made. For I have taken the place of my father, and I sit on the throne of Israel as the Lord said, and I have built the Temple to honor the Lord God of Israel.

¹¹ I have placed the Ark there, which has inside it the agreement the Lord made with the sons of Israel."

¹² Then Solomon stood in front of the altar of the Lord before the whole assembly of Israel and spread out his hands in prayer.

¹³ Solomon had made a bronze platform five cubits long, five cubits wide, and three cubits high. He had set it in the middle of the courtyard, and he was standing on it. Then he knelt down before the whole assembly of Israel, and spread out his hands toward heaven.

¹⁴ He said, "Lord God of Israel, there is no god like you in heaven or on earth, keeping your agreement of trustworthy love with your servants who follow you with complete devotion.

¹⁵ You have kept the promise you made to your servant, my father David. With your own mouth you made that promise, and with your own hands you have fulfilled it today.

¹⁶ So now, Lord God of Israel, please keep the promise you made to your servant David, my father, when you told him, 'If your descendants pay close attention to follow my way, and to keep my law as you have done, you will never fail to have one of them to sit on the throne of Israel.'

¹⁸ But will God really live here on earth among people? The heavens, even highest heaven, cannot contain you, much less this Temple I have built!

¹⁹ Please listen to the prayer of your servant and his request, Lord my God. Please hear the appeals and the prayers that your servant is presenting before you.

²⁰ May you watch over this Temple day and night, caring for the place where you said you would be honored. May you hear the prayer your servant prays toward this place, ²¹ and hear the request of your servant and your people Israel when they pray toward this place. Please hear from heaven where you live. May you hear and forgive.

²² When someone sins against another and is required to take an oath declaring the truth* before your altar in this Temple,

²³ listen from heaven, act and judge your servants. Pay back the guilty; vindicate and reward those who do right.

²⁴ When your people Israel are defeated by an enemy because they have sinned against you, and if they come back in repentance to you, praying for forgiveness in this Temple,

²⁵ then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your people Israel, and bring them back to the land you gave them and their forefathers.

²⁶ If the skies are closed shut and there is no rain because your people have sinned against you, if they pray toward this place and if they come back in repentance to you, turning away from their sin because you have punished them,

²⁷ then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your servants, your people Israel. Teach them the good way so that they can walk on it, and send rain on the earth that you have given to your people as their possession.

²⁸ If there is famine in the land, or disease, or blight or mildew on the crops, or if there are locusts or caterpillars, or if an enemy comes to lay siege to the towns in the land—it can be whatever kind of plague or whatever kind of disease—

²⁹ then whatever kind of prayer or whatever kind of appeal is made by anyone or all your people Israel, in fact anyone who, knowing their problems and pains, prays toward this Temple,

³⁰ then hear from heaven, the place where you live, and forgive. Give according to the way they live their lives, for you know what people are really like inside, and you alone know the true character of people.

³¹ Then they will respect you and follow your ways all the time they live in the land you gave to our forefathers.

³² As for the foreigners who do not belong to your people Israel but who come from a distant land, having heard of your great nature and power and ability to help, when they come and pray toward this Temple,

³³ then hear from heaven, the place where you live, and give them what they're asking. That way, everyone on earth will come to know and respect you, just as your own people Israel do. They will also know that this Temple I have built honors you.

³⁴ When your people go to fight against their enemies, wherever you send them, and when they pray to you towards the city you have chosen and the house I have built to honor you,

* 6:22 "Declaring the truth": implied.

³⁵ then hear from heaven what they are praying and asking for, and support their cause.

³⁶ If they sin against you—and there is nobody who does not sin—you may become angry with them and hand them over to an enemy who takes them away as prisoners to a foreign land, near or far.

³⁷ But if they think again in their land of captivity and repent and plead for mercy from you, saying, ‘We have sinned, we have done wrong, we have acted wickedly,’

³⁸ and they come back to you with complete sincerity in their thoughts and attitudes there in their land of captivity; and they pray towards the land you gave their forefathers and the city you chose and the Temple I have built to honor you,

³⁹ then hear from heaven, the place where you live, respond and support their cause. Forgive your people who have sinned against you.

⁴⁰ Now my God, please open your eyes, and may your ears pay attention to the prayers offered in this place.

⁴² Lord God, don’t reject the king you have chosen. Remember your trustworthy love for your servant David.’ ”[‡]

7

¹ When Solomon finished praying, fire came down from heaven and burned up the burnt offering and the sacrifices, and the glory of the Lord filled the Temple.

² The priests couldn’t enter the Temple of the Lord because the Lord’s glory filled the Lord’s Temple.

³ When all the Israelites saw the fire coming down and the glory of the Lord in the Temple, they knelt down and bowed their faces to the ground. They worshiped and praised the Lord, saying, “He is good! His trustworthy love lasts forever!”

⁴ Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices to the Lord.

⁵ King Solomon offered a sacrifice of 22,000 cattle and 120,000 sheep. In this way the king and all the people dedicated the Temple of God.

⁸ Then over the next seven days Solomon observed the feast* with all of Israel, a huge gathering that came from Lebo-hamath to the Wadi of Egypt.

[†] 6:41 Literally, “resting place,” but with the sense that this is the usual place where someone resides, hence “home.” [‡] 6:42 Verses 41 and 42 come from Psalms 132. * 7:8 The Festival of Shelters.

⁹ On the eighth day[†] they held a final assembly, for the dedication of the altar had lasted seven days, and the feast another seven days.

¹¹ After Solomon had finished the Temple of the Lord and the royal palace, having successfully accomplished everything he'd wanted to do for the Temple of the Lord and for his own palace,

¹² the Lord appeared to him at night and told him: "I have heard your prayer and have chosen this place for myself as a Temple of sacrifice.

¹³ If I were to close shut the sky so there is no rain, or command the locust to devour the land, or send a plague among my people,

¹⁴ and if my people who are called by my name humble themselves and pray and return to me, and turn away from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, forgive their sins, and heal their land.

¹⁵ Now my eyes will be open, and my ears will pay attention to the prayers offered in this place,

¹⁶ for I have chosen and consecrated this Temple so that I may be honored there forever. I will always watch over it and take care of it for it really matters to me.

¹⁷ As for you, if you follow my ways as your father David did, doing everything I've told you to do, and if you keep my laws and regulations,

¹⁸ then I will make sure your reign is secure. I made this agreement with your father David, telling him, 'You will always have a descendant to rule over Israel.'

¹⁹ But if you turn away and ignore the laws and the commandments I have given you, and if you go and serve and worship other gods,

²⁰ then I will pull you up from the land I gave you. I will banish from my presence this Temple I have dedicated to my honor, and I will make it an object lesson of ridicule among the nations.

²¹ This Temple that now is so respected will become so spoiled that passers-by will say, 'Why has the Lord acted in such a way to this land and this Temple?'

²² The answer will come, 'Because they abandoned the Lord, the God of their fathers, who brought them out of Egypt, and have clung to other gods, worshiping them and serving them. That's why the Lord has brought all this trouble upon them.' "

8

¹ It had taken twenty years for Solomon to build the Temple of the Lord and his own palace.

² Solomon rebuilt the towns Hiram had given him, and sent Israelites to live there.

⁴ He built Tadmor in the wilderness and also built all the storehouse towns in Hamath.

⁵ He rebuilt Upper and Lower Beth-horon, fortified cities with walls and barred gates,

[†] 7:9 The eighth day of the Festival.

⁶ and also Baalath. He built all the storehouse towns that belonged to him, and all the towns where he kept his chariots and horses. He built everything he wanted to in Jerusalem, Lebanon, and throughout his entire kingdom.

⁸ They were the remaining descendants of the peoples that the Israelites had not destroyed. Solomon made them work as forced laborers, as they are to this day.

⁹ But Solomon did not make any of the Israelites work as slaves. Instead, they were his military men, his officers, and commanders of his chariots and horsemen.

¹¹ Solomon moved Pharaoh's daughter from the City of David to the palace he had built for her. For he said, "My wife cannot live in the palace of David king of Israel, because wherever the Ark of the Lord has gone are holy places."

¹² Then Solomon presented burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar of the Lord he had built in front of the Temple's porch.

¹⁵ They followed David's instructions exactly regarding the priests, the Levites, and anything to do with the treasuries.

¹⁷ After this Solomon went to Ezion-geber and to Eloth on the coast of the land of Edom.

9

¹ The queen of Sheba heard how famous Solomon was, so she came to Jerusalem to test him with tough questions. She brought with her a very large entourage, with camels loaded with spices, large amounts of gold, and precious gemstones. She came to Solomon and asked him about everything she had on her mind.

² Solomon answered all her questions. There was nothing he couldn't explain to her.

³ When the queen of Sheba saw Solomon's wisdom, and the palace he had built,

* 8:10 "The people": or, "his workers."

⁵ She told the king, "It's true what I heard in my own country about your proverbs† and your wisdom!

⁶ But I didn't believe what they told me until I came and saw with my own eyes. In fact, I wasn't told the half of it—the extent of your wisdom far exceeds what I heard!

⁷ How happy your people must be! How happy those who work for you, who stand here every day listening to your wisdom!

⁸ Praise the Lord your God who is so pleased with you, who placed you on his throne as king to rule on his behalf. Because of the love of your God for Israel he has made them secure forever, and he has made you king over them to do what is fair and right."

⁹ She presented the king with one hundred and twenty talents of gold, huge amounts of spices and precious stones. Never before had there been spices like those the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon.

¹⁰ (Hiram and of Solomon's men, who brought gold from Ophir, also brought alnum wood and precious stones.

¹¹ The king used the alnum wood to make steps for the Temple and for the royal palace, and into lyres and harps for the musicians. Nothing like them had ever been seen before in the land of Judah.)

¹² King Solomon gave the queen of Sheba all wanted, whatever she asked for. This was far more than she had brought the king. Then she and her attendants returned home to her own country.

¹³ The weight of gold that Solomon received each year was 666 talents,

¹⁵ King Solomon made two hundred shields of hammered gold. Each shield required six hundred shekels of hammered gold.

¹⁶ He also made three hundred small shields of hammered gold. Each of these shields required three hundred gold coins. The king placed them in the Palace of the Forest of Lebanon.

¹⁷ The king also made a great throne of ivory, and covered it with pure gold.

¹⁹ Twelve lions stood on the six steps, one on opposite ends of each step. Nothing like this had ever been made for any kingdom.

²¹ The king had a fleet of ships from Tarshish crewed by Hiram's sailors. Once every three years the ships of Tarshish would arrive with a cargo of gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.

* 9:4 "She was so astonished": implied by the phrase (literally) "there was no longer breath in her." † 9:5 "Proverbs": literally, "words."

²² King Solomon was greater than any other king on earth in wealth and wisdom.

²⁴ Year after year, every visitor would bring gifts—articles of silver and gold, clothes, weapons, spices, horses, and mules.

²⁵ Solomon had four thousand stalls for horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen.[‡] He kept them in the chariot towns, and also with him in Jerusalem.

²⁶ He ruled over all the kings from the Euphrates River to the land of the Philistines, and to the border with Egypt.

²⁷ The king made silver as plentiful in Jerusalem as stones, and cedar wood as plentiful as sycamore-figs in the foothills.[§]

²⁸ Solomon's horses were imported from Egypt and from many other lands.

²⁹ The rest of the acts of Solomon, from start to finish, are written in the Records of Nathan the Prophet, in the Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the Visions of Iddo the Seer about Jeroboam, son of Nebat.

³⁰ Solomon ruled in Jerusalem over all of Israel for forty years.

³¹ Then Solomon died and was buried in the city of his father David. His son Rehoboam took over as king.

² Jeroboam, son of Nebat, was still in Egypt when he heard about this. (He had run away to Egypt to escape from King Solomon and was living there.)

³ The Israelite leaders sent for him. Jereboam and all the Israelites went to talk with Rehoboam.

⁴ “Your father placed a heavy burden on us,” they told him. “But now if you lighten the load your father imposed and the heavy demands he laid on us, we will serve you.”

⁶ King Rehoboam asked for advice from the elders who had served his father Solomon when he was alive. “How do you advise me to reply to these people about this?” he asked.

⁷ They replied, “If you treat these people well, and please them by speaking kindly to them, they will always serve you.”

⁸ But Rehoboam dismissed the advice of the elders. He instead asked advice from the young men who he had grown up with, and who were close to him.

⁹ He asked them, “What response do you advise that we send back to these people who have told me, ‘Lighten the burden your father put on us’?”

¹⁰ The young men who he had grown up with told him, “This is what you have to tell these people who said to you, ‘Your father made our burden

[‡] 9:25 “Horsemen”: or, “horses,” (the word in Hebrew is the same). However, since the number of stalls for the horses has already been given, it is more likely that this refers to horsemen. § 9:27 See 1:15.

heavy, but you should make it lighter.' This is what you should answer them: 'My little finger is thicker than my father's waist!

¹¹ My father placed a heavy burden on you, and I will make it even heavier. My father punished you with whips; I will punish you with scorpions.'

¹³ The king answered them sharply. Dismissing the advice of the elders,

¹⁴ he replied using the advice of the young men. He said, "My father placed a heavy burden on you, and I will make it even heavier. My father punished you with whips; I will punish you with scorpions."

¹⁵ The king did not listen to what the people said, for this change in circumstances was from God, to fulfill what Lord had told Jeroboam son of Nebat through Ahijah the Shilonite.

¹⁶ When all the Israelites saw that the king wasn't listening to them, they told the king: "What share do we have in David, and what part do we have in the son of Jesse? Go home, Israel! You're on your own, house of David!"

So all the Israelites went home.

¹⁷ However, Rehoboam still ruled over the Israelites who lived in Judah.

¹⁸ Then King Rehoboam sent out Hadoram, who was in charge of forced labor,* but the Israelites stoned him to death. King Rehoboam quickly jumped into his chariot and raced back to Jerusalem.

¹⁹ As a result, Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David to this day.

11

¹ When Rehoboam arrived in Jerusalem, he gathered the men from the households of Judah and Benjamin— 180,000 chosen warriors—to go and fight against Israel to bring the kingdom back to Rehoboam.

² But a message from the Lord came to Shemaiah the man of God that said,

³ "Tell Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, and of all the Israelites living in Judah and Benjamin:

⁵ Rehoboam stayed in Jerusalem, and he strengthened the defenses of the towns in Judah.

⁶ He built up Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa,

⁷ Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam,

⁸ Gath, Mareshah, Ziph,

⁹ Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah,

¹⁰ Zorah, Aijalon and Hebron. These are the fortified towns in Judah and in Benjamin.

¹¹ He strengthened their fortresses and put commanders in charge of them, together with supplies of food, olive oil, and wine.

¹² He stored shields and spears in all the towns and made them very strong. So he held Judah and Benjamin under his rule.

* 10:18 He was sent out to put down the rebellion.

¹³ However, the priests and Levites throughout Israel chose to side with Rehoboam.

¹⁵ Jeroboam chose his own priests for the high places* and for the goat and calf idols he had made.

¹⁶ Those from every tribe of Israel who were committed to worshipping their God followed the Levites to Jerusalem to sacrifice to the Lord, the God of their forefathers.

¹⁸ Rehoboam married Mahalath, who was the daughter of David's son Jerimoth and of Abihail, the daughter[†] of Eliab, son of Jesse.

¹⁹ She was the mother his sons Jeush, and Shamariah, and Zaham.

²⁰ After her he married Maacah Absalom's daughter,[‡] and she was the mother of his sons Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith.

²¹ Rehoboam loved Maacah Absalom's daughter more than all his other wives and concubines. He had a total of eighteen wives and sixty concubines, twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters.

²² Rehoboam made Abijah son of Maacah crown prince among his brothers, planning to make him king.

²³ Rehoboam was also wise to place some of his sons throughout the land of Judah and Benjamin, and to all the fortified towns. He gave them plenty of supplies and sought many wives for them. He worked to arrange many wives for them.

¹ Once Rehoboam was secure on the throne and was sure of his power, he together with all the Israelites abandoned the law of the Lord.

² In the fifth year of Rehoboam's reign, Shishak, king of Egypt, came and attacked Jerusalem because they had been unfaithful to God.

³ He came from Egypt with 1,200 chariots, 60,000 horsemen, and an army that couldn't be counted Egypt—Libyans, Sukkites, and Cushites.

⁴ He conquered the fortified towns of Judah and then approached Jerusalem.

⁵ Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and the leaders of Judah who had run for safety Jerusalem because of Shishak. He told them, "This is what the Lord says: 'You have abandoned me, so I have abandoned you to Shishak.' "

⁶ The leaders of Israel and the king admitted they were wrong and said, "The Lord is right."

⁷ When the Lord saw that they had repented, he sent a message to Shemaiah, saying, "They have repented. I won't destroy them, and I will soon save them. My anger won't be poured out on Jerusalem through Shishak.

* 11:15 "High places": associated with pagan shrines. [†] 11:18 Probably granddaughter. [‡] 11:20 Probably granddaughter.

⁸ Even so they will become his subjects, so that they can learn the difference between serving me and serving the kings of earth.”

⁹ King Shishak of Egypt attacked Jerusalem and took the treasures of the Lord's Temple and the treasures of the royal palace. He took away everything, including the gold shields that Solomon had made.

¹⁰ Later Rehoboam replaced them with bronze shields and gave them to be looked after by the commanders of the guard stationed at the entrance to the royal palace.

¹² Because Rehoboam repented, the anger of the Lord did not fall on him, and the Lord did not destroy him completely. Things went well in Judah.

¹³ King Rehoboam became powerful in Jerusalem. He was forty-one when he became king, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city the Lord had chosen from all the tribes of Israel where he would be honored. The name of his mother was Naamah the Ammonite.

¹⁴ But Rehoboam did what was evil because he did not commit himself to following the Lord.

¹⁶ Rehoboam died and was buried in the City of David. His son Abijah took over as king.

² He reigned in Jerusalem for three years. His mother's name was Micaiah, daughter of Uriel—she was from Gibeah. Abijah and Jeroboam were at war.

³ Abijah went out to fight with an army of 400,000 brave warriors, while Jeroboam opposed him with his army of 800,000 chosen warriors of great strength.

⁵ Don't you understand that the Lord, the God of Israel, gave the kingdom of Israel to David and his descendants forever by a binding agreement?*

⁷ Then some good-for-nothing evil men gathered round him and defied Rehoboam, son of Solomon, when he was young and inexperienced, and couldn't confront them.

⁸ Now do you really think you can oppose the kingdom of the Lord, held by David's descendants? You may be a large horde, and have with you the golden calves that Jeroboam made for you as gods.

⁹ But didn't you drive out the priests of the Lord, Aaron's descendants, and the Levites, and make priests for yourselves just like people in other nations do? Now anyone who wants to can come and dedicate himself, sacrificing a young bull and seven rams, and he can become a priest of things that really are not gods.

¹⁰ But for us, the Lord is our God! We have not abandoned him. We have priests serving the Lord who are descendants of Aaron, and we have Levites who help them in their ministry.

¹¹ Morning and evening they present burnt offerings and burn fragrant incense to the Lord. They place the rows of showbread on the purified table, and light the lamps of the gold lampstand every evening. We are doing what the Lord our God told us to do, while you have abandoned him.

¹² God is leading us! His priests blow their trumpets to go into battle against you. People of Israel, don't fight against the Lord, the God of your fathers, for you won't win!"

¹³ But Jeroboam had sent troops around to attack from the rear, so that while he and the main force was in front of Judah,[†] the ambush was behind them.

¹⁴ Judah turned around and realized that they were having to fight front and rear. They cried out to the Lord for help. Then the priests blew their trumpets, ¹⁵ and the men of Judah gave a loud shout. When they shouted, God struck Jeroboam and all Israel in front of Abijah and Judah.

¹⁶ The Israelites ran away from Judah, and God handed them over to Judah, defeated.

¹⁷ Abijah and his men hit them hard, and 500,000 of Israel's best warriors were killed.

¹⁹ Abijah chased Jeroboam and captured some towns from him: Bethel, Jeshanah, and Ephron, along with their villages.

²⁰ Jeroboam never regained his power during Abijah's reign. Eventually the Lord struck him down and he died.

²² The rest of what Abijah did—what he said and what he accomplished—is recorded in the history written by Iddo the Prophet.

14

¹ Abijah died and was buried in the City of David. His son Asa took over as king. For ten years of his reign the country was at peace.

² Asa did what was good and right in the Lord's sight.

³ He took down the foreign altars and high places, smashed their sacred pillars, and cut down the Asherah poles.*

⁴ He ordered Judah to worship the Lord, the God of their forefathers, and to observe the law and the commandments.

[†] 13:13 Here Judah refers to the southern kingdom, and Israel to the northern. * 14:3 Images dedicated to the Canaanite fertility goddess Asherah. Whether "pole" should be added is debated.

⁵ He also took down the high places and the incense altars from all the towns of Judah. Under his rule the kingdom was at peace.

⁶ Because the country was at peace he was able to rebuild the fortified towns of Judah. There were no wars during these years because the Lord had granted him peace.

⁷ Asa told the people of Judah, “Let us build up these towns and surround them with walls and towers and barred gates. The land is still ours, because we continue to worship the Lord our God. We worship him, and he has given us peace from all our enemies.” So they began the building projects, and completed them successfully.

⁹ Zerah the Ethiopian attacked them with an army of a thousand times a thousand[†] men and three hundred chariots, advancing as far as Mareshah.

¹⁰ Asa went out to confront him, lining up for battle in the Valley of Zephathah at Mareshah.

¹¹ Asa called out for help to the Lord his God: “Lord, there is no one apart from you who can help the powerless against the powerful. Please help us, Lord our God, for we trust in you. We have come against this horde because we stand for you,[‡] Lord. You are our God. Do not let a mere human being beat[§] you.”

¹² The Lord struck the Ethiopians in front of Asa and Judah, and the Ethiopians ran away.

¹³ Asa and his army chased them as far as Gerar. The Ethiopians were killed—there were none who survived, for they were caught between the Lord and his army. The men of Judah carried off a large amount of plunder.

¹⁵ Then they attacked the camps of the herdsmen and took many sheep and camels. Then they went back to Jerusalem.

15

² He went out to meet Asa and said to him, “Listen to me, Asa and all of Judah and Benjamin. The Lord is with you while you are with him. If you look for him, you will find him; but if you abandon him, he will abandon you.

³ For many years Israel was without the true God, without a priest to teach them, and without the law.

⁴ But when they were in trouble they returned to the Lord, the God of Israel—they looked for him, and they found him.

⁵ During those times travel was dangerous, for all the inhabitants of the lands were in great turmoil. People everywhere had terrible problems.

[†] 14:9 “Thousand times a thousand”: though this equates to one million, it may simply mean a very large number. [‡] 14:11 “Stand for you”: literally, “in your name.” In other words, Asa is saying that the battle is the Lord’s, not theirs.

⁶ Nation fought nation, and town fought town, for God threw them into a panic with all kinds of trouble.

⁸ When Asa heard these words of prophecy from Azariah the prophet, son of Oded, he was encouraged. He removed the vile idols from the whole territory of Judah and Benjamin and from the towns he had captured in the hill country of Ephraim. Then he repaired the altar of the Lord that stood in front of the porch of the Lord's Temple.

⁹ Then Asa summoned all of Judah and Benjamin, along with those Israelites from the tribes of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon who were living among them, for many people had deserted Israel and come over to Asa when they saw that the Lord his God was with him.

¹⁰ They gathered in Jerusalem in the third month of the fifteenth year of Asa's reign.

¹¹ That day they sacrificed to the Lord seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep from the plunder they had brought back.

¹³ They also agreed that anyone who refused to follow the Lord, the God of Israel, would be put to death, whether young or old, man or woman.

¹⁵ The whole of Judah was happy at the oath they had conscientiously sworn. They looked for him sincerely, and they found him. The Lord gave them peace from all their enemies.

¹⁶ King Asa also removed Maacah from her position as queen mother* for making an offensive Asherah pole. Asa cut down her vile idol, crushed it up, and burned it in the Kidron Valley.

¹⁷ While the high places were not removed from Israel,† Asa was completely devoted to the Lord all his life.

16

¹ In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign,* Baasha, king of Israel, invaded Judah. He fortified Ramah to stop anyone coming from or going to Asa, king of Judah.†

² Asa took the silver and gold from the treasuries of the Lord's Temple and the king's palace and sent them to Ben-hadad, king of Syria, who lived in Damascus, with a message that said:

³ “Make an alliance between me and you like the one between my father and your father. Look at the silver and gold I've sent you. Go ahead and

* 15:16 Actually she was Asa's grandmother. † 15:17 In 14:3 and 14:5 the removal of the high places is recorded. Of course this did not refer to Israel, the northern kingdom, but only the territory over which Asa had authority. * 16:1 Probably calculated from the beginning of the southern kingdom, rather than Asa's personal reign. See 1 Kings 15. This would also apply to the preceding verse. † 16:1 This action was presumably mainly to prevent the continued exodus of people to the southern kingdom.

break your agreement with Baasha, king of Israel, so that he will leave me and go home.”

⁶ So King Asa went with all the men of Judah, and they carried away from Ramah the stones and the timbers Baasha had used for building, and with them he built up Geba and Mizpah.

⁷ But right then Hanani the seer came to Asa, king of Judah, and told him, “Because you have put your trust in the king of Aram and have not put your trust in the Lord your God, your opportunity to destroy the army of the king of Aram has gone.

⁸ Didn't the Ethiopians and Libyans have a huge army with many chariots and horsemen? Yet because you trusted in the Lord, he made you victorious over them.

⁹ For the Lord looks all over the earth for the opportunity to show his power on behalf of those who are completely and sincerely devoted to him. You have acted stupidly in doing this. So from now on you will always be at war.”

¹⁰ Asa was angry with the seer. He was so angry with him over this that he put him in prison. At this same time Asa started to mistreat some of the people.

¹¹ The rest of what Asa did, from beginning to end, is written down in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

¹⁴ He was buried in the tomb that he had prepared for himself in the City of David. They placed him on a bed full of spices, perfumed oils, and fragrances. Then they made a great fire to honor him.

² He assigned troops to every fortified city of Judah and placed garrisons throughout Judah and in the towns of Ephraim that his father Asa had captured.

³ The Lord supported Jehoshaphat because he followed the ways of his father David. He did not believe in the Baals,

⁴ but worshiped the God of his father and obeyed his commandments, unlike what the kingdom of Israel was doing.

⁵ So the Lord made Jehoshaphat's hold on the kingdom secure, and all the people of Judah paid their dues to him. As a result he became very wealthy and highly honored.

⁷ In the third year of his reign, Jehoshaphat sent his officials Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah to teach in the towns of Judah.

⁸ He sent along with them Levites named Shemaiah, Nathaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah, and Tobadonijah, and with them the priests Elishama and Jehoram.

⁹ Taking with them the Book of the Law of the Lord they taught as they went around Judah. They visited all the towns of Judah, teaching the people.

¹¹ Some of the Philistines even brought him gifts and silver, while the Arabians brought him 7,700 rams and 7,700 goats.

¹² Jehoshaphat grew increasingly powerful, and he built fortresses and storehouse towns in Judah.

¹⁴ This is a count of them, according to their family lines: from Judah, the commanders of thousands: Adnah the commander, and 300,000 mighty warriors with him;

¹⁵ then Jehohanan the commander, and 280,000 with him;

¹⁶ then Amasiah, son of Zichri, who volunteered to serve the Lord, and 200,000 mighty warriors with him;

¹⁷ from Benjamin, Eliada, a mighty warrior, and 200,000 with him armed with bows and shields;

¹⁸ then Jehozabad, and 180,000 with him ready for battle;

¹⁹ These were the men who served the king, in addition those he assigned to the fortified towns throughout Judah.

18

² Some years later he went to pay Ahab a visit in Samaria. Ahab sacrificed many sheep and cattle for him and the people who accompanied him, and encouraged him to attack Ramoth-gilead.

³ Ahab, king of Israel, asked Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, "Would you go with me against Ramoth-gilead?" Jehoshaphat replied, "You and I are as one, and my men and your men are as one. We will join forces with you in this war."

⁴ Then Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, "But first though, please find out what the Lord says."

⁵ So the king of Israel brought out the prophets—four hundred of them—and he asked them, "Should we go up and attack Ramoth-gilead, or should I not?"

"Yes, go ahead," they replied, "for God will hand it over to the king."

⁶ But Jehoshaphat asked, "Isn't there another prophet of the Lord here that we can ask?"

⁷ "Yes, there's another man who could consult the Lord," the king of Israel replied, "but I don't like him because he never prophesies anything good for me—it's always bad! His name is Micaiah, son of Imlah."

"You shouldn't talk like that," said Jehoshaphat.

8 The king of Israel called over one of his officials and told him, "Bring me Micaiah, son of Imlah, right away."

9 Dressed in their royal robes, the king of Israel and King Jehoshaphat of Judah, were sitting on their thrones at the threshing floor beside the gate of Samaria, with all of the prophets prophesying in front of them.

10 One of them, Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah, had made himself iron horns. He announced, "This is what the Lord says: 'With these horns you will gore the Arameans until they're dead!'"

11 All the prophets were prophesying the same thing, saying, "Go ahead, attack Ramoth-gilead; you will be successful, for the Lord will hand it over to the king."

12 The messenger who went to call Micaiah told him, "Look, all the prophets are unanimous in prophesying positively to the king. So please make sure to speak positively like them."

13 But Micaiah replied, "As the Lord lives, I can only say what my God tells me."

14 When he came before the king, the king asked him, "Should we go up and attack Ramoth-gilead, or should I not?"

"Yes, go ahead and be victorious," Micaiah replied, "for they will be handed over to the king."*

15 But the king said to him, "How many times must I make you swear to tell me only the truth in the name of the Lord?"

16 So Micaiah answered, "I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains like sheep without a shepherd. The Lord said, 'These people have no master;† let each of them go home in peace.'"

17 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Didn't I tell you he never prophesies anything good for me, only bad?"

18 Micaiah went on to say, "So listen to what the Lord says. I saw the Lord sitting on his throne, surrounded by the whole army of heaven standing to his right and to his left.

19 The Lord asked, 'Who will trick Ahab, king of Israel, into attacking Ramoth-gilead so he will be killed there?'

One said this, another said that, and another said something else.

20 Finally a spirit came and approached the Lord and said, 'I will trick him.'

'How are you going to do that?' the Lord asked.

21 'I will go and be a lying spirit and make all his prophets tell lies,' the spirit replied.

'That will work,' the Lord responded. 'Go and do it.'

22 As you see, the Lord has put a lying spirit into these prophets of yours, and the Lord has pronounced your death sentence."

23 Then Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah, went and slapped Micaiah in the face, and demanded, "Which way did the Spirit of the Lord go when he left me to speak to you?"

24 "You'll soon find out when you try and find some secret place to hide!" Micaiah replied.

25 The king of Israel ordered, "Place Micaiah under arrest and take him back to Amon the governor of the city and to my son Joash.

* 18:14 Clearly there is something in the tone of this statement that led Ahab to respond as he did in the next verse. † 18:16 "No master": implying that their master is dead.

²⁶ Tell them these are the king's instructions: 'Put this man in jail. Give him only bread and water until my safe return.' "

²⁷ "If you do in fact return safely then the Lord has not spoken through me," Micaiah declared. "Pay attention everyone to all I've said!"

²⁸ The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, went to attack Ramoth-gilead.

²⁹ The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "When I go into battle I will be in disguise, but you should wear your royal robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself and went into battle.

³⁰ The king of Aram had already given these orders to his chariot commanders: "Head straight for the king of Israel alone. Don't fight with anyone else, whoever they are."

³² for when the chariot commanders realized that he wasn't the king of Israel, they stopped chasing him.

³³ However, an enemy archer shot an arrow at random, hitting the king of Israel between the joints of his armor by his breastplate. The king told his charioteer, "Turn around and get me out of the fight, because I've been wounded!"

³⁴ The battle lasted all day. The king of Israel propped himself up in his chariot to face the Arameans until the evening. But he died at sunset.

² Jehu, son of Hanani, the seer went out to face him. He said to King Jehoshaphat, "Why are you helping the wicked? Why do you love those who hate the Lord? The Lord is angry with you because of this.

³ Even so you've done some good things such as destroying the Asherah poles throughout the country, and you have made a sincere commitment to follow God."

⁵ He appointed judges throughout the country, in all of the fortified towns of Judah.

⁶ He told the judges, "Be careful about what you're doing as judges, because you're not looking for the approval of people, but the approval of the Lord. He is the One with you when you give your verdict.

⁷ So then, be sure to have reverence for God, obeying him and doing what he wants, for God does not permit any kind of injustice, favoritism, or bribery."

⁹ He gave them these orders, "You must honor God, and act with faithfulness and complete commitment.

¹⁰ In every case that comes before you from your people living in other towns, whether it involves murder or violations of the law, commandment, statutes, or judgments, you are to warn them not to offend[†] the Lord so that punishment does not come upon you and your people. If you do this you will not be held guilty.

¹¹ Amariah, the chief priest, will make the final decision for you in everything that relates to the Lord, and Zebadiah, son of Ishmael, the leader of the tribe of Judah, in all that relates to the king. The Levites will serve as officers to assist you. Be firm, and may the Lord be with those who do what is right."

² Some people came and told Jehoshaphat, "A large army is coming to fight you from Edom,[†] from the other side of the Dead Sea. They have already reached Hazazon-tamar," (otherwise called En-gedi).

³ Jehoshaphat was afraid, and went to ask the Lord what to do. He also ordered everyone throughout Judah to fast.

⁴ So the people of Judah gathered in Jerusalem to pray to the Lord—in fact, they came from all the towns of Judah to commit themselves to him.

⁶ and said, "Lord, God of our forefathers, aren't you the God of heaven? Don't you rule over all earthly kingdoms? You possess strength and power, and no one can stand against you!

⁷ Our God, didn't you drive out before your people Israel those who living in this land? Didn't you give this land to the descendants of your friend Abraham forever?

⁸ They are living in the land and have built a Temple for you here to honor you, saying,

⁹ 'If disaster strikes us, whether it's invasion or judgment, disease or famine, we will stand in front of this Temple and before you, for this Temple is yours. We will cry out to you to help us in our suffering, and you will hear us and save us.'[‡]

¹⁰ Look, here come the armies of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir; those very countries you did not let Israel invade when they came out of Egypt. Israel left them alone and did not destroy them.

* 19:8 Clearly the priests and Levites would have jurisdiction over religious law, while other leaders would be involved in civil disputes. The second mention of Jerusalem in the verse, together with the verses that follow, suggest that they were to operate as a national tribunal, a court of appeal. [†] 19:10 This would include such sins as perjury or bearing false witness. * 20:1 "Meunites": according to some manuscripts of the Septuagint. The Hebrew repeats the word "Ammonites." [†] 20:2 "From Edom," more likely than "from Aram," as most Hebrew manuscripts read. [‡] 20:9 See 6:24-30.

¹¹ See how they're rewarding us, coming to steal the land you gave us to possess forever!

¹² Our God, won't you punish them, because we don't have the power to confront such a great army that is marching against us? We don't know what to do. We're looking to you for help."

¹⁴ Then the Spirit of the Lord came over Jahaziel while he was standing there in the assembly. He was the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite from the descendants of Asaph.

¹⁵ He said, "Listen, everyone from Judah, people of Jerusalem, and King Jehoshaphat. This is what the Lord has to say to you: Don't be afraid or discouraged because of this large army. This isn't your battle—it's God's!

¹⁶ Tomorrow march down to face them. You will see them coming up the pass at Ziz—you'll find them at the end of the valley in front of the desert of Jeruel.

¹⁷ But you do not need to fight this battle. Just stand still and watch the Lord's victory. He is with you, Judah and Jerusalem! Don't be afraid or discouraged! March down to face them, for the Lord is with you!"

²⁰ They got up early the next morning and went to the desert of Tekoa. As they left, Jehoshaphat stood up and said, "Listen to me, people of Judah and Jerusalem. Trust in the Lord your God, and you will be vindicated; trust in his prophets, and you will be successful."

²¹ After discussion with the people, he appointed singers to praise the Lord for his glorious, holy goodness. They led the way at the front of the army, singing, "Praise the Lord, for his trustworthy love lasts forever!"

²² As soon as they started singing and praising, the Lord ambushed the men of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir who were coming to attack Judah, and they were defeated.

²³ The men of Ammon and Moab turned on the men from Mount Seir, killing all of them. Once they'd finished wiping out the army from Seir, they turned on each other, destroying themselves. §

²⁴ So when the men of Judah came to the watchtower in the desert, they looked out to see the enemy army and all they saw were corpses lying on the ground! No one had escaped.

²⁵ When Jehoshaphat and his people came to collect the plunder, they found a great deal of cattle, equipment, clothing,* and other valuable articles, more than they could carry. It took three days to collect the plunder because there was so much of it.

§ 20:23 "They turned on each other, destroying themselves": literally, "each helped his neighbor to destruction." * 20:25 "Clothing": Some manuscripts and the Vulgate. Most manuscripts have "corpses."

²⁶ On the fourth day they gathered in the Valley of Blessing. They gave it this name because this was where they blessed the Lord. It is still called the Valley of Blessing to this day.

²⁷ Then all the men of Judah and Jerusalem celebrated as they returned to Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat leading them, full of joy for the Lord's victory over their enemies.

²⁸ They entered Jerusalem and went straight to the Temple of Lord, accompanied by music from harps, lyres, and trumpets.

²⁹ All the kingdoms around were in awe of God when they heard that the Lord had fought against the enemies of Israel.[†]

³⁰ Jehoshaphat and his kingdom were at peace, for God gave him rest—there were no attacks from any direction.

³¹ So Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah, having become king when he was thirty-five years, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-five years. His mother's name was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi.

³² Jehoshaphat followed the way of his father Asa and did not turn away from it. He did what was right in the Lord's sight.

³³ However, the high places were not removed, and the people were not committed to the God of their forefathers.

³⁵ Later in his life, Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, allied himself with Ahaziah, king of Israel, who did wicked things.

³⁶ They agreed to work together and send ships to Tarshish.[‡] The ships were built in Ezion-geber.

³⁷ But Eliezer, son of Dodavahu of Mareshah, prophesied against Jehoshaphat, saying, "Because you have made an alliance with Ahaziah, the Lord will destroy what you're doing." The ships were wrecked and couldn't sail to Tarshish.

² His brothers, the sons of Jehoshaphat, were Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael, and Shephatiah. All were sons of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah.*

³ Their father had given them many gifts of silver and gold and valuable items, as well as the fortified towns in Judah; but he gave the kingdom to Jehoram because he was the firstborn.

⁴ But once Jehoram had secured the kingdom, he made sure of his position by killing all his brothers, along with some of the princes of Judah.

⁶ He followed the evil ways of the kings of Israel, and was as bad as Ahab, for he had married one of Ahab's daughters. He did evil in the Lord's sight.

[†] 20:29 See 17:10. [‡] 20:36 A joint trading venture. ^{*} 21:2 "Judah," following some Hebrew manuscripts, the Septuagint, and the Vulgate. Most Hebrew manuscripts have "Israel," perhaps reflecting the Chronicler's intent that Judah should be seen as being the real inheritor of the title "kingdom of Israel." Similarly verse 4.

⁷ However, Yet the Lord did not want to destroy David's line because of the agreement he had made with David, and he had promised that David's descendants would rule forever like an ever-burning lamp.

⁹ So Jehoram crossed into Edom with his officers and all his chariot army. The Edomites surrounded him and his chariot commanders, but he broke through during the night.[†]

¹¹ He also built high places on the mountains of Judah; he made the people of Jerusalem unfaithful to God and led Judah away from him.

¹² Jehoram received a letter from Elijah the prophet that said, "This is what the Lord, the God of David your forefather says, 'You have not followed the ways of your father Jehoshaphat, or Asa, king of Judah,

¹³ but instead you have followed the ways of the kings of Israel, and have made the people of Jerusalem unfaithful, and the people of Jerusalem as unfaithful as the family of Ahab. You have even killed your brothers, your father's family, who were better than you.

¹⁵ You yourself will be struck with a terrible illness—a disease of the bowels which will get worse day by day until they come out.' "

¹⁶ The Lord stirred up the hostility of the Philistines and of the Arabians (who live near the Ethiopians) against Jehoram.

¹⁷ They came and invaded Judah, and took away everything they found in the king's palace, along with his sons and his wives, so that only the youngest son Jehoahaz[‡] was left.

¹⁸ After all this, the Lord struck Jehoram with a disease of the bowels for which there was no cure.

²⁰ Jehoram was thirty-two when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eight years. When he died, no one mourned him. He was buried in the City of David, but not in the royal tombs.

² Ahaziah was twenty-two* when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for one year. His mother's name was Athaliah, the granddaughter of Omri.

[†] 21:9 The Hebrew is unclear as to whether this was a night attack, or merely that Jehoram escaped. In any event, the following verses reveal that the rebellion was not put down by Jehoram. [‡] 21:17 "Jehoahaz": also called Azariah. * 22:2 "Twenty-two": according to 2 Kings 8:26. Here his age is given in the Hebrew text as forty-two.

³ Ahaziah also followed the evil ways of the family of Ahab, for his mother encouraged him to do wicked things.

⁴ He did what was evil in the Lord's sight, just as the family of Ahab had done. For after his father's death they were his counselors, to his ruin.

⁵ He also followed their advice in joining with Joram, son of Ahab, king of Israel, in attacking Hazael, king of Aram, in Ramoth Gilead. The Arameans wounded Joram,

⁷ Azariah's downfall came from God when he went to see Joram. When Azariah got there, he went with Joram to meet Jehu, son[†] of Nimri. The Lord had anointed Jehu to destroy Ahab and his family.

⁸ While Jehu was carrying out judgment on the family of Ahab, he came across the leaders of Judah and Azariah's relatives[‡] who were assisting Ahaziah, and he killed them.

⁹ Then Jehu went looking for Ahaziah. His men found him in Samaria and captured him, and took him to Jehu where they killed him. They buried him, for they said, "He is the grandson of Jehoshaphat, who was completely committed to following the Lord." There was no one left from Ahaziah's family to rule the kingdom.

¹⁰ When Athaliah Ahaziah's mother found out that her son was dead, she proceeded to kill all who remained of the royal family of Judah.

¹ But in the seventh year, Jehoiada had the courage to act. He made a pledge with the commanders of hundreds: Azariah, son of Jeroham, Ishmael, son of Jehohanan, Azariah, son of Obed, Maaseiah, son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat, son of Zichri.

² They traveled all over Judah and brought together the Levites from all the cities of Judah and the family leaders of Israel. When they came to Jerusalem,

³ they all assembled at God's Temple and made a solemn agreement with the king.

Jehoiada announced to them, "Look, here is the king's son and he must reign, just as the Lord promised the descendants of David would.

⁴ Here's what you have to do. One third of you priests and Levites who enter on the Sabbath shall guard the entrances.

[†] 22:7 Actually "grandson." His father was Jehoshaphat. [‡] 22:8 "Azariah's relatives": Septuagint reading. See also 2 Kings 10:13. Hebrew: "sons of Ahaziah's brothers."

⁵ Another third shall go over to the king's palace, while the last third shall be at the Foundation Gate. Everyone else stay in the courtyards of the Lord's Temple.

⁶ No one should enter the Lord's Temple except the priests and those Levites are serving. They can enter because they have been made holy, but everyone else must follow the Lord's commands.

⁷ The Levites shall surround the king, weapons in hand. Kill anyone who enters the Temple. Stay close to the king wherever he goes."

⁸ The Levites and all the people of Judah did everything that Jehoiada the priest told them. The commanders each brought his men, both those coming on duty on the Sabbath and those going off duty, for Jehoiada the priest had not dismissed any of the divisions.

¹⁰ He placed them all, with their weapons in hand, to surround the king from the south side of the Temple to the north side, and near the altar and the Temple.

¹² When Athaliah heard the noise of people running and shouting praise to the king, she rushed to the crowds at the Lord's Temple.

¹³ She saw the king standing by his pillar at the entrance. The commanders and trumpeters were with the king, and everyone was celebrating and blowing trumpets as the singers with musical instruments led the praise. Athaliah ripped her clothes and screamed out, "Treason! Treason!"

¹⁷ Everyone went to the Temple of Baal and tore down its altars and smashed the idols. They killed Mattan, the priest of Baal, right in front of the altar.

¹⁹ He placed gatekeepers at the entrances to the Lord's Temple, so that no one unclean for any reason could enter.

²⁰ Along with the commanders, the nobles, the governors of the people, and all the people, he led the king in a procession down from the Lord's Temple through the upper gate to the royal palace. There they set the king on the royal throne.

²¹ All throughout the land people celebrated, and Jerusalem was at peace, because Athaliah had been killed by the sword.

* 23:11 "God's law": literally, "testimony."

24

¹ Joash was seven when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for forty years. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba.

² Joash did what was right in the Lord's sight during the lifetime of Jehoiada the priest.

³ Jehoiada arranged for him to marry two wives, and he had sons and daughters.

⁴ Some time later, Joash decided to repair the Lord's Temple.

⁵ He summoned the priests and Levites and told them, "Go to the towns of Judah and collect the yearly dues from everyone in Israel to repair the Temple of your God. Do it right away." But the Levites did not go right away.

⁶ So the king called for Jehoiada the high priest and asked him, "Why haven't you ordered the Levites to collect from Judah and Jerusalem the tax that Moses, the Lord's servant, and the assembly of Israel imposed to maintain the Tent of the Law?"*

⁷ (The supporters of that wicked woman Athaliah had broken into God's Temple and had stolen the holy objects of the Lord's Temple and used them to worship the Baals.)†

⁸ The king ordered a collection chest to be made and placed outside the entrance to the Lord's Temple.

⁹ A decree was proclaimed throughout Judea and Jerusalem to bring to the Lord the tax that Moses, the Lord's servant, imposed on Israel in the wilderness.

¹⁰ All the leaders and all the people were glad to do so and brought their taxes. They dropped them in the chest until it was full.

¹¹ Every so often the Levites took the chest to the king's officials. When they saw that it contained a large amount of money, the king's secretary and the chief officer of the high priest would come and empty the chest. Then they would carry it back to its place. They did this every day and collected a great deal of money.

¹³ The men doing the repairs worked hard and made good progress. They restored God's Temple to its original condition and strengthened it.

¹⁴ When they finished, they returned the money that was left to the king and Jehoiada, and with it utensils were made for the Lord's Temple, both for the worship services and for the burnt offerings, also bowls for incense and vessels of gold and silver. Burnt offerings were regularly offered in the Lord's Temple regularly throughout Jehoiada's lifetime.

¹⁶ He was buried with the kings in the City of David, for all the good he had done in Israel for God and his Temple.

¹⁷ But after the death of Jehoiada, the leaders of Judah came to swear their loyalty to the king, and he listened to their advice.

* 24:6 "Tent of the Law": or, "Tent of the Testimony." † 24:7 "Baals": different pagan gods.

¹⁹ The Lord sent prophets to bring the people back to him and to warn them; but they refused to listen.

²⁰ Then the Spirit of God came to Zechariah, son of Jehoiada the priest. He stood before the people and told them, "This is what God says: 'Why do you break the Lord's commandments so that you cannot be successful? Since you have abandoned the Lord, he has abandoned you.' "

²¹ Then the leaders hatched a plot to kill Zechariah, and on the orders of the king they stoned him to death in the courtyard of the Lord's Temple.

²² King Joash showed he had forgotten all about the loyalty and love shown to him by Jehoiada, Zechariah's father, by killing his son. As he died, Zechariah cried out, "May the Lord see what you've done and pay you back!"

²³ At the end of the year, the Aramean army came to attack Joash. They invaded Judah and Jerusalem and killed all the people's leaders, and sent all their plunder back to the king of Damascus.

²⁷ The story of the sons of Joash, as well as the many prophecies about him and about the restoration of God's Temple, are recorded in the Commentary on the Book of the Kings. His son Amaziah took over as king.

25

¹ Amaziah was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-nine years. His mother's name was Jehoaddan and she came from Jerusalem.

⁴ However, he did not kill their sons, as is written in the Law, in the book of Moses, where the Lord commanded: "Fathers must not be executed for their children, and children must not be executed for their fathers. Everyone is to die for their own sin."

⁵ Then Amaziah called up the people of Judah for military service, and assigned them by families to commanders of thousands and of hundreds. He also took a census of those twenty years of age and older throughout Judah and Benjamin, and found there was 300,000 first-rate fighting men who could use spear and shield.

⁶ He also hired 100,000 battle-ready fighting men from Israel for a hundred talents of silver.

⁷ But a man of God came to him and said, "Your Majesty, don't let this army of Israel join you, for the Lord is not with Israel, with these sons of Ephraim!"

⁸ Even if you fight bravely, God will let you stumble and fall before the enemy, for God has the power to help you or let you fall."

⁹ Amaziah asked the man of God, "But what about the hundred talents of silver I paid the army of Israel?"

"The Lord can give you much more than that!" replied the man of God.

¹⁰ So Amaziah dismissed the army he'd hired from Ephraim and sent them home. They became very angry with Judah, and returned home furious.

¹¹ Amaziah then bravely led his army to the Valley of Salt, where they attacked the Edomite army from Seir, and killed ten thousand of them.

¹² The army of Judah also captured another ten thousand, took them to the top of a cliff and threw them off, killing them all.

¹⁴ When Amaziah returned from killing the Edomites, he brought back the gods of the people of Seir and set them up as his own gods, worshiped them, and offered sacrifices to them.

¹⁵ The Lord became angry with Amaziah and he sent a prophet to him, who said to him, "Why would you worship the gods of a people who couldn't even save their own people from you?"

¹⁶ But while he was still speaking, the king said to him, "Have we made you a counselor to the king? Stop right now! Do you want to be struck down?"

So the prophet stopped, but said, "I know that God has decided to destroy you, because you have acted like this and have refused to listen to my advice."

¹⁷ Then Amaziah, king of Judah, took advice from his counselors and sent a message to the king of Israel, Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu. "Come and face me in battle," he challenged.

¹⁸ Joash, king of Israel, replied to Amaziah, king of Judah, "A thistle on Lebanon sent a message to a cedar on Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son for a wife,' but a wild animal of Lebanon passed by and trampled down the thistle.

¹⁹ You're telling yourself how great you are for defeating Edom, boasting about it. But just stay at home. Why should you stir up trouble that will bring you down, and Judah with you?"

²⁰ But Amaziah didn't listen, for God was going to hand him over to his enemies because he had chosen to worship the gods of Edom.

²¹ So Joash king of Israel prepared for battle. He and Amaziah, king of Judah, faced one another at Beth-shemesh in Judah.

²² Judah was defeated by Israel—they all ran away home.

²³ Joash, king of Israel, captured Amaziah, king of Judah, son of Joash, son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh. He took him to Jerusalem, and

²⁴ He carried away all the gold and silver, and all the articles found in God's Temple that had been looked after by Obed-edom and in the treasuries of the king's palace, as well as some hostages, and then returned to Samaria.

²⁶ The rest of what Amaziah did, from beginning to end, is written down in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

²⁷ After Amaziah gave up following the Lord, a plot was hatched against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish. But the plotters sent men to Lachish to hunt him down, and they killed him there.

²⁸ They brought him back by horse and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah.

² He rebuilt Elath and brought it back into the kingdom of Judah after Amaziah died.

³ Uzziah was sixteen when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for fifty-two years. His mother's name was Jecoliah and she came from Jerusalem.

⁵ He worshiped God during the lifetime of Zechariah, who taught him to respect God. As long as he followed the Lord, God made him successful.

⁶ Uzziah went to war against the Philistines, and he demolished the walls of Gath, Jabneh, and Ashdod. Then he built cities around Ashdod and in other Philistine areas.

⁷ God helped him against the Philistines, against the Arabians living in Gurbaal, and against the Meunites.

⁸ The Meunites* brought gifts as tribute to Uzziah. His reputation spread as far as the border of Egypt, for he became very powerful.

¹⁰ He also built towers in the desert and cut many water cisterns out of the rock, because he had a great deal of livestock in the foothills and on the plains. He had farmers and vineyard workers in the hills and in the fertile lowlands, for he loved the soil.

¹¹ Uzziah had an army of battle-ready soldiers, in divisions according to the numbers in the listing made by Jeiel the secretary and Maaseiah the official, under the direction of Hananiah, one of the king's commanders.

¹² The total number of family leaders was 2,600 fighting men.

¹³ Under their command was an army of 307,500 trained for battle, who had the power to help the king fight against the enemy.

* 26:8 "Meunites": Septuagint reading. Hebrew has "Ammonites."

¹⁵ He also made skillfully designed war machines to fire arrows and large stones from the towers and corners of the wall. His reputation spread far and wide, for he received extraordinary help until he became really powerful.

¹⁶ But because he was powerful he became arrogant, and this led to his ruin. For he was unfaithful to the Lord his God, and he himself entered the Lord's Temple to burn incense on the altar of incense.

¹⁷ Azariah the priest went in after him, with eighty brave priests of the Lord.

¹⁸ They stood up to him, and told him, "It's not your place to burn incense to the Lord. Only the priests, the descendants of Aaron, who have been set apart as holy may burn incense. Get out of the sanctuary, for you have sinned, and the Lord God will not bless you."

¹⁹ Uzziah, who was holding a censer in his hand to offer incense, became furious. But as he raged at the priests in the Lord's Temple in front of the altar of incense, leprosy appeared on his forehead.

²⁰ When Azariah the chief priest and all the priests looked at him and saw the leprosy on his forehead, they rushed him out. In fact he too was in a hurry to leave, because the Lord had struck him.

²¹ King Uzziah was a leper until the day he died. He lived by himself as a leper, barred from entering the Lord's Temple, while his son Jotham was placed in charge or the king's affairs and governed the country.

²² The rest of what Uzziah did, from beginning to end, was written down by the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz.

²³ Uzziah died and was buried near them in a cemetery belonging to the kings, for people said, "He was a leper." His son Jotham took over as king.

¹ Jotham was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in for Jerusalem sixteen years. His mother's name was Jerushah, daughter of Zadok.

² He did what was right in the Lord's sight as his father Uzziah had done, and he did not enter the Lord's Temple as his father had.* But the people still acted corruptly.

⁴ He built towns in the hill country of Judah, and fortresses and towers in the mountains and forests.

⁵ Jotham fought with the king of the Ammonites and defeated them. The Ammonites gave him every year for three years one hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand cors of wheat and ten thousand of barley.

⁶ Jotham grew powerful because he made sure what he did followed the ways of the Lord his God.

⁸ He was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for sixteen years.

⁹ Jotham died and was buried in the City of David. His son Ahaz took over as king.

* 27:2 "As his father had": implied.

28

¹ Ahaz was twenty when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for sixteen years. He did not do what was right in the Lord's sight as his forefather David had.

² He followed the example of the kings of Israel, and also cast metal idols for worshiping the Baals.

³ He burned sacrifices in the Valley of Ben Hinnom, and sacrificed his children in the fire, following the disgusting practices of the peoples the Lord had driven out before the Israelites.

⁴ He presented sacrifices and burned incense offerings on the high places, on the mountain tops, and under every living tree.

⁶ In just one day, Pekah, son of Remaliah, killed 120,000 fighting men in Judah, because they had abandoned the Lord, the God of their fathers.

⁸ The Israelites captured 200,000 of their "brothers"*—women, sons, and daughters. They also took a great deal of plunder and brought it to Samaria.

⁹ But a prophet of the Lord named Oded was there in Samaria, and he went out to meet the returning army. He told them, "It was because the Lord, the God of your fathers, was angry with Judah that he allowed you to defeat them. But you have killed them with such fury that it has upset heaven.

¹¹ Listen to me! Return the prisoners you've taken from your brothers, the fierce anger of the Lord is falling upon you!"

¹³ "Don't you bring those prisoners here!" they told them. "If you do you will only add to our sins and wrongdoing against the Lord. Our guilt is already great, and his fierce anger is falling upon Israel."

¹⁴ So the armed men left the prisoners and the plunder before the leaders and all the people gathered there.

¹⁵ The men named above got up and took clothes from the plunder to those that had none, gave them sandals to wear, and food and drink, and put olive oil on their wounds. Those who couldn't walk any more they put on donkeys, and took them all to Jericho, the town of palms, to be close to the people of Judah.‡

¹⁶ It was then that King Ahaz asked the king of Assyria for help.

* 28:8 "Brothers": the text does actually say brothers, to make the point that the people of Israel and Judah were related to one another. † 28:12 "Ephraim": meaning Israel. ‡ 28:15 "The people of Judah" added for clarity. The Hebrew simply says "their brothers."

¹⁷ The armies of Edom had once again invaded Judah and taken people prisoner,

¹⁸ while the Philistines had attacked the towns in the foothills and the Negev of Judah. They had captured and occupied Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, along with Soco, Timnah, and Gimzo and their villages.

²⁰ So Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, came to Ahaz but attacked rather than helped him.

²¹ Ahaz took what was valuable from the Lord's Temple, the king's palace, and from his officials and gave them to the king of Assyria as tribute. But it didn't help him.

²³ He sacrificed to the gods of Damascus, whose army had defeated him, for he said to himself, "Since the gods of the kings of Aram helped them, I'll sacrifice to them so they can help me." But this led to the ruin of Ahaz and of all Israel.

²⁴ Ahaz took the sacred items from the Lord's Temple and smashed them to pieces. He barred the doors of the Lord's Temple and set up pagan altars on every corner in Jerusalem.

²⁶ The rest of what Ahaz did, from beginning to end, is written down in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

²⁷ Ahaz died, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem. They did not bury him in the tombs of the kings of Israel. Hezekiah his son took over as king.

¹ Hezekiah was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-nine years. His mother's name was Abijah, the daughter of Zechariah.

² He did what was right in the Lord's sight, just as his forefather David had done.

⁴ He summoned the priests and the Levites, and had them gather on the square to the east.*

⁵ He told them, "Listen to me, Levites. Purify yourselves now and purify the Temple of the Lord, the God of your forefathers. Take away from the Holy Place everything that is filthy.†

⁶ For our fathers were sinful, and did what was evil in the Lord's sight. They abandoned him and paid no attention to the Lord's Temple, turning their backs on him.

⁷ They shut the doors at the entrance to the Temple and put out the lamps. They didn't burn incense or present burnt offerings at the sanctuary of the God of Israel.

* 29:4 To the east of the Temple. † 29:5 "Filthy": this is not so much concerned with cleaning, but removing anything related to idol worship.

⁸ So the Lord's anger fell on Judah and Jerusalem, and he made them into something appalling, terrifying, and ridiculous, as you can see for yourselves.

¹⁰ But now I'm going to make an agreement with the Lord, the God of Israel, so that his fierce anger will no longer fall on us.

¹¹ My sons, don't neglect your responsibilities, for the Lord has chosen you to stand in his presence to serve him, and to be his ministers presenting burnt offerings."

¹² Then the Levites went to work. They were Mahath, son of Amasai, and Joel, son of Azariah, from the Kohathites; Kish, son of Abdi, and Azariah, son of Jehallelel, from the Merarites; Joah, son of Zimmah, and Eden, son of Joah, from the Gershonites;

¹³ from the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeiel; and from the sons of Asaph, Zechariah and Mattaniah;

¹⁴ from the sons of Heman, Jehiel and Shimei; and from the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah and Uzziel.

¹⁵ They called together the other Levites and all of them purified themselves. Then they went in to clean the Lord's Temple, as the king had commanded, following the instructions as required by the Lord.

¹⁷ They started the work of purification on the first day of the first month, and by the eighth day of the month they had reached the Temple porch. For eight more days they worked on purifying the Temple itself, and finished on the sixteenth day of the first month.

¹⁸ Then they went in to tell King Hezekiah, "We have cleaned the entire Temple of the Lord, the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the table of the showbread with all its utensils.

¹⁹ We have recovered and purified all the items that King Ahaz threw away during his reign when he was unfaithful. They are now before the Lord's altar."

²⁰ King Hezekiah got up early, summoned the city officials, and went to the Lord's Temple.

²³ Then they brought the goats for the sin offering before the king and the assembly, who placed their hands on them.

²⁴ Then the priests killed the goats and placed their blood on the altar for a sin offering, to make atonement for the whole of Israel, because the king had ordered that the burnt offering and sin offering were for the whole of Israel.

²⁷ Then Hezekiah gave the order for the burnt offering to be offered on the altar. As the burnt offering began, the song of the Lord began at the same time, the trumpets sounded, and music was played on the instruments of David, once king of Israel.

²⁸ All the people in the assembly were worshiping, the singers were singing, and the trumpeters were playing. This continued until the burnt offering was finished.

³¹ Then Hezekiah told them, "Now that you have dedicated yourselves to the Lord, come and bring your sacrifices and thank offerings to the Lord's Temple." So the people in the assembly brought their sacrifices and thank offerings, and everyone who wanted to brought burnt offerings.

³² The total number of burnt offerings they brought was seventy bulls, a hundred rams, and two hundred lambs; all these were to be a burnt offering to the Lord.

³⁴ Since there weren't enough priests to skin all the burnt offerings, their Levite relatives helped them until the work was finished and the priests had been purified. (The Levites had been more conscientious in purifying themselves than the priests had.)

³⁵ Apart from the large number of burnt offerings, there was the fat of the friendship offerings, as well as the drink offerings that went with the burnt offerings.

In this way the service of the Lord's Temple was restored.

³⁶ Hezekiah and everyone there were so happy at what God done for the people, because everything had been achieved so quickly.

30

¹ Then Hezekiah sent an announcement to everyone in Israel and Judah, and also sent letters to Ephraim and Manasseh,^{*} inviting them to come to the Lord's Temple in Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover of the Lord, the God of Israel.

² The king and his officials and the whole assembly in Jerusalem had decided to observe the Passover in the second month,[†]

^{*} 30:1 "Ephraim and Manasseh": by this time the northern kingdom of Israel no longer existed, having been destroyed and its people taken away as prisoners by the Assyrian king Shalmanesar. By his invitation Hezekiah is appealing for those who are left in the north to "return home." [†] 30:2 Deferring the Passover in special circumstances was permitted, see Numbers 9:6-11.

³ because they hadn't been able to observe it at the usual time since not enough priests had purified themselves and the people hadn't had time to get to Jerusalem.

⁴ The plan seemed right to both the king and the whole assembly.

⁵ So they decided to send an announcement to everyone in Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, inviting people to come and keep the Passover to the Lord, the God of Israel, in Jerusalem, for many had not done as the Law required.

⁶ So messengers went to all of Israel and Judah carrying letters from the king and his officials and with the king's authorization. They said, "Children of Israel, return to the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, so that he may return to you who are left, who have escaped the oppression of the kings of Assyria.

⁷ Don't be like your fathers and those of you who sinned against the Lord, the God of your forefathers. He made them into something horrifying, as you can see.

⁸ So don't be proud and obstinate like your fathers, but give yourselves to the Lord and come to his sanctuary, which he has made holy forever, and serve the Lord your God, that his fierce anger may no longer fall on you.

⁹ If you come back to the Lord, your relatives and children will receive mercy from their captors and will return to this land. For the Lord your God is gracious and merciful. He will not reject you if you come back to him."

¹¹ Only some men from Asher, Manasseh, and Zebulun weren't too proud to go to Jerusalem.

¹² At this time the power of God was helping the people in Judah to all have the same desire to follow the orders of the king and his officials, as indicated by the word of the Lord.

¹³ Many people gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Unleavened Bread in the second month—a really large crowd.

¹⁵ On the fourteenth day of the second month they killed the Passover lamb. The priests and Levites were ashamed,[‡] and they purified themselves and brought burnt offerings to the Lord's Temple.

[‡] 30:15 "Ashamed": perhaps because there had not been enough of them at the previous celebration, and that they had not take seriously the responsibility to purify themselves. Alternatively the devotion shown by those who were attending the Feast of Unleavened Bread may have prompted the priests and Levites to action.

¹⁸ Most of the people, many of those from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not purified themselves. Yet they ate the Passover meal even though this was not what the Law required, for Hezekiah had prayed for them, saying, “May the good Lord forgive everyone

²⁰ The Lord accepted Hezekiah’s prayer and permitted them this violation.[§]

²¹ The people of Israel who were there in Jerusalem celebrated the Feast of Unleavened Bread for seven days with great enthusiasm, and every day the Levites and priests praised the Lord, accompanied by loud instruments.

²² Hezekiah spoke positively to all the Levites who showed a good understanding of the Lord. For seven days they ate the food that was assigned to them, presented friendship offerings, and gave thanks to the Lord, the God of their forefathers.

²³ Everyone then agreed to continue to celebrate the festival for seven more days. So for another seven days they celebrated, full of joy.

²⁵ The whole assembly of Judah celebrated, together with the priests and Levites, and also with the whole assembly that had come from Israel, including the foreigners from Israel and those living in Judah.

²⁶ There was such tremendous happiness in Jerusalem, for since the time of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel, nothing like this had happened in the city.

²⁷ The priests and the Levites stood up to bless the people, and God heard them—their prayer ascended to where he lived in heaven.

¹ When all this had finished, the Israelites who were there went to the towns of Judah and smashed the pagan pillars, cut down the Asherah poles, and destroyed the high places and altars throughout Judah and Benjamin, as well as in Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had completely demolished all of them. After that they all went home to their respective towns.

² Then Hezekiah reallocated the divisions of the priests and Levites, each according to their service: presenting burnt offerings and friendship offerings, serving, giving thanks, and singing praises at the entrances of the Lord’s Temple.

³ The king contributed personally towards the morning and evening burnt offerings, and for the burnt offerings on the Sabbaths, new moons, and special feasts, as required by the Law of the Lord.

⁴ He also ordered the people living in Jerusalem to provide for the priests and Levites so that they could dedicate themselves to studying and teaching the Law of the Lord.

§ 30:20 “Permitted them this violation”: the word here is “healed,” but this is in a metaphorical sense, since they were not “sick.” It is in response to Hezekiah’s request that they would not be held guilty for breaking the ceremonial Law.

⁵ As soon as the message went out, the Israelites generously gave the firstfruits of the grain, new wine, olive oil, and honey, and of all the crops. They brought plenty, a tithe of everything.

⁶ The people of Israel now living in Judah, and the people of Judah brought a tithe of their herds and flocks. They also brought a tithe of what had been dedicated to the Lord their God, and piled them up.

⁷ They started doing this in the third month, and they finished in the seventh month.

⁹ Hezekiah asked the priests and Levites about what had been collected.

¹¹ Hezekiah ordered the construction of storehouses in the Lord's Temple. Once they were ready,

¹⁴ Kore, son of Imnah, the Levite, the gatekeeper of the East Gate, was responsible for receiving the freewill offerings given to God. He also distributed the offerings given to the Lord, together with the consecrated gifts.

¹⁵ Under him were his assistants Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah. They faithfully made the allocations to their fellow Levites in their towns, according to the priestly divisions, sharing equally with the old and young.

¹⁶ They also gave allowances to the males listed in the genealogy who were three years of age or older, to all who would enter the Lord's Temple to perform their daily duties of serving according to the responsibilities of their divisions.

¹⁷ They also gave allowances to the priests listed by family in the genealogy, and to the Levites twenty years of age or older, according to the responsibilities of their divisions.

¹⁸ The genealogy included all the babies, wives, sons, and daughters of the whole community, for they were faithful in making sure they dedicated themselves as holy.

¹⁹ In the case of the priests, the descendants of Aaron, those who lived on the farmlands around their towns, men were appointed by name in all the towns to distribute an allocation to every male among the priests and to every Levite as listed in the genealogies.

²⁰ This is what Hezekiah did throughout the whole of Judah. He did what was good, right, and true before the Lord his God.

²¹ In everything he did in working for God's Temple and in following God's laws and commandments, Hezekiah was sincere in his commitment to God. So he was successful in all he did.

² When Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come to attack Jerusalem,

³ he talked with his army commanders about blocking up the water sources that lay outside the city. This is what they did.

⁴ They directed a large group of workers to block all the springs as well as the stream flowing nearby. "Why should the kings of Assyria come here and find plenty of water?" they asked.

⁵ Hezekiah set to work and rebuilt all the parts of the wall that had fallen down and constructed towers on it. He also built another wall outside the first wall. He reinforced the Millo* in the city of David. He also made a large quantity of weapons and shields.

Then he summoned the people to gather in the square at the city gate. He spoke to them confidently, telling them, ⁷ "Be strong and be brave! Don't be afraid or discouraged because of the king of Assyria with his large army, for there are more with us than with him.

⁸ He has human help, but we have the Lord God on our side to help us and fight our battles." The people were encouraged by this speech of Hezekiah, king of Judah.

¹⁰ "This is what Sennacherib, king of Assyria, says. What are you going to trust in to help you survive when I come to attack Jerusalem?

¹¹ Can't you see that in reality Hezekiah is telling you to die from starvation and thirst when he tells you, 'The Lord our God will save us from the king of Assyria'?

¹² Wasn't it Hezekiah who destroyed the high places and altars of this god and told Judah and Jerusalem,[†] 'You must worship at this one altar, and offer sacrifices on it alone'?

¹³ Don't you know what I and my fathers have done to all the nations of the earth? None of their gods could save them or their lands from me!

¹⁴ Which one of all these gods of these nations that my fathers destroyed has been able to save them from me? So why would you think your god can save you from me?

¹⁵ So don't let Hezekiah fool you, and don't let him mislead you like this. Don't trust him, for no god of any nation or kingdom has been able to save their people from me or from my fathers. So it's even less possible for your god to save you from me!"

* 32:5 "Millo": the meaning of this term is uncertain, perhaps "terraces." See 1 Chronicles 11:8.

† 32:12 Some have argued that the Assyrians misunderstood the nature of Hezekiah's religious reforms. However, it may be that the removal of local "shrines," even those dedicated to the true God, was not appreciated by some since instead of worshiping locally they all had to go to Jerusalem. This may have caused resentment against Hezekiah which the Assyrians are trying to capitalize on.

¹⁷ Sennacherib also wrote letters insulting the Lord, the God of Israel, taunting him by saying, "In the same way the gods of the nations did not save their people from me, so the god of Hezekiah will not save his people from me either."

¹⁸ The Assyrians also shouted this out in Hebrew to the people of Jerusalem standing on the wall to frighten and to terrify them so that the city would be surrendered.

²⁰ King Hezekiah and the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz, appealed about this in prayer to the God of heaven.

²³ From then on he was very well respected by all the nations, and many brought offerings to Jerusalem for the Lord and valuable gifts for Hezekiah, king of Judah.

²⁴ Around that time Hezekiah fell sick and was about to die. So he prayed to the Lord, who replied by healing him and giving him a miraculous sign.*

²⁵ But because he had become proud, Hezekiah did not acknowledge the gift he'd been given. So the Lord's anger fell on him, and on Judah and Jerusalem.

²⁶ Then Hezekiah apologized for his arrogance, as did the people of Jerusalem, and the Lord's anger no longer fell on them during Hezekiah's lifetime.

²⁷ Hezekiah was very rich and highly honored, and he built treasury storerooms to hold silver, gold, precious stones, spices, shields, and all kinds of valuable things.

²⁸ He constructed buildings to store supplies of grain, new wine, and olive oil, and stalls for all kinds of animals, including cattle and sheep.

³⁰ Hezekiah blocked off the outlet of the upper Gihon spring and made the water flow down to the west side of the City of David. Hezekiah was successful in everything he did.

‡ 32:24 The sundial shadow moving backwards, see 2 Kings 20:8-11. § 32:31 See verse 24.

* 32:31 This is surely in reference to Hezekiah's previous pride and failure to acknowledge God's miracle on his behalf. Here in human language we see God making sure Hezekiah is no longer proud.

³² The rest of what Hezekiah did, including his acts of loyalty, are recorded in the vision of the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz, in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

³³ Hezekiah died and was buried in the upper cemetery of David's descendants. All Judah and the people of Jerusalem honored him at his death. His son Manasseh took over as king.

² He did evil in the Lord's sight by following the disgusting religious practices of the nations that the Lord had driven out before the Israelites.

³ He rebuilt the high places that his father Hezekiah had destroyed, and he made altars for the Baals and set up Asherah poles. He worshiped the sun, moon, and stars and served them.

⁴ He built altars in the Lord's Temple, about which the Lord had said, "I shall be honored in Jerusalem forever."

⁵ He built these altars to worship the sun, moon, and stars in both courtyards of the Lord's Temple.

⁷ He took a pagan idol he had made and set it up in God's Temple, about which God had told David and his son Solomon, "I will be honored forever in this Temple and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen from all the tribes of Israel."

⁸ If the Israelites are careful to follow everything I have instructed them to do—all the laws, commandments, and regulations, given through Moses—then I will not make them leave the land I granted your forefathers."

¹⁰ The Lord warned Manasseh and his people, but they ignored him.

¹² In his misery, asked the Lord God for help, repenting for his arrogance before the God of his forefathers.

¹³ He prayed and prayed, and the Lord listened to his pleadings, so the Lord brought Manasseh back to Jerusalem and to his kingdom. Then Manasseh was convinced that the Lord is God.

¹⁵ He disposed of the foreign gods and the idol from the Lord's Temple, together with all the altars he had built on the Temple hill and in Jerusalem, throwing all of them outside the city.

¹⁶ Then he restored the altar of the Lord, and sacrificed friendship offerings and thank offerings on it, and he instructed Judah to worship the Lord, the God of Israel.

¹⁷ But the people still sacrificed on the high places, but only to the Lord their God.

¹⁸ The rest of what Manasseh did, along with his prayer to his God and what he was told by the seers who spoke on the Lord's behalf are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel.

¹⁹ His prayer and how God answered him, as well as all his sins and unfaithfulness, and where he built high places and set up Asherah poles and idols before he admitted he was wrong, are recorded in the Records of the Seers.

²⁰ Manasseh died and was buried at his palace. His son Amon took over as king.

²¹ Amon was twenty-two when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for two years.

²² He did evil in the Lord's sight just as his father Manasseh had. Amon worshiped and sacrificed to all the idols his father Manasseh had made.

²³ However, he did not admit his pride before the Lord as his father Manasseh had done—in fact Amon made his guilt even worse.

²⁴ Then Amon's officials plotted against him and killed him in his palace.

²⁵ But the people of the land* killed everyone who had plotted against King Amon, and they made his son Josiah king.

34

⁵ He burned the bones of the idolatrous priests on their altars. In this way he cleansed Judah and Jerusalem.

⁷ He tore down the altars and crushed the Asherah poles and the images to dust, and cut down all the incense altars across the whole land of Israel. Then he went back to Jerusalem.

* 33:25 "People of the land": nothing more specific is given, but this could refer to land-owning nobles. If so, they probably were regents during the time Josiah was a child. * 34:6 "And in their surrounding areas": as one ancient version. Another possibility is "and in their ruins," on account of the destruction caused by the Assyrian invasion.

⁸ In the eighteenth year of his reign, once he had finished cleansing the land and the Temple, Josiah sent Shaphan, son of Azaliah, Maaseiah the city governor, and Joah, son of Joahaz, the record-keeper, to repair the Temple of the Lord his God.

⁹ They went to Hilkiah the high priest and gave him the money that had been brought to God's Temple. The Levites at the entrances had collected this money from the people of Manasseh and Ephraim, from what was left of the people of Israel, as well as contributions from Judah, Benjamin, and the people of Jerusalem.

¹⁰ They handed it over to those who were supervising the repair work on Lord's Temple, who in turn paid the workmen doing the restoring and repairing.

¹¹ They also paid carpenters and builders to buy cut stone, as well as timber for joists and beams for the buildings that the kings of Judah had let deteriorate.

¹² The men did good, honest work. In charge of them were Jahath and Obadiah, Levites from the sons of Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, Levites from the sons of the Kohathites. The Levites, all skilled musicians,

¹³ were in charge of the workmen and directed everyone involved, depending on what was required. Some of the Levites were scribes, some officers, and some gatekeepers.

¹⁴ In the process of taking out the money donated to the Lord's Temple, Hilkiah the priest discovered the Book of the Lord's Law written down by Moses.

¹⁵ Hilkiah told Shaphan the scribe, "I've found the Book of the Law in the Lord's Temple." He gave it to Shaphan.

¹⁶ Shaphan took the book to the king and told him, "We your servants are doing everything we were instructed to do.

¹⁷ The money collected at the Lord's Temple has been handed over to those who are supervising the workers, paying them to do the repairs."

¹⁸ Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, "Hilkiah the priest gave me this book." Shaphan read it to the king.

¹⁹ When the king heard what the Law said, he tore his clothes.[†]

²¹ "Go and talk to the Lord for me, and also for those who still live in Israel and Judah, about what is said in the book that's been found. For the Lord must be really angry with us because our forefathers have not obeyed the Lord's instructions by following all that's written in this book."

²³ Huldah told them, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: Tell the man who sent you to me,

²⁴ this is what the Lord says: I am about to bring disaster down on this place and on its people, in accordance with all the curses written in the book that has been read to the king of Judah.

²⁵ They have abandoned me and offered sacrifices to other gods, making me angry by everything they've done. My anger will be poured out upon this place and will not be stopped.

²⁶ But tell the king of Judah who sent you to ask the Lord, tell him this is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: As for the what you heard read to you—

²⁷ because you were receptive and repentant before God when you heard his warnings against this place and against its people, and because you have repented, tearing your clothes and weeping before me, I have also heard^S you, declares the Lord.

²⁸ All this will not happen until after you have died, and you will die in peace.* You will not see all the disaster that I'm going to bring down on this place and on its inhabitants.” They went back to the king and gave him her response.

²⁹ Then the king summoned all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

³⁰ He went to the Lord's Temple with all the people of Judah and Jerusalem, together with the priests and the Levites, all the people from the least to the greatest, and he read to them the whole Book of the Agreement that had been discovered in the Lord's Temple.

³² Then he had everyone present from Jerusalem and Benjamin stand up to show they agreed to it. So all the people of Jerusalem accepted and followed the agreement with God, the God of their forefathers.

³³ Josiah demolished all the vile idols from the whole territory belonging to the Israelites, and he made everyone in Israel serve the Lord their God. During his reign they did not give up worshipping the Lord, the God of their fathers.

³ Josiah told the Levites who taught all Israel and were holy to the Lord, “Place the holy Ark in the Temple built by Solomon, son of David, king of Israel. It's not necessary for you to carry it around on your shoulders any more. Your responsibility now is to serve the Lord your God and his people Israel.

⁴ Get yourselves ready for service in your divisions, by families, according to the instructions given by David, king of Israel, and his son Solomon.

⁵ Then you are to stand in the sanctuary to assist the lay people according to family divisions, following the assignments according to your Levite family divisions.

^S 34:27 “Heard”: in the sense of a positive response. * 34:28 “Die in peace”: of course this did not happen, because Josiah chose to confront the Egyptian Pharaoh in battle and was killed. See 35:20-24.

⁶ Sacrifice the Passover lambs, purify yourselves, and be ready to help the people who come to fulfill the requirements given by the Lord through Moses."

⁷ Josiah contributed as Passover offerings for all the people who were present 30,000 lambs and goats, and 3,000 bulls, all from his own flocks and herds.

⁹ The leaders of the Levites, Conaniah, and Shemaiah and Nethanel his brothers, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, gave the Levites as Passover offerings 5,000 lambs and young goats and 500 bulls.

¹⁰ Once the preparations had been completed, the priests stood where they had been assigned and the Levites took their places in their divisions as the king had ordered.

¹¹ They killed the Passover lambs, the priests sprinkled the blood they were given on the altar, while the Levites skinned the sacrifices.

¹² They put to one side the burnt offerings to be given to the families of the lay people, by division, to offer to the Lord, as required in the Book of Moses. They did the same thing with the bulls.

¹³ They roasted the Passover sacrifices on the fire as requires, and they boiled the holy offerings in pots, caldrons, and pans, and took them quickly to the lay people.

¹⁵ The singers, the descendants of Asaph, were in their places following the instructions given by David, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, the king's seer. The gatekeepers in charge at each gate did not need to leave, because their fellow Levites provided for them.

¹⁷ The Israelites who were there also celebrated Passover at that time, and also the Feast of Unleavened Bread for the following seven days.

¹⁸ No Passover like this had been held in Israel since the time of Samuel the prophet. None of the kings of Israel had ever held a Passover like the one that Josiah observed with the priests, the Levites, all of Judah, the Israelites who were there, and the people of Jerusalem.

¹⁹ This Passover was observed in the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah.

²¹ Neco sent messengers to him, saying, "What argument is there between you and me, king of Judah? I have not come to attack you today, because I'm fighting with another kingdom. God told me I should hurry, so stop obstructing God, who is with me, or he'll destroy you!"

²² But Josiah did not turn away and leave. Instead, he disguised himself so he could fight Neco in battle. He ignored Neco's message that came from God, and went to fight him on the Plain of Megiddo.

²³ There archers shot King Josiah. He called out those beside him, "Get me out of the battle, because I'm badly wounded!"

²⁴ So they carried him out of his chariot, and took him back in his second chariot to Jerusalem, where he died. Josiah was buried in the tomb of his forefathers. All Judah and Jerusalem wept for him.

²⁵ Then Jeremiah wrote a lament over Josiah, and to this day male and female choirs sing sad songs about Josiah. They have become a part of what is regularly sung in Israel, and they are recorded in the Book of Laments.

²⁶ The rest of what Josiah did, along with his acts of loyalty following what is written in the Law of the Lord,

²⁷ all his actions, from beginning to end, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

36

² Jehoahaz was twenty-three when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for three months.

³ Then the king of Egypt removed him from the throne in Jerusalem and imposed a tax on Judah of a hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold.

⁴ Neco, king of Egypt, made Eliakim, Jehoahaz's brother, king over Judah and Jerusalem, and he changed Eliakim's name to Jehoiakim. Neco took Eliakim's brother Jehoahaz back with him to Egypt.

⁵ Jehoiakim was twenty-five when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eleven years. He did evil in the sight of the Lord his God.

⁶ Then Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, attacked Jehoiakim. He captured him* and put bronze shackles on him, and brought him to Babylon.

⁷ Nebuchadnezzar also took some items from the Lord's Temple, and he put them in his temple† in Babylon.

⁸ The rest of what Jehoiakim, the disgusting sins he committed, and all the evidence against him, are written down in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. His son Jehoiachin took over as king.

⁹ Jehoiachin was eighteen when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for three months and ten days. He did evil in the Lord's sight.

¹¹ Zedekiah was twenty-one when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eleven years.

¹² He did evil in the sight of the Lord his God, and he refused to admit his pride when the prophet Jeremiah warned him directly from the Lord.

* 36:6 "He captured him": implied. † 36:7 "Temple": or, "palace." ‡ 36:10 "Uncle": see 2 Kings 24:17.

¹³ He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear an oath of loyalty by God. Zedekiah was arrogant and hard-hearted, and refused to come back to the Lord, the God of Israel.

¹⁴ All the leaders of the priests and the people were also totally faithless and sinful, following all the disgusting practices of the heathen nations. They defiled the Lord's Temple that he had set apart as holy in Jerusalem.

¹⁸ He took back to Babylon all the articles, large and small, from God's Temple, and from the Temple treasury, and from the king and from his officials.

¹⁹ Then the Babylonians burned down God's Temple and demolished Jerusalem's walls. They set fire to all the palaces and destroyed everything that had any value.

²⁰ Nebuchadnezzar took into exile in Babylon those who had not been killed. They were slaves for himself and his sons, until the kingdom of Persia took over.

²² In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, to fulfill the Lord's prophecy given through Jeremiah, the Lord encouraged Cyrus, king of Persia, to issue a proclamation throughout his kingdom and also to put it in writing, saying,

²³ "This is what Cyrus king of Persia says: 'The Lord, the God of heaven, who has given to me all the kingdoms of the earth, has given me the responsibility to build a Temple for him at Jerusalem in Judah. Anyone among you who belongs to his people can go there. May the Lord your God be with you.' "§

Ezra

¹ In order to fulfill the Lord's prophecy given through Jeremiah, the Lord encouraged Cyrus, king of Persia, to issue a proclamation throughout his kingdom and also to put it in writing, saying,

² "This is what Cyrus king of Persia says: 'The Lord, the God of heaven, who has given to me all the kingdoms of the earth, has given me the responsibility to build a Temple for him at Jerusalem in Judah.

³ Anyone among you who belongs to his people can go to Jerusalem in Judah to rebuild this Temple of the Lord, the God of Israel, who lives in Jerusalem. May your God be with you.

⁴ Wherever survivors are currently living, let them be helped by the people that region with silver, gold, goods, and livestock, together with a voluntary donation for God's Temple in Jerusalem.' "*

⁵ Then God encouraged the family leaders of Judah and Benjamin, as well as the priests and Levites to go and rebuild the Lord's Temple in Jerusalem.

⁶ All their neighbors supported them with gifts of silver and gold, with goods and livestock, and with other valuable items, in addition to all their voluntary donations.

⁸ Cyrus had Mithredath the treasurer retrieve them, who counted them and gave them to Sheshbazzar,[†] the leader of Judah.

⁹ This was the list: 30 gold basins, 1,000 silver basins, 29 silver silverware,

¹⁰ 30 gold bowls, 410 matching silver bowls, and 1,000 other items.

¹¹ In total there were 5,400 gold and silver items. When the exiles left Babylon to go to Jerusalem Sheshbazzar took all these along with them.

2

² Their leaders were Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah.

* 1:4 This proclamation of Cyrus is also found at the end of 2 Chronicles. [†] 1:8 "Sheshbazzar": some have identified Sheshbazzar (Babylonian name) with Zerubbabel (Hebrew name). * 2:1 "Province": under Persian rule, Judah was simply a province of the empire

- ⁵⁶ Jaalah, Darkon, Giddel,

⁵⁷ Shephathiah, Hattil, Pokereth-hazzebaim, and Ami.

⁵⁸ The total of the Temple servants and the descendants of Solomon's servants was 392.

⁶⁰ They included the families of Delaiah, Tobiah, and Nekoda, 652 in total.

⁶¹ In addition there three priestly families, sons of Hobaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai. (Barzillai had married a woman descended from Barzillai of Gilead, and he was called by that name.)

⁶² They searched for a record of them in the genealogies, but their names weren't found, so they were barred from serving as priests.

⁶³ The governor[†] instructed them not to eat anything from the sanctuary sacrifices until a priest could ask the Lord about the issue by using the Urim and Thummim.[‡]

⁶⁴ The total of number of people returning was 42,360.

⁶⁵ In addition there were 7,337 servants and 200 male and female singers.

⁶⁶ They had 736 horses, 245 mules,

⁶⁷ 435 camels, and 6,720 donkeys.

⁶⁹ They gave depending on how much they had, putting their gift into the treasury. The total came to 61,000 gold daric coins, 5,000 minas of silver, and 100 robes for the priests.

⁷⁰ The priests, the Levites, the singers, the gatekeepers, the Temple servants, as well as some of the people went back to live in their specific towns. The others returned to their own towns throughout Israel.

² Then Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and the priests with him, together with Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and his relatives, started to build the altar of the God of Israel in order to sacrifice burnt offerings on it, as instructed by the Law of Moses, the man of God.

³ Even though they were afraid of the local people, they set up the altar on its original foundation and sacrificed burnt offerings on it to the Lord, both morning and evening burnt offerings.

⁴ They observed the Festival of Shelters as the Law required, sacrificing the specified number of burnt offerings each day.

⁵ After that also presented the daily burnt offerings and the new moon offerings, as well as those for all the yearly festivals of the lord and for those who brought voluntary offerings to the Lord.

⁶ So from the first day of the seventh month, the Israelites began to present burnt offerings to the Lord, even though the foundation of the Lord's Temple had not been laid.

[†] 2:63 "Governor": a Persian word, probably referring to Sheshbazzar. [‡] 2:63 "Urim and Thummim": a methodology of establishing God's will in a matter. See Exodus 28:30.

⁷ They paid masons and carpenters, and provided food and drink and olive oil to the people of Sidon and Tyre for them to bring cedar logs from Lebanon to Joppa by sea, as King Cyrus of Persia had authorized.

⁸ In the second month of the second year after arriving at God's Temple in Jerusalem, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and those with them—the priests, the Levites, and everyone who had come back to Jerusalem from captivity—began the work. They put Levites twenty years and older to in charge of building the Lord's Temple.

¹⁰ When the builders laid the foundation of the Lord's Temple, the priests dressed in their special clothes and carrying trumpets, and the Levites (the sons of Asaph) carrying cymbals, all took their places to praise the Lord, following the instructions given by King David of Israel.

¹¹ They sang with praise and thanks to the Lord: "God is good; for his trustworthy love for Israel lasts forever." Then everyone there gave a tremendous shout of praise to the Lord, because the foundation of the Lord's Temple had been laid.

¹² But many of the older priests, Levites, and family leaders who remembered the first Temple wept loudly when they saw the foundation of this Temple, though many others shouted for joy.*

¹ The enemies of Judah and Benjamin heard that the exiles were building a Temple to the Lord, the God of Israel.

² They came to Zerubbabel and the family leaders and said, "Please let us help you with the building work, for we worship your God like you do. In fact we have been sacrificing to him since the time of Esarhaddon king of Assyria, who brought us here."

³ But Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the family leaders of Israel replied, "You can't share with us in building a Temple for our God. Only we can build it for the Lord, the God of Israel. This is what Cyrus the king of Persia has ordered us to do."

⁴ Then the local people set out to intimidate the people of Judah and make them too scared to go on building.

⁶ When Ahasuerus became king the local people sent him a written accusation against the people of Judah and Jerusalem.

* 3:12 The reason for the sadness of the older people is usually thought to be because this replacement Temple was much inferior to the first. * 4:5 These would be local officials whose chain of command stretched back to the Persian king.

⁷ During the time of Artaxerxes, king of Persia, Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and their fellow officers wrote a letter to Artaxerxes. The letter was written in Aramaic and translated from Aramaic.[†]

⁸ Rehum the officer in command and Shimshai the scribe wrote a letter to King Artaxerxes condemning Jerusalem stating,

¹¹ The following is a copy of the letter they sent to him.

To King Artaxerxes, from your servants, men beyond the River Euphrates:

¹² Your Majesty should be informed that the Jews who came from you to us have returned to Jerusalem. They are rebuilding that rebellious and wicked city, completing repairs to the walls, and mending its foundations.

¹³ Your Majesty should realize that if this city is rebuilt and its walls repaired, they will not pay tax, tribute, or fees, and the king's revenue will suffer.

¹⁴ Now because we are in the king's service[‡] and it is not right for us to see Your Majesty disrespected, we are sending this letter so that you can be informed,

¹⁵ and order a search of the royal archives. You will discover in these records that this is a rebellious city, damaging to kings and countries,[§] having often risen up in revolt in the past. That is what led to this city being destroyed.

¹⁶ We wish to inform Your Majesty that if this city is rebuilt and the walls completed, you will lose this province west of the Euphrates.

¹⁷ The king replied as follows: "To Rehum the commander, Shimshai the scribe, and fellow officers living in Samaria and in other areas west of the Euphrates: Greetings.

¹⁸ The letter you sent to us has been translated and read to me.

¹⁹ I ordered a search to be conducted. It was discovered that this city has often risen up in revolt against kings in the past, frequently promoting insurrection and rebellion.

²¹ Issue an immediate order for these men to stop work. This city is not to be rebuilt until I authorize it.

²² See that you do not neglect this matter. Why should this problem be allowed to grow and damage royal interests?"

²⁴ Consequently work on God's Temple in Jerusalem came to a halt. The stoppage continued until the second year of the reign of King Darius of Persia.

[†] 4:7 The passage from 4:8 to 6:18 is in Aramaic. [‡] 4:14 "King's service": literally, "eat the salt of the palace." [§] 4:15 "Countries": literally, "provinces."

² Then Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua, son of Jozadak, decided to start work on rebuilding God's Temple in Jerusalem. The prophets of God encouraged them and helped them.

⁴ Then they asked, "What are the names of the men who are working on this building?"

⁵ But their God was watching over the Jewish leaders, so that they were not prevented from working until a report could be sent to Darius and a written reply with instructions was received.

⁶ The following is a copy of the letter that Tattenai, the governor of the province west of the Euphrates, Shethar-bozenai, and their fellow officials, officials of the province, sent to King Darius.

⁷ The report they sent him read went like this: "To King Darius: Greetings.

⁸ We wish to inform Your Majesty that we went to the province of Judah, to the Temple of the great God. It is being built with large stones, with timber beams being placed on the walls. This work is being done properly and is progressing well.

⁹ We questioned the leaders, asking them, 'Who gave you permission to rebuild this Temple and finish it?'

¹⁰ We also asked for their names, so that we could write them down and let you know the names of their leaders.

¹¹ This is the answer they gave us. 'We are servants of the God of heaven and earth. We are rebuilding the Temple built and completed many years ago by a great king of Israel.

¹² But our forefathers made the God of heaven angry, so he handed them over to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who destroyed this Temple and deported the people to Babylon.

¹³ However, Cyrus, king of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, issued a decree to rebuild this Temple of God.

¹⁵ telling him, Take these items and place them in the Temple in Jerusalem. Rebuild God's Temple on its original site.

¹⁶ So Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundation of God's Temple in Jerusalem. It has been under construction since then, but hasn't yet been completed.'

¹⁷ So, if Your Majesty wishes, authorize a search to be made of the royal archives in Babylon to discover if there is a record that King Cyrus issued a decree to rebuild God's Temple in Jerusalem. Then please let us know Your Majesty's decision in this matter."

* 5:1 "Gave messages": literally, "prophesied." From the reaction of Zerubbabel the messages were to restart the building of the Temple.

6

² But it was actually in the fortress of Ecbatana, in the province of Media, that a scroll was found, recording the following:

⁴ with three layers of stone blocks and one of timber. Expenses are to be paid from the royal treasury.

⁵ In addition, the gold and silver items of God's Temple, which Nebuchadnezzar took from the Temple in Jerusalem and brought to Babylon, must also be returned to the Temple in Jerusalem and placed there.

⁷ This work on God's Temple—leave it alone! Let the governor and leaders of the Jews continue with rebuilding this Temple of God on its original site.

⁸ Furthermore, this is my decree as to what you are to do for these Jewish leaders regarding the rebuilding of this Temple of God. The full expense involved is to be paid from royal income, the tribute of the province west of the Euphrates, so that the work will not be delayed.

¹⁰ In this way they can offer sacrifices that are acceptable to the God of heaven, and pray for the lives of the king and his sons.

¹¹ Further I declare that if any man interferes with this decree, a beam is to be ripped from his house and set in the ground, and he is to be impaled on top of it. His own house shall be turned into a pile of rubble for disobeying this decree.

¹² May God who chose the city of Jerusalem as the place where he would be honored, destroy any king or people who try to alter what I have said or who destroy this Temple. I, Darius, issue this decree. Let it be faithfully carried out.

¹³ Tattenai, the governor of the province west of the Euphrates, Shethar-bozenai, and their fellow officials faithfully carried out what King Darius had decreed.

¹⁵ The Temple was completed on the third day of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of the reign of King Darius.

¹⁶ Then the people of Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the rest of those who had returned from exile, all joyfully celebrated the dedication of the God's Temple.

¹⁷ To dedicate God's Temple they sacrificed one hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, and a sin offering for the whole of Israel comprising twelve male goats, one for each Israelite tribe.

¹⁹ The exiles who had returned observed the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month.

²⁰ The priests and Levites had all purified themselves so that they were clean according to the ceremonial law.* So they killed the Passover lamb for all the exiles who had returned, for their fellow priests, and for themselves.

²¹ The Passover was eaten by the people of Israel who had returned from exile, and by those who had joined them and had rejected the pagan practices of the peoples of the land in order to worship the Lord, the God of Israel.

²² Then they observed the Festival of Unleavened Bread for seven days. Everyone throughout the land was so happy because the Lord had made the king of Assyria favorable to them, helping them to rebuild the Temple of God, the God of Israel.

7

² son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub,

³ son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth,

⁴ son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki,

⁵ son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the high priest.

⁶ This Ezra arrived from Babylon, and was a scribe who was an expert in the Law of Moses, which the Lord, the God of Israel, had given to Israel. The king had granted Ezra everything he'd asked for, because the Lord his God was with him.

⁷ In the seventh year of King Artaxerxes left for Jerusalem, accompanied by some of the people of Israel, and some of the priests and Levites, singers and gatekeepers, and Temple servants.

⁸ Ezra arrived in Jerusalem in the fifth month of the seventh year of King Artaxerxes' reign.

⁹ He had started the journey from Babylon on the first day of the first month, and he arrived in Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month, his gracious God going with him.

¹⁰ For Ezra had committed himself to gaining insights from the Law of the Lord, wanting to practice it and to teach in Israel its rules and how to live.

¹¹ This is a copy of the letter King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest and scribe, who had studied the Lord's commandments and regulations given to Israel.*

* 6:20 "According to the ceremonial law": implied.

* 7:11 The text of 7:12-26 is in Aramaic.

¹² “Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra the priest,[†] the scribe of the Law of the God of heaven: Greetings.

¹³ I hereby issue this decree: Any of the people of Israel or their priests or Levites in my kingdom who voluntarily decide to go to Jerusalem with you may do so.

¹⁴ You are being sent by the king and his seven counselors to investigate the situation in Judah and Jerusalem as it relates to the Law of your God, which you carry with you.[‡]

¹⁵ We also instruct you to take with you the silver and gold that the king and his counselors have voluntarily donated to the God of Israel, whose lives in Jerusalem,

¹⁸ Then you and those with you may decide to use the rest of the silver and gold in whatever way you think best, in accordance with the will of your God.

¹⁹ But the items you have been given for the service of the Temple of your God must be all delivered to the God of Jerusalem.

²⁰ If there is anything else required for the Temple of your God that you have to provide, you may charge it to the royal treasury.

²¹ I, King Artaxerxes, decree that all the treasurers west of the Euphrates should provide whatever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the Law of the God of heaven, may require from you, and it must be provided in full,

²³ Make sure you provide in full whatever the God of heaven requires for his Temple, for why should his anger be brought down on the king and his sons?

²⁴ Also be aware that all of the priests, Levites, singers, doorkeepers, Temple servants, or other workers of this Temple are exempt from paying any tax, tribute, or fees, and you are not authorized to charge them.

²⁵ You, Ezra, are to follow the wisdom of your God which you possess, shall appoint magistrates and judges to provide justice to all the people west of the Euphrates—all those who follow the laws of your God. You are to teach these laws to those who do not.

²⁶ Anyone who does not keep the law of your God and the law of the king, will be severely punished, either by death, banishment, seizure of property, or imprisonment.”

²⁸ and who has shown me such kindness by honoring me before the king, his counselors, and all his high officials. Because the Lord my God

[†] 7:12 “Priest”: interestingly the usual Aramaic word for priest is not used. Instead it is a word derived from Hebrew, suggesting the decree was first drafted by a Jew, possibly Ezra himself.

[‡] 7:14 “Which you carry with you”: literally, “which is in your hand.”

was with me, I was encouraged and called together the leaders of Israel to return to Jerusalem with me.

8

² From the sons of Phinehas, Gershom. From the sons of Ithamar, Daniel. From the sons of David, Hattush, ³ son of Shecaniah. From the sons of Parosh, Zechariah, and with him 150 men were registered.

⁴ From the sons of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai, son of Zerahiah, and with him 200 men.

⁵ From the sons of Zattu,* Shecaniah, son of Jahaziel, and with him 300 men.

⁶ From the sons of Adin, Ebed, son of Jonathan, and with him 50 men.

⁷ From the sons of Elam, Jeshaiiah, son of Athaliah, and with him 70 men.

⁸ From the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah, son of Michael, and with him 80 men.

⁹ From the sons of Joab, Obadiah, son of Jehiel, and with him 218 men.

¹⁰ From the sons of Bani,† Shelomith, son of Josiphiah, and with him 160 men.

¹¹ From the sons of Bebai, Zechariah, son of Bebai, and with him 28 men.

¹² From the sons of Azgad, Johanan, son of Hakkatan, and with him 110 men.

¹³ From the sons of Adonikam, those who were last,‡ their names being Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah, and with them 60 men.

¹⁴ From the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and Zaccur, and with them 70 men.

¹⁵ I gathered the returning exiles together at the Ahava Canal. We camped there for three days while I reviewed who had come—the ordinary people, the priests, and the Levites. I discovered there wasn't a single Levite

¹⁷ I told them to go to Iddo, the leader of the Temple servants at Casiphia, asking him and his relatives to send us ministers for the Temple of our God.

¹⁹ and Hashabiah, along with Jeshaiiah, from the sons of Merari, and his brothers and their sons, a total of twenty men.

²⁰ In addition they brought 220 of the Temple servants, a group appointed by David and his officials to help the Levites. These were all registered by name.

²¹ At the Ahava Canal I called for a fast so we could confess our sins before God and ask him for a safe journey for us and our children, along with all our possessions.

* 8:5 "Zattu": Septuagint reading. † 8:10 "Bani": Septuagint reading. ‡ 8:13 "Those who were last": most likely meaning these were the younger sons of Adonikam, so they were the last of his family to return to Jerusalem.

²² I had been reluctant to ask the king to give us a military escort to protect us from enemies on the way. We had told the king, “Our gracious God takes care of everyone who follows him, but shows his anger against anyone who abandons him.”

²³ So we fasted and asked God to protect us, and he answered our prayers.

²⁴ Then I designated twelve of the leading priests, and[§] Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their brothers,

²⁵ and I weighed out and handed them^{*} the donations of silver and gold, and the items that the king, his counselors, his leaders, and all the people of Israel there had given for the Temple of our God.

²⁶ I weighed out and placed in their hands 650 talents of silver, silver Temple items weighing 100 talents, 100 talents of gold,

²⁷ 20 gold bowls worth 1,000 darics, and two articles of highly-polished bronze, as valuable as gold.

²⁸ I told them, “You are set apart for the Lord, and these Temple items are too. The silver and gold are a voluntary offering to the Lord, the God of your forefathers.

³⁰ The priests and Levites took responsibility for the silver and gold and the Temple items that had been weighed out to be brought to the Temple of our God in Jerusalem.

³² Eventually we arrived in Jerusalem and rested there for three days.

³³ On the fourth day the silver and the gold and the Temple items were weighed out in the Temple of our God and handed over to Meremoth, son of Uriah the priest, accompanied by Eleazar, son of Phinehas. Also present were the Levites, Jozabad, son of Jeshua, and Noadiah, son of Binnui.

³⁴ Everything was checked, both by number and weight, and the total weight was written down at the time.

³⁵ Then the exiles who had returned from captivity sacrificed burnt offerings to the God of Israel—twelve bulls for all of Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and a sin offering of twelve goats. All were sacrificed as a burnt offering to the Lord.

³⁶ They also delivered the king’s decrees to the chief officers[†] of the king and the governors of the province west of the Euphrates, who then provided assistance to the people and to God’s Temple.

¹ Some time later after all this had happened, the leaders^{*} came and told me, “The people of Israel, including the priests and Levites, have not kept

[§] 8:24 “And”: following the Septuagint reading, making one group of twelve priests, and another group of twelve Levites. Sherebiah and Hashabiah have just been identified as Levites, not priests (see verses 18 and 19). ^{*} 8:25 Entrusting them with the responsibility of safeguarding these valuable items.

[†] 8:36 “Chief officers”: literally, “satraps.” ^{*} 9:1 These were civil leaders, not religious leaders.

themselves separate from the people around us whose disgusting religious practices are similar to those of the Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites.

² Some Israelites have even married women from these people, both themselves and their sons, mixing the holy race with these people of the land. Our leaders and officials are at the forefront of this sinful behavior.”

⁴ Everyone who respected the instructions of the God of Israel[†] gathered around me because of this sin on the part of the exiles. I sat there shocked and appalled until the evening sacrifice.

⁵ At the evening sacrifice, I stood up from where I had been sitting in grief, with my clothes torn, and I kneeled down and held out my hands to the Lord my God.

⁶ I prayed, “My God, I am so ashamed and embarrassed to come and pray to you,[‡] my God, because we are in over our heads in sin, and our guilt has risen to the heavens.

⁷ From the time of our forefathers to now, we have been deeply guilty. Because of our sins, we, our kings, and our priests have been handed over to the kings of the earth, killed and taken prisoner, robbed and humiliated, just like we are today.

⁸ Now for a short time the Lord our God has given us grace, preserving a few of us as a remnant, and giving us safety[§] in his holy place. Our God has brightened our lives^{*} by giving us some relief from our slavery.

⁹ Though we are slaves, our God did not abandon us in our slavery, but he showed us his trustworthy love by making the kings of Persia kind to us, by reviving us so we could rebuild the Temple of our God and repair its ruined state, and by giving us a wall of protection around Judah and Jerusalem.

¹⁰ But now, our God, what do we have to say for ourselves after all this? For we have given up following your commands

¹¹ that you gave through your servants the prophets, telling us, ‘The land you are entering to become its owners is contaminated by the sins of its peoples, the disgusting religious practices that they have filled it with, from one side to the other.

¹² So do not let your daughters marry their sons, or allow their daughters marry your sons. Never make a peace or friendship treaty with them, so that you may live well and eat the good food the land produces, and give the land as an inheritance to your children forever.’

¹³ Now that we are receiving all this punishment because of our sinful actions and our terrible guilt—though you, our God, have not punished us as much as our sins deserve, and have still given us this remnant[†]—

¹⁴ shall we break your commandments once again and intermarry with the peoples who commit these disgusting religious practices? Wouldn't you

[†] 9:4 “Everyone who respected the instructions of the God of Israel”: literally, “Everyone who trembled at the words of the God of Israel.” The emphasis here is not so much fear but an openness to instruction and obedience to what God had said. [‡] 9:6 “To come and pray to you”: literally, “to lift up my face to you.” [§] 9:8 “Safety”: literally, “tent peg.” ^{*} 9:8 “Lives”: literally, “eyes.”

[†] 9:13 “Remnant”: referring to those who had returned from exile.

become so angry with us that you would destroy us? No remnant would be left, not a single survivor.

¹⁵ Lord, God of Israel, you do what is right. Today we're all that is left, a remnant. We are before you in our guilt, but no one can stand before you because of it."

10

¹ As Ezra was praying and confessing sins, weeping and falling down on his face before God's Temple, a very large crowd of Israelites, men, women, and children, gathered around him. The people were weeping bitterly as well.

² Shecaniah, son of Jehiel, an Elamite, said to Ezra: "Yes, we have been unfaithful to our God because we have married foreign women from the people of the land. But even so there is still hope for Israel over this.

³ Let us make a solemn agreement right now before our God that we will send away all the foreign wives and their children. We will follow the directions given by you and those who respect the instructions of our God, carried out according to the Law.

⁴ Take action! It's your responsibility. We are with you. Be brave and do it!"

⁵ So Ezra stood up and made the leading priests, Levites, and all the Israelites present take an oath to act on what had just been said. They all took the oath.

⁸ Anyone who did not come within three days would have all their property confiscated, and would be banned from the assembly of the exiles. This was the decision of the leaders and elders.

⁹ Within three days, everyone from Judah and Benjamin assembled in Jerusalem. On the twentieth day of the ninth month, all the people sat in the square beside God's Temple, shivering because of this issue and also because of the heavy rain.

¹⁰ Ezra the priest stood up and told them, "You have committed sin by marrying foreign women, making Israel's guilt even worse.

¹¹ Now you must confess your sin to the Lord, the God of your forefathers, and do what he requires. Sever your connections with the people of the land and your foreign wives."

¹² The whole assembly answered in a loud voice: "We agree, and we promise to do as you say!"

¹³ But there are a lot of people here, and it's pouring with rain. We can't stay outside. More to the point, this isn't something that can be fixed in one or two days, for we have sinned extremely seriously in this.

¹⁴ Let our leaders act on behalf of the whole assembly. Then let every man in each of our towns who has married a foreign woman be given an appointment to come and meet, together with the elders and judges of that town, until our God is no longer angry with us over this."

¹⁵ The only ones to oppose this were Jonathan, son of Asahel, and Jahzeiah, son of Tikvah, supported by Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite.

¹⁶ So this what the exiles did, selecting Ezra the priest and family leaders, according to their family divisions, all of them specifically named. On the first day of the tenth month they sat down to begin the inquiry, ¹⁷ and by the first day of the first month they had finished handling all the cases of men who had married foreign women.

¹⁸ Among the descendants of the priests, the following had married foreign women: from the sons of Jeshua son of Jozadak, and his brothers Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah.

¹⁹ They vowed to send their wives away, and they presented a ram from the flock as a guilt offering for their guilt.

Nehemiah

¹ This is the account of Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah. In the month of Kislev, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes' reign, I was in the fortress at Susa.

² Hanani, one of my brothers, came from Judah with some other men. I asked them about the remnant of the Jewish exiles who had returned from captivity, and also about Jerusalem.

⁵ Then I prayed, "Please, Lord God of heaven—the great and awesome God who keeps his agreement of trustworthy love with those who love him and keep his commandments—

⁶ please listen and focus your attention on the prayer of your servant that I am praying to you now, day and night, on behalf of your servants, the Israelites. I confess the sins that we Israelites have committed against you, including my own sins and those of my family.

⁷ We have done terrible things to offend you and we have not kept the commandments, laws, and regulations that you gave to your servant Moses.

⁸ Please remember what you told Moses when you said, 'If you are unfaithful, I will scatter you among the nations,

⁹ but if you come back to me and follow my commandments and obey them, then even if you are exiled to the ends of the earth, I will gather them together and bring them to the place I have chosen where I will be honored.

¹⁰ They are your servants and our people. You saved them by your great power and incredible ability.

2

¹ In the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes' reign, when the wine was brought in for him, I picked it up and gave it to the king. I had never before appeared before him looking sad,

² so the king asked me, "Why are you looking so sad, even though you don't seem to be sick? You must be really upset." I was absolutely terrified,

³ but I replied to the king, "Long live the king! How can I help being sad? The city where my forefathers are buried is in ruins, and its gates have been burned down."

⁴ "So what do you want?" the king asked me.

I prayed to the God of heaven,* and answered the king,

* 2:4 Clearly an unspoken prayer.

5 “If it pleases Your Majesty, and if you are happy with me, I request you send me to Judah, to the city where my forefathers are buried, so I can rebuild it.”

6 The king, with the queen sitting beside him, asked me, “How long will your journey take, and when will you come back?” The king agreed to send me, and I told him how long I would be gone.

7 I also asked him, “If it pleases Your Majesty, let letters be provided to give to the governors west of the Euphrates, so that they will allow me to pass safely until I reach Judah.

8 May I also have a letter for Asaph, warden of the king's forest, so he can give me timber to make beams for the gates of Temple fortress, for the city walls, and for the house I will live in.” Because my gracious God was upon me, the king gave me what I asked.

9 Then I went to the governors of the province west of the Euphrates and gave them the king's letters. The king also sent a military escort of cavalry with me.

10 But when Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite official heard about this, they were upset. For them this was a total disaster—that someone had arrived to help out the Israelites.

11 I arrived in Jerusalem and rested for three days.

12 Then I got up during the night and went out with just a few men. I didn't explain to anyone what my God had put in my head to do for Jerusalem. I only took one horse to ride.[†]

13 So I rode in the dark through the Valley Gate toward the Spring of the Serpent and the Refuse Gate, and I inspected Jerusalem's walls that had been knocked over and the gates that had been burned down.

14 Then I continued on to the Fountain Gate and the King's Pool, but we couldn't get through as there wasn't enough room to pass.

15 So I went up along the valley in the dark and inspected the wall. Then I returned, going back through the Valley Gate.

16 Those in charge of the city had no idea where I had gone or what I was doing, because I hadn't yet told the Jews, priests, nobles, or officials or any others about the construction plans.[‡]

17 Then I said to them, “Look at the trouble we're in! Jerusalem is a heap of rubble, and its gates have been burned down. Come on, let's rebuild the wall of Jerusalem, so that we won't be so ashamed any more.”

18 Then I explained to them how good God had been to me, and what the king had told me.

“Let's get on with the rebuilding,” they replied, and they set to work enthusiastically.[§]

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab got to hear about it, they mocked and taunted us, asking, “What are you up to? Are you rebelling against the king?”

20 But I replied, telling them, “The God of heaven, he will make sure we're successful. We, his servants, will begin rebuilding, but Jerusalem doesn't belong to you, and you have no authority over it or claim to it.”

[†] 2:12 In other words he was keeping his mission as quiet as possible and minimizing any noise from his group. [‡] 2:16 “Construction plans”: literally, “doers of the work.” [§] 2:18 “They set to work enthusiastically”: literally, “they strengthened their hands for the good.”

² The men of Jericho built the section next to Eliashib, and Zaccur, son of Imri, built the one after.

³ The Fish Gate was rebuilt by the sons of Hassenaah. They laid its beams and set up its doors, together with its bolts and bars.

⁴ The next section was repaired by Meremoth, son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz; next to him, was Meshullam, son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel; and next to him, Zadok, son of Baana.

⁵ Next were the Tekoites, but their nobles refused to do manual work under a supervisor.

⁶ The Old Gate was repaired by Joiada, son of Paseah and Meshullam, son of Besodeiah. They laid its beams and set up its doors, together with its bolts and bars.

⁷ Next were Melatiah the Gibeonite, Jadon the Meronothite, and the men of Gibeon and Mizpah, who were under the jurisdiction of the governor of the province west of the Euphrates.

¹⁰ Next was Jedaiah, son of Harumaph, who made repairs opposite his house. Next was Hattush, son of Hashabneiah.

¹⁴ The Refuse Gate was repaired by Malchijah, son of Rechab, ruler of the district of Beth-haccherem. He rebuilt it and set up its doors, together with its bolts and bars.

¹⁶ Past him, Nehemiah, son of Azbuk, ruler of a Beth-zur half-district, repaired up to a point opposite David's cemetery, as far as the man-made pool and the House of the Mighty Warriors.

¹⁷ Next were the Levites under Rehum son of Bani, and next was Hashabiah, ruler of Keilah half-district, who made repairs on behalf of his district.

¹⁸ Next to them were their neighbors under Binnui,[†] son of Henadad, ruler of the other Keilah half-district.

¹⁹ Next was Ezer, son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, who repaired another section opposite Armory Hill, where the wall turns.

* 3:9 Thought to be an area outside of the city. † 3:18 "Binnui": the text says "Bannai."

²⁰ Next was Baruch, son of Zabbai, who worked hard repairing another section, from where the wall turns to the entrance of Eliashib the high priest's house.

²² Next were the priests from the area around made repairs.

²⁴ Next was Binnui, son of Henadad, who repaired another section, from Azariah's house to where the wall turns and the corner.

²⁵ Palal, son of Uzai, worked opposite where the wall turns and the tower that extends from the upper palace, near the court of the guard. Next were Pedaiiah, son of Parosh

²⁶ and the Temple servants that lived on the hill of Ophel who made repairs opposite the Water Gate toward the east and the tower that extends.

²⁷ Next were the Tekoites who repaired to another section opposite the great tower that extends to the wall of Ophel.

²⁸ Above the Horse Gate, each of the priests made repairs opposite his own house.

²⁹ Next was Zadok, son of Immer, who worked opposite his house, and next was Shemaiah, son of Shecaniah, the guard at the East Gate.

³⁰ Next were Hananiah, son of Shelemiah, as well as Hanun, the sixth son of Zalaph, who repaired. Next was Meshullam, son of Berechiah, who made repairs opposite where he lived.

³¹ Next was Malchijah, one of the goldsmiths, made repairs as far as the house of the Temple servants and the merchants, opposite the Inspection Gate, and as far as the room above the corner.

³² The goldsmiths and merchants made repairs between the room above the corner and the Sheep Gate,

4

¹ When Sanballat found out that we were rebuilding the wall, he was furious—really mad! He made fun of the Jews

² in front of his colleagues and the army of Samaria, saying, "What are these useless Jews trying to achieve? Do they think they can rebuild the wall? Are they going to offer sacrifices? Are they going to finish it in a day? Do they think they can re-use stones from piles of rubble and dirt, especially since they've all been burned?"

⁴ I prayed, "Lord, please listen to us, because we are being treated with contempt. Rain down their insults on their own heads! Let them be taken away like plunder, prisoners in a foreign land!"

⁵ Don't forgive their guilt or blot out their sins, for they have made you angry in front of the builders."^{*}

^{*} 4:5 "For they have made you angry in front of the builders": or, "for they have provoked the builders."

⁶ So we rebuilt the wall until it was all connected, reaching half its height, because the people were keen to work.

⁷ When Sanballat and Tobiah, and the Arabs, Ammonites, and Ashdodites, heard that the repair to the walls of Jerusalem was progressing and that the gaps were being filled in, they were furious.

⁸ They all plotted together to come and attack Jerusalem and to throw everything into confusion.

¹⁰ Then people of Judah started grumbling, saying, “The workmen are exhausted. There’s just too much rubble to clear. We’ll never be able to finish the wall.”

¹¹ Our enemies were saying to themselves, “Before they know it, before they’re aware of anything, we’ll appear right in among them, kill them, and put a stop to what they’re doing.”

¹² The Jews who lived close by came and told us over and over again, “They’re going to attack us from all directions!”[†]

¹³ So I positioned defenders behind the lowest, most vulnerable sections, of the wall. I had them take their positions by families, armed with their swords, spears, and bows.

¹⁴ After inspecting our defenses, I stood up and addressed the nobles, the officials, and the rest of the people, saying, “Don’t be afraid of them! Remember the Lord, who is powerful and formidable! Fight for your brothers, your sons and your daughters, your wives and your homes!”

¹⁵ When our enemies discovered that we knew about their plan, and that God had foiled it, we all went back to our work on the wall.

¹⁶ From then on, half of my men were doing the work while the other half were ready to fight, holding their spears, shields, bows, and armor. The leaders stood behind all the people of Judah

¹⁷ who were building the wall. Those carrying materials worked with one hand, holding a weapon in the other.

¹⁸ All the builders carried a sword strapped to their side, and the trumpeter stood beside me.[‡]

¹⁹ Then I told the nobles, the officials, and the rest of the people: “We have a lot to do everywhere, so we’re very spread out along the wall.

²⁰ Wherever you are and you hear the sound of the trumpet, run to join us there. Our God will fight for us!”

²¹ We went on working, with half of the men holding spears from dawn until the stars came out.

²² I also told the people, “Everyone including servants must spend the night inside Jerusalem, so they can be on guard duty at night and work during the day.”

²³ During that time none of us changed our clothes—not me or my brothers or my men or the guards with me. Everyone carried their weapons at all times, even to go for water.[§]

[†] 4:12 Presumed meaning, the Hebrew is obscure. [‡] 4:18 To provide warning on an attack.

[§] 4:23 “Everyone carried their weapons at all times, even to go for water.” The Hebrew is unclear. Literally it reads “each his weapon the water.”

5

² They were complaining, "Our families are so large we need more food* so we can eat and live."

³ Others added, "We've had to mortgage our fields, our vineyards, and our homes to buy food during the famine."

⁴ Still more said, "We've had to borrow money on our fields and vineyards to pay the king's tax."

⁵ Even though we are the same people as our creditors and though our children are the same as their children, yet we going to have to turn our sons and daughters into slaves. In fact some of our daughters have already been enslaved,[†] but we can't do anything about it, because our fields and our vineyards are now owned by others."

⁶ I became very angry when I heard them protesting their grievances.

⁷ I thought it over and then I went to argue with the nobles and officials, telling them, "You are charging your own brothers interest!" So I called a large meeting to deal with them.

⁸ There I told them, "We have done as much as we can to buy back our Jewish brothers who were sold to foreigners, but now you are selling your own brothers as slaves! Are you expecting to sell them back to us?" They kept quiet because they couldn't think of anything to say.

⁹ "What you're doing isn't right," I told them. "Don't you think you should respect our God so that enemy nations don't criticize us?"

¹⁰ I, as well as my brothers and my men have been have been lending the people money and food. Please, let's stop this business of charging interest!

¹¹ Give them back right now their fields, vineyards, olive groves, and houses, along with the one percent interest on the money, grain, new wine, and olive oil that you have been charging them."

¹² "We will give it back," they replied, "and we won't demand anything more from them. We'll do as you say." So I summoned the priests and made the nobles and officials swear an oath that they'd do what they had promised.

¹³ I shook out the folds of my robe and said, "This is how my God will shake you out of your homes and out of your possessions if you don't keep your promise! If you don't, you'll be shaken out and end up with nothing!" Everyone there said, "Amen," and praised the Lord. The people did what they'd promised.

¹⁵ But the governors before me had placed a heavy burden on the people, taking forty shekels of silver from them as well as food and wine. Their assistants also extorted the people. But because of my respect for God I didn't act like that.

¹⁶ I also made rebuilding the wall my top priority, and I assigned all my workers to help with that. We didn't acquire any land for ourselves.

* 5:2 "Food": literally, "grain." † 5:5 Girls that were sold could be taken as a wife by the buyer or for one of his sons.

¹⁷ I had 150 Jews and officials eating at my table, as well as visitors from nearby countries.

¹⁹ Please remember me positively, my God, for all that I've done for this people.

6

² they sent a message to me, saying, "Come on, let's meet in one of the villages on the plain of Ono." But they intended to kill me.

³ So I sent messengers to tell them, "I'm busy with important work and I can't come down. Why should I stop what I'm doing and leave it to come and see you?"

⁵ Sanballat sent me the same message the fifth time by his servant, who brought in his hand an open letter.

⁶ The letter read: "People around are saying, and Geshem confirms it, that you and the Jews are planning a rebellion, and that's why you're building the wall. You also plan to become their king, so they say,

⁷ and you have even arranged for prophets in Jerusalem to announce for you, 'There is a king in Judah.' The king* will soon get to hear about this. So come, and let's talk this over."

⁸ I replied, telling him, "Nothing's happening like you're saying! In fact you're just making it all up!"

⁹ They were all just trying to scare us, telling themselves, "They won't have the strength to work so it won't ever get finished." But I prayed, now make me strong!

¹⁰ Later on, I went to Shemaiah's house (he was the son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel) who had shut himself in his house.[†] He said: "Come and meet me at the house of God inside the Temple. Then we can bolt the Temple doors shut because they are coming to kill you! They're coming to kill you tonight!"

¹¹ I replied, "Should someone like me run away? Should someone like me go and hide in the Temple so I can survive?[‡] I'm not going!"

¹² I thought about it and saw that God hadn't sent him, but that he had spoken this prophecy against me because Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

¹³ They'd hired him thinking I'd be scared into doing something wrong. Then they'd be able to point the finger and ruin my reputation.

¹⁴ My God, remember Tobiah and Sanballat for doing this, and Noadiah the prophetess and the other prophets too who tried to frighten me.

* 6:7 Referring to the Persian king. † 6:10 "Shut himself in his house": evidently the scare tactics had worked, or Shemaiah pretended they had. ‡ 6:11 Nehemiah could not lawfully enter the Temple as he was not a priest.

¹⁵ The wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul. It took fifty-two days.

¹⁶ When all our enemies found out they were frightened; all the nations around were very discouraged, for they recognized that this had been done by our God.

¹⁷ At that time the nobles of Judah were exchanging many letters with Tobiah,

¹⁸ because many people in Judah had sworn an oath of loyalty to him as he was a son-in-law of Shecaniah, son of Arah, and his son Jehohanan was married to the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah.

¹⁹ They kept on telling me all the good things Tobiah was doing, and they reported to him what I said. Tobiah also sent letters to try and scare me.

7

² I put my brother Hanani in charge of Jerusalem, together with Hananiah the commander of the fortress, because he was an honest man who respected God more than many others.

³ I told them, "Don't allow the gates of Jerusalem to be opened until the sun is hot,* and make sure the guards shut and bolt the doors while they're still on duty. Appoint some of the residents of Jerusalem as guards, to be at their posts, standing in front of their own houses."

⁵ My God encouraged me to have everyone—the nobles, the officials, and the people—all come to be registered according to their family genealogy. I found the genealogical register of those who had returned first. This was what I discovered written there.

⁷ They were led by Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, and Baanah.

* 7:3 This phrase could also be translated, "Don't allow the gates of Jerusalem to be opened when the sun is hot," meaning during the time after lunch when the guards might be lax in their duties.

† 7:7 This list is similar to that found in Ezra 2, with some differences in spelling, order, and number.

62 They included the families of Delaiah, Tobiah, and Nekoda, 642 in total.

⁶³ In addition there three priestly families, sons of Hobaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai. (Barzillai had married a woman descended from Barzillai of Gilead, and he was called by that name.)

⁶⁴ They searched for a record of them in the genealogies, but their names weren't found, so they were barred from serving as priests.

⁶⁵ The governor instructed them not to eat anything from the sanctuary sacrifices until a priest could ask the Lord about the issue by using the Urim and Thummim.

⁶⁶ The total of number of people returning was 42,360.

⁶⁷ In addition there were 7,337 servants and 245 male and female singers.

⁶⁸ They had 736 horses, 245 mules,[‡]

⁶⁹ 435 camels, and 6,720 donkeys.

⁷⁰ Some of the family leaders made voluntary contributions toward the work. The governor presented to the treasury 1,000 gold darics, 50 bowls and 530[§] sets of clothes for the priests.

⁷¹ Some of the family leaders donated to the treasury for the work 20,000 darics of gold and 2,200 minas of silver.

⁷² The rest of the people donated 20,000 gold darics, 2,000 minas of silver, and 67 sets of clothes for the priests.

⁷³ The priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, and Temple servants, as well as some of the people and the rest of the Israelites, went back to live in their specific towns. By the seventh month the Israelites were living in their towns,

8

¹ and the people gathered together as one in the square beside the Water Gate. They told Ezra the scribe* to bring out the Book of the Law of Moses, which the Lord had ordered Israel to follow.

² On the first day of the seventh month, Ezra the priest brought the Law before the assembly—men and women, and all those children who could listen and understand.

⁵ Ezra opened the book while they were all watching because the whole crowd could see him. When he opened it they all stood up.

⁶ Ezra praised the Lord, the great God, and everyone answered, "Amen! Amen!" as they lifted up their hands. Then they bowed down and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground.

⁷ Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, and Pelaiah, who were the Levites present, explained the Law to the people as they remained standing there.

[‡] 7:68 Most Hebrew manuscripts are missing this verse. [§] 7:70 Some believe that originally the text read "30 sets of clothes for the priests and 500 minas of silver." * 8:1 "Scribe": as elsewhere in Scripture, a scribe is not merely someone who can write, but a teacher, particularly of God's Law.

⁸ They read from the Book of the Law of God, making clear the meaning so that the people could understand what it said.[†]

⁹ Then Nehemiah the governor, Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who were teaching the people told them all, "This is a holy day to the Lord your God. Don't mourn or cry," for everyone was crying as they heard the Law being read.

¹¹ The Levites too were quieting everyone down, telling them, "Don't cry! This is a holy day and you shouldn't be sad."

¹² Then everyone went away to eat and drink, and to share their food. They celebrated happily because now they understood the Law as it had been explained to them.

¹³ The next day family leaders of all the people, as well as the priests and Levites, joined with Ezra the scribe to study the Law in more depth.

¹⁴ They discovered written in the Law the Lord had ordered to be observed through Moses, that the Israelites were to live in shelters during the festival of the seventh month.

¹⁵ They were to make an announcement in all their towns and in Jerusalem, saying, "Go into the hills and bring back branches of olive, wild olive, myrtle, palm, and other leafy trees, to make shelters to live in, as the Law requires."[‡]

¹⁶ So they went out and brought back branches and made shelters for themselves on the roofs of their houses, in their courtyards, in the courtyards of God's Temple, and in the squares near the Water Gate and the Ephraim Gate.

¹⁷ Everyone who came back from exile made shelters and stayed in them. They had not celebrated like this since the time of Joshua, son of Nun. Everyone was very happy.

¹⁸ Ezra read from the Book of the Law of God every day, from the first day to the last. The Israelites observed the festival for seven days, and on the eighth day they met together in assembly, as the Law required.

9

² Those of Israelite ancestry separated themselves from the foreigners, and stood to confess their sins and those of their forefathers.

⁴ The Levites stood on the stage and called out loudly to the Lord their God. (Their names were Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani.)

[†] 8:8 Not only was a theological interpretation needed, but since many present had become more accustomed to speaking Aramaic in Babylon, there needed to be a translation from the Hebrew in which the Book was written. [‡] 8:15 This is not a direct Scriptural quotation but a summary of the requirements. *

9:3 "Three hours": literally, "a quarter of a day."

⁵ Then the Levites announced: “Stand up and praise the Lord your God who lives eternally: ‘May who you are and your glory be blessed, and may you be lifted up above all blessing and praise.’” (The names of the Levites were Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah.)

⁶ They prayed, “Only you are the Lord. It was you who made the sky, the heavens with all their stars, the land and everything on it, the seas and everything in them. You give life to all of them, and all the heavenly beings worship you.

⁷ You are the Lord, the God who chose Abram, who led him out of Ur of the Chaldeans and named him Abraham.

⁸ You knew he would be faithful to you, and made an agreement with him to give him and his descendants the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Girgashites. You kept your promise, because you do what is right.

⁹ You saw how much our forefathers were suffering in Egypt. You heard their cries for help at the Red Sea.

¹¹ You split the sea apart in front of them so that they could walk through it on dry ground. But you threw their pursuers into the depths of the sea, like stones thrown into raging waters.

¹² You led them with a column of cloud during the day, and a column of fire at night, showing them the way which they should go.

¹⁴ You explained your holy Sabbath to them. You gave them commandments and regulations and laws through your servant Moses.

¹⁵ When they were hungry you gave them bread from heaven, and when they were thirsty you brought water out of the rock for them. You told them to go and take ownership of the land which you had sworn to give them.

¹⁶ But they[†] and our forefathers acted arrogantly and became stubborn, and didn't pay attention to your commands.

¹⁷ They refused to listen to you, and forgot about all the miracles you did for them. They became obstinate and decided to choose themselves a leader to take them back to slavery in Egypt.[‡]

But you are a forgiving God, gracious and merciful, slow to get angry, and full of trustworthy love. You did not give up on them,

¹⁸ even when they made themselves a metal calf and said, “This is your god who led you out of Egypt,” and committed terrible blasphemies.

[†] 9:16 “But they”: the structure of this passage centers around the alternating actions of God's people (but they) and God (but you). This translation has attempted to preserve this format, and ensure that the relevant paragraphs begin with these contrasting elements. [‡] 9:17 “In Egypt”: Septuagint and some Hebrew manuscripts. Most Hebrew manuscripts read “in rebellion.” See Numbers 14:4.

¹⁹ But you because you are so merciful didn't abandon them in the desert. The column of cloud didn't stop guiding them during the day, and the column of fire continued to light their way at night.

²⁰ You gave your good Spirit to teach them. You did not stop feeding them with your manna, and you gave them water when they were thirsty.

²¹ You took care of them for forty years in the desert. Their clothes didn't wear out, they didn't want for anything. Their feet didn't even swell up!

²² You gave them kingdoms and nations; you assigned their borders. They took control of the land of Sihon, king of Heshbon, and of Og, king of Bashan.

²³ You made their descendants as countless as the stars of heaven, and led them to the land you had promised their fathers they would enter and possess.

²⁴ Their descendants went in and took over the land. Right in front of them you conquered the Canaanites who lived there, handing over their kings and people so they could do with them whatever they wanted.

²⁵ They captured fortified cities and fertile land. They took over houses full of valuable things, water cisterns, vineyards, olive groves, and many fruit trees. They ate until they were full, and grew fat. They were so happy at how good you were to them.

²⁶ But they completely rebelled[§] against you. They tossed your Law over their shoulders. They killed your prophets who warned them to try and bring them back to you, and they committed terrible blasphemies.

²⁷ So you handed them over to their enemies who treated them badly. In their suffering they cried out to you for help.

But you heard their cries from heaven, and because you're so merciful you sent them leaders^{*} to save them from their enemies.

²⁸ However, as soon as they had peace, they went back to doing evil in your sight. So once more you handed them over to their enemies, who dominated them. They came back to you, and they cried out to you again.

But you heard from heaven once more, and you saved them time and again because you are so merciful.

²⁹ You warned them to come back to your Law, but they were arrogant. They ignored your commands, and sinned against your rules, which, as you previously said,[†] 'If people obey they will live by them.' They obstinately turned their backs on you and refused to listen.

³⁰ You were patient with them for many years. You warned them by your Spirit through your prophets, but they didn't listen, so you handed them over to the other nations.

³¹ But because of your wonderful mercy you did not finish with them, and you did not abandon them, for you are a gracious and merciful God.

³² So now, our God, the great and powerful and awesome God who keeps his agreement of trustworthy love, please don't see as unimportant all the hardships that have happened to us, and to our kings and leaders, our priests and prophets, our forefather and all your people, from the time of the Assyrian kings of Assyria up till now.

[§] 9:26 "But they completely rebelled": literally, "But they rebelled and were rebellious." The repetition of the term intensifies the extent of rebellion. ^{*} 9:27 "Leaders": literally, "saviors."

[†] 9:29 "As you previously said": supplied for clarification. See Leviticus 18:5; Deuteronomy 4:1; Deuteronomy 30:16.

³³ But you have done what is right regarding everything that has happened to us. You have always acted faithfully, while we have done so much evil.

³⁴ Our kings, our leaders, our priests, and our forefathers did not follow your Law, and they ignored your commands and regulations you ordered them to keep.

³⁵ But they, even during the time they had their own kingdom, with so many blessings you had given them in the wide and fertile land you had provided for them, even then they refused to serve you and would not turn from their evil ways.

³⁶ Look at us now, slaves in the land you gave our forefathers to enjoy its fruit and all its good things. Look at us slaves here!

³⁷ The rich harvests of this land go to the kings you have placed over us because of our sins. They rule over our bodies and our cattle, doing whatever they want. We are suffering so much!"

³⁸ In response the people declared,[‡] "Considering all this, we are making a solemn agreement, putting it in writing. It is sealed by our leaders, Levites, and priests."

from the people of the land* to keep the Law of God, as well as their wives and all their sons and daughters who were old enough to understand,

²⁹ joined the leaders in swearing an oath to follow the Law of God given through Moses the servant of God, to pay attention to and carry out all the commands of the Lord our God, his rules and regulations.

³⁰ “We promise not to allow our daughters to marry the people of the land, and not to allow our sons to marry their daughters.

³¹ When the people of the land bring goods and all kinds of food to sell on the holy Sabbath, we will not buy anything from them on the Sabbath or on other holy days. Every seventh year we will leave the land to rest,[†] and we will cancel all debts.

³³ for the showbread, for the regular grain offerings and burnt offerings, for the Sabbath offerings, for the new moon and yearly festivals, for the holy offerings, for the sin offerings to make atonement for Israel, in short all that takes place in the Temple of our God.

³⁴ We have allocated by lot among the priests, Levites, and the people, to determine who will bring wood to the Temple of our God to burn on the altar of the Lord our God at specific times during the year, as required by the Law.

³⁶ We will bring the firstborn of our sons and of our livestock and of our herds and flocks to the Temple of our God, to the priests who minister there, as required by the Law.

³⁷ We will bring to the storerooms of the Temple of our God, to the priests, the first part of our coarse-ground flour, of our grain offerings, of the fruit of all our trees, and of our new wine and olive oil. We will also bring a tithe of our produce to the Levites, for the Levites are the ones who collect the tithes in all the farming towns.

³⁸ A priest descended from Aaron will accompany the Levites when they collect the tithe, and the Levites are to bring a tithe of these tithes to the rooms of the storehouse in the Temple of our God.

³⁹ The people of Israel and the Levites are to bring the offerings of grain, new wine, and olive oil to the storerooms where the sanctuary objects are kept, where the ministering priests, the gatekeepers, and the singers are. We will not forget the Temple of our God.”

¹ The leaders of the people were already living in Jerusalem. The rest of the people cast lots to bring one out of ten to come and live in Jerusalem, the holy city, while the other nine would stay in their own cities.

² Everyone praised those who were willing to move to Jerusalem.

³ This is a list of the leaders of the province who came to live in Jerusalem. (Most of the Israelites lived on their own property in the towns of Judah. This included the priests, the Levites, the Temple servants, and the descendants of Solomon's servants who lived in their home towns.

* 10:28 “People of the land”: referring primarily to the Canaanite peoples who had previously ruled the land. † 10:31 Literally, “leave the seventh year,” following the “sabbatical year” regulation that every seventh year fields used for producing crops were to be left to “rest.” Exodus 23:10-11.

⁴ However, some of the people of Judah and Benjamin moved to Jerusalem.)

From the tribe of Judah: Athaiah the son of Uziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the sons of Perez;

⁵ and Maaseiah, son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, a descendant of Shelah.

⁶ The total of the sons of Perez who lived in Jerusalem was 468 men of ability.

⁷ From the tribe of Benjamin: Sallu, son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiiah,

⁹ Joel son of Zichri was the officer in charge of them, and Judah son of Hassenuah was in second-in-command of the city.

¹⁰ From the priests: Jedaiah, son of Joiarib, Jachin;

¹² and their fellow priests who served at the Temple, a total of 822; Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah,

¹³ and those who worked with him, family leaders, a total of 242; and Amashsai, son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer;

¹⁴ and those who worked with him, a total of 128 strong warriors.* Zabdiel, son of Haggadolim, was in charge of them.

¹⁵ From the Levites: Shemaiah, son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni;

¹⁶ and Shabbethai and Jozabad, Levite leaders who were in charge of the outside work of God's Temple;

¹⁷ Mattaniah, son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, who led out in giving thanks and praise; and Bakbukiah, who was second; and Abda, son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun.

¹⁸ The total number of priests in the holy city was 284.

¹⁹ The gatekeepers: Akkub, Talmon, and their fellow workers, who guarded the gates: a total of 172.

²⁰ The other Israelites, with rest of the priests and Levites, lived in their home towns in Judah, each on their own property.

²¹ The Temple servants lived on the hill of Ophel. Ziha and Gishpa were in charge of them.

²² The one in charge of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi, son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, one of Asaph's descendants, the singers who led the service in God's Temple.

²³ They had specific orders from the king who had instructed them to perform a daily service.†

²⁴ Pethahiah, son of Meshezabel, a descendant of Zerah, son of Judah, was the king's advisor on all things relating to the Israelites.

* 11:14 "Strong warriors": To modern ears it may sound strange to see priests listed as warriors. However, in those times defensive needs were a practical concern, especially defense of the Temple.

† 11:23 This probably refers to the decree issued by King Cyrus for prayers to be said for him and his sons. See Ezra 6:10.

²⁶ in Jeshua, Moladah, and Beth-pelet;

²⁷ in Hazar-shual, in Beersheba with its settlements,

²⁸ in Ziklag, in Mekonah and its settlements,

²⁹ in En-rimmon, in Zorah, in Jarmuth,

³⁰ Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish and its fields, and Azekah and its settlements. They lived all the way from Beersheba to the Valley of Hinnom.

³¹ The people of Benjamin from Geba lived in Michmash, Aija, and Bethel and its settlements,

³² in Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,

³³ Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,

³⁴ Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat,

³⁵ Lod, Ono, and in the Valley of Craftsmen.

³⁶ Some divisions of the Levites of Judah also settled in Benjamin.

12

² Amariah, Malluch, Hattush,

³ Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth,

⁴ Iddo, Ginnethon, Abijah,

⁵ Miniamin, Maadiah, Bilgah,

⁶ Shemaiah, Joiarib, Jedaiah,

⁷ Sallu, Amok, Hilkiyah, and Jedaiah. These were the leaders of the priests and their relatives in Jeshua's time.

⁸ The Levites were Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, who with his fellow Levites was in charge of the songs of praise.

⁹ Two other Levites, Bakbukiah and Unni, stood opposite them in the service.

¹⁰ Jeshua the high priest was the father of Joiakim, who was the father of Eliashib, who was the father of Joiada,

¹¹ who was the father of Jonathan, who was the father of Jaddua.

¹² In Joiakim's time, these were the family leaders of the priests: of the family of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah;

¹³ of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan;

¹⁴ of Malluchi, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph;

¹⁵ of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai;

¹⁶ of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam;

¹⁷ of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin and of Moadiah, Piltai;

¹⁸ of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan;

¹⁹ of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi;

²⁰ of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber;

²¹ of Hilkiyah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel.

²² The family leaders of the Levites in the time of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua, in addition to those of the priests, were recorded during the reign of Darius the Persian.

²³ As for the genealogy of the sons of Levi, the family leaders up to the time of Johanan, son of Eliashib, were listed in the Book of the Records.

²⁶ They served in the time of Joiakim, son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and in the time of Nehemiah the governor and Ezra the priest and scribe.

²⁸ The singers were also brought in from the area around Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netophathites,

²⁹ as well as from Beth-gilgal and from the area of Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built villages for themselves all around Jerusalem.

³⁰ Once the priests and the Levites had purified themselves, they purified the people, the gates, and the wall.

³¹ I had the leaders of Judah go up on the wall, and arranged two large choirs that to give thanks. One group went to right along the wall to the Refuse Gate.

³² Hoshaiiah and half the leaders of Judah followed them,

³³ with Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam,

³⁴ Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah,

³⁵ as well as some of the priests with trumpets, and Zechariah, son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph,

³⁶ and his fellow priests, Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, along with the musical instruments as required by David, the man of God. Ezra the scribe led them.

³⁸ The other choir group went in the opposite direction. I followed them, along with half the people, on the wall passing the Tower of the Ovens, on to the Broad Wall, ³⁹ over the Ephraim Gate, the Jeshanah Gate, the Fish Gate, the Tower of Hananel, and the Tower of the Hundred, as far as the Sheep Gate, stopping at the Guard Gate.

⁴⁰ Both thanksgiving choirs then took their places in God's Temple. I followed with the group of leaders that was with me, ⁴¹ along with the priests blowing their trumpets: Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah.

* 12:25 "Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, and Obadiah": these Levites are identified as choir directors in 11:17, and are not included in the gatekeeper group. Abda is a variant spelling of Obadiah.

⁴² Then came the singers[†] Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer, and the choirs sang, directed by Jezrahiah.

⁴³ Many sacrifices were offered that day, celebrating that God had brought them so much happiness, tremendous happiness. The women and children also celebrated, and the sounds of joy in Jerusalem could be heard far away.

⁴⁶ For long ago, back in the time of David and Asaph, directors had been appointed for the singers and for the songs of praise and thanks to God.

⁴⁷ So in the time of Zerubbabel and of Nehemiah, everyone in Israel provided the daily food allowances for the singers and the gatekeepers. They also made sure to provide for the other Levites, and the Levites gave a share of this to the descendants of Aaron.

13

¹ One day* when the Book of Moses was being read to the people, the section was found where it was written that no Ammonite or Moabite should ever be allowed into the assembly of God,

² because they hadn't brought food and water when they met the Israelites, but instead they had hired Balaam to put a curse on them—though our God turned that curse into a blessing!

³ When the people heard about this law, they separated out from Israel everyone who had foreign ancestry.

⁴ Before all this, Eliashib the priest, who was related to Tobiah,[†] had been put in charge of the storerooms of the Temple of our God.

⁶ When all this happened I was not in Jerusalem because I had returned to King Artaxerxes of Babylon in the thirty-second year of his reign. Some time later I requested permission from the king to go back.

⁷ When I arrived back in Jerusalem I discovered the dreadful thing Eliashib had done in providing Tobiah a room in the courtyard of God's Temple.

⁹ I ordered the rooms purified, and put back the Temple items, the grain offerings, and the incense.

[†] 12:42 "Singers": added for clarity. They have already been introduced in verses 25 and 36 as accompanying Ezra as singers/musicians. * 13:1 "One day": the date is not specific, and is certainly not the same as that of the previous chapter. In verse 6 Nehemiah notes that he was absent from Jerusalem at the time. [†] 13:4 Tobiah was an Ammonite: 2:10.

¹⁰ I also found out that the food allowances for the Levites were not being provided, so the Levites had gone back to take care of their fields, along with the singers who led the worship services.

¹¹ I went and confronted the leaders, asking, “Why is God’s Temple being neglected?” I called the Levites[‡] back and made sure they were carrying out their responsibilities.

¹² Everyone in Judah then brought the tithes of grain, new wine, and olive oil into the storerooms.

¹⁴ My God, please remember me over this. Please don’t forget my good deeds I have done for the Temple of my God and its services.

¹⁵ Around that time I noticed people treading the winepress on Sabbath. I saw others collecting grain and loading it up on donkeys, along with wine, grapes, figs, and all kinds of burdens, and bringing it all into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day.

¹⁶ I told them off for selling their produce on that day.

¹⁷ Some people from Tyre who lived in Jerusalem were bringing in fish and all kinds of things and they were selling them on the Sabbath to the people of Judah in Jerusalem.

¹⁸ I confronted the Jewish leaders, asking them, “Why are you are doing such an evil thing? You are violating the Sabbath day! Wasn’t this what your forefathers did, bringing our God down on us, causing us and this city such disasters? Now you’re bringing even more trouble on us by violating the Sabbath!”

¹⁹ So I ordered Jerusalem’s gates to be shut at sunset on the day before the Sabbath, and that were not to be opened until after the Sabbath had ended. I assigned some of my men to guard the gates to make sure no goods would be brought in on the Sabbath day.

²⁰ A couple of times merchants and sellers of all kinds of goods spent the night outside of Jerusalem.

²¹ I warned them, saying, “Why are you spending the night by the wall? If you do that again I’ll have you arrested!” After that they didn’t come on the Sabbath.

²² Then I told the Levites to purify themselves and to come and guard the gates to keep the Sabbath day holy. My God, please also remember me for doing this, and be merciful to me because of your trustworthy love.

²³ Around the same time I realized some Jews had married women from Ashdod, Moab, and Ammon.

²⁴ Half their children could only speak the language of Ashdod or that of another people, and didn’t know how to speak the language of Judah.

²⁵ So I confronted them and told them they were cursed. I beat some of them and pulled out their hair. Then I made them take an oath before God, saying, “You must not allow your daughters to marry their sons, or allow your sons—or yourselves— to marry their daughters.

²⁶ Wasn’t it marriages like these that made King Solomon of Israel sin? There wasn’t a king in any nation like him. God loved him, and God made him king over all Israel, but even he was made to sin by foreign women.

[‡] 13:11 “Levites”: implied.

²⁷ So do we have to hear about you committing this dreadful sin, how you are being unfaithful to our God by marrying foreign women?"

²⁸ Even one of the sons of Jehoiada, son of Eliashib the high priest, had become a son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite. So I expelled him. §

³⁰ I purified them from everything foreign, and I made sure the priests and Levites were carrying out their assigned responsibilities.

³¹ I also arranged for wood to be supplied for the altar at the specified times, and for the first part of the produce to be donated.

My God, remember me favorably.

§ 13:28 Literally, "I drove him away from me." This probably means he was exiled. To have married a daughter of Sanballat, one of Nehemiah's most significant enemies, must have been a great insult to Nehemiah.

Esther

² At the time King Xerxes was ruling from his royal throne at the fortress in Susa.[†]

³ In the third year of his reign he organized a feast for his officials and administrators. The army commanders of Persia and Media, the nobles, and the provincial officials were all there with him.

⁴ He put on display his wealth and the glory of his kingdom, showing how majestic, splendid, and glorious he was, for 180 days.

⁵ After that the king gave a feast lasting for seven days for all the people, great and small, who were there in the fortress of Susa in the garden courtyard of the king's pavilion.

⁶ It was decorated with white and blue cotton curtains tied with cords of fine linen and purple thread on silver rings, held up by marble pillars. Gold and silver couches were placed on a pavement made of purple porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl, and expensive stones.

⁷ Drinks were served in golden goblets of different kinds, and the royal wine flowed freely because of the king's generosity.

⁹ Queen Vashti also gave a feast for the women in the palace that belonged to King Xerxes.

¹⁰ On the seventh day of the feast, the king, feeling happy from drinking wine, ordered the seven eunuchs who were his attendants, Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar, and Karkas,

¹² But when the eunuchs delivered the order from the king, Queen Vashti refused to come. The king became extremely angry—he was absolutely furious.

¹³ Then the king spoke with the wise men who would know what to do, for it was the custom for him to ask the opinion of experts in procedures and legal matters.

¹⁴ Those closest to him were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan. They were the seven nobles of Persia and Media who had frequent meetings with the king and had the highest positions in the kingdom.

¹⁵ “What does the law say should be done with Queen Vashti?” he asked. “She refused to obey the direct order of King Xerxes as delivered by the eunuchs!”

* 1:1 Clearly the writer was aware there was more than one “Xerxes.” † 1:2 This is significant since the king had both summer and winter palaces. This was his winter residence. ‡ 1:11 The word here is only used in Esther and refers to the Persian royal headdress, not what is usually thought of as a crown. However, it served the same purpose as a crown in that was worn by royalty. The word is probably borrowed from the Persian language.

¹⁶ Memucan gave his answer before the king and the nobles, "Queen Vashti hasn't just insulted the king but all the nobles and all the people of all the provinces of King Xerxes.

¹⁷ Once it gets out what the queen has done, all wives will despise their husbands, looking down on them and telling them, 'King Xerxes ordered Queen Vashti brought to him but she didn't come!'

¹⁸ By the end of the day, the wives of all the nobles throughout Persia and Media who have heard what the queen did will treat their noble husbands with angry contempt!

¹⁹ If it please Your Majesty, issue a royal decree, in accordance with the laws of Persia and Media which cannot be changed, that Vashti is banished from the presence of King Xerxes, and that Your Majesty will give her royal position to another, one who is better than her.

²⁰ When Your Majesty's decree is proclaimed throughout your vast empire, all wives will respect their husbands, highborn or lowborn."

²² He sent letters to all provinces in the empire, in each province's script and language, that every man should rule his own home, and use his own mother tongue. §

2

² His advisors suggested to him,* "Why not order a search to find beautiful young virgins for Your Majesty?"

³ Your Majesty should put officers in charge in each province of his empire to gather all the beautiful young women and bring them to the king's harem at the fortress of Susa. They should be placed under the supervision of Hegai, the king's eunuch in charge of the women, and they should be given beauty treatments.

⁴ The young woman the king finds most attractive can become queen in place of Vashti." The king thought this was a good idea, so he acted upon it.

⁵ There was a Jewish man living in the fortress of Susa named Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjamite

⁶ who was among those taken prisoner with King Jehoiachin of Judah and carried into exile from Jerusalem by King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon.

⁷ He had brought up Hadassah (or Esther),† his uncle's daughter, because she had no father or mother. The young woman had a beautiful figure and was very attractive. After her father and mother died, Mordecai had adopted her as his own daughter.

⁸ When the king's order and decree had been announced, many young women were brought to the fortress of Susa under the supervision of Hegai. Esther was also taken to the king's palace and placed under the care of Hegai, who was in charge of the women.

§ 1:22 The meaning of this last phrase is uncertain. * 2:2 This suggestion may have been more for themselves, since if the king did bring Vashti back, their lives could have been in danger as the architects of her downfall. † 2:7 Hadassah was her Hebrew name, Esther her Persian name.

¹⁰ Esther had not let anyone know her nationality or who her family was, because Mordecai had ordered her not to.

¹¹ Each day Mordecai spent time walking around in front of the courtyard of the harem so he could find out how Esther was doing and what was happening to her.

¹² Before it was the turn of a young woman to go to King Xerxes, she had to complete twelve months of beauty treatments for women that were required: six months with oil of myrrh, and six with perfumed oils and ointments.

¹³ When it was time for the young woman to go to the king, she was given whatever[‡] she asked for to take with her from the harem to the king's palace.

¹⁴ In the evening she would go, and in the morning she would return to a different harem under the supervision of Shaashgaz, who was the king's eunuch in charge of the concubines. She would not go back to be with the king again unless he was particularly attracted to her and called for her by name.

¹⁶ Esther was taken to King Xerxes into his royal palace, in the tenth month, the month of Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign.

¹⁹ Even though there had been a second gathering of virgins,^{*} and Mordecai had been given a position by the king,[†]

²⁰ Esther still did not let anyone know about her family or her nationality, as Mordecai had ordered her. She followed Mordecai's instructions just as she did when he brought her up.

²¹ At that time, as Mordecai was doing his work at the palace gate, Bigthan and Teresh, two eunuchs who guarded the entrance to the king's rooms, became furious with King Xerxes and looked for a way to assassinate him.

[‡] 2:13 Probably referring to clothing and jewelry. § 2:18 In the Septuagint this is identified as a wedding feast. ^{*} 2:19 Various interpretations have been given to this phrase. However, 2:3 records the decree to "gather virgins" and this could be a second phase of this process. Note also that there is no definite article before virgins in this verse, so likely it would not refer to the existing group.

[†] 2:19 "Given a position by the king": literally, "sitting at the king's gate." Also in verse 21 and subsequently.

²² Mordecai found out about the plot and reported it to Queen Esther. Esther in turn told the king on Mordecai's behalf.

²³ When the plot was investigated and found to be true, both men were impaled on poles.[‡] This was recorded in the official Book of Records by order of the king.

3

² All the officials in royal employment bowed down and showed respect to Haman, for this is what the king had commanded. But Mordecai would not bow down and show respect to him.

³ The king's officials asked Mordecai, "Why are you disobeying the king's command?"

⁴ They talked to him about it day after day, but he refused to listen. So they told Haman about it to see if he would put up with what Mordecai was doing,* for Mordecai had told them he was a Jew.

⁶ Having found out who Mordecai's people were, he dismissed the idea of just killing Mordecai. He decided to kill every Jew in the whole Persian Empire—all of Mordecai's people!

⁸ Haman went to King Xerxes and said, "There's a particular people living among others in many different places throughout the provinces of your empire who cut themselves off from everybody else. They have their own laws which are different to those of any other people, and what's more, they don't obey the king's laws. So it's not a good idea for Your Majesty to ignore them.

⁹ If it please Your Majesty, issue a decree to destroy them, and I will personally contribute 10,000 silver talents to those who carry out the king's business to be placed in the royal treasury."

¹⁰ The king took off his signet ring and handed it[‡] to Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the enemy of the Jews.

¹¹ The king told Haman, "You can have the money, and do to the people whatever you want."

[‡] 2:23 Execution by impaling was the usual method, not by hanging with a noose. * 3:4 "If he would put up with what Mordecai was doing": alternatively, "if Mordecai would continue what he was doing." † 3:7 Casting lots was an ancient way of determining the most "favorable" time for a particular action, in this case Haman's plan to destroy the Jews. ‡ 3:10 A sign that the king accepted the proposal. § 3:12 "Chief officers": literally, "satraps."

¹³ Letters were sent by messenger to all the provinces in the king's empire with orders to destroy, kill, and annihilate all Jews, young and old, women and children, and confiscate their possessions, all in one day—the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar.

¹⁴ A copy of the decree was to be issued as law in every province and publicized to the people so that they would be ready for the day.

¹⁵ By order of the king the messengers hurried on their way. The decree was also issued in the fortress of Susa. The king and Haman sat down for a drink while the people in city of Susa were very disturbed.*

4

¹ When Mordecai found out all that had happened, he tore his clothes and put on sackcloth and ashes, and walked through the city, crying and wailing in grief.

² He went as far as the palace gate, because no one was allowed to enter the palace gate wearing sackcloth.

⁴ Esther's maids and eunuchs came and told her,* and the queen was very upset. She sent clothes to him so he could take off his sackcloth, but he refused to accept them.

⁵ She called Hathatch, one of the king's eunuchs assigned to attend her, and ordered him to go to Mordecai and find out what he was doing and why.

⁷ Mordecai explained to him everything that had happened to him,† including the exact amount of money that Haman had promised to pay the royal treasury for the destruction of the Jews.

⁸ Mordecai also gave him a copy of the decree that had been issued in Susa for their destruction to show Esther and explain it to her, and asked him to instruct her to go to the king and appeal for mercy and plead before him for her people.

⁹ Hathatch went back and told Esther what Mordecai had said.

¹⁰ Then Esther spoke with Hathatch and ordered him to deliver this message to Mordecai.

¹¹ “All the king's officials, and even the people in the provinces of the king's empire, know that any man or any woman who goes to the king, entering his inner court without being summoned, is sentenced to death—that is the king's one law—unless the king holds out his golden scepter to them so they can live. In my case, I have not been called to go to the king for thirty days.”

¹² When Mordecai was told what Esther said,

* 3:15 Not only the Jews living there, but other ethnic/religious minorities must have been concerned about such a precedent. * 4:4 Clearly they told Esther what her cousin was doing, but did not give any explanation. † 4:7 This would surely have also included Haman's issue with Mordecai that had precipitated the crisis.

¹³ Mordecai sent a message back to Esther, saying, "Don't think that just because you live in the king's palace that your life is the only one that will be saved of all the Jews!"

¹⁴ If you stay silent right now, help and rescue will come to the Jews from some other place, and you and your relatives will die. Who knows—it could be you came to be queen for such a time as this!"

¹⁵ Esther replied to Mordecai, saying,

¹⁶ "Have all the Jews in Susa meet together and fast for me. Don't eat or drink anything for three days and nights. I and my girls will also fast. After that, I will go to the king, even though it's against the law, and if I die, I die."

¹⁷ Mordecai went and did everything Esther had told him to do.

5

² When the king saw Queen Esther standing in the inner court she won his approval so he acted favorably by holding out his scepter to her. So Esther went over and touched the end of the scepter.

³ The king asked her, "What is it, Queen Esther? What do you want? I'll give it to you, as much as half my empire!"

⁴ Esther replied, "If it please Your Majesty, may the king and Haman come today to a dinner I have prepared for him."

⁵ "Bring Haman here at once so we can do what Esther has requested," the king ordered. The king and Haman went to the dinner that Esther had prepared.

⁶ As they drank their wine, the king asked Esther, "What are you really asking for? It will be given to you. What do you want? You shall have it, as much as half my empire!"

⁷ Esther answered, "This is what I'm asking for, and this is what I want.

⁸ If the king looks on me favorably, and if it please Your Majesty to grant my request and do as I ask, may the king and Haman come to a dinner I will prepare for them. Tomorrow I will answer Your Majesty's question."

⁹ When Haman left that day he was very happy and pleased with himself. But when he saw Mordecai at the palace gate and that he didn't stand up or tremble with fear before him, Haman was furious with Mordecai.

¹⁰ However, Haman controlled himself and he went home.

There he invited his friends over. Once they and his wife Zeresh had gathered,

¹¹ Haman went into great detail about how much money and possessions he had, and how many children, and how the king had made him so important by promoting him above all the other nobles and officials.

¹² "Added to all that," Haman went on, "I was the only other person Queen Esther invited to come to a dinner she had prepared for the king. I'm also invited by her to eat together with the king tomorrow."

¹³ Then he said, "But all of this is worthless* to me while I keep on seeing Mordecai the Jew sitting at the palace gate."

* 5:13 "Worthless": in other words it brought him no satisfaction.

¹⁴ His wife Zeresh and his friends told him, "Arrange for a pole to be set up, fifty cubits high. Then, in the morning, go and ask the king to have Mordecai impaled on it. Afterwards, you'll be happy as you go with the king to the dinner." Haman thought this was good advice, so he had the pole set up.

6

¹ That night the king wasn't able to sleep, so he ordered the Book of Records of the King's Reign brought in so it could be read to him.

² There he discovered the account of what Mordecai had reported about Bighthana and Teresh, the two king's eunuchs who were doorkeepers who had plotted to assassinate King Xerxes.

³ "What honor or position did Mordecai receive as a reward for doing this?" asked the king.

"Nothing has been done for him," replied the king's attendants.

⁵ The king's attendants told him, "Haman is waiting in the court." "Tell him to come in," the king ordered.

⁶ When Haman came in, the king asked him, "What should be done for a man the king wants to honor?" Haman said to himself, "Who would the king want to honor except me?"

⁷ So Haman said to the king, "A man whom the king wants to honor

⁹ Have the robes and the horse handed over to one of the king's highest officials and nobles. Let him make sure the man the king wishes to honor is dressed in the royal robes and that he rides on the horse through the city streets, and have the official announce before him, 'This is what is done for the man the king wishes to honor!'

¹⁰ Then the king told Haman, "Right! Off you go! Quickly get the royal robes and the horse, and do just what you've said for Mordecai the Jew sitting at the palace gate. Don't leave out anything that you mentioned."

¹³ Haman explained to his wife Zeresh and all his friends what had happened to him. These wise friends and his wife Zeresh told him, "If Mordecai is one of the Jewish people, and you have already begun to lose status before him—you won't be able to beat him! You're going to lose to him, you're going to fall!"†

¹⁴ While they were still talking to him, the king's eunuchs arrived and quickly took Haman to the dinner which Esther had prepared.

* 6:8 This was usually a crime punishable by death since it was close to claiming to be king. Only the king could authorize such a presumptuous act. † 6:13 Literally this phrase says, "to fall you will fall before him."

7

² At this second dinner, as they were drinking wine, the king asked Esther again, "What are you really asking for, Queen Esther? It will be given to you. What do you want? You shall have it, as much as half my empire!"

³ Queen Esther answered, "If the king looks on me favorably, and if it please Your Majesty to grant me my life, that is my request; and the lives of my people, that is what I ask.

⁴ For my people and I have been sold* to be destroyed, killed, and annihilated. If we had only been sold as slaves, I would have kept quiet, because our suffering would not have justified disturbing the king."[†]

⁵ The king asked Queen Esther, demanding to know, "Who is this? Where is the man who has dared to do this?"

⁷ The king was furious. He got up, leaving his wine, and went out into the palace garden. Haman stayed behind to beg for his life from Queen Esther, for he realized the king planned an evil‡ end for him.

⁸ When the king came back in from the palace garden to the dining room, Haman had thrown himself§ on the couch where Queen Esther was.

The king shouted out, "Is he even going to rape the queen here in the palace, right in front of me?" As soon as the king said this, the servants covered Haman's face.

⁹ Then Harbonah, one of the eunuchs attending the king, said: "Haman set up a pole beside his house for Mordecai, the one whose report saved the king's life. The pole is fifty cubits high."

"Impale him on it!" the king ordered.

¹⁰ So they impaled Haman on the pole that he had set up for Mordecai. Then the anger of the king died down.

8

¹ That very day King Xerxes gave Queen Esther the property that had belonged to Haman, the enemy of the Jews. Also, Mordecai came before the king, because Esther had explained who he was to her.

² The king removed his signet ring which he had taken back from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai. Esther put Mordecai in charge of Haman's property.

⁴ Once again the king held out the golden scepter to Esther. She got up and stood before him.

⁵ Esther said, "If it please Your Majesty, and if he looks on me favorably, and if the king believes it is the right thing to do, and if he is pleased with me, let an order be issued that revokes the letters sent out by Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, with his devious scheme to destroy the Jews in all the provinces of the king.

* 7:4 "Sold": or, "handed over." † 7:4 Or "although our suffering could not have compensated for what the king lost." ‡ 7:7 The same word is used here as Esther uses to describe Haman in verse 6. § 7:8 "Thrown himself": literally, "had fallen," but this was not an accidental fall but a deliberate attempt to ask for mercy. However, this only compounded his guilt in the king's eyes.

⁶ For how can I bear to see the disaster about to fall on my people? How can I bear to see the destruction of my family?"

⁷ King Xerxes said to Esther the Queen and Mordecai the Jew, "Notice that I have given Haman's estate to Esther, and he was impaled on a pole because he wanted to kill the Jews.

⁸ Now you may write an order regarding the Jews in whatever way you want, in the king's name, and seal it with the king's signet ring. For no decree written in the king's name and sealed with his signet ring can be revoked."^{*}

⁹ The king's secretaries were summoned, and on the twenty-third day of the third month, the month of Sivan, they wrote a decree of all of Mordecai's orders to the Jews and to the king's chief officers, the governors, and the nobles of the 127 provinces from India to Ethiopia. They wrote to every province in its own script, to every people in their own language, and to the Jews in their own script and language.

¹⁰ He wrote in the name of King Xerxes and sealed it with the king's signet ring. He sent the letters by messenger on horseback, who rode fast thoroughbred horses of the king.

¹² This was to happen on one day throughout all the provinces of King Xerxes, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar.[†]

¹³ A copy of the decree was to be issued as law in every province and publicized to the people so that the Jews would be ready on that day to pay back their enemies.

¹⁴ By order of the king, the messengers riding the king's relay horses rushed out, hurrying on their way. The decree was also issued in the fortress of Susa.

¹⁶ For the Jews it was a bright time of happiness, joy, and respect.

¹⁷ In every province and in every city, wherever the king's order and decree had reached, the Jews were joyful and happy—they feasted and celebrated. Many people became Jews, because they had become afraid of them.

9

¹ On the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar, the king's order and decree were to be carried out. That day the enemies of the Jews had thought they would crush them, but the exact opposite happened—the Jews crushed their enemies.

^{*} 8:8 Esther has asked (verse 5) that the king's previous decree be revoked. King Xerxes reminds her that no decree can be revoked, however a new decree cannot be revoked either, and this can counteract the effect of the previous decree. [†] 8:12 The same date as the original decree. See 3:13.

² The Jews gathered in their cities throughout the provinces of King Xerxes to attack those who wanted to destroy them. Nobody could oppose them, because all the other people were afraid of them.

³ All the officials of the provinces, the chief officers, the governors, and the king's officials helped the Jews, because they were afraid of Mordecai.

⁴ Mordecai had a great deal of power in the royal palace, and his reputation spread throughout the provinces as his power increased.

⁵ The Jews attacked their enemies with swords, killing and destroying them, and they did whatever they wanted to their enemies.

⁶ In the fortress of Susa, the Jews killed and destroyed five hundred men.

⁷ This included Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha,

⁸ Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha,

⁹ Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha,

¹¹ The same day, when the number of those killed in the fortress of Susa was reported to the king,

¹² he said to Queen Esther, "The Jews have killed and destroyed five hundred men in the fortress of Susa, including Haman's ten sons. Imagine what they've done in the rest of the royal provinces! Now what is it you'd like to ask? It will be given to you. What more do you want? It will be granted."

¹³ "If it please Your Majesty," Esther replied, "allow the Jews in Susa be allowed to do the same tomorrow as they did today, following the decree. Also, let the ten sons of Haman be impaled on poles."

¹⁴ The king ordered this to be done. A decree was issued in Susa, and they impaled the bodies of Haman's ten sons.

¹⁵ On the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, the Jews in Susa gathered together again and killed three hundred men there, but again they did not take their possessions.

¹⁶ The other Jews in the king's provinces also gathered to defend themselves and get rid of their enemies. They killed 75,000 who hated them, but did not touch their possessions.

¹⁷ This happened on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, and on the fourteenth day they rested and made it a day of feasting and celebration.

¹⁸ However, the Jews in Susa had gathered to fight on the thirteenth and the fourteenth days of the month. So they rested on the fifteenth day, and made that a day of feasting and celebration.

¹⁹ To this day rural Jews, living in the villages, observe the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day of celebration and feasting, a holiday when they send gifts to one another.

²⁰ Mordecai recorded these events and sent letters to all the Jews throughout the provinces ruled by King Xerxes, near and far,

²¹ requiring them to celebrate every year the fourteenth and fifteenth days of the month of Adar

²² as the time when the Jews rested from their victory over their enemies, and as the month when their sadness was turned into joy and their mourning into a time of celebration. He wrote them to observe the days as days of feasting and joy and giving gifts of food to one another and presents to the poor.

²³ The Jews agreed to continue what they had already started doing, following what Mordecai had written to them.

²⁴ For Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted to destroy the Jews, and had cast “pur” (meaning a “lot”) to crush and destroy them.

²⁵ But when it came to the king's attention, he sent out letters ordering that the evil scheme which Haman had planned against the Jews should rebound on him, and that he and his sons should be impaled on poles.

²⁶ (That's why these days are called Purim, from the word Pur.*)

As a result of all the instructions in Mordecai's letter, and what they'd seen, and what had happened to them,

²⁷ the Jews committed themselves to adopt the practice that they and their descendants and all who join them should not forget to celebrate these two days as set down, and at the right time every year.

²⁸ These days were to be remembered and celebrated by every generation, family, province, and city, so that these days of Purim would always be observed among the Jews, and they would not be forgotten by their descendants.

³⁰ Letters expressing peace and reassurance were also sent all the Jews in the 127 provinces of the empire of King Xerxes.

³² In this way Esther's decree confirmed these practices regarding Purim, which were entered in the official record.

² All he accomplished through his power and strength, as well as the complete account of the high position to which the king promoted Mordecai, are written down in the Book of the Records of the kings of Media and Persia.

³ For Mordecai the Jew was second-in-command to King Xerxes, leader of the Jews and highly-respected in the Jewish community, he worked to help his people and improve the security of all Jews.

* 9:26 “Purim” is the plural of “pur.”

Job

¹ Once there was a man called Job who lived in the land of Uz. He was a man of integrity who did what was right. He respected* God and avoided evil.

² He had seven sons and three daughters.

⁴ Job's sons used to take turns holding feasts in their homes on their specific day,[†] also inviting their sisters to come and eat and drink with them.

⁵ When the days of feasting were over, Job would send for them and purify them by getting up early in the morning to offer a burnt offering for each of them. He was concerned, thinking to himself, "Maybe my children have sinned in some way and have unintentionally offended‡ God." This is what Job always did.

⁶ One day the angels§ came to present themselves to the Lord, and Satan* came with them.

⁷ The Lord asked Satan, "What have you been doing?"

"Traveling around on earth, going here and there," Satan replied.

⁸ "Have you paid attention to Job, my servant?"[†] asked the Lord. "There's no one like him on earth, a man of integrity who does what is right, who respects God and avoids evil."

⁹ "Is it for nothing that Job respects God?" Satan answered. "You've placed a protective fence around him and his family—in fact around everything he has.

¹¹ But if you reach out and take everything he has, he will definitely curse you to your face."

¹² The Lord told Satan, "Very well, you have the power to do whatever you want to everything he has, but don't hurt him physically." Then Satan left the Lord's presence.

¹³ The day came when while Job's sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house,

¹⁴ a messenger came to Job and told him, "As the oxen were plowing and female donkeys were grazing nearby,

¹⁵ the Sabeans attacked and took them, killing the herdsmen. Only I escaped to bring you this news."

* 1:1 The word is "fear" but is used in the sense of reverence and awe rather than being frightened or terrified. [†] 1:4 The "specific day" could be a set date or a birthday, for example. [‡] 1:5

The word used here is "blessed" but is usually understood as a euphemism for "cursed." § 1:6 Literally, "the sons of God."

* 1:6 The name means "Adversary." [†] 1:8 The term "servant" is used here as a positive term to describe someone who admires and respects rather than someone who simply obeys commands.

¹⁶ While he was still speaking another messenger arrived and said, "The fire of God fell from heaven and set the sheep and shepherds on fire and burned them up. Only I escaped to bring you this news."

¹⁷ While he was still speaking another messenger arrived and said, "Three armed companies of Chaldeans attacked the camels and took them, killing the herdsman. Only I escaped to bring you this news."

¹⁸ While he was still speaking another messenger arrived and said, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their eldest brother

¹⁹ when all of a sudden a tremendous wind came in from the desert. It hit the house on all four sides so that it collapsed on them and they died. Only I escaped to bring you this news."

²⁰ Then Job stood up and tore his robe.[‡] Then cut off his hair and fell to the ground in worship.

²¹ "I was naked when I came out of my mother's womb, and I shall be naked when I leave," he said. "The Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away. May the Lord's name be honored."

²² In all of this Job did not sin, nor blame God.

2

¹ One day the heavenly beings came to present themselves to the Lord, and Satan came with them to present himself to the Lord.

² The Lord asked Satan, "What have you been doing?"

"Traveling around on earth, going here and there," Satan replied.

³ "Have you noticed my servant Job?" asked the Lord. "There's no one like him on earth, a man of integrity who does what is right, who respects God and avoids evil. And he has kept his integrity, even though you wanted me to harm him for no reason."

⁵ But reach out and hurt his bones and his flesh, and he will definitely curse you to your face."

⁶ So the Lord said to Satan, "Very well, you have the power to do whatever you want to him, but don't kill him."

⁸ Job picked up a piece of broken pottery to scratch himself as he sat in ashes.

⁹ His wife said to him, "Are you still holding on to your integrity? Curse God and die!"

¹⁰ But he told her, "You're talking just like any foolish woman would! Should we receive only good from God, and not evil?"* Despite all this, Job said nothing sinful.

[‡] 1:20 An expression of intense feeling. * 2:10 Of course Job is not aware that his sufferings are the result of Satan's actions, not God's.

¹² When they saw Job from a distance they hardly recognized him. They broke out into loud wailing, tore their robes, and threw dust into the air over their heads.

¹³ They sat down on the ground with him for seven days and seven nights. None of them said anything to him because they saw how badly he was suffering.

3

² He said,

³ "Wipe out the day I was born, and the night when it was announced that a boy had been conceived.

⁴ Turn that day to darkness. God above should not remember it. Don't let light shine on it.

⁵ Take it back, darkness and death-shadow. A black cloud should overshadow it. It should be as terrifying as the darkness of an eclipse† during the day.

⁶ Blot out that night as if it never existed. Don't count it on the calendar. Don't let it have a day in any month.

⁸ Those who place curses on certain days should curse it, those who have the power to raise Leviathan.‡

⁹ Its early morning stars should stay dark. Looking for light, may none come, may it not see the glimmer of dawn

¹⁰ for it did not shut my mother's womb to prevent me from seeing trouble.

¹³ For now I would be lying down in peace. I would be sleeping and at rest,

¹⁴ along with the kings of this world and their officials whose palaces now lie in ruins,

¹⁶ Why wasn't I a miscarriage, buried in secret, a baby who never saw the light?

¹⁷ There in the grave the wicked give no more trouble, and those whose strength is gone have their rest.

¹⁸ There prisoners take it easy—they don't hear the commands of their oppressors.

¹⁹ Both small and great are there, and slaves are freed from their masters.

²⁰ Why does God give life to those who are suffering, living bitterly miserable lives,

²² They're so incredibly happy when they reach the grave!

* 3:1 Most of Job is written in poetic form, and this should be borne in mind when reading the book. After the first two chapters of prose, the poetry begins here. † 3:5 The word "darkness" here is only used once in the Bible and is associated with bitterness. In Amos 8:10 a "bitter day" is linked with an eclipse. ‡ 3:8 Leviathan: a mythical sea-monster of great power.

²³ Why is light given to someone who doesn't know where they're going, someone God has fenced in?[§]

²⁴ My groans are the bread I eat; my raging tears are the water I drink.

²⁵ For all that I feared has happened to me; everything that I dreaded has come upon me.

²⁶ I have no peace, no quiet, no rest. All that comes is rage.”*

4

² “Could I say a word? I don't want to upset you but who could keep quiet and not respond?”*

³ You've certainly encouraged many people and supported those who are weak.

⁴ Your advice has helped those who are stumbling not to fall, and you have strengthened those whose knees are weak.

⁶ Wasn't it your reverence for God that gave you confidence and your integrity that gave you hope?

⁷ Think about it: since when did the innocent die? Since when were good people destroyed?

⁸ From what I've seen it's those who plant[†] evil and sow trouble who reap the same!

¹¹ Even a lion dies from lack of food, and the lioness' cubs are scattered.

¹² A word quietly crept up on me; a whisper reached my ear.

¹³ Troubling thoughts came to me in nightmares when you fall into a deep sleep.

¹⁴ I became terrified and trembled; all my bones were shaking.

¹⁵ Then a breath[‡] brushed my face and gave me goose-pimples.

¹⁶ Something stopped, but I couldn't see its face. My eyes could only make out a shape. It was totally quiet, and then I heard a voice:

¹⁸ If he doesn't even trust his servants, and he says his angels make mistakes,

²⁰ Alive in the morning, they are dead by evening. They die, unnoticed.

²¹ They are like tent ropes that are pulled up, and they collapse in death. They die without wisdom.’

[§] 3:23 The same word used for God's protection in 1:9 is now used as a complaint. * 3:26 This is a different word to “trouble” that is mentioned for example in 3:10 and is associated with turmoil and anger. * 4:2 In other words, the situation demanded a response. † 4:8 Literally, “plough.”

‡ 4:15 Or “spirit”—the word is the same for both. [§] 4:19 Referring to human beings and their creation by God from the dust of the ground.

5

¹ Call if you want, but who is going to answer you? Which angel are you going to turn to?

⁶ For evil doesn't come from the dust; neither does trouble grow from the earth.

⁷ But human beings are born for trouble just as certainly as sparks from a fire fly upwards.

⁸ If it were me, I would go to God and put my case before him.

⁹ He is the one who does amazing, incredible things; miracles that can't be counted!

¹⁰ He gives rain to the earth and sends water to the fields.

¹¹ He exalts the humble, and rescues those who mourn.

¹² He frustrates the plans of the cunning so that they are unsuccessful.

¹³ He traps the wise in their own clever thinking, and the schemes of twisted people are cut short.

¹⁴ In the daytime they're in the dark, and they stumble around at noon like it's night.

¹⁵ But God is the one who saves from their cutting remarks,* and the poor from the actions of the powerful.

¹⁶ As a result those who are helpless have hope, and the wicked have to shut their mouths!

¹⁷ See how happy is the person God corrects—so don't despise the Almighty's discipline.

¹⁸ For he causes pain but he provides relief; he wounds but his hands heal.

¹⁹ He will save you from many disasters; a multitude of evils will not affect you.†

²⁰ In times of famine he will rescue you from death, and in times of war he will save you from the power of the sword.

²¹ You will be protected from sharp-tongued slander; and when violence comes you will not be afraid.

²² You will laugh at violence and famine; you won't be afraid of wild animals—

²³ for you will be at peace with the stones of the field‡ and the wild animals will be at peace with you.

²⁴ You will be certain that your home is safe, for you will go to where you live and find nothing missing.

* 5:3 Literally, "taking root." † 5:4 Eliphaz may even have Job in mind here since Job has lost all his children. ‡ 5:4 Literally, "in the gate"—the town gate where justice was dispensed. § 5:5 The meaning of the Hebrew is unclear. * 5:15 Literally, "the sword of their mouth." † 5:19 The numbers 6 and 7 are used, but are an example of number parallelism which simply indicate an increasing amount. ‡ 5:23 The meaning of the Hebrew is unclear. Some suggest that stones in a field cause difficulties for farming and that this will not be a problem.

²⁵ You will also be sure that you will have many children; your descendants will be like the grass[§] of the earth.

²⁶ You will live to a ripe old age like a sheaf of grain when it is harvested.

²⁷ Look, we've examined it, and it's true! Listen to what I'm saying and apply it to yourself!"

6

² "If my grief could be weighed and my troubles placed on the scales

³ they would be heavier than the sand of the sea. That's why I spoke so rashly.

⁴ For the arrows of the Almighty are in me; their poison saps my spirit. God's terrors are lined* up against me.

⁵ Don't wild donkeys bray when their grass is gone? Don't cattle groan when they don't have food!†

⁶ Can something that's tasteless be eaten without salt? Is there any taste in the white of an egg?

⁷ I just can't touch any food—even the thought makes me feel sick!

⁸ Oh, if only I could have what I really want, that God would give me what I most desire—

⁹ that God would be willing to crush me to death, that he would just let me die!

¹⁰ But it still comforts me to know, making me happy through the never-ending pain, that I have never rejected the words of God.‡

¹¹ Why should I go on waiting when I don't have the strength? Why should I keep going when I don't know what is going to happen to me?

¹² Am I as strong as rock? Am I made out of bronze?

¹³ How can I help myself now that any chance of success is ripped[§] away from me?

¹⁴ Anyone who isn't kind to a friend has given up respecting the Almighty.

¹⁵ My brothers* have acted as deceptively as a desert stream, rushing waters in the desert that vanish.

¹⁷ but in the heat it dries up and disappears, vanishing from where it once was.

¹⁸ Camel caravans turn aside to look for water, but don't find any and they die.

¹⁹ Caravans from Tema looked, travelers from Sheba were confident,

²⁰ but their hopes were dashed—they came and found nothing.

²¹ Now you are no help, just like that†—you see my trouble and you're afraid.

²² Have I asked you for anything? Have I told you to bribe‡ anyone for me from your wealth?

²³ Have I asked you to rescue me from an enemy? Have I told you to save me from my oppressors?

§ 5:25 In other words as numerous as countless blades of grass. * 6:4 As in battle lines. † 6:5 In other words, "I have a right to complain!" ‡ 6:10 Literally, "Holy One." § 6:13 Literally, "driven." * 6:15 Referring to Job's friends. † 6:21 Job is saying that Eliphaz is as helpful as a dried up stream that provides no water. ‡ 6:22 Or "pay a ransom."

- 24 Explain this to me, and I'll be quiet. Show me where I'm wrong.
 25 Honest words are painful,[§] but what do your arguments prove?
 26 Are you going to argue over what I said, when the words of someone in despair should be left to blow away in the wind?
 27 You would play dice to win an orphan; you would bargain away your friend!
 28 Look me in the eye and see if I'm lying to your face!
 29 Don't talk like this! * Don't be unjust! What I'm saying is right.
 30 I'm not telling lies—don't you think I wouldn't know if I was wrong?"†

7

- 1 "Isn't life for human beings like serving a sentence of hard labor? Don't their days pass like those of a hired laborer?
 2 Like some slave longing for a bit of shade, like a hired hand anxiously waiting for pay day,
 3 I've been given months of emptiness and nights of misery.
 4 When I go to bed I ask, 'When shall I get up?' But the night goes on and on, and I toss and turn until dawn.
 5 My body is covered with maggots and caked in dirt; my skin is cracked, with oozing sores.
 6 My days pass quicker than a weaver's shuttle* and they come to an end without hope.
 7 Remember that my life is just a breath; I will not see happiness again.
 8 Those watching me won't see me anymore; your eyes will be looking for me, but I will be gone.†
 9 When a cloud disappears, it's gone, just as anyone who goes down to Sheol‡ does not come back up.
 10 They will never return home, and the people they knew will forget them.§
 11 So, no, I won't hold my tongue—I will speak in the agony of my spirit; I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.
 12 Am I the sea or a sea monster that you have to guard me?
 13 If I tell myself, 'I'll feel better if I lie down in my bed,' or 'it will help me to lie down on my couch,'
 14 then you scare me so much with dreams and terrify me with visions
 15 that I would rather be strangled—I would rather die than become just a bag of bones.
 16 I hate my life! I know I won't live long. Leave me alone because my life is just a breath.*
 17 Why are human beings so important to you; why are you so concerned about them
 18 that you inspect them every morning and test them every moment? Won't you ever stop staring at me?

§ 6:25 Or "forceful." * 6:29 Literally, "turn." Job is asking Eliphaz to turn away from this line of argument. † 6:30 Literally, "Can't my palate discern calamity?" * 7:6 The image is of a weaver working on a loom, whipping the shuttle from side to side. † 7:8 "Will be gone": in other words, he will be dead; also in verse 21. ‡ 7:9 "Sheol": the place of the dead. § 7:10 Literally, "His place will not know him anymore." * 7:16 "Just a breath": in other words, it has no purpose or meaning.

19 Won't you ever leave me alone long enough to catch my breath?[†]

20 What have I done wrong? What have I done to you, Watcher of Humanity? Why have you made me your target, so that I'm a burden even to myself?

21 If so why don't you pardon my sins, and take away my guilt? Right now I'm going to lie down in the dust, and though you will look for me, I will be gone.[‡]

8

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite spoke up and said,

2 "How much longer will you go on talking like this? The words coming out of your mouth are a lot of hot air!^{*}

3 Does God pervert justice? Does the Almighty pervert what is right?

4 Your children must have sinned against him, and so they deserved the punishment he inflicted on them.

5 But if you pray to God and ask for his help,

6 if you live a clean life and do what is right, then he would act to make things right for you in your home.[†]

7 Though you began with next to nothing, you will end up with so much!

8 Why don't you ask what previous generations discovered, examine what our ancestors found out? We were born yesterday and don't know anything!

9 Our days on earth fade as quickly as a passing shadow.

10 Won't they[‡] teach you and explain what they know?

11 Can papyrus grow where there is no marsh? Can reeds grow without water?

12 Even without being cut, while they are still flowering, they wither faster than grass.

13 This is what happens to everyone who forgets God. The hopes of those who live without God come to nothing.

15 They look to their home to provide security, but it provides no support. They try to hang onto it, but it doesn't last.

16 Those who live without God are like a luxuriant plant growing in the sun, spreading its shoots all over the garden.

17 It twists its roots down through the stones, and holds on to rock.

18 But when it's cut down, the place where it was disowns it, saying, 'I never even saw you.'

19 Its life is over, and others spring up from the earth to take its place.

20 Look, God doesn't reject someone who is innocent, and he doesn't support those who are guilty.

21 He can make you laugh with happiness again and shout for joy.

22 Those who hate you will be put to shame, and the place where the wicked live^{*} will be destroyed."

[†] 7:19 "Catch my breath": literally, "swallow my spittle." ^{} 8:2 "A lot of hot air": literally, "a strong wind." [†] 8:6 Literally, "restore your rightful habitation." [‡] 8:10 "They—referring to the ancestors mentioned in verse 8." [§] 8:14 In the sense of "for support." ^{} 8:22 "Place where the wicked live": literally, "tent of the wicked."

9

1 Job replied,

2 "Yes, I know all that! But how can anyone be right before God?

3 If you wanted to argue with God, God could ask a thousand questions that no-one could answer.

4 God is so wise and so powerful that no-one could challenge him and win.

5 God moves the mountains suddenly; he overturns them in his anger.*

6 He shakes the earth, making its foundations quake.

7 He is the one who can command the sun not to rise and the stars not to shine.

8 He alone is the one who stretches out the heavens and walks on the waves of the sea.

9 He made the constellations of the Bear, Orion, the Pleiades, and the stars of the southern sky.

10 He is the one who does incredible things that are beyond our understanding, marvelous things that are uncountable.

11 But when he passes by me, I don't see him; when he moves on, he is invisible to me.

12 If he takes away,† who can prevent him? Who is going to ask him, 'What are you doing?'

13 God does not restrain his anger; he crushes Rahab's helpers‡ underfoot.

14 So how much less could I answer God, or choose my words to argue with him!

15 Even though I'm right,§ I can't answer him. I must plead for mercy from my judge.

16 Even if I called him to come and he responded, I don't believe he would listen to me.

17 He pounds me with the winds of a storm; he wounds me time and again, without giving a reason.

18 He doesn't give me a chance even to catch my breath; instead he fills my life with bitter suffering.

19 If it's a question of strength, then God is the strongest. If it's a question of justice, then who will set a time for my case?*

20 Even though I am right, my own mouth would condemn me; even though I am innocent, he would prove me wrong.

21 I am innocent! I don't care what happens to me. I hate my life!

22 That's why I say, 'It makes no difference to God. He destroys both the innocent and the wicked.'

23 When disaster† strikes suddenly he mocks the despair of the innocent.

24 The earth has been handed over to the wicked; he blinds the eyes of the judges‡—if it's not him who does this, then who is it?

25 The days of my life race by like a runner, rushing past without me seeing any happiness.

* 9:5 Referring to earthquakes. † 9:12 "Takes away." This may refer to "taking away" through death. The verb here means "snatches" and occurs nowhere else in the Bible. ‡ 9:13 Rahab is thought to refer to a mythical sea monster, and its helpers those who assist in destruction and causing chaos. § 9:15 Or "innocent." * 9:19 Or "who will take him to court?" † 9:23 Literally, "scourge." ‡ 9:24 Meaning that there is no justice.

²⁶ They pass by like fast sailing ships, like an eagle swooping down on its prey.

²⁷ If I said to myself, 'I will forget my complaints; I will stop crying and be happy,'

²⁸ I would still be terrified at all my suffering because you, God, will not say I'm innocent.

²⁹ Since I'm condemned, what's the point in arguing?

³⁰ Even if I wash myself with pure mountain water and clean my hands with soap,

³¹ you would toss me into a slime pit so that even my own clothes would hate me!

³³ If only there was an arbitrator^S who could bring us both together!

³⁴ I wish God would stop beating me with his rod and terrifying me!

³⁵ Then I could speak up without being afraid—but since I am, I can't!"*

10

¹ I hate my life! Let me speak freely about my complaints—I can't keep my bitterness to myself.

² I will tell God, "Don't just condemn me—tell me what you have against me.

³ Do you enjoy accusing me? Why do you reject me, someone you made with your own hands, and yet smile on the scheming of the wicked?

⁴ Do you have human eyes? Do you see like human beings do?

⁵ Is your life as short as mortal beings? Are your years as brief as those of humanity,

⁶ that you have to examine my wrongs and investigate my sins?

⁷ Even though you know I'm not guilty, no one can save me from you.

⁸ You made me and shaped me with your own hands, and yet you destroy me.

⁹ Remember that you shaped me like a piece of clay—are you now going to turn me back into dust?

¹¹ You clothed me with skin and flesh; you wove my body together with bones and muscles.

¹² You granted me life and showed me your kindness; you have taken great care of me.

¹³ But you kept these things hidden in your heart. I know your purpose was ¹⁴ to watch me, and if I sinned, then you would not forgive my wrongs.

¹⁵ If I'm guilty I'm in trouble, if I'm innocent I can't hold my head high because I'm totally disgraced as I look at my sufferings.

¹⁷ You repeat your arguments against me, you pour out more and more of your anger against me, you send fresh armies against me.

^S 9:33 Literally, "judge." * 9:35 Literally, "for I am not so in myself." * 10:10 These poetic references refer to procreation. The intent is to say God formed Job in his mother's womb.

¹⁸ So why did you allow me to be born?[†] I wish that I had died, and nobody had ever seen me!

¹⁹ It would have been better if I had never existed, taken straight from the womb to the grave.

²⁰ I only have a few days left, so why don't you leave me alone so I can have a little peace

²¹ before I go to where I shall never return from, the land of darkness and the shadow of death—

11

² “So many words be answered, shouldn't they? Or is a person proved right by doing a lot of talking?

³ Should all your babbling force people to keep quiet? When you mock, shouldn't someone make you feel ashamed?

⁴ You said, ‘What I teach is the pure truth,’ and ‘in God's eyes I am clean.’

⁵ If only God would speak up and tell you directly,

⁶ because then he would explain to you the secrets of wisdom. True wisdom has many sides to it. God's treatment of you is far better than your guilt deserves.

⁷ Can you find out the mysteries of God? Can you discover all the wisdom of the Almighty?*

⁸ It is greater than the heavens—what can you do? It is deeper than Sheol[†]—what can you know?

⁹ It extends farther than the earth, and wider than the sea.

¹⁰ If God comes and imprisons someone, or assembles the court for judgment, who can stop him?

¹¹ For God knows who are deceivers—when he sees someone sin, he pays attention to it.

¹² Stupid people will become wise when wild donkeys are born tame!‡

¹⁴ if you get rid of your sins and don't let wickedness continue in your life,*

¹⁵ then you would be able to hold your head high in innocence, you will be firm and unafraid.

¹⁶ You will forget your misery, remembering it only as water under the bridge.

¹⁷ Your life will shine brighter than the noonday sun; even darkness will be like the morning.

¹⁸ You will have confidence because there is hope; you will be protected and rest in safety.

¹⁹ You will lie down to sleep with no one to frighten you, and many will come asking for your favor.

[†] 10:18 Literally, “bring me forth from the womb.” * 11:7 Literally, “Can you find out the limit of the Almighty?” † 11:8 Sheol: the underworld, the place of the dead. ‡ 11:12 Wild donkeys, like horses, are not naturally born tame, so the statement is saying that stupid people becoming wise is very unlikely. § 11:13 Literally, “set right your heart.” * 11:14 Literally, “do not let unrighteousness reside in your tents.”

²⁰ But the eyes of the wicked will fail, they will not be able to escape, and their only hope is in death.”

² “You really think you're special people, don't you?*” Obviously when you die, wisdom will die with you!

³ But I too have insights, and you're no better than me. Doesn't everyone know the things you've said?

⁴ But my friends laugh at me because I called on God and he answered me: the innocent man who does right has become an object of derision.

⁵ People who are comfortable have contempt for those who are in trouble, ready to push over those who are already slipping.

⁶ Robbers live in peace, and those who make God angry live in safety, trusting their own strength as their ‘god.’

⁷ But if you ask the animals they will teach you, the birds in the sky will tell you;

⁸ ask the earth and it will teach you, and the fishes in the sea will tell you.

⁹ Which of all these doesn't know that the Lord has done this?

¹⁰ He gives life to every living thing, life to all humankind.

¹¹ The ear distinguishes† words just like the palate distinguishes foods.

¹² Wisdom to distinguish belongs to the old, and the ability to rightly discriminate belongs to those with long experience.‡

¹⁴ If he tears something down, nobody can rebuild it. If he imprisons someone, nobody can free them.

¹⁵ If God holds back the waters, everything dries up; if he releases the waters, the earth floods.

¹⁶ He is mighty and victorious;§ both deceivers and those deceived are subject to him.

¹⁷ He leads counselors away stripped of their wisdom, he makes judges into fools.

¹⁹ He leads priests away stripped of their religious garments, he overthrows the powerful.

²⁰ He takes away the advice of trusted advisors, he removes the discernment of the elders.

²² He reveals what is hidden in darkness, and brings into the light the shadow of death.

²³ He makes nations great and he destroys them; he expands nations and ruins them.

* 12:2 Literally, “No doubt you are the people.” † 12:11 Literally, “tests.” ‡ 12:12 Could also be a question: “Is wisdom with the old, and understanding in length of days?” § 12:16 Or “He has power and sound wisdom.” * 12:18 In other words he turns kings into manual workers.

† 12:21 Literally, “loosens the belt.”

²⁴ He removes the understanding of rulers[‡] and makes them wander in the wilderness.

²⁵ They grope around in the dark without a light. He makes them stagger like drunk people.

13

² I know what you know. You're no better than me.

³ But I would still like to speak to the Almighty: I want to prove myself to God!

⁴ As for you, you cover things up^{*} by telling lies! You are all like doctors who can't heal anyone!

⁵ I wish you would all be quiet! That would be the wisest thing for you to do.

⁶ Listen to my argument and pay attention to what I have to say.

⁷ Do you think you can tell lies to defend God? Are you talking deceitfully on his behalf?

⁸ Or are you wanting to show God favoritism? Are you going to argue God's case for him?

⁹ Will you be found to be doing good when God examines you? Can you fool him as if he's a human being?

¹⁰ No, he will definitely rebuke you if you secretly show him favoritism!

¹¹ Isn't his majesty terrifying to you? Aren't you so afraid of him you're paralyzed?

¹² Your sayings are as helpful as ashes; your arguments as weak as clay.

¹³ Be quiet. Don't talk to me. Let me speak, come what may.

¹⁴ I take responsibility for myself; I am ready to risk my life.

¹⁵ Even though he kills me, I will hope in him.[†] I am still going to defend my ways before him.

¹⁶ By doing this I will be saved since no godless person could come before him.

¹⁷ Listen carefully to what I say, pay attention to my explanation.

¹⁸ Look, I've prepared my case—I know I will be proved right.

¹⁹ Who wants to argue with me? If I'm proved wrong, I'm prepared to be quiet and die.

²⁰ God, I have two requests, then I can face you.

²¹ Stop beating me,[‡] and stop terrifying me.

²² Then call, and I will answer. Or let me speak, and then answer me.

²³ What are my sins and iniquities? Show me what have I done wrong; how have I rebelled against you?

²⁴ Why are you unfriendly towards me?[§] Why do you treat me as your enemy?

²⁵ Would you frighten a leaf blown by the wind or hunt down a piece of straw?

²⁶ For you write down bitter things against me and pay me back for the sins of my youth.

[‡] 12:24 Literally, "He strips the hearts of the heads of the people of the earth." ^{*} 13:4 Literally, "you are plasterers of lies." [†] 13:15 Or "I have no hope." [‡] 13:21 Literally, "withdraw your hand far from me." [§] 13:24 Literally, "hide your face from me."

²⁷ You put my feet in the stocks. You keep an eye on every step I take. You even inspect my footprints!

³ Do you even notice me, God, and why do you have to drag me to court?

⁵ You have determined how long we shall live—the number of months, a time limit on our lives.

⁶ So leave us alone and give us some peace—so like a laborer we could enjoy a few hours of rest at the end of the day.

⁷ Even a tree that's cut down has the hope of sprouting again, of sending up shoots and continuing to live.

⁸ Even though its roots grow old in the earth, and its stump dies in the ground,

⁹ just a trickle of water† will make it bud and grow branches like a young plant.

¹⁰ But human beings die, their strength dwindles away; they perish, and where are they then?

¹¹ Like water evaporating from a lake and a river that dries up and disappears,

¹² so human beings lie down and don't get up again. Until the heavens cease to exist they will not awake from their sleep.

¹³ I wish you would hide me in Sheol;‡ conceal me there until your anger is gone. Set a definite time for me there, and remember me!

¹⁴ Will the dead live again? Then I would have hope through all my time of trouble until my release comes.

¹⁵ You would call and I would answer you; you would long for me, the being that you made.

¹⁶ Then you would look after me§ and wouldn't be watching me to see if I sinned.

¹⁷ My sins would be sealed up in a bag and you would cover my guilt.

¹⁸ But just as the mountains crumble and fall, and the rocks tumble down;

¹⁹ as water wears away the stones, as floods wash away the soil, so you destroy the hope people have.

²⁰ You continually overpower them and they pass away; you distort their faces in death and send them away.

²¹ Their children may become important or fall from their positions, but they don't know or see any of this.

²² As people die they only know their own pain and are sad for themselves."

* 14:1 Literally, "man that is born of woman," so this is referring to human life generally. † 14:9 Literally, "scent of water." ‡ 14:13 Sheol: the place of the dead. § 14:16 Literally, "count my steps."

2 “Would a wise man answer with such empty ‘knowledge’ that is just a lot of hot air?”*

3 He wouldn’t argue with unprofitable speeches using words that do no good.

4 But you are doing away with the fear of God, and destroying communion with him.

5 It’s your sins that are doing the talking, and you are choosing deceptive words.

6 Your own mouth is condemning you, not me; your own lips are testifying against you.

7 Were you the very first person to be born? Were you born before the hills were created?†

8 Were you there listening in God’s council?‡ Does wisdom only belong to you?

9 What do you know that we don’t? What do you understand that we don’t?

10 We have among us old, gray-haired people much older than your father!

11 Are the comforts God provides too little for you? Are God’s gentle words not enough for you?

12 Why do you let yourself be carried away by your emotions?§

13 Why do your eyes flash in anger that you turn against God and let yourself speak this way?

14 Who can say they are clean? Which human being can say that they do what is right?

15 Look, God doesn’t even trust his angels—even the heavenly beings are not pure in his sight!

17 If you are ready to listen to me, I will show you. I will explain my insights.

18 This is what wise men have said, confirmed by their ancestors,

19 those who to whom alone the land was given before foreigners ever were there.*

21 Terrifying sounds fill their ears; even when they think they’re safe, the destroyer will attack them.

22 They don’t believe they will escape the darkness—they know a sword is waiting for them.†

23 They wander around looking for food, asking ‘Where is it?’ They know that their day of darkness is close at hand.

26 insolently attacking him with their shields.

* 15:2 “Hot air”: literally, “fill his belly with the east,” the direction of a hot wind blowing in the desert. † 15:7 Note the parallel to Proverbs 8:25. ‡ 15:8 Referring to the council in heaven, 1:6;

2:1. § 15:12 Literally, “Why does your heart take you?” * 15:19 Implying that the influence of foreigners might have impacted traditional wisdom. † 15:22 Meaning that they expect to be murdered.

²⁹ They will lose their riches, their wealth will not endure, their possessions will not spread over the earth.

³⁰ They will not escape from the darkness. Like a tree whose shoots are burned up in a forest fire, the breath of God will blow him away.

³¹ They should not trust in things that are worthless, for their reward will be worthless.‡

³² This will be paid in full before their time has come. They are like tree branches that wither,

³³ like vines that lose their unripe grapes, or olive trees that lose their flowers.§

³ Will your windy speeches never cease?† What’s bothering you that you have to answer me?

⁴ I could talk like you do if you were in my place, stringing words together to criticize you, ridiculing you with a toss of my head.

⁵ I could build you up by my mouth speaking words; the movement of my lips would ease your pain.‡

⁶ For me, if I speak it doesn’t ease my pain, and if I don’t speak the pain is still there.

⁷ God,§ you have worn me out. You have destroyed my whole family.

⁸ You have made me shrivel up, which is a witness against me; my thin body testifies against me.*

⁹ He has torn me apart in his anger; in his hostility he has gnashed his teeth at me; my enemy pierces me with his fierce look.

¹⁰ People stare at me with their mouths wide open, they slap me on my cheeks to mock me, they crowd around me to attack me.

¹¹ God has handed me over to evil people; he has thrown me into their hands.

¹² I was living in peace and he smashed me to pieces. He grabbed me by the neck and dashed me to pieces. He set me up as his target.

¹³ His archers surround me. His arrows pierce my kidneys without mercy. He pours out my gall on the ground.

¹⁴ Like a wall he breaks me down, breach upon breach, rushing at me like a warrior.

‡ 15:31 “Worthless,” or “vanity.” § 15:33 In other words fruit trees that fail to produce a good harvest. * 15:34 Or “unproductive.” * 16:2 Job uses the same word “trouble” to describe his counselors as Eliphaz has just done in concluding his speech in 15:35. It’s as if Job is saying to his friends, “You are these evil people who cause trouble!” † 16:3 Job is referring back to the beginning of Eliphaz’s speech where he accuses Job of the same thing. ‡ 16:5 Whether Job is being sincere or sarcastic is debated. § 16:7 “God” or “he” or “it”—the Hebrew is unclear.

* 16:8 Some understand this as Job saying his “shriveling up” and “thinness” are proof by God that he is a sinner.

¹⁵ I have sown sackcloth[†] to cover my skin; my strength lies broken in the dust.[‡]

¹⁶ My face is red from crying and dark shadows surround my eyes,

¹⁷ although I have done nothing wrong[§] and my prayer is pure.

¹⁸ Earth, do not cover up my blood. May my cry find no place to hide.

²⁰ My friends scorn me, but my eyes pour out tears to God.

²² For in a few short years I shall go down that road from which I shall not return.

17

² Mockers surround me. I see how bitterly they ridicule me.

³ God, you need to put down a pledge for me with yourself, for who else will be my guarantor?

⁴ You have closed their minds to understanding,^{*} so do not let them win!

⁵ They betray friends to gain benefit for themselves and their children suffer for it.[†]

⁶ He has made me a proverb of ridicule[‡] among the people; they spit in my face.

⁷ My eyes are worn out from crying and my body is a shadow of its former self.

⁸ People who think they are good are shocked to see me. Those who are innocent are troubled by the godless.[§]

¹⁰ Why don't you come back and repeat again what you've been saying?—yet I still won't find a wise man among you!

¹¹ My life is over. My plans are gone. My heart is broken.

¹² They turn night into day, and say that daylight is close to darkness.^{*}

¹³ What am I looking for? To make my home in Sheol,[†] to make my bed in darkness?

¹⁴ Should I call the grave[‡] my father, and the maggot my mother or my sister?

¹⁵ So then where is my hope? Can anyone see any hope for me?

¹⁶ Will hope go down with me to the gates of Sheol? Will we go down together into the dust?"

[†] 16:15 Putting on sackcloth was a sign of mourning. [‡] 16:15 Literally, "I have thrust my horn in the dust." [§] 16:17 Literally, "there is no violence in my hands." ^{*} 17:4 As often in the OT God is credited with actions he has not necessarily committed. [†] 17:5 Literally, "the eyes of his children will fail."

[‡] 17:6 "Proverb of ridicule"—in other words Job has become a byword for someone who is mocked. [§] 17:8 Some commentators believe Job is being sarcastic here and in the following verse, commenting on his friends' attitude towards him. ^{*} 17:12 Referring to Job's friends, indicating that Job thinks they have everything the wrong way round. [†] 17:13 Sheol: the place of the dead. [‡] 17:14 Literally, "pit."

¹ Then Bildad the Shuhite spoke up and said,

² “How long will you go on talking, hunting for the right words to say? Talk sense if you want us to reply!

³ Do you think we’re dumb animals?[†] Do we look stupid to you?

⁴ You tear yourself apart with your anger.[‡] Do you think the earth has to be abandoned, or the mountains moved, just because of you?[§]

⁵ It’s certain that the life of the wicked will end like a lamp that is snuffed out—their flame will shine no more.

⁷ Instead of taking strong strides they stumble, and their own plans cause them to fall.

⁸ Their own feet trip them up and they are caught in a net; as they walk along they fall into a pit.^{*}

¹⁰ A noose is hidden on the ground for them; a rope is stretched across the path to trip them.

¹⁴ They are torn from the homes they trusted in and taken to the king of terrors.[‡]

¹⁵ People they don’t know will live in their homes; sulfur will be scattered where they used to live.[§]

¹⁶ They wither away, roots below and branches above;

¹⁷ the memory of them fades from the earth; nobody remembers their names any more.^{*}

¹⁹ They have no children or descendants among their people, and no survivors where they used to live.

²⁰ People of the west are appalled at what happens to them. People of the east are shocked.

²¹ This is what happens to the homes of the wicked, to the places of those who reject God.”

² “How long will you go on tormenting me? How long will you go on crushing me with words?

* 18:2 In the Hebrew the sense is that Job is hunting for words, trying to trap them in a snare.

† 18:3 In 12:7 Job had told his friends to ask the animals. ‡ 18:4 In 16:9 Job said that God had torn him apart in his anger. Bildad says it’s all self-inflicted. § 18:4 In other words, “Do you expect the world to be changed just to suit you?”

* 18:8 The pit is a trap set by laying branches over a deep hole. † 18:13 Literally, “the first-born of death.” ‡ 18:14 This term occurs nowhere else in the Bible. In the context it is probably a synonym for death. § 18:15 Sulfur was used as a disinfectant, especially after a death.

* 18:17 Literally, “he has no name in the street.”

³ Ten times already you have humiliated me. Aren't you ashamed for treating me so badly?

⁴ Even if I did sin, that's my problem, and has nothing to do with you.

⁵ You think you're so much better than me, and you use my degradation against me.

⁶ But you should realize that it's God who has wronged me,* he has trapped me in his net.

⁷ Even though I cry for help, I get no answer; even though I shout my objections, I get no justice.

⁸ God has walled me in so I can't escape; he has plunged my path into darkness.

⁹ He has stripped my honor† from me; he has taken away my reputation.‡

¹⁰ He tears me down from all sides until I am finished; he has destroyed my hope like a tree that is uprooted.

¹² God's troops assemble to attack me. They build ramparts against me. They encircle and besiege my home.

¹³ He has driven my brothers far away from me; all my former friends are estranged from me.

¹⁴ My relatives have abandoned me; my close friends have forgotten me.

¹⁵ My house guests and my maidservants treat me as a stranger—to them I have become a foreigner.

¹⁶ I call my servant, but he doesn't reply. I have to beg him!

¹⁷ I§ am repulsive to my wife, and I am loathsome to my own brothers.*

¹⁸ Even young children despise me; when I stand up they ridicule me.

¹⁹ All my closest friends despise me, and those I loved have turned on me.

²⁰ I've been reduced to skin and bones and I survive by the skin of my teeth.

²¹ Have pity on me, my friends, have pity on me, because God has struck me down!

²² Why are you persecuting me like God does? Aren't you satisfied with getting your pound of flesh?

²³ I wish my words could be written down, recorded in a book,

²⁴ or engraved with an iron pen and molten lead in the rock forever.

²⁵ I know my Redeemer is alive, and that he shall finally take the stand† for me on the earth.

²⁶ Even though my skin is destroyed, in my body‡ I shall see God.

²⁷ I myself will see him—with my own eyes, and not those of someone else! The thought overcomes me!§

²⁸ You say to yourselves, 'How can we make him suffer so he can see he is the source of his problems?'

* 19:6 In 8:3 Bildad asked "Does God pervert justice?" Job uses the same verb for "perverts" here to say God has done him wrong. † 19:9 Or "wealth." ‡ 19:9 Literally, "removed the crown from my head." § 19:17 Or "My breath." * 19:17 "My own brothers": literally, "the sons of my own mother." This also could be interpreted to mean "my own children." † 19:25 The concept here is to take the stand as a witness. ‡ 19:26 Literally, "flesh." § 19:27 Literally, "my kidneys are exhausted in my chest"—the kidneys being seen as the source of emotions in the body.

29 You yourselves should fear being punished by God, for you know anger brings God's punishment* that accompanies judgment."

20

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said,

2 "I'm forced to reply because I'm really upset!

3 What I hear you say insults me, but I know how to reply to you!

4 Don't you know that since ancient times, since human beings were put on this earth,

5 that the triumph of the wicked doesn't last long, that those who reject God are only happy for a short time?

6 Even though they are so tall* they reach the heavens, even though their heads reach the clouds,

7 they will vanish forever like their own excrement. People who knew† them will ask, 'Where have they gone?'

8 They will vanish like a dream, never to be found, fleeing like a vision of the night.

9 Those who once saw them will not see them anymore; their families will never set eyes on them again.

10 Their children will have to pay back the poor; they will have to return their wealth.‡

11 Though the wicked have bodies that are young and strong, they will die and be buried.§

12 Though evil tastes sweet in their mouths and they hide it under their tongues,

13 not letting it go but keeping it in their mouths,

15 They swallow wealth and vomit it up again; God forces it from their stomachs.

16 They suck in snake venom; the bite of the viper will kill them.

17 They will not live to enjoy the streams, the rivers of milk and honey.

18 They will have to give back what they have gained and will not have any benefit;* they will not enjoy any of their profits.

19 For they have oppressed and abandoned the poor; they have seized houses they did not build.

20 Because their greed was never satisfied,† nothing they liked is left that they didn't consume.

22 Even when the wicked have all that they want they run into trouble; all kinds of misery will fall upon them.

23 While they are busy filling their bellies, God's hostility will burn against them, raining down on them.

24 As they flee to escape an iron weapon, a bronze arrow will strike them down.

* 19:29 "Punished/punishment" literally, "sword." * 20:6 Or "their pride." † 20:7 Literally, "have seen him." ‡ 20:10 Implying that the wicked parents had improperly taken money from the poor. § 20:11 Literally, "it will lie down with him in the dust." * 20:18 Literally, "will not swallow it down." † 20:20 Literally, "knew no quietness in the belly."

²⁶ All they value will disappear into the darkness; divine fire[‡] will destroy them; all they have left will go up in smoke.

²⁷ The heavens reveal what they have done wrong; the earth will rise up against them.

²⁸ All their possessions will be carried from their homes; they will be dragged off on the day of God's judgment.

²⁹ This is the share the wicked receive from God, the inheritance God says they should have."

21

³ Bear with me; let me speak. After I've spoken you can resume mocking me.

⁴ Am I complaining against people? Of course not.[†] Why shouldn't I be impatient?

⁶ Every time I think of what's happened to me I am horrified and I shake all over with fear.

⁷ Why do the wicked continue to live, to grow old and increasingly powerful?[‡]

⁹ They live in their homes in safety—they are not afraid. God does not use his rod to beat them.[§]

¹¹ They send out their little ones like lambs to play; their children dance around.

¹² They sing accompanied by the tambourine and lyre; they celebrate with the music of the flute.

¹³ They live out their lives contentedly, and go down to Sheol in peace.*

¹⁴ Yet they tell God, 'Get lost! We don't want anything to do with you.'

¹⁵ Who does the Almighty think he is for us to serve him as slaves? What benefit is there for us if we pray to him?'

¹⁶ Such people believe they make their own fortune, but I don't accept their way of thinking.[†]

[‡] 20:26 Literally, "a fire that is not fanned"—in other words a fire not started by human hand.

* 21:2 In 15:11 Eliphaz asks if God's comforts are too little for Job. Job here turns it around and asks for some comfort from his friends. [†] 21:4 Implied. [‡] 21:7 Zophar has just said that the triumph of wicked doesn't last long (20:5). [§] 21:9 In 9:34 Job complains about being beaten by God's rod.

* 21:13 Sheol: the place of the dead. [†] 21:16 Literally, "the plans of the wicked are repugnant to me."

¹⁷ How often is the lamp of the wicked snuffed out?[‡] How often does disaster come upon them?[§] How often does God punish the wicked in his anger?

¹⁸ Are they blown along like straw in the wind? Does a tornado come in and carry them away?

¹⁹ Some say, 'God saves up people's punishment for their children.' But I say, 'God should punish those people themselves so that they can learn from it.'

²¹ For they don't care what happens to their families once they're dead.

²² Can anyone teach God anything he doesn't already know, since he is the one who judges even heavenly beings? *

²⁶ Yet they are both buried in the same dust; they are treated alike in death, eaten by maggots.

²⁷ Look, I know what you're thinking, and your schemes to do me wrong.

²⁸ You may ask me, 'Where is the home of the great man? Where is the place where the wicked live?'

²⁹ Haven't you asked people who travel? Don't you pay attention to what they tell you?

³⁰ Wicked people are spared in times of disaster; they are rescued from the day of judgment.

³¹ Who confronts them with their actions? Who pays them back for what they have done?

³² When they eventually die and are carried to the graveyard, their tomb is guarded. The earth of the grave softly covers them.

³³ Everyone attends their funeral service; a huge procession of people comes to pay their last respects.[‡]

22

² "How can anyone be of help to God? Even wise people are only helpful to themselves.

³ Is it any benefit to the Almighty if you're a good person?*" What does he gain if you do what's right?

⁴ Does he correct you and bring charges against you because of your reverence?[†]

⁵ No: it's because you're so wicked! Your sins are never-ending!

[‡] 21:17 In 18:5 Bildad stated that the lamp of the wicked is snuffed out. § 21:17 In 18:12 Bildad mentioned that the wicked suffer disaster. * 21:22 Literally, "the exalted ones." [†] 21:24 Literally, "the marrow of their bones is moist." [‡] 21:33 Literally, "those who go before him are innumerable." § 21:34 Literally, "vapor." * 22:3 "Good person": or "righteous." [†] 22:4

Eliphaz is saying that if Job was truly innocent he wouldn't be suffering God's punishment.

⁷ You refused water to the thirsty; you denied food to the hungry.

⁸ Is it because the land belongs to the powerful, and only the privileged have a right to live there?‡

⁹ You have sent widows away empty-handed; you have crushed the outstretched arms of orphans, begging for help.§

¹⁰ That's why you're surrounded by traps to catch you, and why you suddenly panic in terror.

¹² Doesn't God live in highest heaven and looks down on even the highest stars?

¹³ But you ask, 'What does God know? How can he see and judge what happens in down here in darkness?

¹⁴ Thick clouds cover him so he can't see anything as he walks around in heaven.†

¹⁵ Why do you insist on following the traditional thinking of the wicked?‡

¹⁶ They were taken before their time; all they had built was washed away.

¹⁷ They had told God, 'Get lost! What can the Almighty do to us?'

¹⁸ And yet he was the one who had filled their homes with good things—but I don't accept their way of thinking.§

¹⁹ Those who do right rejoice when they see the destruction of the wicked,* and the innocent mock them,

²¹ Come back to God and be reconciled to him, and you'll be prosperous again.

²² Listen to what he tells you and keep his words in mind.

²³ If you return to God you will be restored. If you renounce your sinful life†

²⁴ and give up your love of money and desire for possessions,‡

²⁵ then the Almighty will be your gold and your precious silver.

²⁶ Then you will find delight in the Almighty, and be able to face him without feeling ashamed.

²⁷ You will pray to him, and he will hear you, and you will keep your promises to him.

²⁸ Whatever you decide to do will be successful, and wherever you go, light will shine on you.

²⁹ When others are humbled, and you say, 'please help them,' God will save them.

‡ 22:8 Suggesting that this is Job's attitude. § 22:9 "Begging for help" implied. * 22:11 Literally, "the abundance of water covers you." † 22:14 Eliphaz accuses Job of believing in a distant, uninterested God who is immune to what happens on earth. ‡ 22:15 Literally, "the old paths on which evil people walked." § 22:18 Eliphaz uses exactly the same words as Job does in 21:16. * 22:19 Literally, "it," referring back to verse 16. † 22:23 Literally, "remove wickedness from your tent." ‡ 22:24 Literally, "throw your gold in the dust, the gold of Ophir in the riverbed." Since Job has lost everything already, this needs to be seen figuratively.

³⁰ God saves those who are innocent, and you will be saved if you do what is right.”[§]

² “Just the same, my complaints today remain bitter. In spite of my groaning he is still punishing me.*

³ If only I knew where I could find him so I could go to where he sits in judgment.

⁴ There I would lay out my case before him and present all my arguments in full.

⁵ I would discover how he would answer me and learn what he has to say to me.

⁶ Would he fight against me using his mighty power? No, he would pay attention to what I have to say.

⁷ There a good† person could reason with him, and I would be acquitted forever by my judge.

⁸ If I go to the east, he's not there; if I go the west, I don't find him.

⁹ If he's working in the north, I don't perceive him; if he's moving south, I don't see him.

¹⁰ Yet he always knows where I'm going. When he has proved me, I will come out shining like gold.‡

¹¹ I have kept in step with him; I have followed his way without turning aside.

¹² I have not neglected his commands, for I value what he has told me to do more than the food I eat every day.

¹³ But God is unchangeable—who can turn him from his purposes? He does whatever he wants to do.

¹⁴ So he will finish whatever he has planned for me—and he has many plans for me.

¹⁵ That's why I'm terrified at meeting him;§ when I think of him I tremble with fear.

¹⁶ God has made me faint-hearted; the Almighty has scared me to death.

¹ Why doesn't the Almighty set a definite time to punish the wicked?† Why don't those who follow him never see him act in judgment?

² The wicked move boundary stones;‡ they seize other people's flocks and move them to their own pastures.

³ They steal the orphan's donkey; they take the widow's ox as security for a debt.

§ 22:30 Literally, “if your hands are clean.” * 23:2 Literally, “his hand is heavy on me.” † 23:7 Or “upright.” ‡ 23:10 The image here is of testing gold in a crucible: once the impurities are burned away, the liquid gold has a brilliant surface. § 23:15 Literally, “his presence.” * 23:17 The Hebrew here is difficult: “Because I am not cut off by reason of darkness and from my face which thick darkness covers.” * 24:1 “Wicked” implied. † 24:2 Thus stealing land.

⁴ They push the poor out of their way; the destitute are forced to hide from them.

⁵ Like wild donkeys in the desert, the poor have to scavenge for their food, looking for anything to feed their children in the wasteland.

⁶ They are forced to find what they can in other people's fields, to glean among the vineyards of the wicked.

⁷ They spend the night naked because they have no clothes; they have nothing to cover themselves against the cold.

⁸ They are soaked by the cold mountain storms, and huddle beside the rocks for shelter.

¹⁰ Because they have no clothes to wear they have to go naked, harvesting sheaves of grain while they themselves are hungry.

¹² In the city the dying groan, and the wounded cry for help, but God ignores their prayers.[‡]

¹³ These are people who rebel against the light. They do not want to know its ways, or to stay on its paths.

¹⁴ The murderer gets up at dawn to kill the poor and needy, and when night falls he becomes a thief.

¹⁵ The adulterer waits for dusk, saying to himself, 'No one will see me now,' and he covers his face.

¹⁷ Total darkness is like light to them, for they are familiar with the night.

¹⁸ Like bubbles[§] on the surface of a river they are quickly carried away. The land they own is cursed by God. They don't enter their own vineyards.

¹⁹ Just as heat and drought dry up snowmelt, so Sheol takes away those who have sinned.

²⁰ Even their mothers forget them, maggots feast on them, they are no longer remembered, and their wickedness becomes like a tree that is broken into pieces.

²¹ They mistreat childless women and are mean to widows.

²² God prolongs the life of the wicked by his power; but when they arise, they have no assurance of life.*

²³ He supports them and gives them security, but he is always watching what they're doing.

²⁴ Though they may be illustrious for a while, soon they are gone. They are brought down like all others, cut off like the heads of grain.

²⁵ If this isn't so, who can prove I'm a liar and there's nothing to what I say?"

25

[‡] 24:12 Or "But God does not charge anyone with wrongdoing." [§] 24:18 Implied. * 24:22 Alternatively: "God drags off the mighty through his power. God rises up and they despair of life."

2 “Dominion and awe belong to God. He brings peace* to his heavens.

3 Who can count his armies? Is there anywhere his light doesn't shine?

4 How can a human being be right before God? Can anyone born of woman be pure?

5 If in God's eyes even the moon does not shine brightly, and the stars are not pure,

6 how much less a human being—who by comparison is like a maggot or a worm!”

26

1 Job replied,

2 “How helpful you have been to this feeble man that I am. How supportive you have been to the weak.

3 What good advice you have given to this ignorant man, demonstrating you have so much wisdom.

4 Who helped you speak these words? Who inspired you to say such things?*

5 The dead tremble, those beneath the waters.

6 Sheol lies naked before God, Abaddon is uncovered.†

7 He stretches the northern sky over empty space; he hangs the world on nothing.

10 On the surface of the waters he set a boundary; he set a limit dividing light from darkness.‡

12 He calmed the sea with his power; because he knew what to do he crushed Rahab.*

13 The breath of his voice made the heavens beautiful; with his hand he pierced the gliding serpent.†

14 This is just a little of all he does—what we hear of him is hardly a whisper, so who can understand his thunderous power?”

27

1 Job began to speak again.*

2 “I promise you—as God lives, who has denied me justice, the Almighty, who has made my life bitter,

3 for as long as I have life, while the breath of God remains in my nostrils—

4 my lips will never speak lies, my tongue will never be dishonest.

* 25:2 The term used here is to bring peace where there is strife. * 26:4 Clearly in these verses Job is being ironic. In addition some commentators see 26:1-4 as Job interrupting Bildad who continues as speaker of 26:5-14. † 26:6 Sheol and Abaddon are names for the underworld, the place of the dead. The idea in this verse is that nothing is hidden from God. ‡ 26:10 There are echoes of the Genesis account of creation here. § 26:11 According to the ancients, the sky was supported by pillars (identified with certain mountains). * 26:12 Rahab was a legendary sea-monster, and may refer to some creation stories. † 26:13 See Isaiah 27:1. * 27:1 Since speakers are introduced before their speeches, it would seem likely that the previous words (e.g. 26:5-14) were not from Job.

⁵ I will never agree that you are right; I will insist on my innocence until the day I die.

⁶ I'm convinced I'm right and will never give up believing this; my conscience[†] will not condemn me as long as I live.

⁷ May my enemy become like the wicked; may those who oppose me become like those who do evil.

⁸ For what hope do those who reject God have when he cuts them down, when God brings their lives to an end?

⁹ When times of trouble come to them, will God hear their cry for help?

¹⁰ Do they have a good relationship with the Almighty? Can they call on God at any time?

¹¹ Let me explain God's power to you. I will not keep anything back that the Almighty has planned.

¹² If all of you have recognized this, why do you talk such vain nonsense?

¹³ This is what God provides as the destiny for the wicked, this is the inheritance that the ruthless will receive from the Almighty[‡]—

¹⁴ even if they have many children, they will experience violent deaths[§] or die of starvation.

¹⁵ Those who survive will die from disease, and even their widows will not mourn for them.

¹⁶ Even though they pile up silver like dust, and clothes like heaps of clay,

¹⁷ those who do good will wear the clothes and the innocent will divide the silver among them.

¹⁹ They go to bed rich, but never again! For when they wake up, it's all gone.

²¹ The east wind picks them up and they're gone, carried away from where they were.

28

³ Miners take lamps into the darkness underground and search for ore as far as they can go in the shadows and the gloom.

⁴ They dig a mineshaft far from where people live or anyone ever goes.^{*} They swing from ropes that hang in the pits.

⁵ Bread comes from the earth, but underneath it looks as if it has been turned upside-down by fire.

[†] 27:6 Literally, "heart." [‡] 27:13 Verses 13-23 are controversial since they seem to be a denial of what Job has already stated. However, he may be ironically suggesting that this is what will happen to his comforters based on what they themselves believe. [§] 27:14 Literally, "For the sword."

^{} 27:18 The moth represents something weak and fragile. [†] 27:23 Who is represented here as the subject is unclear: the wind, human beings, or God. The idea is that the wicked are jeered at and mocked. ^{} 28:4 Literally, "forgotten by the foot."

⁷ No birds of prey can see these paths, no falcon's eye can perceive.[‡]

⁸ No wild beasts have passed that way; the lion has not walked there.

¹¹ They dam the sources of the rivers,[§] and bring to light what is hidden.

¹² But where can wisdom be found?^{*} Where is the place to gain understanding?

¹³ Human beings do not know the way to wisdom; it is not found among the living.

¹⁵ It cannot be bought with gold; nor can it be purchased with silver.

¹⁶ Its value cannot be measured, even with the gold of Ophir;[†] it is more precious than onyx or lapis lazuli.

¹⁷ Gold or fine glass[‡] cannot compare with wisdom; it cannot be exchanged for gold jewelry.

¹⁹ Topaz from Ethiopia can't compare with it; it cannot be bought with the purest gold.

²⁰ So where does wisdom come from? Where is the place to gain understanding?

²¹ Wisdom is hidden from the sight of all living things, even the birds of the air cannot see it.

²³ Only God understands the path to wisdom; he knows where it is found.

²⁴ For he looks to the very end of the earth; he sees everything under heaven.

²⁵ He decided how strong the wind should blow, and regulated the waters.

²⁶ He set a limit for the rain and made a path for the lightning.

²⁸ He said to humankind, 'To reverence the Lord is wisdom, and to turn away from evil is understanding.' "

29

¹ Job went on speaking.

² "I wish I was back in the old days when God looked after me!

[†] 28:6 Literally, "sapphires," but it seems more likely that the blue stone lapis lazuli is meant here.

[‡] 28:7 Hawks and falcons have amazing eyesight, but even their eyes cannot see below ground.

§ 28:11 Perhaps part of some mining process. ^{*} 28:12 The purpose of the long illustration above is to set the scene: while human beings can do amazing things, they can't "mine" wisdom! [†] 28:16 The most valuable form of gold then known. [‡] 28:17 Glass was rare and very valuable at the time. § 28:18 The actual gemstone identified here is not known, but is thought to be red in color.

^{*} 28:22 Or "destruction."

⁴ When I was young and strong, God was my friend and spoke to me in my home.

⁵ The Almighty was still with me and I was surrounded with my children.

⁶ My herds produced much milk,* and oil flowed freely from my olive presses.

⁷ I went out to the city gate and took my seat in the public square.†

⁸ The young men saw me and moved out of the way; the elders would stand up for me.‡

¹⁰ The voices of the officials were hushed; they held their tongues in my presence.

¹¹ Everyone who listened to me praised me; whoever saw me commended me,

¹² because I gave to the poor who called out to me and the orphans who had no one to help them.

¹³ Those who were about to die blessed me; I made the widow sing for joy.

¹⁴ Being true and acting right§ were what I wore for clothing.

¹⁵ I was like eyes for the blind and feet for the lame.

¹⁷ I broke the jaw of the wicked and made them drop their prey from their teeth.

¹⁹ Like a tree my roots spread out to the water; the dew rests on my branches overnight.

²⁰ Fresh honors were always being given to me; my strength was renewed like an unailing bow.

²¹ People listened carefully to what I had to say; they kept quiet as they listened to my advice.

²² Once I had spoken they had nothing else to say; what I said was enough.†

²⁴ When I smiled at them they could hardly believe it; my approval meant all the world to them.‡

²⁵ I decided the way forward as their leader, living like a king among his soldiers, and when they were sad I comforted them.

¹ But now people much younger than me laugh at me; people whose fathers I would not put to work with my sheepdogs.

² They are too weak to be any use to me; they're all worn-out.

* 29:6 Literally, "My steps were washed with butter." † 29:7 This was where the city elders met to discuss matters and to judge disputes. ‡ 29:8 Thus showing respect. § 29:14
